LET'S CLEAR THE AIR!

NATIONAL CONFERENCE ON AIR POLLUTION
December 10-12, 1962 Washington 25, D.C.

Report of the Chairman, Panel A

THE AUTOMOBILE, THE TRUCK, AND THE BUS

WOLFGANG E. MEYER

THOMAS A. CANTRELL, DIRECTOR
ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH SERVICES
FULTON COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Presented at the Third Plenary Session
December 12, 1962 Paper P-6

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE
Public Health Service

Panel A--"The Automobile, The Truck and The Bus"--covered a wide range of subjects on air pollution from motor vehicles. The papers and discussions dealt with the pollutants that are emitted, the role and effects of these pollutants, control methods, public policy decisions, control programs and the impact on the motoring public.

Professor Meyer reported that it was not only the exhaust system of gasoline engines that discharges contaminants to the atmosphere. Another important path is through the engine crankcase. Also, fuel vapors escape through vents from the fuel tank and the carburetor.

Although many compounds are present in the exhaust those of greatest importance to air pollution are hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides. On the other hand the major pollutants from the crankcase, fuel tank and carburetor are the hydrocarbons.

Measurements show that the exhaust and crankcase emissions are the most significant. Evaporative losses are believed to be relatively small in comparison to the others.

The diesel engine differs from the gasoline engine in a number of respects. It uses heavier fuel, it normally operates at higher air-fuel ratios and it has a different fuel supply and fuel ignition systems. These as well as other design factors produce important changes in combustion processes and consequently in exhaust emissions. Diesel exhausts are lower in hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide than exhausts of gasoline engines, but are slightly higher in nitrogen oxides.

Diesel blowby gases contain only small quantities of pollutants because the diesel compresses air only. And since the diesel uses volatile fuel, evaporative losses from the fuel tank are low. No vapor escapes from the fuel supply systems because these are closed from the atmosphere.

However, diesel engines present more serious problems of smoke and odors as compared to gasoline engines. Manufacturers of diesels go to great pains to insure as complete combustion of fuel as possible and a properly maintained diesel engine at part load rarely smokes. Black diesel exhaust smoke can largely be prevented by proper maintenance, operation and control of injected fuel.

As we all know diesels smell. The actual cause of the odor has not yet been defined or control methods developed. It is well to remember that poorly tuned gasoline engines can also generate a great deal of odor.

The total emission from a single vehicle is not large. It is important to keep in mind that it is the operation of great numbers of vehicles in one area that creates the air pollution problem.

Dr. Chambers made it clear that we cannot consider air pollution from motor vehicles and from other sources as entirely separate problems. Also that "total air pollution load" has little meaning without a knowledge of what constitutes this "total load". He pointed out that there is the need for further research on what happens to pollutants in the atmosphere and that it is difficult to precisely predict the effects of air pollution controls on air quality.

It is insufficient to eliminate any single source of pollution; all of them contribute to the objectionable qualities of a polluted atmosphere. In spite of current--and justifiable--concentration on abatement of vehicular pollutants, it is obvious that some kinds of pollution already recognized as objectionable of hazardous have little or no relationship to the automobile.

Dr. Chambers cautioned that the battle of air pollution cannot be finally won as long as the number of sources are increasing, just as the last schoolroom cannot be built as long as the number of students increases.

Dr. Nelson indicated that it was not possible to make accurate appraisals of economic loss but that this burden was great to the individual, to the community and to the nation. It is clear that the development of procedures for assessing economic loss badly needs increased effort.

Most of Dr. Nelson's attention was directed at the adverse effects of air pollution on vegetation and health. The damaging consequences of air pollution to crops, forests and ornamental plants have been known for a long time. In fact, it often is the first effect of air pollution that is noted. Annual smog damage in which motor vehicles play a prominent role has been currently estimated to be $8,000,000 in California. Similarly, damage to agricultural crops in the eastern part of the United States has been estimated at $18,000,000. It is believed this is mostly from ozone, again auto emissions are the suspects.

Turning to the effects of air pollution on man, one must first call attention to the important contribution to odor and to eye irritation. Although these do not lead to actual disease, they are nevertheless of widespread concern.

Of great interest is the extent of health impairment resulting from the typical levels of air pollution found frequently in our major cities. At the onset it can be stated this question is a difficult one and precise answers will require research methods with a high degree of refinement. The difficulty in defining the health effects of air pollution results from the fact there is no specific air pollution disease. On the contrary, there is good reason to believe that air pollution acts primarily through the exacerbation of existing disease.

Dr. Nelson commented that, although the complex problem of human health effects from air pollutants is not well defined, a number of very strong leads suggest association between air contaminants and disease. Moreover, extensive and careful research is now underway which gives indication of reinforcing these suggestions.

Although one cannot always clearly distinguish the role of auto emissions in these effects, plainly, this source is generally significant and often predominant.

Mr. Chandler reported on the work of the automobile industry in the control of motor vehicle emissions. Before development of control devices, it was necessary to obtain data on the emissions. The Automobile Manufacturers Association played a vital role in such studies. He pointed out the efforts of the automobile industry and others in seeking solutions to the motor vehicle emission problem. At present, development of catalytic and flame-type afterburners continues and several such devices are undergoing test and evaluation.

The crankcase emission problem has been successfully resolved. In 1959 the Automobile Manufacturers Association announced that all 1961 model American automobiles sold in California would be equipped voluntarily with systems to effectively eliminate the crankcase as a source of hydrocarbons.

In this instance the solution was simple and involved applying systems that had been used for many years for crankcase ventilation in special application. Favorable experience in California led to the decision to install blowby devices on a nationwide basis when the U. S. Public Health Service stated this was desirable. In December of 1961, it was announced that 1963 American-made gasoline-powered vehicles would be equipped voluntarily with positive crankcase ventilation systems on a nationwide basis.

In the opinion of Mr. Chandler, a new dimension has now been added to the design of automobiles. In addition to the usual criteria for design of engines--performance, cost and fuel economy--has been added a fourth criterion--vehicle emissions.

Even if a new engine type with lower emissions is developed it will be some time before the engine will appear on new cars because of the time required for production engineering and tooling. Of more immediate importance is the reduction in emissions that can be achieved by modification of engines currently in production.

The automobile industry urges all communities with air pollution problems in which motor vehicle emissions are important factors to consider the benefits that can be achieved through vehicle maintenance and inspection programs combined with positive crankcase emission systems.

The Honorable Paul F. Schenck discussed "Public Policy in Motor Vehicle Pollution Control". He posed a number of questions:

Should pollution from motor vehicles be controlled? If so to what extent and by whom? Is a national policy necessary or can satisfactory solutions be achieved by each of the 50 states?

In considering the need for public policy we must recognize that it is vital to maintain the quality of our air resources. This resource is not limitless and a growing population and expanding technology are placing added demands on the air resources.

The motor vehicle presents a different type of problem from the usual air pollution source. It is present in very large numbers and it is mobile.

Congressman Schenck asked who has the responsibility for air pollution from motor vehicles? The industry which produces them? The public which uses them? The government? He felt all three must share the burden.

The auto industry has a responsibility to develop motor vehicles with reduced emissions. The individual car owner has a responsibility to maintain his vehicle in good repair. Government must take steps to keep vehicles that discharge large quantities of pollutants off the road.

Congressman Schenck felt that, at the national level, government should exert vigorous leadership. It should stimulate the development of cars that do not pollute the air; it should support research; it should develop criteria to serve as bench marks for those who design engines; and it should shed light on what air pollution does to human health, to vegetation and to property.

Mr. Maga, in his discussion on "The Rationale of Motor Vehicle Emission Control", outlined the factors that must be considered in any such program. Among these factors are the concentration and volume of pollutants from motor vehicles, the total pollutants from vehicular and non-vehicular sources, the atmospheric concentration of contaminants, the adverse effects experienced, and the desired goal of air quality. The steps taken in California were cited as an example of an approach to the problem.

In California numerous studies demonstrated the need for control of motor vehicle emissions. The question was not, should this be done, but rather, how should it be done, and what legal and administrative steps were required. It was decided that the first step should be the establishment of air quality standards for communities. These standards, together with information on such things as emissions and atmospheric concentration of pollutants, were used to calculate motor vehicle emission standards.

The State Legislature required the Department of Public Health to set standards on air quality and on emission from vehicles. In the following year the Legislature established a State program for the control of these emissions by requiring the installation of devices that comply with the emission standards. An independent Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board was created to carry out the control program. In the law are a number of safeguards to the public, and schedules for installation of devices after two or more have been found to meet the standards and the criteria of the Board. While California's program may not be one that each state should follow, most of the factors that were considered there will also have to be taken into account elsewhere.

Mr. Bright, a member of the California Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board, described the efforts of that Board and the problems inherent in a motor vehicle pollution control program. He reported that a great deal of progress has been made. The Board has approved a number of crankcase control devices and is currently testing several exhaust control devices. The Board proceeded with care and discretion in setting criteria to be followed by device manufacturers on longevity, effect on engine operation, safety and ability of the device to operate under a wide range of driving conditions. Each of these presented problems that had to be considered and resolved.

One of the most important problems will be that of enforcement and compliance. The present law is concerned with the initial installation of the control device. It does not include anything about inspection and enforcement. A committee of the Board is now developing a workable program to assure satisfactory operation of devices.

One of the considerations in enforcement is that once two or more devices are certified they will be installed over a period of three years.

Mr. Bright emphasized that many factors must be taken into account by the motor vehicle administrators in addition to requirements of registration of a vehicle. The problem of enforcement is fairly simple for new vehicles but complex for used ones.

It is expected most of the questions on how to accomplish the inspection will be answered in the next few months. Some of the considerations included the use of licensed inspection stations, of windshield stickers and distinctive code entry on the vehicle registration to indicate presence of devices.

Mr. Marsh viewed motor vehicle emission control from the standpoint of the motoring public. He pointed out that the motoring public is a very large proportion of the American public--with three out of four families owning at least one motor vehicle.

The American public generally responds sensibly on matters which are appropriate for public decision or individual action when it is informed. In Mr. Marsh's judgement the motoring public is not convinced that the motor vehicle is a major factor in air pollution in most urban areas.

If facts prove that vehicles are a substantial factor in the air pollution of an area one of the greatest needs is to effectively inform the public. It will expect the technical experts to answer the pertinent questions in a simple and clear way that they can understand and in turn make sound judgements in developing public opinion.

Mr. Marsh stressed that the motoring public has the right to expect that a sound and orderly procedure will be followed. If a community or state desires to obtain action it should obtain the facts, develop reasonable and effective methods for correcting the situation and have an effective program of public information.

The information should include facts to provide the public with an understanding of the overall problem, and facts to justify to motorists any anti-pollution devices. Such information should include the cost, installation, and maintenance of devices and give special attention to what are considered to be appropriate financial and other responsibilities of the motorists as to air pollution control.

A number of individuals participated in the open discussion. None of these questioned the philosophy that was presented by the panel members or the factors that had to be considered in programs to control the emissions from motor vehicles. These questions and comments dealt mainly with methods of control and use of control devices. The need to consider the role of rapid transit together with other methods was pointed out. Several written statements were submitted for possible inclusion in the Conference Proceedings.

In his concluding remarks, Mr. Caplan stated that several important points were made which required emphasis. First, impatience should not lead us to institute controls before it is clearly established that they will do good rather than harm; we should not place our hopes on wishful solutions to motor vehicle emissions but must couple practicality with our dedication. Inspection and enforcement costs may be of greater magnitude than the cost of the control device per se. Finally, even with general agreement on the philosophy of establishing motor vehicle control requirements, this philosophy is for naught if the basic facts are not reasonably correct.

I think you will agree with me that formal presentations as well as the discussions indicate the great deal of interest, research and activity on air pollution from motor vehicles. One is always tempted to report that the problems in which he is involved are complex. I think that I am justified in describing the problem of air pollution from motor vehicles as indeed being complex and one that has broad public impact.

While many problems remain, much has already been learned, and much has already been done.

NOTE.—DO NOT USE THIS ROUTE SLIP TO SHOW FORMAL CLEARANCES OR APPROVALS

DATE 1/14/63

TO: AGENCY BLDG. ROOM

Mr. W. E. Tidmore
~~Chief of Air Pollution, City of Atlanta~~
Room 800 - City Hall, Atlanta, Georgia

☐ APPROVAL ☐ REVIEW ☐ PER CONVERSATION
☐ SIGNATURE ☐ NOTE AND SEE ME ☐ AS REQUESTED
☐ COMMENT ☐ NOTE AND RETURN ☐ NECESSARY ACTION
XXXX FOR YOUR INFORMATION and Files ☐ PREPARE REPLY FOR SIGNATURE OF

REMARKS:

Motor Vehicles, Air Pollution, + Health - House Document No. 489 pp 359-362
A Report to the Surgeon General

(Fold here for return)

To Joe Boyer, Regional Program Director
From Environmental Engineering and Food Protection, Public Health Service, Region IV, Atlanta, Georgia

PHONE BUILDING ROOM

FORM HEW-30 REV. 11/56 ROUTE SLIP ☆ GPO: 1956—O-409606

Sect II
1 + 3

Aldehydes 2+3

Carbon Monoxide 2-5

Carcinogens 1, 2, 4

Lead 2, 3

Ozone 2, 3

PH Aspects of Increasing Tetraethyl Lead Content in Motor Fuel...
PH Svce Publication No. 712

FULTON COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

DIVISION OF PUBLIC HEALTH ENGINEERING

NICCO W. BRUIN
INDUSTRIAL SANITATION
SECTION

99 BUTLER ST., S. E.
ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA
524-5031

CITY OF ATLANTA
DEPARTMENT OF BUILDINGS
800 CITY HALL
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

OFFICE HOURS: 8:30 - 9:30 - 4:00 - 5:00

W. E. TIDMORE
AIR POLLUTION CONTROL ENGINEER

JA. 2-4463
EXT. 321

FULTON COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

THOMAS A. CANTRELL
DIRECTOR
DIVISION OF ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH SERVICES

99 BUTLER ST., S. E.
ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA
524-5031

Survey Finds Air Pollution In 7 Areas

The residents of seven Georgia counties are living in areas of significant air pollution problems, according to a survey.

Air pollution problems in Georgia, especially in Fulton, DeKalb, Richmond, Bibb, Muscogee, Chatham and Glynn counties are expected to become steadily worse in the absence of preventive action, authorities say.

The survey was a cooperative effort of the Industrial Hygiene Service, State Health Department; Division of Air Pollution, Public Health Service; U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare; and the state climatologist, Weather Bureau, U.S. Department of Commerce.

* * *

THE MAIN CAUSES of air contamination are industrial plants, home heating plants, burning refuse dumps, power generation stations, motor vehicles, agricultural operations and commercial establishments.

The survey conclusions have just been published in a booklet, "Air Pollution in Georgia."

The study group urged Georgia to:

Strengthen local anti-air pollution activities; make air quality assessments regularly in problem areas; and give the responsibility for an extensive air pollution program to the State Health Department.

Hepatitis Scare On

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., Aug. 11 (UPI)—Portsmouth city health officer Dr. Gerard Griffin Saturday reported an outbreak of infectious hepatitis in the Wentworth Acres section of the city.

Dr. Griffin said the disease was contracted by eight members of five families living in former Air Force barracks, now a low-rent housing unit.

He said gamma globulin was being distributed to prevent spread of the virus. He said a team of specialists from the New Hampshire Board of Health was expected here Saturday to attempt to track down the cause of the outbreak.

Navy Pilot Injured By Crash in Japan

TOKYO, Aug. 11 (UPI)—A U.S. Navy pilot was injured Saturday when his Skyhawk jet crashed and burned during takeoff from Atsugi Naval Air Station, the Navy announced. The pilot, Lt. (jg) Andre F. Cianciotto, 25, of Hanford, Calif., was reported to have suffered a broken shoulder.

AIR POLLUTION in Georgia . . .

Georgia Department of Public Health and
U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare
Public Health Service

RECEIVED
JUL 18 1962
JUL 18 1962
HEATING & VENTILATING
SECTION

New South

- Migration and Desegregation
- What Each One of Us Does
- Editors Discuss Private School Plan
- Highlights from Recent Literature

NOVEMBER 1959

New South

Published by
SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL
63 Auburn Avenue, N.E., Atlanta 3, Georgia

November, 1959

Volume 14 Number 11

Contents

Migration and Segregation . . . 3

What Each One of Us Does . . . 7

Editors Discuss Private School Plan 8

Highlights from Recent Literature 13

. . . Unquote 15

Officers

James McBride Dabbs . . . . . President
Marion A. Wright . . . . . Vice-President
A. W. Dent . . . . . Vice-President
Paul Williams . . . . . Vice-President
Rufus E. Clement
Chairman, Executive Committee
Joseph Haas . . . . . Counsel
Harold C. Fleming . . . . Executive Director

Information Staff

John Constable . . . Director of Information

Subscription rate . . . . . $2.00 a year

New South is published monthly except August by Southern Regional Council, Inc., 63 Auburn Avenue, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia. Single copies may be purchased at twenty cents each; quantity rates on request.

Contributions to the Southern Regional Council are tax-exempt

New South Notes

Population shifts are taking place all over the country. Rural areas are being depleted of population while urban centers are growing rapidly. NEW SOUTH this month gives readers some of the trends in population shifts and what these trends mean to desegregation. The article, prepared by the Research Department of the Council, is presented under the title, "Migration and Desegregation."

Alexander Miller, Director Community Services, Anti-Defamation League, recently wrote to the Christian Science Monitor a letter in which he discusses group tensions and the understanding it takes to preserve community harmony. In his letter, he includes another letter from Mrs. Doris Bodenheimer which, in Mr. Miller's opinion, expresses the understanding, charity, and wisdom needed today.

Much has been and will be written on the so-called private school plan. Recently, the Richmond News Leader, noted for its strong segregationist's viewpoint, severely criticized the pamphlet, "If the Schools Are Closed . . . A Critical Analysis of the Private School Plan." This editorial is reprinted in full here along with two others with somewhat different opinions. The other editorials were originally published by the Lynchburg News and the Arkansas Gazette.

This issue of NEW SOUTH concludes with another in the frequent offerings of "Highlights from Recent Literature."

Migration and Desegregation

The size and composition of the population of any city with biracial school systems is one of the principal factors affecting school desegregation. The relative difficulty that a particular school district may face is, to a great extent, determined by the number of students involved in the transition.

Population trends in the South have, therefore, a special meaning for school desegregation. Here is what is happening:

1. Population in rural areas is declining. Negroes and whites are moving to urban regions, both North and South. The Negro rate of departure was higher than that of white persons between 1940-50 and perhaps has remained higher; but the difference is slight. Probably a larger number of the white migrants stop in Southern cities. On the other hand, the larger family size of the Negroes means that the Negro rural school-age population stays larger than would be expected.

   Rural schools are emptying while city schools are being over-crowded. Rural school children must often travel far to attend segregated schools. Children attending these schools come from scattered and sparsely populated areas, as a result of the decreasing rural population. If schools remain segregated, we can anticipate a growing number of half or nearly empty schools.

   How dramatic has been the population shift from rural to urban residence is indicated by the fact that in the school year 1956-57 there were fewer white children enrolled in the rural schools of nine Southern states than there had been in 1939-40; these nine were Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Texas. In six states there were fewer Negro children enrolled: these were Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Oklahoma, and Tennessee. During the same years, enrollments of both Negro and white children in the schools of metropolitan areas climbed sharply. White enrollment in the metropolitan schools of Kentucky increased 34%, and Negro enrollment in the metropolitan schools of Mississippi rose 23%: these were the lowest increases in the whole region. The highest metropolitan increases for white children were in Florida (where enrollment jumped 165% in the 18-year period), Texas (137%), Virginia (119%), and Mississippi (101%). The highest metropolitan increases for Negro children were in Texas (137%), Florida (106%), Louisiana (67%), and Georgia (62%).[1]
2. State population increases tend to [1]From statistics prepared by Dr. John A. Griffin for Southern Schools: Progress and Problems, published by the Southern Education Reporting Service, 1959.

Migration

(Continued)

be concentrated in urban areas. For example, since 1920, population growth in Georgia has occurred largely in five urban areas—Atlanta, Augusta, Columbus, Macon and Savannah. In this 36-year period, the proportion of the state's population in these centers almost doubled, rising from 22.4% in 1920 to 41.5% in 1956. While the state's population increased 7.8% from 1950 to 1956, the population of 115 of Georgia's 159 counties actually declined.[2]

3. As migrants from the rural areas move into cities, the middle and upper economic class whites are receding into surburbia. This tends to intensify and cause deterioration of the already congested central city. If this trend, which is evident in both segregated and desegregated centers, should continue, it is probable that residents of the city proper will tend to be chiefly Negroes and lower economic group whites. Furthermore, it is conceivable that Negro children will eventually constitute a greater proportion of the total city school enrollments than white children.

   Atlanta furnishes our illustration of this trend. For the school year 1959-60, Negro enrollment was up 3,202 over the previous year; white enrollment was down by 1,272. The current ratio was 57.9% white, 42.1% Negro; in September 1958, it had been 60.6% white, 39.4% Negro.

   The following figures show that in a representative sample of the South's principal cities, the nonwhite percentage of the total population increased, or only slightly decreased, from 1940 to 1950.[3] All the preliminary evidence indicates that in the 1950's the exodus of middle and upper-economic class whites from the cities to the suburbs has accelerated, and that rural migrants, including Negroes, have continued to throng into the cities.

City	% Increase 1940-50 Nonwhite	% Increase 1940-50 White	% of Total Pop. Nonwhite Pop. 1940	% of Total Pop. Nonwhite Pop. 1950
Atlanta, Ga.	16.1	6.2	34.6	36.6
Birmingham, Ala.	19.4	23.5	40.7	39.9
Charleston, S. C.	—2.8	— .5	44.6	44.0
Charlotte, N. C.	19.4	38.9	31.1	28.0
Houston, Texas	45.2	57.9	22.5	21.1
Jackson, Miss.	65.7	53.4	39.1	40.9
Nashville, Tenn.	15.6	— .4	28.3	31.4
New Orleans, La.	21.9	12.5	30.3	32.0

4. Although the Negro population is shifting from predominantly rural to predominantly urban, the ratio of Negroes to whites in metropolitan areas declines. The 1940 to 1950 nonwhite percentage of the total population of the metropolitan areas of the same eight cities illustrates this decline; in only one of the eight has the nonwhite ratio increased.

---

[2]John L. Fulmer, Population Estimates of Georgia Counties for 1956-1957 with Analysis of Reasons for Changes from 1950. Special Report No. 33, with Industrial Development Branch of the Engineering Experiment Station, Georgia Institute of Technology, 1957, pp. 5, 14, and 18.

[3]Figures in this table and in the next one are taken from a report by the Federal Housing Administration, Division of Research and Statistics, Market Analysis Section, August 15, 1953.

City	% Increase 1940-50 Nonwhite	White	Nonwhite Pop. % of Total Pop. 1940	1950
Atlanta, Ga.	15.6	35.0	27.7	24.7
Birmingham, Ala.	16.4	24.8	39.0	37.3
Charleston, S. C.	14.7	56.9	49.2	41.5
Charlotte, N. C.	15.4	35.5	28.5	25.4
Houston, Texas	44.5	54.5	19.7	18.7
Jackson, Miss.	15.3	51.0	51.7	45.0
Nashville, Tenn.	13.5	28.4	22.1	20.0
New Orleans, La.	25.5	23.5	28.9	29.3

Another comparison can be made by examining more closely recent changes in Atlanta. The standard metropolitan area of Atlanta was enlarged by one county in 1956 and by another in 1958; it now includes five counties. For these five, the Negro population increased 20.4% from 1900 to 1959; but, the proportion of Negroes to the total population of these counties declined, from 33.6% in 1900 to 22.1% in 1959. In the city of Atlanta itself, the proportion of Negroes was, as is shown in the above figures, increasing. In 1952 and 1953, however, the climb was arrested when the city annexed large outlying areas which were mainly white in population: had these sections been part of Atlanta in 1950, the Negro proportion of the city's population would have been, not 36.6%, but only 31.2%. Yet, by 1959 the Negro population within the present city limits of Atlanta had risen to 36.5%.[4] And the Atlanta experience is illustrative of that of many cities throughout the South. It includes, as it were, three movements: heavy increase of Negro population; steady decline of the proportion of Negroes to total population in the metropolitan area; a stable or increasing proportion of Negroes within the city proper.

5. Emigration from the South as a whole is going on at a slightly faster rate than immigration into the South. Most emigrants from the South are in the productive age group from 21 to 45, and as a result, net migration losses are not proportionately felt in school enrollments.

Even without considering school desegregation, these trends have important implications for the South's educational system. The gravity of this situation becomes evident as one looks at the growing school enrollments and the existing inadequate facilities with which to cope with them. In this regard, Professor John M. Maclachlan wrote:

> . . . it seems clear that the approaching educational crisis in the South may be one of the gravest proportions, without any regard to changes in the legal basis of biracial education in the region. The first and most basic consideration is that there will be in the South, by 1960, [compared with 1950] almost one-third more white and over one-third more nonwhite persons of school age.[5]

If these estimates are fairly accurate, one can immediately perceive the gigantic task facing the schools. Herculean efforts will be needed to build new schools, provide adequate classroom facilities, secure additional teachers, and strengthen the overall school program to accommodate the growing army of

[4]Metropolitan Planning Commission, We're Feeling Like a Million, Atlanta 1959. p. 4.

[5]John M. Maclachlan, "Population Factors Affecting Education in the South," Journal of Public Law, Spring 1954, pp. 114-115.

Migration

(Continued)

school children from many varied backgrounds. Between 1940 and 1950, in the 13 states of the South, the white population between 10 and 19 declined more than 397,000; the nonwhite population between ages 10 and 19 declined more than 220,000. The statistics on population increases from 1950 to 1960 make a stronger impact, as Professor Maclachlan says, "when one pauses to reflect that one of the most serious problems of the late 1940's and early 1950's was a relentless increase in the need for schools and teachers," despite the school-age population drop.

In addition to the economic problems created by recent population trends, problems of a cultural and academic nature are also of considerable consequence. The "hub" of the city, into which comes the masses from the rural areas, houses the lower socio-economic groups, both white and colored. For the present and for the next few years at least, the best possible school administration and teaching will be necessary even partially to fill in the gaps that are the result of inferior environments. As Professor Homer L. Hitt has said, "To a large degree the future of southern cities and thus the quality of life in the South will depend on the contributions of the newcomers to the urban scene."[6]

Counterbalancing forces are gradually coming into play which will perhaps change the direction of recent population trends. First of all, urban renewal: hundreds of cities are currently attempting to do away with the blighted areas surrounding their central business districts. The blighted areas are being replaced by business establishments and frequently by high rent apartments beyond the incomes of the previous inhabitants of these areas. Secondly, the exodus from the rural areas has almost reached its climax. Thirdly, practical considerations will almost inevitably necessitate the reduction of some discriminatory housing practices. On these last two points, Irene B. Taeuber, of Princeton University, expresses the following opinion:

> To project the migrations of the past into the future is impossible, for the sources of supply in the rural South are approaching exhaustion. To project a continuing exodus from the South and a continuing mobility in the metropolis without the reduction of residential segregation leads to results that are not consonant with real possibilities. Continually declining white populations and rapidly increasing Negro populations would lead eventually to the transfer of political power in the central cities and so terminate the segregation.[7]

Whether all or some of our schools desegregate in the future, today's school crisis calls for and demands cooperation and community organization. Our schools may operate on an efficient level but only if school board members, administrators, teachers, parents, community leaders, and other responsible persons are willing to apply the most feasible and workable solutions.

It seems apparent that many school districts are reaching that situation where segregation becomes immediately costly: i.e., where populations have shifted, leaving unused school capacity in one place, overcrowded school capacities elsewhere. The impact of recent population trends require that schools fulfill their primary objective—the development of the individual and of his potentialities in order that he may become a mature, participating member of our democratic society.

---

[6]R. B. Vance and N. J. Demerath, editors, The Urban South, Chapel Hill, 1954, p. 77.

[7]Irene B. Taeuber, "Migration, Mobility, and the Assimilation of the Negro," Population Bulletin, November 1958, p. 149.

What Each One of Us Does*

Most of the cities in the United States have experienced a sharp rise in group tensions during the past few years. As a matter of fact, in many urban centers we are only a misdirected stone's throw away from ugly racial strife and mob violence. This situation is due in no small part to the unfortunate proclivity of too many of us to hold a whole group responsible for the actions of an individual. The antisocial traits ascribed to an entire minority group because of the actions of some individual members of the group are too well known to be rehearsed here.

How different has been the reaction of Mrs. Doris Bodenheimer of Houston, Texas. She is the anguished mother of a 12-year-old boy who was brutally slain recently by a gang of young delinquents. It so happens in this instance that the victim was white—those arrested, Negro. Writing with a deep compassion which blotted out all bitterness, Mrs. Bodenheimer penned the following letter which was printed in the Houston Post on Aug. 1, 1959:

"Since my son's death I have been largely sustained by the sincere sympathy of the whole community, but the attitude on the part of some has alarmed me. I have felt from the beginning that some abstract evil force had killed my son. The person or persons responsible is ill and to find a scapegoat will not absolve society from its share of guilt.

"People who are oppressed and deprived by society hit back. Finding my son's murderer will not keep alive some child who now lives—more murderers will be bred by the conditions which bred his murderer.

"As long as we foster the sickness of slums and segregation we shall all be infected by it.

"This is not to say that I am convinced of the guilt of current suspects, but merely that the anger directed against them would be put to better use if turned toward those conditions which breed crime."

If more of us could achieve the understanding, wisdom, and charity displayed by Mrs. Bodenheimer; if her words can provide us with a guidepost for community action, there is hope that much of the racial strife which seems to be threatening can be averted. For in the last instance, the responsibility for working out our problems of living together peacefully falls not upon government, not upon organizations, but upon what each one of us does as an individual.

Alexander F. Miller
Director Community Services,
Anti-Defamation League
New York, New York

Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor*

EDITORS DISCUSS PRIV

Why It Will Work

The Richmond News Leader

Two professors of education at Emory University, Donald Ross Green and Warren E. Gauerke, have produced a 40-page pamphlet for the Southern Regional Council, entitled "If the Schools Close." Here the authors review various proposals in Southern States for the establishment of private schools as an alternative to integrated public schools.

"They dismantle the private school plan completely," says Time magazine, reporting on the pamphlet. And Time adds that the authors "prove" such schools will not work.

One or two things need to be said before this "proof" is rebutted. The first is that the pamphlet comes from the soft-headed Southern Regional Council, a Liberal outfit dedicated to the integrationist cause. The second is that the two authors are professors of education, with a vested interest in the public school system and an understandable prejudice in favor of its perpetuity. It would have been incredible if such authors, under such auspices, had produced a pamphlet that said anything else.

The authors' first objection to private schools goes to their costs. On this point, they observe that Georgia's public schools buy supplies on a State-wide basis, benefit from State-wide administrative services, and draw upon $28 million in Federal aid. A system of private schools, by contrast, could not make use of State buildings and "could not begin to pay for new buildings." Private schools could not afford qualified teachers, they contend, nor maintain an enriched curriculum. In brief, "a system of private schools . . . is unworkable, legally, socially, and economically."

What is to be said of these melancholy strictures, especially as they might apply to private schools in Virginia? Simply this, that the two theorists have no comprehension of certain realities. The authors, like educationists the country over, are accustomed to think in terms of nothing-but-the-best; they see large and grand, not small and homely; their vision is of thousands of pupils and millions of dollars. And their case boils down to "proof" of a proposition not even in dispute—that a vast system of private schools, equal in every way to public schools that have been 80 years in development, could not possibly spring into efficient operation overnight.

Such proof may be impressive, but it is hardly relevant to the problem at hand. Not even the sovereign State of Georgia, whatever her laws may require just now, ever will close all of her

(Continued on Page 12)

RIVATE SCHOOL PLAN

Why It Won't Work

The Lynchburg News
Reprinted from Warren Sentinel

Consider this, if you will, a response to the editorial bowl of mush served up last week by the illustrious Richmond News Leader. Reprinted elsewhere on today's page, that editorial solemnly recites crusty fables, takes stiff jabs at popular whipping boys, Time magazine and "liberals," and to the tune of carefully metered prose proudly raises the Confederate flag.

As much as one would like to indulge in flights into a southern fairyland, the time has come for Virginians to face, squarely, the facts at hand. While one may wish so very strongly for segregated classes to succeed, one must peel the patina of wish from the statue of hard reality.

Written in the angry tones of a Captain Queeg facing mutiny, the News Leader editorial states that private schools set up in certain areas of Virginia to avoid public school integration are quite workable, contrary to the findings of a thorough study prepared by two professors at Emory University for the Southern Regional Council.

Among other interesting facts reported by Professors Donald Ross Green and Warren E. Gauerke in their study, facts conspicuously absent from the News Leader editorial, was the comparative cost of private and public education. A survey of the Atlanta area disclosed that the average per pupil cost of a year's schooling in public facilities was $265 while the average for private facilities was a whopping $625. It was the contention of the professors that cost alone would ultimately prohibit the bulk of southern white students from avoiding integration by attending private classes.

Like it or not—and this newspaper does not like it any more than the Richmond News Leader—it is a reasonable contention. Moreover, its soundness can be demonstrated right here in Virginia where both Prince Edward and Warren counties are having trouble raising money for their private school efforts. Warren County has postponed a decision on operating private classes to determine whether a needed $140,000 can be collected. Prince Edward County admits that it will take $300,000 to operate private classes for white students this year, but those in charge of the private school foundation funds will not say exactly how much has been collected.

These figures of funds needed to operate private schools are not hazy myths rooted in an era long ago. They are, quite simply, matters of definite fact. Yet in speaking of Professors Green and Gauerke, the News Leader called them "two theorists (who) have no comprehension of certain realities."

Won't Work (Continued)

What reality could be more certain than Prince Edward's private school budget of $300,000? Or Warren County's goal of $140,000?

Further, what reality could be more certain than the pictures on this page? Here are the private schools that Prince Edward's white citizens will operate this year. Here are the public facilities they will abandon. Below is the dark interior of an old blacksmith's shop that will be used as a classroom.

How theoretical, we would ask the News Leader, is all this?

Let us raise some further questions:

For how long will the white citizens of Prince Edward County be willing to force these sacrifices on their children?

For how long will they be able to raise enough money to keep these makeshift private classes open?

For how long will the courts and the Federal government permit the county to deny educational opportunities to Negro children?

Forever?

This is not a time chauvinistically to shout States' Rights slogans, but rather a time to shake off fables and wipe the stardust of hopeless dreams from our eyes. It is a time to face facts. Let us hope that this excursion into folly will be a short one for Prince Edward County and that its cost in time, money and education of children will be held to a minimum. Then, let us hope the County reopens its public schools and turns, realistically, to ways to limit the integration that will come.

PRINCE EDWARD

The Arkansas Gazette

. . . This report has drawn an interesting rebuttal from the Richmond News-Leader, the newspaper which proudly sired the now-defunct theory of interposition and beat the drums for legislation authorizing a private school system. Characteristically, the News-Leader begins by attacking the Council as "soft-headed" and the two Emory faculty members as biased by their "vested interest" in public education.

Even so, the News-Leader makes what must be regarded in context as a significant concession to the correctness of the professors' judgment:

> Such proof may be impressive, but it is hardly relevant to the problem at hand. Not even the sovereign state of Georgia, whatever her laws may require just now, ever will close all of her public schools as the price of avoiding integration in any one of them. When rational men talk realistically of private schools as an alternative to integrated public schools, they are talking of a small number of private schools serving a small number of children in a small number of counties.

We pass no judgment on how rational a considerable number of the South's political leaders have been in the past two years, and certainly we can agree that they haven't been talking realistically about the region's educational problems. But certainly they have been holding out to their people the hope that they could create private schools on a wholesale basis as a device for evading even token integration—and they have continued to hold out that hope until it was proved false by the march of local events.

As we have said repeatedly, we know of no legal or moral reason why any group of parents cannot establish a private school tailored to their tastes. But if they do they must be prepared to pay heavily for the privilege—in money if it is to be a first rate institution, or in a reduction of quality if they cannot afford a heavy outlay from their own pockets.

An excellent example may be seen in the only private school system now operating in the South as a substitute for public schools—that in Prince Edward County, Virginia, which the Richmond News-Leader cites as evidence of what it calls the fallacy of the Council's report. Yet the News-Leader's own polemics would seem to pinpoint grave deficiencies.

For example, the newspaper contends that there is no problem of finding competent teachers because Prince Edward is abundantly supplied with competent professionals and "the salaries of Atlanta or Richmond or Washington hold no special appeal for them." In other words, the private schools must pay their teachers well below the going rate and hope that they will remain because of "ties of family and habit"—a hope proved wistful by the whole national pattern of teacher migration.

Moreover, classes must be held in lodge halls, abandoned store buildings, and private homes—with this as a permanent condition since the News-Leader concedes that there is no prospect of raising money from private sources to build modern school plants. But it is contended:

> That is to say, the classrooms will be entirely adequate for Prince Edward County. They would not suit the fluorescent dreams of a professor of education in Atlanta. In these humble schools a tolerably full curriculum will be offered. True, there will not be band, or orchestra, or courses in hair styling for the girls. But the quality of education will be at least as good as the quality of education in the former public schools.

Finally, the News-Leader Proclaims:

> . . . the people of Prince Edward ask nothing of the outside world; they are indifferent to the educationist values that Professor Green and Gauerke count so highly.

Such, then, is the fate of the white children of Prince Edward. They will attend classes in makeshift schoolrooms, they will be taught by underpaid teachers, they will have access only to limited curricula—and their elders will tell them they are fortunate to be immunized against the standards and values of the outside world.

For the Negro children of Prince Edward County there are presently no schools at all—public or private—with all that this implies in terms of social and economic problems for the whole community.

And this is taking place, to the accompaniment of the News-Leader's applause, in the rural South, which has always needed the highest possible degree of "outside" aid to improve the educational opportunities of its children. And it is that same rural South, despite all the great equalization programs of the past, that is still steadily losing population, watching each generation of its children head for the cities in search of those standards and values the News-Leader says the people of Prince Edward have proudly rejected.

Will Work

(Continued from Page 8)

public schools as the price of avoiding integration in any one of them. When rational men talk realistically of private schools as an alternative to integrated public schools, they are talking of a small number of private schools serving a small number of children in a small number of communities.

The Georgia pessimists seem not to understand this. It is easy enough to make out a bleak case for private education if the problem is thought to be one of serving, as in Georgia, 850,000 children now housed in 3,000 schools. The problems are completely different if one is thinking, as in Prince Edward County, of serving 1,500 pupils formerly housed in eight schools.

Professors Green and Gauerke must have lived too long in the city; they seem not to understand a rural county. There is no problem in finding qualified teachers for private schools in a Prince Edward County; in a small county there always will be a sufficient number of competent men and women who are tied to their community by ties of family and habit. The salaries of Atlanta or Richmond or Washington hold no special appeal for them; they enjoy a contented existence where they are.

Neither is the requirement of acceptable school buildings a serious problem in such rural counties. The Prince Edward Educational Foundation, to offer an actual success as opposed to a hypothetical failure, has had an embarrassment of choices. More than a score of suitable church buildings, lodge halls and private homes were offered for private classroom use; from these an entirely adequate selection was made.

That is to say, the classrooms will be entirely adequate for Prince Edward County. They would not suit the fluorescent dreams of a professor of education in Atlanta. In these humble schools, a tolerably full curriculum will be offered. True, there will not be band, or orchestra, or courses in hair styling for the girls. But the quality of education will be at least as good as the quality of education in the former public schools.

The authors of this pamphlet fail to take other factors into account. One is the closeness and unity of a small rural county, in which almost literally everyone knows everyone else. They do not properly appraise the determination of such small societies to preserve their social structure—in plain language, to preserve segregation. They do not comprehend the self-containment of such counties; the people of a Prince Edward ask nothing of the outside world; they are indifferent to the educationist values that Professors Green and Gauerke count so highly.

Private schools can succeed in such areas as Prince Edward—the only areas in which public schools are likely ever to be wholly abandoned. They will succeed because the parents there are determined to make them succeed, and because these parents have at hand the resources necessary for success. These countrymen will not be much impressed by jerimiads from the Southern Regional Council. They no longer are interested in academic reasons why a system of private schools can't work; they are daily finding reasons why it can.

Highlights from Recent Literature

New South summarizes recently published periodical, pamphlet, and book length material of interest to its readers. These synopses liberally paraphrase and condense the statements of the authors, although direct quotations are used whenever economy permits.

NAIRO. "CIVIL RIGHTS IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL: A REPORT ON A DECADE OF PROGRESS." Journal of Intergroup Relations, Vol. 1, No. 5, September, 1959. National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials, 426 West 58th Street, New York 19. $1.50, single copies. 133 pp.

How does social change take place . . . both directed and undirected social change? This volume deals with social change in one of the many dimensions of a community's life, in one particular American community, during one particular and observable period of time. It deals with the subject of racial desegregation in the Nation's capital, and covers a period of approximately twelve years. Chapter titles indicate the areas covered: Integration—A Challenge to Community Agencies and Institutions; Discrimination in the Federal Agencies in Washington, D. C.; Changing Patterns in Employment; The Employment and Utilization of Negro Manpower in the District of Columbia's Government and Private Enterprise; The Practices of Craft Unions in Washington, D. C., With Respect to Minority Groups; Status and Trends in Housing; Public Accommodations in the Nation's Capital, 1947-1958; Public and Private Health and Welfare Agencies — Ten Year's After; The Public School System.

A concluding chapter deals with dynamics and techniques for effecting desegregation. It notes that the most striking thing about the desegregation process in Washington is the fact that the changes have been largely the result of effective work of social action groups. They developed a modus operandi for maximizing their effectiveness with a minimum of capriciousness, contention, and confusion. Diverse approaches were used by the various organizations, but the general pattern includes a first phase of assessment and a second phase of social action to effect a change of policy and to end the practice of segregation. The major facets of this phase, are: (1) calling attention to the issue, (2) effective confrontation and negotiation, (3) effective operations (pressure and persuasion), and (4) litigation. Another phase, involving reaction and decision, is crucial, and the final phase, resolution, involves not only desegregation but also integration.

* * *

Green, Reginald H., editor. "THE COLLEGE STUDENT AND THE CHANGING SOUTH." United States National Student Association, 3457 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia 4, Pa.

A report of the Southwide Student Human Relations Conference, sponsored by the U. S. National Student Association, the American Friends Service Committee, the Southern Area Councils of the YMCA, the United Student Christian Conference, Hillel, and the National Federation of Catholic College Students, and held at Pfeiffer College, Highlights

(Continued)

Misemheimer, North Carolina, November 1959. The conference drew over 120 students from 60 campuses in eleven states, and 30 resource people, speakers, and discussion leaders. Some highlights from the formal presentations, the workshops, and discussion groups:

SEGREGATION, EQUALITY, AND THE SOUTH TODAY

The basic question seems to me what do we really believe. Do we believe in the equality of races, or don't we?

—James McBrideDabbs

I think Negroes are entitled to equal treatment by the law. But that does not mean I think that equality means the same school.

—Thomas Ellis

Nine to ten million people have been on the periphery in every avenue of life, never allowed to participate in the main stream.

—Benjamin Mays

RACE RELATIONS, THE UNIVERSITY, AND THE STUDENT

Any degree of alleged objectivity is hard to achieve and suspect if achieved. We need to have patience and to think carefully not to ask easy, but false, questions and give easy answers. We cannot encourage the belief (that even President Lincoln held) that the problem could be solved without positive action by anyone.

—Weldon James

I feel that it is an age of conformity, yet I wonder if any age was not potentially that. I think it's a question, perhaps, of determination and courage. If any age was saved from being an age of conformity, was it not because there were those individuals who would not let it be so? . . . Students have a peculiar privilege and a peculiar opportunity; they live in a new era and they move in a new era in which it is their right to face these problems.

—Fred Weaver

INDIVIDUAL CHALLENGES, CHANNELS, AND OPPORTUNITIES

The basic issue is not so much the 14th Amendment as the First Commandment . . . The basic question is do we believe in the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, or do we worship at the altar of state sovereignty.

—The Reverend Will Campbell

The conference proved to be an eye-opener. During the 2½ days I came to understand that Negroes can be intelligent, understanding, informed; that they can be my equal or superior; but, above all, I came to understand that they are real persons, that they have feelings and a real desire for community.

—Participant from Segregated White College

You have real problems on your campus (a major state institution facing desegregation). I wouldn't like to be in your position.

—Participant from Segregated Negro College

It is the quality of our thought and of our lives which is really important.

—Warren Ashby

Noteworthy quotes from the press and periodicals

. . . Unquote

"Nineteen sixty will be a year of great social decisions. I regard public schools as indispensable, and I do not want to see a generation miss its chance at education as did the one in Atlanta's reconstruction days."

Mayor William B. Hartsfield
Atlanta
Quoted in ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

"I have observed in my travels throughout the states that local school boards are now beginning to put forth efforts to solve their desegregation problems with the cooperation of their local PTAs and we feel that our local (NAACP) branch leaders will also cooperate if they are met on an equal basis."

Gloster Current, Manager,
NAACP National Offices,
Quoted in ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

"Even the politicians who seek to exploit racism against education have discovered that closing the schools is an act of political stupidity. It compels people to choose between their prejudices and their children's future, and in this choice the children always win, later if not sooner."

From the CHRISTIAN CENTURY

"An effort to open a private school 'for white pupils only' in Selma, Alabama, has been temporarily abandoned . . . The closing of the Raney School [in Little Rock] and the failure of the Selma private school to get to first base does not mean that the opposition to integrated public schools has languished. It does mean that the people of the South know a private school when they see one and they demand either good public schools or good private schools for their children. They seem to be getting a little weary of subterfuges."

From the CHATTANOOGA TIMES

"When and if the time comes that we will be faced with the question of closing schools, I believe the administration and the Legislature will face realities and the public education system will continue."

U. S. Rep. Erwin Mitchell of Georgia
Quoted in ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

"Warren County [Virginia] today is an object lesson. If the governor of Virginia really wants to overcome its lag in industrial development, he can face only in one direction. It is in the direction of public school support."

From the VIRGINIAN-PILOT

The Changing South in Print!

"New South—an excellent magazine dedicated to saving the South from destroying itself by clinging to the shabby myths of the 19th Century."

Harry W. Ernst
Charleston* (W. Va.) *Gazette

"One of the best sources for materials on the South today."

Current Events

"New South . . . provides editors, students and public-minded citizens with timely, authentic information on developments in the South."

Avery County* (N. C.) *News

"[The Council has] earned a reputation for sound, constructive research and publication of factual material."

Atlanta Constitution

"The Council has put out a notable series of studies in Southern life and needs."

Christian Century

Leslie Dunbar

JM

STATEMENT OF THE AMERICAN JEWISH CONGRESS ON SCHOOL SEGREGATION, NORTHERN STYLE

SUBMITTED TO THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION AND LABOR

--

MARCH 29, 1962

--

STEPHEN WISE CONGRESS HOUSE
15 EAST 84TH STREET
NEW YORK 28, NEW YORK

MY NAME IS WILL MASLOW; I AM EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND GENERAL COUNSEL OF THE AMERICAN JEWISH CONGRESS. THE AJC, A NATIONAL ORGANIZATION IN EXISTENCE SINCE 1918, SEEKS, AMONG OTHER PURPOSES, TO COMBAT RACISM AND ALL FORMS OF RELIGIOUS AND RACIAL PREJUDICE.

IN 1954, WE, ALONG WITH MILLIONS OF OUR FELLOW-AMERICANS, HAILED THE EPOCHAL DECISION OF THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT IN THE SCHOOL SEGREGATION CASES. WE WERE PARTICULARLY PROUD BECAUSE IN ITS HISTORIC FOOTNOTE 11 THE COURT CITED TWO AJC STUDIES ON THE HARMFUL PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECTS OF SEGREGATION. WE RECOGNIZED AT ONCE THAT THE COURT HAD NOT ONLY OUTLAWED SEGREGATION CREATED BY STATE STATUTE IN 17 SOUTHERN AND BORDER STATES BUT HAD ALSO SIMULTANEOUSLY FORBIDDEN ANY SEGREGATION PRACTICES IN NORTHERN STATES CONSCIOUSLY CONTRIVED BY PUBLIC EDUCATIONAL AUTHORITIES. SPURRED BY THIS DECISION, WE BEGAN A STUDY OF SCHOOL SEGREGATION IN THE NORTH WHICH RESULTED IN THE PUBLICATION IN 1959 OF A REPORT ENTITLED "FROM COLOR BLIND TO COLOR CONSCIOUS" AND ONE IN 1961 ENTITLED "DE FACTO PUBLIC SCHOOL SEGREGATION."

IT IS A COMMON FALLACY THAT SCHOOL SEGREGATION IS ONLY A SOUTHERN PROBLEM. ALMOST HALF (48%) OF THE 18 MILLION NEGROES IN THIS COUNTRY NOW LIVE OUTSIDE THE 11 STATES OF THE CONFEDERACY. THE LARGEST CONCENTRATIONS OF NEGRO POPULATION ARE NOW FOUND IN THE METROPOLITAN AREAS OF THE NORTH, AS THE FOLLOWING 1960 CENSUS FIGURES DEMONSTRATE (FIGURES ROUNDED OFF):

NUMBER OF NEGROES IN OUR LARGEST CITIES 1/

1.	NEW YORK CITY	1,087,000
2.	CHICAGO	812,000
3.	PHILADELPHIA	529,000
4.	DETROIT	482,000

1/ SOURCE: NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 15, 1961.

5.	WASHINGTON, D.C.	411,000
6.	LOS ANGELES	334,000
7.	BALTIMORE	326,000
8.	CLEVELAND	250,000
9.	NEW ORLEANS	233,000
10.	HOUSTON	215,000
11.	ST. LOUIS	214,000
12.	ATLANTA	186,000
13.	MEMPHIS	184,000
14.	DALLAS	129,000
15.	CINCINNATI	108,000
16.	PITTSBURGH	100,000

IT WILL BE OBSERVED THAT OUR FOUR LARGEST NORTHERN CITIES -NEW YORK, CHICAGO, PHILADELPHIA AND DETROIT - EACH CONTAINS A LARGER NEGRO POPULATION THAN ANY OF THE LARGEST SOUTHERN CITIES - NEW ORLEANS, HOUSTON, ATLANTA, MEMPHIS OR DALLAS.

NEGROES IN OUR NORTHERN METROPOLISES ARE HERDED TOGETHER IN BLACK GHETTOES.[2/] NEGROES IN THESE GHETTOES ATTEND THE SCHOOLS LOCATED IN THEIR NEIGHBORHOODS. THE RESULT IS THAT SUCH SCHOOLS HAVE A PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO ENROLLMENT. FOR ALL PRACTICAL PURPOSES, THESE SCHOOLS MAY BE SAID TO BE SEGREGATED, ALTHOUGH THE SEGREGATION IS DE FACTO,[3/] RATHER THAN STEMMING FROM GOVERNMENT POLICY. IN ADDITION, SOME LOCAL SCHOOL BOARDS HAVE BY ONE DEVICE

2/ MCENTIRE, RESIDENCE AND RACE, 32-67 (1960); GRODZINS, METROPOLITAN SEGREGATION, SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, OCTOBER 1957; REPORT OF THE U.S. COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS 1959, PP. 354-374.

3/ IN TAYLOR V. BD. OF EDUCATION OF NEW ROCHELLE, 191 F. SUPP. 181, 194, NOTE 12 (S.D. N.Y. 1961) THE COURT DEFINED "DE FACTO" SEGREGATION AS THAT "RESULTING FROM FORTUITOUS RESIDENTIAL PATTERNS" AND "DE JURE" SEGREGATION AS THAT "CREATED OR MAINTAINED BY OFFICIAL ACT, REGARDLESS OF ITS FORM."

OR ANOTHER CONTRIVED TO BRING ABOUT OR MAINTAIN A SEGREGATED SYSTEM. THESE DEVICES INCLUDE GERRYMANDERING, SELECTION OF SITES FOR NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS, TRANSFER POLICIES, DELIBERATE UNDER-UTILIZATION OR OVER-UTILIZATION OF CERTAIN SCHOOLS AND ARBITRARY ASSIGNMENT OF GRADES TO PARTICULAR SCHOOLS. 4/

THE FOLLOWING TABLE BASED ON OFFICIAL AND UNOFFICIAL SOURCES LISTS THE NUMBER OF PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS IN OUR LARGE NORTHERN CITIES:

NUMBER OF PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS IN NORTHERN CITIES

CITY	NUMBER	% OF NEGROES IN EACH SCHOOL
NEW YORK	102 OUT OF 573	90 OR HIGHER 5/
CHICAGO	98 OUT OF 383	60 OR HIGHER 6/
PHILADELPHIA	38 OUT OF 271	99 OR HIGHER 7/
DETROIT	62 OUT OF 222	90 OR HIGHER 8/
LOS ANGELES	77 OUT OF 404	85 OR HIGHER 9/

4/ 1961 REPORT OF U.S. COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS, VOL. 2, "EDUCATION," PP. 101-110; MASLOW, DE FACTO PUBLIC SCHOOL SEGREGATION, 6 VILLANOVA LAW REV. 353,360 (1961).

5/ BOARD OF EDUCATION, CENTRAL ZONING UNIT, "ELEMENTARY SCHOOL AND PUBLIC ETHNIC DISTRIBUTION," JAN. 1962. PUERTO RICAN CHILDREN ARE CLASSIFIED WITH NEGROES FOR THIS PURPOSE.

6/ ESTIMATE OF THE CHICAGO URBAN LEAGUE, FEB. 28, 1962, WHICH CLASSIFIES AS A "NEGRO" SCHOOL ANY SCHOOL IN AN AREA WHERE NEGROES CONSTITUTE 60% OR MORE OF THE POPULATION, THE ASSUMPTION BEING THAT WHITE PERSONS IN SUCH AREAS TEND TO SEND THEIR CHILDREN TO PAROCHIAL OR PRIVATE SCHOOLS. SEE TESTIMONY OF CHICAGO URBAN LEAGUE SUBMITTED TO CHICAGO SCHOOL BUDGET HEARING, DEC. 19, 1961.

7/ PHILADELPHIA BD. OF EDUCATION, "FOR EVERY CHILD, THE STORY OF INTEGRATION IN PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC SCHOOLS," OCT. 1960, PP. 1-2.

8/ REPORT OF CITIZENS COMMITTEE ON EQUALITY OF EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY, MAP, PAGE P6, N.Y.TIMES, MARCH 11, 1962, P. 58. THIS COMMITTEE WAS APPOINTED BY THE DETROIT BOARD OF EDUCATION.

9/ INCLUDES 34 MEXICAN-AMERICAN SCHOOLS. REPORT OF EDUCATION COMMITTEE OF THE COMMUNITY CONFERENCE OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, P. 21, JAN. 1960. THIS REPORT WAS SUBMITTED TO THE U.S. COMMISSION ON CIVIL RIGHTS AT ITS CALIFORNIA PUBLIC HEARINGS.

NUMBER OF PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS IN NORTHERN CITIES, CONT'D

CITY	NUMBER	% OF NEGROES IN EACH SCHOOL
CLEVELAND	40 OUT OF 130	60 OR HIGHER 10/
TOLEDO	9 OUT OF 57	50 OR HIGHER 11/
SAN FRANCISCO	7 OUT OF 101	60 OR HIGHER 12/
BOSTON	14 OUT OF 154	90 OR HIGHER 13/
INDIANAPOLIS	7 OUT OF 89	ALMOST 100 14/
YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO	3 OUT OF 31	90 OR HIGHER 15/
JERSEY CITY	8 OUT OF 28	50 OR HIGHER 16/
KANSAS CITY, KANS.	7 OUT OF 38	100% 17/

IN BROWN V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF TOPEKA, THE SUPREME COURT CONCLUDED THAT COMPULSORY RACIAL SEGREGATION OF CHILDREN IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS "HAS A TENDENCY TO RETARD THE EDUCATIONAL AND MENTAL DEVELOPMENT OF NEGRO CHILDREN." DOES DE FACTO SEGREGATION HAVE A SIMILAR DETRIMENTAL EFFECT? THE NEW YORK

10/ ESTIMATE OF SIDNEY Z. VINCENT, ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR, JEWISH COMMUNITY FEDERATION OF CLEVELAND.

11/ LETTER FROM TOLEDO BOARD OF COMMUNITY RELATIONS, JAN. 7, 1960.

12/ INCLUDES TWO ASIAN SCHOOLS. ESTIMATE OF SAN FRANCISCO JEWISH COMMUNITY RELATIONS COUNCIL, MARCH 20, 1962.

13/ UNOFFICIAL ESTIMATE, 1961.

14/ INDIANAPOLIS HUMAN RELATIONS COUNCIL, REPORT, P. 2, JUNE 20, 1959.

15/ MAYOR'S COMMITTEE ON HUMAN RELATIONS, REPORT, PP. 1-2 (1959).

16/ ACCORDING TO A STUDY OF THE LOCAL SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 10, 1962.

17/ ACCORDING TO THE LOCAL SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, N.Y.TIMES, MARCH 20, 1962.

CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION CONCLUDED IN A FORMAL RESOLUTION ADOPTED UNANIMOUSLY ON DECEMBER 23, 1954:

> PUBLIC EDUCATION IN A RACIALLY HOMOGENEOUS SETTING IS SOCIALLY UNREALISTIC AND BLOCKS THE ATTAINMENT OF GOALS OF DEMOCRATIC EDUCATION, WHETHER THIS SEGREGATION OCCURS BY LAW OR BY FACT.

THE NEW YORK STATE BOARD OF REGENTS WHICH SUPERVISES ALL THE EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS IN THE STATE, PUBLIC AND PRIVATE, CAME TO A SIMILAR CONCLUSION IN 1960. DECLARING THAT "SCHOOLS ENROLLING STUDENTS LARGELY OF HOMOGENEOUS ETHNIC ORIGIN MAY DAMAGE THE PERSONALITY OF MINORITY GROUP CHILDREN" AND "IMPAIR THE ABILITY TO LEARN," IT FOUND THAT SUCH SCHOOLS "BLOCK THE ATTAINMENT OF THE GOALS OF DEMOCRATIC EDUCATION."

SCHOOL BOARDS IN NORTHERN CITIES THUS HAD TWO ALTERNATIVES AFTER THE DECISION IN THE SCHOOL SEGREGATION CASES. THEY COULD, LIKE THE CHICAGO BOARD OF EDUCATION, HIDE BEHIND THE STRIKING PHRASE USED BY JUSTICE HARLAN IN PLESSY V. FERGUSON AND BE "COLOR-BLIND" (163 U.S. 537, 599 (1896)), REFUSING TO ASSUME ANY RESPONSIBILITY FOR SCHOOL SEGREGATION ARISING FROM RESIDENTIAL PATTERNS. OR THEY COULD BE "COLOR-CONSCIOUS" RECOGNIZING WITH THE NEW YORK CITY BOARD THAT SUCH SEGREGATED SCHOOLS ARE "EDUCATIONALLY UNDESIRABLE." AS THE DETROIT NEWS EDITORIALIZED IN ITS COMMENT ON THE REPORT OF THE DETROIT COMMITTEE ON EQUAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES:

> THIS MEANS ABANDONMENT OF THE SCHOOLS' STUDIED NEUTRALITY ON RACE, THE EFFECT OF WHICH HAS BEEN TO BOLSTER DE FACTO SEGREGATION, IN FAVOR OF A POLICY WHICH ACCEPTS A RESPONSIBILITY TO FURTHER DESEGREGATION WHERE REASONABLE OPPORTUNITY OFFERS ITSELF. 18/

A DECLARATION OF POLICY IS, HOWEVER, ONLY THE FIRST STEP IN THE SUSTAINED EFFORT REQUIRED TO BREAK DOWN SEGREGATION IN A PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM OR AT LEAST TO PREVENT ITS FURTHER SPREAD. WHILE CONDITIONS OF COURSE VARY FROM CITY TO CITY, EXPERIENCE IN NEW YORK CITY AND ELSEWHERE INDICATES THAT 18/ DETROIT NEWS, MARCH 11, 1962.

THE FOLLOWING ADDITIONAL STEPS ARE NECESSARY:

1. RACIAL CENSUS

AN ETHNIC AND RACIAL CENSUS OF THE PUPIL ENROLLMENT SHOULD BE MADE. THIS SHOULD NOT BE DONE BY QUESTIONING THE CHILDREN BUT BY THE VISUAL OBSERVATION OF THE CLASSROOM TEACHER WHO WOULD FURNISH THE TOTAL FOR HER CLASS. (IN NO EVENT SHOULD A SCHOOL SYSTEM RECORD THE RACE OR RELIGION OF A PARTICULAR CHILD.) SUCH A CENSUS WAS CONDUCTED IN NEW YORK STATE BY DIRECTION OF THE STATE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION AND IN DETROIT BY THE LOCAL BOARD OF EDUCATION.

2. ZONING FOR INTEGRATION

IN DRAWING SCHOOL ATTENDANCE LINES, WHICH NOW CUSTOMARILY TAKE INTO ACCOUNT TRAFFIC HAZARDS, DISTANCES FROM HOME TO SCHOOL, TOPOGRAPHICAL BARRIERS AND THE NECESSITY OF EQUALIZING SCHOOL CAPACITY, THE ZONING OFFICER SHOULD CONSIDER THE NECESSITY FOR ACHIEVING RACIAL INTEGRATION AS A CARDINAL FACTOR IN ZONING. IT IS NOT ENOUGH TO REVIEW SUCH LINES TO ELIMINATE GERRYMANDERED SCHOOL DISTRICTS. SUCH GERRYMANDERING IS NOW OBVIOUSLY ILLEGAL AND HAS SO BEEN HELD BY THE COURTS.[19/]

3. SITE SELECTION

WHENEVER POSSIBLE, NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS SHOULD BE LOCATED NOT IN THE HEART OF BLACK GHETTOES BUT AT THEIR BORDERS OR IN MIXED NEIGHBORHOODS. SCHOOL BOARDS MUST ALSO ANTICIPATE POPULATION MOVEMENTS TO PREVENT NEW SCHOOLS FROM BECOMING ALL NEGRO OR ALL WHITE.

4. PERMISSIVE TRANSFERS

UNDER THE PLAN ADOPTED BY NEW YORK CITY IN 1960, CHILDREN IN PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO AND PUERTO RICAN SCHOOLS WERE GIVEN THE OPTION OF TRANSFERRING TO OTHER SCHOOLS IN THE BOROUGH WITH A MUCH LOWER NEGRO-PUERTO RICAN POPULATION

19/ CLEMONS V. BD. OF EDUCATION OF HILLSBORO, OHIO, 228 F. 2D 853 (6TH CIR. 1956), CERT. DENIED, 350 U.S. 1006 (1956); TAYLOR V. BD. OF EDUCATION OF NEW ROCHELLE, 294 F. 2D 36 (2D CIR. 1961), CERT. DENIED, 82 SUP. CT. 382 (1961).

AND WITH UNFILLED CLASSROOMS. CHILDREN EXERCISING THIS OPTION ARE PROVIDED FREE TRANSPORTATION TO THE RECEIVING SCHOOLS. THE NEW YORK CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION REPORTED RECENTLY THAT 4965 ELEMENTARY AND JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS WERE ATTENDING 127 SCHOOLS OUTSIDE THEIR HOME NEIGHBORHOOD UNDER THE OPEN ENROLLMENT PLAN.[20]

IT WILL BE NOTED THAT THE OPTION OF TRANSFERRING IS NOT GIVEN ONLY TO NEGRO OR PUERTO RICAN CHILDREN. ANY PUPIL OF A DESIGNATED "SENDING SCHOOL" IS ALLOWED TO TRANSFER. THIS PERMISSIVE TRANSFER POLICY WAS RECENTLY APPROVED BY FEDERAL JUDGE KAUFMAN AS THE FIRST STEP IN THE DESEGREGATION PLAN WHICH HE DIRECTED THE NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. SCHOOL BOARD TO SUBMIT FOLLOWING LITIGATION IN WHICH HE HELD THE SCHOOL BOARD GUILTY OF CONTRIVING TO PERPETUATE SEGREGATION AT A SCHOOL IN THE TOWN WITH A NEGRO ENROLLMENT OF 94%. ON APPEAL, THE PERMISSIVE TRANSFER POLICY WAS APPROVED BY THE CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS AS A "MODERATE" BEGINNING.[21] AT PRESENT, THE ENROLLMENT AT LINCOLN SCHOOL, AS A RESULT OF THE OPTIONAL TRANSFERS OF 267 CHILDREN NOW CONSISTS OF 90% NEGROES.[22]

5. RECLASSIFYING SCHOOLS

PERHAPS THE MOST EFFECTIVE METHOD OF REDUCING OR EVEN OF ELIMINATING SEGREGATION IS THE SO-CALLED PRINCETON PLAN, NAMED FOR THE CITY IN NEW JERSEY IN WHICH IT WAS ACCOMPLISHED. UNDER THIS PLAN, WHERE THERE ARE TWO ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS, NOT TOO FAR APART, ONE BEING PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO AND THE OTHER PREDOMINANTLY WHITE, ONE SCHOOL IS CLASSIFIED AS A KINDERGARTEN TO FOURTH GRADE SCHOOL AND THE OTHER AS A FIFTH TO EIGHTH GRADE SCHOOL. THIS RESHUFFLING OF CLASSES MAKES FOR COMPLETE INTEGRATION.

20/ BD. OF EDUCATION PRESS RELEASE, JAN. 8, 1962.

21/ TAYLOR V. BD. OF EDUCATION OF NEW ROCHELLE, 191 F. SUPP. 181, AFF'D, 294 F. 2D 36 (1961), CERT. DENIED, 82 SUP. CT. 382 (1961).

22/ N.Y.TIMES, DEC. 12, 1961.

A VARIANT OF THIS PLAN WAS RECENTLY DEVELOPED IN MORRISTOWN, N.J. THERE A PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO SCHOOL IN THE CENTER OF TOWN WAS ABANDONED AND THE CHILDREN TRANSFERRED TO FOUR OTHER SCHOOLS IN THE CITY WITH PREDOMINANTLY WHITE ENROLLMENTS.[23] THE MORRISTOWN PLAN IS FEASIBLE, HOWEVER, ONLY WHEN THERE ARE "WHITE" SCHOOLS WITH EXCESS CAPACITY NOT TOO FAR FROM THE PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO SCHOOL.

WHERE THE PERCENTAGE OF NEGROES IN A SCHOOL SYSTEM IS HIGH, ALL OF THE MEASURES DESCRIBED ABOVE MAY BE INEFFECTIVE. IN NEW YORK CITY, IN 1960, THREE-QUARTERS OF THE CHILDREN IN THE PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS OF MANHATTAN WERE EITHER NEGRO OR PUERTO RICAN. IN THE CITY AS A WHOLE, 40% OF THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL POPULATION WERE FROM THESE ETHNIC GROUPS.[24] BY JANUARY 1962, THE CITY-WIDE PERCENTAGE HAD INCREASED TO 44.8.[25] IN 1957, THERE WERE 64 ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS IN WHICH THE NEGRO-PUERTO RICAN ENROLLMENT EXCEEDED 90%. BY JANUARY 1962, DESPITE NEW YORK CITY'S NEW PERMISSIVE TRANSFER POLICY, THE NUMBER OF SUCH SCHOOLS HAD INCREASED TO 102, CONSTITUTING 17.8% OF ALL THE CITY'S PUBLIC ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS,[26] AS A RESULT OF THE CONTINUED DROP IN WHITE ENROLLMENTS. THE SCHOOL SYSTEM HAS BEEN ABLE, HOWEVER, TO REDUCE THE NUMBER OF ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS IN WHICH THE "CONTINENTAL WHITE" POPULATION EXCEEDED 90% FROM 290 IN 1957 TO 215 IN JANUARY 1962.[27]

DESEGREGATION IS ONLY ONE PART OF A SCHOOL BOARD'S TASK. INDEED, WERE IT TO STOP AT DESEGREGATION, IT WOULD NOT PERFORM ITS CONSTITUTIONAL DUTY OF EQUALIZING EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL ITS PUPILS. NEGRO AND PUERTO RICAN CHIL-23/ NEW YORK TIMES, FEB. 21, 1962.

---

24/ NEW YORK CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION, TOWARDS GREATER OPPORTUNITY, A PROGRESS REPORT FROM THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS DEALING WITH IMPLEMENTATION OF RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE COMMISSION ON INTEGRATION, JUNE 1960, P. 6, HEREAFTER CALLED THE THEOBALD REPORT.

25/ JAN. 1962 REPORT OF THE CENTRAL ZONING UNIT OF THE NEW YORK CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION.

26/ IBID.

27/ IBID.

DREN, LIVING IN SLUMS, WITH LITTLE OR NO PARENTAL SUPERVISION, MOVING FREQUENTLY IN THE MIDDLE OF SCHOOL TERMS,[28] WITH POOR MOTIVATION AND LOW EDUCATIONAL ASPIRATIONS AND OCCASIONALLY SPEAKING ENGLISH POORLY,[29] WILL REQUIRE MORE THAN ATTENDANCE AT A THEORETICALLY INTEGRATED SCHOOL TO OVERCOME SUCH HANDICAPS. PHYSICAL FACILITIES, EXPENDITURES PER PUPIL, SIZE OF CLASSES, OVERCROWDING, CALIBER AND EXPERIENCE OF TEACHERS AND CURRICULUM MUST ALSO BE EQUALIZED.

A DELIBERATE PROVISION OF INFERIOR FACILITIES FOR MINORITY GROUP CHILDREN IS OBVIOUSLY A VIOLATION OF THE FOURTEENTH AMENDMENT EVEN WHERE THE SCHOOL BOARD IS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR SEGREGATION. BUT WHERE ONE GROUP IN A SCHOOL SYSTEM IS MARKEDLY HANDICAPPED IN COMPARISON WITH OTHERS, THE PROVISION OF EQUAL FACILITIES FOR EACH MAY BE INEQUITABLE. "EQUAL PROTECTION OF THE LAW," THE SUPREME COURT HAS TOLD US, "IS NOT ACHIEVED THROUGH INDISCRIMINATE IMPOSITION OF INEQUALITIES."[30] NEITHER IS IT ACHIEVED THROUGH THE MECHANICAL PROVISION OF EQUAL FACILITIES WHEN ONLY DISPROPORTIONS WILL REDRESS PRIOR INEQUALITIES AND CULTURAL DEPRIVATIONS. AS THE LOWER COURT STATED IN THE NEW ROCHELLE CASE: "THERE ARE INSTANCES WHERE IT IS NOT ONLY JUSTIFIED, BUT NECESSARY, TO PROVIDE FOR SUCH ALLEGEDLY 'UNEQUAL TREATMENT' IN ORDER TO ACHIEVE THE EQUALITY GUARANTEED BY THE CONSTITUTION." OR, AS THE NEW YORK CITY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS PUT IT IN EXPLAINING THE SPECIAL SERVICES REQUIRED BY "DIFFICULT" OR "SPECIAL SERVICE" SCHOOLS, "THE NATURE OF THE EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE OUGHT TO BE COW-

---

28/ IN AN ELEMENTARY SCHOOL IN MANHATTAN, THERE WERE 669 ADMISSIONS AND 456 DISCHARGES IN ONE SCHOOL YEAR OUT OF A TOTAL SCHOOL POPULATION OF 1550; IN A BROOKLYN JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL, 610 ADMISSIONS AND DISCHARGES IN A SCHOOL POPULATION OF 1335; IN A BRONX SCHOOL 1077 ADMISSIONS AND DISCHARGES IN A STUDENT BODY OF 1450. PUBLIC EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, HOW DIFFICULT ARE THE DIFFICULT SCHOOLS?, P. 13 (1959). SEE ALSO THEOBALD REPORT, P. 43.

29/ ABOUT 80,000 CHILDREN IN THE NEW YORK CITY PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM "DO NOT SPEAK THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, OR SPEAK IT WITH SUCH LITTLE COMPITENCE AS TO REQUIRE SPECIAL TRAINING IN THE USE OF THE ENGLISH TONGUE." STATEMENT BY MAX J. RUBIN, PRESIDENT OF THE NEW YORK CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION, PRESENTED TO THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE ON SCHOOL FINANCING, JAN. 19, 1962.

30/ SHELLEY V. KRAEMER, 334 U.S. 1, 22 (1948).

SISTENT WITH THE NEEDS OF THE CHILDREN.[31]

IT IS NOT SUFFICIENT TO ENSURE THAT THE SIZE OF CLASSES IN THE SEGREGATED INFERIOR SCHOOLS IS NO LARGER THAN IN OTHER SCHOOLS; THEY MUST BE SMALLER TO COMPENSATE FOR RACIAL AND ETHNIC HANDICAPS. SIMILARLY, A DISPROPORTIONATE NUMBER OF REMEDIAL READING AND ARITHMETIC TEACHERS, GUIDANCE COUNSELORS AND AUXILIARY PERSONNEL MUST BE DETAILED TO EDUCATIONALLY DEPRIVED CHILDREN. FINALLY, THERE MUST BE AN END TO THE PRACTICE UNDER WHICH THE WORST TEACHERS IN THE SYSTEM ARE ASSIGNED TO THE DIFFICULT SCHOOLS. EMPHASIS SHOULD BE ON THE NEEDS OF THE SCHOOLS RATHER THAN ON PREFERENCE OF TEACHERS AND PRINCIPALS.

THE FACILITIES OF PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO SCHOOLS ARE OFTEN FLAGRANTLY INFERIOR TO THOSE AVAILABLE AT PREDOMINANTLY WHITE SCHOOLS. USUALLY THIS INEQUALITY RESULTS FROM THE FACT THAT NEGRO RESIDENTIAL AREAS TEND TO COINCIDE WITH OLD BLIGHTED SLUM DISTRICTS IN WHICH ARE LOCATED THE OLDEST SCHOOL BUILDINGS OF A CITY CONTAINING OBSOLETE SCHOOL FACILITIES. BUT THE INDIFFERENCE OF SCHOOL BOARDS AND THE FAILURE TO ADOPT CORRECTIVE OR AMELIORATIVE MEASURES OFTEN COMPOUND THE DISCRIMINATION. THE CHICAGO URBAN LEAGUE CHARGED PUBLICLY IN FEBRUARY 1962[32] THAT A. THE AVERAGE AGE OF NEGRO PUBLIC SCHOOL BUILDINGS IN CHICAGO WAS 5 YEARS MORE THAN THAT OF "WHITE" SCHOOLS.

B. NEGRO SCHOOLS HAD STRIKINGLY FEWER LIBRARIES, LUNCHROOMS, HOME MECHANICS ROOMS AND OTHER NON-CLASSROOM FACILITIES.

C. OF 24,700 STUDENTS ON DOUBLE-SHIFT, 90% WERE NEGROES, ALTHOUGH THEY CONSTITUTE ONLY 43% OF THE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL POPULATION.

D. THE APPROPRIATION FOR EACH ELEMENTARY SCHOOL CHILD WAS 20% LESS IN NEGRO SCHOOLS THAN IN WHITE SCHOOLS.

THAT THE EDUCATIONAL LEVEL OF CHILDREN IN SEGREGATED SCHOOLS IS MARKEDLY BELOW THAT OF THEIR WHITE PEERS IS A MATTER OF COMMON KNOWLEDGE VERIFIED BY MANY 31/ THEOBALD REPORT, PP. 10-11.

32/ STATEMENT OF THE CHICAGO URBAN LEAGUE SUBMITTED TO THE ILLINOIS SCHOOL PROBLEMS COMMISSION, FEB. 1, 1962.

STUDIES. AN INVESTIGATION IN 1955 BY THE PUBLIC EDUCATION ASSOCIATION OF NEW YORK CITY AT THE REQUEST, AND WITH THE COOPERATION, OF THE NEW YORK CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION REVEALED THAT THE AVERAGE READING TEST SCORES OF NEGRO AND PUERTO RICAN EIGHTH GRADE CHILDREN IN THE CITY'S PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO AND PUERTO RICAN ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS WERE TWO YEARS AND FOUR MONTHS BELOW THOSE OF A SAMPLE OF EIGHTH GRADE CHILDREN IN PREDOMINANTLY WHITE SCHOOLS. THE COMPARABLE AVERAGE ARITHMETIC TEST SCORES SHOWED A DIFFERENTIAL OF TWO YEARS AND SEVEN MONTHS.[33/] IN 1962, THE PRESIDENT OF THE NEW YORK CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION ESTIMATED THAT 171,000 CHILDREN IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM WERE "RETARDED TWO OR MORE YEARS IN READING."[34/] SCHOOL SEGREGATION IN AND OF ITSELF IS OBVIOUSLY NOT THE ONLY FACTOR RESPONSIBLE FOR THIS EDUCATIONAL RETARDATION[35/] BUT THAT IT PLAYS AN IMPORTANT ROLE SEEMS CLEAR.

NEW YORK CITY IS BY NO MEANS ATYPICAL. A RECENT REPORT SUBMITTED TO THE NEW YORK STATE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION BY DR. MARK SCHINNERER, ITS SPECIAL CONSULTANT, DECLARED:

> A 1960 PUBLIC SCHOOL STUDY OF 14 OF THE LARGEST CITIES OF THE UNITED STATES, INCLUDING NEW YORK, FOUND THAT APPROXIMATELY 1 OUT OF 3 OF THE PUPILS WAS SEVERELY CULTURALLY DEPRIVED. THE ESTIMATE FOR 1950 WAS THAT THE NUMBER HAD BEEN 1 IN 10. IT WAS ESTIMATED, FURTHER, THAT THE NUMBER WOULD BE 1 IN 2 BY 1970 IF A MASSIVE AND EFFECTIVE EFFORT WERE NOT MADE TO HALT AND REVERSE THE TREND.

THERE ARE INCREASING INDICATIONS THAT NORTHERN SCHOOL BOARDS OTHER THAN THE NEW YORK CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION ARE BECOMING "COLOR-CONSCIOUS" AND BEGINNING TO ASSUME THEIR EDUCATIONAL RESPONSIBILITIES. IN SAN FRANCISCO, THE BOARD

33/ PUBLIC EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, THE STATUS OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL EDUCATION OF NEGRO AND PUERTO RICAN CHILDREN IN NEW YORK CITY, OCT. 1955, P. 24.

34/ STATEMENT OF MAX J. RUBIN, SUPRA NOTE 29.

35/ SEE DEUTSCH, MINORITY GROUP AND CLASS STATUS AS RELATED TO SOCIAL AND PERSONALITY FACTORS IN SCHOLASTIC ACHIEVEMENT, SOCIETY FOR APPLIED ANTHROPOLOGY, NEW YORK STATE SCHOOL OF INDUSTRIAL AND LABOR RELATIONS, CORNELL UNIVERSITY, 1960.

OF EDUCATION RECENTLY DIRECTED ITS SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT TO FIND OUT HOW MANY OF ITS PUBLIC SCHOOLS WERE DE FACTO SEGREGATED AND TO RECOMMEND A CORRECTIVE PROGRAM.[35A] IN DETROIT, A CITIZEN'S ADVISORY COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE LOCAL BOARD OF EDUCATION COMPLETED A TWO YEAR STUDY AND SUBMITTED A 450 PAGE REPORT CONTAINING 150 RECOMMENDATIONS TO COPE WITH WIDESPREAD SEGREGATION AND DISCRIMINATION.[36]

LAST MONTH, MANY LOCAL SCHOOL BOARDS IN NEW JERSEY BEGAN INDEPENDENTLY TO DEVELOP SOLUTIONS. IN MORRISTOWN, AS HAS BEEN NOTED (P. 8), A PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO SCHOOL IN THE HEART OF A BLACK GHETTO WAS ABANDONED AND ITS PUPILS TRANSFERRED TO FOUR OTHER NEIGHBORING SCHOOLS WITH PREDOMINANTLY WHITE ENROLLMENTS.[37] IN JERSEY CITY, N.J., THE LOCAL SCHOOL BOARD, CONCEDING THE EXISTENCE OF DE FACTO SEGREGATION IN SOME OF ITS SCHOOLS, APPOINTED A TEN-MEMBER COMMITTEE, COMPRISED OF FIVE EDUCATORS AND FIVE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE LOCAL NAACP "TO WORK OUT THE PROBLEM."[38] IN NEWARK, THE SCHOOL BOARD ADOPTED A PLAN, EFFECTIVE IN SEPTEMBER 1962, UNDER WHICH PUPILS IN PREDOMINANTLY NEGRO SCHOOLS WILL HAVE THE RIGHT TO TRANSFER TO SCHOOLS IN OTHER NEIGHBORHOODS WHICH HAVE ROOM FOR THEM. TRANSPORTATION WILL NOT BE FURNISHED, HOWEVER.[39] IN MONTCLAIR, A CITIZENS COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE SCHOOL BOARD RECOMMENDED A PUPIL REASSIGNMENT PLAN TO FURTHER INTEGRATION IN THREE JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS.[40] IN PLAINFIELD, THE LOCAL SCHOOL RECOGNIZING A RACIAL IMBALANCE IN ITS ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS HIRED FIVE EDUCATORS TO STUDY THE PROBLEM.[42]

IN STAMFORD, CONN., A CITIZENS ADVISORY GROUP APPOINTED BY THE LOCAL SCHOOL BOARD RECOMMENDED A REVISION OF SCHOOL DISTRICT LINES TO PREVENT A NEW HIGH SCHOOL FROM BECOMING ALL WHITE.[43]

35A/ SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER, JAN. 24, 1962.
36/ NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 11, 1962.
37/ NEW YORK TIMES, FEB. 21, 1962.
38/ NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 10, 1962.
39/ NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 17, 1962.
40/ NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 15, 1962.
41/ NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 13, 1962.
42/ NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 22, 1962.
43/ REPORT OF THE CITIZENS ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR THE DISTRICTING OF THE SENIOR HIGH SCHOOLS, NEW YORK TIMES, DEC. 14, 1962.

WHERE SCHOOL BOARDS HAVE IGNORED LOCAL PROTESTS AGAINST EDUCATIONAL SEGREGATION OR HAVE BEEN SLOW IN ACTING, LITIGATION HAS ENSUED. LAW SUITS, PRINCIPALLY IN THE FEDERAL COURTS, CHARGING ILLEGAL SEGREGATION IN AMITYVILLE, N.Y.,[44] IN CENTREVILLE, ILL.,[45] IN CHICAGO,[46] DETROIT,[47] ENGLEWOOD, N.J.,[48] HEMPSTEAD, N.Y.,[49] MANHASSET, N.Y.,[50] NEWARK, N.J.,[51] ORANGE, N.J.,[52] PASADENA, CALIF.,[53] AND PHILADELPHIA[54] ARE NOW PENDING.

THE EFFORT TO RAISE THE EDUCATIONAL LEVEL OF UNDER-PRIVILEGED NEGRO AND PUERTO RICAN CHILDREN REQUIRES VAST SUMS OF MONEY. IN NEW YORK CITY, THE BOARD OF EDUCATION SPENT ABOUT $300,000 IN A THREE-YEAR PERIOD IN ONE SCHOOL ALONE (J.H.S. 43) IN AN EDUCATIONAL EXPERIMENT WHICH DEMONSTRATED THAT EDUCATIONAL LEVELS OF SLUM CHILDREN COULD BE LIFTED SPECTACULARLY BY SATURATING THE SCHOOL WITH REMEDIAL TEACHERS, ATTENDANCE AND BEHAVIOR COUNSELORS, PSYCHOLOGISTS, SOCIAL WORKERS AND AUXILIARY PERSONNEL.[55] BUT AS THE NEW YORK CITY SUPERINTENDENT HAS POINTED OUT TO HIS COMMITTEE, THERE ARE 200 SCHOOLS IN NEW YORK ENROLLING ABOUT

44/ NEW YORK TIMES, MARCH 22, 1962.
45/ CHICAGO DEFENDER, OCTOBER 8, 1961.
46/ WEBB V. BD. OF EDUCATION, NO. C61, 1569, N.Y.TIMES, OCT. 1, 1961. A SECOND SUIT BY ANOTHER GROUP OF NEGRO PLAINTIFFS WAS FILED IN JANUARY 1962. N.Y.TIMES, MARCH 20, 1962.

47/ SHERILL SCHOOL PARENTS COMMITTEE V. BD. OF EDUCATION OF DETROIT, CIVIL ACTION NO. 22092 (E.D. MICH., 1962). DETROIT FREE PRESS, JAN. 23, 1962. AN EARLIER SUIT CHARGING SEGREGATION AT AN ALL-NEGRO SCHOOL WAS SETTLED IN FEDERAL COURT AFTER THE SCHOOL BOARD AGREED TO TRANSFER 42 WHITE STUDENTS TO THE SCHOOL. N.Y. TIMES, SEPT. 8, 1961.

48/ N.Y.TIMES, FEB. 6, 1962. THE SCHOOL BOARD IN APRIL 1961 HAD ENGAGED THREE PROFESSIONAL CONSULTANTS, INCLUDING DR. DAN DODSON, TO STUDY ITS ENROLLMENT PROBLEMS. THEIR REPORT IS DUE THIS MONTH.

49/ N.Y.TIMES, FEB. 21, 1962.
50/ N.Y.TIMES, MARCH 22, 1962.
51/ N.Y.TIMES, OCT. 3, 1961.
52/ N.Y.TIMES, MARCH 6, 1961.
53/ JACKSON V. PASADENA CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, SUPERIOR COURT OF CALIFORNIA COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES. N.Y.TIMES, MARCH 20, 1962. A DEMURRER TO THE COMPLAINT WAS SUSTAINED ON SEPT. 27, 1961 AND AN APPEAL TAKEN.
54/ CHISHOLM V. BD. OF EDUCATION, CIVIL ACTION FILE NO. 29706 (E.D. PA.), N.Y. TIMES, JUNE 8, 1961.
55/ THEOBALD REPORT, P. 84.

200,000 Negro and Puerto Rican children that need this intensive program and from 50 to 60 million dollars will therefore be needed if New York City is to provide such children with equal educational opportunity. The United States Commission on Civil Rights has accordingly concluded that the "per pupil cost of $200 a year places this program beyond the reach of most school systems."[56/]

Apparently recognizing that the program is too expensive even for New York, the school officials of that city have now launched a modified version of the J.H.S. 43 experiment, at a cost of only $50 per pupil per year.[57/] This "Higher Horizons Program" is now operating in 63 elementary and secondary schools in New York City involving about 40,000 children. Federal, state and municipal funds totaling about $1,500,000 are invested in the program. The Board of Regents which supervises public and private education in New York State has urged the extension of this program to every city in the state but the state legislature appropriated only $200,000 for this purpose.[58/]

The 1961 report of the United States Commission on Civil Rights describes no less than 16 experimental programs conducted all over the country to improve the educational opportunities of minority group children. But their expansion to entire school systems will require immense sums which are not available to school boards desperately trying to replace antiquated buildings, reduce class size and hire new teachers with inadequate budgets. There is only one place from which such vast sums can be obtained and that is the Federal Government. The harmful combined effects of slum neighborhoods and school segregation can only be overcome by huge expenditures.

Precedents for such Federal assistance already exist. For example, Con-

---

56/ United States Commission on Civil Rights, 1961 Report, Volume 2, "Education," p. 129.

57/ Id. at 131

58/ CTS Bulletin, Spring, 1961, published by the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students.

GRESS PROVIDED IN 1958 FOR A PROGRAM OF FEDERAL ASSISTANCE TO STATE PLANS FOR GUIDANCE, COUNSELING AND TESTING OF SECONDARY SCHOOL CHILDREN.[59/] UNDER THESE PROVISIONS, PAYMENTS ARE MADE TO THE VARIOUS STATES TO AID THEM IN PROGRAMS DESIGNED TO IDENTIFY STUDENTS WITH OUTSTANDING APTITUDE, TO ADVISE STUDENTS OF COURSES BEST SUITED TO THEIR ABILITY AND TO ENCOURAGE STUDENTS WITH OUTSTANDING ABILITY TO COMPLETE THEIR SECONDARY SCHOOL EDUCATION AND TO TAKE THE COURSES NECESSARY FOR ADMISSION TO COLLEGE. A SIMILAR PROGRAM OF ASSISTANCE SHOULD BE LAUNCHED TO OVERCOME THE EDUCATIONAL RETARDATION RESULTING FROM SEGREGATION AND SLUM CONDITIONS.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY HAS RECOGNIZED THE PROBLEM. THE ADMINISTRATION'S PROPOSALS FOR FEDERAL AID TO EDUCATION REQUIRED IN THE 1961 BILL THAT 10% OF ALL SUMS ALLOTTED TO ANY STATE SHOULD BE EARMARKED TO IMPROVE THE LEVEL OF INSTRUCTION FOR UNDERPRIVILEGED CHILDREN. (S. 1021, SEC. 109). THE 1962 BILLS GO FURTHER. H.R. 10145, INTRODUCED BY REPRESENTATIVE FRANK THOMPSON, JR., OF NEW JERSEY IS ENTITLED "IMPROVEMENT OF QUALITY OF TEACHING IN ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS." SEC. 201 (A) OF THAT BILL AUTHORIZES THE APPROPRIATION OF $50,000,000 A YEAR FOR FIVE YEARS IN THE FORM OF GRANTS TO STATES "TO IMPROVE THE QUALITY OF INSTRUCTION IN PUBLIC ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS." ONLY WHEN SUCH A BILL BECOMES LAW AND FEDERAL FUNDS BECOME AVAILABLE TO ASSIST MUNICIPAL SCHOOL BOARDS CAN THEY BEGIN TO EQUALIZE EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL THE CHILDREN ENTRUSTED TO THEIR CARE.

WILL MASLOW

MARCH 27, 1962

59/ 20 U.S.C., SECS. 481-484.

FORTUNE

March 1962

The City and the Negro

by Charles E. Silberman

Reprinted through the courtesy of the Editors of FORTUNE

© 1962 TIME INC.

The Negro Migration from South to North and from Country to City

One of the great population changes in modern history is depicted in the maps above, which show the Negro population of the U.S. by state and city of residence. Each dot represents 10,000 Negroes; major city concentrations are shown by clusters of dots. (A single dot is used in states like Nevada, which have fewer than 10,000 Negroes.)

As the maps reveal, Negroes are involved in two shifts: from South to North, and from country to city. Half a century ago, in 1910, eight out of ten U.S. Negroes resided in one or another of the eleven states of the Old Confederacy. Over 90 per cent of these Negroes, moreover, lived in rural areas. Negroes began moving to the North during World War I and continued to move during the 1920's, when restrictive legislation slowed down the flow of immigrants from southern and eastern Europe. By 1940 the Negro population in the Old Confederacy had increased only 12 per cent, whereas in the same period the Negro population elsewhere in the U.S. had more than doubled, from 1,900,000 to four million. But the Old Confederacy still contained more than two-thirds of all U.S. Negroes.

The Negro migrations got under way again during World War II, and have continued since then. Between 1940 and 1960 the Negro population outside the Old Confederacy increased two and one-quarter times, going from nearly four million to over nine million—48 per cent of the total U.S. Negro population. In the eleven states of the Old Confederacy, by contrast, Negro population grew a scant 9 per cent. Most of the increase outside the South occurred in the central cities of the twelve largest U.S. metropolitan areas—New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, San Francisco-Oakland, Boston, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Washington, Cleveland, Baltimore—which now hold 31 per cent of all U.S. Negroes. In the last decade, however, Negro migration has diffused somewhat from big to smaller cities, such as Buffalo, Rochester, Newark, New Haven, Fort Wayne, San Diego.

Within the Old Confederacy, meanwhile, Negro population was shifting from country to city. The number of Negroes declined in the rural areas, as the proportion living in cities jumped from 21 per cent in 1940 (and 7 per cent in 1910) to 41 per cent in 1960. The Negro population of Dallas and Houston, for example, went up two and a half times, and rose 75 per cent in Atlanta and Miami.

"The approved way to talk about cities these days," Paul Ylvisaker of the Ford Foundation has observed, "is to speak solemnly, sadly, ominously, and fearfully about their problems. You don't rate as an expert on the city unless you foresee its doom." Doom is easy to foresee in the spreading slums, the increasing crime rates, the public disaffection of almost every large city. And yet the city can survive, as it has survived for a century and a half. Indeed, American cities today have a chance to achieve their greatest success and their greatest glory.

For this to happen, however, city planners and civic leaders will have to understand better than they now do what their cities' greatest problem is. It is not, as so many assume, to bring the wandering middle class back from the suburbs. The large city, as Jane Jacobs of Architectural Forum has put it, cannot import a middle class; it must manufacture its own. And, indeed, most of the huge middle class that dominates American life today was manufactured in the big-city slums of yesteryear. Cities always have had to create their own stable, cultivated citizenry out of whatever raw material lay at hand. For the American city during the past hundred and fifty years, the raw material was the stream of immigrants pouring in from Britain, Ireland, Germany, Norway, Russia, Italy, and a dozen other lands. The city needed these immigrants to build its streets and offices, to man its factories, service its homes and hotels and restaurants,

The City and the Negro

by Charles E. Silberman

and do all the dirty and menial jobs that older residents disdained. But the city did more than use its newcomers; it equipped them to take their place as fully participating members of U.S. society. Doing this—bringing people from society's backwaters into the mainstream of American life—has always been the principal business, and the principal glory, of the American city.

It isn't any longer; the city is in trouble today because it isn't dealing successfully with its newcomers. They are still pouring in—not from County Cork, or Bavaria, or Sicily, or Galicia, but from Jackson, Mississippi, and Memphis, Tennessee, and a host of towns and hamlets with names like Sunflower, Rolling Fork, and Dyersburg. The new immigrants are distinguished from the older residents not by religion or national origin, but by color. Between 1950 and 1960 the twelve largest U.S. cities lost over two million white residents; they gained nearly two million Negro residents.

It is the explosive growth of their Negro populations, in fact, that constitutes the large cities' principal problem and concern. When city officials talk about spreading slums, they are talking in the main about physical deterioration of the areas inhabited by Negroes. And when they talk about juvenile delinquency, or the burden of welfare payments, or any of a long list of city problems, officials are talking principally about the problems of Negro adjustment to city life. For the large city is not absorbing and "urbanizing" its new Negro residents rapidly enough; its slums are no longer acting as the incubator of a new middle class.

One reason for this failure is that city planners have been more interested in upgrading the value of the city's real estate than in upgrading the lives of the human beings who inhabit the real estate. They have tried to create middle-class neighborhoods by driving lower-class Negro residents out of the neighborhood being renewed, and bringing white middle-class residents in; Negroes bitterly refer to urban renewal as "Negro removal." (An estimated 80 per cent of the families relocated by urban-renewal projects have been Negro.) The effort is doomed to failure. Driving the Negroes out of one area merely creates a new and frequently worse slum somewhere else in the city.

The city can be saved only if it faces up to the fact that "the urban problem" is in large measure a Negro problem. But the Negro problem is more than just an urban problem; it is also the problem of all the U.S., rural or urban, North or South—though it is in the large northern cities that the solution is most likely. Speeding the Negro's integration into American life—helping the big-city Negroes move up into the great American middle class—is the largest and most urgent piece of public business facing the U.S. today.

It is also the most difficult. There is a tendency among many well-intentioned Americans to underestimate this difficulty. Some people see the Negro problem as purely legal and social and assume that it will be solved automatically by desegregating schools, restaurants, bus terminals, and housing developments. Other people see it as purely economic, to be resolved by upgrading Negro jobs and incomes. And a good many Americans believe the problem would be solved if the Negroes would just decide to adopt white middle-class standards of behavior and white middle-class goals of economic success.

There are no cheap or easy answers to the Negro problem, however; it involves all these elements and a good many more besides. The problem's roots go back to slavery, whose impact is still being felt in the disorganization of the Negro family, and to the Negro's systematic exclusion from American society since slavery ended a century ago. These are sins for which all Americans are in some measure guilty and for which all Americans owe some act of atonement. Those who hesitate to act because of the magnitude of the problem should remember the stricture of Edmund Burke: "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

But the triumph of "good" in this instance (as in most others) requires a lot more than good will. To solve the Negro problem will demand difficult and occasionally heroic decisions on the part of civic and political leaders, and changes in the behavior of Americans in every walk of life: teachers and students; trade-union leaders and members; employers and employees. This article—the sixth in FORTUNE's series on "The Public Business"—will document what is being done across the country, and what needs to be done, to speed the Negro's advance and thereby save the large city.

Filling the vacuum

The Negro has come to the big city because it needed his labor, especially after the cutting off of European immigration created a vacuum in northern labor markets. The Negro population outside the Deep South has increased fivefold since 1910; it has nearly tripled just since 1940. (See maps, pages 2 and 3 .) Part of this expansion, of course, has come from natural increase rather than migration; but it is the migration of Negroes in the childbearing ages that enabled the natural increase to occur outside the South.

Most of the Negroes moving to the North have crowded into the slums of the twelve largest cities, which today hold 60 per cent of the Negroes living outside the Deep South. Since 1940 the Negro population of New York City has increased nearly two and one-half times, to 1,100,000, or 14 per cent of the city's population. In Philadelphia, Negroes have doubled in number since 1940, to 529,000, or 26 per cent. The Negro population of Detroit has more than tripled, to nearly 500,000, or 29 per cent of the city's population. And the Negro population of Los Angeles County has jumped a phenomenal sixfold since 1940, from 75,000 to 464,000.

The Negroes, to be sure, are not the only disadvantaged peoples coming into the large cities. In New York the Puerto Rican population swelled from perhaps 100,000 in 1940 to over 700,000 in 1960. And Cincinnati, Baltimore, St. Louis, Columbus, Detroit, and Chicago, among others, receive a steady stream of impoverished white hillbillies from the southern Appalachian Mountains. These Appalachian whites—of the oldest and purest U.S. stock—have at least as much initial difficulty adjusting to the city as do the Negroes and Puerto Ricans. But the Puerto Ricans and Appalachian whites affect only a limited number of cities, usually in only a limited way. There are a good many other city problems besides the Negro problem, in short. But the Negro problem is what city planners and officials are really talking about when they refer to The City Problem.

The crucial difference

Migration to the large city has always involved a heavy cost in family dislocation, pauperism, crime, delinquency, and urban blight. Immigrants bring with them housekeeping and other habits that clash with city standards; and the impersonality of city life tends to erode the social relationships that regulated behavior in "the old country." Hence the U.S. middle class has always had the sense of being engulfed by uncultivated newcomers, and has always been on the move. As early as the 1840's, for example, New York City's Fourth Ward—the district in which George Washington had lived when he was inaugurated President—had become a slum so overrun by violence that even the police dared not enter except in parties of six or more. And by the 1870's New Yorkers were already lamenting the exodus of men of "moderate income to the suburban towns." With its "middle classes in large part self-exiled, its laboring population being brutalized in the tenements, and its citizens of the highest class indifferent to the common weal," a journalist commented at the time, "New York has drifted from bad to worse and become the prey of professional thieves, ruffians, and political jugglers." Measured against the backdrop of history, therefore, the gangs and crime and squalor of today seem almost benign, and some historians'

The Changing Face of Chicago

Chicago has the second-largest Negro population of any city in the U.S.—813,000 at the 1960 census count, or three times as many as it had in 1940. Negroes now represent about 23 per cent of the city's total population. The pattern of change in Chicago typifies that of most northern cities which have had a large Negro influx. In 1940, when Chicago had only 277,700 Negroes (8 per cent of total population), the great bulk lived in a long, narrow ghetto south of the Loop, the city's central business district. There were very few Negroes (i.e., fewer than 5 per cent) in 814 of the city's 935 census tracts. The sixty-six tracts that were 80 per cent or more Negro contained 86 per cent of the city's total Negro population. Chicago has remained a highly segregated city, despite the enormous increase in Negro population. Census tracts with 80 per cent or more Negroes now contain 80 per cent of the city's Negro population (tracts with 40 to 80 per cent Negroes hold another 12 per cent), while tracts with fewer than 5 per cent Negroes hold 89 per cent of the city's white population. But now there are 152 tracts that are 80 to 100 per cent Negro, compared to sixty-six in 1940.

The growth in Negro residence has occurred largely by expanding the old Negro ghetto into the adjoining areas rather than by settling new areas. (See right-hand map.) The expansion of the Negro ghetto has produced some improvement in the quality of Negro housing, however; conditions that white middle-class people call "blight" to Negroes represent a great improvement in housing standards.

and sociologists have concluded that time and patience are almost all that's needed.

It will take more than that. The Negro is unlike the European immigrant in one crucial respect: he is colored. And that makes all the difference. The Irish, to be sure, faced job discrimination a century ago as severe as the Negro faces today. But the Irishman could lose his brogue; as soon as he was "Americanized," his problem was resolved. But the Negro cannot escape so easily. "All other slum dwellers, when the bank account permits it," James Baldwin has written, "can move out of the slum and vanish altogether from the eye of persecution." Not so the Negro.

There are other differences. The European peasant, no matter how depressed his position, had roots in a "whole society" with a stable culture and stable institutions and above all a stable family life. The Negro does not. Slavery made a stable family life (and a stable culture) impossible. Husbands could be sold away from wives, children from parents. Such family life as did exist centered almost entirely around the mother.

What slavery began, prejudice and discrimination have helped perpetuate. Family disorganization is endemic. Negro women frequently find it easier to get jobs—e.g., as domestics—than Negro men, thus making them the financial center of the family. The inability of Negro men to find jobs that confer status and dignity, together with the servility required of them in the South, have led Negro men to sexual promiscuity, drinking, and violence as means of asserting their masculinity. Embittered by their experience with men, Negro mothers seem to take more interest in their daughters' than in their sons' upbringing. Twice as many Negro girls as boys go to college. (Among white college students, the reverse is true.) And family disorganization is compounded by the overcrowding and dilapidation of Negro housing.

Hence the Negro, all too often, is trapped in a vicious circle from which he cannot extricate himself. Little in the Negro boy's environment is likely to give him any sense of aspiration or any direction; he has no male model to follow and little reason to assume that education offers a way out of the slum. His lack of education and aspiration, in turn, makes it virtually impossible for the Negro youth to find a job with dignity and status, even where discrimination is absent. All too often, therefore, he decides that there is no point to trying, and he loses the capacity to take advantage of such opportunities as do arise. In the jargon of the social worker, he "develops a self-defeating mode of living" that keeps him trapped in the slum forever.

To make matters worse, the gap is widening between Negro education and training, on the one hand, and the requirements of the labor market, on the other. The Europeans immigrated during periods of rapidly expanding U.S. demand for unskilled labor; no great transfer of skill was needed to enable an Irish or Italian peasant to find a job on a construction gang. But in the U.S. today, the demand for unskilled labor is shrinking relative to the total labor force. Since 1947, employment of white-collar workers—executives, entrepreneurs, professional and scientific employees, clerks, and salesmen—has gone up 43 per cent, compared to only a 14 per cent gain in blue-collar and service-worker employment. By 1970 a substantial majority of workers will be in white-collar or highly skilled blue-collar jobs—in jobs that characteristically require real training and thought. Three out of four nonfarm Negro male workers, however, are in unskilled or semiskilled occupations, compared to only one in three among white workers.

In this new world of specialized skills, Negroes have more and more trouble finding and holding jobs. The unemployment rate among Negro men is more than twice that among white men. In some cities as many as one Negro male in three is out of work. The problem is particularly acute among Negro youths; in one northern Negro slum area surveyed by Dr. James B. Conant, 70 per cent of the young men who had left school were out of work; in another the ratio was over 50 per cent.

The other side of Jordan

It would be a serious mistake to equate the Negro's apparent apathy and lack of motivation with a sense of contentment. It is a lot harder for today's Negro to bear his poverty and lack of status than it was for the European immigrant, who arrived at a time when the great majority of the population was poor. The Negro migration, by contrast, is occurring in an affluent society. Like the underdeveloped peoples everywhere, American Negroes have been fired by the revolution of rising expectations. In Harry Ashmore's phrase, Negroes have seen "the other side of Jordan"; they are in a hurry to cross. Among a good many Negroes, especially the college students involved in the sit-in movement, impatience with their rate of progress has conquered apathy and led to direct, disciplined, and frequently courageous action to improve the Negro position in American life. But among the great mass of working-class Negroes and a large part of the middle class, apathy exists side by side with a growing, festering resentment of their lot. These Negroes are more and more convinced that they should have a better life; they are less and less convinced that they themselves can do anything about it.

Impatience is greatest, perhaps, in the area of civil rights; the Supreme Court decision on school segregation raised expectations of a new era in race relations that has been painfully slow in coming. But Negroes are also impatient over their economic progress. During World War II and the early postwar boom, Negroes did make remarkable economic strides; the median income of urban Negro males shot up from less than 40 per cent of white income in 1939 to 60 per cent in 1952. Negroes have not been able to improve their relative position since 1952, however; the slowdown in the economy during the 1950's bore most heavily on the durable-goods industries, where many Negroes are employed. Thus the income of the average Negro male city dweller, which was 60 per cent of the average white income in 1952, had gone up only to 61 per cent by 1960. Outside the cities, average Negro income has actually declined since 1952.

As a result, impatience is turning into bitterness, anger, and hatred. The danger is not violence but something much deeper and harder to combat: a sense of permanent alienation from American society. Unless the Negro position improves very quickly, Negroes of whatever class may come to regard their separation from American society as permanent, and so consider themselves permanently outside the constraints and the allegiances of American society. The Negro district of every large city would come to constitute an American Casbah, with its own values and its own controls—and a deep hostility to the white community. In such a situation, communication between the races would become impossible. And life in the large city would become unbearable.

But the Negro advance depends on changes within the Negro community as well as within the white community. Understandably, Negroes have been reluctant to recognize this fact. They have assumed that an end to discriminatory practices will by itself solve the Negro problem. It will do nothing of the sort, although an end to discrimination certainly is a prerequisite to any solution. "If the color barrier could be eliminated overnight," Professor Eli Ginzberg of Columbia put the matter baldly in The Negro Potential, "that fact alone would not materially improve the position of the Negro."

The truth is that too many Negroes are unable—or unwilling—to compete in an integrated society. Because of the shortage of professional and technical personnel in industry and government, just about any qualified Negro can get a good job, but employers willing to hire Negroes have trouble finding Negroes to hire. Colleges and medical and professional schools eager to admit Negroes (and to give them scholarships) cannot find as many qualified Negroes as they are willing to admit; the National Scholarship and Service Fund for Negro Students reports that there are five times as many places available in northern colleges as there are Negroes to fill them. Nor have Negroes been taking advantage of the professional and business opportunities that the growth of the big-city Negro population has offered. The number of Negro physicians in the U.S. has been static for fifty years. As the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights sadly concluded, a principal reason for continued Negro poverty is "the lack of motivation on the part of many Negroes to improve their educational and occupational status."

The Negro community also lacks the sort of self-help institutions through which the European immigrants climbed out of their slums. Negroes, as Professor James Q. Wilson of Harvard put it in Negro Politics, are "the objects rather than the subjects of civic action. Things are often done for, or about, or to, or because of Negroes, but they are less frequently done by Negroes." There is no tradition of Negro philanthropy. Because the Negro has no indigenous culture to protect, the Negro community has not seen the same need to organize itself that European ethnic groups felt. The paucity of Negro self-help organizations may also be due to the tremendous growth of public assistance during the past quarter-century. The fact that help now comes from the city or state or federal government, sociologist Nathan Glazer suggests, has tended to channel "social energies" into the formulation of demands for new governmental programs rather than into the establishment and financing of voluntary organizations among Negroes.

The need for excellence

This institutional vacuum must be filled. For one thing, charitable and social-welfare programs organized, staffed, and supported by Negroes are likely to have a much greater impact on Negro behavior than programs administered by government or by private white agencies, both of which tend to be viewed with suspicion and hostility. Then, too, as Professor Ginzberg has been reminding Negro audiences, freedom is only the precondition for equality, not its equivalent. The more Negroes get what they want in terms of formal rights—voting, education, desegregation, etc.—the more responsibility they will have to assume for their own well-being.

This fact is now beginning to get its due. Perhaps the most important single factor making for solution of the Negro problem is the emergence of pride of race among Negroes. This new pride is the product of many factors: the Negro gains during World War II, the independence of the African nations, the courage and dignity shown by the sit-ins and Freedom Riders. Pride, to be sure, is always a two-edged sword; among the Black Muslims it leads to hatred of everything white and to threats of anti-white violence. But overall, the new sense of pride is serving to raise the level of Negro aspirations and behavior; even the Black Muslims stress the importance of work, sobriety, chastity, and self-discipline.

A growing number of Negro leaders and spokesmen, moreover—particularly at the national level—are encouraging Negroes to assume more responsibility for their own fate. "All the intellectual arguments and sociological explanations in the world," the distinguished Negro journalist, Carl Rowan, now Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs, has written, "do not meet fully the need to do something about the fact that people are being killed and maimed, street gangs are spreading terror in big cities, young girls are bearing an increasing number of illegitimate children, and dope and gin mills are flourishing in our urban centers." Negro leaders must recognize, Rowan argues—and in fact, they are beginning to recognize—"that it is not enough to blame every Negro misdeed on segregation, or to pretend that integration will be a cure-all for every social problem in sight."

Significantly, Rowan's view is shared by the man who has given the most dramatic leadership in the fight against segregation and who, more than any other leader, has captured the imagination of the Negro rank and file, the Reverend Martin Luther King Jr. "We have become so involved in trying to wipe out the institution of segregation, which certainly is a major cause of social problems among Negroes," Dr. King says, "that we have neglected to push programs to raise the moral and cultural climate in our Negro neighborhoods." Negroes, in Dr. King's view, must learn to strive for excellence in every field of endeavor—"not excellence as a Negro doctor or lawyer or a Negro craftsman, but excellence per se." He is urging his Southern Christian Leadership Conference to emphasize what he calls "the constructive program" of raising Negro standards as much as the program of "creative protest"—i.e., the sit-ins.

The National Urban League, moreover, is shifting its emphasis from opening up new job opportunities to preparing Negroes for the job opportunities that are opening up. "It's one thing to eliminate barriers," Dr. Whitney Young Jr., the league's dynamic new executive director, observes, "and quite another to get a previously depressed people to take advantage of the new opportunities." Dr. Young believes that Negro family life must be stabilized if Negroes are to be able to take advantage of these opportunities, and he's looking for funds to finance an ambitious new program in which the league would recruit a number of settled, well-adjusted middle-class Negro families to "adopt" a newly settled family and facilitate their adjustment to urban life.

"More powerful than apathy"

There is reason to think that Negroes, even those living in the worst sort of slum, can be mobilized to help themselves. In many ways the most impressive experiment affecting the Negro anywhere in the U.S. is going on now in Chicago's Woodlawn area, an oblong slum running south of the University of Chicago campus and containing about 100,000 people, almost all Negro. Woodlawn's physical decomposition is more than matched by its social disorganization. It is the principal port of entry for Negroes coming to Chicago from the South, and so has had a large transient population. It also contains a flourishing traffic in gambling, narcotics, and prostitution. Woodlawn, in short, is a social chaos of the sort that social workers have always assumed can never produce a large, active organization.

It's producing one now. The guiding genius is a highly controversial Chicago sociologist and criminologist, Dr. Saul D. Alinsky, executive director of the Industrial Areas Foundation. (No one else in the city of Chicago, as two Woodlawn ministers have written, "is as detested or as loved, as cursed or blessed, as feared or respected.") Alinsky was one of the principal architects of Chicago's much-admired Back of the Yards Neighborhood Council, which has turned a white slum area that had been the locale for Upton Sinclair's The Jungle into one of the most desirable working-class neighborhoods in Chicago. Alinsky was asked by three Protestant ministers and a Catholic priest to organize Woodlawn; the project is being financed by grants from the Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago, the Presbyterian Church, and a private philanthropy, the Schwartzhaupt Foundation.

If Alinsky succeeds, it will be the first time a large, broadly representative organization will have come into existence in any Negro district in any large American city. Alinsky is trying to create an organization that, as one local leader puts it, "will be the most powerful thing in Woodlawn—more powerful than the political party . . . more powerful than the apathy that holds the community in its grasp." He eschews the usual appeals to homeowners' interests in conserving property values or to a general neighborhood spirit or civic pride—appeals, in his view, that apply only to middle-class neighborhoods. Alinsky, instead, uses the classical approach of trade-union organization. He appeals to the self-interest of the local residents and to their resentment and distrust of the outside world, and he develops a local, indigenous leadership.

"They're paying attention"

The issue that is principally animating Woodlawn now is the University of Chicago's proposal to annex a strip a block wide and a mile long adjacent to the campus. The Negro residents have no particular attachment to the strip in question, but they suspect that its annexation will be the prelude to bulldozing a large part of the area for middle and upper-income apartment houses. There is ample basis for their fears; urban-renewal projects have been going on for some time under university sponsorship in the Hyde Park–Kenwood district north of the university, designed in good measure to clear Negroes out. To force the university and city-planning officials to bargain with the Woodlawn residents, Alinsky is mobilizing the residents into a group called the Temporary Woodlawn Organization; he had 8,000 Woodlawn people enrolled in the T.W.O. within six months of the project's inception. The T.W.O. organized an impressive campaign to get the usually apathetic Woodlawn residents registered and voting; during the registration period last August, a caravan of forty-six buses took some 2,300 members down to City Hall to register.

What makes the Woodlawn experiment significant, however, is not what it is doing for its members but what it is doing to them. "The most important thing to me about the forty-six busloads of people who went to City Hall to register," Alinsky says, "was their own reaction. Many were weeping; others were saying, 'They're paying attention to us.' 'They're recognizing that we're people.' " What is crucial, in short, is not what the Woodlawn residents win, but the fact that they are winning it. This fact seems to make the Woodlawn members see themselves in a new light, as people of substance and worth. While Alinsky's methods create a sense of militancy that could be misused, they create a sense of responsibility as well, and this is their most important product so far.

The twenty-point drop

The Negro problem is not just the responsibility of the Negro community, of course; its resolution requires drastically changed policies by a variety of governmental agencies. The social institution that touches the Negro problem most directly is the public school, which since the 1890's has been the principal means by which newcomers to the city, or their offspring, have been able to move out of the slums. The public school offers the greatest opportunity to dissolve the cultural barrier that blocks the Negro's advance into the mainstream of American life.

The opportunity is being muffed. Admittedly the problems encountered in the Negro (or for that matter, the white) slum school are enough to discourage the best-intentioned. Children entering school are ill-prepared, poorly motivated, and badly behaved; teachers must spend inordinate amounts of time maintaining order, and they are occasionally in danger of physical harm. Because families move from tenement to tenement with great frequency, pupil turnover is incredibly high—more than 100 per cent in some New York slum schools; the standard quip has it that if a teacher is absent a week, she won't recognize her class when she returns. Under these conditions one might reasonably expect that cities would spend more per Negro pupil than they do per white pupil. The reverse is generally true; the schools in Negro slum areas are the most overcrowded, are manned with the least-experienced teachers, and have the highest ratio of students to teachers.

The results are predictably poor. Coming from semiliterate or illiterate backgrounds, which not only offer no incentive to learn but rather frequently regard the school as a hostile force, many children never learn to read properly. Their inability to read at grade level in turn makes them fall behind in every other subject, even vocational courses; for example, shop students can't learn carpentry if they can't read blueprints or calculate fractions of an inch. The result is that their learning ability itself becomes atrophied; I.Q. typically drops twenty points as the Negro child progresses through school. By junior or senior high, it is almost impossible to reach him or teach him; three out of five Negro youngsters drop out of school before completion—uneducated, seemingly uneducable, and virtually unemployable. And yet these children can be educated; New York City and St. Louis, in particular, as we shall see, have demonstrated the fact beyond doubt.

The question first is, what kind of education can they—and should they—be given? Unfortunately, the current discussion is being shaped by Dr. James B. Conant's recent Slums and Suburbs, which has been accepted blandly and uncritically by almost everyone concerned with the problem, Negro or white. Dr. Conant has performed a great public service in calling attention to the dimensions of the problem and to the need for immediate action. But he has prescribed the worst possible remedy: a great expansion of vocational education for Negro youth.

If Conant's advice were followed, it would doom the Negro permanently to the bottom rung on the economic ladder. "A generation or two ago," as Professor Eli Ginzberg put it in The Negro Potential, "a man with negligible formal education could become a skilled worker. Today, participation in the industrial process requires of the worker not only basic literacy but a fairly high level of ability to deal with words and figures." The worker must be able to follow written instructions, to read the bulletin board, to keep various kinds of records, to master considerable technical knowledge. And he must be able to learn new skills, for nobody knows what job skills will be needed ten years from now.

What the Negro child needs, in short, is the same kind of education the white child needs and is beginning to get: an education that teaches him how to learn, that gives him the intellectual discipline and depth of understanding that will enable him to meet new conditions as they arise. But it will take more than a return to the three R's to give Negro children this kind of education. To penetrate the environmental and cultural curtain that keeps the Negro child from learning, the school must take on a whole range of functions that lie outside its normal sphere.

A success story

The most spectacular demonstration of what can be done to raise the aspirations and performance of Negro slum children is occurring in St. Louis, in the "Banneker group"—twenty-three elementary schools enrolling 16,000 children, 95 per cent of them Negroes living in the city's worst slum. Dr. Samuel Shepard Jr., the assistant superintendent in charge of the Banneker district, decided to take action four years ago, when the city's high schools instituted a three-track system of ability grouping. Only 7 per cent of the Banneker graduates were able to make the top ability track; nearly half were put in the bottom track. In three years Dr. Shepard has been able to triple the proportion of Banneker graduates admitted to the first track, from 7 per cent to 21 per cent, and to cut the number going into the bottom group to 21 per cent. Last June, in fact, Shepard's eighth-graders actually exceeded the national norm in reading; three years before the Banneker eighth-graders had been a full year behind.

The results largely reflect the impact of Shepard's powerful personality and dedicated leadership. He has changed teachers' and principals' attitudes toward their students from one of condescension to one of sympathy and challenge. More important, he has changed the Negro community's attitude toward the school. He keeps up a steady fire of meetings and of assemblies, field trips, pep talks, contests, and posters, designed to inculcate a respect for learning. For the children, he sets up a very competitive athletic-like atmosphere, in which the kudos goes to "the achievers." For the parents, Shepard uses an extremely blunt approach. He shows them by slides, charts, and film strips exactly how poorly their children are doing and warns them that unless the children do better in school they'll be no better off than their parents. He explains that things can be different for children, he shows in great detail the relation between education and employment, pointing to specific jobs now open to Negroes in St. Louis for which no qualified Negroes can be found. He also explains at length how the school operates at each grade, what the parents should demand of their children, and how they can help. And through all of this he emphasizes reading as the key to academic—and vocational—success.

Shepard has achieved these results without the use of extra resources; the greatest strength of his program is the fact that it depends on the ordinary classroom teacher. But remedial-reading teachers, guidance counselors, psychologists, and social workers can also be used to good effect, as New York City has shown with its Demonstration Guidance Project and its Higher Horizons program. In the first year of the Higher Horizons program the city was able to cut third-graders' retardation in reading from six months to only one month. Under grants from the Ford Foundation's Great Cities School Improvement Project, other cities are experimenting with a variety of techniques. Detroit and Philadelphia, for example, are employing "school-community agents" in slum schools to try to break down parental suspicion and hostility and persuade parents of the importance of education.

The programs now in operation, however, affect only a minute fraction of the children needing special help. What must be done is to put these programs into effect on a mass scale. To do so will cost money, of course. But the cities will get the money back—and a lot more besides—in lower relief costs, decreased juvenile delinquency and crime, and increased income for its residents—not to mention a radical improvement in the whole quality of city life. "A community which made its schools rather than its central business district the tender object and physical center of its urban-renewal operations," Paul Ylvisaker recently suggested, "would be taking one of the noblest and shrewdest steps forward in the civic progress of this century."

The underdeveloped country

The city, in short, must exercise "positive discrimination" in favor of the Negro if it is to enable the mass of Negroes to compete with whites on equal terms. The U.S. must learn to look upon the Negro community as if it were an underdeveloped country.

One thing that must be done—by industry and labor, as well as by government—is to develop long-range programs to educate workers who are already out of school, and whose lack of education makes them particularly vulnerable to technological unemployment. Armour's experience in trying to retrain workers made idle by automation has shown clearly that crash programs can provide only limited help. Of the 170 employees who applied for retraining when the company closed its Oklahoma City meat-packing plant, for example, 110 could not be given any training because they lacked the minimum skills in reading and mathematics. (See Labor, FORTUNE, July, 1961.)

There must also be a broadening of job opportunities for Negroes. There has been a significant reduction in job discrimination against Negroes in recent years, largely because of government prodding, but Negroes still find it very difficult to obtain jobs in the skilled trades, where union prejudice is a big stumbling block, and in clerical and sales jobs. It isn't enough for employers to make jobs formally available to Negroes; as a result of generations of discrimination, Negroes tend to assume that prejudice exists even where it has ended. A special effort must be made, therefore, to publicize the new job openings; Negroes must be brought within the web of job gossip through active recruitment.

Meanwhile, cities must try to alleviate some of the disorganization of Negro family and community life. The city has a vast panoply of services designed to prevent, relieve, and cure problems of individual and family behavior and circumstance. But each service deals separately with the individuals involved, sometimes in bureaucratic competition with the others. As often as not, the Negro—or the white slum dweller, for that matter—sees the bewildering array of police, school, and welfare agencies as enemies to be played off one against another.

It is possible to close the distance between the individual and government, and to coordinate the activities of the agencies affecting him. Wayne Thompson, the young city manager of Oakland, California, has pulled together seven public agencies representing four levels of government into something called the Associated Agencies. Fortnightly meetings of the A.A. workers in each section of the city are held to coordinate their work. In dealing with one school marked by frequent violence, for example, the school superintendent allowed the police to seal off the school area and then clean out the guns and knives in the school lockers. The school, police, recreation, probation, and welfare workers then culled a list of troublemakers, letting each agency take responsibility for the children it already knew, or upon whom it had some particular claim. Out of 2,800 pupils, only fifty-four turned out to be real troublemakers; when the whole job had been finished, only two had to be moved out of school and into detention. Since the Associated Agencies program started in late 1957, Oakland has been relatively free of trouble. The city recently received a $2-million grant from the Ford Foundation to extend the program.

New York City is trying to accomplish somewhat the same thing through its Neighborhood Conservation Projects. The coordination is not as complete, and the emphasis is fairly heavy on conservation of real estate rather than of human beings. But several projects have gone beyond physical rehabilitation—e.g., in the Bloomingdale district on Manhattan's West Side. The projects, in a sense, are designed to create a modern-day (but honest) counterpart to the old Tammany district leader, who served a very important function for the European immigrant, in effect locating him in the city and providing a channel to its government.

The housing dilemma

More must also be done about Negro housing. Despite a remarkable improvement in the condition of Negro housing since the end of World War II, nearly half of all the houses and apartments occupied by Negroes are still classified as "dilapidated" or "deteriorating" in the census rolls, compared to only 15 per cent of white homes. And Negroes live under far more crowded conditions. While good housing doesn't guarantee good behavior, bad housing does contribute to family disorganization and hence to delinquency.

The deterioration and overcrowding of Negro housing are due in good measure to the poverty of Negroes as a group. A study of the Philadelphia housing market by Chester Rapkin and William Grigsby of the University of Pennsylvania, for example, disclosed that only about 5 per cent of all Negro households had incomes sufficient to buy houses costing $12,000 or more—about the minimum price at which private builders were able to erect houses in that city. But discrimination as well as income robs the Negro of freedom of choice. Housing, as the U.S. Civil Rights Commission puts it, with only slight exaggeration, is "the one commodity in the American market which is not freely available on equal terms to everyone that can afford to pay."

Because economic and social factors bar Negroes from the market for new construction—and because Negro population is growing at an explosive rate in most large cities—Negroes are constantly looking for homes in the older, less expensive areas of the city. This pressure is as unsettling for the white community as it is for the Negro, for it leads to unstable and rapidly changing neighborhoods. To most white persons, as Eunice Grier of the Washington Center for Metropolitan Studies puts it, "there is no such thing . . . as a stable and permanent integrated neighborhood." Hence, when Negro demand appears in a neighborhood, the community either resists Negro entry—sometimes with violence—or it abandons the neighborhood completely. The latter usually occurs in any case. As Negroes start moving in, the whites start moving out—some because of prejudice, others because they fear that if they remain they will rapidly become a minority. Integration, as Saul Alinsky sardonically observes, "is usually a term to describe the period of time that elapses between the appearance of the first Negro and the exit of the last white."

There is considerable evidence to suggest that whites will live in integrated neighborhoods if they have some assurance that they will not be swamped. For that reason a number of housing experts now advocate the use of "benign quotas" as the best—or only—means of solving the Negro housing problem. New York City's Housing Authority, for example, is using a quota system to try to integrate its low and middle-income housing projects, with fair success.

But the benign quota is no panacea and will work only where there is some authority able to decide how many Negroes will be admitted, and to determine which Negroes will be admitted. The authority must be powerful enough to enforce compliance after the quota has been filled. Enforcing a quota, moreover, frequently involves a painful conflict between two laudable objectives—housing integration and an increased supply of housing for Negroes. In order to maintain the desired racial balance, a housing authority frequently has to turn down qualified Negroes in desperate need of housing in favor of whites whose need is far less acute.

It's doubtful, in short, whether any simple, dramatic approach can solve the Negro housing problem. So long as the great majority of Negroes have slum incomes, they are going to live in slums. In the long run, therefore, the only way to solve the problem of Negro housing is to solve the problem of Negro people—to raise the economic and social level of the Negro community.

The cost of delay

A new pride in self that is developing among Negroes is a powerful lever to raise Negro aspirations and achievements. The Negro's growing political activity is a powerful lever to force cities to face up to the problem; the Negro vote was decisive in last fall's mayoralty elections in Atlanta, Detroit, and New York.

And the U.S. economy itself should facilitate the Negro's advance during the 1960's. In a rapidly expanding economy employers will have to end job discrimination and upgrade unskilled and semiskilled Negro workers if they are to produce all their markets will demand. The training programs developed during World War II show what industry can do when the stakes are high enough. And with a shortage of skilled labor likely, unions will have far less incentive to restrict entry into the skilled occupations.

These trends will make solution of the Negro problem less difficult; but they will not solve it. If the Negroes are to take their proper place in U.S. society, millions of hard decisions will have to be taken by people of both races. And the longer the U.S. delays those decisions, the more painful this most urgent piece of public business will become. END

THE NEW YORK TIMES,

BIG CITIES GETTING MORE NON-WHITES

Those of Vote Age Make Up 17.6% in Top 25

By WILL LISSNER

Non-whites now account for 17.6 per cent of the voting-age population in the twenty-five largest cities, the Census Bureau has found.

In the 1960 census the bureau classified as non-whites Negroes, Indians, Orientals and 10 per cent of Puerto Ricans.

The classification is mainly Negro, however, as it contains only a relatively few members of the other races. Of the 18,871,831 Negroes in the United States, 6,025,193 live in the twenty-five largest cities and make up 19.7 per cent of the total population in those cities.

In only two of the five largest cities, the non-white, voting-age groups total less than 20 per cent of the population.

13.2% in New York

In New York this group constitutes 13.2 per cent of the total of citizen residents in the 21-and-over bracket. The Los Angeles figure is 15.4 per cent.

Of citizens qualified by age to vote in Chicago, 20.2 per cent are non-white. In Philadelphia the figure is 23.9 per cent and in Detroit 25.7 per cent.

In Baltimore, the sixth largest city, potential voters among non-whites amount to 30.5 per cent of the total.

Only seven of the largest cities have non-white, voting-age populations below 10 per cent.

Non-whites among citizens qualified by age to vote make up 15 per cent or more in sixteen of the largest cities, and 20 per cent or more in ten.

The Census Bureau's tabulation follows:

	Non-whites of Voting Age	P.C. of Total
New York	706,861	13.2
Chicago	471,290	20.2
Los Angeles	252,700	15.4
Philadelphia	313,551	23.9
Detroit	273,725	25.7
Baltimore	179,742	30.5
Houston	119,850	21.7
Cleveland	145,123	26.0
St. Louis	120,970	24.7
Milwaukee	32,401	6.9
San Francisco	80,702	15.2
Boston	39,823	8.6
Dallas	72,178	17.3
New Orleans	125,752	32.8
Pittsburgh	60,467	15.3
San Antonio	25,004	7.7
San Diego	23,950	7.0
Seattle	27,205	7.4
Buffalo	40,542	11.7
Cincinnati	63,544	19.8
Memphis	99,242	33.7
Denver	19,894	6.4
Atlanta*	113,813	34.5
Minneapolis	8,495	2.7
Indianapolis	56,472	19.0
Total, 25 cities	3,473,496	17.6
United States	10,975,332	10.1

*Voting age in Atlanta is 18, not 21 as in all other cities listed.

These figures indicate that the minority groups, and candidates from among them, will play a greater role in politics in the next few decades.

Moreover, the percentages may be expected to grow significantly in the next decade. Americans have been moving from the country to metropolitan areas. This is a world-wide movement. Negroes, who account for most non-whites, have been moving to the central cities.

Migration among Negroes in the South has accelerated. Of those who have remained in the region, many have moved from the country to the big city.

Hundreds of thousands of Negroes have moved from the South to Northeast, North Central and Western regions. Most of these are from the cities, but many are from rural areas of the South.

During the last decade the South lost 1,457,000 non-white residents by migration to the three northern regions. This is a net figure; additional losses were offset by a movement of non-whites into the region.

Should the South fail to attract non-white migrants, its losses will rise sharply, for the out-migration has accelerated in recent years.

The South's net losses show [illegible] net gains to the three regions in the Census Bureau's [illegible] Northeast had a gain of 541,000 non-whites, and [illegible] North Central region 558,000.

The West, which had a negligible non-white population up to the turn of the century, gained 332,000.

These movements have raised the spectre of declining populations for some Southern states, a situation that may seriously handicap their efforts to develop industrially.

The loss of non-whites by migration offset the natural increase in the non-white population in two states, Mississippi and Arkansas. As a result, Mississippi's non-white population declined by 70,000, that of Arkansas by 37,000.

The excess of non-white births over deaths was substantially offset by a loss by migration in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

Florida gained 182,000 non-whites by natural increase, 101,000 by migration.

APR 15 1962

Census Shows 612,574 Puerto Ricans in City

Rise to 7.9% of Population Is Less Than Was Expected—Move to Suburbs Noted

By PETER KIHSS

The city's Puerto Ricans numbered 612,574 in the 1960 census, it was announced yesterday. This indicated a population of 650,000 here now, far below earlier estimates.

The Puerto Rican Government's Migration Division had estimated the population at 720,000 as of Dec., 31, 1960.

Community leaders interpreted the census figures as showing that Puerto Ricans had fanned away from the city more than had been realized.

Census data analyzed and made public by Miss Florence E. Cuttrell of the Community Council of Greater New York showed that 7.9 per cent of the city's people in 1960 were either born in Puerto Rico or were of Puerto Rican parentage. This compared with 3.1 per cent in 1950.

The median family income—that is, half had more and half had less—was $3,811 in 1959, according to the new data. This compared with $6,091 for all the city's families.

The median age for Puerto Rican residents was 21.9 years, making them a far younger group than the median 35.1 years reported for all New Yorkers. The median education level was 7.6 years in school. There were 140,389 families.

Estimates Off

The City Planning Department last September estimated the Puerto Rican residents as of the April 1, 1960, census date at 677,000 out of a total city population of 7,781,984.

The earlier estimates started with the 1950 census report showing 246,306 Puerto Ricans here. Natural increase—births over deaths—was then added, along with estimates as to how many Puerto Rican migrants to the mainland stayed in the city.

Joseph Monserrat, chief of the Migration Division, said yesterday its estimate had included third-generation youngsters. The Puerto Rican Government, he said, keeps airport records of the initial migration movement, and has found the proportion bound for New York dropped from 95 per cent in 1948 to 80 per cent in 1951 and to less than 60 per cent now. Last year, 1,670 more persons went to Puerto Rico from the mainland than came north.

Puerto Ricans, Mr. Monserrat said, have been "a very mobile group." Movement into New Jersey and other suburbs, he said, had been "big." Another factor, he said, was that middle-class Puerto Ricans were moving out of the city.

Social Gain Seen

The census date showed that Manhattan's share of the Puerto Rican population was going down compared with other boroughs and that incomes of Puerto Ricans in other boroughs were higher. Mr. Monserrat regarded this as an indication that Puerto Ricans were "doing within one generation, one decade, what it took other migrations generations to do in terms of dispersal, income, buying of private homes."

While New Jersey data on Puerto Ricans are still unavailable, Miss Cuttrell said the 1960 census reported 629,430 Puerto Ricans in the city, Westchester, Rocklnad, Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

The Census Bureau provided its figures to Miss Cuttrell as the city's "census tract key person," representing the committee on Federal censuses for the city for the New York Area Chapter of the American Statistical Association. She is chief of the Community Council's bureau of statistical services.

The data, based on a 25 per cent sampling of places of birth, showed a rise of 366,268 Puerto Ricans here, or 149 per cent, above the 246,306 reported in 1950. Whereas 56 per cent of the city's Puerto Ricans lived in Manhattan in 1950, this proportion went down to 36.8 per cent in 1960.

Dispersal Noted

In Manhattan, Puerto Ricans made up 13.3 per cent of all residents; in the Bronx, 13.1; Brooklyn, 6.9; Queens, less than 1 per cent; Richmond, 1.1.

Median family incomes for Puerto Ricans ran highest in Queens, with $5,756 in 1959 as against $7,176 for all Queens families. For other boroughs, the comparison for Puerto Ricans as against others was as follows: Richmond, $5,136, against $6,836; Bronx, $4,108, against $5,830; Brooklyn, $3,868, against $5,816; Manhattan, $3,459, against $5,338.

There was no comparable family income figure for 1950, Miss Cuttrell said, but the census then reported individual incomes of $1,647 for Puerto Ricans 14 years old or older.

Second - generation Puerto Ricans made up 30 per cent of the total in 1960. The new data indicated 95.7 per cent of Puerto Ricans here were white, based on their statements to enumerators.

Puerto Rican Population in City

The following table shows the population of persons of Puerto Rican birth or parentage for New York City, by borough, as of 1960:

	All Classes	White	Non-White	Born in Puerto Rico	Puerto Rican Parentage	Per Cent of Total	Per Cent Increase Over 1950
Bronx	186,885	180,955	5,930	130,184	56,701	30.5	201.8
Brooklyn	180,114	174,547	5,567	126,223	53,891	29.4	346.9
Manhattan	225,639	213,233	12,406	161,371	64,268	36.8	62.9
Queens	17,432	16,570	862	10,508	6,924	2.9	260.5
Richmond	2,504	2,398	106	1,424	1,080	0.4	238.4
The city	612,574	587,703	24,871	429,710	182,864	100.0	148.7

SOURCE: U. S. Bureau of the Census. Census of Population, 1960. From unpublished data by census tracts, Tables P1 and P5.

N.Y. Times Apr. 20, 1962

NON-WHITE MIGRATION IN THE U. S.

THE MOVEMENT FROM 1950 TO 1960

LOSSES IN NON-WHITE POPULATION

	minus		minus		minus
Ala.	224,000	La.	92,000	S.C.	218,000
Alaska	1,000	Miss.	323,000	S.D.	5,000
Ariz.	10,000	Mont.	2,000	Tenn.	57,000
Ark.	150,000	N.M.	1,000	Tex.	27,000
Ga.	204,000	N.C.	207,000	Va.	70,000
Hawaii	52,000	N.D.	2,000	W. Va.	40,000
Ky.	15,000	Okla.	26,000	Wyo.	1,000

GAINS IN NON-WHITE POPULATION

	plus		plus		plus
Calif.	354,000	Kan.	5,000	N.J.	112,000
Colo.	15,000	Me.	2,000	N.Y.	282,000
Conn.	39,000	Md.	36,000	Ohio	133,000
Del.	6,000	Mass.	25,000	Ore.	6,000
D.C.	54,000	Mich.	127,000	Pa.	77,000
Fla.	101,000	Minn.	4,000	R.I.	2,000
Idaho	1,000	Mo.	28,000	Utah	1,000
Ill.	189,000	Neb.	4,000	Vt.	500
Ind.	45,000	Nev.	6,000	Wash.	18,000
Iowa	3,000	N.H.	1,000	Wis.	29,000

Payne in The Charlotte Observer

". . . and you can sit in the front all the way."

THE NEGRO MIGRATION

Although White Supremacists Now Abet It, the Flow North Has Been Going On for Many Years

By CLAUDE SITTON

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, April 28—A New Orleans Citizens Council leader this week proposed free transportation aboard a "freedom train north" for Negroes desirous of leaving the South and segregation. He may have bargained for more than that white supremacist organization can handle.

Estimates by the Bureau of the Census indicate that during the 1950-60 decade approximately 1,457,000 Negroes left the region without help from the councils. If migration has continued at least at that rate—the evidence is that it has increased—about 400 depart every day.

To provide transportation for them, the councils would have to charter a daily, eight-coach "freedom train." If the trains originated in New Orleans and ended the run in New York, the daily cost (including tax) would be a staggering $19,232. There would be no discount. A Southern Railway System official here said the fare was $43.71 plus $4.37 tax for one passenger or 400.

Bizarre Proposal

The New Orleans Council leader's bizarre proposal calls attention to a problem that many observers consider neither humorous nor lacking in significance. This is the depletion of a white and Negro labor pool that the South may need in the future if it is to achieve the continuous industrial growth for which it thirsts.

Census statistics show that thirteen Southern states experienced a drop in Negro population during 1950-60. The states are Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Arkansas, Louisiana, Virginia, Tennessee, West Virginia, Texas, Oklahoma and Kentucky.

All but Louisiana, Virginia and Texas lost whites as well. The total outmigration for this race during the decade was 1,592,000, according to the Census Bureau. A fraction of this number went to Florida, the only Southern state showing a gain in both racial categories. But because of such special factors as the influx of persons from the North and Midwest into Florida, demographers do not consider it typical of the South.

Although more whites than Negroes are leaving, the outmigration rate of the latter is much higher because they represent a smaller fraction of the over-all population.

exodus of non-whites from the South (with the exception of Florida) represents a movement in search for social and political as well as economic opportunity. It cannot be explained by economic variables."

Southern leaders have deplored the loss of whites to other regions. But the departure of Negroes has been welcomed in some quarters. The wisdom of this attitude has been questioned by Dr. William H. Nicholls, professor of economics at Vanderbilt University.

In his book "Southern Tra-

Rosen in The Albany Times-Union

"Travel agents."

dition and Regional Progress," Dr. Nicholls says that because of the racial problem, "this heavy race selectivity of outmigration is by no means a wholly unfavorable factor. But it is probable that within the next generation some of the states of the Deep South are going to realize that they have taken too cavalier an attitude toward their loss of Negro population."

He and other students of the problem contend that the region must hold and train at least some of the migrating Negroes. Otherwise, it will face a labor shortage.

Lack of Jobs

That point has not yet been reached by any means. The South at present is, in effect, exporting its unemployment. Although it lacks technicians in many fields, there are not enough jobs in the semi-skilled and unskilled brackets. A downward trend has been noted in the textile industry, the largest single manufacturing employer.

However, if the region succeeds in its present campaign for new plants and expansions, the labor surplus will soon be absorbed. This likely would shut off most white migration automatically. But Negroes, particuarly those leaving primarily because of the racial problem, might continue to move out in large numbers.

A number of whites already have spoken out publicly against the Citizens Council proposal. Most have based their objections on humanitarian grounds. But it is conceivable that in the foreseeable future Southern leaders will conclude that even the unassisted migration of Negroes must be discouraged.

Although more whites than Negroes are leaving, the outmigration rate of the latter is much higher because they represent a smaller fraction of the over-all population.

Continued Loss

Projections based on current trends point to a continuation of this loss of human wealth. However, Dr. James M. Henderson, professor of economics at the University of Minnesota, has found in a study of the problem that the over-all outmigration rate very probably will decline.

The selective nature of this population shift increases its harmful effects. Surveys have shown that the migrants fall within the most productive age brackets and also tend to be more highly skilled and intelligent.

The mass movement out of the region began long before the Citizens Council came into existence. It is largely a result of farm depressions and the South's change from an agricultural to an industrial economy.

Between 1900 and 1920, the boll weevil's depredations drove thousands of workers off the cotton farms. Other workers were attracted to the cities by the expanded need for industrial labor. The agricultural depression of the late Nineteen Twenties and early Nineteen Thirties further reduced the farm population.

Fallow Lands

Today, submarginal farmlands that once provided a meager subsistence for the sharecropper lie fallow or have been converted to pasture or tree crops. Empty cabins and sometimes only a gaunt chimney of field stone mark the 'cropper's passing. On the more fertile land, farming has become an industry. The tractor has replaced the mule. Mechanization and other technological advances have cut the need for farm labor again and again.

The surplus workers have flocked to the burgeoning cities of the region. They have been joined by laborers displaced by more localized economic changes such as the mechanization of coal mining in the southern Appalachians. Some have followed the lure of higher wages and more plentiful jobs into the urban areas of the North, the Midwest and the West. This has been particularly true of Negroes.

In a report discussing Southern developments during the 1950-60 decade, Dr. Henderson notes that 67.6 per cent of the whites leaving the rural South settled in cities within the region. Only 7.5 per cent of the non-whites did so. Some authorities believe the primary reason is the greater difficulty encountered by Negroes in obtaining employment in Southern cities.

However, Dr. Henderson cites two other factors: "the mass

Atlanta

Central City.

	1950	1960	% change
tot. pop	331,314	487,455	+47.1%
n-w	131,161	186,395	+42%
white	200,153	301,060	+50.4%

Urban Ring

	1950	1960	% change
tot. pop.	340,483	529,733	+26.2%
n-w	34,673	45,524	+31.3%
white	305,810	484,209	+58.5%

Atlanta SMSA

	1950	1960
Total Pop.	671,797	1,017,188
% W	75.3	77.2
W	505,963	785,269
% NW	24.7	22.8
NW	165,834	231,919

Atlanta (Urban Place)

	1950	1960
Total Pop	331,314	487,455
% white	63.4 %	61.7 %
Nr. white	200,153	301,060
% NW	36.6 %	38.3 %
Nr. NW	131,161	186,395

Birmingham

Central City

	1950	1960	% change
tot. pop	326,037	340,887	+4.6 %
n-w	130,089	135,332	+4 %
white	195,948	205,555	+4.9 %

Urban Ring

	1950	1960	% change
tot. pop	232,891	293977	+26.2 %
n-w	78391	84331	+7.6 %
white	154500	209646	+35.7 %

Birmingham

SMSA

	1950	1960
Tot Pop	558928	634864
NW	208480	219,663
% NW	37.3	34.6
W	350448	415,201
% W	62.7	65.4

Urban Place

	1950	1960
Total Pop	326037	340887
NW	130089	135,332
% NW	39.9	39.7
W	195948	205,555
% NW	60.1	60.3

Dallas

Urban Ring

	1950	1960	% change
T. Pop.	180237	483917	+124%
NW	26264	27027	+2.9%
WH	154023	374890	+143.3%

Central City

	1950	1960	% change
T. Pop	434462	679684	56.4
NW	57349	131179	128%
WH	377113	548505	+45.4

	SMSA	Dallas
	1950	1960
Total Pop	614,799	1,083,601
NW	83,613	158,206
% NW	13.6	14.6
W	531,186	923,395
% W	86.4	85.4

	Dallas	Urban Places
	1950	1960
Total Pop	434,462	679,684
NW	57,349	131,179
% NW	13.2	19.3
W	377,113	548,505
% W	86.8	80.7

LMBA

1950

Total Pop. # NW % NW # W % W

D.

H.

Houston
Urban Ring

	1950	1960	% Change
T. Pop.	200538	304939	+52.1%
N.W	25063	32208	+28.6%
W	185485	272761	+47.0%

Central City

	1950	1960	% Change
Tot Pop.	596163	938219	+57.4%
N.W	125790	217667	+72.0%
W	470363	720522	+53.1%

Houston

Urban Places

	1950	1960
Tot Pop	596163	938219
NW	125,790	217,667
% NW	21.1	23.2
W	470,363	720522
% W	78.9	76.8

In a conference held at Raleigh at Shaw University

~~Sec~~ ~~today~~
~~a new organization~~ they

200 people met & formed ~~the~~ SNCC.

~~Oh Freedom Song we'll never~~ ~~Christ the~~ ~~Through all the meetings!~~

~~Oh Freedom Oh Freedom~~ - we'll never ~~Christ the~~ ~~& thy meetings~~ full of love & interracial harmony

Meeting followed after meeting in endless -

Houston SMSA

	1950	1960
Tot. Pop.	806 701	1243158
NW	150,853	249,875
% NW	18.7	20.1
W	655,848	993,283
% W	81.3	79.9

Memphis

	1950	1960
Central City
change	25.6% increase
urban ring	86,392	129,495
change	49.9% increase
nw pop in Central City	147,312	184,581
change	32.1% increase
nw pop in urban ring	~~[illegible]~~ 23,103	43,654
change	89% increase
white pop in Central City	248,688	312,943
change	25.8% increase
white pop in urban ring	~~[illegible]~~ ~~[illegible]~~ 63,290	85,841
change	35.6% increase

Memphis (urban Place)

	1950	1960
total pop	396,000	497,524
% white	62.8%	62.9%
number white	248,688	312,943
% nonwhite	37.2%	37.1%
number nonwhite	147,312	184,581

Memphis (SMSA)

	1950	1960
total pop	482,392	627,019
% white	62.6%	63.6%
number white	311,978	398,784
% nonwhite	37.4%	36.4%
number nonwhite	170,415	228,235

Nashville

Central City

	1950	1960	% change
tot. pop.	174,307	170,874	-2.0%
n-w	55,732	64,761	+16.2%
white	118,585	106,113	-10.5%

Urban Ring

	1950	1960	% change
tot. pop.	147,451	228,869	+55.1%
n-w	8,620	11,990	+39.1%
white	138,821	216,879	+56.2%

Nashville (SMSA)

	1950	1960
total pop	321,758	399,743
% white	80%	80.8%
number white	257,406	322,992
% nonwhite	20%	19.2%
number nonwhite	64,352	76751

Nashville (urban place)

	1950	1960
total pop	174,307	170,874
% white	68.6%	62.1%
number white	118,585	106,113
% non white	31.4%	37.9%
number nonwhite	55,732	64,761.

Richmond

Urban Ring

	1950	1960	% Change
Tot Pop	99740	188536	+90.8%
Non-Wh	14253	13460	-5.9%
White	83487	175266	+109.7%

Central City

	1950	1960	% change
Total Pop	230310	219958	-4.5%
Non-Wh	73008	94382	29.3%
White	157302	125576	-25.3%

Richmond

SMSA

	1950	1960
Tot. Pop	328050	408494
NW	87261	107842
% NW	26.6	26.4
W	240789	300842
% W	73.4	73.6

Urban Places

	1950	1960
Total Pop	230310	219958
NW	73008	94382
% NW	31.7	42.0
W	157302	125576
% W	63.3	58.0

New Orleans

Central City

	1950	1960	% change
tot. pop	570,445	627,525	+10%
n-w	192,542	234,694	+21.8%
white	377,903	392,831	+.4%

is this a decimal point?

Urban Ring

	1950	1960	% change
tot. pop	114,960	240955	+109.6%
n. white	8,282	14,535	+76.7%
white	106678	206,440	+93.5%

New Orleans SMSA

	1950	1960
total pop	685,405	868,480
% white	70.7%	69%
number white	484,581	599,271
% nonwhite	29.3%	31%
number nonwhite	200,824	269,229

New Orleans (urban place)

1950		1960
total pop	570,445	627,525
% white	68%	62.6%
number white	377,903	392,831
% non-white	32%	37.4%
number nonwhite	192,542	234,694

City	% change in central city (1950-60)			% change in urban surr (1950-1960)
	Total pop	NW	White	Total pop.	NW	White
Atlanta	+47.1%	+42%	+50.4%	+26.2%	+31.3%	+58.5%
Birmingham	+4.6%	+4%	+4.9%	+26.2%	+7.6%	+25.7%
Dallas	+56.4%	+128%	+45%	+124%	+2.9%	+143.3%
Houston	+57.4%	+73.0%	+53.1%	+52.1%	+28.6%	+47.0%
Memphis	+25.6%	+32.1% [redacted]	+25.8%	+49.9% [redacted]	+89%	+35.6%
Nashville	-2.0%	+16.2%	-10.5%	+55.1%	+39.1%	+56.2%
New Orleans	+10%	+21.8%	+4%	+109.6%	+76.7%	+93.5%
Richmond	-4.5%	+29.3%	-25.3%	+90.8%	-5.9%	+109.7%

Exp P10

TRENDS IN INCOME AND EDUCATION BY COLOR AND VETERAN STATUS: 1939-59

Herman P. Miller
Bureau of the Census

(Draft of chapter for an Office of Education volume, Essays in the Economics of Higher Education)

It is generally accepted, on more or less intuitive grounds, that income and schooling go together. Workers who have not gone beyond grammar school are seldom qualified to hold any but the most menial jobs; and those who aspire to professional or managerial work generally need at least four years of college training. In a society where one-third of the salesmen and one-fourth of the office clerks have gone to college, the man who is inadequately schooled would appear to stand little chance of achieving financial success.

Statistical studies of the relationship between income and schooling tend to support our inuitive feelings on this matter. Numerous studies, conducted under varying economic conditions, have shown that persons with more schooling tend to earn more money. Most cautious interpretations recognize that education is only one of many factors that determine income and that both income and education may be related to more fundamental traits like ability, drive, and imagination. On occasion, however, this relationship has been interpreted as cause and effect and the higher incomes of persons with more schooling have been attributed to education.[1/] The precise mechanism whereby this interaction is supposed to take place has not been described in detail, but the general impression is given that education somehow increases productivity and thereby income. This type of formulation was made 200 years ago by Adam Smith in his famous comparison between an investment in education and in a machine;[2] and it appears, in similar form in current economic literature as well.[3] Very likely, this same formulation underlies much of the emphasis placed on education by minority groups despite their recognition that even if productivity and earnings potentials are increased, there may be little or no change in earnings received because of discrimination or other obstacles that impede the attainment of these potentials.

1/ Theodore W. Schultz, Education and Economic Growth. The University of Chicago, Paper No. 6002, April 20, 1960 (Mimeograph). p. 47.

It is the intention of this paper to show that for some groups in the population, particularly nonwhites, increases in education have not been very closely associated with increases in income. During all years for which figures on income, education, and color are available, the correlation between income and education is much stronger for whites than for nonwhites. A national study conducted in 1956 showed that among nonwhite men between 25 and 44 years old--an age group which has benefited from recent advances in education and from the emancipation of negroes from southern farms, and one which also encompasses the period of peak earnings--elementary school graduates had about the same average income as high school graduates despite the four year difference in schooling. Moreover, during the past ten years, nonwhites have made far greater relative gains in education than whites, but income differentials between the two groups have remained more or less constant.

An analysis of income changes for veterans and nonveterans presents a similar picture with regard to the efficacy of education in raising income levels. Nearly 8 million veterans of the second world war made use of education and training benefits provided under the G.I. Bill at a cost of about $14.5 billion dollars to the federal government. This training raised the educational level of veterans considerably above that of nonveterans and income differentials between the two groups increased progressively from zero in 1948 to a peak of 30 percent in 1955. Yet, and this is the important fact, veterans who did not use G.I. training had only slightly lower incomes than those who did, suggesting that factors other than education are responsible for the income differential between veterans and nonveterans.

2/ Adam Smith, Wealth of Nations, Everyman's Library, E. P. Dutton, 1910, I, pp. 88-9.
3/ Theodore W. Schultz, Capital Formation by Education, The University of Chicago, AER Paper No. 5807, February 4, 1960 (Mimeograph), p. 1.

The meaning of these figures is not easy to assess if we insist upon scientific standards of evidence and certainly the figures require more penetrating analysis than they have received to date. Other recent studies have observed the sluggish way in which nonwhite incomes have responded to increases in education and have either ignored them or treated them in a very cursory way.[4/] Nonwhites are virtually excluded from certain occupations and many who have completed college are concentrated in low-paid jobs. It is entirely possible and indeed likely that productivity potentials of nonwhites have been raised as prescribed by the theory that correlates increases in years of schooling with additions to human capital; but these potentials may have not materialized because of discrimination. There are, however, other factors that have a bearing on the situation and these relate to the precise meaning of the unit of analysis--a year of schooling--with which education is equated.

The available statistics used to measure returns to education are in terms of years of school completed. In view of obvious differences in the importance of a year of elementary school, high school, or college, these classifications by level of training are made in the basic data. Since they distinguish one year of schooling from another, they introduce a qualitative factor into the statistics. Beyond this distinction, no allowance is made for differences in the quality of training provided or received. Crude attempts that have been made, largely for purpose of historical comparison, to modify the concept in terms of school year equivalents based on days of schooling per year,[5] must be regarded as faltering first steps. Statistics which show that the average young Negro male is only about 1½ years behind the average young white in years of school completed, must present an erroneous impression of the educational gap between the two groups when account is taken of the fact most young Negroes have received their education in "separate but equal" southern schools which appear to place considerably more emphasis on "separateness" than they do on equality. Qualitative differences have tended to be ignored in measures of physical capital[5] and, except for minor attention, they are also being ignored in recent work on human capital. For broad overal analyses, it is perhaps essential to ignore the qualitative element, especially since it is incapable of accurate measurement. This logic seems much less applicable when attention is focused on relatively small subgroups in the population.

---

4/ See for example, Gary S. Becker, "Underinvestment in College Education," American Economic Review Proceedings, May 1960, vol. 50, p. 348 and Edward F. Renshaw, "Estimating the Returns to Education," The Review of Economics and Statistics, vol. XLII, August 1960, p. 322.

Another important limitation of the "years of school completed" concept is that no differentiation is made with respect to the benefits derived from exposure to a given amount of education. The concept has an entirely different meaning for a student who has done well in a school system with high standards and established bases for measuring achievement than it does for the poorly motivated student who has just

5/ Theodore W. Schultz, Education and Economic Growth, The University of Chicago, Paper No. 6002, April 20, 1960 (Mimeograph).
6/ Mary Jean Bowman, Human Capital: Concepts and Measures (Mimeograph), p. 4. This paper will be published in the forthcoming Festkript for Prof. Johan Akerman, Lund, Sweden.

managed to get by in a school system with low standards. Education, after all, is not synonymous with time spent in a school room. If as as result of cultural, social, or economic reasons nonwhite students tend to be concentrated near the bottom of their classes, they cannot expect to derive as much from a year of schooling as white students since there appears to be an association between scholastic achievement and occupational success.7/ There is some empirical basis for the judgment that problems relating to behavior, discipline, and lack of motivation occur disproportionately in Negro areas and this may well be part of the explanation for the poor correlation between income and education for nonwhite men.8/ The whole question of the relationship between income (or earnings) and IQ, performance on aptitude tests, standardized achievement tests, or other objective measures, has been inadequately explored despite the existence of much basic data on the subject. In view of the importance of education and the increasing share of our national income being devoted to that function, it is perhaps time to intensify the efforts devoted to the collation of school and army records with socio-economic data collected in household surveys for the purpose of measuring more precisely the economic importance of education to the individual when other relevant factors are taken into account.

7/ See, D. S. Bridgman, "Problems in Estimating the Monetary Value of College" and Dael Wolfle, "Economies and Educational Values," in Higher Education in the United States, Seymour E. Harris, editor; and Ernest Havemann and Patricia West, They Went to College, New York, 1952, p. 164.

8/ For a recent study see Calvin F. Schmid, Impact of Recent Negro Migration on Seattle Schools. Paper presented at International Population Conference, Vienna, 1959.

I. Annual Income and Education by Color: 1939-59

Migration and technological change during the past 20 years have altered the role of the nonwhite from a southern farm wage worker or sharecropper to a low-paid industrial worker. In 1940, about three-fourths of all nonwhites lived in the South where they were largely engaged in agricultural pursuits.[9] By 1950, the proportion residing in the South dropped to about two-thirds,[10] and at present, it is slightly more than half.[11] Although figures are not yet available, it is undoubtedly true that even in the South, nonwhites are now more concentrated in urban areas than ever before.

The figures on the occupational distribution of nonwhite males tell the story even more dramatically. Twenty years ago, four out of every ten employed nonwhite males in the United States worked either as laborers or sharecroppers on southern farms.[12] At present, less than two out of every ten nonwhites are employed in agriculture and about half of them work as either unskilled or semiskilled workers at nonfarm jobs.[13] The change in the occupational status of nonwhites has been accompanied by a marked rise in educational attainment, proportionately far greater than for whites. Among men in the 25 to 29 year age group--and these are the ones most likely to have benefited from recent advances in education--median years of school completed for nonwhites increased by about two-thirds, from 6.5 years in 1940 to 10.9 years at present (table 1). The increase for whites in the same

9/ U. S. Bureau of the Census, 1950 Census of Population--Preliminary Reports, Series PC-7, No. 2.
10/ Ibid.
11/ Data underlying various Current Population Reports, Series P-20.
12/ U. S. Bureau of the Census, 1950 Census of Population--Preliminary Reports, Series PC-7, No. 2.
13/ U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, Employment and Earnings, May 1960.

age group was only about one-fifth, from 10.5 years in 1940 to 12.5 years. In 1940, the average young nonwhite male was about 4 years behind the average white in his schooling. This gap has been narrowed to only 1½ years at present.

The most dramatic advances in schooling among nonwhites have come at the lower elementary grades. In 1940, one-third of the young nonwhite males had completed less than five years of school. This proportion has been reduced to only 8 percent and is largely responsible for the striking reduction in illiteracy among nonwhites during the past 20 years.[14/] Gains in education among nonwhites were by no means restricted to the lower grades. The proportion of high school graduates among young nonwhite men has risen fourfold from 10 percent to 40 percent and the proportion of college graduates has more than tripled since 1940.

14/ U. S. Bureau of the Census, Current Population Reports, Series P-20, No. 99.

Table 1.--LEVEL OF SCHOOL COMPLETED BY WHITE AND NONWHITE MALES: 1940-1959

Date, age, and color	Less than 5 years of elementary school	4 years of high school or more	4 years of college or more	Median school years completed
WHITE
25 years and over
March 1959.....	7.1	43.6	10.8	11.1
March 1957.....	7.9	41.1	10.1	10.7
April 1950.....	9.5	33.5	7.6	9.3
April 1940.....	11.8	23.8	5.8	8.7
25 to 29 years
March 1959.....	2.6	65.9	15.7	12.5
April 1950.....	3.7	52.6	10.1	12.4
April 1940.....	3.9	38.6	7.5	10.5
NONWHITE
25 years and over
March 1959.....	28.1	18.8	3.6	7.6
March 1957.....	30.3	16.2	2.6	7.3
April 1950.....	35.3	12.0	2.0	6.4
April 1940.....	45.3	6.7	2.1	5.4
25 to 29 years
March 1959.....	8.2	40.0	5.6	10.9
April 1950.....	18.8	20.4	2.3	8.4
April 1940.....	32.8	10.4	1.6	6.5

Source: Nonwhite data from U. S. Bureau of the Census, Current Population Reports, Series P-20, No. 99, table 3. Figures for whites derived from data underlying the published table.

Despite the proportionately greater gains in education among nonwhites, especially during the past decade, earnings differentials between the two groups have not changed much (table 2). In 1950, the average wage or salary income for nonwhite workers was about three-fifths of that received by the whites ($1,800 as compared with $3,000). In 1959, this ratio was unchanged; the median for white workers was $4,900 as compared with $2,800 for nonwhites. Prior to 1950, there was a substantial reduction in earnings differentials between whites and nonwhites. This reduction, however, was not primarily attributable to changes in education but was rather closely related to war-induced factors including extreme shortages of unskilled labor and government regulations such as those of the War Labor Board designed to raise the incomes of lower paid workers.[15/]

15/ For a discussion of the narrowing of earnings differentials during the second world war see Herman P. Miller, "Changes in the Industrial Distribution of Wages in the United States, 1939-1949," Studies in Income and Wealth, Volume 23, Princeton University Press, 1958.

~~Table 2.~~ MEDIAN MONEY WAGE OR SALARY INCOME OF WHITE AND NONWHITE MALE WORKERS WITH WAGE OR SALARY INCOME: 1939 TO 1959

Year	White	Nonwhite	~~Ratio of non-~~ nonwhite as % of white ~~white to white~~
1939.....	$1,112	$ 460	41
1950.....	2,982	1,828	61
1951.....	3,345	2,060	62
1952.....	3,507	2,038	58
1953.....	3,760	2,233	59
1954.....	3,754	2,131	57
1955.....	3,986	2,342	59
1956.....	4,260	2,396	56
1957.....	4,260	2,436	56
1958.....	4,569	2,652	58
1959.....	4,902	2,844	58

Source: U. S. Bureau of the Census, Historical Statistics of the United States: Colonial Times to 1957, and various issues of Current Population Reports, Series P-60.

Some of the basic statistics pertaining to the relationship between annual income and educational attainment for whites and nonwhites are presented in Table 3, which shows the variations in average(mean) annual income in 1939, 1949, and 1956 for men with different amounts of schooling.[16/] Similar data for 1959, based on the 1960 Census, will soon be available. The data are presented separately for three broad age groups, and for all men 25 years old and over, in order to permit an examination of the figures independent of changes in the age distribution of the population. Women have been excluded from the analysis; since a large proportion of them do not enter the labor market and many of those who do, are employed on a part-time basis only, the relationship between their income and education may be distorted. In contrast, practically all adult men are full-time workers and it can therefore be assumed that any advantages which may accrue from more schooling are reflected in their incomes.

---

16/ For each year, the mean income was obtained as a summation of the product of the average income and the proportion of persons for each income level. Persons with no income were included in the lowest income level each year. For income levels below $5,000 in 1939, below $10,000 in 1949, and below $6,000 in 1956, the midpoint of each class interval was assumed to be the average. For 1939, $9,000 was used for the "$5,000 and over" interval; for 1949 $20,000 was used for the "$10,000 and over" interval; and for 1956, the averages for the "$6,000 to $10,000" and "$10,000 and over" intervals were fitted by the use of Pareto curves. See the note to table 3 for more details regarding the limitations of the data.

Table 3.--MEAN INCOME FOR MALES 25 YEARS OF AGE AND OVER BY EDUCATIONAL ATTAINMENT, COLOR, AND AGE: 1939, 1949, AND 1956

~~(Preliminary estimates subject to revision)~~

Educational attainment and age	White			Nonwhite
	1939 1/	1949 2/	1956 2/	1939 1/	1949 2/	1956 2/
TOTAL
Elementary
Total.....	$1,125	$2,540	$3,278	$ 566	$1,466	$2,078
Less than 8 years...	(3)	2,234	2,801	(3)	1,386	1,921
8 years.....	(3)	2,875	3,777	(3)	1,909	2,892
High School
1 to 3 years.....	1,413	3,306	4,598	728	2,030	3,087
4 years.....	1,685	3,840	5,547	859	2,298	3,215
College
1 to 3 years.....	1,964	4,501	6,477	948	2,413	(4)
4 years or more.....	2,646	6,260	8,622	1,208	3,177	(4)
25 TO 44 YEARS
Elementary
Total.....	1,058	2,618	3,699	555	1,569	2,431
Less than 8 years...	(3)	2,316	3,222	(3)	1,492	2,262
8 years.....	(3)	2,890	4,105	(3)	1,915	3,062
High School
1 to 3 years.....	1,336	3,203	4,747	711	2,037	3,172
4 years.....	1,552	3,607	5,494	816	2,317	3,050
College
1 to 3 years.....	1,850	4,159	6,328	903	2,413	(4)
4 years or more.....	2,411	5,512	7,868	1,163	3,032	(4)
45 to 64 YEARS
Elementary
Total.....	1,235	2,843	3,740	590	1,535	2,151
Less than 8 years...	(3)	2,537	3,267	(3)	1,458	2,027
8 years.....	(3)	3,185	4,184	(3)	2,027	(4)
High School
1 to 3 years.....	1,718	3,712	4,833	814	2,137	(4)
4 years.....	2,245	4,709	6,101	1,039	2,365	(4)
College
1 to 3 years.....	2,361	5,555	7,259	1,099	2,572	(4)
4 years or more.....	3,552	8,054	11,185	1,335	3,688	(4)
65 YEARS AND OVER
Elementary
Total.....	(3)	1,636	1,972	(3)	805	911
Less than 8 years...	(3)	1,457	1,800	(3)	765	862
8 years.....	(3)	1,911	2,257	(3)	1,248	(4)
High School
1 to 3 years.....	(3)	2,421	2,590	(3)	1,206	(4)
4 years.....	(3)	3,157	3,385	(3)	1,549	(4)
College
1 to 3 years.....	(3)	3,485	4,220 1/	(3)	1,559	(4)
4 years or more.....	(3)	5,439	6,010	(3)	2,451	(4)

(Footnotes, etc. for table 3.)

1/ Restricted to persons reporting $1 or more of wage or salary income and less than $50 of other income for native white and Negro males 25 to 64 years old only.
2/ Total money income.
3/ Not available.
4/ Base is less than 100 sample cases.

Source: Data for 1939 derived from 1940 Census of Population, Education: Educational Attainment by Economic Characteristics and Marital Status, tables 29 and 31.
Data for 1949 derived from 1950 Census of Population, Series P-E, No. 5-B, Education, tables 12 and 13.
Data for 1956 derived from the consumer income supplement to the March 1957 Current Population Survey.

Note regarding comparability of the figures: Neither the income concept nor the universe covered is directly comparable for all the years shown. The figures for 1956 are based on the Current Population Survey and represent the total money income of the civilian noninstitutional male population 25 years old and over. The 1949 figures are based on the 1950 Census and also represent the total money income of all males 25 years old and over, including a relatively small number of institutional inmates. The figures for 1939 are based on the 1940 Census and are restricted to males 25-64 years of age with $1 or more of wage or salary income and less than $50 of nonwage income. For this group, of course, the averages represent total money income; however, the universe has been restricted, because of the way in which the data were collected, to those persons who received only wage or salary income. Only about three-fifths of all men 25-64 years old in 1940 were in this category. The effects of this restriction cannot be measured, but it is undoubtedly more important than those cited for 1949 and 1956. It is also possible that this restriction affects college graduates more than persons with less schooling and for them tends to create an adverse selection since college graduates are more likely to have income other than earnings.

(End of note to table 3)

In the three years for which data are presented, there is a progressive increase for both whites and nonwhites in the average amount of annual income associated with each level of schooling. This increase, however, is typically greater for whites in both absolute and relative terms. Thus, for example, in 1949 the income differential between elementary school and high school graduates 25 to 44 years old was about $700 for whites and $400 for nonwhites (table 3). Relative to the average for each group, this differential amounted to 25 percent for the whites and 21 percent for the nonwhites. This same comparison made in 1956 shows no difference between the average incomes of nonwhite elementary school and high school graduates, but a 34 percent differential for the whites.

Because of the relatively small number of nonwhite college graduates, income data for this group are not available from the 1956 sample survey. The 1950 Census, however, shows an income difference of 53 percent between white high school and college graduates 25 to 44 years old, as compared with a 31 percent differential for nonwhites.

The figures in table 3 point to the general conclusion that the association between income and education is closer for whites than for nonwhites and that the association for nonwhites may have diminished somewhat in recent years. The data from the 1960 Census should shed considerable light on this matter.

II. Lifetime Income in Relation to Education and Color: 1939 and 1949

Estimates of lifetime income provide summary measures of the financial returns associated with education which cannot be readily obtained from the annual data presented above.[17] The estimates of lifetime income presented here are derived figures--one might say synthetic figures--based on variations in the payments to individuals in different age and education groups in 1939 and 1949, the only years for which the base data are available in sufficient detail to prepare estimates by color. The figures are, therefore, based on a cross-section of the population in 1939 and 1949 and not on life-cycle data which would trace a man's income from the time he starts to work until he retires.

There is some question whether life-cycle data would be more suitable for the present analysis; cross-section data have the advantage that they are free from the influence of variants such as periods of industrial depression or unusual activity with their changes in opportunities for employment, in wage rates, and in the cost of living.[18]

Standard life-table techniques were used in computing the figures shown in table 4. First, an estimate was made of the number of 100,000 white and Negro children born in 1939, and 1949 who would survive to each given year of age. These estimates were made from the appropriate life tables.[19] By way of illustration, it was estimated that out of 100,000 white infants born alive in 1949, about 96,000 would survive to

---

17/ For additional information on estimation of lifetime income see Herman P. Miller, "Annual and Lifetime Income in Relation to Education: 1939-1959," American Economic Review, December 1960.

18/ W. S. Woytinsky, "Income Cycle in the Life of Families and Individuals," Social Security Bulletin, June 1943.

19/ U. S. Bureau of the Census, U. S. Life Tables and Actuarial Tables, 1939-1941 and National Office of Vital Statistics, Vital Statistics--Special Reports, "United States Life Tables, 1949-51," Vol. 41, No. 1.

age 18, at which time they would enter the labor market. The basic problem consisted of estimating the life span of these 96,000 survivors and the amount of income they would receive during their lifetime. For this purpose, it was assumed that survival rates for men in each education group would be the same as for all white males in 1949. On this basis, it was estimated that these 96,000 men would live a total of nearly 5,000,000 man-years between age 18 and the time the last one died. It was further assumed that during each year of life, these men would receive an average income corresponding to that received by men in the same age group with the same amount of education. The averages used for this purpose were arithmetic means computed for detailed age groups, using procedures described in table 3.[20]

There are several cautions that should be considered before discussing the figures in table 4. First, the figures should not be interpreted as returns to education because they reflect the impact of many of the factors that influence the relationship between income and education. In addition, the figures are not exactly comparable from year to year due to changes in the income concept. The data for 1939 are for wages and salaries, whereas those for 1949 are for total income. Finally, the estimates reflect the economic conditions and other circumstances which existed in each year. The increase, for example, in the value of a college education for white males by about $140,000 between 1939 and 1949 reflects the increase in prices as well as changes in the underlying relationships.

~~(NOTE: INTERPRETATION OF TABLE 4 TO BE INSERTED WHEN FIGURES ARE AVAILABLE.)~~

20/ For age detail, see sources referred to in table 3.

Table 4.--LIFETIME INCOME BASED ON ARITHMETIC MEANS FOR MALES IN SELECTED AGE GROUPS, BY COLOR AND YEARS OF SCHOOL COMPLETED, FOR THE UNITED STATES: 1939 AND 1949

(Thousands of dollars)

Years of school completed and age	White		Nonwhite
	1939 a/	1949 b/	1939 a/	1949 b/
INCOME FROM AGE 18 TO DEATH
Total, all years of school	(d)	$157	(d)	$ 69
Elementary: Total	(d)	120	(d)	62
Less than 8 years c/	(d)	107	(d)	59
8 years	(d)	135	(d)	82
High School: Total	(d)	171	(d)	88
1 to 3 years	(d)	160	(d)	83
4 years	(d)	188	(d)	95
College : Total	(d)	258	(d)	113
1 to 3 years	(d)	220	(d)	98
4 years or more	(d)	302	(d)	133
INCOME FROM AGE 25 TO DEATH
Total, all years of school	(d)	147	(d)	63
Elementary: Total	(d)	111	(d)	56
Less than 8 years c/	(d)	99	(d)	53
8 years	(d)	125	(d)	75
High school: Total	(d)	160	(d)	80
1 to 3 years	(d)	150	(d)	76
4 years	(d)	178	(d)	87
College : Total	(d)	251	(d)	107
1 to 3 years	(d)	213	(d)	92
4 years or more	(d)	291	(d)	124
INCOME FROM AGE 18 TO 64
Total, all years of school	56	139	21	64
Elementary: Total	43	107	19	57
Less than 8 years c/	(d)	95	(d)	54
8 years	(d)	119	(d)	74
High School: Total	65	148	27	79
1 to 3 years	58	140	25	76
4 years	74	162	31	85
College : Total	97	220	37	101
1 to 3 years	81	191	33	88
4 years or more	116	257	41	117
INCOME FROM AGE 25 TO 64
Total, all years of school	52	129	19	57
Elementary: Total	40	97	17	51
Less than 8 years c/	(d)	87	(d)	48
8 years	(d)	109	(d)	67
High school: Total	62	137	25	71
High school 1 to 3 years	55	129	23	68
4 years	70	151	28	77
College: Total	93	212	34	94
1 to 3 years	77	183	30	82
4 years or more	110	245	38	108

a/ Restricted to persons reporting $1 or more of wage or salary income and less than $50 of other income for native whites and Negroes.
b/ Total money income, white and nonwhite
c/ Includes persons reporting no years of school completed, not shown separately.
d/ Not available.

III. Income and Education by Veteran Status: 1947-59

While the second world war was still in progress, the government instituted the Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944 (the GI bill) designed to assist veterans in reestablishing themselves in civilian life. A most important part of this program was the provision of government financed education intended to permanently improve the economic status of veterans. Nearly 8 million veterans of the second world war made use of the education and training benefits at a cost of $14.5 billion to the federal government. Over 2 million men received college and university training and an additional 3.5 million received free education below the college level at elementary and secondary schools, vocational and trade schools, technical institutions, and business schools[17] --the largest program ever undertaken by the federal government in providing financial aid to individuals in completing their education and training.

The impact of the GI bill on the educational attainment of veterans is shown in table 4. In 1947, when most of the former servicemen were in the initial phase of their training under the GI bill, veterans were already a more highly educated group than nonveterans. This was, of course, to be expected since many men were rejected for military service because they were of low intelligence. There was no difference in the proportions of younger veterans and nonveterans who had completed college; but, a larger proportion of the veterans had been exposed to some college training, even if they did not graduate. By 1952, this picture had changed considerably. The proportion of college graduates among younger veterans increased from 7 percent to 12 percent as compared with an increase from 6 percent to 9 percent for nonveterans.

---

17 President's Commission on Veterans' Pensions, Readjustment Benefits: General Survey and Appraisal, Staff Report No. IX, Pt. A, Washington, D. C., September 1956.

At the lower educational levels, the gains for veterans were equally striking.

Since older veterans did not make as much use of the education and training provisions of the GI bill as the younger veterans, their educational attainment did not change as much. The most significant change for the older veterans was a sharp drop in the proportion who quit school upon completion of the eighth grade and an increase in the proportion of high school graduates. Between 1947 and 1952 there was no change in the proportion of college graduates among older veterans.

Table 4.--PERCENT DISTRIBUTION BY YEARS OF SCHOOL COMPLETED FOR MALE VETERANS AND NONVETERANS OF THE SECOND WORLD WAR, BY AGE, FOR THE UNITED STATES: 1947 AND 1952

Years of school completed	Veterans of second world war				Nonveterans
	25 to 34 years		35 to 44 years		25 to 34 years		35 to 44 years
	1947	1952	1947	1952	1947	1952	1947	1952
Number (thousands).....	6,851	8,428	2,035	4,130	4,043	2,472	7,791	6,070
Total.....	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100
Elementary: Total.....	24	20	37	27	40	43	48	41
Less than 5 years a/.....	3	2	4	2	9	14	8	8
5 to 8 years.....	21	18	33	25	31	29	40	33
High school: Total.....	58	56	40	49	45	39	37	44
1 to 3 years.....	24	22	18	20	21	17	19	20
4 years.....	34	34	22	29	24	22	18	24
College: Total.....	17	23	20	23	13	16	14	15
1 to 3 years.....	10	11	8	11	7	7	7	8
4 years or more.....	7	12	12	12	6	9	7	7
Not reported.....	1	1	2	1	1	2	1	1

a/ Includes persons reporting no years of school completed, not shown separately.

Source: U. S. Bureau of the Census, Current Population Reports, Series P-20, No. 15, Educational Attainment of the Civilian Population: April 1947, table 3; and Series P-20, No. 45, School Enrollment, Educational Attainment and Illiteracy, October 1952, table 15.

The shifting patterns of educational attainment for veterans and nonveterans were accompanied by changes in income differentials (table 5). As we shall see later, however, the income changes do not appear to be attributable to education.

In 1947, younger veterans had somewhat lower incomes than nonveterans despite their greater educational attainment. Thus, any selective factors which may have produced higher incomes for veterans were not operative immediately after the war. The lower incomes of veterans at this time may have been due to several factors including the greater work experience of the nonveterans as a result of their civilian employment during the war and also the loss of civilian employment during 1947 by many veterans who went to school part time or who served in the armed forces during part of the year. By 1948, veterans and nonveterans had the same average incomes and in every year thereafter veterans received greater relative income gains, reaching a maximum differential of 30 percent in 1955. Because of the changing age composition of veterans in the 25 to 34 year age group during recent years, it is difficult to make meaningful comparisons between veterans and nonveterans in this age group since 1955.

A large proportion of the veterans who were 25 to 34 years old in 1947 have now moved into the 35 to 44 year age group. As a result, the income differential between veterans and nonveterans within this age group is now beginning to increase markedly. Until 1953, veterans who were 35 to 44 years old had only slightly higher incomes than nonveterans. By 1956, the differential increased to 15 percent and in 1959 it rose still further to 25 percent.

Table 5.--COMPARISON OF MEDIAN INCOMES OF MALE VETERANS AND NONVETERANS OF SECOND WORLD WAR, BY AGE AND EXTENT OF EMPLOYMENT: 1947-59

Year	Median total money income				Ration of veterans income to nonveterans
	25 to 34 years		35 to 44 years
	Veterans	Nonveterans	Veterans	Nonveterans	25 to 34 yrs.	35 to 44 yrs.
TOTAL
1947	$2,401	$2,585	$2,689	$2,900	93	93
1948	2,734	2,692	3,045	3,046	102	100
1949	2,828	2,562	2,984	2,935	110	102
1950	3,058	2,626	3,291	3,234	116	102
1951	3,359	2,875	3,647	3,595	117	101
1952	3,631	3,065	3,834	3,602	118	106
1953	3,948	3,183	4,118	3,867	124	106
1954	3,978	3,073	4,227	3,818	129	111
1955	4,330	3,294	4,483	3,946	131	114
1956	4,675	3,712	4,853	4,220	126	115
1957	4,984	4,041	4,985	4,279	123	117
1958	5,010	4,171	5,225	4,306	120	121
1959	5,423	4,481	5,629	4,513	121	125
YEAR-ROUND FULL-TIME WORKERS 1955
Percent	81	72	81	78	--	--
Median income	$4,630	3,854	$4,679	$4,319	120	108
1956
Percent	83	72 72	80	78	--	--
Median income	$4,944	$4,150	$5,122	$4,554	119	112
1957
Percent	82	70	80	74	--	--
Median income	$5,321	$4,465	$5,321	$4,792	119	111
1958
Percent	76	66	77	70	--	--
Median income	$5,453	$4,804	$5,609	$4,844	114	116
1959
Percent	77	70	79	73	--	--
Median income	$5,798	$5,122	$6,000	$5,023	113	119

Source: U. S. Bureau of the Census, Current Population Reports, Series P-60, annual issues.

The close association between changes in education and income shown in the preceding tables suggests a possible causal relation between these variables. This view, however, is not supported by the facts available from a study made by the President's Commission on Veterans' Pensions, under the direction of General Omar Bradley, to ascertain among other things the role of the training and education provisions of the GI Bill in the economic readjustment of veterans of the second world war and the Korean conflict to civilian life.[18/] In this study it was found that in 1955, at a time when the income differential between young veterans and nonveterans was at a peak of 31 percent (see table 5), there was only a four percent differential between veterans who used GI training and those who did not. Specifically, the figures show that nondisabled veterans of World War II in the 25 to 34 year age group who used the GI training had median earnings of $4,400 in 1955 as compared with a median of $4,200 for those who did not receive such training.[19/] In other words, despite an insignificant income difference between veterans who used GI training and those who did not the average incomes of both groups of veterans were markedly higher than the average for nonveterans. These facts suggest that qualities associated with veteran status rather than education may be primarily responsible for the higher incomes of veterans.

18/ Ibid.
19/ Ibid, p. 126.

File: Poverty

Poverty Extensive in Rural South

Many Families Do Without Adequate Food or Shelter

By JOHN D. POMFRET
Special to The New York Times

SUMTER, S.C., March 1—Grim, unrelenting poverty is the ever-present intruder in Willie Hill's home.

It makes its presence felt in many ways.

It is the cold that sweeps in through the cracks around the window and door frames and makes it impossible to keep warm more than a yard away from the wood-burning stove.

It is the five rickety straight-backed chairs that are the only furniture in the living room.

It is the dirty concrete floor, the filthy clothes, the emaciation that has hollowed the Hills's faces, the hunted look in their eyes.

It is the squalid outdoor privy, the cheap yellow curtains that give the room a note of false and pathetic gaiety, the monotonous and inadequate diet of grits, greens and fatback.

Worst of all, it is the crushing burden that has robbed the Hills of any hope and ambition for themselves or their children and has limited their sense of the future to anything much beyond the next meal.

One of Thousands

The Hills are representative of thousands of families spread through the rural South whose plight is one of the main reasons for President Johnson's war on poverty.

The Government has put the poverty line at anything below $3,000 a year in family money income.

About 9.3 million families—more than 30 million people—fall below this line.

Nearly half of them live in the South and nearly half in rural areas, although less than a third of the nation's total population lives in the South and less than a third in rural areas.

Although the poverty of the Southern countryside is a formidable part of all the poverty in the nation, it seems to have attracted less attention than that in other sections. The Southern rural poor have been

The New York Times March 3, 1964
Sumter, S. C. (cross), area of rural poverty in South.

and his wife must care for him full time.

The Bass family lives in indescribable squalor in a two-room log cabin.

Until recently, when the Farmers Home Administration of the Department of Agriculture arranged for $1,000 worth of repairs on the house, the maximum grant for such purposes, there were gaping holes in the roof and openings between the logs through which the cold and rain blew.

They now have an outdoor pump, a new roof and asphalt siding. But indoors it is still dank and cold. A flickering fire in a stone fireplace is the only heat. Dirty clothes are scattered around the room. The family drinks from tin cans. There are four beds and a chair in the main room and no furniture in the other.

Built Home Herself

There is Mrs. Cora Lee Horton, a small, gentle widow of 55 with bright blue eyes who lives in Kershaw County with her daughter and the daughter of a distant relative. Their home is a three-room shack that Mrs. Horton built herself from scraps of lumber picked up around the neighborhood.

The family income is a welfare payment of $51 a month and the $1 a week that Mrs. Horton makes taking in washing.

Or there is Henry Robinson, who, at 52, is clinging to his tiny farm with the help of Government loans. When the bright yellow school bus stops in front of Mr. Robinson's house, it looks as though it is disgorging its entire load.He thinks he has 13 children, but cannot [illegible]

Negroes and Whites Alike Share Plight —U.S. Aid Sought

South is color blind. It happens that the Robinsons are Negroes and the Hill, Bass and Horton families white.

The county supervisors of the Farmers Home Administration are trying with their agency's program of loans and grants to raise the living standards of members of poor rural families.

They concede, however, that for many of the rural poor, and particularly the children, this will not be the answer.

They are convinced that poverty-stricken rural families must be helped to acquire the skills necessary to find jobs in the industrial plants that are springing up in the South Carolina countryside or elsewhere.

Education Called Answer

The fundamental answer, as they see it, is education; the fundamental evil, the lack of it.

State officials feel the same way. Two years ago, the State Commission for Technical Education began setting up centers where men and women could learn useful skills. There are now eight centers — all but one quietly integrated — turning out 800 trained workers every month.

The standards for admission are quite high, however, and the state realized that the program was not reaching the illiterate, hard-core poverty group.

So recently the state signed up for a $5.6 million Federal training program under the Manpower Development and Training Act. It hopes to train 14,000 workers in 18 months.

Still, persons familiar with South Carolina's problem acknowledge that there is a long way to go.

The state's school dropout rate is appalling. Only 49 per cent of the white students and 23 per cent of the Negroes finish high school.

No Grasp of Fundamental

This is the main reason that the state's draft rejection rate is the highest in the nation. [illegible] and less than a third in rural areas.

Although the poverty of the Southern countryside is a formidable part of all the poverty in the nation, it seems to have attracted less attention than that in other sections. The Southern rural poor have been the forgotten poor.

Their condition has not been the result of a dramatic and readily identifiable upheaval like the mechanization of the coal mines that has brought destitution to large sections of the Appalachian region. Nor does their poverty have the concentrated impact of a big city slum.

The rural slum spreads in a large crescent from southern Virginia, sweeps along the coastal plain across Georgia and Alabama into the Mississippi Delta and the Ozarks.

"Poverty in the South is like a Texas river—a mile wide and a foot deep," says one Government official who helped plan the Administration's poverty program.

"We started out with the 'pockets of poverty' concept, but we quickly found that it doesn't apply. The problem in the rural South is what to do when poverty infects the entire polity."

Although the worst Southern poverty is not in the South Carolina countryside, the situation here is representative of the problems confronting the entire region.

Large Capital Needed

Profitable farming has become a large-scale enterprise requiring heavy investments of capital in land, fertilizer and machinery.

It is becoming ever more difficult for the small farmer to maintain a living from his few acres or the day laborer to find steady work.

Many of these men also lack the skills needed to get a job in industry, or they are too old or too unsure of themselves.

The result for thousands of men like Willie Hill has been an economic vise from which they are unable to squirm free.

Mr. Hill is a sharecropper and day laborer on a small cotton and tobacco farm in Sumter County. When he works, he is paid $3 a day.

But he works irregularly.

He does not know what his yearly income is. Those familiar with his situation doubt that even with a $40-a-month Social Security benefit that his wife's stepfather receives, it amounts to as much as $2,000 a year.

With this Mr. Hill tries to support himself, his wife, Emma, their four children, the son of Mr. Hill's sister, who died last year, and Mrs. Hill's 78-year-old stepfather.

The Hills are unable, in the local phrase, to "store up" anything.

What can happen under these circumstances is illustrated by the plight of Esau Bass.

Mr. Bass lives a few miles outside of Camden in adjoining Kershaw County.

He was a sharecropper until he was felled by a stroke five years ago. Now he is bedridden

Or there is Henry Robinson, who, at 52, is clinging to his tiny farm with the help of Government loans. When the bright yellow school bus stops in front of Mr. Robinson's house, it looks as though it is disgorging its entire load.He thinks he has 13 children, but seems to have lost count.

Statistically, Mr. Robinson may seem well off. His gross income was about $2,800 last year. But he estimates he had to spend about $1,000 of it for food, the rest to pay the expenses of running his farm.

The figures indicate that the plight of the average Negro family is much worse than that of the average white family. Negro family income is South Carolina averaged $1,626 in 1959 — the latest available figure. White family income averaged $4,142.

But poverty in the rural cent of the white students and 23 per cent of the Negroes finish high school.

No Grasp of Fundamental

This is the main reason that the state's draft rejection rate is the highest in the nation. More than five in 10 fail to qualify. Among Negroes, who make up 35 per cent of the state's population, eight in 10 are rejected.

Visits to poor rural families indicate that it will take more than simply providing good schools and capable teachers to solve the problem. Many of these families seem to have no grasp of the necessity for education.

The Hills, again, are typical. One of their children quit school after the fifth grade, another after the eighth. The family's expectation is that all the children will stay on the land.

WHO ARE THE POOR ? ? ?

THERE ARE 47 MILLION FAMILIES IN THE U.S.A.

9.3 MILLION of these families or roughly 37 MILLION people, adults and children, earn less than $3,000 a year.

5 MILLION poverty-families live in cities

4.3 MILLION poverty-families live in the South

6 MILLION poverty-families have a head of the household with less than a 9th Grade education

2 MILLION poverty-families are non-white

2.3 MILLION poverty-families have a woman as family head

3.2 MILLION poverty families have a family head who is 65 or older

PRESIDENT JOHNSON CALLS FOR AN UNCONDITIONAL WAR ON POVERTY

In his State of the Union Message, January 8, 1964, President Johnson set forth a series of programs whose aim is "not only to relieve the symptoms of poverty but to cure it -- and above all prevent it." The President called for the following measures to launch the war against poverty:

depressed areas

We must launch a special effort in the chronically distressed areas of Appalachia.

We must expand our small but successful Area Redevelopment Program.

We must enact Youth Employment legislation to put jobless, aimless, hopeless youngsters to work on useful projects.

We must distribute more food to the needy through a broader Food Stamp Program.

We must create a National Service Corps to help the economically handicapped of our own country as the Peace Corps helps those abroad.

unemployment insurance

We must modernize our Unemployment Insurance and establish a high level Commission on Automation. If we have the brainpower to invent these machines, we have the brainpower to make certain they are a boon and not a bane to humanity.

minimum wage

We must extend the coverage of our Minimum Wage laws to more than 2 million workers now lacking this basic protection of purchasing power.

education

We must, by including special school aid funds as part of our Education program, improve the quality of teaching, training and counseling in our hardest-hit areas.

We must build more libraries in every area.

medical care

We must build more hospitals and nursing homes under the Hill-Burton Act--and train more nurses to staff them.

We must provide hospital insurance for our older citizens, financed by every worker and his employer under Social Security contributing no more than $1 a month during the employee's working career to protect him in his old age in a dignified manner, without cost to the Treasury, against the devastating burden of prolonged or repeated illness.

housing

We must, as part of a revised Housing and Urban Renewal program, give more help to those displaced by slum clearance, provide more housing for our poor and our elderly, and seek as our ultimate goal in our free enterprise system a decent home for every American family.

We must help obtain more modern mass transit within our communities as well as low-cost transportation between them.

tax reduction

Above all, we must release $11 billion of tax reduction into the private spending stream to create new jobs and new markets in every area.

This Administration here and now declares unconditional war on poverty in America. I ask this Congress and all Americans to join with me in that effort. It will not be a short or easy struggle--no single weapon or strategy will suffice--but we shall not rest until that war is won.

A CLOSER LOOK AT POVERTY IN AMERICA

Michael Harrington might well be credited with firing one of the first shots in the war against poverty which is only now turning into a national crusade. In his book "The Other America" Harrington said that there were between 40 and 50 million Americans -- about a fourth of the population -- now living in poverty. He called these people the "invisible poor" because most Americans are not aware of their existance.

Other students of the problem estimate that there are between 35 and 40 million persons in America today who are living on the ragged edge of the affluent society. Whether it is one-forth of the nation or one-fifth which is living in poverty is unimportant. The real challenge we face is to learn more about who these people are, what their problems are, and what can be done to help them. In order to join President Johnson's "unconditional war on poverty" we must understand the problem more fully.

The following article, reprinted from the Wall Street Journal, describes some of the economic and social problems of four groups of deprived Americans: urban Negroes, people who live in the Appalachian region, migrant farm workers and the aged. After you have read this article you will want to discuss some of the following questions --

- Do you think that most of these people can do very much to improve their chance of getting a job by themselves?
- Why do you think that the poorest fifth of the nation is getting poorer?
- Do you think that most of these people have had much education or have acquired job skills?
- What changes are taking place in our economy which makes it harder and harder for the unskilled and poorly educated to find jobs?
- What are some of the things which you think could be done to help the four groups of people discussed in this article?

FOCUS ON POVERTY

U. S. BEGINS TO TAKE CLOSER LOOK AT PLIGHT OF THE NATION'S POOR -- 1 IN 5 FAMILIES EARNS LESS THAN $3,000 YEARLY

Reprinted from Wall Street Journal
January 18, 1964

Who are these citizens of the "Other America"?

From New York's Harlem to California's fertile valleys, Wall Street Journal reporters have sought out citizens of the other America. They are a 35-year-old Negro mother of four who is being treated for a psychotic fear of rats at a Harlem clinic. They are a jobless east Kentucky coal miner who buries potatoes from his garden each fall and then digs them up to eat in winter when food is scarce. They are a migrant worker in California catching some sleep in a battered car before the predawn hiring starts for the next day's fruit picking.

The other America has somewhere between 20 million and 40 million inhabitants. The precise population depends on how you care to define poverty. If, as many private and Government analysts do, you call a family poor when their yearly income is below $3,000--the U.S. average is $7,140--then 36 million Americans are poor. That's about one out of five.

28% of income under $2,000 is paid out in taxes

The mounting concern over the other America reflects not so much its great size, however, as the fact it is somehow being left behind as the economy moves from record to new record. A recent study shows that since 1944 the share of total family income held by the poorest fifth of U. S. households actually has declined--to 4.7% from 4.9%. Another study reveals that the poor now pay more of their incomes for taxes than families earning five to seven times as much--largely because of steeply rising state and local levies not geared to income, such as sales taxes. The analysis shows that 28.3% of family incomes under $2,000 a year is paid out in taxes.

"The poor have a worse relative position in American society today than they did a decade and a half ago," concludes Michael Harrington, author of The Other America, a lengthy review of poverty in the U. S. "As technology has boomed, their share in prosperity has decreased; their participation in recession and misery has increased."

John Kenneth Galbraith, now professor of economics at Harvard after serving as ambassador to India, hammers at the same point: "If the head of a family is stranded deep on the Cumberland Plateau, or if he never went to school, or if he has no useful skill, or if his health is broken, or if he has succumbed as a youngster to a slum environment, or if opportunity is denied to him because he is a Negro, then he will be poor and his family will be poor, and that will be true no matter how opulent everyone else becomes."

Most people aren't aware of the extent of poverty

The American poor are seldom seen, many analysts say. They contend this invisibility has made it difficult to generate much public concern over poverty.

"The poor still inhabit the miserable housing in the central area (of cities), but they are increasingly isolated from contact with, or sight of, anybody else," Mr. Harrington states. "Many of the poor are the wrong age to be seen--a good number of them are 65 years of age or better, an even larger number are under 18....And finally, the poor are politically invisible...without lobbies of their own."

Poverty-stricken America has many faces--the slum-dwelling urban Negro, the unemployed Appalachian miner, the sun-beaten migrant worker who follows the harvest, the retired widower who scrapes by on $30 a week in Florida, the wine-stained American Indian who shuffles along Chicago's West Madison Street, the illiterate Mississippi farmer whose produce sales total about $1,200 a year. The breakdown that follows gives you a closer look at some of these faces.

Almost half of Negro families earn less than $3,000 a year

URBAN NEGROES. About 2 million of the nation's 4.2 million Negro families earn less than $3,000 a year, and roughly 1.2 million of these poor families are packed into city slums, both in the North and the South. The largest of these slums are in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and Washington.

The slums of New York--where 1.1 million of the nation's 19 million Negroes dwell--typify the world of the urban Negro. Some 15% of New York's Negroes are on relief. One in five Negro children is born out of wedlock. In one teeming district venereal disease cases number 2,143 for every 100,000 persons, compared with a city-wide average of 172 cases per 100,000. The city's Negro infant mortality rate is 40 per 1,000 births, double the rate among white New Yorkers. A New York Negro male's life expectancy is about 61 years, some six years less than that of his white counterpart.

About 400,000 of New York's Negroes live in Harlem, a ghetto in upper Manhattan. Many Harlem fathers leave their families to find work elsewhere or live with other women. Mothers, grandmothers and aunts dominate family life in Harlem. Often the number sleeping in a Harlem flat varies from day to day. Asked how many persons are currently in her apartment, a Harlem mother replies, "About seven."

2-room slum apartment in ghetto rents for $125 a month

Squalid housing abounds in Harlem. Hallways are dark and often smell of garbage. Paint is peeling off the walls. "It's like trying to inhabit a sore," says Joseph P. Lyford, a social researcher who has spent many months around the area. Yet such apartments rent for as much as $125 a month for two rooms, a charge the New York Welfare Department pays if the family is on relief.

Crime is part of Harlem's way of life--dope peddling, prostitution, armed robbery. Some 40% of the nation's narcotics addicts live in New York, authorities estimate, and many of these are found in the city's Negro slums. "You go into a bathroom, and on the floor is a syringe and bloody rags," Mr. Lyford says.

Poverty results in mental and physical illness

Harlem spawns mental as well as physical sickness. Dr. Elizabeth Davis, head of psychiatry at Harlem Hospital, tells of treating a Negro mother who suffers from a fear of shadows: "Her fear stems from being on constant watch for rats in her Harlem tenement; she regards every shadow as a vicious rat out to infect her and her children." Many of Dr. Davis' patients suffer from mental depression. "Bad schooling, bad housing and low income get to these people sooner or later," she says.

Are Harlem's Negroes up in arms, threatening uprisings? Not so you can notice it. Most Harlem Negroes seem politically apathetic. Possibly the many Protestant churches in the area offer some spiritual comfort. And Harlem's ubiquitous taverns may provide escape of a sort for some.

Massive program is needed to attack poverty

What's being done for Harlem's Negroes? The very poor get relief. Those out of work for a while collect unemployment compensation. Welfare agencies ease the plight of the destitute. A few Negroes are getting jobs through once exclusively white union locals. A Federal-city program was recently launched to guide jobless and poorly schooled city youths into skilled jobs.

But most Harlem leaders believe a massive program must be undertakes, involving huge amounts of public money. They note bitterly that the average income of a New York Negro family amounts to only 59% of that of a white New York household, down from 61% in 1950.

Appalachian mines employ 60% fewer workers than in 1950

Nearly a third of the 3.8 million families in Appalachia earn less than $3,000 a year. Their poverty chiefly reflects shriveling job opportunities in the nine-state region, which runs southwest from Pennsylvania into northern Alabama. Because of automation and declining demand for coal, Appalachia's mines, which produce 65% of the nation's soft coal, require some 60% fewer workers today than in 1950. And, since Appalachia's hilly farms can't compete with the big, mechanized ones to the West, agricultural employment in the area has also skidded--by more than 25% since 1950.

The attrition of jobs has caused an exodus of young persons. Consequently, nearly 10% of the area's population is over 65 years old, up from 7.4% in 1950. In the nation as a whole, the over-65 population also has risen, but not nearly so sharply. Reflecting the exodus, Appalachia's population is about unchanged since 1950, while the U. S. total has climbed some 20%.

Young persons leave this desolate, jobless area

As a result, the residents of many towns in Appalachia are often elderly persons living on Social Security, pensions or relief. Frequently young persons there have grown up in the towns, departed to find jobs in the Midwest or East, then been laid off and finally returned to live cheaply on unemployment checks from other areas.

Typically, a recent visitor to towns in eastern Kentucky recalls, one sees "unambitious persons who can look forward to sitting on the front porch waiting for welfare checks; they are unskilled and largely illiterate." Many, he says, are without "shoes for their children's feet." They eat surplus food distributed by the Department of Agriculture--powdered milk, rice, beans, cheese. Because many have no refrigerators, they sometimes bury potatoes so they will keep until winter.

"These poverty-ridden people don't understand what's happening to them," claims Dan Jack Combs, a Pikeville, Ky., attorney long familiar with the plight of miners in the area. "They feel they're victims of circumstance and don't know what to do to change things; they feel trapped." But, he adds, "they are good people, good Christian folk for the most part." Their divorce and illegitimacy rates, he estimates are "immeasurably lower" than those in big urban areas.

Education is one of the answers to the problem

Food handouts are only one of the many doles on which the Appalachian poor depend. Other forms of assistance include aid to families of dependent children, old age and medical assistance and aid to the disabled and the destitute. Government records show 12% of U. S. public assistance recipients live in Appalachia, although the region contains only 8% of the nation's population.

Many observers feel, however, that education must be the ultimate solution to Appalachia's woes. They note that 11.6% of adults in the area have less than five years of schooling. In the rest of the U. S. only 8% have received so little education.

Average farm laborer's wage is $913 a year

About half of the 2 million farm laborers in the U. S. are migrant workers who follow the harvest from state to state. Some two-thirds of the migrants are U. S. citizens. The rest are nearly all Mexicans allowed to enter the country and work under the so-called bracero program, which was recently renewed for a year.

Almost all these workers are very poor. The total average wage of farm laborers in 1962 was only $1,164, and that figure includes earnings from odd jobs. For farm labor alone, the average was $913. Wage rates very widely from crop to crop, field to field and state to state. In one recent year Washington State farm workers averaged $1.25 hourly, while those in South Carolina earned only 47 cents an hour.

Migrants not protected by minimum wage or unemployment insurance

The Federal minimum wage law doesn't apply to migrants. And Social Security applies only if within a single year a migrant works 20 or more days on an hourly rate for one employer, or earns at least $150 from one employer. Actually, much of migrants' work is piece-rate, over short periods for many employers. Almost no migrants have unemployment insurance.

The typical migrant family travels in a battered car, jammed with its belongings. Consider the scene when such a family arrives at Stockton, Calif., at cherry and strawberry picking time in mid-summer. If the family hasn't enough money to rent a room, as is often the case, the members sleep out, or in the car if the weather is bad.

Early the next morning dozens of ancient, converted school buses pull into town. Crew bosses for farmers jump out and start chanting: "Cherries, cherries, dollar an' a dime a bucket (about 16 quarts). Come on boys, cherries, dollar an' a dime." Or: "Strawberries, berries, 75 cents a box (a 14-pound crate), 75 cents a box. Let's go, berries."

Migrant workers need protection of minimum wage law

The migrants move up and down the crowded streets, listening. When they find a job, they climb aboard the bus. When it's full, it pulls off into the pre-dawn darkness for the farm. Soon the buses and most of the migrants are gone, dawn breaks and industrail workers begin coming to their jobs. There's almost no sign the weird labor market ever existed. The migrants' day starts early and ends early--about mid-afternoon--because by that time the heat becomes too intense.

What would help the domestic migrant worker? Among the solutions most often suggested: Ending the bracero program, extending the Federal minimum wage to farm work, making unemployment insurance for migrants mandatory.

25% of nation's poor are people over 65

Persons over 65 make up more than a quarter of the nation's poor, studies indicate. Because many of the aged poor live with relatives and have some savings, their predicament probably is not so dire as that of, say, a young urban Negro family earning less than $3,000 annually. But their lot certainly is far from satisfactory, observers say.

Take, for example, a bench-sitter in the St. Petersburg, Fla., Williams Park. He's a former Youngstown, Ohio, factory worker whose wife is dead and whose three children live in the North. At mid-morning, when the chill is off the air, he's had a breakfast of cereal and a cup of instant coffee at his rooming house room and is waiting to read the morning paper. He hopes someone will toss a paper in a nearby garbage can so he can recover it. But if this doesn't happen, he will round up a couple of cronies, and they will chip in to buy one for a dime. Then they will swap sections until each has read it through.

For lunch, one of the two meals he eats in a cafe, the retired Ohioan will drift to one of several low-budget cafes and order either a hot dog or a bowl of soup, which will cost 20 cents. In the afternoon, he may return to a park bench to chat and watch strollers, or perhaps visit a checker game at a nearby pier. Dinner at another low-budget cafe will consist of meat loaf, mixed peas and carrots, a roll with butter and coffee. It will cost 58 cents.

Aged poor barely subsist on $30 a week

He gets along on about $30 a week, $10 for food and a couple of movies at a downtown theater which offers second-run films at 50 cents, and $20 for his room and a bath down the hall. For a quick blood pressure checkup he occasionally stops at one of the machines in front of downtown drugstores that read your blood pressure for 25 cents.

The retired factory worker actually outspends his income slightly, but cash gifts from his offspring at Easter and on his birthday make ends meet. His Social Security check is $116 a month. Some elderly couples in St. Petersburg live together without benefit of marriage, since if they were wed their separate Social Security checks would be lumped together and their income reduced.

File: Poverty

THE CULTURE OF POVERTY

by Oscar Lewis

I want to take this opportunity to clear up some possible misunderstanding concerning the idea of a "culture of poverty." I would distinguish sharply between impoverishment and the culture of poverty. Not all people who are poor necessarily live in or develop a culture of poverty. For example, middle class people who become impoverished do not automatically become members of the culture of poverty, even though they may have to live in the slums for a while. Similarly, the Jews who lived in poverty in eastern Europe did not develop a culture of poverty because their tradition of literacy and their religion gave them a sense of identification with Jews all over the world. It gave them a sense of belonging to a community which was united by a common heritage and common religious beliefs.

In the introduction to The Children of Sanchez, I listed approximately fifty traits which constitute what I call the culture of poverty. Although poverty is only one of the many traits which, in my judgment, go together, I have used it to name the total system because I consider it terribly important. However, the other traits, and especially the psychological and ideological ones, are also important and I should like to elaborate on this a bit.

The Helpless and The Homeless

The people in the culture of poverty have a strong feeling of marginality, of helplessness, of dependency, of not belonging. They are like aliens in their own country, convinced that the existing institutions do not serve their interests and needs. Along with this feeling of powerlessness is a widespread feeling of inferiority, of personal unworthiness. This is true of the slum dwellers of Mexico City, who do not constitute a distinct ethnic or racial group and do not suffer from racial discrimination. In the United States the culture of poverty of the Negroes has the additional disadvantage of racial discrimination.

People with a culture of poverty have very little sense of history. They are a marginal people who know only their own troubles, their own local conditions, their own neighborhood, their own way of life. Usually, they have neither the knowledge, the vision nor the ideology to see the similarities between their problems and those of others like themselves elsewhere in the world. In other words, they are not class conscious, although they are very sensitive indeed to status distinctions. When the poor become class conscious or members of trade union organizations, or when they adopt an internationalist outlook on the world they are, in my view, no longer part of the culture of poverty although they may still be desperately poor.

Is It All Bad?

The idea of a culture of poverty that cuts across different societies enables us to see that many of the problems we think of as distinctively our own or distinctively Negro problems (or that of any other special racial or ethnic group), also exist in countries where there are no ethnic groups involved. It also suggests that the elimination of physical poverty as such may not be enough to eliminate the culture of poverty which is a whole way of life. One can speak readily about wiping out poverty; but to wipe out a culture or sub-culture is quite a different matter, for it raises the basic question of our respect for cultural differences.

Middle class people, and this certainly includes most social scientists, tend to concentrate on the negative aspects of the culture of poverty; they tend to have negative feelings about traits such as an emphasis on the present and a neglect of the future, or on concrete as against abstract orientations. I do not intend to idealize or romanticize the culture of poverty. As someone has said, "It is easier to praise poverty than to live it." However, we must not overlook some of the positive aspects that may flow from these traits. Living immersed in the present may develop a capacity for spontaneity, for the enjoyment of the sensual, the indulgence of impulse, which is too often blunted in our middle class future-oriented man. Perhaps it is this reality of the moment that middle class existentialist writers are so desperately trying to recapture, but which the culture of poverty experiences as a natural, everyday phenomena. The frequent use of violence certainly provides a ready outlet for hostility, so that people in the culture of poverty suffer less from repression than does the middle class.

In this connection, I should also like to take exception to the trend in some studies to identify the lower class almost exclusively with vice, crime and juvenile delinquency, as if most poor people were thieves, beggars, ruffians, murderers or prostitutes. Certainly, in my own experience in Mexico, I found most of the poor decent, upright, courageous and lovable human beings. I believe it was the novelist Fielding who wrote, "The sufferings of the poor are indeed less observed than their misdeeds."

It is interesting that much the same ambivalence in the evaluation of the poor is reflected in proverbs and in literature. On the positive side, the following serve as typical:

"Blessed be ye poor: for yours is the kirgdom of God." (Luke, 6:20).

"The poor are the proteges of the Gods." (Menander, The Lady of Leucas, c. 330 B.C.)

"It is life near the bone, where it is sweetest." (H. D. Thoreau, Walden, Ch. 18.)

"The poor man alone,
When he hears the poor moan
From a morsel a morsel will give."
(Thomas Holcraft, Gaffer Gray.)

"Yes! in the poor man's garden grow
Far more than herbs and flowers,
Kind thoughts, contentment, peace of mind,
And joy for weary hours."
(Mary Howitt, The Poor Man's Garden.)

"Poverty! Thous source of human art, Thou great inspirer of the poet's song!"
(Edward Moore, Hymn to Poverty.)

"Few, save the poor, feel for the poor."
(Letitia Elizabeth Landon, The Poor.)

"Happier he, the peasant, far,
From the pangs of passion free,
That breathes the keen yet wholesome air of ragged penury."
(Thomas Gray, Ode on The Pleasure Arising from Vicissitude.)

"O happy unown'd youths! Your limbs can bear
The scorching dog-star and the winter's air,
While the rich infant, nurs'd with care and pain,
Thirsts with each heat and coughs with every rain."
(John Gay. Trivia. Bk. II, I. 145.)

"My friends are poor but honest."
(All's Well That Ends Well, I, iii, 201.)

The following illustrate the negative elements in some of the stereotypes of poverty:

"All the days of the poor are evil."
(Babylonian Talmud, Kethubot, 110b.)

"He must have a great deal of godliness who can find any satisfaction in being poor." (Cervantes, Don Quixote, Pt. II, Ch. 44.)

"Poverty is no disgrace to a man, but is is confoundedly inconvenient."
(Sydney Smith, His Wit and Wisdom (1900), p. 89.)

"The resolutions of a poor man are weak." (Doolittle, Chinese Vocabulary II, 494 (1872.)

"What can a poor man do but love and pray?" (Hartley Coleridge, Sonnets--No.30.)

"If you've really been poor, you remain poor at heart all your life."
(W. Somerset Maugham, Introduction to Arnold Bennett, The Old Wives Tale, in Ten Novels.)

"The life of the poor is the curse of the heart." (Ecclestiasticus, 38:19.)

"There is no virtue that poverty destroyeth not." (John Florio. First Fruits, Fo. 32.)

"Poverty makes some humble, but more malignant." (Bulwer-Lytton. Eugence Aram. Bk. 1, Chapter 7.)

"The devil wipes his tail with the poor man's pride." (John Ray. English Proverbs, 21.)

"The poor, inur'd to drudgery and distress,
Act without aim, think little, and feel less,
And nowhere, but in feign'd Arcadian scenes,
Taste happiness, or know what pleasure means."
(William Cowper Hope I. 7.)

In short, some see the poor as virtuous, upright, serene, independent, honest, secure, kind, simple and happy, while others see them as evil, mean, violent, sordid and criminal.

Most people in the United States find it difficult to think of poverty as a stable, persistent, ever present phenomenon, because our expanding economy and the specially favorable circumstances of our histroy have led to an optimism which makes us think that poverty is transitory. As a matter of fact, the culture of poverty in the United States is indeed of relatively limited scope; but as Michael Harrington and others show, it is probably more widespread than has been generally recognized.

Poverty Here and Abroad

In considering what can be done about the culture of poverty, we must make a sharp distinction between those countries in which it involves a relatively small segment of the population, and those in which it constitutes a very large section. Obviously, the solutions will have to differ in these two areas. In the United States, the major solution proposed by planners and social workers for dealing with what are called "multiple problem families," the "undeserving poor," and the hard core of poverty," is slowly to raise their level of living and eventually incorporate them into the middle class. And, wherever possible, there is some reliance upon psychiatric treatment in an effort to imbue these "shiftless, lazy, unambitious people" with the higher middle class aspirations.

In the undeveloped countries, where great masses of people share in the culture of poverty, I doubt that social work solutions are feasible. Nor can psychiatrists begin to cope with the magnitude of the problem. They have all they can do to deal with the growing middle class.

In the United States, delinquency, vice and violence represent the major threats to the middle class from the culture of poverty. In our country there is not threat of revolution. In the less developed countries of the world, however, the people who live in the culture of poverty may one day become organized into political movements that seek fundamental revolutionary changes and that is one reason why their existence poses terribly urgent problems.

If my brief outline of the basic psychological aspects of the culture of poverty is essentially sound, then it may be more important to offer the poor of the world's countries a genuinely revolutionary ideology rather than the promise of material goods or a quick rise in the standards of living.

It is conceivable that some countries can eliminate the culture of poverty (at least in the early stages of their industrial revolution) without at first eliminating impoverishment, by changing the value systems and attitudes of the people so they no longer feel helpless and homeless--so they begin to feel that they are living in their own country, with their institutions, their government and their leadership.

HELEN BULLARD
Executive Secretary

Office of the Mayor

ATLANTA, GEORGIA
Phone MU 8-8493

April 17, 1962

Dear Pat,

This is the first time I've heard the phrase "disadvantaged people".

I thought there might be a column in it for you, but anyway I thought you would like to see it.

Regards,

Helen Bullard

Enclosure

Half Of Urban Folk Seen "Disadvantaged" By 1970

WASHINGTON—If things go on the way they have been, by 1970, half of the people who live in our large cities will be "disadvantaged Americans" — ignorant, incompetent, maladjusted charges on the community.

This is the conclusion of the Educational Policies Commission (E. P. C.), an agency formed jointly by the National Education Association and the American Associa- of School Administrators.

What schools can and should do to halt this trend is discussed in "Education and the Disadvantaged American," published by the Commission today. The "disadvantaged" are culturally deprived persons whose habits and customs place them at a "severe disadvantage" when they come in contact with modern life. Today large numbers of these persons are moving to the cities where their coming generates problems and leads to "decay."

The Commission identifies five main streams of the disadvantaged: Negroes from the rural South, hill whites from the "Appalachian uplands"; Puerto Ricans, Mexican - Americans, and reservation Indians. Changes in their original homes and the attraction of better opportunities elsewhere have produced a migration.

"In this migration the tragic inadequacy of old cultures for new needs continues to exact its toll," the report says. "In the cities as on the farms, jobs for the unskilled are decreasing . . . They have little of the understanding required to be wise consumers. Often they and their children reject schooling. Inferior and overpriced housing further handicaps (them) . . . Racial discrimination compounds the difficulties of many. Poverty and disease continue to plague them; delinquency and crime rates rise; and the society at large appears remote and uninterested."

The picture which the Commission draws of the impact of these persons on American cities raises the question whether urban America can solve the many problems it must face. "Ironically, the services designed to help them most—education, public health, police and fire protection, sanitation, and public welfare — often appear arbitrary and undesirable to the disad - vantaged."

"Thus, local government seems foreign to the disadvantaged. It is operated by persons with whom they have no sense of identity. Their past experience offers no explanation of its operation. They mistrust its purpose and look on it as essentially hostile or oppressive, and it sometimes is. The disadvantaged citizen tends to look on the police not as the protector of law and order but as an armed enemy."

American schools must find ways to deal with these people. The Commission points out that schooling suitable for middle-class children may not work with the children of the disadvantaged. "These children's experiences at home and on the streets," the report says, "do not prepare them for a school established for another kind of child. If the school reinforces the sense of personal insignificance and inadequacy that life may have already imposed on a disadvantaged child, he is likely to benefit little from schooling. If the school insists on programs or standards that he regards as unrelated to his life, or that doom him to an unending succession of failures, he is likely to leave at the first opportunity. The forces that cause pupils to drop out of school are especially strong among the disadvantaged."

Citing experiments which offer hope that the schools can meet this challenge — the Higher Horizons program in New York City and the Food fitness club "C ence of environment.

Moreover, since "the educable person has a sense of self-respect," society must eliminate practices, such as racial discrimination, which give to many disadvantaged Americans "ample evidence that they do not enjoy the society's respect." In addition, such practices, by depriving children of needed models, "do not insulate cultures; they only prolong incompatibility."

DISCUSSING AFRICA TOUR — (Left to right) Dr. James S. Peters, II, Raymond G. Kitchener, district sales manager from KIM Royal Dutch Airlines, Hartford, Conn., and Dr. Absolom L. Vilakazi check the itinerary of the inter-racial and inter-cultural educations tour to West Africa this summer, which will be made under the sponsorship of KIM. The two Hartford educators will lead the tour, which encompasses 24 days of travel, sightseeing and area communications.

Carrollton

CARROLLTON, Ga. — Services were held at the First Baptist Church Sunday, Rev. R. L. Keels, pastor spoke at both services. Rally Day was also observed. Revs. R. L. Keels, Paul W. Robinson and Miss Exodean O'Neal of Helfin, Alabama, were dinner geusts of Mrs. Beatrice Ector. Rev. R. L Keels, Marvin Howard, Rev. Paul W. Robinson and Miss Exodean O'Neal visited with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hendrix Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Evelyn Howard visited her daughter, Miss Norrell Pinkard, at A & M College, Tuscaloosa, Alabama Sunday. Robert Hendrix, Marvin Howard and Rev. Kelly visited Jeff J. Long Sunday afternoon. The First Baptist Church will worship

CASH AND CARRY
LIMITED TIME
(Through Sunday, April 1, Only) SALE of FERTILIZERS
LOW—LOW—LOW PRICES
Two Garden Centers Only

Cotton Seed Meal Was 5.50 4.69 100-Lb. Bag

Farm Grade 6-8-6 Was 2.50 1.99 100-Lb. Bag

A New Way of Life for You . . . now in Thomasville

in Southeast Atlanta

Give your family room to LIVE . . . to GROW — in Thomasville! Say GOODBYE to RENTING, forever . . . move into a neighborhood you'll be proud to live in . . . into a home your family will love!

Thomasville, in Southeast Atlanta, is just a few steps from everywhere. And you'll be paying NO MORE for your own home than you were paying for rent!

Drive out to Thomasville, today! See the beautiful, architect-designed, three-bedroom homes — built by Crawford Corporation, a company with over a quarter-century of home-building experience!

Get on-the-spot financing with just $200 FHA closing costs . . . No down payment . . . no red tape . . . no delay. Enjoy an entirely new way of life—with ROOM and SPACE and BEAUTY in a home of your own—in Thomasville!

Drive out . . . move UP . . . MOVE IN, Thomasville, today!

The ATLANTAN, as charming as the city it's named after, has three large bedrooms, a full bath, kitchen and family room, a 16-foot formal living room with a six-foot-square front window, spacious closets, outside storage, carport PLUS a front stoop.

Two Garden Centers Only

Cotton Seed Meal	Was 5.50	4.69	100-Lb. Bag
Farm Grade 6-8-6	Was 2.50	1.99	100-Lb. Bag
German Peatmoss	Was 5.75	4.79	6 Cu. Ft.
Golden Vigoro	Was 3.95	3.49	35-Lb. Bag
Hastings' Lawn Fertilizer	Was 3.50	2.89	50-Lb. Bag
Horti-Fertz 6-8-6	Was 3.50	2.89	100-Lb. Bag
Michigan Peat	Was 2.25	1.79	100-Lb. Bag
Milorganite	Was 4.25	3.95	80-Lb. Bag
Poultry Compost	Was 1.49	1.29	50-Lb. Bag
Religro 5-10-10	Was 4.00	3.49	100-Lb. Bag
Sheep Manure	Was 2.00	1.69	50-Lb. Bag
Turfgreen (with DuPont's Uramite)	Was 5.00	4.19	50-Lb. Bag
Vertagreen	Was 5.40	3.79	100-Lb. Bag

Fertilizer Specials, Garden Centers Only

Open Sundays 1:00 P.M. to 6 P.M.

Hastings

CITY STORE
434 MARIETTA ST., N.W.
DAILY DELIVERIES JA. 2-9464

GARDEN SHOPPING CENTERS

CHESHIRE BRIDGE ROAD AT LINDBERGH DRIVE, N.E.

CASCADE ROAD AT FAIRBURN ROAD, S.W.

ed child, he is likely to benefit little from schooling. If the school insists on programs or standards that he regards as unrelated to his life, or that doom him to an unending succession of failures, he is likely to leave at the first opportunity. The forces that cause pupils to drop out of school are especially strong among the disadvantaged."

Citing experiments which offer hope that the schools can meet this challenge — the Higher Horizons program in New York City and the Ford-financed "Gray Areas" programs in 40 of the nation's largest cities — the report goes on to specific recommendations.

Ability to read — basic to success in all education, and notbaly a weakness of school dropouts — must be stressed. "Reading materials and visual aids," the report goes on to say, "should take account of the backgrounds of the children who will use them. The texts and illustrations should not refer exclusively to the middle and upper classes."

Respect for the pupil is characteristic of all good teachers, the report says, but is particularly important for the teachers of the disadvantaged.

"The effective teacher of disadvantaged children," it adds, "is constantly aware of the circum - stances that affect his pupils. He has the understanding and sympathy that prevent him from being replied by deviations from his own standards. Instead of being struck by the shortcomings of his pupils, he is encouraged by their ability, despite these handicaps, to do as well as they do"

Elaborating on this point, the report says the education which prepares teachers to deal with these pupils should include observation in disadvantaged areas, along with insights into psychology, sociology, anthropology, the science of human development, and the influ-

3 Day Week Observed. Revs. R. L. Keels, Paul W. Robinson and Miss Exodean O'Neal of Helfin, Alabama, were dinner geusts of Mrs. Beatrice Ector. Rev. R. L Keels, Marvin Howard, Rev. Paul W. Robinson and Miss Exodean O'Neal visited with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hendrix Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Evelyn Howard visited her daughter, Miss Norrell Pinkard, at A & M College, Tuscaloosa, Alabama Sunday. Robert Hendrix, Marvin Howard and Rev. Kelly visited Jeff J. Long Sunday afternoon. The First Baptist Church will worship at First Baptist of Bowdon on Thursday night. Labon C. Ransy, Mmes. Elsie Mae Pyron and Inez Crowder worshipped at Pine Tucky Baptist Church Sunday afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Lucinda Stallings Long was held at Newnan Chapel Methodist Church Thursday. She was mother of Dewey Stallings, Mmes. Annie B. Cospy and Mary L. Treadwell, city and Mrs. Hattie Jones of Newnan; Mrs. Felicia Henry and Mrs. Lottie White, Philadelphia, Pa., Gene Stallings, Washington and Carl Stallings, Atlanta.

LIVE MEASLES VACCINE

WASHINGTON — (NNPA)—The safe and effective immunization of some 400 West African children with live measles vaccine has been reported by a National Institute of Health medical team which recently concluded a two - month pilot study in Ouagadougou, Upper Volta.

AWARDEED FELLOWSHIP

WASHINGTON — (NNPA) — Howard Hamilton Mackey, head of the Department of Architecture at Howard University, has been awarded will be given during the AIA convention in Dalals, Texas, in May.

Czechs open first section of Soviet oil pipeline.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Cogitate
5. Worms, e.g.
9. Samoan port
10. French river
11. Pale
12. Unweave
14. Calls up (colloq.)
16. Tardy
17. Troubles
18. Toward
20. Scotch river
21. Glowing from heat
22. Straw hats (G.B.)
24. Thicket
25. Opinion
28. Barn invader
31. Openings (anat.)
32. Music note
33. Certain
34. Permits
36. Rolled, as a sail
38. Nimble
40. Raises
41. Elliptical
42. Leg joint
43. Tidings
44. Places

DOWN
1. Golf club
2. To countenance
3. Legal claims
4. Narrow
5. Neighbor (dial.)
6. Asian inland sea
7. Trespass
8. Seesaw
11. Armadillo
13. Dregs
15. A cork, e.g.
19. Malt kiln
22. Dutch settler of Africa
23. Tellurium (sym.)
24. Cubic centimeters (abbr.)
25. Soda flavoring
26. Western state
27. Indigenous
28. Contend against
29. Rugged mountain crests
30. Spreads grass to dry
33. Fisherman's net
35. Cabbage salad
37. B.P.O.E. members
39. City trains

SPARE SHOAT TENOR CARGO
ARTY BANDED
ISE TARSI
RI NOSY NAW
SWANK BASE
STARS FALSE
EERY SENSE
ADD TEAK MY RARER ABO
POOLED BULK AROMA PUREE
TAMED AMASS

Yesterday's Answer

with a [illegible]-foot-square front window, spacious closets, outside storage, carport PLUS a front stoop.

The WESTERNAIRE makes you think of the wide, open spaces —gives you roominess at an economical price! It has three big bedrooms, large kitchen and family room, a formal living room that's over 18-feet long, laundry and storage area inside and a storage area outside . . . and there's a 12-foot-square entrance porch.

The CALIFORNIAN offers the beauty and spaciousness famous in the most expensive West Coast homes. The master bedroom is a huge 13'5" by 11', and the other two bedrooms are almost as large. There's an elegant formal living room, kitchen and family room, laundry and storage area inside and another big storage area outside.

Give Your Family a Wonderful, New Way of Life in THOMASVILLE for just $59 PLUS TAXES & INSURANCE PER MONTH... and

NO DOWN PAYMENT

PAY ONLY $200 CLOSING COSTS FHA

Act Now! come out Today

Thomasville is located in southeast Atlanta, just minutes from everywhere! Take McDonough Road south to Isa Drive. Turn right on Isa Drive to Thomasville. From south Atlanta, take Moreland Avenue north to McDonough Road. Turn left on Isa Drive.

Thomasville, inc.

PHONE 627-4834

Choose NOW! 75 homes ALREADY SOLD!

WHO'S GOT THE ACTION?

Welfare Planning in the City

David R. Hunter
Ford Foundation

Keynote Address
Midwest Regional Conference
United Community Funds and Councils of America
Springfield, Illinois
February 24, 1963

WHO'S GOT THE ACTION?

WELFARE PLANNING IN THE CITY

It is very flattering and a great honor to be invited to deliver the keynote address at so august a gathering as this. It's also a nuisance and rather frightening, if one has any conscience at all about such things. I have sat through enough keynote addresses to know that one can get away with delivering himself of thirty minutes of pomposities, banalities, and platitudes, after which he will be applauded and politely sent on his way in a glow of self-satisfaction.

But this sort of thing really isn't fair. Time is too short to waste it thus. There are too many desperate problems facing us for us to do anything other than talk about them directly and openly in a meeting of this kind. There are too many issues dividing us for us to fail to take every opportunity to drag them out from under the rug. Too many of us spend our days keeping our necks safely in.. At this meeting, I take it, sticking them out is in order.

Therefore, in preparing for this speech I have tried to eschew the cavalier and the casual and sweated out what I really think about some of the issues and problems that crop up under the heading of Welfare Planning in the City. I find that I'm not sure what I think about some of them. Others I'm willing to take some pot shots at. This is done in all humility, with full recognition that I don't have all the answers any more than you do. But if we don't say some things out loud, we will never know whether or not we are wrong and we will never get them on the table for full examination and argument if need be.

This perhaps sounds more threatening than it is supposed to be. It's really not so bad. I merely wanted to establish an atmosphere conducive to shirt-sleeve discussion, to disavow any intention to be dogmatic, and to say that if any of the ideas which follow are offensive, they are not said in an offensive or arrogant spirit.

I have noticed lately a fair amount of exhortation being addressed to welfare councils. This has come from sources within or close to welfare councils. It is exhortation to look at the big picture; to help rebuild our cities; to come to grips with critical social welfare issues; to be courageous and unfettered by the accidents of history; to relate social planning to physical planning, local planning with area, state and national; to prepare comprehensive social plans; and so on.

Something must be generating this exhortation. Something must be eating somebody.

Perhaps it would help us to get a line on all this by looking at some of the big problems besetting the American city today and thinking a little bit about how welfare councils fit in.

But first, it may be worth reminding ourselves that welfare councils exist because social problems exist. This is the milieu that generated them. This is the touchstone against which they must currently be tested. Social agencies grew up to help people in various kinds of need. Councils of social agencies developed at a later stage in response to the obvious desirability of coordinating agency services, filling gaps, and avoiding overlap. Welfare councils, community planning councils, or united community services organizations are a still higher level of development, but always in response to and conditioned by social need and social problems.

Let's start with low income. There are two aspects of low income that make trouble for American society. One is the absolute fact of deprivation and its results in inhibiting human development of all kinds. The other is the insidious fact of relative deprivation, that is being relatively poor in an affluent society. We have both to an intolerable degree if we are serious about our ideals of equalitarianism, the open society, and opportunity for all.

Two simple data support this statement. In 1960, 20% of all American families had incomes of less than the equivalent of $4,000 for a family of four per year. That is poverty.

In 1959, the top one-tenth of the population had more income than the bottom five tenths. The bottom three-tenths had only 8.6% of the total income. The top three-tenths had 57.4%.

I don't believe the fact that poverty is a social and economic problem needs much arguing. Nor does the fact that its results are inimical to the purposes welfare councils are supposed to serve. It is a problem with which welfare councils should be concerned by their own definition of what they are. Poverty means human misery. It traps people in vicious circles from which it is very difficult to escape. The significance of "relative deprivation" is that this is one of the prime forces making for deviant behavior, another of the major concerns of welfare councils. A sense of deprivation and injustice has fertile soil to grow in where those who have less are surrounded at close proximity by those who have much. Feelings of unjust deprivation, of unfairly depressed status have much to do with generating troublesome behavior among the young.

That, very briefly, establishes the premise that low income and poverty in the absolute sense and in the sense of relative deprivation are problems of current and legitimate concern for welfare councils.

What can and should be done about it?

Poverty could be eliminated for ten billion dollars per year, 2% of the gross national product, less than 10% of tax revenues, 1/5 of the cost of national defense. That s a stark and dramatic statement and of course refers only to how much money it would take to abolish poverty if it were just distributed to all those below the poverty line. Unfortunately the solution to the puzzle is a little more complicated than that. The question here is that while low income is one of the problems which gave rise to the development of welfare councils, how much can they really do about it?

Even if the answer was as simple as a dole, or a guaranteed minimum money income for everyone, this kind of thing is not for welfare councils. This is strictly government business, and while welfare councils are supposed to cooperate with government, they cannot be seen as a substitute for government without undermining some basic tenets of democracy.

But the answer to low income is not that simple. I am not going to be so foolhardy as to stand here and deliver myself of the ultimate formula for the abolition of poverty. However, I think it wouldn't be a waste of our time to examine some of the things the savants tell us are relevant, and see what the role of welfare councils might be.

A recent book on this subject said: "Education is the major determinant of income." Just like that. And it supported this with facts. Less education, less income. The corporation president who quit school in the eighth grade is getting to be a rare bird.

For education to have its effect on the low income still a part of the American scene, some big and difficult things will have to be done entailing painful and often costly decisions. Dr. Conant, for example, says that twice as much per pupil should be spent in slum schools as in the suburbs. Better ways of preparing non-college bound youth for the world of work and facilitating the transition from school to job are urgent. Better ways of helping children from culturally-deprived backgrounds master the English language are a top priority. Without at least minimal language skill, you go nowhere. These are but a few of things in education which demand immediate and large scale action.

Who is going to make the decisions which will be most central to keeping more kids in school longer? Who is going to make the decision which will adjust curricula, methods of teaching, and teacher training better to meet the current requirements of all levels of our population? In the main it will be boards of education; state departments of education; local, state, and federal legislators; redevelopment agencies; and employment services. These are not the only sources of influence in this picture, but they are the holders of the main action.

Reverting to the subject of direct income maintenance as one strategy in tackling poverty, we see again the major responsibility in the public domain. Major decisions in this field cannot be left to welfare councils whether public agencies are participants or not. Nor can councils legitimately seek to take prime initiative here. They have an important role to play, but that role must be properly assessed in the light of the extent of the problem and the final responsibility of the public services involved to the electorate. In realistic terms what are the institutions aside from the labor market itself and private employers which will govern what sort of basic income maintenance policies our society will underwrite? Legislatures, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Department of Agriculture, the Area Redevelopment Administration, the Department of Labor, and state and local counterparts of these.

One cannot talk about poverty or low income without talking about unemployment, under-employment, and under-compensated employment. We have a great deal of all three in this country. They all make their contribution to this subject and to the broad subject of "social problems." What do people think about and do to reduce unemployment? They try to introduce policies and measures which will speed economic growth, to expand international markets, to stimulate domestic demand, to create new employment opportunities either directly or through new product development, to reduce arbitrary obstacles to equal employment opportunities for all, to use tax incentives for economic development ends, and to prepare young workers better for their entry into the labor market.

Who must do these things? Who, and only who can do these things? Business and labor leadership, the Council of Economic Advisers, the Treasury, the Department of State, the Department of Labor, the President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities, the schools.

To make a difference in the position of people who find themselves among the poor, calls for complex and large scale action on the part of institutions, largely although not exclusively in the public sector, over which welfare councils do not have much influence or control.

Race is another festering city problem. The racial minorities in America contribute disproportionately to the social welfare problems with which welfare councils are concerned. Let us limit the discussion here to Negroes although many of the significant factors apply equally or nearly equally to Puerto Ricans and Mexicans. The facts of the Negro's contribution to problems of dependency, health, crime, housing, educational failure, etc. don't need to be rehearsed. They are too well-known. I also don't think we need to take time here to argue against the view that inherent defects in the Negro character and culture are at fault.

Our task here is to examine some of the disrupting social situations to which the fact of race is a direct contributory factor, to explore possible lines of action which might offer some hope of changing these situations, and then again to see "who's got the action."

The disproportionate contribution by Negroes to social problems will be cut down to size when the Negro is just another person, when Negro and white societies are truly integrated, when the Negro has equal opportunities to be bad and to be good along with the rest of us. He is excessively rich in opportunities and invitations to be bad now.

To move toward that goal, what are the requisite actions? Abolition of discriminatory practices in employment and housing; provision of employment opportunities that will enable men to fill the role of family head and supporter; compensatory education in the schools where Negro children are concentrated to make up for the years of minimal education they and their progenitors have had; conscious and consistent effort to seek the full participation of Negroes in the decision-making processes of the community - political, business, civic; the extension of business and housing credit on a non-discriminatory basis.

It has taken me just a minute or so to mention these things, but they are obviously profound and far-reaching, every one of them. They are the business of everyone, but they are also the business, or had better be, of some specific institutions. Chambers of Commerce and other business organizations should play a prominent role in breaking down barriers to employment and opening new opportunities. State and local fair employment practices committees; councils on human relations; boards of education; employment services; the mayors' and county supervisors' offices. On this subject some basic decisions have to be made in the hearts of men, but in the meantime there are some urgent decisions and actions to be taken by such as these institutions. The right kinds of decisions and actions will have the effect of reducing social welfare problems.

Welfare councils can take leadership initiative, serve as good examples, point to community deficiencies, demonstrate the effects of racial discrimination on welfare problems, and urge action on strategic community decision makers. To date not many welfare councils have demonstrated their capacity to exercise central and decisive influence in this important area of welfare problems, however.

There are two more welfare problem-producing phenomena I would like to mention before moving to some generalizations on the basis of all this. One is the sharpening class lines between inner-city and suburb and the other is juvenile delinquency.

A recent writer on the future of the American city pointed to the increasingly lower class character of the inner-city as compared to the predominantly middle class outer areas. He sees this as a trend which will continue unabated unless some regional planning is done to counteract it. His particular solution happens to be moderate-sized scattered population groupings, each with its own industry and commerce and interconnected with all the others by high-speed mass transportation. Whether or not you buy that approach, his conclusion about the deepening class gulf between inner-city and outer areas is undoubtedly true as a generalization. He speculated that in the coming years geographical color barriers will go down and that the new bigotry may be epitomized by the suburbanite's rhetorical question: "Would you want your daughter to marry a moron"?

A few data will demonstrate the position. In 1960 the median number of school years completed by residents of the city of Chicago was 10. In the six county regions of which Chicago is a part, the median was 10.9. In 1959 the medican income for Chicago city families was $6,738; for families in the six counties, $7,343. Unemployment in the city was 5.2% and 4% in the six counties.

Such a trend has profound implications for anybody planning for social welfare.

The dangers of deeper class cleavages sharpened by georgraphical location are all too obvious. The concentration of social problems and resultant social as well as money costs among the lower socio-economic groups within the city proper is already apparent. This is accompanied by the movement of industrial and commercial enterprises as well as individuals with higher incomes to the outlying areas leaving a reduced tax base behind for the city to tap to meet its rising responsibilities.

Social stratification is a complex and pervasive condition of human society that is hard to tackle and isn't going to change overnight. There are differing opinions about the nature of the beast, about its significance for good or ill, and about what you do about it either way. There are not very many people around today who believe that there will ever come a time when all men are equal in condition and talent. However, there are plenty of people around who think that attention to some of the aspects and effects of social stratification is overdue. Is it desirable to lure more middle class people back to the city and, if so, how? With better schools? Different kind of housing? More police protection? Although there are always going to be people with less money, less education, and fewer privileges than others, how do you take some of the sting out of this condition? The Romans tried to do it by bread and circuses. Is it possible to do it by assigning a higher social value to less skilled work than is now the case? Is it possible to make the channels to upward mobility more visible and more accessible than they now are? Is it possible to mix up the classes in a variety of ways such as residence, common endeavors of one sort or another, schooling together, etc. so that eventually some meaningful communication replaces the almost total silence of the present?

It is clear that social class is relevant to many social welfare problems. It is not so clear as to what should be done about it. At the very least there is need to know more about it, and to recognize it as an element in many specific problem manifestations. I believe we are also challenged to do better about opening channels to higher status; about making these channels visible to lower status children and youth; about preparing them better to move upward in education and occupation.

One common characteristic of low status people which contributes to the generation of welfare problems is a sense of lack of control of their own destinies, a sense of isolation and alienation from the people who really run things. Many institutions can do something about this, at least to some degree, by consciously sharing control and decision-making with representatives of lower status groups. Welfare councils are not yet widely acclaimed for having moved very far in this direction.

The last ingredient in this big city stew is juvenile delinquency. Probably not many welfare council meetings go by without some mention of this troublesome phenomenon of the urban scene the world over. Here again is something that gets talked about and worried about as an entity in itself and yet its roots are as twisted and intertwined and camouflaged as those of any of the other problems we have touched on. However, the weight of the best evidence and thinking today seems to favor the idea that the bulk of juvenile delinquency is the product of the social and economic forces of the city. It happens with greatest frequency among those groups of the population who have least opportunity to achieve a self-respecting status in American society through legitimate means. It is one of the way-points in the vicious circle of low income, low education, low aspirations, low achievement, values at odds with the dominant values, and low self-esteem.

To make much of an impact on the problem of delinquency, some serious and large-scale measures will have to be taken. These will have to do with improving the educational process for low income youth, expanding opportunities for employment and for legitimate social relationships, and reducing the isolation and alienation of youth from community institutions and agencies. This is a tall order and calls for heavy commitment on the part of local government departments, board of education, commerce and industry, as well as the voluntary agencies which have traditionally been concerned with the prevention of delinquency.

There are other pressing problems that could be expanded on here: the effects of increasing mechanization and automation in commerce and industry on the labor force; the continuing too rapid and widespread deterioration of housing; the failure of our judicial system to provide equal justice before the law for rich and poor alike.

As we look at this depressing array of city problems, we cannot but be impressed by how intricately they are all interwoven in the warp and woof of the fabric of the city. None of them is really isolable. They all are part of or manifestations of the system or interlocking series of systems that is the big city. You can't push one part of it without jiggling another. And you can't really fundamentally affect these systemic elements or manifestations without touching the system itself.

That is really the basic question I am raising here. Since the biggest, most urgent, most intransigent problems of the city are either integral elements of the system of the city or represent fall-out from its inefficient operation, what sort of structure is it necessary to have in order adequately to diagnose, prognosticate, formulate policy, and develop comprehensive integrated planning to bring about the changes required to cure and prevent these problems?

Another question corollary to this is: which social welfare problems are most susceptible to direct attack and which are more likely to be affected by indirection; which problems can effectively be dealt with at their immediate level of expression and which by changing the generating milieu? An example of this is the problem of unwed motherhood among Negroes. Is an impact on this problem more likely to be made by working directly with the mothers and by placing the children or by making it economically more possible for Negro men to be self-supporting heads of families? Judgments of this kind are all-important in allocating limited community resources on a scale of priorities. A slightly different way of phrasing the question is. which welfare problems are best dealt with by focusing welfare services on them and which by working on the conditions that produce them?

It seems to me that it is against these questions that the structure, responsibilities, and functions of urban welfare councils must be examined today.

The solutions, or at least possibilities of improvement, for many problems which are identified as social welfare problems, lie outside of the organized welfare system itself, public or private. The switches that need to be pulled are often not found in the offices of the welfare agencies but elsewhere. Let's take an example of a banker who sits as a hard-working member of a welfare council. It is entirely possible that he would be doing more toward the solution of a number of welfare problems if he took a leadership role among his banking colleagues to get them to form a consortium to extend long-term,low-interest loans and technical assistance to young Negroes who wish to start independent small businesses; or to apply pressure and persuasion in the mortgage banking fraternity to the end that ethnicity per se no longer be a conditional factor in mortgage loans.

Or take the example of a trade union representative on a council. It is entirely possible that he would undermine more welfare problems if he devoted his energy to opening up apprenticeship opportunities to young people, and particularly minority group youth, in those unions where the doors are now tightly closed.

Welfare councils are made up of powerful people. The non-professional people on councils wouldn't be there if they weren't powerful. Even though that is the case, however, there is a question as to whether or not the council in its present guise and location in the community is powerful enough to do what it usually says it wants to do. The power of the powerful people on the council is generally used to gain financial support for the council and the community agencies. It is not frequently enough used to influence the non-welfare parts of the system of the city which must be influenced if welfare problems are to be more than palliated.

Some of the most thoughtful people in this field have been saying recently that welfare councils should undertake to produce comprehensive social plans for the city. It is not clear to me whether this means the lay-out of social services over the next five, ten or twenty-five years, or this plus objectives to be sought in other social aspects of the city, such as what social class mix is desirable and how you get it; what racial mix; what land-use patterns in terms of nurturing the most viable and dynamic community relationships; or what public housing policy should be pursued in the light of our experience to date with high-rise housing projects.

Assuming that it is possible to make a "comprehensive social plan," (which I, personally, am not so sure of) is the welfare council the proper vehicle for this? A plan, after all, is more than a Utopian dream. Wherever it says that something shall be done, by the same token it says that something shall not be done. This implies that a plan is backed up by the power to impose sanctions and offer incentives. Does sufficient power of this kind reside in a welfare council and should it rightfully reside there? I don't think so.

When we are talking about influencing all of the interrelated parts of the system of the city, there seems to me to be little alternative to placing primary responsibility for this in local government itself. Anything other than this would be essentially undemocratic. Welfare councils, therefore, should not feel guilty when they have shied from considering themselves as the social planning mechanism for the city. I believe this is the correct posture. Any other posture would be presumptuous since councils are accountable to the people at large only to the degree that they impose accountability on themselves.

Does this mean that when it comes to social planning, councils should fold up their tents and steal away? Not at all. One of the precious features of the American scene is voluntarism and citizen engagement with community concerns. The welfare council epitomizes this.

In the broad social planning and social policy development that needs to be done in the city, the council has a key role to play. The trick is to see this role in proper perspective. The council should not attempt that which it should not do and that which it cannot adequately do because of its very nature. One thing it certainly can and should do is to exert leadership in getting local government, public institutions, political leaders, representatives of the economic determinants in the community, and voluntary agencies to tackle the social problems of the city, root and branch, in an integrated and comprehensive manner. The council can act as prodderm challenger, inspirer, and keeper of the vision. It can, if it will, rise above narrow constituencies and point out the true long-range interests of the community. Because of the commitment of powerful people to the council, it can directly, or indirectly through them to the groups they represent, call for changes in policies and practices outside the welfare system itself which produce welfare problems. Because of its unofficial character, it can provide a platform, a channel for expression, and a vehicle for participation in decision-making for those to whom these channels are now largely inaccessible. And let us not forget that the job of coordination of welfare services is not of minor importance. Just because something beyond that is required to cope with the social problems of the big city, doesn't mean that that function itself is of less value.

Finally, I, for one, will be happier when the conversation around welfare councils is couched less in terms of "needs" and "services." Willy-nilly I think these words have become loaded with meanings which are inimical to the best possibilities of our coming to grips in a big way with the big problems facing us. When we speak of "needs" and "services," I think we get stuck in pity and compassion and noble impulses to do something for the downtrodden and dispossessed. I don't believe salvation lies this way. The greater challenge to all of us and specifically to welfare councils is to look at the social and economic and political structures and systems that produce the human wreckage either because they work too well or not well enough; to look at them unsentimentally, with facts and with theory; to analyze how they need to be changed; to assess realistically how they can be changed and by whom. When this is seen clearly, it is time for the sophisticated use of power to make things move. The council itself may have the power. If it has only the vision but not the power, it must ascertain who has the power, who's got the action, and then exploit its own resources to activate that power toward raising the levels of community welfare.

David R. Hunter
Midwest Regional Conference
United Community Funds and Councils of America
Springfield, Illinois ---- February 24, 1963.

Pat Waters
Secretary Reg Council

FOR RELEASE AT 12 NOON (EST) March 16, 1964

NOTICE: There should be no premature release of this Message to the Congress, nor should its contents be paraphrased, alluded to or hinted at in earlier stories. There is a total embargo on this message until 12:00 noon March 16, 1964, which includes any and all references to any material in this message.

Pierre Salinger
Press Secretary to the President

THE WHITE HOUSE

MESSAGE ON POVERTY

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

We are citizens of the richest and most fortunate nation in the history of the world.

One hundred and eighty years ago we were a small country struggling for survival on the margin of a hostile land.

Today we have established a civilization of free men which spans an entire continent.

With the growth of our country has come opportunity for our people -- opportunity to educate our children, to use our energies in productive work, to increase our leisure -- opportunity for almost every American to hope that through work and talent he could create a better life for himself and his family.

The path forward has not been an easy one.

But we have never lost sight of our goal: an America in which every citizen shares all the opportunities of his society, in which every man has a chance to advance his welfare to the limit of his capacities.

We have come a long way toward this goal.

We still have a long way to go.

The distance which remains is the measure of the great unfinished work of our society.

To finish that work I have called for a national war on poverty. Our objective: total victory.

There are millions of Americans -- one fifth of our people -- who have not shared in the abundance which has been granted to most of us, and on whom the gates of opportunity have been closed.

What does this poverty mean to those who endure it?

It means a daily struggle to secure the necessities for even a meager existence. It means that the abundance, the comforts, the opportunities they see all around them are beyond their grasp.

more

Worst of all, it means hopelessness for the young.

The young man or woman who grows up without a decent education, in a broken home, in a hostile and squalid environment, in ill health or in the face of racial injustice -- that young man or woman is often trapped in a life of poverty.

He does not have the skills demanded by a complex society. He does not know how to acquire those skills. He faces a mounting sense of despair which drains initiative and ambition and energy.

Our tax cut will create millions of new jobs -- new exits from poverty.

But we must also strike down all the barriers which keep many from using those exits.

The war on poverty is not a struggle simply to support people, to make them dependent on the generosity of others.

It is a struggle to give people a chance.

It is an effort to allow them to develop and use their capacities, as we have been allowed to develop and use ours, so that they can share, as others share, in the promise of this nation.

We do this, first of all, because it is right that we should.

From the establishment of public education and land grant colleges through agricultural extension and encouragement to industry, we have pursued the goal of a nation with full and increasing opportunities for all its citizens.

The war on poverty is a further step in that pursuit.

We do it also because helping some will increase the prosperity of all.

Our fight against poverty will be an investment in the most valuable of our resources -- the skills and strength of our people.

And in the future, as in the past, this investment will return its cost many fold to our entire economy.

If we can raise the annual earnings of 10 million among the poor by only $1,000 we will have added 14 billion dollars a year to our national output. In addition we can make important reductions in public assistance payments which now cost us 4 billion dollars a year, and in the large costs of fighting crime and delinquency, disease and hunger.

This is only part of the story.

Our history has proved that each time we broaden the base of abundance, giving more people the chance to produce and consume, we create new industry, higher production, increased earnings and better income for all.

Giving new opportunity to those who have little will enrich the lives of all the rest.

Because it is right, because it is wise, and because, for the first time in our history, it is possible to conquer poverty, I submit, for the consideration of the Congress and the country, the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

The Act does not merely expand old programs or improve what is already being done.

It charts a new course.

It strikes at the causes, not just the consequences of poverty.

It can be a milestone in our one-hundred eighty year search for a better life for our people.

This Act provides five basic opportunities.

It will give almost half a million underprivileged young Americans the opportunity to develop skills, continue education, and find useful work.

It will give every American community the opportunity to develop a comprehensive plan to fight its own poverty -- and help them to carry out their plans.

It will give dedicated Americans the opportunity to enlist as volunteers in the war against poverty.

It will give many workers and farmers the opportunity to break through particular barriers which bar their escape from poverty.

It will give the entire nation the opportunity for a concerted attack on poverty through the establishment, under my direction, of the Office of Economic Opportunity, a national headquarters for the war against poverty.

This is how we propose to create these opportunities.

First we will give high priority to helping young Americans who lack skills, who have not completed their education or who cannot complete it because they are too poor.

The years of high school and college age are the most critical stage of a young person's life. If they are not helped then,many will be condemned to a life of poverty which they, in turn, will pass on to their children.

I therefore recommend the creation of a Job Corps, a Work-Training Program, and a Work Study Program.

A new national Job Corps will build toward an enlistment of 100,000 young men. They will be drawn from those whose background, health and education make them least fit for useful work.

Those who volunteer will enter more than 100 Camps and Centers around the country.

Half of these young men will work, in the first year, on special conservation projects to give them education, useful work experience and to enrich the natural resources of the country.

Half of these young men will receive, in the first year, a blend of training, basic education and work experience in Job Training Centers.

These are not simply camps for the underprivileged. They are new educational institutions, comparable in innovation to the land grant colleges. Those who enter them will emerge better qualified to play a productive role in American society.

more

A new national Work-Training Program operated by the Department of Labor will provide work and training for 200,000 American men and women between the ages of 16 and 21. This will be developed through state and local governments and non-profit agencies.

Hundreds of thousands of young Americans badly need the experience, the income, and the sense of purpose which useful full or part-time work can bring. For them such work may mean the difference between finishing school or dropping out. Vital community activities from hospitals and playgrounds to libraries and settlement houses are suffering because there are not enough people to staff them.

We are simply bringing these needs together.

A new national Work-Study Program operated by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare will provide federal funds for part-time jobs for 140,000 young Americans who do not go to college because they cannot afford it.

There is no more senseless waste than the waste of the brainpower and skill of those who are kept from college by economic circumstance. Under this program they will, in a great American tradition, be able to work their way through school.

They and the country will be richer for it.

Second, through a new Community Action program we intend to strike at poverty at its source -- in the streets of our cities and on the farms of our countryside among the very young and the impoverished old.

This program asks men and women throughout the country to prepare long-range plans for the attack on poverty in their own local communities.

These are not plans prepared in Washington and imposed upon hundreds of different situations.

They are based on the fact that local citizens best understand their own problems, and know best how to deal with those problems.

These plans will be local plans striking at the many unfilled needs which underlie poverty in each community, not just one or two. Their components and emphasis will differ as needs differ.

These plans will be local plans calling upon all the resources available to the community -- federal and state, local and private, human and material.

And when these plans are approved by the Office of Economic Opportunity, the federal government will finance up to 90% of the additional cost for the first two years.

The most enduring strength of our nation is the huge reservoir of talent, initiative and leadership which exists at every level of our society.

Through the Community Action Program we call upon this, our greatest strength, to overcome our greatest weakness.

Third, I ask for the authority to recruit and train skilled volunteers for the war against poverty.

Thousands of Americans have volunteered to serve the needs of other lands.

Thousands more want the chance to serve the needs of their own land.

They should have that chance.

Among older people who have retired, as well as among the young, among women as well as men, there are many Americans who are ready to enlist in our war against poverty.

They have skills and dedication. They are badly needed.

If the State requests them, if the community needs and will use them, we will recruit and train them and give them the chance to serve.

Fourth, we intend to create new opportunities for certain hard-hit groups to break out of the pattern of poverty.

Through a new program of loans and guarantees we can provide incentives to those who will employ the unemployed.

Through programs of work and retraining for unemployed fathers and mothers we can help them support their families in dignity while preparing themselves for new work.

Through funds to purchase needed land, organize cooperatives, and create new and adequate family farms we can help those whose life on the land has been a struggle without hope.

Fifth, I do not intend that the war against poverty become a series of uncoordinated and unrelated efforts -- that it perish for lack of leadership and direction.

Therefore this bill creates, in the Executive Office of the President, a new Office of Economic Opportunity. Its Director will be my personal Chief of Staff for the War against poverty. I intend to appoint Sargent Shriver to this post.

He will be directly responsible for these new programs. He will work with and through existing agencies of the government.

This program -- the Economic Opportunity Act -- is the foundation of our war against poverty. But it does not stand alone.

For the past three years this government has advanced a number of new proposals which strike at important areas of need and distress.

I ask the Congress to extend those which are already in action, and to establish those which have already been proposed.

There are programs to help badly distressed areas such as the Area Redevelopment Act, and the legislation now being prepared to help Appalachia.

There are programs to help those without training find a place in today's complex society -- such as the Manpower Development Training Act and the Vocational Education Act for youth.

There are programs to protect those who are specially vulnerable to the ravages of poverty -- hospital insurance for the elderly, protection for migrant farm workers, a food stamp program for the needy, coverage for millions not now protected by a minimum wage, new and expanded unemployment benefits for men out of work, a Housing and Community Development bill for those seeking decent homes.

Finally there are programs which help the entire country, such as aid to education which, by raising the quality of schooling available to every American child, will give a new chance for knowledge to the children of the poor.

I ask immediate action on all these programs.

What you are being asked to consider is not a simple or an easy program. But poverty is not a simple or an easy enemy.

It cannot be driven from the land by a single attack on a single front. Were this so we would have conquered poverty long ago.

Nor can it be conquered by government alone.

For decades American labor and American business, private institutions and private individuals have been engaged in strengthening our economy and offering new opportunity to those in need.

We need their help, their support and their full participation.

Through this program we offer new incentives and new opportunities for cooperation, so that all the energy of our nation, not merely the efforts of government, can be brought to bear on our common enemy.

- - - - -

Today, for the first time in our history, we have the power to strike away the barriers to full participation in our society. Having the power, we have the duty.

The Congress is charged by the Constitution to "provide ... for the general welfare of the United States." Our present abundance is a measure of its success in fulfilling that duty. Now Congress is being asked to extend that welfare to all our people.

The President of the United States is President of all the people in every section of the country. But this office also holds a special responsibility to the distressed and disinherited, the hungry and the hopeless of this abundant nation.

It is in pursuit of that special responsibility that I submit this Message to you today.

The new program I propose is within our means. Its cost of 970 million dollars is 1% of our national budget -- and every dollar I am requesting for this program is already included in the budget I sent to Congress in January.

But we cannot measure its importance by its cost.

For it charts an entirely new course of hope for our people.

We are fully aware that this program will not eliminate all the poverty in America in a few months or a few years. Poverty is deeply rooted and its causes are many.

But this program will show the way to new opportunities for millions of our fellow citizens.

It will provide a lever with which we can begin to open the door to our prosperity for those who have been kept outside.

It will also give us the chance to test our weapons, to try our energy and ideas and imagination for the many battles yet to come. As conditions change, and as experience illuminates our difficulties, we will be prepared to modify our strategy.

And this program is much more than a beginning.

Rather it is a commitment. It is a total commitment by this President, and this Congress, and this nation, to pursue victory over the most ancient of mankind's enemies.

On many historic occasions the President has requested from Congress the authority to move against forces which were endangering the well-being of our country.

This is such an occasion.

On similar occasions in the past we have often been called upon to wage war against foreign enemies which threatened our freedom. Today we are asked to declare war on a domestic enemy which threatens the strength of our nation and the welfare of our people.

If we now move forward against this enemy -- if we can bring to the challenges of peace the same determination and strength which has brought us victory in war -- then this day and this Congress will have won a secure and honorable place in the history of the nation, and the enduring gratitude of generations of Americans yet to come.

LYNDON B. JOHNSON

THE WHITE HOUSE,

March 16, 1964.

#####

CHARLES LONGSTREET WELTNER
FIFTH DISTRICT, GEORGIA

BANKING AND CURRENCY COMMITTEE

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

March 17, 1964

File under Poverty

Mr. Pat Waters
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Pat:

Attached is the list we discussed.

Also enclosed is the President's Message on "War on Poverty". I will send you a copy of the proposed legislation as soon as it comes in.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Gerald T. Horton
Administrative Assistant

jdr
Enclosures

MEMORANDUM JULY 3, 1961

TO: ROBERT F. KENNEDY, ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES
THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION
THE CIVIL RIGHTS DIVISION, JUSTICE DEPARTMENT, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

FROM: WYATT TEE WALKER, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

HENRY SCHWARZSCHILD, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR CONGREGATION SOLEL, GLENCOE, ILLINOIS

RE: INTERSTATE TRAVEL IN ALABAMA AND MISSISSIPPI, VIA COMMON CARRIER

PREFACE

THIS MEMORANDUM IS BEING FORWARDED TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES, ROBERT F. KENNEDY; THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION; AND THE CIVIL RIGHTS DIVISION OF THE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT. IT CONTAINS A PERSONAL EYE-WITNESS ACCOUNT OF AN INTERSTATE JOURNEY FROM ATLANTA, GEORGIA, TO JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI, VIA GREYHOUND AND TRAILWAY BUS LINES. THIS MEMORANDUM CAN BE THOROUGHLY DOCUMENTED BY REPUTABLE ADULT CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

PURPOSE OF MEMO

OUR PURPOSE FOR FILING THIS MEMORANDUM WITH THE ABOVE-MENTIONED DIVISIONS AND AGENCY OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT IS TWOFOLD: FIRST, TO PROVIDE A FIRST HAND ACCOUNT OF WHAT A NEGRO PASSENGER CONFRONTS IN INTERSTATE TRAVEL AND/OR A GROUP TRAVELING AS AN INTERGRATED PARTY. IT IS INTERESTING THAT IN THE FACE OF THE 'PROVOCATIVE' NATURE OF A FREEDOM RIDE, THAT THE VIOLATIONS OF THE FEDERAL LAW GOVERNING INTERSTATE TRAVEL AND ICC REGULATIONS HAVE ALL BEEN ON THE PART OF THE RACIST OPPOSITION. NOT AT ANY POINT, EITHER IN PRACTICE OR OBJECTIVE, HAVE THE RIDERS SOUGHT TO EXERCISE ANY PRACTICE VIOLATIVE OF WHAT IS ALREADY STATUTORY AND SPELLED OUT IN PREVIOUS ICC REGULATIONS.

THE ADDENDUM THAT DESCRIBES GENERAL TREATMENT FOR INMATES AT THE HINDS COUNTY JAIL IS ABSOLUTELY FACTUAL. TO BE SURE, THE SHERIFF, THE JAILERS, ETC., MAINTAIN A POSTURE IN RACE RELATIONS FAR DIFFERENT FROM OURS, BUT OUR INSISTENCE IS THAT EVEN FELONS AND CRIMINALS (WHICH FREEDOM RIDERS ARE NOT) DESERVE HUMANE TREATMENT. THIRTEEN WOMEN IN ONE 13 X 15 CELL FOR FIVE MINUTES IS FIVE MINUTES TOO LONG! CERTAINLY, THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HAS SOME MINIMUM CODE FOR PENAL INSTITUTIONS SO FAR AS SANITARY FACILITIES AND/OR CONDITIONS ARE CONCERNED. WE PRESUME THAT A CITIZEN'S JAILING ON A DUBIOUS CHARGE DOES NOT ABROGATE ALL OF HIS CONSTITUTIONAL AND HUMAN RIGHTS.

WE RESPECTFULLY REQUEST YOUR CAREFUL PERUSAL AND SINCERE CONCERN WITH A HOPE THAT IMMEDIATE STEPS BE TAKEN TO REMEDY THE INCONVENIENCE AND HARASSMENT OF INTERSTATE PASSENGERS OF COLOR AND THEIR WHITE COMPANIONS AND THE MALTREATMENT OF INMATES AT THE HINDS COUNTY JAIL, WHETHER THEY BE THERE AS A MATTER OF CONSCIENCE OR FOR A NORMAL STATUTORY PENALTY.

M E M O R A N D U M . . . . .

TRIP

A GROUP OF NINE TRAVELERS (FIVE MEN, FOUR OF THEM NEGROES, AND FOUR WOMEN, ONE OF THEM NEGRO,) LED BY THE REV. WYATT TEE WALKER, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE SOUTHERN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE, DR. MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., PRESIDENT, LEFT FROM ATLANTA, GEORGIA, GREYHOUND BUS TERMINAL ON TUESDAY, JUNE 20, 1961, ON THE 12:30 P.M. BUS. IN THIS BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE HARASSMENT WHICH THE GROUP ENCOUNTERED ON ITS TRIP, WE SHALL DISREGARD THE EXPERIENCES OF ORDINARY DISCOURTESY ON THE PART OF BUS DRIVERS AND OTHERS, EVEN THOUGH THIS LACK OF COURTESY WAS DOUBTLESSLY OCCASIONED BY THE PRESENCE OF A RACIALLY MIXED GROUP OF TRAVELERS.

IT IS HARDLY LIKELY, AND EVEN TOO MUCH TO EXPECT, THAT THE FORCES OF GOVERNMENT, WHETHER EXECUTIVE, JUDICIAL, LEGISLATIVE, OR ADMINISTRATIVE, WILL EFFECTIVELY PROTECT PASSENGERS FROM THE PROVERBIAL GRUFFNESS AND DISTEMPER OF THE AGENTS OF COMMON CARRIERS.

AS WE TOOK OUR SEATS IN THE BUS, THERE WAS NASTY MUTTERING FROM TWO MEN SITTING IN THE FORWARD SECTION. THE YOUNGER OF THE TWO MEN, SHORTLY AFTER OUR DEPARTURE, CAME TOWARD MR. WALKER AND MADE THREATS OF PHYSICAL VIOLENCE BY WORD AND GESTURE BECAUSE OF A SNAPSHOT MR. WALKER HAD TAKEN OF THE GROUP RIDING THE BUS. THIS GENTLEMAN GOT OFF THE BUS AT NEWNAN, GEORGIA, WHERE THE SMALL BUS STATION WAS CROWDED WITH POLICE AND SHERIFF'S CARS, SEVERAL UNIFORMED POLICEMEN, SOME WHO SEEMED LIKE TWO PLAINCLOTHESMEN, AND OTHER GUARANTORS OF ORDER. FROM NEWNAN ON, THIS BUS AND THE CONNECTING BUS FROM MONTGOMERY WAS AT ALMOST EVERY MOMENT FOLLOWED, SOMETIMES ALSO PRECEDED, BY ONE OR MORE POLICE OR SHERIFF'S OR STATE POLICE CARS.

NEWNAN

AT LAGRANGE, GEORGIA, THE LUNCH STOP, THE GROUP SAT AT THE LUNCH COUNTER IN THE BUS TERMINAL. MR. WALKER PURCHASED A PACK OF CIGARETTES, WHICH WAS THROWN AT HIM BY ONE OF THE WAITRESSES. THE WHITE MANAGERESS OF THE COUNTER REFUSED TO SERVE THE GROUP, BUT ORDERED A YOUNG NEGRO GIRL WHO WAS ALMOST PARALYZED WITH FEAR, TO DO SO. THE SCHEDULED 15 MINUTE STOP WAS CUT TO FIVE, AND THE GROUP WAS HUSTLED BACK TO THE BUS.

LAGRANGE

AS THE BUS CAME INTO THE MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA, GREYHOUND TERMINAL, WE COULD SEE FROM THE BUS APPEARANCE OF A CITY UNDER SIEGE. SCORES OF UNIFORMED POLICEMEN KEPT A CROWD, LATER ESTIMATED AT BETWEEN 300 AND 400 AWAY FROM THE STATION. POLICE AND SHERIFF'S CARS PACKED THE AREA. AS WE GOT OFF THE BUS, WE WANTED TO HAVE A BITE AT THE TERMINAL'S COFFEE SHOP, BUT

MONTGOMERY

WERE COURTEOUSLY BUT FIRMLY PREVENTED BY THE ASSISTANT CHIEF OF POLICE OF MONTGOMERY, WHO INFORMED US THAT THE LUNCHROOM HAD RECEIVED A BOMB THREAT AND THAT HE HAD THEREFORE ORDERED THE LUNCHROOM CLOSED. WITH AN APPARENTLY HOSTILE MOB STARING AT US FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STREET, THE POLICE ESCORTED OUR GROUP A FEW YARDS AWAY TO THE OVERHANG OF A STORE TO WAIT FOR OUR TRANSPORTATION TO THE HOMES IN WHICH WE WERE TO REMAIN OVERNIGHT. SOME MEMBERS OF THE MOB WERE SEEN TO BE CARRYING LENGTHS OF LEAD PIPE. THE POLICE MADE NO EFFORT TO DISPERSE THE CROWD, THOUGH EVERYONE WAS KEPT ACROSS THE STREET FROM THE BUS STATION. ONE YOUNG LOCAL NEWSPAPERMAN SAID TO US THAT EVEN IF HE WERE TO GO ACROSS THE STREET TO THE MOB, HE WOULD BE BEATEN UP BY THEM. AFTER SOME DELAY, OWING TO POLICE BLOCKING ACCESS TO THE BUS TERMINAL AREA, WE WERE PICKED UP BY A FRIEND'S CAR. ONE OF THE GROUP HAD ACCIDENTALLY FORGOTTEN HIS SUITCASE AT THE BUS STATION. HIS ATTEMPT TO RETRIEVE HIS BAG WAS REFUSED, AND IT TOOK THE INTERVENTION OF MR. WALKER WITH THE ASSISTANT CHIEF OF POLICE TO OBTAIN PERMISSION TO GET THE SUITCASE.

THE NEXT MORNING, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21ST, THE GROUP WENT TO THE TRAILWAYS TERMINAL IN MONTGOMERY TO PURCHASE TICKETS FOR THE 11:30 A.M. BUS TO JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI. HAVING PURCHASED OUR TICKETS, SOME OF THE GROUP SAT DOWN AT THE TERMINAL'S LUNCH COUNTER FOR A SNACK BEFORE DEPARTURE. THE EDERLY MANAGER, IN THE MOST INSULTING FASHION, DEMANDED INSPECTION OF EVERYONE'S INTERSTATE TICKETS, SAYING "BOY" TO THE NEGROES IN THE GROUP. HE TOLD OTHER CUSTOMERS NOT TO SIT DOWN AT HIS COUNTER UNTIL "THIS GROUP OF NIGGERS" WOULD GET OUT OF THE WAY. HE PERSONALLY REFUSED TO SERVE US, BUT INSTRUCTED A NEGRO COUNTERMAN TO DO SO.

AT THE DEPARTURE OF A BUS A FEW MOMENTS BEFORE OURS, WHICH WAS EVIDENTLY MISTAKEN FOR THE ONE OUR GROUP WAS RIDING THERE WERE LOUD REPORTS OF WHAT SEEMED LIKE TWO OR THREE GUNSHOTS, THOUGH THEY MAY HAVE BEEN MERELY FIRE-CRACKERS. THEY SENT THE POLICE SCURRYING, TO WHAT EFFECT IS NOT KNOWN TO THE WRITERS WHO WERE WAITING TO GET ON THEIR PROPER BUS.

SELMA

AT OUR ARRIVAL AT SELMA, ALABAMA, LUNCH STOP, THE USUAL HEAVY COMPLEMENT OF POLICE AND PLAINCLOTHESMEN MET THE BUS. WE WERE INFORMED THAT THE LUNCHROOM WAS CLOSED, AND THAT NO ONE COULD ENTER. AT THE MISSISSIPPI STATE LINE, THE FIRST OF A CONTINOUS SERIES OF POLICE CARS PICKED UP THE BUS AND ACCOMPANIED IT EVERY FOOT OF THE WAY TO JACKSON.

MERIDIAN

THE SCENE AT OUR ARRIVAL IN MERIDIAN, MISSISSIPPI, ALMOST DEFIES DESCRIPTION. IN ADDITION TO THE USUAL BEVY OF POLICE, SHERIFF'S CARS, AND STATE PATROL, OTHER SPECIAL EQUIPMENT WAS STRATEGICALLY PLACED THROUGHOUT THE BUS TERMINAL AREA. POLICE KEPT EVERYONE OUT OF THE BUS TERMINAL WHO DID NOT HAVE A TICKET FOR OUR BUS, AND THE PUBLIC WAS RESTRAINED BEHIND POLICE LINES AT A BLOCK'S DISTANCE IN EACH DIRECTION FROM THE TERMINAL. THREE UNIFORMED OFFICERS ENTERED THE BUS UPON ARRIVAL, AND INFORMED THE PASSENGERS THAT ONLY THOSE HOLDING TICKETS TO MERIDIAN MIGHT LEAVE THEIR SEATS AND THE BUS, THUS EFFECTIVELY PREVENTING OUR GROUP FROM LEAVING OR FROM HAVING LUNCH. IT WAS THEN ABOUT 3:30 P.M., THE LAST FOOD ANYONE HAD HAD WAS AT BREAKFAST AROUND 8 A.M. MR. SCHWARZSCHILD ASKED ONE OF THE OFFICERS WHETHER HE ALONE, WHITE AND INOFFENSIVE, MIGHT LEAVE THE BUS BRIEFLY TO BUY SANDWICHES FOR THE GROUP, NOT AS A DEMONSTRATION BUT AS A MATTER OF FILLING NEED FOR FOOD. THE REFUSAL WAS COURTEOUS BUT FIRM.

ABOUT SIX OR EIGHT PASSENGERS BOARDED THE BUS IN MERIDIAN. IT SO HAPPENED THAT OUR GROUP SAT AT ABOUT THE MIDDLE OF THE BUS, AND THERE WERE NOT ENOUGH SEATS IN FRONT OF US TO ACCOMMODATE ALL THE WHITE PASSENGERS. THOSE THAT COULD NOT BE SEATED IN THE SEATS TO OUR FRONT DEMONSTRATIVELY STOOD OR AS IN THE CASE OF ONE MIDDLE-AGED LADY, SAT PLUMB ON THE WHITE LINE AT THE EDGE OF THE STEPS LEADING TO THE DOOR, HER FEET IN THE STEP-WELL, SMACK UNDER A SIGN PROCLAIMING THAT ICC REGULATIONS REQUIRED PASSENGERS TO STAND IN BACK OF THE WHITE LINE. SEATS BEHIND US WERE EMPTY.

NEWTON

AT A STOP IN NEWTON, MISSISSIPPI, A BOY WITH A TRAY OF SANDWICHES AND SODAS BEGAN TO BOARD THE BUS TO OFFER HIS WARES FOR SALE IN WHAT WAS OBVIOUSLY A ROUTINE PROCEDURE. THE BUS DRIVER (BUS NO. T-2953) REFUSED HIM ADMITTANCE TO THE BUS. IT WAS 4:30 P.M. THE BUS GOT INTO JACKSON AT ABOUT 6 P.M. HAD IT NOT BEEN FOR A CHAIRITABLE PASSENGER, A NEGRO FROM HONOLULU WHO HAD VISITED HIS FAMILY IN MERIDIAN, AND WHO GAVE US SOME SANDWICHES AND CAKE WHICH HE HAD BROUGHT FOR HIS OWN NEEDS, WE WOULD NOT HAVE HAD A BITE TO EAT FROM 8 A.M. UNTIL PRISON BREAKFAST AT 6 A.M. THE NEXT MORNING, COURTESY OF THE LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES OF JACKSON.

JACKSON

AT THE ARRIVAL OF THE BUS IN JACKSON, WE SAW POLICE CARS AND MOTORCYCLES LINING THE APPROACH STREETS TO THE TERMINAL AND A PADDY-WAGON AWAITING US IN THE TAXI-LINE IN FRONT OF THE TERMINAL. AS WE LEFT THE BUS, WE WALKED INTO THE PRINCIPAL WAITING ROOM OF THE TERMINAL AND ATTEMPTED TO BUY CIGARETTES OR HAVE A LONG-DELAYED CUP OF COFFEE IN THE LUNCH ROOM, AND WERE SUMMARILY ARRESTED BY THE JACKSON POLICE.

THE BUS LINES SYSTEMATIC DISCOURTESIES AND REFUSAL TO LET PASSENGERS

HAVE ACCESS TO, LET ALONE BE SERVED MEALS ON THIS LONG INTERSTATE BUS TRIP, THE CONCESSIONARIES INSULTING BEHAVIOR, AND THE BUS DRIVER'S EVIDENT COLLUSION WITH POLICE FORCES TO MAKE OUR TRIP UNCOMFORTABLE, ARE AN OFFENSIVE VIOLATION OF THE RIGHTS OF PASSENGERS TO ENJOY A PEACEABLE JOURNEY AND OF THE CARRIER'S DUTY TO AFFORD THEIR CUSTOMERS REASONABLE COMFORT AND ON A LEVEL EQUAL TO THAT OF ALL PASSENGERS.

A D D E N D U M . . . . .

JAIL CONDITIONS

THE CONDITIONS THAT EXIST IN THE HINDS COUNTY JAIL POST JUNE 20TH, (THE DATE OF OUR ENTRY) RESEMBLES SOMETHING OUT OF THE MIDDLE AGES. FROM THE TIME MR. WALKER AND HIS WIFE WERE TRANSFERRED FROM THE JACKSON (MISS.) CITY JAIL, THE TREATMENT OF INMATES, PARTICULARLY THE FREEDOM RIDERS, EVERY CODE OF MINIMAL SANITATION AND PERSONAL HYGIENE WAS VIOLATED.

MR. WALKER'S CELL HOUSED EIGHT OTHER MEN. THERE WERE NO BEDS AT ALL. A BLANKET, MATTRESS COVER AND ANCIENT MATTRESS WERE PROVIDED UPON ENTERING THE 13 X 15 FOOT CELL. THIS WAS THE FIRST AND LAST PHYSICAL 'COMFORT' PROVIDED BY JAIL AUTHORITIES. FOR SEVEN DAYS, REPEATED REQUESTS WERE MADE FOR THE BAREST ESSENTIALS FOR PERSONAL CLEANLINESS. THIS WAS DONE VOCALLY AND IN WRITING. A MR. HUDDO MADE PROMISES; A MR. KELLY REMARKED THAT HE DIDN'T SEND FOR US AND DIDN'T GIVE A G____ D_____ IF WE NEVER GOT OUR THINGS.

THE SHOWER STALL WAS INOPERATIVE; THE OPEN COMMODE WAS AT HALF-EFFICIENCY; THE STENCH WAS ALMOST UNBEARABLE; WE BATHED AS BEST WE COULD, USING OUR POCKET HANDKERCHIEFS AS WASHCLOTHS. THERE IS NO NEED TO MENTION THE FOOD - FOR JAIL DIET IS ABOUT THE SAME ALL AROUND THE SOUTH.

MRS. WALKER REPORTS THAT ONE OF THE FEMALE PRISONERS WAS FORCED TO STRIP TO THE WAIST FOR 'FRISKING' BY MALE JAILERS. IN NEITHER JAIL WERE ANY MATRONS ON DUTY, IF EMPLOYED. THIS WAS A HUMILATION FOR FEMALE PRISONERS THAT SEEMED WHOLLY UNNECESSARY. THE SERVICING OF THE WOMEN'S SECTION OF THE JAILS FOR FEEDING, CLEANING, ETC., WAS ALWAYS DONE BY MALE 'TRUSTYS.'

UPON THE WALKERS' RELEASE, THEY DISCOVERED THAT $75.00 OF THEIR FUNDS HAD BEEN REMOVED FROM THEIR ENVELOPES CONTAINING 'VALUABLES' PREVIOUSLY SURRENDERED TO HINDS COUNTY AUTHORITIES. AS THEY REGISTERED THE LOSS OF FUNDS IN SHERIFF GILFOY'S OFFICE, MRS. WALKER DISCOVERED HER ONE-QUARTER CARAT WEDDING RING HAD ALSO BEEN REMOVED (ADJUDGED VALUE, $275.00.) BOTH OF THE WALKERS UPON TRANSFER INSISTED ON RECEIPTS FOR THEIR VALUABLES. THEY WERE DENIED AND BOTH REQUESTED THE PRIVILEGE TO RETAIN SAME IN LIEU OF NO RECEIPTING AS PRACTICED BY CITY AUTHORITIES. MR. HUDDO DEMANDED THEY DEPOSIT MANILA ENVELOPES IN A BOX SAYING, "THEY'LL BE ALL RIGHT." THIS FINANCIAL AND SENTIMENTAL LOSS CERTAINLY WARRANTS SOME REMEDY AND CAN ONLY BE DEEMED A DIRECT BY-PRODUCT OF A SYSTEM THAT IS ENTIRELY BAD.

IT MUST BE SAID IN ALL FAIRNESS TO THE JACKSON CITY POLICE, PARTICULARLY IN THE CASE OF CHIEF PIERCE AND HIS LIEUTENANTS, THAT DESPITE A SINCERE DIFFERENCE OF OPINION, HE AND HIS MEN WERE EXTREMELY POLITE AND CORDIAL. THE TRANSFER TO THE HINDS COUNTY JAIL WAS ALMOST LIKE GOING TO ANOTHER WORLD.

IT IS OUR SINCERE OPINION THAT REGARDLESS OF THE CRIME COMMITTED, EVERY PRISONER, SHOULD BE TREATED AS A HUMAN BEING AND ACCORDED THE BARE ESSENTIALS TO MAINTAIN A MODICUM OF PERSONAL CLEANLINESS.

AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

50 East Huron Street, Chicago 11, Illinois

Joseph M. Simmons
Local Publicity Chairman

Charles R. Carner
ALA Public Relations Officer

Press Room in the Normandie Lounge
Conrad Hilton Hotel
WAbash 2-4400, Ext. 23, 24, 25

82nd Annual Conference
Chicago, Ill., July 14-20

Please guard against premature release

For release Monday, July 15, p.m.'s

Chicago, July 15--Public libraries all over the South, including the Deep South* states are being integrated quietly, without publicity, and have been since the 1920's, according to a nationwide study released here today by the American Library Association. Even so, it added, the pace of integration has picked up since the 1954 U. S. Supreme Court decision.

At least twenty-four percent of the Southern cities have integrated library systems, ranging from a high of 55 percent in Tennessee to a low of seven percent in Alabama as of June 15, the report indicated.

The 115-page report and appendices, Access to Public Libraries, is the Freedom of Access to Libraries Study developed by the Library Administration Division and the Committee on Intellectual Freedom, both of the American Library Association. It was undertaken by International Research Associates, Inc., of New York, acting under the direction of an ALA advisory committee. It was supported by contributions from: The H. W. Wilson Foundation, Inc.; The New World Foundation; The R. R. Bowker Company; The ALA; The Colorado Library Association; The Virginia Library Association; and Miss Dorothy Bendix, a member of the Association.

The report was prepared from responses received from 1,789 library systems, or 22 percent of the total of 8,176 library systems in the United States, and included information received through mail questionnaires and interviews conducted by experienced staff members sent to the South by the research firm. In addition, a study was made of previous surveys, reports, articles, and books dealing with library facilities and with the question of segregation.

(more)

*Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina

Direct discrimination is confined to the 16 states of the South,* the study found, while "indirect discrimination" is found throughout the United States, but the forms of discrimination in regions other than the South have to do primarily with such aspects as the location and resources of the branch and bookmobile services rather than restrictions on the use of main libraries.

To study the relationship between four socio-economic characteristics of a population and the location and resources of branch libraries, ten cities were examined -- six in the South: Memphis, New Orleans, Atlanta, Birmingham, Jacksonville, and Washington, D. C.; and four in the non-South: New York, San Francisco, Philadelphia, and Detroit. These were selected because of their large numbers of public library branches and high proportions of non-white residents.

It also pointed out that only San Francisco, of the ten large cities studied, "is immune from 'de facto' racial discrimination" in the location and resources of public library branches.

In discussing de facto segregation in the ten cities, the report states that: "In Philadelphia, a heavily white neighborhood is six times as likely to possess a branch library as is a predominantly non-white section. In Detroit, the non-Southern city containing the highest percentage of non-whites, twice as many branches are located in heavily white neighborhoods and these branches contain more than one-and-a-half times as many books as those in predominantly non-white areas," the report added.

(more)

*The United States census definition of the South plus Washington, D. C.
Racial concentration, income, education, elementary school enrollment.

Add 2. Access to Libraries Study

Of these 10 big cities, according to the report, "the greatest racial inequality occurs in Birmingham (Ala.) and in Washington, D.C., where libraries in predominantly white neighborhoods exceed those in highly non-white areas by a ratio of more than three to one, and branches in heavily white areas have on the average twice as many volumes as those in predominantly non-white sections."

The report indicates that this "de facto" discrimination is not limited to these 10 cities but is found in all regions of the United States.

In commenting on the study's background, International Research Associates asserted:

"This research project is highly unusual insofar as it is self-audit by a professional group in the very delicate area of civil rights. The position of the American Library Association in this area has recently been emphasized by a revision of its Bill of Rights which proclaims that 'The rights of an individual to the use of a library should not be denied or abridged because of his race, national origins or political views....

"The primary goal of this study has been to broaden the understanding of limitations on the free and equal access of all persons to the resources and services of public libraries in the United States."

In commenting on the history of the progress of integration in libraries, the report pointed out:

"The '20's witnessed a great increase of Southern concern with all libraries and included the formation of the Southeastern Library Association in 1920 and the Southwestern Library Association in 1922. As the lagging position of the Southern library received national attention, the problem of Negro access was carefully considered for the first time.

(more)

Add 3. Access to Libraries Study

"Indicative of growing interest in Negro library service in the 1920's were an annual American Library Association 'Work with Negroes Round Table,' the establishment of the Hampton Library School for Negroes as well as studies of Negro access by the 135th Street branch of the New York Public Library, the American Library Association, and the librarians of the Louisville, Ky., and Houston, Texas, public libraries."

It also points out that by 1926 already 45 Southern libraries were offering service to Negroes.

In city after city, the report shows, where schools are still segregated, the main public libraries are integrated. This includes such cities as: Mobile and Birmingham, Ala.; Baton Rouge and Lake Charles, La.; Augusta, Macon, and Albany, Ga.

In only five cities of the 21 in the Deep South with populations of 50,000 or over are libraries still to be integrated. Even Charleston, S. C., which has the highest perentage of non-white population, 51 percent, has an integrated main library.

However, only two of the school systems in those cities are integrated, New Orleans and Atlanta; 19 are still to be integrated.

The report also asserts that a sizable degree of library integration exists in every state in the South, contradicting the widespread belief that integration of libraries is not possible in the face of state segregation statutes and the deep seated opposition of the white population in the Deep South states.

"The rate of library integration has been increased by the widespread belief of many professional librarians that it is their job to provide service equally to all members of the public....Many librarians take the position that it is more in the interests of the library to integrate prior to the social disturbances that are occasioned by protest movements and law-suits than to wait for the inevitable change. In many segregated libraries, the librarian who holds either or both of these views is often

(more)

'constrained' in his actions by the contrary position held by members of the library board and/or city officials.

"The rate of library integration is also affected by the generally low priority accorded to it by the leaders of the Negro community, as compared to the fields of voting, housing, job opportunities, education, and other public facilities."

In many localities, according to the study, the integration of the main public library "was achieved with a minimum of disturbance. A survey in 1948 by a Birmingham librarian indicated a liberalization of attitudes toward segregation in general and with respect to libraries in particular. The growing liberal spirit is shown...in the position of one Southern white librarian who said: 'I have about come to the conclusion that it would be much better for all concerned if we removed segregation laws in libraries, universities and cultural institutions.'"

Despite this, the survey reports, implementation of integration frequently fails because: "The aggrieved class, the Negroes, frequently do not give library access as high a priority as other access problems. The result is that pressures and law suits are channeled in other directions and the libraries in these communities remain segregated."

It still is clear, however, that library integration is far in advance of the integration of certain other types of public facilities. In the South, as a whole, only nine percent of the librarians reported that their libraries are still segregated in the sense of not admitting Negroes to the main library.

In the study, a fully integrated library is one which has discontinued both "direct" and "indirect" discrimination. Direct discrimination is complete exclusion from using the library and indirect is when a library system's branches are located and the resources of these branches so differentiated in terms of quantity and quality that one group is more limited in its access to the library resources of the community than another.

(more)

Add 5. Access to Libraries Study

The study also found that Negroes are not the only class discriminated against, but there is a growing trend toward curtailing the services to students in public libraries. The most frequent reasons for restrictions concern limiting the number of books that may be borrowed and curtailing the use of the library as a study hall.

"Restrictions are placed on all grade levels, but primarily upon high school and elementary school students," the report states.

The increase in the school age population and the increased reliance by the educational system on the resources of the public libraries are responsible for this growing trend, according to the report.

"A consistent pattern of restrictions (to students) occurs in all regions of the country and in both rural and urban areas," the report says.

The report also studied the relationship between library service and the American Library Association minimum standards and indicates: "Expenditures per capita are well below the ALA minimum standards in all regions of the United States and with respect to all sizes of population served.

".... Regionally, the most striking finding is the difference in the degree to which the South meets the various minimum standards as compared to all of the other regions of the United States."

In expenditures, staffing, and collections, the South, as a region, was below the national average and was also the lowest of the four regions: West, North Central, North-Eastern, and South.

Members of the ALA advisory committee are: Chairman, Harold W. Tucker, chief librarian, Queens Borough Public Library, Jamaica, L.I., N. Y.; Mrs. Augusta Baker, coordinator, Children's Services, New York Public Library, N. Y.; Bernard R. Berelson, director, Communications Research Program, The Population Council, New York, N. Y.;

(more)

Add 6. Access to Libraries Study

Jean Crabtree, head librarian, Garden City Senior High School Library, Garden City, N. Y.; John Hall Jacobs, director of libraries, Atlanta Public Library, Atlanta, Ga.; Richard H. Logsdon, director of libraries, Columbia University, New York, N. Y.; Archie L. McNeal, director of libraries, University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla.; Alphonse F. Trezza, executive secretary, Library Administration Division (ALA Headquarters Staff liaison).

Printed copies of the report will be available in early fall.

JN 26811

GEORGIA COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS

41 EXCHANGE PLACE, S. E. • ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303

THE REVEREND CHARLES DEMERÉ
CHAIRMAN

TELEPHONE
525-6468

File: Ga - Public Accom

DR. LIONEL NEWSOM
FIRST VICE-PRESIDENT

MR. A. J. McCLUNG
SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT

MRS. HARRY V. RICHARDSON
SECRETARY

MR. JOHNNY GLUSTROM
TREASURER

MRS. FRANCES PAULEY
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

THE REVEREND OLIVER W. HOLMES
ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR

July 20, 1964

Dear Board Member:

The last weeks have brought new experiences to the Council. Different from last summer, when on June 11, 1963, the late president of the United States said, "I am, therefore asking the Congress to enact legislation giving all Americans the right to be served in facilities which are open to the public - hotels, restaurants, theaters, retail stores and similar establishments. This seems to me to be an elementary right..."

Many of you have asked us what we are finding around the state concerning compliance with the new law.

We are enclosing an account, town by town, of the places we have contacted. Our conclusions cannot be documented exactly at this early date, but it seems that compliance has been general in the larger cities. In towns where work has been done, work by civil rights organizations, work by local civic groups, work of the council itself...in these places there is the most compliance. In places where there have been no interracial activities, where there is no 'movement', there still seems to be the old untested patterns and the clearest echo "We ain't going to have no n-i-g-g-e-r-s in our movie". However, in many filling stations and road side stands, there is a sudden absence of discriminatory signs.

It seems at this point that the young Negro groups have been more eager to attend movies, bowling alleys than they are restaurants or hotels and that many white people feel called upon to keep the Negro away. These young Negroes seemed in many places not to be testing for the sake of information but going to the movie because they wanted to see the show. In several places the pattern is to allow the Negro to be admitted and then see that he has a beating afterwards.

There are instances where whites are arrested but in many places where they are not. We see again the great need for better qualified and trained police. Organizations are speaking out for compliance but more need to speak.

We believe that much depends on the next few weeks. The young Negro needs help in testing. You as a board member can encourage courageous responsible action. The new Act is completely clear that there will be an end to the injustices of discrimination. Now it is time for each of us to get out of our arm chairs and help make this peaceful compliance a reality in Georgia.

Please report any experiences both of receiving service and being refused to our office.

Sincerely yours,

Frances Pauley

Mrs. Frances Pauley,
Executive Director

FP/es
Enclosure

THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT

Compliance as reported to the Georgia Council on Human Relations
July 20, 1964

SAVANNAH:

Fine. Hotels, motels, restaurants including Morrison's and Krystal are open. City swimming pools opened July 3, with no difficulties. Bowling alleys are open.

BRUNSWICK:

Fine. Everything open that has been tested. Theaters are admitting Negroes.

MACON:

Fine. Hotels, motels, restaurants including S&S are open. Formerly irate manager of Demsey Hotel invited Negro guests on Sunday July 5. General climate seems unusually good.

COLUMBUS:

Fine. Hotels, motels, restaurants including Morrison's, S&S, Krystal are open. Negroes were welcomed by managers at several places. One County Commissioner told managers of two leading places he would leave if Negroes were served. Negroes were served. Kelley's Hamburger stand refused service at first but are now reported to be complying. Kirven's department store served Negroes in the tea room.

AUGUSTA:

Hotels, motels, restaurants are reported open. The city golf course has been turned into a "private" club, all whites allowed to play, no Negroes. A case has been made with Jack Ruffin as the lawyer. The greatest difficulties were reported at the hospital. Negroes were refused service in the cafeteria at Talmadge Memorial. Signs were put up in cafeteria after the bill passed.

ATLANTA:

Compliance is general with the exception of Heart of Atlanta Motel and Pickrick. These cases are being tried. Three whites arrested in melee at Lakewood Park when Negroes attempted to hear Wallace speak. Thomas Sikes, 20, 3511 Lacey Circle, Robert H. Wheeler, 31, Atlanta, and Walter E. Cleaper, Route 2, Austell.

ROME:

Restaurants, hotels, motels, lunch counters seemed to all have agreed to open, all have not been tested. Holiday Inn is open. Mr. Holmes spent the night at the Hotel General Forrest. The bell captain took him to his room, and said, "I've waited 33 years for this moment, I've taken many whites up this elevator, but you're the first one of us".

The two (one Negro and one white) swimming pools closed. After a deal with the Negro leadership, the pools opened with an understanding of "no testing yet" from the Negroes. Police chief is keeping order. He dispersed a large group of white hoodlums who were starting to make trouble. A group of whites with Alabama license plate were seen waiting for Negroes at the movie.

CEDARTOWN:

Hotels and restaurants are open with the exception of Wayside Inn which is reportedly not open. Police Chief W. M. Moss is doing a good job of encouraging compliance. Negroes believe he will persuade the Wayside Inn to open. Police protection has been good through the testing period. Negroes have agreed not to go to the swimming pool at the present. They also have agreed to attempt attending schools only for classes not taught in Negro schools.

CARTERSVILLE:

There has been no organized testing here, however it seems there will be compliance. There is evidence that Negroes will stay away from likely trouble spots - swimming pools, bowling alleys and pool rooms. Negroes were harassed after leaving the bowling alley.

ROCKMART:

There has been no organized testing. Some places have complied. Signs have been removed.

GREENSBORO:

Very little testing. The movie was reported as a trouble spot.

MILLEDGEVILLE:

Hotels, motels are reported to be complying. The hospital continued to send Negroes to the rear entrance, police promised Negroes this would be changed. A NAACP petition for public school desegregation has been returned with an unofficial threat that promised Negro street improvement would not materialize.

SYLVANIA:

There is no evidence of any compliance or any testing.

WAYNESBORO:

There is no evidence of any compliance or any testing. Several instances of violence at service stations when Negroes have tried to use rest rooms (before passage of law). Mr. Mims at Standard was reported to have beaten Negro for walking toward the rest room. Mr. Northcutt at Esso also was reported to have used violence.

WASHINGTON:

The general climate is very bad. There is no evidence of compliance or testing. This town seems to need outside help for injunctions and law enforcement.

STATESBORO:

Hotels, motels, restaurants have agreed to comply (with one exception). No testing to our knowledge. One drug store counter was tested and is complying. Georgia Southern College is planning to desegregate this fall. They accepted a Negro this summer but she failed to arrive. Dorms are filled and local Negroes are afraid to house students.

THOMSON:

There was trouble on July 16th., when Negroes "forced their way" into theater. A curfew was established. Two drive-in restaurants refused service. No arrests.

DECATUR:

Compliance is general including eight swimming pools.

DEKALB COUNTY:

Compliance is general including swimming pools.

GAINESVILLE:

Difficulties with mob after Negroes entered pool room. The Chamber of Commerce has called for law and order. The city ordered a curfew.

EAST POINT:

Swimming pools were closed, one white and one Negro. Negroes and whites were arrested for fighting.

WINDER:

Negroes were turned back by a mob of whites when they attempted to enter a theater. A white mob waited until late at night and was not dispersed by police.

WARNER ROBINS:

Tested, complete compliance.

PERRY:

No compliance has been reported. Three places were tested, all refused service. Negroes were barred by state troopers at one. Doc Roughton, defeated sheriff is reported to have led a group to bar Negroes at another restaurant. Mob gathered at a third restaurant.

BARNESVILLE:

There is no report on hotels, motels or restaurants. There was trouble at the movie on July 9 and 10 when white mobs formed. Police did not disperse the crowd. Police chief requested the movie owner to close the movie. The owner wants to comply but is having difficulties with city officials and police. He ownes theaters in several towns.

COCHRAN:

In Cochran it was reported that city officials said "ain't no niggers going in our show".

GRIFFIN:

Things are going well, although there was some trouble at the movie. The theater was emptied because of bomb threat but reopened with Negroes present. Swimming pools are closed for "cooling off".

THOMASVILLE:

Theaters, hotels, motels, and restaurants are complying.

DUBLIN:

Limited testing - bowling alley open.

ALBANY:

Hotels, motels and restaurants have been tested and reported to be complying. Arrests were made at pool, which is now "private" 10 Negroes were convicted of "idling and loitering", each fined $102 or 30 days in jail. ARTIC BEAR Drive-in stand at Slappey Drive and Oglethorpe is reported to have refused service Sunday July 5, 1964 at 9:30 P.M. Reverend Wells was arrested after eating in white establishment. Moonshine was found by police in his car. It is suspected that this could have been a plant.

VALDOSTA:

The movie opened. Negroes were refused service at three restaurants.

AMERICUS:

The greatest violence has been reported from Americus. Where Zev Aleony and friends were beaten on Thursday night July 2 after eating. John Perdew, Bob Mantz and others were beaten on July 3 after being served. Police, firemen and extra police have sought to keep order by keeping Negroes away. White mobs were allowed to form at the movie on Sunday July 5. Negroes and white friends are given no protection. Restaurants serve anyone but people are later threatened or beaten. No white arrests have been made.

O'Callaghan Weighs Entry in House Race

Ald. Cook Decides Not to Run Against Savage or Weltner

Close to full slates of Republicans apparently will be qualified in both Fulton and DeKalb counties before the qualifying deadline Friday for the GOP primaries.

James O'Callaghan of Atlanta moved closer to a race for Congress Wednesday after Alderman Rodney Cook decided not to enter the contest.

"I am giving it a lot of consideration," O'Callaghan said. "I will have a decision well before the deadline." Asked if Sen. Barry Goldwater at the head of the ticket would help him, O'Callaghan said, "Yes, I really think he would."

COOK BOWS OUT

Cook announced he would not run in the primary against Dr. John Savage or against Rep. Charles Weltner in the general election.

Cook thanked his supporters, said he had given the race "most serious and thoughtful consideration" but, he said, "Problems still lie ahead for the city, and there is much unfinished business at hand."

"In view of that," Cook said, "It is my considered judgment that at this time I can best serve the community here rather than in Washington."

Meanwhile, Republican National Committeeman Roscoe Pickett planned to advise the DeKalb Republican Executive Committee and the advisory committee whether he will oppose Democratic candidate James Mackay in the Fourth District congressional race.

A full slate of DeKalb candidates could be announced at the meeting at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in Judge Oscar Mitchell's courtroom in the DeKalb Building.

Two Atlanta Republicans qualified for Fulton legislative posts.

S. Fletcher Thompson paid $500 qualifying fee to run against Democratic Sen. Charlie Brown, while Scott Walters qualified against Rep. Wilson Brooks.

Both said they are Goldwater supporters.

Ed S. Cook And Wife Injured

Five persons, including school board member Ed S. Cook and his wife, were injured in automobile crashes over Atlanta as a heavy rain deluged city streets Wednesday, police said.

Patrolman J. M. Webb said Mr. Cook and his wife, who reside at 836 Boulevard SE, were traveling north in the 2100 block of Macon Drive, SE, when a car headed south went out of control on a curve and skidded onto the left side of the road.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook were taken to South Fulton Hospital. Webb said Cook suffered lacerations and bruises and his wife had possible internal injuries.

SECOND DRIVER BOOKED

The driver of the second car, James Leland Adams, 24, of 1309 Cypress Drive, Forest Park, was charged with driving on the wrong side of the road, Webb related. He said Adams and a passenger, W. E. Burnett, 26, of 605 Pine Ridge Drive, escaped injury.

Two were injured when a station wagon they occupied hit an unpaved section of the North-South Freeway and struck an abutment of the Capitol Avenue bridge, Patrolman K. G. Young said.

Young said Charles DeWitt Coker, 27, of 131 Collingworth Terr., East Point, and C. A. Maynor, 32, of 2555 Lancaster Drive, East Point, were taken to South Fulton Hospital with severe facial lacerations and Maynor was admitted for observation.

FALLS FROM TRUCK

James L. Dukes, 29, of Columbus, fell from his van-type truck after it struck a pole on the Northeast Expressway near the Peachtree Road bridge, Patrolman P. F. Young said. The truck

3 Stills Destroyed In Lexington Raid

LEXINGTON, Ga. — Authorities reported the destruction Wednesday of a bootleg still complex with a weekly capacity of $20,000 worth of illegal liquor. Eight state revenue agents

Associated Press Wirephoto

GEORGIANS AND "THE GENERAL" AT FAIR
Gov. Carl E. Sanders and Miss Georgia, Vivian Davis

Can't Happen Here, Governor Believes

By SAM HOPKINS
Constitution Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Gov. Carl Sanders said here Wednesday he did not believe conditions exist in Atlanta and Georgia which would bring on such race riots as have occurred in Harlem.

Sanders said the reason for this—"a line of communication" between the white and Negro citizens—has existed in Georgia longer than in New York.

"We've been dealing with this problem longer than you have in New York," Sanders told a news conference. "We've arrived at a basis of understanding and solution without riots."

Sanders, here in connection with Georgia Day ceremonies at the World Fair, held an impromptu press conference for New York newsmen and discussed the Harlem riots, Alabama Gov. George Wallace, Republican nominee Barry Goldwater and race relations in general.

He said he felt it was the right thing to do for the FBI to step in and investigate the violence in Harlem.

Sanders also said he did not followers to change the outcome of the race if they all switched to another candidate. He presumably had Sen. Goldwater in mind.

The governor again predicted President Lyndon Johnson would defeat Goldwater in the November election.

In a reference apparently to both the Harlem riots and Goldwater's "extremism" comment in his address to the GOP convention in San Francisco last week, Sanders declared as soon as people realize "extremism is not a virtue, the better off we'll all be."

RAIN POURED DOWN

The big Georgia delegation literally took the New York World's Fair by storm Wednesday—it poured down rain during the entire official ceremony for

They'll Never Eat There, Maddox Says

By ACHSAH POSEY

"They won't ever get any of that chicken," restaurant owner Lester Maddox said shortly before the decision enjoining him from discriminating against Negroes was handed down.

Maddox carried a copy of "The American Patriot," a one-issue magazine in which Alabama Gov. George Wallace's abortive presidential candidacy was announced, and a bright blue copy of the U.S. Constitution supplied moments earlier by his attorneys at his request.

As he waited Maddox read portions of the Declaration of Independence from the magazine and complained about "the government hiring white, black and half-breed lawyers to fight against me" and paying them with his tax money. William Alexander, the Atlanta Negro attorney representing the three Negro theological students who brought the suit against Maddox, stood behind him.

ADMIRE JUDGE'S HAIR

"I've always admired Judge Hooper's hair," Maddox commented suddenly. He himself is somewhat lacking in that area. "You know, he looks like a judge ought to look."

"Best head of hair in the United States," argued one of Maddox's attorneys, Sidney Schell, also somewhat short of the commodity.

"I used to wish that some day I'd have a beautiful head of silver hair," Maddox added. "Now I'd be happy to have just any kind."

LAWYER QUOTES

Schell declared that what Dr. Faust said in the German classic, after the devil gave him all knowledge, fairly well summed up his feelings about his study of the Civil Rights Act:

"'I sought for hidden treasure, genuine gold, but only hideous ashes forth I bore, so here I stand with all my lore, alas, poor fool, no wise than before,'" he recited from memory.

A bit later, after he recited another quotation, his colleague, William McRae, asked, "Shakespeare?"

"Milton."

Schell, who holds bachelors and master degrees in philosophy plus an LL.D., LLM and JD, four times unsuccessfully ran for mayor of East Point. McRae also has unsuccessfully sought political office.

Schell was a "grown man before I ever saw a Negro," having been born in Boise, Idaho, and grew up in Colorado, al-archaeological expedition in the near future.

Maddox, meanwhile, declared, "If I lose everything (as a result of the court actions his stand on integration has brought) I'm not worried. Lyndon Johnson said he's going to eradicate poverty, didn't he?"

At one point Maddox, who also has been an unsuccessful political candidate, although running close races for lieutenant governor against Peter Zack Geer and against Ivan Allen Jr. for mayor of Atlanta, said he needed to hurry home to write his Saturday "Pickrick Says" ad.

He commented that Constitution publisher Ralph McGill told him once he had decided to keep running it "after much soul-searching." "You know what he means by soul searching" Maddox said, reaching his hand in his pocket as though to pull out a wad of bills.

An Associated Press photographer said, "Lester, every time you do that I flinch."

"Fastest gun in the South," Schell joked.

Russians Link 5 Seas with Canal System

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union has completed construction of a canal system linking the five seas of Russia. Soviet newspapers hailed the project as an engineering marvel.

The final stretch of the network connects the Baltic Sea to the Black Sea along the Volga River and links up with a waterway runing to the White, Caspian and Azov seas. The system is 3,470 miles long.

Britain's 120,000 Postmen Ready For Full-Scale Strike Saturday

LONDON (UPI) — Leaders of Britain's 120,000 postmen called a full-scale national strike Wednesday for "an indefinite period" starting at midnight Saturday.

The new strike call followed a one-day walkout by postmen last Thursday and a continuing ban on overtime and "work-to-rule" slowdown which has piled up mail in post offices all over the country.

Union of Post Office Workers Chief Ron Smith said the total strike would continue until the postmen's wage claims were settled.

Maddox and Motel Lose in U.S. Court

Continued from Page 1

the same conditions as non-Negroes.

2. Failing or refusing to sell to or serve Negroes the same things on the same basis as others.

3. "Otherwise failing or refusing to make any of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages or accommodations available to Negroes as they are to all other races.

Although the injunctions are temporary, and the ultimate constitutionality of the act will be decided by the Supreme Couft in direct appeals from the three-judge district court decision here, the decisions are a landmark in the history of civil rights legislation.

An 1875 Public Accommodations Act, similar in intent and coverage to provisions of the 1964 law, but with much stiffer penal provisions, was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court in 1883.

That law was based on the 14th amendment, which the Supreme Court has repeatedly declared applies only to state actions and does not give Congress authority to interfere with discrimination by individuals.

In congressional hearings before the rights act was passed Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy contended it would stand up because the public accommodations sections were based on Congress's authority to regulate interstate commerce.

The court agreed with that assessment here Wednesday, declaring "Congress has the power to go this far. No question of freedom of association under the first amendment or involuntary serviture under the 13th amendment is involved."

Their decision states, "The inital determination of whether the challenged regulation is such 'appropriate means' is for Congress. Courts may not overturn such determination unless they conclude that under no reasonable theory could Congress find them 'appropriate to the attainment' of its power to regulate commerce."

"Thus it need not be decided whether the outlawing of racial discrimination by a hotel accepting transient guests may be justified on the ground that it is actually in the stream of commerce," the court declares, because Congress has the power to regulate "those intrastate activities which so affect interstate commerce."

"LITTLE DOUBT"

In his concurring opinion, Judge Hooper stated, "Little doubt should exist as to the power of Congress to legislate concerning such facilities along interstate highways."

His opinion added that "all restaurants reasonably accessible to interstate travelers are prohibited from discriminating against Negroes in the service of food."

He concurred fully in the injunction against Maddox, declaring, "That the Pickrick restaurant, located on an interstate highway, did in fact offer to serve interstate travelers and therefore a temporary injunction

Cobb Youth Bound Over In Lakewood Race Melee

A Cobb County youth was held under $100 bond Wednesday for Fulton Criminal Court on charges of assault and battery which Terr., East Point, and C. A. Maynor, 32, of 2555 Lancaster Drive, East Point, were taken to South Fulton Hospital with severe facial lacerations and Maynor was admitted for observation.

FALLS FROM TRUCK

James L. Dukes, 29, of Columbus, fell from his van-type truck after it struck a pole on the Northeast Expressway near the Peachtree Road bridge, Patrolman P. F. Young said. The truck hit a divider 50 feet away and stopped.

Dukes was treated at Grady Hospital for a dislocated shoulder and bruises, Young said.

Young said a heavy blast of wind could have caused the light truck to veer out of control.

against Rep. Wilson Brooks.

Both said they are Goldwater supporters.

3 Stills Destroyed In Lexington Raid

LEXINGTON, Ga. — Authorities reported the destruction Wednesday of a bootleg still complex with a weekly capacity of $20,000 worth of illegal liquor. Eight state revenue agents joined Sheriff W. T. Howard in the raid on the 600-gallon per day operation here. The officers poured out 169 gallons of liquor and 15,000 gallons of mash. They said the plant had three stills of 1,500, 1,00, and 250-gallon capacity.

Sanders, here in connection with Georgia Day ceremonies at the World Fair, held an impromptu press conference for New York newsmen and discussed the Harlem riots, Alabama Gov. George Wallace, Republican nominee Barry Goldwater and race relations in general.

He said he felt it was the right thing to do for the FBI to step in and investigate the violence in Harlem.

Sanders also said he did not believe there was "a tremendous amount of white backlash" because of the passage of the civil rights bill.

He added that Gov. Wallace, who announced Sunday he is withdrawing from the presidential race, would not have enough both the Harlem riots and Goldwater's "extremism" comment in his address to the GOP convention in San Francisco last week, Sanders declared as soon as people realize "extremism is not a virtue, the better off we'll all be."

RAIN POURED DOWN

The big Georgia delegation literally took the New York World's Fair by storm Wednesday—it poured down rain during the entire official ceremony for Georgia Day.

As the band started playing and dignitaries sat in the grandstand, they looked out at nearly 1,000 empty seats and saw one lone person sitting in the rain under a blue umbrella on the last row in the rear.

He was Robert Whitlow, 10, of Cartersville, visiting the fair for the first day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ancil Whitlow, and his sister, Annette.

Among a half dozen fair visitors standing beneath trees behind Robert were Charles and Anne Hammett and Lenwood Scott, all from Augusta.

'THAT'S MY GOVERNOR'

And singing lustily under the tree as the band played the national anthem was Mrs. Adeline Jones, a Negro and former Savannah resident who now lives in New Jersey. She was braving the weather without a raincoat to watch the Georgia Day festivities.

"That's my governor," she declared.

When Sanders started speaking, Mrs. Jones came down to the front row and stood and applauded everything the governor said. Two policemen finally went over and spoke to her and she sat down and held her applause until the end.

After learning she was from Georgia, Sanders sent her his regards.

New Violence Erupts in NY

Continued from Page 1

taunting police and urging the crowds to take action against them.

Earlier, in intermittent rain, a crowd of Negro teen-agers tried to overturn a sound truck operated by a civil rights group in the area which had been exhorting the Negroes to return to their homes.

Warning shots later were fired over the heads of the crowd.

In Manhattan, a jeering throng of 500 white teen-agers tossed eggs, stones and tin cans at about 200 Negro pickets outside police headquarters.

The crowd, comprised mostly of Negro teen-agers, jeered the NAACP officials, and police advised both groups to move on.

One bottle was thrown, but it struck no one.

In Brooklyn's Bushwick section several blocks to the north, scores of teen-agers walked the streets. Several bottles were thrown but they crashed harmlessly on the pavement.

Wagner coupled his plea for reason with a promise of swift justice for "hoodlums, rowdies and troublemakers." He pledged stepped-up efforts to improve slum conditions, add Negroes to the police force and review cases of alleged police brutality.

Even as the mayor spoke on television and radio, helmeted police patrolled Harlem and a predominantly Negro district of Brooklyn, where the riots have left one dead, more than 100 injured and dozens of stores smashed and looted.

Earlier, about 40 Brooklyn Negro leaders had promised to suspend public demonstrations for the duration of the crisis, and to man sound trucks to cruise the streets appealing to people to stay home at night.

Wagner, who cut short a European vacation to return to the city, looked tired and drawn.

He laid out a nine-point program which he said he had worked out "after intensive, prolonged and prayerful consideration.

"The nation and world have their eyes on New York," Wagner said. "I can't exaggerate what is at stake here."

Wagner said he had spoken Wednesday with President Lyndon B. Johnson, who had assured him that his assignment of the FBI to investigate any violations of federal law in the New York riots was "designed solely to assist, support and supplement what we were already doing."

The mayor promised cooperation with the FBI, another quotation, his colleague, William McRae, asked, "Shakespeare?"

"Milton."

Schell, who holds bachelors and master degrees in philosophy plus an LL.D., LLM and JD, four times unsuccessfully ran for mayor of East Point. McRae also has unsuccessfully sought political office.

Schell was a "grown man before I ever saw a Negro," having been born in Boise, Idaho, and grew up in Colorado, although his parents were Georgians.

While he waited for the ruling, Schell talked of his antique doll collection, considered one of the finest in the South, and said he was taking up a new hobby—archaeology. He hopes to go to Yucatan on an terway runing to the White, Caspian and Azov seas. The system is 3,470 miles long.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy contended it would stand up because the public accommodaconcerning such facilities along interstate highways."

His opinion added that "all restaurants reasonably accessible to interstate travelers are prohibited from discriminating against Negroes in the service of food."

He concurred fully in the injunction against Maddox, declaring, "That the Pickrick restaurant, located on an interstate highway, did in fact offer to serve interstate travelers and therefore a temporary injunction should be issued against the corporation and against Lester G. Maddox, its president, who actively engineered the discrimination."

They contended that the food the restaurant bought was no longer in interstate commerce when Maddox bought it, even though it might have been at one time, and argued the restaurant and its policy could not adversely affect interstate commerce.

THE QUESTION

The question is whether Congress can reach racial discrimination to the same extent that it can reach other activities under the commerce clause," the court decided.

"There is nothing which we can find that would indicate that Congress would not apply the same standards it has applied in cases dealing with the regulation of prices, wages, hours, labor relations, or any other attempt by Congress to exercise the full extent of its powers under the commerce clause."

The court noted, however, that unlike the motel case, Congress did not declare that all restaurants were affected, but only those "that serve or offer to serve interstate travelers or a substantial portion of the food which it serves . . . has moved in commerce."

Ralph McGill

'To Cherish Little Things'

Continued from Page 1

ulations grow and so do our governments at the state and national level, so does business, and so do the bureaucracies of municipalities that must provide the services for such bigness.

This environment also is one that is more and more of machines and less of personalities. But all the wistful thinking that if somehow we were more moral and if government were less big and if populations were back at the village level, life would be sweet, lovely and clean for all of us is a most naive business. There is a certain pathos in it, but not much of reality. The sweet city of Zion will certainly not thereby be attained.

Cobb Youth Bound Over In Lakewood Race Melee

A Cobb County youth was held under $100 bond Wednesday for Fulton Criminal Court on charges of assault and battery which developed out of a racial melee July Fourth at Lakewood Park.

Municipal Judge Ed Brock assessed the bond against Walter E. Cleapor III, 18, of Rte. 2, Austell, following a lengthy hearing in Municipal Court.

Detective H. G. Mann told the court Cleapor struck him on the jaw, knocking him to his knees. Patrolman C. C. Sewell, who was standing behind Mann, said he saw Cleapor strike the detective and then moved in to assist with the arrest of Cleapor.

5 TELL OF BLOWS

Five witnesses told the court they saw Mann strike Cleapor for no apparent reason. A sixth said he did not see the blow but said he saw officers "pile on Cleapor like football players."

Brock said since there was a marked conflict of testimony he felt the case should be heard by a jury.

Mann testified a fist fight broke out in the park grandstand after several Negroes, accompanied by a white man, invaded an American Patriot rally. He said he went with Sgt. N. R. Clodfelter to escort a Negro and a white man from the grandstand.

Mann said he was the rear of the group which was escorting the two when Cleapor struck him. Under cross-examination by attorney G. Seals Aiken, Mann said he saw the youth as the blow was struck.

Sewell said he placed a billy club over Cleapor's head and used it to press down his arms while pulling him away. He said Cleapor kicked him before he was able to place handcuffs on one wrist.

James A. Brooks of 2134 Browns Mill Road SE said that when the Negroes appeared the "crowd exploded." He told the court he saw Mann "swing at Cleapor who was just standing there."

C. J. King of 1047 Moreland Ave. said he saw police "pile in on Cleapor like football players." King said the youth's clothing was "just about ripped off."

4 FROM ATHENS

Four others who drove together from Athens to attend the rally also said they saw Mann strike Cleapor first.

W. E. Cleapor Jr., father of the defendant, said he drove with him to Lakewood but was not with him at the time of the arrest.

"His shirt was in tatters and the seat was split out of his britches," the father said. "His mouth was bruised. We had chicken and dressing for supper that night and he couldn't eat any of it, his mouth was so sore."

Text of Motel Suit Ruling: 'Law Is Constitutional'

Continued from Page 18

other establishment which provides lodging to transient guests, other than an establishment located within a building which contains not more than five rooms for rent or hire and which is actually occupied by the proprietor of such establishment as his residence; . . .

"(c) The operations of an establishment affect commerce within the meaning of this title if (1) it is one of the establishments described in paragraph (1) of subsection (b); . . . ."

In substance, this section of Title II declares the right of every person to full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services and facilities of any hotel or motel which provides lodging to transient guests if it contains more than five rooms for rent or hire. The section is a congressional ascertainment and declaration of the fact that such "an establishment affect(s) commerce within the meaning of this Title."

Article I, Section 8, of the Constitution provides: "Clause 1: The Congress shall have power . . . Clause 3: to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes:" and Clause 18 "to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers . . ."

In United States v. Darby, 312 U.S. 100, 118, the Supreme Court said:

"The power of Congress over interstate commerce is not confined to the regulation of commerce among the states. It extends to those activities intrastate which so affect interstate commerce or the exercise of the power of Congress over it as to make regulation of them appropriate means to the attainment of a legitimate end, the exercise of the grant of power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce. See McCullough v. Maryland, 4 Wheat 316, 421."

Thus, it need not be decided whether the outlawing of racial discrimination by a hotel accepting transient guests may be justified on the ground that it is actually in the stream of commerce. The power of Congress, when that body seeks to occupy the full extent of its powers under the Constitution, "extends to those activities intrastate which so affect interstate commerce . . . as to make regulation of them appropriate means to . . . the exercise of the granted power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce." Of course, the initial determination of whether the challenged regulation is such "appropriate means" is for Congress. Courts may not overturn such determination unless they conclude that under no reasonable theory could Congress find them "appropriate to the attainment" of its power to regulate commerce.

This Court, as recently as July 10, 1964, in the case of Marriott Hotels of Atlanta, Inc. v. Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc., C.A. No. 8832, held that the operations of Heart of Atlanta Motel (1) are in the stream of commerce, and that, in any event, (2) such operations affect commerce so as to subject it to Congressional regulation under the Sherman Antitrust Act. It being undisputed that in the adoption of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Congress has seen fit to exercise its full power as granted it under the Constitution the scope of its operation in this field must, therefore, be taken to be at least as broad as that which it exercised in the adoption of the Sherman Act. Its scope is, therefore, also as broad as in the legislation affecting labor relations under the National Labor Relations Act. It is broader than that exercised by Congress in its regulation of wages and hours of services under the Wage and Hour laws.

In the specific field of hotel operations, the Supreme Court has ruled that the National Labor Relations Board could not lawfully follow a policy of refusing to take jurisdiction over unfair labor practices and other labor disputes in hotels and motels as a class. Hotels Employees Local No. 255 v. Leedom, 358 U.S. 99. Following that decision, the Court of Appeals of this judicial circuit in N.L.R.B. v. Citizens Hotel Co., 5 Cir., 313 F. 2d 708, overruled a contention by the Citizens Hotel Company, operator of the Texas Hotel in Fort Worth, Texas, that its operations did not fall within the constitutional reach of the National Labor Relations Act because it was not either engaged in commerce, nor did its operations affect commerce. In arriving at that decision the court referred to the Supreme Court's opinion in National Labor Relations Board v. Reliance Fuel Oil Corp., 371 U.S. 224. That case dealt with an attack by the local fuel oil corporation on the jurisdiction of the Labor Board because, while most of the products sold by Reliance had been acquired from Gulf Oil Corporation and had been delivered to it from without the state of New York, they nevertheless had been received and stored in the state before sales were made to Reliance. It was thus contended that Reliance was not engaged in commerce nor were its operations such as to affect commerce within the constitutional sense. The Supreme Court said:

"That activities such as those of Reliance affect commerce and are within the constitutional reach of Congress is beyond doubt. See e.g. Wickard v. Filburn, 317 U.S. 111."

The opinion also significantly quoted from the court's earlier decision in Polish Alliance v. Labor Board, 322 U.S. where, at page 648, it had said:

"Congress has explicitly regulated not merely transactions or goods in interstate commerce but activities which in isolation might be deemed to be merely local, but in the interlacings of business across state lines adversely affect such commerce."

It is clear that the attack by the complainant on the constitutionality of these sections of the Civil Rights Act must fail. It is equally clear that the United States is entitled to the injunction prayed for by it in its counterclaim. An injunction will issue in the following terms:

ORDER

The plaintiff, Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc., a corporation, its successors, officers, attorneys, agents and employees, together with all persons in active concert or participation with them, are hereby enjoined from:

(a) Refusing to accept Negroes as guests in the motel by reason of their race or color;

(b) Making any distinction whatever upon the basis of race or color in the availability of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages or accommodations offered or made available to the guests of the motel, or to the general public, within or upon any of the premises of the Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc.

So that the plaintiff may have an opportunity to prepare its record for appeal and, if so advised, seek a stay of this order, it is ORDERED that the foregoing injunction shall become effective twenty (20) days from the date hereof, on, to-wit, the 11th day of August, 1964.

This 22nd day of July, 1964.

S/ELBERT P. TUTTLE

Elbert P. Tuttle
United States Circuit Judge

S/FRANK A. HOOPER

Frank A. Hooper
United States District Judge

S/LEWIS R. MORGAN

Lewis R. Morgan
United States District Judge

Text of Verdict on Pickrick: 'Congress Can Deal with Bias'

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF GEORGIA
ATLANTA DIVISION
CIVIL ACTION NO. 9028
GEORGE WILLIS, JR., WOODROW T. LEWIS, and ALBERT L. DUNN, Plaintiffs,
ROBERT F. KENNEDY, Attorney General,
Intervenor
vs.
THE PICKRICK RESTAURANT, a Corporation, and LESTER G. MADDOX, Defendants

Before TUTTLE, Chief Judge, Court of Appeals, Fifth Circuit, and HOOPER and MORGAN, District Judges, Northern District of Georgia.

This suit was filed by the three named plaintiffs, all Negroes, for themselves and for the class consisting of all other Negroes, seeking an injunction restraining the defendants from violating the provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 in connection with their operation of a large restaurant in the City of Atlanta.

Attorney General

The United States was permitted to intervene as it is authorized to do under Section 204 of the Act, upon proper certification by the Attorney General. Its intervention was, by amendment, denominated a "complaint in intervention," and it asserted "This is a complaint filed by the United States under Section 206(a) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 after leave to intervene has been granted to the United States under Section 204(a) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

Following its intervention, the Attorney General filed the certificates required under Section 206(b) (where the Attorney General initiates the action), to the effect that in the opinion of the Attorney General "the case is of general public importance." The Attorney General also filed a request for a three-judge court, which is also provided for under Section 206(b), where a proceeding is filed by the Attorney General. Treating the complaint in intervention of the United States in the same light as if the Attorney General had filed the suit initially, the undersigned Elbert P. Tuttle, Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, designated a three-judge court to hear and determine the case.

any restaurant, cafeteria, lunchroom, etc., if it serves or offers to serve interstate travellers, or if a substantial portion of the foods it serves has moved in commerce.

As was the situation in the Heart of Atlanta case, here, too, the defendants admit that they are denying members of the Negro race the right to be served in their restaurant on account of race. Unlike the other case, however, the application of the Civil Rights Act to these defendants depends upon the resolution of issues of fact, for a restaurant is not brought within the definition of interstate commerce unless it meets one of the tests enumerated in subparagraph (c) of Section 201. These tests are in the alternative. Either it must serve or offer to serve interstate travellers, or a substantial portion of the food which it serves or other products which it sells must have moved in interstate commerce.

Thus, since each place of public accommodation conducts an entirely separate and distinct operation, the factual determination from which the Court must decide that it either is or it is not within the class described in the Act must be made on the circumstances of each case. The decision that is made here, therefore, must necessarily relate to these defendants only, and, by way of stare decisis, to such other places of public accommodations that are sufficiently similar in circumstances as to require the application of the same legal principles to them.

Slight Proof

(2) There is testimony from several witnesses who had made surveys for this specific purpose that on several separate occasions some two to three per cent of the automobiles on the restaurant's parking lot had out-of-state licenses.

While the proof of actual service to interstate travellers was slight, (2) there was no doubt but that the defendants "offer (ed) service to interstate travellers. This was made apparent by the fact that witnesses testified that upon presenting themselves for service no inquiry was made as to their place of residence, but probably more importantly it was proved that the restaurant has several large signs on two important business route portions of federal highways, such signs being located several blocks from the answer the principal contention of the defendants. The facts in the Reliance Fuel Corporation case are that the National Labor Relations Board sought to take jurisdiction in an alleged labor relations dispute by employees of Reliance Fuel Corporation. Jurisdiction of the Board was challenged on the ground that all of the fuel sold by Reliance had been purchased by it locally within the State of New York from Gulf Oil Corporation, and deliveries were made to Reliance from stocks stored in warehouses or tanks located within the state. Thus, it was contended that according to the classical argument prior to National Labor Relations Board v. Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, 301 U.S. 1, the business of Reliance was "local," and its labor relations could not be subjected to congressional control. Elaborating the principle by which it decided that the Labor Board had jurisdiction, the Supreme Court said at 371 U.S. 226-227:

Framework

"The act establishes a framework within which the Board is to determine 'whether proscribed practices would in particular situations adversely affect commerce when judged by the full reach of the constitutional power of Congress. Whether or not (sic) practices may be deemed by Congress to affect interstate commerce is not to be determined by confining judgment to the quantitative effect of the activities immediately before the Board. Appropriate for judgment is the fact that the immediate situation is representative of many others throughout the country, the total incidence of which is left unchecked may well become far-reaching in its harm to commerce'. Polish Alliance v. Labor Board, 322 U.S. at 648. . . .

"That activities such as those of Reliance affect commerce and are within the constitutional reach of Congress is beyond doubt. See, e.g., Wickard v. Filburn, 317 U.S. 111. Through the National Labor Relations Act, '. . . Congress has explicitly regulated not merely transactions or goods in interstate commerce but activities which in isolation might be deemed to be merely local but in the interlacings of business across state lines adversely affect such commerce'. Polish Alli-

THREE-JUDGE PANEL THAT RULED IN LANDMARK CASES
L-R: Judges Elbert Tuttle, Lewis R. Morgan and Frank A. Hooper

in cases dealing with the regulation of prices, wages, hours, labor relations, or any other attempt by Congress to exercise the full extent of its powers under the commerce clause.

Under the Fourteenth Amendment, Congress can reach "only such action as may fairly be said to be that of the states," Shelly v. Kraemer, 334 U.S. 1, 13. Under the commerce clause, the power of Congress extends to all interstate activities and also "to those activities intrastate which so affect (underscoring supplied) commerce or the exercise of the power of Congress over it as to make regulation of them appropriate means to the attainment of a legitimate end. . . ." United States v. Darby, 312 U.S. 100, 118.

With respect to the merits of this case, we need only to apply the facts to the definition of a place of public accommodation contained in the Act. This follows from the proposition that this Court has only such jurisdiction as the Congress has given it, Article III, U.S. Constitution, and because Congress determines the extent to which commerce is to be controlled, Article I, Section 8, U.S. Constitution.

Congress has made the public accommodations section of the Act, as pertinent to this case, applicable to "any restaurant, cafeteria . . . or other facility principally engaged in selling food for consumption on the premises . . ." if its operations affect commerce. Title II, Section 201(b)(2) of the Act. It has further directed that such an establishment affects commerce if "it serves or offers to serve interstate travellers or a substantial portion of the food which it serves . . . has moved in commerce."

Limit of Case

It is clear that the definition includes the Pickrick Restaurant, a corporation.

This is the limit of this case. Congress had the power to go this far. No question of freedom of association under the First Amendment or involuntary servitude under the Thirteenth Amendment is involved.

It follows, therefore, that the defendants' attack on the constitutionality of the Act as applied to their operation must fail. An injunction will issue in the following terms:

ORDER

The defendants, their successors, officers, attorneys, agents and employees together with all persons in active concert or participation with them, are, until the further order of this Court, enjoined from:

(a) Refusing to admit Negroes to the premises of the Pickrick Restaurant upon the same basis and under the same conditions that non-Negro members of the general public are admitted to the restaurant;

(b) Failing or refusing to sell food or meals and to provide service to Negro patrons upon the same basis and in the same manner that food, meals and services are made available to patrons of other races;

(c) Otherwise failing or refusing to make any of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages or accommodations of the Pickrick Restaurant available to Negroes upon the same basis and under the same conditions that they are available to other races.

So that the defendants may have an opportunity to prepare their record for appeal and, if so advised, seek a stay of this order, it is ORDERED that the foregoing injunction shall become effective twenty (20) days from the date hereof, on, to-wit: the 11th day of August, 1964.

This the 22nd day of July, 1964.

S. ELBERT P. TUTTLE
Elbert P. Tuttle
United States Circuit Judge
S. FRANK A. HOOPER
Frank A. Hooper
United States District Judge
S. LEWIS R. MORGAN
Lewis R. Morgan
United States District Judge

Text of Decision On Suit by Motel

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF GEORGIA
ATLANTA DIVISION
CIVIL ACTION NO. 9017
HEART OF ATLANTA MOTEL, INC., a Georgia corporation, Plaintiff, —versus—
THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and ROBERT F. KENNEDY as the Attorney General of the United States, Defendant

This is a complaint filed by Heart of Atlanta Motel, a large downtown motel in the city of Atlanta, regularly catering to out of state guests, praying for a declaratory judgment and injunction to prevent the Attorney General of the United States from exercising powers granted to him under the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C.A., Section 1971, as amended. The suit also attempts to obtain recovery from the United States for substantial damages alleged to result from a partial taking of the complainant's property without just compensation.

Conceding, as it does, that it is regularly engaged in renting sleeping accommodations to out of town guests, seventy - five percent of whom come from without the state of Georgia, and that it "has refused and intends to refuse to rent sleeping accommodations to persons desiring said accommodations, for several different reasons, one of which is based on the grounds of race, unless ordered by this Court to comply with the provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964," the suit attacks the constitutionality of the public accommodations sections of the Civil Rights Act as applied to such a motel.

Since this is a suit seeking an injunction against the enforcement of a Federal statute on the alleged grounds that it is in violation of the United States Constitution, a three-judge court was convened as provided for in 28 U.S.C.A., Section 2282.

The Attorney General filed a counterclaim seeking, on behalf of the United States, a temporary and permanent injunction against future violation of the Civil Rights Act by the plaintiff. The case was set down for hearing, and after the introduction of oral testimony on behalf of the United States, the signing of stipulations between the parties, and oral statements made by counsel for the plaintiff in open court, it appeared that no factual issues remained. The parties also conceded in open court that the matter might be treated as a hearing on the petition for the final permanent injunction.

In the first place, the claim of the plaintiff for damages against the United States on the alleged ground of deprivation of property without just compensation alleges no grounds for relief, entirely aside from the question whether such alleged deprivation would be justified by reason of the power of Congress to enact this particular legislation. This is so, because such a claim for damages or recovery for value of property taken by the Federal Government must be asserted in the United States Court of Claims unless the amount sought is not in excess of $10,000. However, in the view we take of the law, such a suit is not maintainable in any event.

The real question presented by this complaint and counterclaim is whether Section 201(a), (b), (1) and (c) is constitutional.

"Sec. 201(a). All persons shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, and accommodations of any place of public accommodation, as defined in this section, without discrimination or segregation on the ground of race, color, religion or national origin.

"(b) Each of the following establishments which serves the public is a place of public accommodation within the meaning of this title if its operations affect commerce, or if discrimination or segregation by it is supported by State action:

(1) Any inn, hotel, motel, or

Continued on Page 19, Column 1

Text of Judge Hooper's Concurring Opinion: 'The Pickrick Serves Interstate Travelers'

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR operations of an establishment affect commerce" within the published for Negro travelers which describes places which and highways never traversed by interstate travelers, some of them located in the backwoods to regulate commerce among the states, transactions in goods which have already moved in court, which is also provided for under Section 206(b), where a proceeding is filed by the Attorney General. Treating the complaint in intervention of the United States in the same light as if the Attorney General had filed the suit initially, the undersigned Elbert P. Tuttle, Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, designated a three-judge court to hear and determine the case.

Companion Case

To a considerable extent this is a companion case to Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. The United States of America and Robert F. Kennedy, Attorney General, C.A. No. 9017, decided this same day. While the cases were not joined for argument, the trial of this case commenced immediately following the hearing and argument in the Heart of Atlanta Motel case by the same three-judge court. All parties and the Court recognize that to a considerable degree similar questions of constitutional law were present in both cases.

The real question presented by this complaint and the Government's complaint on intervention is whether Section 201 (a)(b)(2) and (c)(2) is constitutional.

(1) "Section. 201. (a) All persons shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, and accommodations of any place of public accommodation, as defined in this section, without discrimination or segregation on the ground of race, color, religion or national origin.

"(b) Each of the following establishments which serves the public is a place of public accommodation within the meaning of this title if its operations affect commerce, or if discrimination or segregation by it is supported by State caution:

(2) Any restaurant, cafeteria, lunchroom, lunch counter, soda fountain, or other facility principally engaged in selling food for consumption on the premises, including, but not limited to, any such facility located on the premises of any retail establishment; or any gasoline station; . . .

"(c) The operations of an establishment affect commerce within the meaning of this title if (2) in the case of an establishment described in paragraph (2) of subsection (b), it serves or offers to serve interstate travelers or a substantial portion of the food which it serves, or gasoline or other products which it sells, has moved in commerce; . . .

In substance, this section of Title II declares the right of every person to full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services and accommodations of but that the defendants "offer (ed) service to interstate travellers. This was made apparent by the fact that witnesses testified that upon presenting themselves for service no inquiry was made as to their place of residence, but probably more importantly it was proved that the restaurant has several large signs on two important business route portions of federal highways, such signs being located several blocks from the place of business; moreover, the restaurant itself is situated on the main business route of U.S. 41, a federal interstate highway.

It is likewise clear beyond any question that a very substantial part of the dollar value of the food and other products served or sold by defendant restaurant originated outside the State of Georgia, and that it thus "has moved in commerce." It should be made plain that this substantial portion is a very substantial figure in annual volume. The restaurant has annual gross receipts from its operations of over $500,000 for the last year, and its purchases of food exceeded $250,000. It was stipulated that it has 61 employees regularly engaged in its operation.

Matter of Degree

The principal attack made on the constitutionality of the application of the Civil Rights Act to this restaurant is largely one of degree. It is contended that if Congress is to be permitted to bring within its regulatory power what has heretofore been known as a local business merely because its business is a dealing in products which have been shipped in interstate commerce, this would, in effect, abolish all distinctions between what is local and what is national in scope, and thus all would end up in the federal domain.

The plaintiffs and the United States contend that defendants offered to serve interstate travellers, together with the fact that it unquestionably does serve some interstate travellers is sufficient, if Congress so establishes the test, to bring it within the actual stream of commerce. If such is the law, and it may well be determined by the Supreme Court to be the law, then there would be no distinction between a large restaurant serving interstate travellers and a unit of the hotel or motel industry. However, we think we need not go so far in this case, especially on account of the relatively weak proof of actual service to the travelling public, in view of the other test.

We are of the opinion that the Supreme Court's decision in the case of National Labor Relations Board v. Reliance Fuel Corp., 371 U.S. 224, and the judgment of the Court of Appeals of the Fifth Circuit, a Court whose judgments are binding on this Court, in National Labor Relations Board v. Citizens Hotel Company, 5 Cir., 313 F. 2d 708, completely merce and are within the constitutional reach of Congress is beyond doubt. See, e.g., Wickard v. Filburn, 317 U.S. 111. Through the National Labor Relations Act, '. . . Congress has explicitly regulated not merely transactions or goods in interstate commerce but activities which in isolation might be deemed to be merely local but in the interlacings of business across state lines adversely affect such commerce'. Polish Alliance v. Labor Board, 322 U.S. at 648."

Similarly, the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit decided in National Labor Relations Board v. Benton & Company, 5 Cir., 313 F. 2d 629, that a small Florida corporation engaged in strictly local activities of dredging shells to be sold for local construction purposes was an employer within the purview of the National Labor Relations Act solely because in its operation of dredging it consumed something in excess of $50,000 per year of petroleum products, which were shipped from outside the State of Florida to the local suppliers, who then sold these products to Benton.

There remains only the question whether, if Congress now has, as we recognize it has, the power to extend regulatory control over labor policies of otherwise local businesses because, in their operations, they either utilize or buy and sell substantial quantities of products that have been in interstate commerce, we can say that it is irrational for Congress to conclude, as it has done in adopting this law, that the prevention of racial discrimination in such otherwise local businesses, is also within its regulatory power because of the effect of such practices on interstate commerce. In applying provisions adopted by Congress under the prohibition laws, the Supreme Court, in Everards Breweries v. Day, 265 U.S. 545, said:

"It is likewise well settled that where the means adopted by Congress are not prohibited and are calculated to effect the object entrusted to it, this Court may not inquire into the degree of their necessity. . . ."

Valid Regulation

Moreover, this Court has previously sustained the Interstate Commerce Commission's order prohibiting the use by interstate carriers of segregated terminals or vehicles (even if the segregation was solely with respect to local passengers) as a valid regulation of interstate commerce. Georgia v. United States, 201 F. Suppl. 813, No. Dist. of Ga., aff'd. 371 U.S. 9.

The question here is whether Congress can reach racial discrimination to the same extent that it can reach other activities under the commerce clause. There is nothing which we can find that would indicate that Congress would not apply the same standards it has applied lic accommodations section of the Act, as pertinent to this case, applicable to "any res-

Court, enjoined from:

(a) Refusing to admit Negroes to the premises of the

S. LEWIS R. MORGAN
Lewis R. Morgan
United States District Judge

counterclaim seeking, on behalf of the United States, a temporary and permanent injunc-

(1) Any inn, hotel, motel, or

Continued on Page 19, Column 1

Text of Judge Hooper's Concurring Opinion: 'The Pickrick Serves Interstate Travelers'

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF GEORGIA

ATLANTA DIVISION

CIVIL ACTION, NO. 9028

GEORGE WILLIS, JR.,
WOODROW T. LEWIS and ALBERT L. DUNN,
Plaintiffs,

vs

THE PICKRICK, a Corporation, and LESTER G. MADDOX,
Defendants

OPINION

HOOPER, District Judge.
Specially Concurring.

It must be kept in mind that the instant case while raising serious constitutional questions is now before this Court only for purposes of a temporary injunction. As the evidence shows without dispute that defendant, The Pickrick, a Corporation, through its president Lester G. Maddox, did, pursuant to a deliberate policy, refuse to serve several Negroes at the restaurant in question, and since defendants offered no testimony at this hearing this Court must decide (1) whether the restaurant in question comes within the purview of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, and if so, (2) whether Congress had the power under the Interstate Commerce Clause of the United States Constitution to require this particular restaurant to serve all proposed guests without discrimination as to race or color.

The courts will not lightly declare Acts of Congress unconstitutional, particularly on the hearing of a temporary injunction which is tried almost immediately after the filing of the complaint, and without adequate opportunity for a careful study. The Courts should construe the statute in question if possible, in a manner that will render it constitutional and not otherwise, and will not impute to Congress the intent to violate the Constitution unless that intent is manifest from the language of the Act.

Covered by Law

(1) The so-called "Public Accommodations" section of the Act is contained in Sec. 201 of Title II, which expressly covers among other establishments, "any restaurant, etc., selling food for consumption on the premises." It provides that "the operations of an establishment affect commerce" within the meaning of Title II if "it serves or offers to serve interstate travelers, or a substantial portion of the food which it serves . . . has moved in commerce."

In the instant case it appears that defendants come within the above provisions for they did in fact "offer to serve interstate travelers." The restaurant is located on U.S. Highway 41, a well-traveled street through the City of Atlanta, and defendants have erected on the highway a sign directing all travelers to the restaurant. These facts would show a particular invitation to travelers, more specific than the general invitation which all restaurants hold out to the public for customers. There is some evidence that a relatively small numbers of cars were found on defendants' premises bearing out of the state license tags, and I agree with the majority opinion that this evidence is weak as going to support the contention that interstate travelers frequented the restaurant. The offer to serve them, however, is clear, and it would be unthinkable that no interstate travelers did patronize defendants' restaurant as it has an attractive appearance and ample parking facilities on the interstate highway.

Majority Opinion

(2) The majority opinion rules in effect that segregation in this particular restaurant affects commerce because of the fact that "a substantial portion of the food which it serves . . . has moved in commerce." On that point I am not prepared to express an official opinion for reasons now to be stated.

As to the effect on commerce by reason of the unwillingness of restaurants along interstate highways to serve the Negro race much evidence was adduced before the Congressional Committees. Under Secretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., testified that Negroes, traveling from Washington, D.C., to Florida (and between other points) "would have an extremely slender choice in attempting to find overnight accommodations in hotels and motels serving white travelers along the same routes." He stated they needed a guidebook published for Negro travelers which describes places which will serve Negroes. Evidence was adduced to the effect that a Negro traveling from Washington, D.C., to Miami, a distance of 1,125 miles, would be unable for an average of 141 miles to find reasonable sleeping accommodations. On a trip from Washington, D.C., to New Orleans, a distance of 1,217 miles, this average would be 174 miles. Of course, this means that there were many intervals of much greater distance than the above averages and anyone can imagine the plight of a Negro with his family attempting to make such a journey without adequate facilities for food, rest rooms, and sleeping accommodations along the way. Therefore, little doubt should exist as to the power of Congress to legislate concerning such facilities along interstate highways (where interstate travel may be presumed to exist, or even on throughways over which interstate traffic may pass). If, however, the language of Title II is given a literal interpretation wherein there is brought within its provisions all restaurants as to which "a substantial portion of the food which it serves . . . has moved in commerce" this Court can almost take judicial cognizance of the fact that it will cover all restaurants in this state. The able Assistant Attorneys General of the United States have presented this case with clarity, ability and tact, and have filed with the Court an excellent brief of some 50 pages which greatly assists this Court. The brief cites inter alia the case of Mabee vs. White Plains Publishing Company, 327 U.S., 178, applying the Fair Labor Standards Act to a newspaper whose circulation was about 9,000 copies, only, 45 or about ½ of one per cent, were mailed out of state (see P. 14 of brief). Practically every restaurant buys and sells a considerable amount of food products which "have moved in commerce," including coffee, sugar, condiments, tea, canned goods, citrus fruits (in most states), vegetables, and in many states all grain products, including cereals, also cigars, cigarettes, candies, etc. There are many restaurants on roads and highways never traversed by interstate travelers, some of them located in the backwoods and on dirt roads, but still a substantial portion of their food has moved in interstate commerce.

New Cases

In the immediate future all of the district judges in this country will be met with cases raising difficult questions of interpretation as to this Act. Our courts face a solemn duty to properly interpret and enforce the statute so as to carry out its lawful purposes. At the same time the courts should bear in mind that they are deciding only one case at a time and not by way of obiter and generalization tend to confuse rather than to clarify the legal questions involved.

Counsel for defendants have just filed a brief with the Court, citing a number of cases and quoting the following language from National Labor Relations Board v. Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, 301 U.S. 37, to-wit:

"The scope of the power of Congress over interstate commerce may not be so extended as to embrace effects upon interstate commerce so indirect and remote that to embrace them would effectually obliterate the distinction between what is national and what is local and create a completely centralized government."

In other cases the United States Supreme Court has pointed out that the question whether " . . . the conduct of an enterprise affects commerce among the States is a matter of practical judgment, not to be determined by abstract motions." See Polish Alliances vs. Labor Board, 322 U.S. 643.

Congress may,

"by appropriate legislation regulate intrastate activities where they have a substantial effect on interstate commerce." United States vs. Darby, 312 U.S., 100, at p. 119.

First Such Case

The brief filed by defense counsel contains this language: "This is the first time, insofar as counsel for defendants can ascertain, that any statute passed by Congress has used, as a basis to support its power to regulate commerce among the states, transactions in goods which have already moved in interstate commerce, never again to enter into it."

Counsel for the Government insist, however, that while certain individual restaurants might not otherwise conduct a business affecting commerce, that the aggregate of their total business might do so. That is an approved principle of law, as pointed out in a case involving agriculture, ruling that a farmer with eleven acres of land planted in wheat for his own consumption does affect the flow of wheat in commerce when taken in the aggregate with all other small farmers in a state. No evidence has been adduced in this case, nor do I personally know whether or not the aggregate effect of many restaurants in Georgia (not located on interstate highways) refusing to serve Negroes will increase or decrease the aggregate amount of food products shipped into the state. As far as I know that question was not explored by the Congress and it was not explored in the trial of this case, and it remains an open question.

Summary

By way of summary of this hastily drawn concurrence let it be said concerning restaurants, it is my present opinion that all restaurants reasonably accessible to interstate travelers are prohibited from discriminating against Negroes in the service of food, but in order to extend such prohibition to all restaurants where a substantial portion of the food which it serves has moved in commerce there must be some showing that the discrimination does in fact affect commerce. Furthermore, that restaurants off of the main avenues of travel which are only in a general way [illegible] the public cannot be [illegible] offering "to serve interstate travelers" within the [illegible] of the Act, but that [illegible] restaurant located [illegible] interstate highways [illegible] offer to serve interstate travelers, and therefore a temporary injunction should be issued against the corporation and against Lester G. Maddox, its president, who personally engineered the discrimination.

This map shows the route covered by Samuel and Elenora Adams on the second day of their trip along Highways To Hope through the South following passage of the Civil Rights Act.

Road Of Hope Dotted By Ruts In Carolinas

Nation complying with rights law, 11-A.

(Times staff writer Samuel Adams and his wife, Elenora, drove 4,300 miles through the South last month to report first hand on the Negro's lot four months after passage of the Civil Rights Act. This is the second in their series of reports. It covers their tour through North and South Carolina.)

By SAMUEL ADAMS
Of The Times Staff

It was dusk as we drove across the Savannah River which marks the Georgia-South Carolina border. Soon we would need a place to sleep, and while we were on U.S. 17, cities in this area are small and we worried.

OUR FIRST STOP WAS AT RIDGELAND where the service station attendant was busy pumping gasoline. As I entered the rest room through the station office, a teen-age boy yelled to the attendant: "That colored man is using the rest room."

I honestly had not noticed a "White Only" sign. We left without speaking to the attendant and drove on to Waterboro, South Carolina, about 70 miles north of Savannah and 50 miles west of Charleston, South Carolina.

Our car was in full view of the office as we pulled up to Lane's Motel in Waterboro.

BEFORE I OPENED THE DOOR of the car a man stepped out of the office, walked briskly over to the car and peered in.

"Gee, only two of you? . . . I'm waiting for a big family. Only thing I got left is family units with four beds."

I indicated that we might take his large unit and asked what the price was.

"Twenty-eight," he replied, adding, "I'd better wait for a big family. There are some more motels right up the road."

AT EL RANCHO MOTEL, the vacancy sign was up. It was not far up the street from Lane's. The clerk greeted me with a refrain like the one I had heard at Lane's. His vacancies were for bigger families than mine. He told me there were many more motels further up the road, as he pointed to a map on the wall.

The woman whom we encountered at Travelers Motel a

(Please see HOPE'S HIGHWAY, 6-A)

SAMUEL ADAMS

ELENORA ADAMS

. . . travel hope's highways.

Road Of Hope Dotted By Ruts In Carolinas

FROM 1-A

few blocks away said she had only a family suite available. After I suggested that I might take it for $16 a night, the rate she had quoted, she said a new wing had been completed and the owner might permit me to stay there. He rented us a unit for $12.

The woman had said the wing had not been opened to guests, but others were housed there.

YOU WON'T HAVE ANY TROUBLE here. We are law-abiding people," the owner explained in an Eastern accent. "Where are you people from?"

The following morning as we were leaving, a Negro maid spotted us and ran to another room to point us out to another maid. We left them gazing and talking excitedly.

For breakfast we stopped at Green's Restaurant in St. George, South Carolina. The menu I got turned out to have different prices from the one my wife got. Eggs costing 50 cents on hers cost $1 on mine. A special item advertised on signs outside and on the road for 85 cents was listed for $1.70 on my menu. We both were charged the higher prices.

WE WERE SEATED NEAR A FRONT window eating when a middle-aged couple with Pennsylvania license plates on the car drove up, but backed out and pulled away after the woman pointed to us.

Mrs. Green, a woman in her 50s, saw them leave, and whispered to her husband, a gaunt wrinkled man.

Before we finished eating, he walked from around the counter and said:

"Y'all see what integration's doing to us."

"No, do you mind telling us?" I asked.

"DIDN'T YOU SEE THAT CAR DRIVE away," his accent was thickly southern. "And they were northern people too."

He didn't sound angry, so I kept him talking. "That's funny," I said, "northerners and southerners eat in restaurants where Negroes are served in the North."

"We're here to serve the public . . . your dollar is as good as anybody's. It's not us management what's squawk-

Mrs. Green, a woman in her 30s, saw them leave, and whispered to her husband, a gaunt wrinkled man.

Before we finished eating, he walked from around the counter and said:

"Y'all see what integration's doing to us."

"No, do you mind telling us?" I asked.

"DIDN'T YOU SEE THAT CAR DRIVE away," his accent was thickly southern. "And they were northern people too."

He didn't sound angry, so I kept him talking. "That's funny," I said, "northerners and southerners eat in restaurants where Negroes are served in the North."

"We're here to serve the public . . . your dollar is as good as anybody's. It's not us management what's squawking, it's the public. When they are in the North they accept it. Down here, they won't. It looks like they throw a rock and —."

He made a sweeping motion simulating tossing a rock and hiding his hand under the counter.

"I BELIEVE 90 PER CENT of the local people will accept it. But it's the northern politicians," he added.

Mrs. Green said desegregation would have come much easier if the politicians in Washington "hadn't made such a big to-do about it."

We left thinking we had paid enough to compensate for what the northern couple would have spent had they come in.

WE STOPPED JUST SOUTH OF Santee to talk with a group of cotton pickers and were introduced later to the Negro owner of the farm, Ralph Hilliard. He and his brother, John, both prosperous farmers, drove up in a late model pickup truck.

"A few years ago, the Negroes in Santee were blind, but now they see."

He was referring to desegregation efforts and voters registration. He talked of one Negro during an earlier election being afraid to put a sticker on his car when a Orangeburg Negro was running for public office.

"I SIGNED A PETITION IN 1955 for Negro children to attend school with whites, and after that I couldn't get credit to harvest my crops," said John.

This was our third day on the road. We had lunch at Fayetteville, South Carolina, at Shamrock Diner. Our presence didn't seem to please the waiter, but there was no unpleasantness.

We switched routes at Fayetteville from U.S. 301 to a state route which took us through Sanford, Chapel Hill and Yanceyville near the North Carolina-Virginia border.

Our last North Carolina coffee break was at Sanford where we stopped at Be Bee's Diner. We found rest rooms available in Chapel Hill and other towns.

Our general impression was that most South Carolina business men are swallowing the public accommodations law. They don't like it. But they seemed ready to live with it in a law-abiding manner.

Tomorrow: Virginia, Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee

St. Petersburg Times, Wednesday, Nov. 11, 1964

HIGHWAYS TO HOPE

This map shows the route covered by Samuel and Elenora Adams on the Alabama part of their trip along Highways To Hope through the South following passage of the Civil Rights Act.

Signs Of Change Going Up Slowly Throughout Alabama

(Times staff writer Samuel Adams and his wife, Elenora, spent 15 days driving 4,300 miles through the South last month. Their assignment: See if a Negro's lot is any better four months after passage of the Civil Rights Act. This is the fourth in their series of reports. It covers the sovereign state of Alabama.)

By SAMUEL ADAMS
Of The Times Staff

A tourist driving into Alabama on almost any major highway is likely to see first a huge billboard. A Confederate flag is draped across the far right side and a picture of Gov. George Wallace dominates the remainder.

IF YOU'RE A NEGRO, you'll probably spot another sign a few miles up the road. This one reads: "Whites Only."

Both signs greeted me and my wife, Elenora, as we drove into Alabama on our 15-day, 4,300-mile tour of the South to report on civil rights progress.

But there was still another sign, beside a vast U.S. highway construction project: "Your Tax Dollars at Work," it read.

AND EVEN IN TIGHTLY-SEGREGATED ALABAMA there were sure signs of change.

At Miller's Standard Service in Oxford, Elenora and I were away from the car using the rest rooms. One, which we did not use, was marked "colored."

One of the station's two attendants had his head under our hood and did not see Elenora return to the car.

"We got to put those signs up. They're in the wrong rest rooms," he yelled to his co-worker.

HE LOOKED EMBARRASSED when he discovered Elenora was in the car, but he went on with his work and was polite in accepting his money.

Vulcan's fair weather light atop a nearby mountain was aglow as we arrived in the Magic City. The changes in Birmingham were obvious. Changes yet to be made were equally obvious. Many service stations provide three rest rooms, one for "colored." Some larger hotels and motels accept Negroes, but with obvious reluctance.

(Please see SIGNS, Page 13-A)

Signs Of Change Going Up Slowly

FROM 1-A

Huntsville is an oasis in northern Alabama. Spearheaded by a white native of rigidly segregated Gadsden, AHAC (the Association of Huntsville Area Contractors) is moving economic mountains that have barred Negro employment in the missile and space industry.

AN IMPACTED AREA WITH SHARP growing pains, Huntsville hopes to attract talented Negro scientists. And AHAC leaders have borrowed from St. Petersburg's Continuing Academic-Cultural Enrichment Program (CACEP) to upgrade educational and cultural achievements of local Negroes.

But we had non-racial troubles in Huntsville. While eating filet mignon at King's Inn Restaurant, I somehow got a sharp object lodged in my throat. I waited three and a half hours in an integrated emergency room at the city's lone hospital for a specialist to treat me.

Florence and the Tri-Cities (Muscle Shoals, Tuscumbia and Sheffield) benefit economically from the Tennessee Valley Authority's soil research and electric generating plants but maintain a taste for states rights. We stopped in Tuscumbia en route to northern Mississippi, Arkansas, and Louisiana.

IT WAS ON OUR RETURN to Florida that we visited Mobile and Dothan. Along the Gulf Coast tourist route through cities dependent on tourist trade, the dollar spoke. But it didn't speak very loudly for a couple of Negroes seeking to spend money in Mobile and other Alabama cities.

Elenora and I managed to find overnight accommodations in Mobile on the 13th night of our tour, but not without difficulty.

A Negro voter education leader furnished us with a list of 64 different hotels, motels and eating places that had served Negroes since passage of the Civil Rights Law in July. He said we had a wide choice of places to spend the night, but he was wrong.

SHERATON BATTLE HOUSE HAD been accepting Negroes prior to the rights law, but we had been told to try first at the Admiral Semmes Motel. It had no vacancies. The Admiral Semmes Hotel, across the street, wondered how long I would stay, and finally decided it too had no vacancy.

The host at TraveLodge Motel said he had only large family accommodations. He permitted me to use a pay telephone to see if I could find more satisfactory quarters.

WHILE I WAS LOOKING up numbers of other motels, Elenora noticed that the TraveLodge clerk was making suspicious-looking calls at the switchboard. She came in from the car and stood nearby, whereupon he stopped dialing.

While standing there, she noticed a printed message pasted at eye-level on the clerk's cage. It read:

"SIGN OF THE TIMES. Numerous restaurant and motel establishments are displaying these signs in prominent places to fight the civil rights bill that was forced upon us. Every penny of Negro trade forced on this establishment will be donated to the White Citizens Council. If you want Negroes in the next door flat, vote Democrat."

Town House Motel reserved us a room by telephone without knowing we were Negroes. We were rented a unit adjacent to the heating-cooling system and an elevator shaft where squeaky and grinding noises awakened us at intervals during the night.

THE NEXT MORNING, a porter confided: "I don't see why you got 231 when there were other rooms available. We get complaints about that room all the time."

The following night in Dothan, Alabama, the matronly clerk at the Houston Hotel was polite in refusing to register us. "It's Peanut Festival time," she said. She helped me telephone a Negro motel, but we hit the road for Albany, Georgia, where we spent the night.

Tomorrow: Arkansas and Louisiana

★ ★ ★

Other Newspapers Publishing Series

A number of other newspapers throughout the United States are publishing or plan to publish soon Samuel Adams' series on his trip through the South.

The newspapers include the New York Herald-Tribune, the Denver Post, the Rochester, N.Y., Times-Union and Democrat & Chronicle, the Chicago Daily News, Dayton Daily News, Washington Post and Miami Herald.

rg Times, Tuesday, November 10, 1964

HIGHWAYS TO HOPE

Highways To Hope: The Third Day

Scenic Trip Yields Warmth, But Color Barrier Cumbersome

(For 15 days, Times staff writer Samuel Adams and his wife, Elenora, drove through the South, traveling as middle class tourists to learn whether historic color bars had been lowered with passage of the Civil Rights Act. They covered more than 4,000 miles and 11 states. This is the third in their series of reports. It records their experiences in Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia.)

BY SAMUEL ADAMS
Of The Times Staff

We took the slow, scenic route through Virginia and the mountain border states. Our road wound its leisurely way through the Blue Ridge, Smoky, Cumberland and great Alegheny Mountains, some of America's most spectacularly beautiful country.

The once violent city of Danville, Virginia, was quiet during the past summer, but segregation still is the way of life for many businessmen.

WHEN WE STOPPED at C & E Grill in Danville, neither Elenora nor I knew we were entering a honky tonk. She froze as we walked into the crowded noisy bar. The juke box was blaring a hillbilly tune. Four men near the one empty table were playing table shuffleboard. The long bar was full of beer drinkers, all white. It was about 6 p.m. Friday, and the patrons were spending as if this was their last pay day.

Fresh in Elenora's memory was the Danville violence of some months earlier. The driver of the bus on which she rode to Washington for the Freedom March had been arrested here, and a policeman had boarded the bus to warn that no singing of Freedom Songs would be allowed while they were driving through Danville.

We decided against ordering anything other than coffee. While we were waiting, a burly shuffleboard player leaned over to say something. We thought we were in for trouble.

(Please See RACIAL, Page 2-A)

—Staff Photo

Reporter Samuel Adams Was Admitted To This State Park In Kentucky

Racial Barriers Cumbersome

FROM 1-A

"Can I rest my beer glass on your table?" he asked politely.

WE WERE GLAD HE ASKED. It made us feel better.

At Hotel Leland, we were told, "The Bears are in town and we are loaded."

We telephoned the Hotel Danville and were told they had a room for us, but three college students going to Martinsville for the weekend encouraged us to drive to Roanoke, much closer to the mountains. We had introduced ourselves to the trio after noticing that one of them wore a sweater indicating membership in my college fraternity.

Elenora thought the accommodations at Roanoke's Downtowner Motel were the best of our entire trip.

WE GOT AN EARLY START the next day. We spent sometime in Blacksburg, Virginia, driving through the campus of Virginia Tech University, and stopping at Pembroke, Virginia, for breakfast at Hagy's Farm Restaurant.

Hagy and his wife, both in their early 30s, were warm and genuinely glad to serve us. He said he probably is the only person in that limestone and textile community who has two college degrees but chooses to be a short order cook.

The drive through the mountains made Elenora slightly carsick, so from Princeton, West Virginia, we took the West Virginia Turnpike, which was straigter and less hilly.

The St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees were scheduled to play that day, so I pulled a Princeton service station attendant and the driver of a Kwick Kafe Vending Machine truck into baseball talk.

"I HOPE ST. LOUIS TEARS 'em up. I can't stand a damn Yankee. I don't care if he plays football, baseball or sells shoes," the driver said with real emotion.

We made the drive to Charleston in record time, checked into the Holiday Inn, and then drove to West Virginia State College at Institute, West Virginia, where I earned my first college degree.

The former all-Negro college was desegregated following the Supreme Court school decision of 1954. Now 70 per cent of the students are white, and the college has won recognition as a laboratory for human relations. We remained over the weekend to see this in action.

THEN WE DROVE TO HUNTINGTON where we were refused service at the White Pantry, a small downtown restaurant. As I walked into Whit Pantry, the door was locked and a small man was stationed est me sneered at me and th whites then came over to me an

"Am I too early for lunch?"

"Sorry, no colored. We don moved quickly toward the back

Some other Huntington eating establishments now call themselves private clubs, we learned, but most businesses have no racial barriers.

OUR RECORD OF ACCEPTANCE and rejection in every state we visited was kept intact in Kentucky.

Unlike Florida, we were admitted to a Kentucky State Park (Jenny Wilder Park). And we were able to buy lunch at a formerly all white restaurant in Louisa, Kentucky.

On the other hand, we were denied service at a Harlan drive-in cafe and at two Middlesboro hotels.

The embarrassed waitress, told by the manager to get us out of Jay's Drive-In at the intersection of U.S. 119 and U.S. 421, said, "We don't serve colored in here."

It appeared that if we had ordered — and remained — in our car we would have been served before our turn and dismissed.

The clerk at the Cumberland Hotel told me: "We don't have a thing for you. This here is a club."

At Middlesboro Hotel, the clerk made a special telephone call to report he had a Negro couple. He offered ante-room type service. Instead of accepting, we drove on to Knoxville, Tennessee, where we were housed at Gaither-Dogan Motel, a new Negro motel owned by the brother of Florida A&M football Coach Jake Gaither.

At Spike's Simple Simon Restaurant on U.S. 129, some 20 miles south of Knoxville, we were met at the door and ushered to a rear dining room. The folding doors were not closed, but we were kept separated from other noontime diners.

A COFFEE STOP LATER AT ANDREWS, Tennessee, provided a warm and friendly welcome at Scotty's, a small restaurant. The friendly "come back when you all are traveling this way" was repeated at a Western Auto Store where we went to buy batteries for our radio.

Our reception in Memphis was mixed. Memphis generally is cited as the most progressive city in the region. Negroes are well organized, but it seemed obvious that desegregation is not as general as reported elsewhere.

While a good many business firms now are open to all ces, there are many holdouts and some have become "pri te clubs."

Tomorrow: Alabama.

St. Petersburg Times, Thursday, Nov. 12, 1964

HIGHWAYS TO HOPE

New Orleans: Oasis For Negroes In Louisiana

(For 15 days Times staff writer Samuel Adams and his wife, Elenora, drove through 12 southern states, reporting on compliance with Civil Rights Act four months after its approval. Arkansas and Louisiana still have a long way to go, and this fifth article in their series of reports tells how far.)

By SAMUEL ADAMS
Of The Times Staff

Negroes have their place in Arkansas. But it's not in "White Only" restaurants, hotels or rest rooms.

Even so, a Negro tourist probably encounters less trouble in Arkansas than in much of Louisiana.

A WARM OCTOBER SUN made driving a pleasure as we headed across the Mississippi river into Arkansas from Memphis, Tennessee.

Acres of white cotton bolls popping from sear brown plants provided our only view.

At West Memphis, Arkansas, we created quite a stir but no trouble at a restaurant where we stopped for coffee. We were served without incident.

WE WERE ALLOWED TO USE REST rooms marked

A WARM OCTOBER SUN made driving a pleasure as we headed across the Mississippi river into Arkansas from Memphis, Tennessee.

Acres of white cotton bolls popping from sear brown plants provided our only view.

At West Memphis, Arkansas, we created quite a stir but no trouble at a restaurant where we stopped for coffee. We were served without incident.

WE WERE ALLOWED TO USE REST rooms marked "White Only" at Forest City and Mariana, Arkansas.

On the outskirts of West Helena, a town of about 12,000, a sign called for the election of John Kasper as president of the United States. Kasper gained some renown a decade ago when he helped fan racial violence at Clinton, Tennessee.

We were careful to stay well within the posted speed limit as we rolled through hilly Helena. We crossed the Mississippi again en route south to Jackson, Mississippi, on a swing which would bring us back into Louisiana from Vicksburg, Mississippi.

FOR A NEGRO TOURIST IN THE SOUTH, if he has money, New Orleans is an oasis. We lived fabulously in that wonderful city, and raised some eyebrows in the process.

We slept until 10 o'clock at the Hilton Motor Hotel. We had breakfast at world famous Brennan's. We dined royally at Antoine's. We shopped in the French Quarter.

WHAT IS JUST A SPECIAL TREAT for the typical white tourist in New Orleans was a fabulous wonderland for us.

Our visit to Brennan's stopped traffic. A male host met us in the foyer to ask what we wanted. As several other couples waited behind us, the host picked up a telephone and said in French, "J'ai deux Noirs (I have two Negroes). He then sent us upstairs where for most of our meal we had a private room all to ourselves. The service was special and Elenora asked for the recipe for the Eggs Nouvelle Orleans we both consumed.

Four hours later, we caught Antoine's by surprise by directly entering the dining area from the street. Four young waiters were seated near the kitchen entrance. No one came to greet us and it was obvious they did not know what to do. They all looked toward a middle aged man in the cashier's booth for their cue.

HE TOO HESITATED, THEN MADE A decision as we gravitated toward the left side of the room where I was about to seat Elenora.

Motioning for one of the waiters to seat us, he pointed to a table at the right near where they were sitting. That table was littered with dirty dishes left by another party. We stood uncomfortably at the table as the bus boy removed the dishes and changed the table cloth.

WE WERE EATING TOO EARLY FOR Elenora. She wasted good food but enjoyed going through the motions. By 8 p.m. we'd be in a more segregated area and she would be wishing for the food. But there were no "doggie bags" in which to carry it out.

New Orleans provides a sharp contrast to other areas of Louisiana. We had stopped a day or so earlier in Monroe, a city of about 60,000, of which some 15,000 are Negroes. Just inside the city limits we pulled into the Siesta Boat Dock Drive-In and went inside for a carry-out order.

The woman behind the counter and a man who appeared to be an owner seemed embarrassed by the loud remarks of one of the three white men in the place.

"THAT'S A KOREAN GAL WITH THAT NIGGER," he said referring to us. "If she ain't a Korean, I'm a nigger," he added.

"Will you answer this one question for me?" he turned

(Please See NEW ORLEANS, Page 7-A)

—Staff Photo

Welcome Well Water

Mrs. Elenora Adams draws a bucket of water from well on farm of Charlie and Irma Lee Tanner, elderly Negro couple who live near Jonesville, La. Although the Adams were a little leery of drinking from the well, they drank enough to wash down aspirins. Both had headaches from being refused service at restaurants all Sunday morning.

New Orleans: An Oasis In Deep South Louisiana to my wife, who made an elaborate pretense of ignoring him.

FROM 1-A

"I know damn well you're a Korean," he said.

We left the drive-in quickly and drove to the nearby Holiday Inn where we had advance reservation.

THE YOUNG WOMAN BEHIND THE counter furrowed her brow and examined a card file where she finally found our reservation.

"The reservation's here, all right, but we didn't know you was colored when we took it," she said. "I could give you a room here but it wouldn't be safe. For your safety and mine, I shouldn't."

Altogether we had more than 3,000 miles behind us at this point and until now I had turned on my heel when confronted with evasiveness or rejection. But we had no alternative. On our proposed route, I knew of no place we could stay within hundreds of miles.

"IF I AM NOT SAFE IN MY MOTEL ROOM, I don't know where I will be safe," I told her. "Don't worry about us. My wife is sleepy and I promised—"

"But I wouldn't like to have it on my conscience," she interrupted. "It's for your safety."

Becoming more serious, I said: "You forget, this is America where we have freedom from fear. If it eases your conscience, let me say this — I'll be safer here than on the highway driving sleepily. That way I might kill myself and somebody else. We'll take our chances in the room."

She went to the telephone and contacted someone who identified himself as Arthur Grant. He asked to speak to me

Becoming more serious, I said: "You forget, this is America where we have freedom from fear. If it eases your conscience, let me say this — I'll be safer here than on the highway driving sleepily. That way I might kill myself and somebody else. We'll take our chances in the room."

She went to the telephone and contacted someone who identified himself as Arthur Grant. He asked to speak to me over the house telephone.

"THERE MUST BE SOME MISTAKE," Grant said. "We don't have any rooms available."

"The woman at the desk said she has rooms," I countered. "She is registering a woman and a child right now and they don't have reservations."

"Well, I'm looking out for you," Grant added. "The police would come and put you in jail."

"THE POLICE WON'T EVEN KNOW I'm here unless you tell them," I retorted.

Finally he offered to pay my bill if I would go to another motel.

"I'm top dog here and they're shooting at me," he said.

"Who are THEY," I asked.

"The mayor doesn't like this desegregation mess," he said as he ended the conversation. That was that. No room.

AS WE STARTED OUR CAR TO LEAVE, two Negro porters gave us directions to a honky-tonk Negro drive-in with seven motel units. We spent more than an hour finding the place. It was noisy and small. But it was clean and adequate. The food was superb.

Sunday morning dawned bright and clear. We left early.

There would be no early church for us that morning, we agreed. By church time, we would be farther into the heart of Louisiana, perhaps at Grayson, Tullos or Jena.

We had plans to buy coffee and breakfast before reaching Natchez on our circular swing through Louisiana, but we met rebuff after rebuff. Elenora became depressed, and I developed a splitting headache for want of food.

I TRIED PLACE AFTER PLACE. Once, when I reached for the handle of a restaurant door at a truck stop near Tollos a loud voice startled me, "Upps!! Upps!! Hold it!" A chubby man from the service station area was approaching and people inside were watching.

Excitedly, he told me, "You will have to come 'round the back."

Then in a pleasanter mood, he led me, stepping over car jacks and tires as we moved around the south side of the building.

I followed him into a small storeroom where there were several freezers, a table and a door opening into the kitchen, but no windows.

"HE WANTS COFFEE," the man yelled into the kitchen door and began removing extraneous objects from the table.

I left, ostensibly to pick up Elenora, and we drove away as he straightened the place for us.

At Jena, "White Only" signs gave a quick indication that there would be little service available for Negroes there. We drove on, my head aching so fiercely that Elenora took over the wheel.

Not far from Jonesville, we saw a Negro couple sitting on the front porch of a roadside bungalow.

Charlie and Irma Lee Tanner greeted us warmly, at first thinking we were their daughter and son-in-law who earlier this year left the farm for California.

I HESITATED ABOUT DRINKING the water she offered, although the well was located a good distance from their outhouse. I took only enough to swallow the aspirins she handed me.

The Tanners' supply of bottled gas was gone, so she made coffee in a wood stove used as a heater. I drank two cups without cream or sugar. There was none in the house.

MRS. TANNER SAID, "Yestiddy, there was two spiders. One swung down here and the other one there."

She pointed to the rafter of the porch, adding, "I wouldn't knock 'em down, 'cause I knew it was a sign I'd have company, and I wanted to see who it was. It was brown spiders."

"That's sho the truth," Tanner said. "Brown skin company. Y'all sho look nice."

(Tomorrow: Mississippi)

St. Petersburg Times, Friday, November 13, 1964

HIGHWAYS TO HOPE

This map shows the route covered by Samuel and Elenora Adams on the Mississippi part of their trip along Highways To Hope through the South following passage of the Civil Rights Act.

In Mississippi, 'They Do Their Dirt At Night'

(Times staff writer Samuel Adams and his wife, Elenora, drove 4,300 miles through 12 southern states last month to report on civil rights progress. They found little progress, and considerable danger, in Mississippi. This is the sixth in their series of reports.)

By SAMUEL ADAMS
Of The Times Staff

A police car drove slowly down the street, stopped, turned around and headed back toward us in the dusty, midday sunlight.

"No need to fear anybody now," explained Mrs. Aaron Henry, our hostess. "They do their dirt at night."

WE WERE SITTING IN THE FOURTH STREET DRUG Store in Clarksdale, Mississippi. A ragged rectangular hole in the ceiling over our heads had been ripped by an explosion a few weeks earlier.

The store is owned by Dr. Aaron Henry, head of Mississippi's Freedom Democratic Party and president of the State Conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

This was the second time police had passed the store since our arrival. The officers peered into the store as the car crept past. Mrs. Henry and a woman working with her had told us that visitors with out-of-town license tags often are arrested after they leave.

MRS. HENRY AND A WOMAN EMPLOYE at the drug store sat rattling off a list of "don'ts" to two neophyte Negroes in Mississippi:

- DON'T travel on the highway after dark.
- DON'T use white rest rooms at a certain oil station, for the attendant would have police follow and arrest us further down the road on some traffic charge.

'They Do Their Dirt At Night'

FROM 1-A

behind me. We stopped at a gasoline station, and he made a U-turn and drove past the other side of the station.

EARLY SATURDAY, we took Mrs. Henry's advice. We mailed the motel key rather than returning it — one of several precautions taken to avoid being followed. We headed our compact car south into the cradle of the racist White Citizens Council — Sunflower County, home of James Eastland and of Fannie Lou Hamer, the rotund Negro whose story of her arrest and flogging for registering to vote shook the National Democratic convention in Atlantic City.

I stopped to photograph a trio of cotton pickers harnessed in bags six feet long. It was then we discovered the car that had been trailing us was being driven by a policeman. We were between Parchman State Prison and Drew, Mississippi. The unmarked police car kept moving.

At Drew, the police car was waiting. We stopped at a gasoline station as he pulled out and headed into town.

NO REST ROOMS WERE OPEN TO us at most places we stopped. It was no better in Ruleville and in Tallahatchie County.

At a large Gulf station in Greenwood, the rest rooms were locked and the attendant said he didn't have the key. At other stations, the rest rooms were "Out of Order," or "Not for y'all."

Denials of rest room use caused Elenora to become ill before we reached Jackson. Yazoo had offered no relief. An American oil attendant there simply said, "No." At Jackson, we stopped at a large Sinclair station with four rest rooms — two for both races.

Jackson also offers some limited restaurant and motel service, according to Negro businesswoman Mrs. Thelma Sanders, whose home was bombed earlier this year.

WHILE WE WERE DOWNTOWN LOOKING for a place to eat, the white storekeeper at Winnie's Corset Shop, seeing we were lost, volunteered the suggestion that we eat at Morrison's, "right up the street."

She said:

"Some of the crazy people might get up and go out. But it won't matter. I have been there, and they do serve Negroes."

It was mid-afternoon and we found Morrison's closed, a common practice between lunch and dinner. We ate at a Negro restaurant.

The first time we had tried to use a white restaurant in Mississippi was at Corinth. This was before we reached the Henry's home in Clarksdale.

IT WAS AT PICCADILLY DRIVE-IN RESTAURANT and two red-faced men were seated at a semi-circular bar. I perched on a stool, ordered coffee and asked for change to buy a newspaper.

The waitress gave me change and went to the kitchen, from where a man emerged and snorted. "Whatcha want?"

"YOU —", he stormed back into the kitchen without completing his remark.

The waitress came back to the serving area and stood mute for seconds trying to compose herself. Looking down at a glass she held, she said, "We ain't 'loud to serve you at the counter."

The man who had gone into the kitchen came around the outside from the rear of the building, got a look at my car and walked back into the serving area as I was leaving by another door.

UP TO THIS POINT OUR EXPERIENCES in Mississippi had indicated no hope. Now, suddenly, we found tiny islands of hope in Jackson, the state capital. A pleasant white woman crept past. Mrs. Henry and a woman working with her had told us that visitors with out-of-town license tags often are arrested after they leave.

MRS. HENRY AND A WOMAN EMPLOYE at the drug store sat rattling off a list of "don'ts" to two neophyte Negroes in Mississippi:

✓ DON'T travel on the highway after dark.

✓ DON'T use white rest rooms at a certain oil station, for the attendant would have police follow and arrest us further down the road on some traffic charge.

✓ DON'T be out in Clarksdale after the midnight curfew hour if you are a Negro or a "freedom" worker.

✓ DON'T get arrested on a traffic charge or our car would be impounded, I would be jailed, and my wife left on the street without transportation.

Spurning Mrs. Henry's offer to house us, we went to Holiday Inn. We circled to keep from being followed. But a short time later we were back at Mrs. Henry's, and we slept that night in the Henry home under the shotgun protection of the Rev. Willie Goodlow, who had guard duty that night.

We accepted Mrs. Henry's hospitality after being permitted to register at the Holiday Inn.

EVEN AS I HAD STARTED to register a slightly-built, dark-haired man had pointed out our car to a burly individual wearing a plaid shirt. They had talked briefly in full view of my wife, and she was frightened.

The matronly desk clerk gave me a registration card after a lengthy telephone conversation with someone about me. The telephone rang again before I finished registering.

The clerk said, apparently to someone on an extension: "Yes, I've got to take him. That's what the boss said."

BACK AT THE CAR, Elenora told me we were being watched from a window over the club lounge by a man and a woman. I drove to Room 31 with my lights off, making it more difficult for them to see my tag or car from their lighted room. I backed in, obscuring my license tag against a low hedge. The car was left loaded and facing out.

The room was next to the end of a wing, at the rear of the complex a stone's throw from a road. A fence about three-feet high separated the motel property and the public roadway.

SOON AFTER WE WERE SETTLED IN THE ROOM, the click of leather heels on the paved walk claimed our full attention. The sound stopped at our door. I opened the door and faked conversation with my wife: "Are you sure we have everything you want out of the car?"

Outside was a Negro restaurant porter writing on a pad and trying to appear interested in something other than our car or room. He left, but we heard the similar sounds of heels clicking our way 15 minutes later. We suspected he was getting our car tag number.

Just as Elenora was beginning to feel more secure, she discovered an inside door leading to the room adjacent to ours. It was locked from the other side. I tried but couldn't lock it from our's.

"THAT DOES IT. It's better to be a live coward than a dead hero. Please take me back to Mrs. Henry's and let's accept the room she offered us," said my wife pleadingly.

On the way out, I went into the motel office for my receipt and told the clerk we thought we'd look for a restaurant away from the motel.

Seconds after we left, Elenora told me a policeman was minute for [illegible] glass she held, she said, "We ain't 'loud to serve you at the counter."

(Please See THEY DO, Page 6-A)

The man who had gone into the kitchen came around the outside from the rear of the building, got a look at my car and walked back into the serving area as I was leaving by another door.

UP TO THIS POINT OUR EXPERIENCES in Mississippi had indicated no hope. Now, suddenly, we found tiny islands of hope in Jackson, the state capital. A pleasant white woman volunteered to send us to a white cafeteria and we learned later that Negroes also are served at one other white restaurant.

The sun was setting when we reached Vicksburg's Holiday Inn.

"I'm sorry. We got tours coming in," the woman said, rejecting me.

We suspected there actually was room at the inn and telephoned back after driving two miles.

"I AM ABOUT 30 MILES AWAY," said Elenora, telling a little white lie. "Can you house us when we get there?"

"Sure we can," was the reply.

She neglected to say we were Negroes.

We also telephoned Vicksburg's Magnolia Motel and were offered a room. The offer was withdrawn and we were referred to a Negro hotel when they learned our racial identity.

We spent the night in Louisiana, and it was the next afternoon when we returned to Mississippi at Natchez.

Some Natchez service stations offered a "colored" rest room while others refused us altogether.

Where U.S. 98 splits off from U.S. 84 west of Budef, we ordered gasoline from a slightly built white boy who directed me to the rear of the station. I went in a door marked "Men." The boy, aged about 17, met me coming out.

"DIDN'T I TELL YOU THE nigger room was round back?" he said.

I smiled as if I didn't hear, and asked a question of my own.

Summit, McComb and Magnolia are three unyielding segregationist strongholds famous for violence against Negroes. They are in a cluster midway between Jackson and New Orleans, Louisiana. Nearby is Philadelphia, where three civil rights workers were murdered this summer.

Also nearby is the murky Pearl River, like the Tallahatchie, famous as a watery grave of Negroes who "forget their place."

We found the McComb Freedom House where COFO (Council of Federated Organizations) conducts Negro voter education and other civil rights activities. It had a gaping bomb hole big enough to drive a truck through.

TO MISLEAD THE POLICE CAR which trailed us, we stopped a few doors down the street and drove to Freedom House after the officers left.

It was late Sunday afternoon and Freedom House was buzzing. A citizenship class was being carried on in the back. Two college students who were to share nightwatch duty Sunday night were asleep in a front bedroom.

A late-arriving doctor-nurse team from New York drove up just as a search team was being organized to look for them. They go into jails, examine civil rights workers and, in effect, say to law enforcement authorities: "This prisoner is now in good shape. We will be back. If he is injured, you will have to answer for it."

WE WERE TOLD, "Nothing in McComb is desegregated." The rights workers said unless we were prepared to submit to arrest, search and seizure we should not attempt to use public accommodations in Southeast Mississippi.

We asked to use their pay telephone and were warned to talk in coded language because "the telephone is bugged." Handwritten lettering on the instrument read, "This telephone is STILL bugged."

I picked up the receiver and after a few clicks got my party in St. Petersburg.

Our carefully planned departure for New Orleans brought no unpleasantness.

We finally obtained service without regard for race in Mississippi while en route from New Orleans back to Florida. In the Gulf Coast resort town of Biloxi, Mississippi, we used rest rooms which had no racial markings. Many Biloxi service stations, however, have segregated rest rooms.

Tomorrow: Some conclusions

St. Petersburg Times, Saturday, Nov. 14, 1964

Fear Rides With Negroes In The South -- But Hope Is Lighting Dark Roads

(Times staff writer Samuel Adams and his wife Elenora drove 4,300 miles through 12 southern states for a first hand report on civil rights progress four months after passage of the Civil Rights Act. This concludes the Adams' seven-part report and sums up their feelings about the South in the autumn of 1964.)

By SAMUEL ADAMS
Of The Times Staff

Fear rides with Negroes who drive through the South. We were frightened — my wife Elenora and I — as we drove for 15 days through 12 southern states.

I have lived with fear so long I am hardly aware it's there. But Elenora couldn't hide her fears as we drove north from St. Petersburg in late October on our 4,300 mile journey.

THERE IS FAR LESS REASON for a Negro to be afraid now. Yet fear remains, and some of our northern friends refuse to drive through the South to visit us.

Take Warren Fowler, a Negro, an electrical contractor and city commissioner of Pontiac, Mich. He and his family want badly to come to St. Petersburg for a vacation. But they fear every gasoline stop, every restaurant, every motel.

The slaying last summer of Washington, D.C. educator and Army colonel Lemuel Penn as he and two other Negroes drove through Georgia en route home made most Negroes more fearful.

ACTUALLY, FEAR OF SLIPPING "out of a nigger's place" and meeting violence dominated Negro thinking long before the Penn murder.

Time was when the wrong license plate, especially one from up North, or a car too new or too long would mean automatic arrest for Negroes driving through southern communities. Pistol whipping was the vogue for teaching Negroes in custody how to say "sir" and "mister."

PAST EXPERIENCES GAVE us reason to worry.

I was asleep five years ago when my wife drove into a Jackson, Ga., service station and my daughter used the rest room marked "Ladies." Fear cleared my eyes of sleep instantly when I discovered the gasoline station operator waving a pistol in my face because Carol had forgotten her place.

Our assignment was to report, but inevitably we were involved in testing compliance with the new civil rights law. Just as inevitably we drew some rather general conclusions about the South:

- There is increasingly less reason for Negro tourists to fear for their safety.
- Operators of public accommodations are beginning to

(Please See FEAR RIDES, 7-A)

Fear Rides With Negroes In The South -- But Hope Is Lighting Dark Roads

FROM 1-A

treat the Negro dollar with greater respect.

As a result, Negro frustration is less likely to build to violence.

The Civil Rights Act has given the Negro new status. Now he has codified federal law, not merely an interpretation of the Constitution, which says he has a right to equal use of public accommodations.

The meager power of the Negro — sometimes penniless and voteless — was pitted in past years against the overwhelming force of the white power structure.

MAYOR ALLEN THOMPSON OF JACKSON, Miss., minced no words last year in communicating this fact of life to Negroes. "We've (the whites have) got the guns, we've got the force."

The white man also had the law, but not any more in law-abiding states of the South. Federal laws for civil rights are controvening an array of state laws that formerly regulated businesses and men, and limited racial interaction.

Many of these laws are still on the books of some southern states. But they probably won't stand up under court test. They prohibit service to Negroes in certain places where whites are served, require employers to have separate Negro-white rest rooms, and, among other things, subject Negroes to arrest on trespassing charges in public accommodations.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT HAS shifted the arena of confrontation from the street to the court rooms. It was with this coded legal security that we sought service at businesses which previously had never served Negroes.

Even with the law on our side, we were apprehensive in states where there was a record of violence against Negroes.

Knowing that Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana were among states we were to visit, several of our friends offered to lend us weapons for protecting ourselves in the event of trouble.

I turned them down. I was an expert shot during my Army hitch, but I've never owned a gun. My father has sold hundreds of weapons but never had one for his own use.

Elenora was not completely convinced by my argument that weapons can only breed trouble. She had listened to one of her white friends and was all set to accept a tear gas pistol recommended for women to explode in the faces of would-be attackers.

I VETOED THIS. The fact that we carried nothing made Elenora all the more frightened.

On several occasions we encountered what could have become serious trouble. But we completed the trip without violence or major incident, a feat which probably would not have been possible six months ago.

THAT'S THE BIG STORY — CHANGE: The increasing use of apologetic evasion rather than open defiance and increasing tolerance of black faces in places where none have been seen before — except as servants.

Who, for example, would have guessed a year ago that a white man in a Danville, Va., honky tonk would politely

THAT'S THE BIG STORY — CHANGE: The increasing use of apologetic evasion rather than open defiance and increasing tolerance of black faces in places where none have been seen before — except as servants.

Who, for example, would have guessed a year ago that a white man in a Danville, Va., honky tonk would politely ask a Negro couple if he could put his beer glass on their table while he played shuffleboard. Or who'd have thought a Jackson, Miss., storekeeper would volunteer to send a lost Negro couple to a white cafeteria.

We do not mean to suggest that Mississippi has made great strides toward Negro civil rights. Any change in this direction indeed has been minute.

IT STILL IS A BRUTAL STATE — hardly a member of the union — where church burnings, bombings and murders are commonplace. It is the state where, according to Tuskegee Institute reports, 539 lynchings and untold other violence took place during the 81 years between 1882 and 1963.

The South we saw was contradictory. Indeed it was many Souths. Acceptance and defiance — tolerance and intolerance — sometimes existed a few feet apart. But geographical patterns developed.

IF WE WERE TO LIST THE STATES we visited on a scale, rating them on the basis of progress toward equal rights for all, Mississippi, as might be expected, would be at the bottom. But a bit of Mississippi can be found beyond the state's borders.

I've heard racists "prove" they are not anti-Negro by saying, "some of my best friends are Negroes." Likewise some of my best friends are Mississippians. A difference lies in the fact they are not in the Mississippi atmosphere, which would have blocked or stifled the growth of our friendship.

THE PLACEMENT OF STATES on our civil rights scale would tend to coincide with the atmosphere created by state politicians. Where governors are defiant, where courts excuse whites for crimes against Negroes and burn Negroes for major crimes against whites, and where widespread poverty makes Negro economic independence a threat to white supremacy, we found more defiance of the provisions of the Civil Rights Act.

Rating the states from 0 to 100, the latter signifying greatest progress, this is how we saw the 12 states we toured:

West Virginia	100
North Carolina	85
Kentucky	80
Florida	70
Tennessee	68
Virginia	60
Georgia	50
South Carolina	42
Arkansas	30
Louisiana	20
Alabama	15
Mississippi	3

Looking back, we're glad we made the trip. Elenora wouldn't want to do it the same way again, but a year from now or two years from now it probably would be genuine fun for both of us.

RACIAL PREJUDICE ISN'T GOING TO EVAPORATE because Congress passed a law. It will be many, many years before a Negro driving through the South can forget his fear.

But the Negro has hope now. The law is important to him. And steadily increasing acceptance of the law throughout the South can only ease tensions. Frustrations Negroes encounter daily in their drive to enter the mainstream of American life are less likely now to erupt into violence. The future is brighter. For some, at least, hope has replaced hopelessness.

(Last Of A Series)

BIRMINGHAM . . . NO. 1

City Ready to Close Parks

By FRED POWLEDGE
Atlanta Journal Staff Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 29—This city will start closing most of its parks next week, but not without serious opposition from some segments of the population that have lain dormant for years in the city's racial struggles.

The city government, faced with a choice between court-enforced desegregation and no parks at all, has chosen no parks.

Public parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, golf courses and community centers—in all, more than 100 recreation areas—are scheduled to be closed by Jan. 15, the date set by federal court for complying with a desegregation order.

First in a Series

* * *

A HANDFUL will remain open. They include Legion Field, the football stadium; the zoo, Vulcan Park, and Woodrow Wilson Park. Authorities explain that most of these are "stand-up" or "walk-through" places where vertical integration is less likely to cause concern.

The reasoning behind the parks decision is simple: Mayor Arthur Hanes and his two fellow commissioners, Eugene (Bull) Connor and J. T. (Jabo) Waggoner, feel that the citizens of Birmingham want the parks closed. Mr. Hanes was a segregationist when he ran for mayor last spring, and he views his election as a mandate from the people.

Photo—Fred Powledge

ONE OF PARKS THAT WILL REMAIN OPEN
Birmingham City Hall Rises in Brackground

Mr. Connor's feelings about desegregation have been known for some time. He doesn't believe in it.

* * *

BUT PRESSURE is starting to mount in this city. Various groups which never before have taken public issue with the city government have started to question the proposed closing and, in the process, have been questioning the political wisdom of Messrs. Hanes, Connor and Waggoner.

The united front against desegregation, which has so long been an apparent characteristic of Birmingham's white citizens, is beginning to show some signs of crumbling.

* * *

IT CRUMBLED loudly this week when the city parks and recreation board refused to go along with Mayor Hanes in a move to close the park grounds completely, as well as the park facilities. And proponents of open parks were overjoyed Friday to find, in their Birmingham Post Heralds, a strong editorial titled "Hold On to the Parks." The editorial referred to recent reports that the parks might be sold to private organizations. It said, in part:

"Unless citizens of Birmingham want to lose their parks forever, they should organize now to oppose any and every move on the part of the city commission to dispose of park property. . . . The day will come when the current park problem is no more, and cursed will be any who in the meantime might betray the public interest by agreeing to the sale of park property."

Turn to Page 6, Column 2

BIRMINGHAM PARKS TO CLOSE

Continued From Page 1

It was perhaps the strongest editorial stand taken in this city so far on the parks problem.

* * *

MAYOR HANES suffered a direct setback, in the opinion of many, when he asked the parks board Thursday to put "no trespassing" signs around the parks.

The board, which had previously agreed to close the park facilities—swings and slides and the like—starting Jan. 2, balked at the mayor's plan. His motion was not seconded.

"In effect, you've kept the parks open for integration," said Mayor Hanes. "I just want you to realize what you've done. Four members of this board have voted for integration, and one has voted against it."

"You're wrong," replied a member of the board.

* * *

WHILE THERE are few informed sources here who doubt that the parks will in fact be closed, there are several who feel that some good will come from the closing. The shock value of parks with "no trespassing" signs may, in the words of one young businessman, "snap some of us into the Twentieth Century."

The pressure for keeping the parks open has not centralized itself into a unified park lobby. Several Birmingham citizens who favor open parks have said that definite leadership — and here they mean open-parks leadership —has been lacking all along in the fields of communications, government, the church, labor, politics and in the Negro community itself. Some of them feel the closing of the parks is going to force that leadership into rapid development.

* * *

NOT ONLY the parks will be affected. The federal court order —and the city's reaction to it— have brought on the cancellation of a number of events which contribute to the city's cultural life.

The Symphony of Fashions, a money-raising function of the Birmingham Symphony Orchestra, will not be held this year. The federal order desegregated the city auditorium, but the city has adopted a policy of keeping the hall segregated through "selective" sale of tickets.

The Boston Pops Orchestra was scheduled to play Birmingham this season, but its contract has been canceled. The Pops concert was also a money-raising project of the city symphony. Officials of the symphony, while somewhat disappointed over the two cancellations, say they hope to present a season of music in Birmingham anyway.

* * *

THE FUTURE of the legitimate theater in Birmingham is in doubt, due to a decision by Actors' Equity not to play before segregated audiences after next spring. Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus was to play here Feb. 14-18 at the auditorium, but the city has canceled the contract.

The Metropolitan Opera is not expected to come to Birmingham during the spring, either, but this is reportedly for economic, and not racial, reasons.

And there will be no more wrestling matches in the auditorium after Jan. 8. Promoters hope to use a National Guard armory and to limit their ticket sales to white persons.

This brings on grumbling from wrestling, circus, music, fashion, and golf fans, but the grumbling is as nothing when compared to the spate of resolutions—against closing the parks—which have been issuing from civic organizations in recent days.

* * *

DESPITE THE resolutions, though, the city commission has stood firm against any sign of retreat from its position that the parks must be closed.

For Mayor Hanes, a retreat would be cooperation with forces at loose in the world which would destroy the fabric of America. "I say now is the time to draw the line," he said recently, "in a fight to preserve the principles on which this country was founded."

NEXT IN THE ATLANTA JOURNAL: Mayor Hanes and the Commission.

Birmingham . . . No. 2

'...Must Earn Acceptance'

By FRED POWLEDGE
Atlanta Journal Staff Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 30 — The Birmingham City Commission, which made the decision to close the city's parks rather than accept a desegregation order, is a three-man group dedicated to continued segregation.

Mayor Arthur Hanes, the commission's president, is in charge of parks, airports, and general city services.

J. T. (Jabo) Waggoner is the commission member in charge of public works and improvements. Eugene (Bull) Connor, known widely as the city's police commissioner, is in charge of public safety and education. He is considered a likely candidate for governor.

* * *

MR. CONNOR refused to talk with an Atlanta Journal reporter about the parks situation recently, saying "I ain't giving no statements to any papers except the Birmingham papers." Mr. Waggoner said a recent rain has "literally flooded my office with telephone calls," and he didn't have time to talk.

Mayor Hanes showed no hesitancy to discuss the racial situation.

The 45-year-old mayor, a former football coach, PT boat skipper and FBI man, was elected by a good-sized margin last spring in a runoff primary. He feels his election—over a candidate whose public statements identified him as less of a park-closing enthusiast — was the mandate of a city to keep segregation intact, federal order or no federal order.

* * *

IF DESEGREGATION were to come to the parks, he said, Birmingham would be one step closer to submitting to the will of a minority. Mayor Hanes put it this way:

"We'll have more trouble and create a worse image if those parks are open. This is what the press around the world is waiting for — something to happen. They're sitting around waiting, like a bunch of vultures.

Photo—Fred Powledge
ART HANES
Birmingham Mayor

"The real issue isn't integration. The main thing is the overriding principle of people's rights to determine something for themselves. It is the idea of the Communitsts to destroy every tradition and symbol that this country has ever stood for.

"I feel that men should progress by their own ability and gain by their own effort and not by the passage of laws. If they (the Negroes) merit acceptance, it will be given naturally, just as night follows day.

* * *

"I WILL NEVER negotiate with Communist Negroes, Negro radical groups. . . . They have nothing to negotiate with. Their attitude seems to be 'What's ours is ours and what's yours we'll negotiate for.' I don't subscribe to that theory and therefore will not negotiate with them.

"The Negroes in Birmingham have always been treated with kindness, generosity, and warmth. But with their present attitude this could change. . . .

Turn to Page 15, Column 5

PARKS

Continued From Page 1

"The overriding thing is not integration, but centralization of authority in Washington. If this trend continues, next they'll tell us which churches to go to, where to work, what to do. . . . I say now is the time to draw the line in a fight to preserve the principles on which this country was founded."

* * *

MR. HANES FEELS he has the support of the majority of the citizens of Birmingham, a city of about 113,000 Negroes and 228,000 whites whose elected officials have decided to close its parks. Until recently, there has indeed been only the most feeble opposition to his, and the commission's, decision. But people and organizations are starting to mumble, and some of the mumbles are growing into phrases, and some of the phrases are growing into chants.

NEXT IN THE JOURNAL-CONSTITUTION: The open-park people.

House of Hits—Open 2:15 P.M.

BIRMINGHAM . . . NO. 3

Meeting the Challenge

By FRED POWLEDGE
Journal-Constitution Staff Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 30—A few weeks ago, when the city government's decision to close the parks became general knowledge, the prevailing public attitude was silence.

Today there is a definite chant in Birmingham. The people are considering, suggesting, and in some cases demanding that their parks should be kept open.

* * *

IT IS TRUE that most of the pressure for open parks comes from the suburban settlements of Vestavia, Homewood, and Mountain Brook, and these places lie outside the city limits, and therefore Mayor Arthur Hanes is justified when he says their complaints bear little relation to the city's internal functions.

But the people on the other side of the mountains point out that the city's wealth, a large part of its culture, and campaign expenses at election time come in great quantity from the suburbs.

Photo—Fred Powledge

NEGRO YOUTHS IN BIRMINGHAM PARK
Doubtful of Playground's Future, Playing Stick Ball

To their arguments are added the recent statements by business, church, and political leaders and subleaders who have started to take up the chant. In increasing numbers they are speaking out, they are passing resolutions, and they are bringing pressure to bear at City Hall.

The City Parks and Recreation Board this week turned down Mayor Hanes' request for out-and-out closing of the parks, preferring instead to close the park facilities. What this will mean after next Tuesday, when the facilities are officially scheduled to be closed, is not yet certain.

* * *

THESE ARE some of the public statements and actions that have confronted the city commission since it decided to close the parks:

Turn to Page 11A, Column 1

MEETING CHALLENGE

Continued From Page 1

The Ministers Association of Greater Birmingham warned against "the sinful situation that might well bring a day of tragic darkness to our beloved city," and it asked members to take to their pulpits with sermons supporting open parks.

Several civic organizations, such as the Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Birmingham's Committee of 100, the Young Men's Business Club, and the Downtown Improvement Association, have indicated their desire to keep the parks open.

The Woman's Club of Birmingham passed a resolution saying "it will be a step backwards to destroy what we have built."

Fourteen Episcopal ministers, in a letter to the city commission, said "We affirm the rights of individuals to decide whether or not to use public facilities, but we wish to point out the folly of destroying all public recreational, educational and cultural facilities simply because some of our citizens prefer not to use them."

* * *

THE MINISTER of the Woodlawn Methodist Church, Rev. John Rutland, published a church bulletin this week which said, in part:

"Jesus Christ came into the world and lived and died to save all men. He taught us to love one another as brothers and sisters. Can faithful followers of Jesus Christ shut their ears to the cries of the needy? Why should we be so afraid of one another? If Christ is our saviour, surely we can be friends with each other."

One of the members of the Rev. Mr. Rutland's church is Eugene (Bull) Connor, one of the city's three commissioners and a nationally known foe of desegregation.

* * *

THE NEWSPAPERS have joined the ranks of the protesters, although some critics of the Fourth Estate here say the papers' decision came rather late in the game.

The Birmingham Post-Herald, in an editorial Saturday, discusses current legal troubles over bus station desegregation and the parks, and says:

"It is hindsight, of course, but none the less regrettable that the time we had was not used to better advantage in trying to solve the problem which now confronts us. But there will be other and more difficult problems to come, and we cannot force them to go away by merely refusing to face them until we are rudely jerked to attention by federal court order."

The Birmingham News has been publishing milder editorials, but ones which make pretty much the same point. That newspaper has commented several times in recent days on the effect of park closings on industry.

Letters to the editors have been published in large numbers, and the authors of those which have been printed seem almost evenly divided over the park issue.

* * *

PRO-PARK PEOPLE questioned recently in Birmingham appear to be concerned with two other matters which have not been generally touched upon in public statements and debate. One of them is the impact of the park case on public schools; another is the impact of the case on Birmingham's industrial relations with Atlanta.

On the latter, these people say further racial and political disputes in Birmingham can only lead to more industry and financial interests' going to Atlanta. Quiet meetings are known to have taken place among the city's business community on just this subject.

These people are also worried that the park matter — and the way in which it is handled — is bound to form the pattern for an inevitable school desegregation controversy. Their reasoning is this: "If we close the parks and keep them closed, wouldn't we be more likely to close the schools, too? And if we keep the parks open somehow, wouldn't that mean we would want to keep the schools open?"

* * *

ONE OF THESE people is Charles Morgan Jr., a 31-year-old attorney who is a former campaigner for the man Mayor Hanes defeated last spring and a man who, in the context of modern-day Birmingham, may easily be described as a liberal.

"Prior to this time," he said the other day, "most of us here in this community have not been sufficiently cognizant of the fact that sooner or later a federal court order would come with respect to parks, schools and other public facilities.

"Anyone in Birmingham who does not now recognize the inevitability of some such federal court decisions has his head in the sand.

* * *

"WE HERE HAVE not seen many of the television programs bearing on this subject which have shown in other sections of the country. The attitude of many who think such programs should have been, and in the future should be, shown is based principally on the fact that they feel that we should have a picture in our city of what the rest of the country is saying about us.

"I do not believe that the cutting off of such programs has been beneficial to our community, nor do I believe that the lack of leadership on both sides on this question has been advantageous.

"But these days are over, and it's doubtful that they will ever return again. Each of us is—and, I believe, sincerely—examining his heart and mind with respect to the customs and traditions of segregation, in which the overwhelming majority of the people believe, and we're asking how high a price we are willing to pay.

"It is in this context that the problem will be resolved, one way or another."

END OF SERIES.

ANOTHER FIRST IN GEORGIA - The Georgia Advisory Committee of the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights held a meeting August 12 at the Dinkler Hotel. One Newsman wrote "When 600 Georgians, representing more than 110 communities and including 38 Mayors, 25 Police Chiefs and Sheriffs, City Attorneys, 150 employers, 44 hospital administrators turn out voluntarily to hear details of a Civil Rights Act, I regard the event as a "man bites dog" incident of considerable note." Your director feels that when political leaders and business men and civil rights workers sit down to think together there is great hope for the future of our state. Now one hears on every side "How can we do this job?" Now is the time for each Council member to be of real service to his community.

GREATER ATLANTA COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS
5 Forsyth Street, N. W. Atlanta, Georgia

Telephone: 523-1581

YOU ALL ARE WELCOME.....

Laws and customs change from day to day, sometimes from hour to hour. There are degrees of "segregation" and "desegregation" -- "segregated" may mean no Negroes or it may mean Negroes and whites segregated within the same facility. It is customary to make changes in racial policies without public announcement, which is at times necessary and desirable.

This does make it difficult, however, for those affected to secure accurate information. Periodically the Greater Atlanta Council on Human Relations compiles a list of places which as far as we can determine, are open to all. We welcome additions and corrections. This list is accurate as of October, 1963, to the best of our knowledge.

EATING PLACES

YWCA Cafeteria, Edgewood and Ivy
YMCA Coffee Shop, Luckie Street
Stouffeur's, Downstairs in the Merchandise Mart
Top O' the Mart (also Stouffeur's)
Rich's Magnolia Room and other eating places in the store
Davison's Tea Room and other eating places
Grant's
Jacob's Pharmacies
Sears-Roebuck
H. L. Green
Kress
McCrory's
Lane's Drug Stores
Franklin Simon's
Walgreen's
Woolworth's
Newberry's
Emory University Food Service Center
Herren's
Yohannon's
Caruso's
Johnny Reb's
Crossroads
Seven Steers (downtown)
Miami Buffet (downtown)
Dale's Cellar
S & W
Mamma Mia
Rex Fine Foods
All 4 Howard Johnson Restaurants
Davis Fine Foods at Luckie Street, Marietta Street and Pryor Street Town House

Most Hotels and motels will arrange private interracial parties.

HOTELS

Peachtree Manor Hotel
Hilton Inn
Air Host Inn

Other hotels will accept Negro convention delegates up to ?% the total number of delegates

CULTURAL AND RECREATIONAL FACILITIES

Atlanta Art Galleries
Atlanta Symphony Orchestra Concerts
Actors Equity Production
Theater Under the Stars (at Chastain Park)
Jewish Community Center
Quaker House
Copa Atlanta
Wit's End
Neighborhood Movies: Gordon, Emory, Lenox Square, Cherokee, Hilan, Plaza, Atlantic, Techwood
Downtown Movies: Pocket, Academy (including Shakespeare Festival), Loew's, Fox, Rialto, Roxy, Rhodes, and Peachtree Art
Drive-Ins: Bolton, Fulton Blvd., Glenwood, Peachtree, Piedmont, Scott, South Expressway, Steward, Thunderbird, and Starlight
Stone Mountain: all facilities, including Stone Acres Plantation, and Stable of Thoroughbreds (old autos)
Atlanta City Golf Courses
Atlanta Public Library - all branches
Decatur-DeKalb Library
All facilities owned and operated by City of Atlanta
Recreational facilities operated by City of Decatur, excluding pools

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

All colleges and universities in the Greater Atlanta area
Certain Atlanta public schools
Catholic Parochial schools
Trinity Presbyterian School
Smith-Hughes and Carver Vocational Schools
DeKalb Area Trade School
Grady Hospital x-ray and technical schools

ORGANIZATIONS

Active Voters
Atlanta Association for Gifted Children
Atlanta Chapter, American Association for the United Nations
Greater Atlanta Council of Churches
League of Women Voters (of Atlanta;;of DeKalb County)
Women's International League for Peace and Freedom

Democracic Forum of Fulton County and DeKalb Democrats
Republican organizations of DeKalb County and Fulton County
Alcholics Anonymous
Metropolitan Atlanta Mental Health Association

HOSPITALS

Of the 16 hospitals in operation in the Atlanta area listed as members of the Georgia Hospital Association, 10 do not admit Negroes as patients. Grady and Aidmore provide segregated services. DeKalb General, South Fulton, and Kennestone provide separate wards or wings for Negroes and whites. St. Joseph's is an integrated hospital.

CHURCHES

All Episcopal, Catholic, Unitarian-Universalists; most others open to visitors, but policies vary with individyal churches.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICES

All locations of Georgia State Employment Service. Jobs listed in the Help Wanted ads of the ATLANTA CONSTITUTION and THE ATLANTA JOURNAL are not listed according to race.

TRANSPORTATION

No segregation on busses or in taxi service

YOU ALL ARE WELCOME.....

CUSTOMS CHANGE FROM DAY TO DAY. A PLACE THAT IS SEGREGATED TODAY MAY BE DESEGREGATED TOMORROW, AND IN SOME VERY FEW INSTANCES PLACES THAT HAD SERVED INTERRACIAL GROUPS LATER DECLINED TO DO SO. THE GREATER ATLANTA COUNCIL MAKES AN EFFORT TO KEEP UP TO DATE, ACCURATE INFORMATION ABOUT PROGRESS OF DESEGREGATION IN THE COMMUNITY. WE WOULD WELCOME ADDITIONAL INFORMATION. SO FAR AS WE HAVE BEEN ABLE TO DETERMINE, THE FOLLOWING IS CORRECT AS OF THE END OF JUNE, 1962.

EATING PLACES

YWCA CAFETERIA, EDGEWOOD AND IVY
STOUFFEUR'S, DOWNSTAIRS IN THE MERCHANDISE MART
TOP O'THE MART (ALSO STOUFFEUR'S)
RICH'S MAGNOLIA ROOM AND OTHER EATING PLACES IN ALL STORES
DAVISON'S TEA ROOM AND OTHER EATING PLACES.
GRANT'S
JACOB'S PHARMACIES
SEARS ROEBUCK
H. L. GREEN
KRESS
MCCRORY'S
LANE'S DRUG STORES
THE COACH AND SIX RESTAURANT

FRANKLIN SIMON'S
Woolworth's
Newberry's

INTERRACIAL GROUPS MAY ARRANGE PRIVATE MEETINGS, ETC., AT THE ATLANTA BILTMORE, DINKLER PLAZA, DINGO HO, MAMMY'S SHANTY, AND EMORY UNIVERSITY FOOD CENTER.

PEACHTREE MANOR HOTEL
AMERICANA MOTEL

CULTURAL AND RECREATIONAL FACILITIES

ATLANTA ART GALLERIES
ATLANTA SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA CONCERTS
ACTORS EQUITY PRODUCTION
THEATER UNDER THE STARS (AT CHASTAIN PARK)
ATLANTA CITY GOLF COURSES
ATLANTA PUBLIC LIBRARY - ALL BRANCHES
DECATUR-DEKALB LIBRARY
JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER
QUAKER HOUSE
POCKET THEATER
ACADEMY THEATER (SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL)
LOEW'S GRAND THEATER
FOX THEATER
RIALTO THEATER
ROXY THEATER
RHODES THEATER
PEACHTREE ART
Fine Arts

ALL ATLANTA CITY FACILITIES OR FUNCTIONS WITH EXCEPTION OF SWIMMING POOLS.

EVENTS AT COLLEGE CAMPUSES THROUGHOUT TH E GREATER ATLANTA COMMUNITY:

ORGANIZATIONS:

ACTIVE VOTERS
ATLANTA ASSOCIATION FOR GIFTED CHILDREN
ATLANTA CHAPTER, AMERICAN ASSOCIATION FOR THE UNITED NATIONS
GREATER ATLANTA COUNCIL OF CHURCHES
LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS (OF ATLANTA, OF DEKALB COUNTY)
WOMEN'S INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE FOR PEACE AND FREEDOM
DEMOCRATIC FORUM OF FULTON COUNTY AND DEKALB DEMOCRATS
REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATIONS OF DEKALB COUNTY AND FULTON COUNTY

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES (HAVE ACCEPTED OR INDICATED WILLINGNESS TO ACCEPT APPLICATIONS FROM ALL)

CERTAIN ATLANTA PUBLIC SCHOOLS
CATHOLIC SCHOOLS
GEORGIA TECH
GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE
OGLETHORPE UNIVERSITY
AGNES SCOTT COLLEGE (BEGINNING 1963-64 SESSION)
THE WESTMINSTER SCHOOLS
TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN SCHOOL
Columbia Theological Seminary

GREATER ATLANTA COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS
5 FORSYTH STREET, NORTHWEST
ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA
JUNE, 1962

MANPOWER DEVELOPMENT TRAINING ACT (MDTA) PROGRAM

Mr. Larry Robinson, Georgia State Employment Coordinator for the Atlanta area, Manpower Development Training Program, reports the following training programs now in progress (enrollment closed):

1. DeKalb Technical & Vocational--auto mechanics 7; body and fender repair 8
2. Carver Vocational--auto mechanics helper 8; hotel and restaurant cooks 19

Plans are being completed for a hospital workers training program with an expected enrollment of 110. There are no programs open for applications at the moment, but those eligible for or interested in the MDTA training (unemployed or underemployed) should register with one of the Georgia State Employment Service areas in the office. Fourteen recently completed training as electrical draftsman and are now employed with average earnings of $94 a week.

EDUCATION

Atlanta School Statistics (compiled from reports included in October, 1963, agenda of Atlanta Board of Education):

1. From October 1962 to October 1963, in 6 all-Negro high schools, enrollment increased to 1536 (also 160 increase at Carver primarily Negro). In 17 white high schools (total of 141 Negro transfer students in 10 of these) enrollment increased 517.

2. All of the 17 elementary schools with more than 1000 enrollment are Negro.

3. Of the 9 with double sessions, 8 are Negro, all but 61 of the 5684 students on double sessions are in Negro schools.

4. Dropouts: 1,000 in the 7 Negro schools; 1200 in 17 "white" schools.

5. Dr. Letson reports that only 6 additional teachers were employed by the system to handle a total enrollment increase of 3053; if last year's pupil ratio had been maintained, it would have been necessary to employ 114 additional teachers.

The Westminster Schools: Recent announcements of admission tests for Wesminster in the daily press prompted inquiries about racial policies. Dr. William Pressly, President, said that there is a committee of the trustees working on the matter, but the school does not now accept applications from Negro students. It does adminster tests for admission to other schools and colleges to Negro as well as white students at its testing center.

Atlanta

PROGRESS: Within the last month, the following Negroes have been appointed by policy-making bodies: Dr. P. Q. Yancey, by Mayor Allen to the Fulton County Health Board; Mrs. Grace Hamilton, by Mayor Allen to the Atlanta Fund Appeals Board; Mr. C. R. Yates by the Fulton County Commissioners to the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority.

PUBLIC ACCOMMODATIONS

Desegregated Hotels and Motels:

*Air Host Inn
*Hilton Inn
*Peachtree Manor

Atlanta Americana
Atlantan Hotel
Dinkler-Plaza
Riveria

Howard Johnson's (south, N.E., & N.W.)
Holiday Inn
Marriott Inn (under construction)
Atlanta Cabana
Biltmore
Piedmont

*Desegregated for sometime
Kings Inn, operates independently in Cabana, still segregated. Dobbs and Toddle Houses have been opened following demonstrations and negotiations.
Use of facilities by Negroes restricted to registered guests; we know of no other restrictions.

Restaurants

Council members in interracial groups have patronized eating places which are desegregated and have visited some uncertain ones, in the hope of establishing a policy of desegregation. If you are interested in participating in this project, contact the Council office.

****

Senator Leroy Johnson has prepared a Bill to introduce in the Georgia Legislature amending the Charter of the City of Atlanta to permit passage of a public accommodations Ordinance, which the City Attorney has ruled is not now possible. He lacks enough signatures of Fulton and DeKalb legislators to get it introduced. Some legislators want reactions of the Aldermen before they decide.

****

The Atlanta Police Department announced arrests will no longer be made on trespass charge unless proprietor is willing to swear out a warrant.

EXPECTED PARTICIPANTS

QUAIL ROOST
DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA
AUGUST 6, 1965

Paul Anthony, Southern Regional Council

Leslie Dunbar, Field Foundation, Southern Regional Council

John Ehle, Ford Foundation

George Esser, North Carolina Fund

Norman Francis, Xavier University, New Orleans

Carl Holman, U.S. Civil Rights Commission

David Hunter, Stern Family Fund

Vernon Jordan, Southern Regional Council

Donald Mathews, University of North Carolina

Richard Neustadt, Harvard University

Michael O'Keefe, Louisiana State Senate

James Prothro, University of North Carolina

Russell Sugarmon, attorney, Memphis

John Wheeler, Mechanics and Farmers Bank, Southern Regional Council, etc., etc., etc.

Paul Ylvisaker, Ford Foundation

6

August 6, 1965

QUAIL ROOST QUESTIONS

SUBJECT: "Increasing the competence of Negroes to participate in the political process in the south."

ASSUMPTIONS:

1. opportunities for such participation are expanding
2. "political process" includes:
   - a) mechanics of registration and voting
   - b) opening channels of communication among the determining elements of the social, political and economic systems in the community
   - c) negotiation among contending forces
3. know-how in these areas is in short supply party participation office seeking

QUESTIONS:

1. Is there enough substantive content that can be usefully transmitted through seminars, internships and other pedagogical techniques to make such an exercise worthwhile? (Contrary thought: you can pick up political and negotiating know-how only by osmosis, genetics and experience.)

QUESTIONS (CONTINUED)

2. Should the focus be exclusively on the south or primarily on the south or nationwide?

3. Should the "students" be only Negroes?

4. What kinds of people should the participants be? College students? "Youngish" Negro leaders? People already in "politics"?

5. How should participants be selected?

6. What would the form be? Seminars, internships, field practice, combination of these?

7. Should the institute or institutes take place in just one city which would serve as a good "field laboratory" or should there be several in several cities?

8. How long? Three weeks, three months, one week? Or, should there be a series of "institutes" of varying duration depending on the participants (e.g. a lawyer couldn't spend as much time all at once as a college student could).

QUESTIONS (CONTINUED)

9. Should one or more universities run the institute? Southern, northern, Negro, white, combination thereof?

10. What universities would be most competent to undertake the task?

11. Should there be any formal relationship of the institute with civil rights organizations?

12. How would non-partisanship be preserved?

13. (This question to be discussed only if time allows). Should a foundation financed program of southern summer internships for white and Negro college students be developed? Placements to be in state government, city government, CAP programs, etc.

PRODUCING PROGRAMS FOR THE TOWERS

OF THE WORLD

Protestant Radio & Television Center, Inc., 1727 Clifton Rd., N.E., Atlanta 6, Ga.

APRIL 1962

Ready to roll in the service of the church . . .

This VT mobile unit is one of the most complete rolling television recording facilities in America.

THIS VIDEO TAPE MOBILE UNIT IS A PART OF THE

RUSSELL VIDEO STUDIO

at

THE PROTESTANT RADIO & TV CENTER
Atlanta, Georgia

Possible with the assistance of

HARLOW M. RUSSELL
Boothbay Harbor, Maine

PRODUCING PROGRAMS FOR THE TOWERS

OF THE WORLD

Protestant Radio & Television Center, Inc., 1727 Clifton Rd., N.E., Atlanta 6, Ga.

June, 1962

A Day of Two Launchings

FEBRUARY 20, 1962

On February 20, 1962, our communication capability reduced the Earth to a 94-minute greeting from the edge of space. John Glenn's three-orbit look at four sunsets in less than five hours capped a decade of planning and research.

As Friendship 7 rolled, pitched and yawed its way into history, in Atlanta the Board of Trustees of the PRTVC capped a decade of effort with the announcement its initial million dollar goal had been achieved. In the spirit of those who realize Glenn's accomplishments are merely a beginning, the Board immediately began the countdown on a new campaign.

Astronaut Glenn found political and language barriers were no hindrance. His heartbeat, radioed from the racing capsule, became a universal symbol . . . a vivid demonstration of the scope and power of modern communication.

PRTVC found denominational and theological barriers were no hindrance. The Center's facilities have been used by many—a vivid demonstration of the scope and power of God's message . . . and of progress through mass communication.

Progress began with the PRTVC breaking ground for its permanent facilities May 26, 1953. Already recognized as the capital spot of the world for the production and distribution of non-commercial religious programs, it is striving for a comparable ministry for world-wide television. It is unique in its organization and operations.

A solid foundation must be assured now. A good heritage bespeaks a good future only as we remain alert to our opportunities. Organizationally, the PRTVC has been brought to a high place of usefulness. It must not let its equipment become obsolete. The cause it represents and the churches it serves demand that its growing needs be met.

$250,000---by May 26, 1963

To meet the Center's urgent expansion and up-dating needs, the Trustees have authorized a campaign for $250,000 to be completed May 26, 1963, the tenth anniversary of our first step in building the permanent operational Center. Unsolicited and voluntary contributions will be doubly appreciated in that the Staff and close friends must do double duty in seeking these funds while operating the Center at the highest peak of efficiency.

This invitation to help is for all concerned that radio and television be used for a greater good. The Center has been built by those willing to do an "extra" or an "over and above" in their regular giving. The Center has no "built in" constituency as has a college with an alumni or a church with its regular members.

PRODUCING PROGRAMS FOR THE TOWERS

OF THE WORLD

Protestant Radio & Television Center, Inc., 1727 Clifton Rd., N.E., Atlanta 6, Ga.

NOVEMBER 1962

A RAM'S HORN FOR HIS GENERATION

A SATELLITE FOR OURS

Protestant Radio & Television Center, Inc., 1727 Clifton Rd., N.E., Atlanta 6, Ga.

MAY, 1963

1949
1950
1951 1952
1953
1954
1955
1956
1957
1958
1959
1960
1961
1962
1963

Progress in finding ways for proclaiming Christ must never stop. The Protestant Radio and Television Center is designed to link our churches and our faith to the . . . . .

ELECTRONIC ERA

MELROSE 4-3324

The PROTESTANT RADIO AND TELEVISION CENTER, INC.

1727 CLIFTON ROAD, NORTHEAST ATLANTA 6, GEORGIA

WILLIAM R. CANNON
CHAIRMAN OF BOARD

ERNEST J. ARNOLD
PRESIDENT-TREASURER

Mr. Pat Watters
Atlanta Newspapers, Inc.
Forsyth Building
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Dear Pat:

Relative to our telephone conversation we are forwarding several folders giving some pertinent information on The Protestant Radio and Television Center. This will give you some background and when we have an occasion which we think would be particularly newsworthy I will give you a call.

We are sending to the Atlanta churches who are members of this group a letter advising them to mention the Center in their bulletin and make some remarks from the pulpit if they so desire. In this way we are hoping to appraise the members of the Atlanta metropolitan churches of the work we are doing for the churches.

Hoping that at your convenience you will let me show you through the Center, I am

With kindest regards,

Herbert M. Ponder

Herbert M. Ponder
Assistant to the President

hmp/jvo
Encls
July 18, 1963

MEMORANDUM

THE AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE
INSTITUTE OF HUMAN RELATIONS
165 East 56th Street, New York 22, N. Y. • PLaza 1-4000

In evaluating the decision just handed down by the U. S. Supreme Court on recitation of the Lord's Prayer and Bible reading in the public schools, you may find of interest the attached fact sheet of background information on these two cases.

BEFORE THE U.S. SUPREME COURT:
Prayers and Bible Reading in the Public Schools

A Fact Sheet

Presently before the U.S. Supreme Court are two cases involving religious practices in the nation's schools. It is expected that before adjournment (June), the Court will rule on the constitutionality of recitations of the Lord's Prayer and reading of the Bible as religious exercises in public schools.

It is inevitable that the issues posed in these cases will attract nationwide attention. The recent Court decision declaring unconstitutional the New York State Regents' Prayer (June 1962) was the topic of headline treatment for weeks after it was handed down. Unfortunately, in many instances the reactions reflected a lack of information and historical perspective. Insufficient knowledge of the core of the case—the religion clauses of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, with their twin guarantees of religious liberty and separation of church and state—led to widespread misunderstanding of the decision, its intent and import.

Since the Court's current deliberations are addressed to the same general issue, opinion leaders in the mass media and elsewhere can render a significant public service by presenting the facts which well-informed citizens need to bear in mind. The purpose of this digest is briefly to present such background material.

Much of the debate on the Regents' Prayer decision and the two pending cases has been predicated on two assumptions that bear scrutiny: (1) that challenges to prayer and Bible reading in the public schools are unprecedented in American history; and (2) that these exercises are customary in the vast majority of public schools.

The following review of the facts shows: (1) that the question of prayers and Bible reading is not new; and (2) that daily prayer recitations and Bible reading are widespread in particular regions, but not throughout the nation as a whole.

1. A Long-Standing Question

The general question—does religion belong in public schools?—has been raised and resolved in various ways throughout the nation since the mid-19th century, when the public schools were in their infancy.

—Bible reading was challenged as early as 1854 when Catholic parents objected to use of the King James (Protestant) rather than the Douay (Catholic) Bible in the public schools of Maine.
—Between 1872 and 1905, Catholic parents in seven other states instituted actions on similar grounds.
—In later years, Jewish parents joined with Catholics in questioning use of the King James Bible in the public schools.

Until the current cases, the U.S. Supreme Court had never reviewed the question. Numerous and often contradictory rulings by state courts constituted the highest official word on Bible reading in the public schools until 1959, when a Federal Court in Pennsylvania deemed the practice unconstitutional.

Here are two state decisions, diametrically opposed:

> The law knows no distinction between the Christian and the Pagan, the Protestant and the Catholic. All are citizens. . . . The school, like the Government, is secular and not religious in its purposes. The truths of the Bible are the truths of religion, which do not come within the province of the public schools.
>
> —People ex rel. Ring v. Board of Education, Illinois, 1910

> It would require a strained and unreasonable construction to find anything in the ordinance which interfered with the natural and unalienable right to worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience. The mere listening to the reading of an extract from the Bible and a brief prayer at the opening of school exercises would seem far remote from such interference.
>
> —Wilkerson v. City of Rome, Georgia, 1921

These contradictory decisions reflect the divergence in opinion which has long existed.

2. State Laws and School Practices Differ from Region to Region

Some 26 states, principally in the East and South, require or permit Bible reading, and often the Lord's Prayer, by law or regulation.[1] Ten states, most of them in the West, forbid such activities in the public schools.[2]

A recent survey polled school superintendents in a sample of some 4,000 communities on the extent of religious influence in their schools.[3] As the following replies indicate, religious exercises are conducted rarely in public schools in the West, while most schools in the South and East open with either a prayer or the reading of a Biblical passage.

Question: Are homeroom devotional services[4] held in the schools of your system?

United States as a Whole

Yes: 50.24% No: 49.76%

By Sections of the Country

	West	Midwest	South	East
Yes:	8.62%	25.95%	88.69%	80.16%
No:	91.38%	74.05%	11.32%	19.83%

Question: Is Bible reading conducted in the schools of your system?

United States as a Whole

Yes: 41.74% No: 58.26%

By Sections of the Country

	West	Midwest	South	East
Yes:	11.03%	18.26%	76.84%	67.56%
No:	88.97%	81.74%	23.16%	32.44%

Thus the present-day framework against which the Supreme Court cases must be viewed is far from clear-cut. It is marked by sharply divergent public-school policies and practices throughout the country.

THE CASES BEFORE THE COURT

The Supreme Court is considering two similar cases. Both question the constitutionality of Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer as part of opening exercises in the public schools. In neither case is Bible reading limited to passages of the Old Testament. The lower courts have arrived at conflicting decisions. In Maryland (Murray v. Curlett), the state Court of Appeals upheld the propriety of these practices. In Pennsylvania (Abington Township v. Schempp), a Federal Court found Bible reading, with or without recitation of the Lord's Prayer, unconstitutional under the First Amendment.

1. Murray v. Curlett

William J. Murray III, a student attending Woodbourne Junior High School in Baltimore, and his mother, who describe themselves as atheists, are challenging the constitutionality of a regulation of the Board of School Commissioners of Baltimore, adopted in 1905:

---

[1] Required in the District of Columbia and the following 11 states: Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Tennessee.

Permitted in 15 states: Colorado, Hawaii, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma and Texas.

[2] Alaska, Arizona, California, Illinois, Louisiana, Nebraska, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

[3] Richard B. Dierenfield, associate professor of education, Macalester College, St. Paul, Minnesota, Religion in American Public Schools, Public Affairs Press, Washington, D.C., 1962.

[4] "Homeroom devotional services" most often include prayers and Bible reading, sometimes accompanied by short devotional talks and the singing of religious hymns.

> Opening Exercises. Each school, either collectively or in classes, shall be opened by the reading, without comment, of a chapter in the Holy Bible and/or the use of the Lord's Prayer. The Douay version may be used by those pupils who prefer it. . . .

After the Murrays questioned these practices, the Board amended its regulation by adding the following proviso:

> Any child shall be excused from participating in the opening exercises or from attending the opening exercises upon written request of his parent or guardian.

The Murrays contend that the regulation, even as amended, violates their freedom of religion and the principle of separation of church and state. They lost their case in the lower courts. The Court of Appeals of Maryland concurred, in a 4-3 decision, judging that the daily opening exercises of the Baltimore City public schools violated no constitutional rights. The plaintiffs' appeal is now before the U.S. Supreme Court.

2. Abington Township v. Schempp

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lewis Schempp, who are Unitarians and parents of three children attending the public schools in Abington Township, Pennsylvania, have asserted that the Federal Constitution is violated by a Pennsylvania law which requires:

> At least ten verses from the Holy Bible shall be read, or caused to be read, without comment, at the opening of each public school on each school day, by the teacher in charge. If any school teacher, whose duty it shall be to read the Holy Bible, or cause it to be read, shall fail or omit to do so, said school teacher shall, upon charges preferred for such failure of omission, and proof of the same, before the board of school directors of the school district, be discharged.

A three-judge Federal Court unanimously found the Pennsylvania statute unconstitutional under the First Amendment. The judges rejected the contention that the Bible was being used principally as a work of art or for its literary or historical significance. The Holy Bible, they said, regardless of the version being read, is "a religious document devoted primarily to bringing man in touch with God."

> The daily reading of the Bible, buttressed with the authority of the State and, more importantly to children, with the authority of their teachers, can hardly do less than inculcate or promote the inculcation of various religious doctrines in childish minds. Thus, the practice required by the statute amounts to religious instruction or a promotion of religious education. It makes no difference that the religious "truths" inculcated may vary from one child to another. It also makes no difference that a sense of religion may not be instilled.

The state legislature then amended the law as follows:

> At least ten verses from the Holy Bible shall be read, without comment, at the opening of each public school on each school day. Any child shall be excused from such Bible reading, or attending such Bible reading, upon the written request of his parent or guardian.

After a new hearing, the three-judge court again unanimously declared the law unconstitutional. The school board's appeal is currently before the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Single Question to Be Decided

These cases do not question the propriety or constitutionality of using the Bible as a source or reference work in the teaching of such subjects as literature, history, art appreciation or social studies which may be part of the regular school curriculum.

The basic question presented is this: Are readings from the Holy Bible and recitation of the Lord's Prayer, conducted by school authorities as part of the opening daily exercises in the public schools, essentially religious services, thus constituting an "establishment of religion" in violation of the U.S. Constitution?

This issue cannot be discussed knowledgeably without going back to its deep-rooted sources in American history.

THE ROOTS OF RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

The guarantees of full religious liberty governing our country today developed slowly and painfully.

1. From Persecution to Toleration

Many of our early colonists came to America in search of freedom from England's governmentally ordained and supported church. But during the century and a half before the American Revolution, most of the Colonies adopted the familiar Old World concept of an established church supported by public funds and legal enforcement of orthodoxy.

—In early Virginia and New England, punishments for heresy were severe. Absence from church services was considered a serious civil offense. Only gradually did the practice of inflicting harsh penalties on dissenters fall into disrepute.

—As late as 1776, at least eight of the 13 colonies had a government-established church—either Anglican or Congregational.

—Although a few early crusaders for freedom of conscience, notably Roger Williams and William Penn, welcomed dissenters and separated church and state in their Colonies, it was not until after the Revolution that the movement toward religious freedom for all, including minority religious groups and non-believers, made significant headway.

2. Church-State Separation Enters the Constitution

Even before the drafting of the Bill of Rights, there was mounting conviction among the Founding Fathers that a union of church and state endangered not only individual freedom, but the institutions of religion and government as well. European experience had proved to the leaders of the American Revolution that in every marriage of religion and government, one partner dominated to the detriment of the other. Where the state was all-powerful, the churches became the agent of government, and religious dissent became synonymous with disloyalty. Where the church dominated, civil authority was used to enforce particular beliefs, and political criticism became synonymous with heresy.

Leaders in the drive to write the separation principle into law were James Madison and Thomas Jefferson:

> We maintain, therefore, that in matters of religion no man's right is abridged by the institution of civil society; and that religion is wholly exempt from its cognizance.
> —James Madison, A Memorial and Remonstrance on the Religious Rights of Man, 1778.

The first major step in the development of church-state separation was the Virginia Statute of Religious Liberty, drafted by Jefferson and enacted in 1786:

> . . . no man shall be compelled to frequent or support any religious worship, place or ministry whatever, nor shall . . . suffer on account of his religious opinions or beliefs, but that all men shall be free to profess, and by argument to maintain, their opinions in matters of religion, and that the same shall in no wise diminish, enlarge or affect their civil capacities.

Finally came the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, written by Madison and adopted as part of the Bill of Rights (1791):

> Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof . . .

These few words are known as the religion clauses of the First Amendment. The first ten words—called the establishment clause — build, in the words of Jefferson, "a wall of separation between church and state."[5] The last six words — called the free exercise clause—assure the right to hold religious beliefs, to worship at will, and to educate one's own children in the faith of one's choice.

It is the first clause—"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion"—that is being interpreted by the U.S. Supreme Court in the two current cases.

[5]Letter to the Danbury Baptists, 1802.

THE SUPREME COURT DEFINES "SEPARATION"

For a century and a half, the Supreme Court was rarely called upon to interpret the religion clauses of the First Amendment. It was not until 1940 that the Court had occasion to hold those clauses binding on the states as well as the Federal Government under the 14th Amendment.

Since 1947, there has been a steady flow of cases. Within 15 years, the Supreme Court spoke out on the establishment clause six times. Two decisions were outside the field of education.[6] Four dealt with the separation principle as it applies to religion and education:

1. The Court Defines Establishment (Everson v. Board of Education)

In 1947, in a 5-4 decision, the Court held that New Jersey could provide free bus transportation to children attending private — including church-related — schools. Free bus rides to parochial schools were viewed as a service to the child, not to the religious institution, and hence were judged not in violation of the separation principle. In interpreting that principle, the Court, speaking through Justice Hugo Black, laid down the following list of specific prohibitions:

> Neither a state nor the Federal Government can set up a church. Neither can pass laws which aid one religion, aid all religions, or prefer one religion over another. Neither can force nor influence a person to go to church or to remain away from church against his will or force him to profess a belief or disbelief in any religion. No person can be punished for entertaining or professing religious beliefs or disbeliefs, for church attendance or non-attendance. No tax in any amount, large or small, can be levied to support any religious activities or institutions, whatever they may be called, or whatever form they may adopt to teach or practice religion. Neither a state nor the Federal Government can, openly or secretly, participate in the affairs of any religious organizations or groups or vice versa. In the words of Jefferson, the clause was intended to erect "a wall of separation between church and state."

2. The Court Reiterates the Definition (McCollum v. Board of Education)

In 1948, the Everson definition of the establishment clause was the Court's frame of reference for declaring unconstitutional the released-time program of religious education held on public-school premises in Champaign, Illinois.

3. The Court Carves an Exception (Zorach v. Clauson)

In 1952, in a 6-3 decision, the Court upheld the constitutionality of New York's released-time program, which involved religious education off public-school premises. This decision caused some confusion and encouraged some religious leaders to reassert that the First Amendment does not bar non-preferential aid to religion.

The majority opinion, written by Justice William O. Douglas, did say, "We follow the McCollum case." But it also said, "We are a religious people whose institutions presuppose a Supreme Being." As a caution, the ruling stressed that public authorities may not "undertake religious instruction nor blend secular and sectarian instruction."

4. The Court Clarifies (Engel v. Vitale)

In 1962, in a 6-1 decision, the Court reaffirmed once again the far-reaching 1947 interpretation of the separation principle, holding that the required recital of an official prayer[7] in New York public schools was unconstitutional. Justice Black, again speaking for the majority, declared:

> [The establishment clause] stands as an expression of principle on the part of the Founders of our Constitution that religion is

---

[6]It is unconstitutional to require belief in God as a condition to holding public office (Torcaso v. Watkins, 1961). Sunday closing laws do not constitute an establishment of religion (McGowan v. Maryland, 1961).

[7]"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence on Thee, and we beg Thy blessing upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

too personal, too sacred, too holy, to permit its "unhallowed perversion" by a civil magistrate.

. . . each separate government in this country should stay out of the business of writing or sanctioning official prayers and leave that purely religious function to the people themselves and to those the people choose to look to for religious guidance.

Significance of the Regents' Prayer Decision

Public opinion is divided as to precisely what prayers and religious references are banned—or permitted—by the Court's ruling in Engel v. Vitale. Disagreement ranges from one extreme to another.

The Narrow Interpretation: That the 1962 decision rules out of the public schools only state-composed prayers.

This view overlooks the broad compass of Justice Black's majority opinion. Seemingly the Court had more in mind than prayers written by state officials, since it cautioned expressly against any prescribed prayers:

> The first amendment was added to the Constitution to stand as a guarantee that neither the power nor the prestige of the Federal Government would be used to control, support or influence the kinds of prayer the American people can say . . .
>
> . . . government in this country, be it state or federal, is without power to prescribe by law the particular form of prayer which is to be used as an official prayer in carrying out any program of governmentally sponsored religious activity.

The Broad Interpretation: That the decision is a sweeping ban against all references to a Supreme Being in public life.

This does not take into consideration a footnote clearly to the contrary in Justice Black's ruling:

> There is of course nothing in the decision reached here that is inconsistent with the fact that school children and others are officially encouraged to express love for our country by reciting historical documents such as the Declaration of Independence which contain references to the Deity or by singing officially espoused anthems which include the composer's professions of faith in a Supreme Being, or with the fact that there are many manifestations in our public life of belief in God. Such patriotic or ceremonial occasions bear no true resemblance to the unquestioned religious exercise that the State of New York has sponsored in this instance.

A careful reading of the decision suggests: The Court's actual intent lies somewhere between these two extremes. The Regents' Prayer decision does more than merely forbid state-composed prayers in the schools—and does less than rule out all references to God from public life.

ARGUMENTS PRO AND CON

Those in favor of the Lord's Prayer and Bible reading as part of public-school exercises generally argue that these practices (1) enrich young people spiritually and strengthen their moral values; and (2) do not violate the establishment clause, being neither sectarian nor compulsory.

Those in opposition reason that these exercises (1) breach the wall of separation between church and state by officially imposing a sectarian "religion" on public-school children; and (2) violate sound educational and religious principles, with both public education and religion suffering as a result.

The following rundown presents the principal arguments on each side.

For Prayers and Bible Reading in the Public Schools

- The Founding Fathers did not intend to exclude all religious content from civic life. To ban recitation of the Lord's Prayer and reading of the Bible is to deny children the right to share in their country's spiritual heritage.
- A brief prayer or reading from the Bible at the start of the school day gives an uplifting tone to all school activities and strengthens traditional moral and religious values.
- Bible reading familiarizes children with lessons which the Bible alone is capable of imparting with authority.

- It is not enough to study the Bible as part of the world's great literature. It should be used for continued spiritual inspiration as the mainspring of faith, the base upon which our great Western religions were founded.
- Even if some youngsters do not understand the selected excerpts, they serve as a minimal symbolic recognition of the place of religion in our culture.
- The Lord's Prayer expresses a devotion shared by all who believe in one God.
- Since the Bible is read without comment, and pupils are given a choice of the King James or Douay version, the simple reading of a passage is not a sectarian exercise.
- Since students may be excused for reasons of conscience, religious freedom is preserved.
- Prayers and Bible reading reflect the religious commitment of the majority of Americans. Religious freedom is infringed when a minority persuades the Court to rule religion out of the public schools.
- Government is not required to be hostile to religion, but to be neutral among the various beliefs that Americans profess.

Against Prayers and Bible Reading in the Public Schools

- Any prayer is an act of devotion, a basic avowal of faith. The Bible is recognized as the Word of God by those who sponsor its use in the schools. The requirement that a passage be read "without comment" is acknowledgment of the religious nature of the work. Thus the opening exercises are clearly religious.
- Devotional exercises in the public schools blend the secular and religious, constituting an aid to religion banned by the establishment clause.
- When state agencies place their stamp of approval on particular religious exercises, these exercises are given special status.
- Majority rule cannot impose a state-sanctioned religion in public education; under the establishment clause, no orthodoxy may ever gain preference over unorthodoxy.
- The Lord's Prayer, so named because it was set forth by Jesus as a prayer for his followers, is a sectarian, Christian prayer.
- The necessary choice of which Bible to use as the school text reopens a historic conflict: Catholics have objected to the King James version; Jews have objected to passages of the New Testament; nonbelievers have objected to any version of the Bible being presented as the Word of God.
- The Bible should have a place in the school curriculum. Just as young people become acquainted with sacred music or religious art, so they should study the Bible in the context of literature and history. This is, however, quite different from using the Bible for religious stimulation.
- It is pedagogically unsound to read passages from the Scriptures which are not understood by many children, since explanatory comment is forbidden.
- When, for reasons of conscience, a school child is excused from participating in the prayer or reading, the situation is psychologically damaging. If he absents himself, he is branded as "different"; thus the public school, ideally a unifying force, is cast into a divisive role. If he remains despite his personal convictions, the school is then guilty of encouraging hypocrisy.
- A desire to keep religious practices out of the schools should not be equated with hostility to religion. The aim of separating the two institutions is to strengthen and enrich both.
- Laws and school directives that make prayer recitation and Bible reading part of classroom routine do not foster sincere devotion. By requiring participation in "public-school" or "least-common-denominator" religious exercises, the schools encourage surface piety rather than true religious commitment and inner response. Religion flourishes best when nurtured by the church and the home, free of official coercion.

Whatever the outcome of the Court's deliberations may be in the present cases, the forthcoming ruling will mark yet another effort to clarify American church-state relationships—for the greater benefit of religion and democracy.

The goal, for the Court as for all Americans, was summarized in 1960 by President John F. Kennedy:

> I believe in an America that is officially neither Catholic, Protestant nor Jewish . . . where no religious body seeks to impose its will directly or indirectly upon the general populace or the public acts of its officials . . . where religious intolerance will someday end—where all men and all churches are treated as equal—where every man has the right to attend or not to attend the church of his choice.

The problem of religion in education is a vital national concern. Like many other problems, it can be best met by a thoughtful citizenry armed with facts and an understanding of the basic issues at stake.

The American Jewish Committee, founded in 1906, is a pioneer human-relations organization dedicated to combating bigotry, safeguarding the civil and religious rights of Jews here and abroad, and advancing those rights for all people of all religions and ancestries.

THE AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE

INSTITUTE OF HUMAN RELATIONS • 165 E. 56 ST., NEW YORK 22, N. Y.

The Committee raises the funds for its diversified human-relations program at home and abroad through its nationwide Appeal for Human Relations

Second printing,
April 1963

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF GEORGIA

Number 21655

L. J. O'CALLAGHAN, et al., as members of the Board of Education of the City of Atlanta,

Plaintiffs in Error,

- against -

CARLA C. AIKENS, a minor
by A. T. AIKENS, n/b/f,

Defendant in Error.

BRIEF OF THE ATLANTA CHAPTER OF AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE; EXECUTIVE BOARD, GEORGIA COUNCIL OF CHURCHES; SOUTHEASTERN REGION OF ANTI-DEFAMATION LEAGUE OF B'NAI B'RITH; EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, UNITED CHURCH WOMEN OF GEORGIA; THE BISHOP AND THE STANDING COMMITTEE OF THE EPISCOPAL DIOCESE OF ATLANTA; AND ATLANTA JEWISH COMMUNITY COUNCIL.

AS AMICI CURIAE

MORRIS B. ABRAM
HERMAN HEYMAN
CHARLES F. WITTENSTEIN
JAMES MACKAY
SAMUEL L. EPLAN
LANIER RANDALL
EDWIN L. STERNE
CHARLES W. BERGMAN
JUSTIN J. FINGER
Attorneys for Amici Curiae

Before Scotus

Regents Prayer = NY = Non-sec. prayer...

Schempp Case = Pa = Statute on Bible reading...

Caseamended = Excuse as in Ga —

Scotus sent back for another look

Ruled unconst. again appealed now —

Ga: Reading req. by law...

can be excused from listening...

News Release From:

Executive Board,
Georgia Council of Churches
Executive Committee,
United Church Women of Georgia
Atlanta Jewish Community Council
The Bishop and The Standing Committee of the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta
Atlanta Chapter,
American Jewish Committee
Southeastern Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith

For Further Information:

Charles Wittenstein, Ja. 3-8451
Rev. Edward Driscoll, Ja. 4-0971
Richard M. Shapiro, Ja. 3-1618

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Six organizations today filed a joint brief in the Georgia Supreme Court attacking the use of public funds to support private sectarian education. The brief was signed by the Executive Board, Georgia Council of Churches, Executive Committee, United Church Women of Georgia, Atlanta Jewish Community Council, The Bishop and the Standing Committee of the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta, the Atlanta Chapter, American Jewish Committee, and the Southeastern Regional Board of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

The brief is believed to be the first such cooperative action in Georgia by the organizations involved.

Signers of the friend of the court brief said they share a common commitment to "separation of church and state in the interests of both," and to a belief in religious liberty for all. They stated their organizations are composed of members who have a positive attitude toward the role of religion in modern society and devoutly worship God.

The brief supported the position being taken by the Atlanta Board of Education in Aikens v. O'Callaghan, the first test case arising under the Georgia tuition grant law. The Board is seeking reversal of a decision in the Fulton Superior Court awarding Carla Aikens a grant of tax-raised funds to attend the Arlington Schools, a private institution.

While there are numerous issues in the case, the six local organizations stated they confined the brief to the relationship of church and state.

The tuition grant law, passed in 1961 and amended in 1962, limits educational grants "for the purpose of attending a private, non-sectarian school." The Christian and Jewish groups argue that both the Federal and State Constitutions prohibit the use of tuition grants in a religiously oriented and sectarian school, such as Arlington.

Among the precedents cited in the brief is the case of Bennett v. City of La Grange, decided in 1922. In that case the Georgia Supreme Court held unconstitutional the payment of money by the City Government of La Grange to the Salvation Army for welfare work. The Salvation Army, the court pointed out, teaches "Christian truth" and is therefore sectarian.

Arlington's promotion brochure states that it is: "An educational institution where Christian faith and living are reflected in policy, practices, and persons." The school also gives courses in Sacred Studies and Bible and teaches the divinity of Jesus. In the opinion of the filing organizations, such a curriculum makes Arlington as sectarian as the Salvation Army, and therefore ineligible for public funds. The brief cites another decision of the Georgia Supreme Court which held that the City of Savannah could not grant funds to a Catholic hospital.

In the present case, the evidence shows that the money requested by

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
Interest of the Amici	1
Statement of the Case	3
Argument	4
I--Use of public funds in aid or support of religious schools violates both Federal and State constitutions	4
A. The Federal Constitution	4
B. The Georgia Constitution	10
II--The Arlington Schools is a religious and a sectarian institution	14
A. The testimony of Reverend Mr. Crowe	15
B. The testimony of Headmaster Owens	15
C. The testimony of Reverend Mr. Simmons	19
III--The public funds here in issue are intended to pay the educational expenses of Plaintiff below for attendance at the Arlington Schools and the Order of the Superior Court authorizes such use	22
Conclusion	26
Appendix	27

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Cases:	Page
Bennett v. City of La Grange, 153 Ga. 428 (1922)	13, 13A, 21
Cantwell v. Connecticut, 310 U.S. 296 (1940)	4
Clithero v. Showwalter, 159 Wash. 519; 293 Pac. 1000 (1930)	13A
Dickman v. School District No. 62C, 366 P. 2d 533 (Oregon, 1961)	9
Donahoe v. Richard, 38 Me. 379 (1854)	13A
Evans v. Selma Union High School District of Fresno Co., 193 Cal. 54; 222 Pac. 610 (1924)	13
Everson v. Board of Education, 330 U.S. 1 (1947)	4, 5, 6, 8, 12, 25
Gerhardt v. Heid, 66 N.D. 444; 267 N.W. 127 (1936)	13
Gurney v. Ferguson, 190 Okla. 254; 122 P. 2d 1002 (1941)	11
Hackett v. Brooksville Graded School District, 120 Ky. 609; 87 S. W. 792	13A
Herold v. Parish Board of School Directors, 136 La. 1034; 68 So. 116	13A
Matthews v. Quinton, 362 P. 2d 932 (Alaska, 1961); app. dismissed, Feb. 19, 1962, 30 USLW 3256	9, 11
McCollum v. Board of Education, 333 U.S. 203 (1948)	2, 4, 5
McGowan v. Maryland, 366 U.S. 420 (1961)	5
McVey v. Hawkins, 364 Mo. 44, 258 S.W. 2d 927 (1953)	9, 10
Murdock v. Pennsylvanis, 319 U. S. 105 (1943)	4
People ex rel. Ring v. Board of Education, 245 Ill. 334; 92 N.E. 251 (1910)	13A
People ex rel. Vollmer v. Stanley, 81 Colo. 276; 255 Pac. 601 (1927)	13A
Richter v. Mayor and Alderman of Savannah, 160 Ga. 178 (1925)	13
Schempp v. School District of Abington Township, 201 F. Supp. 815 (DC, E D Penn., 1962)	13A

Page

Sherrard v. Jefferson County Board of Education, 294 Ky. 469; 171 S.W. 2d 963 (1942) 11

State ex rel. Traub v. Brown, 36 Del. 181; 172 A H. 835 (1934) 11

State ex rel. Weiss v. District Board, 76 Wisc. 177; 44 N.W. 967 (1890) 13A

Swart v. South Burlington Town School District, 167 A.2d (Vt.) 514 (1961) 7, 24

Torcaso v. Watkins, 367 W. S. 488 (1961) 5, 6, 21

U. S. v. Ballard, 322 U. S. 78 (1944) 21

Visser v. Nooksack Valley School District, 33 Wash. 2d 699; 207 P. 2d 198 (1949) 9, 10

West Virginia State Board of Education v. Barnette, 319 U. S. 624 (1934) 7

Wilkerson v. City of Rome, 152 Ga. 762 (1921) 13A, 21

Zorach v. Clauson, 343 U. S. 306 (1952) 5

Constitutions and statutes:

Act of March 15, 1961 (Ga. Laws, 1961, pp. 2417 et seq.) 24

Alaska Constitution 11

California Constitution 13

Education Grants Act (Ga. Laws, 1961, pp. 35-38) 3, 22, 24

Georgia Constitutions:

1777 11

1789 11

1798 11

1945 12, 13

12 Laws of Va. (Hening 1823) 6

Missouri Constitution 10

	Page
North Dakota Constitution	13
Oregon Constitution	9
United States Constitution:
First Amendment	passim
Fourteenth Amendment	3
Washington Constitution	10
Other Authorities:
Attorney General of Georgia, Opinion, April 4, 1947	12
Bryce, The American Commonwealth, 2nd Ed., 1908	2
76 Corpus Juris Secundum 739	13
60 Harvard Law Review 793 (1947)	10
II Madison "Memorial and Remonstrance Against Religious Assessments" (1785)	5
Pfeffer, "Some Current Issues in Church and State", 13 Western Reserve Law Review 18 (Dec., 1961)	7
Rosenfield, "Separation of Church and State in the Public Schools" 22 U. of Pitts. Law Review 561 (Mar., 1961)	9
Webster's Third International Dictionary (1961)	6
50 Yale Law Journal 917 (1941)	10

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF GEORGIA

Number 21655

L.J. O'CALLAHAN, et al., as members of the Board of Education of the City of Atlanta,

Plaintiffs in Error,

- against -

CARLA C. AIKENS, a minor
by A. T. AIKENS, n/b/f,

Defendant in Error.

BRIEF OF THE ATLANTA CHAPTER OF AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE; EXECUTIVE BOARD, GEORGIA COUNCIL OF CHURCHES; SOUTHEASTERN REGION OF ANTI-DEFAMATION LEAGUE OF B'NAI B'RITH; EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, UNITED CHURCH WOMEN OF GEORGIA; THE BISHOP AND THE STANDING COMMITTEE OF THE EPISCOPAL DIOCESE OF ATLANTA; AND ATLANTA JEWISH COMMUNITY COUNCIL

AS AMICI CURIAE

INTEREST OF THE AMICI

This case places in issue the constitutionality, under both state and Federal constitutions, of using tax-raised funds appropriated for the operation of the public schools to support private schools which teach from a religious and sectarian viewpoint. We deem it appropriate, at this point, to state that the membership of the organizations which appear herein as amici, and which are described briefly in the Appendix, consists of large numbers of people who have a positive attitude toward the role of religion in modern society and devoutly worship God. But the constituency of the amici also wholeheartedly support the public policy of our state and Federal constitutions which requires separation of church and state in the interest of both. This policy rests upon the premise "that both religion and government can best work to achieve their lofty aims if each is left free from the other within its respective sphere." McCollum v. Board of Education, 333 U.S. 203, 212 (1948). This policy also is the firmest safeguard of religious freedom for all.

One of the oldest and gravest threats to the independence of both the church and the state is the use of public funds to aid religious institutions. The importance of this issue to the American public is highlighted by the current debate over the use of federal funds to subsidize parochial schools.

It is for these reasons that the amici view with deep concern the decision of the trial judge in the Fulton Superior Court which would authorize the use of tax-raised funds to support the Arlington Schools, a sectarian institution. The decision, if upheld, would create a dangerous precedent which could be used to weaken or destroy the American tradition of separation of church and state which has been characterized by Bryce in The American Commonwealth as perhaps "the most salient...of all the differences between the Old World and the New." (2nd Ed., 1908, at 643).

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Legislature of Georgia in 1961 enacted the Education Grants Act (Georgia Laws, 1961, pp35-38). This statute declares that every school child, in lieu of attending the public school, shall be entitled to receive a grant of public funds "to be expended for the purpose of attending a non-sectarian private school." The statute was enacted to provide a means by which a child who was unwilling to attend a desegregated public school in his district could obtain state financial assistance to enable him to attend a private nonsectarian school of his choice.

The Plaintiff, Carla C. Aikens, a student of the Arlington Schools in Atlanta, petitioned the Superior Court for a writ of mandamus directing the Board of Education of the City of Atlanta to pay over to her the amount of public funds called for by the statute to help finance her education in that school. The Board of Education resisted the demand on a number of grounds. This brief deals only with one of those grounds--that involving the use of public funds to aid the Plaintiff to obtain an education in the Arlington Schools which is a religious and sectarian institution.

During the trial evidence was taken on the nature of the Arlington Schools, its purpose, policies, curriculum and teaching practices. At the conclusion of the trial, the trial judge ruled in favor of the Plaintiff and issued the writ. In his order, giving the reasons for his determination, he held that Arlington Schools is a nonsectarian school. An appeal was taken by the Board of Education from that order. The amici herein take issue with that part of the determination of the trial judge that the Arlington Schools is nonsectarian and the bases used by him to arrive at that conclusion.

The amici realize that other important issues are raised on this appeal by the Plaintiffs in Error, but having a particular interest in the doctrine of the separation of Church and State, they, therefore, limit their discussion to this issue.

ARGUMENT

I. USE OF PUBLIC FUNDS IN AID OR SUPPORT OF RELIGIOUS AND SECTARIAN SCHOOLS VIOLATES BOTH FEDERAL AND STATE CONSTITUTIONS.

A. THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION

The First Amendment to the Federal Constitution provides, in part, as follows:

> Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof...

This provision against action by Congress has been held equally applicable to action by the states or any of their political subdivisions, including public school boards. Cantwell v. Connecticut, 310 U.S. 296 (1940); Murdock v. Pennsylvania, 319 U.S. 105 (1943); McCollum v. Board of Education, 333 U.S. 203 (1948).

The meaning of the Establishment of Religion Clause has been spelled out by the United States Supreme Court in Everson v. Board of Education, 333 U.S. 1 (1947), as follows:

> The "establishment of religion" clause of the First Amendment means at least this: Neither a state nor the Federal Government can set up a church. Neither can pass laws which aid one religion, aid all religions, or prefer one religion over another. Neither can force nor influence a person to go to or to remain away from church against his will or force him to profess a belief or disbelief in any religion. No person can be punished for entertaining or professing religious beliefs, for church attendance or non-attendance.

> No tax in any amount, large or small, can be levied to support any religious activities or institutions, whatever they may be called, or whatever form they may adopt to teach or practice religion. Neither a state nor the Federal Government can, openly or secretly, participate in the affairs of any religious organizations or groups and vice versa. In the words of Jefferson, the clause against establishment of religion by law was intended to erect a "wall of separation between Church and State." Id., at 15-16.

There was no disagreement between the majority and minority opinions in Everson concerning that meaning. The U.S. Supreme Court noted such agreement in McCollum v. Board of Education, supra, at 211, and in Torcaso v. Watkins, 367, U.S. 488, 493 (1961). This interpretation of the Establishment Clause was reaffirmed in McGowan v. Maryland, 366 U.S. 420, 443 (1961) and in Torcaso, supra, at 492-3.

By the frequent reassertion of this broad interpretation of the Establishment Clause, the United States Supreme Court has rejected all efforts, such as by the Supreme Court of Maryland in Torcaso, to narrow or restrict the meaning of that clause.

One form of government action expressly prohibited in the above interpretation of the Establishment Clause in Everson, McCollum, McGowan and Torcaso, is the use of tax-raised funds "to support any religious activities or institutions, whatever they may be called, or whatever form they may adopt to teach or practice religion." Also in Zorach v. Clauson, 343 U.S, 306 (1952) where the U.S. Supreme Court "followed the McCollum case" (Id., at 315) the Court's opinion expressly stated that "government may not finance religious groups..." Id, at 314.

This view of the sweep of the First Amendment is traceable directly to Madison's "Memorial and Remonstrance against Religious Assessments" which he promulgated in 1785 against a bill in Virginia for an assessment for the support of "Teachers of the Christian religion." In one of the fifteen arguments advanced by Madison against the assessment bill, he said:

> Who does not see that the same authority which can establish Christianity, in exclusion of all other Religions, may establish with the same ease any particular sect of Christians, in exclusion of all other Sects? That the same authority which can force a citizen to contribute three pence only of his property for the support of any one establishment, may force him to conform to any other establishment in all cases whatsoever? II Madison, 183-191, cited by Rutledge in Everson, supra, at 63, 65-66.

In the Virginia statute establishing religious freedom, which was enacted following the defeat of the Assessment Bill, it was stated that "To compel a man to furnish contributions of money for the propagation of opinions which he disbelieves is sinful and tyrannical" 12 Laws of Va. 80 (Hening 1823).

Webster's Third New International Dictionary (1961) defines "Religion" as "One of the systems of faith and worship". In its discussion of synonyms the Dictionary defines "Religion" as "a general term esp. applicable to the great revelations and the larger subdivisions among their believers (the Christian religion) (the Roman Catholic or Methodist religion)." Id., at 1918.

Clearly, then, judicial decision, history and tradition, and generally accepted usage support the conclusion that the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment was intended to prohibit use of public funds to aid any religious institution including one governed in its policies and practices by the Christian faith.

The use of public funds to aid institutions governed in their policies and practices by the Christian faith would force adherents of the non-Christian faiths to contribute through taxation to the support of religious institutions whose tenets they disapprove. This is one of the very evils that the First Amendment was designed to avoid. 1/

Under the First Amendment public aid to any religious institution is prohibited. The ban is not limited to denominations or divisions within the major religious faiths. Such an interpretation would, in effect, prefer the larger religious groups over smaller groups which regard their particular tenets as sufficiently different to justify their setting themselves up as separate denominations within the larger group. Such a limited interpretation of the prohibition of the First Amendment would pervert its intent. It would tend to perpetuate orthodoxy and discourage dissent. As Mr. Justice Jackson stated eloquently in West Virginia State Board of Education v. Barnette, 319, U.S. 624 (1943):

> If there is any fixed star in our constitutional constellation, it is that no official, high or petty, can prescribe what shall be orthodox in politics, nationalism, religion, or other matters of opinion or force citizens to confess by word or act their faith therein. If there are any circumstances which permit an exception, they do not now occur to us. Id, at 642.

No authority would appear to be needed to establish that the use of public funds to provide operating expenses for a religious institution or school would be aid prohibited under the First Amendment. One of the prime sources of operating funds for private schools is tuition payments. The Supreme Court of Vermont had no difficulty in holding that the state could not use its public funds to provide tuition payments on behalf of children attending Catholic parochial schools. Swart v. South Burlington Town School District, 167, A. 2d (Vt.) 514 (1961). The Vermont Court ruled that the use of tax-

---

1. "The most serious infringement upon religious liberty before our Federal Bill of Rights was adopted was the use of tax-raised funds for religious purposes." Pfeffer, Leo, "Some Current Issues in Church and State", 13 Western Reserve Law Review 18 (Dec., 1961).

raised funds to pay tuition was public support to the private school in the performance of its educational function, which was "inseparate" from its religious function. It thus distinguished tuition payments from payments for bus transportation of children to and from religious schools, which was the form of aid in issue in the Everson case. In Everson, the United States Supreme Court upheld a New Jersey statute providing for reimbursement of parents for the transportation costs of sending their children to parochial schools. The majority opinion considered the transportation of children to and from the school as a form of "government service" to protect children against highway hazards, similar to "ordinary police and fire protection" and separate and distinct from the religious function of the school. While the Court recognized that the school might secure some indirect benefit from the public financing of such service, as indeed it does from police and fire protection, it did not regard such remote benefits as running afoul of the First Amendment to the Federal Constitution. Thus, the Court based its decision on the theory that the aid provided by the state was for the benefit of the child and not of the religious school. Nevertheless, the Supreme Court emphasized that the New Jersey statute "approaches the verge" of the state's power to provide for the safety of its children. It expressly stated that New Jersey could not "contribute tax-raised funds to the support of an institution which teaches the tenets and faith of any church." Everson v. Board of Education, supra, at 16-17.

That the "child benefit theory" of Everson cannot be extended beyond public financing of transportation to and from parochial schools [2] was recently emphasized in Dickman v. School District No. 62C, 366 P. 2d 533 (Oregon, 1961), where the state Supreme Court said:

> The difficulty with this theory is, however, that unless it is qualified in some way it can be used to justify the expenditure of public funds for every educational purpose, because all educational aids are of benefit to the pupil. Id, at 539-40.

The Oregon Court saw a more meaningful line of demarcation between permitted and forbidden aid in the distinction between public benefits conferred upon religious institutions to aid them in their religious functions and public benefits which such institutions enjoy in common with all other community institutions. [3] "The benefits of police and fire protection, sewage disposal, and other community financed services accrue to churches, not as religious organizations but as owners of property in the community." Id, at 543.

Predicated upon this distinction, the Supreme Court of Oregon struck down a state statute which required the public school boards to provide free text books for children attending the parochial schools. The Court held that the statute violated Article I, Section 5 of the Oregon Constitution which, like Article I, Secrion I, Paragraph XIV, of the Georgia Constitution, prohibits use of state funds for the benefit of religious institutions.

---

2. Several state supreme courts, since the Everson decision, rejected the theory that free transportation to religious schools could be justified as a benefit to the child. Visser v. Nooksack, Valley School District, 33 Wash. 2d 699; 207 P. 2d 198 (1949); McVey v. Hawkins, 364 Mo. 44; 258 S.W. 2d 927 (1953); Matthews v. Quinton, 362 P. 2d (Alaska, 1961); app. dismissed, February 19, 1962, 30 USLW 3256.

3. See also, Rosenfield, Harry N., "Separation of Church and State in the Public Schools", 22 U. of Pitts. Law Review 561, 580 (Mar. 1961).

B. THE GEORGIA CONSTITUTION

At least 46 of the state constitutions prohibit the appropriation of public funds to schools controlled by religious organizations. 50 Yale Law Journal 917 (1941). See, also, 60 Harvard Law Review 793, 794, (1947). Many of these state constitutional limitations are more specific than the language of the First Amendment to the Federal Constitution. The highest state courts in a number of jurisdictions have interpreted their state constitutions as imposing stricter limitations on the use of public funds than those imposed by the First Amendment as interpreted by the United States Supreme Court.

Thus, in 1949 the Washington Supreme Court, in interpreting that State's constitution, said:

> ...we must, in light of the clear provisions of our state constitution and our decisions thereunder, respectfully disagree with those portions of the Everson majority opinion which might be construed, in the abstract, as stating that transportation, furnished at public expense, to children attending religious schools, is not in support of such schools. While the degree of support necessary to constitute an establishment of religion under the First Amendment to the Federal constitution is foreclosed from consideration by reason of the decision in the Everson case, supra, we are constrained to hold that the Washington constitution although based upon the same precepts, is a clear denial of the rights herein asserted by appellants. Visser v. Nooksack Valley School District, supra. 2/

Similarly, the Supreme Court of Missouri, also subsequent to the Everson decision, rejected the child benefit theory and ruled that transportation of parochial school children on public school buses violated the state constitution. McVey v. Hawkins, supra. 2/

Alaska, as recently as last year, followed the above mentioned state courts, as well as pre-Everson decisions of Delaware, Oklahoma and

Kentucky, 4/ when it held that the transportation of school children to non-public schools at public expense, would violate the Alaska constitution. Matthews v. Quinton, supra. 2/

From its very inception as a state, Georgia's constitution contained strict requirements of separation of state and church. The constitution of 1777 provided that "All persons whatever shall have the free exercise of their religion; provided it be not repugnant to the peace and safety of the State; and shall not, unless by consent, support any teacher or teachers except those of their own profession." The next constitution, adopted in 1789, contained the following clause: "All persons shall have the free exercise of religion, without being obliged to contribute to the support of any religious profession but their own."

The constitution of 1798 contained the following section to guarantee separation of church and state in Georgia:

> Sec. 10. No person within this State shall, upon any pretense, be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshipping God in a manner agreeable to his own conscience, nor be compelled to attend any place of worship contrary to his own faith and judgment; nor shall he ever be obliged to pay tiths, taxes, or any other rate, for the building or repairing any place of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister of ministry, contrary to what he believes to be right, or hath voluntarily engaged to do. No one religious society shall ever be established in this State, in preference to another, nor shall any person be denied the enjoyment of any civil right merely on account of his religious principles.

The strong tradition of separation in Georgia finds expression in the present constitution which contains three paragraphs dealing with religious freedom and non-establishment.

---

4. State ex rel. Traub v. Brown, 36 Del. 181; 172 Atl. 835 (1934); Gurney v. Ferguson, 190 Okla. 254, 122 P. 2d. 1002 (1941); Sherrard v. Jefferson County Board of Education, 294 Ky. 469; 171 S.W. 2d. 963 (1942).

These paragraphs were taken from the constitution of 1877 and appear in Article I, Section I of the constitution of 1945. They read as follows:

> Paragraph XII. All men have the natural and inalienable right to worship God, each according to the dictates of his own conscience, and no human authority should in any case control or interfere with such right of conscience. (Sec. 2-112, Book I, Ann. Code of Ga.).
>
> Paragraph XIII. No inhabitant of this State shall be molested in person or property, or prohibited from holding any public office or trust, on account of his religious opinions; but the right of liberty of conscience shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace and safety of the State. (Sec. 2-113, op. cit.)
>
> Paragraph XIV. No money shall ever be taken from the public treasury, directly or indirectly, in aid of any church, sect, or denomination of religionists, or of any sectarian institution. (Sec. 2-114, op. cit.)

We turn to a discussion of Paragraph XIV, which must be the basis for the decision in this case. We note that this prohibition on establishment is much more specific than in the First Amendment of the Federal constitution.

First, public funds may not be used "directly or indirectly" to aid religious groups or institutions. The prohibition on the indirect use of public funds to aid religious groups indicates that Georgia belongs with that group of states which prohibits the use of public funds to pay for the transportation of children to and from parochial schools, since such subsidy is at the very least an "indirect" benefit to the school. Everson v. Board of Education, supra, at 18. The Attorney General of Georgia has so held in an opinion dated April 4, 1947, subsequent to the Everson decision.

Secondly, the terms "church, sect, or denomination of religionists" describe in the broadest language the groups barred from receiving public benefits. The juxtaposition of the word "sect" with "church" and "denomination of religionists" make it clear that "sect" and "sectarian" appearing in the same sentence are used in their broad meaning. This broad meaning of "sectarian" describes "the activities of the followers of one faith as related to those of adherents of another". 76 Corpus Juris Secundum 739.

It was this broad definition of "sectarian" that the Supreme Courts of California and North Dakota referred to in interpreting their constitutions' prohibitions on the use of public funds for sectarian purposes or institutions. Evans v. Selma Union High School District of Fresno Co., 193 Cal. 54; 222 P. 610 (1924); Gerhardt v. Heid, 66 N.D. 444; 267 N.W. 127 (1936).

This broad definition of the adjective "sectarian" was adopted by this Court in its opinion in Bennett v. City of LaGrange, 153 Ga. 428 (1922). There, after asking whether the Salvation Army was a "sectarian institution", this Court proceeded to define the term "religious sect" in its broad sense as meaning a group which subscribes to "a common system of faith". Id., at 433. Based on such broad definition of the terms "sect" and "sectarian" it held the Salvation Army to be sectarian in that > ...it preaches the gospel of Christ, and undertakes to disseminate Christian truth, in all probability the peculiar doctrines and tenets of some branch of Protestantism, in preference to Catholicism, the doctrines of the Jewish religion, Mohammedanism, and the various other religions of the world. The fact that it undertakes to disseminate Christian truth, which many people believe to be the highest and holiest form of religion, does not render it unsectarian. Id., at 433-434.

The Bennett case was followed by this Court in Richter v. Mayor and Alderman of Savannah, 160 Ga. 178 (1925) where a contribution of public funds to a Roman Catholic hospital was held unconstitutional.

The trial judge relies primarily upon language found in the majority opinion of Wilkerson v. City of Rome, 152 Ga. 762. The Wilkerson case involved the constitutionality of an ordinance of the City of Rome which provided for the reading in the public schools of the city of an extract from the King James' version of the Bible without comment and the giving of a brief prayer at the opening of school exercises. State courts have differed in the conclusions reached on this subject. 5/ The opinion in the Wilkerson case must be read in the light of the issue with which it dealt. This is made clear when this case is compared with Bennett v. City of LaGrange, supra, which was decided by a court composed of the same justices only three months after the decision in the Wilkerson case. There is a substantial difference between the reading of a brief passage from the Bible without comment and the furnishing of tuition for attendance at a religious and sectarian school. In the next subdivision of this brief we refer to the evidence which clearly establishes that the Arlington school is such a sectarian institution. We quote again from Bennett v. City of LaGrange, supra, where the court points out "The fact that it undertakes to disseminate Christian truth, which many people believe to be the highest and holiest form of religion, does not render it unsectarian."

---

5. The highest courts of a number of states have differed in public school Bible reading cases arising under their constitutions. See the following cases cited in the lower court's Order: Hackett v. Brooksville Graded School District, 120 Ky. 608; 87 S.W. 792 (1905); People ex rel. Vollmer v. Stanley, 81 Colo. 276; 255 Pac. 601 (1927); Donahoe v. Richard, 38 Me. 379 (1854). But see, People ex rel. Ring v. Board of Education, 245 Ill. 334; 92 N.E. 251 (1910); Herold v. Parish Board of School Directors, 136 La. 1034, 60 So. 116 (1915); State ex. rel. Weiss v. District Board, 76 Wisc. 177; 44 N.W. 967 (1890); Clithero v. Showwalter, 159 Wash. 519; 293 Pac. 1000 (1930). The most recent decision is that of the Federal District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, Schempp v. School District of Abington Township, 201 F. Supp. 815, Feb. 5, 1962, which held Bible reading in the public schools violative of the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment of the United States Constitution.

II. THE ARLINGTON SCHOOLS IS A RELIGIOUS AND A SECTARIAN INSTITUTION.

The Arlington Schools described its character, policies and objectives in a brochure entitled "General Information - Philosophy" which had as its obvious purpose to inform the general public of the nature of the institution. Defendants' Exhibit 3, Record, Page 559. This brochure was prepared and published before the start of the controversy which gave rise to this action. One section of that brochure is addressed to "Parents and Patrons". It lists for their "information", "the Educational Mission of the Arlington School" under roman numerals "I" and "II". The purposes listed under "I" may be described as of a purely secular nature. Given equal rank, under "II" is the following:

> II. To serve our state and nation as an educational institution where Christian faith and living are without apology reflected in policy, practices and persons.

This is a very clear statement that the objective of the Arlington Schools is, in addition to teaching regular secular subjects, to teach and inculcate "Christian faith and living".

By this statement, the school authorities identify the institution as religious and sectarian. Since the statement says forthrightly that the school's policy, practices and persons are governed by "Christian faith and living", which is distinct from non-Christian faiths, the school is sectarian. By the same standards, a school holding itself out as governed by "Jewish faith and living" would be a religious and sectarian institution and non-Jewish children--even though not expressly excluded--would not be expected to be found among the students, just as no non-Christian children are among the students of the Arlington Schools. (Record, page 244.)

The religious and sectarian character of the Arlington Schools is also disclosed by the testimony of Reverend Walter Miller Crowe, Commander Charles Edward Owens, Jr., and Reverend Albert Elliott Simmons, all of whom were witnesses for the Plaintiff, whose veracity the Plaintiff thus vouched for.

A. THE TESTIMONY OF THE REVEREND MR. CROWE

Q. I will ask you if you know whether or not religious instructions are taught, or offered and taught in the Arlington Schools?

A. Yes, sir, religious instruction is given in the Arlington Schools. (Record, p. 179.)

Q. Is it your understanding that those instructions are in the Christian faith, as it is commonly known and administered?

A. Yes, sir, that is my understanding. (Record, p. 180.)

A. It is my understanding that religious teaching is a part of the regular curriculum of the school. (Record, p. 181.)

Q. Reverend Mr. Crowe, now, you say that you gained the impression that the school instructed its students in the Christian faith?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What do you mean by the Christian faith?

A. I mean those things that relate to the Judaic-Christian tradition, as it would generally be held by Christians of any kind regardless of their particular denominational affiliations. (Record, pp. 186-87.)

B. THE TESTIMONY OF HEADMASTER OWENS

Q. Commander, would you not say, that this is a Christian educational institution?

A. Without apology.

Q. The religious studies given tend towards teaching the Christian faith, not by Baptist, Methodist, Episcopalian, and so forth, but Christianity as was more or less defined by Reverend Mr. Crowe on the stand?

A. Yes, sir, within the framework of strictly the Judeo-Christian tradition.

Q. As I understand your testimony, you do not try to mold the mind of this child in the direction of any particular branch of Christianity, as say, Baptist, Methodist, but generally towards the idea of Christianity?

A. That is true, sir.

Q. We are speaking of Christianity there as being that rule of life or living that molds itself after Jesus Christ?

A. Yes, sir. (Record, pp. 196-97.)

Q. Many parents patronize your school so that their children may be properly indoctrinated in the Christian faith?

A. Mr. Latimer, I think, yes, that we would have probably a goodly number of parents that attend our school, have their children attend our school because of the purpose that we do and we are teaching from the Christian point of view, yes. (Record, p. 198.)

Q. ...It is true, is it not, that you do hold yourself out as an educational institution where Christian faith and living are without apology reflected in policy, practices, and persons, and that is so stated in your brochure for Arlington Schools?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I believe, if I am correct, that you made a statement to the effect that your children were indoctrinated in the Christian beliefs?

A. The term, indoctrinated, I may take exception to - - Christian beliefs are presented to them, that precept.

Q. Theology is taught, there are instructions in theological subjects offered at The Arlington Schools?

A. Yes, sir. (Record, pp. 225-26.)

Q. You do have a theologian on your Board of Directors?

A. We have an ordained minister. (Record, p. 223.)

Q. He is a voting member of that Board of Directors?

A. Yes, sir. (Record, p. 223.)

Q. Is it not true, Commander Owens, that your school teaches that Christianity - - not denominational, now, I am not referring to Baptist, Methodist, Episcopalian, but just Christianity - - as defined as being that branch of religion which professes faith in Jesus Christ as the son of God is taught in The Arlington Schools as a way of life?

A. That is true, sir. (Record, p. 227.)

Q. I'll ask you, if The Arlington Schools has religious instructions or any religious instruction in that institution?

A. The courses that are taught in the Bible and the Sacred Studies courses, yes.

Q. The answer, then, would be, yes?

A. Yes, sir. (Record, p. 228.)

Q. (By the Court): What do you mean when you say that Arlington Schools teach religion?

A. I am accepting the definition that religion pertains to the teaching of the Bible, sir; and if religion means teaching the Bible, we are teaching religion, sir.

Q. Mr. Latimer, asked you, if Arlington Schools taught religion; you said, as the Court understood, that it did. The Court wants to know what you mean by that answer.

A. I mean that we teach the Bible and Christianity. (Record, p. 229.)

Q. When you say The Arlington Schools practices religion, what do you mean by that?

A. Judge Pye, if I may venture an opinion, my personal opinion and philosophy: Christianity, being a way of life, I don't think it can be taught pedagogically, as we teach English or algebra. I think it has to be lived, and we attempt to provide a Christian environment for the children in which they can see these precepts and tenets of Christianity in practice, that is, through the life of the school and through the individuals with whom they come in contact. (Record, p. 230.)

Q. The question by the Court, as I recall, was if you prefer one religion above another; and your answer was, no. How do you reconcile that with the fact that in your brochure to your parents, under Roman numeral II, you say this: "To serve our state and nation as an educational institution where Christian faith and living are without apology reflected in policy, practices and persons." Now, does that not imply that you prefer Christianity over another religion?

A. I think we have made the statement, sir, that we are teaching from a Christian point of view. May I elaborate, Mr. Latimer?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. As a man who is interested in children, from the standpoint of teaching, my personal belief is that you can not teach from a neutral point of view. You are either teaching from a Christian or an atheistic point of view. And from this standpoint, sir, we are a Christian school, yes.

Q. Christianity is a religion?

A. Yes, sir, it is a religion.

Q. We all believe that Christianity is a religion, I think?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Court asked you, what do you mean by, that your school teaches religion; as I recall, your answer was: We teach the Bible and Christianity.

A. I was trying to make a point there that when you refer to religion, I wanted to, as a matter of record, it is not a particular religion, religion per se.

Q. Not a particular denomination?

A. Yes, sir - - thank you.

Q. But, we are all agreed, I understand, that you do teach Christianity?

A. Yes, sir. (Record, pp. 234-35.)

Q. Commander Owens, with reference to the reading from the Bible without interpretation, it is true, isn't it, that the whole principle of your school and its philosophy and its way of living is Christianity, or Christian, is it not?

A. Christian oriented.

Q. And is it true that the very fountainhead of Christianity is Jesus Christ?

A. Yes, sir. (Record, pp. 396-97.)

Q. And that your teachings do impart to the students that Christ was the Son of God?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that Christ and the Holy Ghost and God are the Holy Trinity and one and the same?

A. We do not teach the Trinity, sir.

(THE COURT): Now, do you teach anything about the Holy Ghost at all?

A. No, sir. (Record, p. 397.)

C. THE TESTIMONY OF THE REVEREND MR. SIMMONS

Q. What general topic subjects were taught last year in your classes?

A. Last year, I came into the school to fulfill a position of a teacher, that was ill, and I took up the study of a book that they had, which was an outline course on the life of Jesus using the Bible as the textbook, the Gospels as a textbook, and this outline course as a guide of study. (Record, p. 239.)

Q. So, whether the child is getting religious instruction through history or through Sacred Studies, they are still getting the precepts and the principles of Christianity?

A. Yes, sir. (Record, p. 255.)

Q. Do you attempt to influence your students to think that a person believing in any part of the Christian faith, any denomination of the Christian faith, is a better person than a believer of the Jewish faith?

A. As I understand the question, you asked me concerning denominations, whether one denomination is better than another. I think I teach and feel and the whole matter of life is that the Christian faith is more complete, or better, than the Jewish faith, but denominations do not enter in. (Record, p. 263.)

Q. In your particular instruction do you ever attempt, to impress on your students that one religious idea should be preferred over other religious ideas?

A. I think, by implication, I teach that the Christian ideas are to be preferred.

Q. Do you teach that the Roman Catholic ideas are preferable over the ideas of the Church of God, for instance, in religious matters?

A. No, sir. (Record, p. 264.)

The testimony also established that children attending the first through the seventh grades received forty-five minutes instruction each week in Bible Studies. The children in the eighth through eleventh grades received a like amount of instruction in Sacred Studies which was given by Reverend Simmons. (Record, p. 193.) This type of instruction in religion is completely different from the reading, without comment, of one or two short passages from the Bible which was the basis for litigation in the many cases cited in footnote 5, supra. Obviously, then, a forty-five minute course devoted to "Bible Studies" or "Sacred Studies" involves instruction in the Holy Scriptures and is bound to include comment, interpretation and explanation.

The court below placed heavy reliance on the admitted fact that Arlington is not subject to the control of any external religious society. This can hardly be considered controlling in light of the descriptive language of the brochure as to the policy and practices of the school and the heavy religious content of the curriculum as described by the Arlington witnesses.

Also in light of the brochure and the testimony, it is surprising to find in the Order of the Court below the statement that "the contention that Arlington School is sectarian does not rest upon the slightest foundation of evidence." Implicit in the court's Order is the assumption that Arlington is non-sectarian. This is based upon the court's equation of Christianity with morality. Its questioning of witnesses Crowe, Owens and Simmons clearly reflects this interpretation.

There is no doubt that Christianity has made a major contribution to western civilization's concepts of morality, as has Judiasm. However, it is error to equate Christianity with morality. In addition to teaching certain moral precepts, Christianity is a system of faith based on revelation and belief in the divinity of Christ. It is, therefore, a system of faith or religion separate and distinct from religions which are not predicated upon belief in the divinity of Christ, e.g., Judaism, Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Taoism, Shintoism, Hinduism, Zoroastrianism. See, Wilkerson v. City of Rome, supra, at 769, and Torcaso v. Watkins, supra, at footnote 11.

This Court has recognized that an institution predicated upon the Gospel of Christ and disseminating "Christian truth" is a sectarian institution. "The fact that it undertakes to disseminate Christian truth, which many people believe to be the highest and holiest form of religion, does not render it unsectarian." Bennett v. City of LaGrange, supra, at 433-4.

The United States Supreme Court also has recognized that no single religion has won such general acceptance as to be possible of classification as "nonsectarian". "The Fathers of the Constitution were not unaware... of the lack of any one religious creed on which all men would agree... The First Amendment does not select any one group of any one type of religion for preferred treatment." U.S. v. Ballard, 322 U.S. 78, 87 (1944).

The lower court concedes that Arlington teaches what the court calls "General tolerant Christianity." This, it held, is non-sectarian because they do not teach Christianity with a denominational emphasis. In other words, there is no specifically Baptist or Presbyterian content which could make the instruction objectionable to any of the major Protestant denominations. Sectarian, then, is mistakenly equated with denominational.

It is also clear that the kind of common denominator Protestanism taught at Arlington would not be acceptable religious instruction for Catholics, Jews, Moslems, etc. Catholics, in their parochial schools, teach Christianity but from a Catholic viewpoint. Jewish day schools do not teach Christianity at all. They teach Judaism. Therefore, under the logic of the lower court's ruling, it would be unlawful for Catholics and Jews attending their own schools to collect tuition grants, while Protestants could receive them for religious instruction. And it is only "general, tolerant Christianity" which is non-sectarian according to that ruling. "General, tolerant Judaism" presumably would be called sectarian, which it is, but no more so than "general, tolerant Christianity". The conclusion seems inescapable that one faith is being preferred over all others by the construction given the Statute by the trial judge.

III. THE PUBLIC FUNDS HERE IN ISSUE ARE INTENDED TO PAY THE EDUCATIONAL EXPENSES OF PLAINTIFF BELOW FOR ATTENDANCE AT THE ARLINGTON SCHOOLS AND THE ORDER OF THE SUPERIOR COURT AUTHORIZES SUCH USE.

According to the Education Grants Act of 1961 (Georgia Laws, 1961, pp. 35-38) every child between the ages of six and nineteen, who has not been graduated from high school, in lieu of attending the public schools, is entitled to receive from the local board of education a grant of funds "to be expended for the purpose of attending a nonsectarian private school." Sec. 2.

The stipulations of counsel at the beginning of the trial in the Superior Court included the following: Plaintiff below, Carla C. Aikens, "was enrolled in Arlington Schools on April 9, 1959" and "is now in attendance on the sixth grade at Arlington Schools." "Plaintiff's father intends to use the tuition grant sought by her petition, if obtained, to attend Arlington Schools in Atlanta."

The Superior Court's Order, entered on January 23, 1962, from which this appeal is taken, directs the Board of Education of the City of Atlanta "to deliver to Mr. A. T. Aikens, father and next friend of Carla C. Aikens, for her use and benefit, the pro-rata share of said Carla C. Aikens of the school funds of the City of Atlanta, Georgia, for the school year 1961-1962 commencing July 1, 1961, and enduring through June 30, 1962, which funds are to be used and expended for the purpose of Carla C. Aikens attending The Arlington Schools or some other non-sectarian school during said school year." (Record, pp. 168-69; emphasis added.)

The Court in its Order, said that the funds awarded to the Plaintiff below could be used "for any legitimate purpose incident to attending" the school in question and that "legitimate items include... books, supplies, extra clothing, needed board and similar items, as well as any tuition which might be required." (Record, pp. 119, 153.)

Thus, it is clear that if the Superior Court decision is affirmed, public funds raised through taxation would or could be used to support the education of Carla C. Aikens in Arlington Schools which, as we have shown supra, is a religious and sectarian school. Notwithstanding the language in the Order permitting the funds to be used in some private school other than Arlington Schools, the stipulations of counsel leave no doubt that the public funds would be used to finance Carla's attendance at Arlington Schools, as expressly authorized by the Order.

Since Arlington Schools is a religious and sectarian institution, the Order violates the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment of the Federal Constitution, and Article I, Section I, Paragraph XIV, of the Georgia constitution which prohibits the use of public funds "directly or indirectly, in aid of any... sectarian institution."

Despite the constitutional ban on indirect as well as direct aid, the court below gave considerable weight to the fact that the Plaintiff below would be a conduit for the public funds on their way to the sectarian institution. This was clearly error. As the Supreme Court of Vermont said in a recent case involving the use of public funds for payment of tuition at a sectarian school, a measure "must be tested by its operation and effect rather than by its form." Swart v. South Burlington Town School District, supra.

In an effort to vest responsibility for the proper use of the public funds sought by the petition in the Plaintiff below, rather than in the Defendants below, a public body, the trial judge pointed out that under Section 5 of the Act approved March 15, 1961, (Georgia Laws, 1961, Pages 2417 et. seq.) any parent "who uses or permits to be used any grants hereunder made for purpose other than for education in the manner applied for, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punished as provided by law." The Order fails to take into consideration that the very purpose of the Plaintiff below in instituting this action was to get court authorization for the use of public funds to help enable Carla C. Aikens to attend the Arlington Schools. If the Order granting such authorization stands and Carla or her father, pursuant to such Order, use the public funds as they indicated in their petition that such funds would be used, to finance Carla's further education at the Arlington Schools, such conduct would be sanctioned by the court and no one could possibly be charged with a crime.

Quite apart from the obvious inapplicability of Section 5 to the facts in this case, the members of the Board of Education of Atlanta, as public officials, are sworn to uphold the Federal and State constitutions. If it appears to them in their official capacity that public funds under their jurisdiction will be used in a manner or for a purpose which violates either or both of those constitutions, it is their duty to withhold such funds.

The court below found comfort in the fact that not only the Arlington Schools but also Carla Aikens might benefit from any grant made under the Education Grants Act of 1961. The court embraced the child benefit theory, which was discussed in Point I, supra. As was shown there, this theory was the basis for the 5 to 4 decision in Everson v. Board of Education, supra, which was limited to the use of public funds for transportation of children to and from parochial schools and which was characterized by the majority as approaching the "verge of that [constitutional] power." Id., at 16. As was also shown supra, this child benefit theory was rejected, even with respect to bus transportation, by a number of state supreme court decisions since the Everson case. Yet, the trial court would extend this child benefit theory to the use of public funds to pay costs of private sectarian education including tuition. This, in the face of the provision of the Georgia constitution banning both direct and indirect aid to sectarian institutions. Article I, Section I, Paragraph XIV.

CONCLUSION

The Education Grants Act of 1961 does not and cannot authorize the use of public funds to aid the Arlington Schools, a religious and sectarian institution, and hence the Order appealed from should be reversed.

Respectfully submitted

1504 Healey Bldg.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

_____

_____

_____

Attorneys for Atlanta Chapter of American Jewish Committee

Masonic Temple Building
Decatur, Georgia

_____

Attorney for Executive Board, Georgia Council of Churches

William-Oliver Building
Atlanta 3, Georgia

_____

Attorney for Southeastern Region of Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'Rith

868 York Avenue, S. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

_____

Attorney for Executive Committee, United Church Women of Georgia

Trust Company of Georgia Bldg.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

_____

Attorney for the Bishop and the Standing Committee of the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta

First National Bank Bldg.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

_____

Attorney for Atlanta Jewish Community Council

Amici Curiae

APPENDIX

AMERICAN JEWISH COMMITTEE

The American Jewish Committee, founded in 1906, was incorporated as a national body in 1911. Its Charter states:

> The objects of this corporation shall be, to prevent the infraction of the civil and religious rights of Jews, in any part of the world; to render all lawful assistance and to take appropriate remedial action in the event of threatened or actual invasion or restriction of such rights, or of unfavorable discrimination with respect thereto...

It has long been among the fundamental tenets of the American Jewish Committee that the welfare and security of minority religious groups in the United States depend upon the preservation of Constitutional guarantees for all. The Atlanta Chapter of the American Jewish Committee seeks to implement its purposes and objectives in the area of Atlanta, Georgia.

GEORGIA COUNCIL OF CHURCHES, INC.

The Georgia Council of Churches was organized in 1952. Nine Protestant denominations joined together cooperately so as to provide an instrument through which the member units could speak and act together in interest and responsibility in matters affecting spiritual, moral and social conditions. The Council undertakes to mobilize resources for justice, peace, religious liberty, matters of church and state; to encourage study, projects and programs to develop information on crucial issues and to present any consensus of viewpoint to the proper state officials upon approval by the Executive Board; to provide a clearing house for diversified community and denominational efforts.

ANTI-DEFAMATION LEAGUE OF B'NAI B'RITH

B'nai B'rith, founded in 1843, is the oldest civic service organization of American Jews, which represents a membership of more than 350,000 men and women and their families. The Anti-Defamation League was organized in 1913 as a section of the parent organization to advance goodwill and proper understanding between Americans and translate into greater effectiveness the ideals of American democracy. It is therefore, dedicated to the protection of freedom of religion and combatting religious discrimination.

UNITED CHURCH WOMEN OF GEORGIA

There are councils of church women in every state and in 2,300 communities who work together through their denominations, through local councils of church women, councils of churches and with like-minded groups on the community of problems and issues of mutual concern. In the work of the department of Christian Social Relations of United Church Women of Georgia we undertake concerted action to meet concrete human needs in our state and communities. Informed by study we carry on projects of social service and projects for social change, including legislation. Civil liberties and effective citizenship are both items of our concern. The areas of concern are for children, the aging, women and family life.

ATLANTA JEWISH COMMUNITY COUNCIL

The Atlanta Jewish Community Council was established in 1945. It is composed of delegates from 45 affiliated adult membership organizations and 8 constituent organizations in the field of Jewish community service engaged in philanthropic, educational and cultural activities. Its major purposes are to coordinate, to promote and to advance these activities. It also deals with matters of general concern to the Jewish community and to promote its general welfare. It helps in promoting mutual understanding with all groups in the community.

Religion

SOUTHEAST CONVENTION: Alabama; Florida; Georgia; Kentucky; South Carolina; Tennessee

Explanation of Schedules & Reference Marks, Page B14

Conference Directory, Pages B7–11

Cities or Towns	Org.	Names	Ord. Cld.	Members Total	Members Ab.	Admitted C.	Admitted Total	Total Removed	Average Attendance	Church School Enrollment	Young People's Organizations Enrollment	Our Christian World Mission Apportionment Regular Conf.	Regular Natl. Boards	Special C.H.E.F.	Total	Other Gifts Cong. Chr.	Other Gifts Non Cong. Chr.	Local Finances Home Expenses	Value Church Property to the Nearest Thousand
SCHEDULE I △
Alabama
★ 1 Alexander City, Hunt	1945	yA. C. Pemberton, Lic.	'60	61	0	2	3	0	40	38	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	480	*28
★ 2 Andalusia, Antioch	1873	J. W. Walters	'56–'60	57	8	—	6	5	50	77	20	79	26	84	189	15	0	4,223	*32
★ 3 " 1st	1943	E. H. Temple, Jr., Lic.	'61	117	55	8	b30	4	—	78	10	121	40	0	161	46	0	5,933	*35
★ 4 Birmingham, Pilgrim	1903	C. W. Baldwin, i	'41–'57	258	24	11	34	21	147	168	24	1,032	354	350	1,736	863	65	20,746	*300
★ 5 Brantley, Indian Creek	1919	yE. H. Henby, L. O.	'61–'61	16	4	1	1	3	—	18	—	8	2	0	10	0	0	510	*6
★ 6 " Liberty	1887	yE. H. Henby, L. O.	'61–'61	17	—	0	1	0	—	24	—	18	6	0	24	0	108	906	4
★ 7 Caddo, 1st	1903	E. T. Shelton	'52–'55	59	—	1	1	0	80	90	15	81	27	25	133	0	0	1,938	15
★ 8 Clio, New Hope	1891			43	18	1	1	0	25	35	—	233	77	0	310	15	10	1,142	5
★ 9 Dadeville, Elder	1895	W. Robinson, Lic.	'61	56	11	1	2	3	—	60	18	67	22	47	136	5	0	936	27
★ 10 East Tallassee, Cong. Chr.	1890	H. C. Henderson, i	'57–'60	84	2	10	16	b72	80	101	52	368	123	0	491	58	33	7,890	*87
★ 11 Garden City, Cong. Chr.	1918	W. Bostick, Lic.	'60	34	3	2	6	0	—	31	—	157	53	0	210	26	25	1,540	*12
★ 12 Hackleburg, Fairview	1891	R. R. Aderholt, Lic.	'60	28	9	0	0	0	40	36	—	45	15	0	60	0	0	360	5
★ 13 Headland, Blackwood	1894	y		132	43	10	14	5	60	100	20	244	81	98	423	58	0	2,140	*9
★ 14 Huntsville, United	1900	W. R. Berry, i	'55–'61	15	2	0	15	0	26	42	—	164	55	0	219	0	57	10,411	0
★ 15 LaFayette, Pleasant Grove	1886	yE. S. Fetner	'58–'61	52	—	2	3	b36	—	58	—	135	45	100	280	0	0	1,958	25
★ 16 Lanett, Cong. Chr.	1896	J. D. Schofield, i	'40–'57	420	80	13	17	13	170	177	19	1,822	2,241	667	4,730	1,148	192	12,807	*162
★ 17 Langdale, Cong. Chr.	1930	G. W. Stowe, Jr., i	'61–'61	257	101	4	12	17	120	180	29	1,301	498	300	2,099	340	0	6,776	*53
★ 18 Midland City, Chr. Hill	1893	y		16	5	1	1	0	—	—	—	36	12	0	48	0	0	310	2
★ 19 Montgomery	1961	W. M. Fulmer, Lic.	'61	23	0	1	23	0	25	22	—	39	13	0	52	0	0	1,012	0
★ 20 Mt. Creek, Union	1891	G. G. Norris, L. O.	'61–'58	73	17	5	10	0	50	73	—	52	18	0	70	0	332	2,082	14
★ 21 Phenix City, 1st	1920	W. D. Noles, Lic.	'59	113	12	1	6	6	—	104	42	30	10	0	40	175	0	6,122	*90
★ 22 " Russell Woods	1957	W. A. Blankenhorn, i	'61–'60	97	8	3	7	0	65	66	31	81	48	15	144	8	0	5,794	9
★ 23 Roanoke, Antioch	1869	y		80	28	0	5	6	—	27	11	113	38	0	151	0	0	2,768	17
★ 24 " Bethany	1896	yE. G. Clark, Lic.	'57	51	—	1	1	1	—	51	—	37	13	0	50	0	0	947	10
★ 25 " 1st	1923	yO. E. Sheppard	'39–'51	52	—	—	—	b23	—	50	—	270	90	133	493	55	0	1,560	9
★ 26 " Forest Home	1893	y		54	22	0	0	3	40	58	—	60	26	0	86	0	0	1,285	8
★ 27 " Lowell	1900	R. H. Lasseter	'52–'60	221	50	2	2	b9	88	139	18	262	88	100	450	199	0	6,724	*64
★ 28 " New Hope	1850	yO. E. Sheppard	'39–'55	56	—	0	0	0	50	35	—	90	30	100	220	0	0	1,773	7
★ 29 Shawmut, Todd	1950	A. C. Nelson, i	'30–'59	84	3	9	16	3	—	84	22	61	21	0	82	88	74	2,547	*42
★ 30 Steele, Mt. Lebanon	1905	H. Barnes	'60–'59	54	0	2	2	3	55	60	25	0	0	0	0	17	0	925	10
★ 31 Steppeville, Mt. Grove	1891	I. R. Whitley	'60–'60	90	17	4	10	1	35	32	10	23	8	0	31	0	0	1,827	*13
★ 32 Tallassee, Mt. Olive	1890	J. W. Wilder, Lic.	'61	95	15	9	12	3	60	56	26	64	21	0	85	5	0	4,420	*20

△ Schedule I. Congregational Christian Churches: part of the U. C. C. b Revision of roll

Cities or Towns	Org.	Names	Ord. Cld.	Members Total	Members Ab.	Admitted C.	Admitted Total	Total Removed	Average Attendance	Church School Enrollment	Young People's Organizations Enrollment	Our Christian World Mission Apportionment Regular Conf.	Regular Natl. Boards	Special C.H.E.F.	Total	Other Gifts Cong. Chr.	Other Gifts Non Cong. Chr.	Local Finances Home Expenses	Value Church Property to the Nearest Thousand
★ 33 Wadley, Beulah	1890	yJ. W. Roberts	'57–'54	43	0	0	0	1	—	38	—	0	0	0	0	7	0	942	5
★ 34 " Cong. Chr.	1911	A. R. VanCleave	'32–'52	58	12	5	9	9	40	52	—	407	148	164	719	230	20	1,435	10
★ 35 Wedowee, Noon Day	1898	yxG. R. Walker	'43–'59	88	36	1	1	2	—	37	—	90	30	0	120	0	0	1,054	5
Florida
★ 36 Bonifay, New Effort	1888	yI. J. Robinson, Lic.	'59	30	0	0	0	0	35	40	16	124	41	52	217	0	0	660	7
★ 37 Crestview, Dorcas	1892			‖81	—				—	65	20	0	0	0	0	0	0	1,500	*10
Georgia
★ 38 Ambrose, Chr.	1915	yR. N. Overstreet	'58–'60	43	—	1	1	0	—	30	—	7	3	0	10	0	0	1,200	*10
★ 39 Atlanta, Center	1888	J. T. McAdams	'59–'57	56	13	—	—	5	24	40	—	135	45	0	180	5	150	3,398	25
★ 40 " Central	1882	F. A. Meyer, i	'29–'62	698	231	8	12	45	—	192	61	3,696	1,292	600	5,588	796	410	33,025	425
★ 41 Barnesville, Fredonia	1852	J. K. Harris, Lic.	'60	103	0	2	5	3	65	45	15	397	132	50	579	125	0	4,601	*33
★ 42 Braselton, Macedonia	1888	H. C. Weaver	'48–'61	57	—	4	6	1	—	50	—	34	12	25	71	0	0	1,076	12
★ 43 Columbus, 1st	1903	P. Doherty	'38–'60	117	5	4	5	0	60	93	12	225	75	0	300	100	0	7,743	*31
★ 44 " United	1909	W. S. Wood	'53–'52	293	—	15	51	25	50	100	6	180	60	0	240	0	75	4,872	*115
★ 45 Demorest, Union	1892	E. G. Nichols	'28–'59	44	7	0	1	7	30	14	—	373	287	0	660	81	74	2,159	*100
★ 46 Douglas, 1st	1950	G. E. Turner, Lic.	'60	‖79	—				—	26	—	22	8	0	30	0	7	2,500	*35
★ 47 Gaillard, Pleasant Hill	1883	H. E. Williams, Lic.	'59	45	—	—	—	—	—	30	—	27	9	0	36	0	0	1,119	4
★ 48 LaGrange, Hillside	1921	R. L. Chatham	'52–'47	137	0	7	11	4	100	100	30	24	8	0	32	197	0	5,426	50
★ 49 " United	1903	L. F. Carmack	'60–'61	245	58	1	8	10	—	133	27	1,010	336	451	1,797	539	48	7,420	*83
★ 50 Meansville, Cong. Chr.	1854	T. Isbell	'36–'54	21	4	0	1	b13	—	16	—	82	28	13	123	0	0	1,035	8
★ 51 Oxford, Sardis	1888	H. J. Morrow, Cong. Meth.	'61	‖53	—				—	74	10	90	30	0	120	0	0	1,762	8
★ 52 Pearson, Union Hill	1892	R. W. Hendrix	'58–'57	‖89	—				—	24	6	156	52	100	308	0	0	2,400	*18
★ 53 Pine Mountain, Oak Grove	1899	W. M. McCullars	'57–'58	120	32	6	8	8	80	55	12	345	115	75	535	125	0	5,906	*33
★ 54 Richland, 1st	1901	G. S. Hunt	'28–'61	‖36	—				—	33	—	67	23	0	90	5	0	2,034	*30
★ 55 Waycross, Williams Chap.	1933	R. D. Worley	'50–'61	147	67	6	13	30	—	115	25	11	4	0	15	49	20	4,902	*41
★ 56 West Point, Bethel	1948	W. A. Hodnett, Lay.	'61	57	—	1	5	b9	—	44	—	53	30	0	83	0	0	1,404	12
★ 57 Woodbury, Jones Chap.	1850	W. W. Elder	'15–'52	150	18	5	8	8	72	101	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	2,312	6
Kentucky
★ 58 Corbin, Pilgrim	1886	R. A. Boone, Meth.	'61	35	—	—	—	—	—	20	—	0	0	0	0	5	0	2,200	50
★ 59 Evarts, 1st	1892	Carolyn P. Welch, i	'44–'58	83	25	0	2	2	—	50	14	472	157	150	779	100	189	5,948	*100
South Carolina
★ 60 Charleston, Circular	1681	W. R. Barnhart	'30–'58	240	24	9	12	12	—	125	10	774	277	0	1,051	15	0	15,450	200
Tennessee
★ 61 Chattanooga, Pilgrim	1914	A. Slater	'32–'44	331	28	5	22	13	156	177	21	3,003	1,001	1,000	5,004	837	319	29,613	*241
★ 62 Crossville, 1st	1888	{ H. W. Freer { A. Nightingale, P.em.	'34–'57 '13	91	—	2	7	5	—	67	11	444	148	150	742	0	0	9,597	62

b Revision of roll

CHURCHES		MINISTERS		MEMBERS		Admitted		Total Removed	Average Attendance	Church School Enrollment	Young People's Organizations Enrollment	OUR CHRISTIAN WORLD MISSION				OTHER GIFTS		Local Finances
												Apportionment
												Regular		Special	Total			Home Expenses	Value Church Property to the Nearest Thousand
Cities or Towns	Org.	Names	Ord. Cld.	Total	Ab.	C.	Total					Conf.	Natl. Boards	C.H.E.F.		Cong. Chr.	Non Cong. Chr.
★ 63 Daisy, 1st	1925	yW. H. Shelton	'61–'60	87	—	2	6	1	—	111	10	194	65	0	259	62	125	6,416	*67
★ 64 Deer Lodge, Cong. Chr.	1887	yAnnie R. Campbell	'42–'60	16	—	1	1	0	—	109	26	92	31	75	198	18	0	2,311	5
★ 65 Glen Mary, Cong. Chr.	1885	yAnnie R. Campbell	'42–'60	17	4	1	1	0	—	18	—	75	25	50	150	6	0	1,592	2
★ 66 Knoxville, 1st	1956	A. R. Meserve	'33–'57	269	25	13	30	12	155	171	50	225	75	0	300	0	0	34,476	300
★ 67 Nashville, Brookmeade	1953	C. C. Flannery, i	'36–'56	120	20	5	19	12	—	140	33	525	175	0	700	46	150	13,500	*95
★ 68 Pleasant Hill, Com.	1885	∫ F. R. Snavely, i	'47–'59	109	25	—	6	4	69	53	15	770	340	300	1,410	110	0	5,560	*75
		\ P. R. Reynolds, P.em.	'18
★ 69 Robbins, Barton Chap.	1885	yAnnie R. Campbell	'42–'60	32	7	0	0	0	—	37	40	62	26	0	88	5	0	1,748	*25
★ 70 Soddy, 1st	1863	yW. H. Shelton	'61–'60	‖57	—				—	80	—	75	25	0	100	5	0	4,467	*10
Gifts — church undesignated:												904	982	24	1,910	0	0
Totals (Schedule I):				7,242	1,178	208	508	478	72	4,875	862	22,263	10,196	5,298	37,757	6,589	2,483	355,500	3,468
SCHEDULE II ◇
Alabama
★ 71 Alexander City, Antioch	1852	yA. C. Pemberton, Lic.	'58	25	0	3	4	0	28	22	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	221	4
★ 72 Arley, Robertson's Chap.	1900	yC. H. Wright	'60–'60	‖26	—				—	38	—	23	8	0	31	0	0	404	3
★ 73 Cragford, Mt. Carmel	1891			‖32	—				—	41	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	665	1
★ 74 Daviston, McGuire's Chap.	1890			‖57	—				—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	205	2
75 Delta, Wesley's Chap.	1806			‖63	—				—	18	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	560	3
★ 76 Five Points, State Line	1852	yE. S. Fetner	'58–'58	61	26	2	4	5	35	36	—	0	0	0	0	40	100	1,035	5
★ 77 Haleyville, Union Grove	1891	R. L. Shelton	'46–'61	32	10	1	5	3	38	56	22	68	22	0	90	0	175	1,815	*14
★ 78 Houston, Liberty Hill	1879	yC. H. Wright	'60–'60	‖10	—				—	10	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	177	2
★ 79 Lineville, Dingler's Chap.	1911			‖47	—				—	34	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	460	4
★ 80 " New Harmony	1888			31	0	0	0	*b*1	0	0	0	22	8	0	30	30	0	307	2
★ 81 " Shady Grove	1913			‖31	—				—	14	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	173	2
★ 82 " Spring Hill	1916			‖50	—				—	45	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	283	2
★ 83 Moulton, Jones Chap.	1896	yR. M. Waugh	'51–'57	‖36	—				—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	337	3
84 Pisgah	1920	(Inactive)		‖20	—				—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	5
★ 85 Roanoke, Rock Stand	1908	yJ. W. Roberts	'57–'55	101	—	—	2	*b*22	—	93	—	75	25	0	100	100	0	1,900	10
86 Seman, Balm of Gilead	1896	(Inactive)		‖25	—				—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	—
87 Thorsby, United	1905	(Inactive)		‖40	—				—	—	—	0	0	0	0	10	0	—	27
★ 88 Town Creek, Old Liberty	1891	yR. M. Waugh	'51–'54	39	20	6	6	3	20	20	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	300	3
★ 89 Wadley, Corinth	1893	yJ. W. Roberts	'57–'55	78	—	—	—	*b*30	—	40	—	37	13	50	100	0	0	693	5
★ 90 Wedowee, Caver's Grove	1924	yxG. R. Walker	'43–'59	47	22	0	0	1	—	30	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	750	5
Georgia
★ 91 Bowman, Liberty	1878	yR. H. Abbott	'52–'59	57	—	—	1	4	—	43	15	36	12	0	48	0	0	785	2
★ 92 Crest, Hebron	1889	B. A. Manley, Lic.	'57	55	—	2	5	0	—	48	45	0	0	0	0	0	0	2,760	5
★ 93 Doerun, Poplar Arbor	1910	G. Vinson, Bapt.	'62	10	1	0	0	*b*32	—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	820	7

◇ Schedule II. Congregational Christian Churches which have not voted, or which have voted to abstain from voting at the time of submitting the Conference Report
b Revision of roll

CHURCHES		MINISTERS		MEMBERS		Admitted		Total Removed	Average Attendance	Church School Enrollment	Young People's Organizations Enrollment	OUR CHRISTIAN WORLD MISSION				OTHER GIFTS		Local Finances
												Apportionment
												Regular		Special	Total			Home Expenses	Value Church Property to the Nearest Thousand
Cities or Towns	Org.	Names	Ord. Cld.	Total	Ab.	C.	Total					Conf.	Natl. Boards	C.H.E.F.		Cong. Chr.	Non Cong. Chr.
★ 94 *a*Enigma, Chr.	1908	O. L. Culpepper	'59–'61	63	20	0	0	9	—	52	15	0	0	0	0	0	0	1,047	*20
★ 95 *a*Hampton, Co. Line	1888	yR. J. Barnes	'57–'56	63	—	1	1	2	—	60	—	45	15	0	60	0	0	2,170	10
96 Meansville, Liberty		(Inactive)		—	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	—
★ 97 Richland, b	1837	yR. J. Barnes	'57–'58	61	31	2	2	9	—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	576	4
★ 98 Tifton, Vanceville	1913	yR. H. Abbott	'52–'57	‖78	—				—	54	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	3,000	10
Kentucky
★ 99 Stearns, Com.	1918	R. D. Matthews, Meth.	'61	27	—	—	—	—	16	15	—	0	0	0	0	5	0	2,669	25
Totals (Schedule II):				1,265	130	17	30	121	19	769	97	306	103	50	459	185	275	24,112	185
SCHEDULE III ⊙
Alabama
100 Andalusia, Coldwater	1923			‖34	—				—	23	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	475	5
101 " New Home	1894	xM. O. Worley	'41–'60	‖25	—				—	10	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	432	3
★102 Ashland, Bethel	1892	yB. C. Spivey, Lic.	'60	45	—	0	0	6	—	32	—	0	0	0	0	34	0	1,350	16
★103 Eclectic, Watson's Chap.	1892			58	22	1	2	1	40	30	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	611	15
★104 Goodwater, Oak Hill	1880			‖34	—				—	19	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	575	5
★105 Lanett, Huguley	1944	T. L. Williams, Ev. Chr.	'62	‖129	—				—	80	—	75	25	0	100	0	0	5,012	*49
★106 Roanoke, Mt. Zion	1893	yE. G. Clark, Lic.	'57	57	0	2	3	0	40	49	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	1,767	19
★107 " Rock Spring	1884	yB. C. Spivey, Lic.	'60	37	0	0	6	0	—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	439	3
★108 Seman, Com.	1933	A. Nelson, L. O.	'61–'58	44	0	5	7	1	—	25	—	18	7	0	25	30	0	700	4
Florida
109 Baker, Good Hope	1922			84	30	0	0	0	40	72	20	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	*17
★110 " Pyron Chap.	1897	yI. J. Robinson, Lic.	'60	67	16	3	3	*d*0	48	67	—	37	13	50	100	0	0	1,066	10
111 Florala, Cluster Springs	1956	(Inactive)		24	—	—	—	—	—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	5
Georgia
★112 Baxley, Friendship	1876	T. E. Beach	'58–'56	104	27	6	8	*d*6	60	61	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	1,280	8
★113 Bristol, Antioch	1808	yR. N. Overstreet	'58–'61	72	30	0	0	0	60	59	14	0	0	0	0	0	0	600	3
★114 Buford, Duncan's Creek	1885	C. V. Rary, L. O.	'61–'60	100	—	8	11	4	—	111	—	35	12	0	47	4	0	1,872	30
★115 Doerun, New Light	1904	xW. C. Carpenter, L. O.	'24–'57	‖18	—				—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	320	2
116 Tifton, 1st	1952	(Inactive)		‖51	—				—	—	—	0	0	0	0	0	0	—	40
Totals (Schedule III):				983	125	25	40	18	24	638	34	165	57	50	272	68	0	16,499	234

⊙ Schedule III. Congregational Christian Churches which have voted not to be part of the U. C. C. at the time of submitting the Conference Report a Voted to abstain b Providence Chap. d Revision of roll have used the best communication tools available to call others to a sense of obligation to God and man.

PAST GENERATIONS . . .

See . . .

TODAY . . .

to use the modern tools of electronic communication we have

Christ . . . teaching the multitudes by word of mouth

Paul . . .travelling impatiently by slow boats, to relay Christ's message

Luther . . . using the printing press to release Paul's letters.

Now we have electronic communications—the quickest way "to the uttermost part of the earth."

by radio we hear the heart beat of an astronaut circling the earth at 17,000 miles an hour . . .

by television, with Telstar, a billion people across oceans see the same picture simultaneously . . .

Typical of the electronic wonders of our modern world is

Video Tape

On this magnetic tape we record sound and picture electronically and instantaneously. This is the finished product for the television screen, with no other processing necessary. The tape can be duplicated. When we have no further need for a particular production, we simply erase the tape and use it again.

By way of understandable comparison — in approximately five years' time with video tape we have made more progress in the science of visual communications than was made in the transportation world during the time from the ox cart to the jet plane.

In the past, economics have dictated limited use of television by our churches.

Now, to share our faith we can move rapidly into a worldwide television ministry because we have video tape facilities and other modern tools of communication at:

THE PROTESTANT RADIO AND TELEVISION CENTER, INC.

A unique non-profit organization now producing and distributing Christian programs for our churches for release over radio and television stations throughout the world.

To keep the Center abreast of every electronic advancement and assure the ultimate in all modern communication facilities, we are asking a thousand people to give $100.00 or more to establish a living endowment for the Center's capital improvements. Annual renewal invitations will be extended, but Charter membership does not commit one beyond the initial gift.

THE PATRONS FUND

The Center's effectiveness has been proven. Its financial solidarity must be established. Toward this goal we ask you to become a Patron of

The Protestant Radio and Television Center, Inc.

1727 Clifton Road, N. E.

Atlanta 6, Georgia

FOR COMMUNICATING
OUR FAITH
TO THE PEOPLE OF THE WORLD

THE PROTESTANT RADIO AND TELEVISION CENTER, INC.
IS AS MODERN AS TELSTAR COMMUNICATION SATELLITE

EACH GENERATION MUST USE EVERY AVAILABLE TOOL OF COMMUNICATION FOR CALLING THE PEOPLE TO A SENSE OF COMMITMENT AND OBLIGATION TO GOD

Today, to reach billions around the world, our generation has electronic communication which knows no barriers of time or space. By radio and television one's voice and face may be heard and seen around the world in the twinkling of an eye. "Telstar" satellite ushered in a new era, making global television a reality.

No other generation has had such vast facilities for communicating its faith to the peoples of the earth. This is for our generation to develop.

Anticipating the new opportunities to "go into all the world" to teach and preach the Gospel, wise leadership has created

THE PROTESTANT RADIO AND TELEVISION CENTER, INC.

WHAT IT IS

An inter-denominationally owned and uniquely operated Center for the production of non-commercial religious and educational radio-television programs and audio-visual materials.

A non-profit corporation chartered in 1949 by the representatives of religious and educational groups, including Methodist, Presbyterian (U.S.), Presbyterian (U.S.A.), Lutheran, and Episcopal communions —designed to serve these and others of common interest.

A "cooperative plan" distributor of programs to the broadcast industry for sustaining (free) time broadcasts on radio or television stations throughout the world, presently serving more than 2,000 outlets in many nations.

A well-equipped "production center" for the making of such audio-visuals as motion pictures, film strips, slides, etc. for in-church, school, and club use.

An assembly of professionally trained individuals dedicated to the most creative use of man's modern tools of communication for the enrichment of religious life and educational processes.

It is NOT a broadcasting station.

WHAT IT HAS

A million dollar investment in building and equipment of latest designs and perfected operations, including:

Studios of sizes to serve individuals or major productions—well equipped with pipe organ, piano, and other basic instruments.

Recording, editing, and duplicating equipment for every production need in radio.

Filming and editing equipment for the most advanced professional television requirements.

Video tape facilities, including one of the most complete rolling recording facilities in America—plus duplicating recorders, studio units, etc.

Libraries of recorded music, sound effects, and other aids for the finest productions.

Talent pool of script writers and performing artists necessary for quality work.

Regular staff of directors, engineers, and technicians trained for specialized production responsibilities.

A "good-will" background and current working arrangements with the broadcast industry of America and the Armed Forces broadcast services overseas.

FACTS ABOUT THE PRTVC

(a few of its activities)

Protestant Hour—494 stations in America carry the program weekly.

The Armed Forces Radio and Television Services have carried the Protestant Hour continuously since 1952. (This vast worldwide network broadcasts practically every program produced by the PRTVC.)

Be Still and Know—a Daily Meditation is aired by more than 1,000 stations.

Sunday School of the Air—Currently heard from 130 stations weekly.

The Upper Room Parish releases its Christmas and Easter series to more than 1,500 radio stations.

Educational Interest Films produced:

Agnes Scott
Newberry College
Tallulah Falls School
Southern Seminary

Documentaries on video tape for:

Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina
Central Presbyterian Church
Rabun Gap School
Chapels of All Faiths

Television Teaching Films:

Including 52 half-hour programs on the Life and Teachings of Jesus.

During a recent month, the broadcast time given by American stations to the PRTVC produced programs totalled 3,984 hours, or the equivalent of one station broadcasting this material continuously for 166 twenty-four hour days.

Through the eyes of the listening and viewing public:

"PRTVC's mobile cameras and video tape unit recorded the 30-minute program at many locations . . . this venture into television represents a first for the church . . . the fact that we now have personnel and equipment for such projects is the most encouraging advance in church communication in 50 years." (Dr. Fred Stair, Minister, Central Presbyterian Church)

"I had no idea that your productions were as expansive as they are. You and your staff are to be commended on the outstanding work which you are doing in this field for Protestantism." (Armed Forces Chaplain)

"Magnificent Mission, a filmstrip produced by PRTVC, Atlanta, has received a graphic arts award, one of 4 from 140 entries in the slide and filmstrip category." (The Presbyterian Outlook)

"Another Door has been narrated by Academy Award winner Susan Hayward and produced by PRTVC in Atlanta in connection with the campaign to build chapels-of-all-faiths at the state hospital." (The Atlanta Journal)

"I have been associated with the development of the Center from the time when it was only a dream until today when many of us look upon it as one of the most effective cooperative efforts in Protestantism. I commend the Center as worthy of all we can do both as campaign workers and givers." (Bishop Arthur J. Moore)

"Thank you so much for the caliber of your program and for the ministry it is having over our nation. It is undoubtedly one of the finest religious programs on the air." (A Baptist minister in Florida)

"I wish to congratulate you on the high quality of the worship services, the beauty of the music and the timeliness and effectiveness of the messages of Dr. Waights G. Henry, Jr." (A college professor)

WAYS OF GIVING TO THE PROTESTANT RADIO AND TELEVISION CENTER, INC.

All gifts are deductible for income tax purposes.

- ☐ Direct gift
- ☐ Three tax year plan
- ☐ Endowments
- ☐ Stocks or real estate
- ☐ Life insurance
- ☐ Wills
- ☐ Charter Patron
  A Charter Patron is one of one thousand who gives $100.00 or more to establish the Patrons capital fund.
- ☐ Donor
  A Donor is one who gives a contribution of any amount.
- ☐ Underwriting education program, as "Visiting Faculty"
- ☐ Documentaries for churches, institutions, schools
- ☐ Libraries of sermons by outstanding speakers
- ☐ Equipment

The Protestant Radio and Television Center, Inc.
1727 Clifton Road, N.E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30329

A contribution is a perpetual memorial. It will never cease to exist.

P-63-7

This review is reprinted with special permission of SCIENCE, a publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. It appeared in the issue of September 28, 1962.

Chemicals and Pests

Man's use, misuse, and abuse of the products of science determine whether these valuable assets are also harmful.

I. L. Baldwin

Human society, since the time of recorded history, has encountered many difficulties in adapting itself to changes brought on by the advancement of technology. Although we usually think of the Industrial Revolution as the starting point of modern technology, the invention of the wheel must have brought about one of the greatest changes in human society the world has seen. In recent years there has been a rapid expansion of scientific endeavors and a consequent rapid increase in the rate of accumulation of knowledge. Technology has quicky translated this new knowledge into materials and procedures for use by society.

The discovery of methods of harnessing nuclear energy, some two decades ago, has so captured public attention that few have given serious attention to the chemical revolution which has occurred during the same period. It is the chemical revolution, however, that has most intimately affected every aspect of our daily life. The development of new fibers, new plastics, new medicinals, and new agricultural chemicals has produced profound changes in our lives. Public health has been improved; the span of life has been greatly extended; our clothes are composed of fibers unknown 20 years ago; our machinery and household utensils are made of new and strange materials; and our rate of productivity in agriculture has been greatly expanded.

Benefits, however, have not been achieved without cost. Many of the new materials have been used without adequate testing, or they have been used under improper conditions. Sometimes lives have been lost or health has been destroyed. At other times our economy has suffered when shoddy materials have been used in clothing, equipment, and structures. Often men have lost their means of livelihood. Rachel Carson's Silent Spring (Houghton Mifflin, Boston, 1962. 368 pp., $5) dramatizes in an effective fashion the losses that society has suffered from the use of new pesticides. Her emphasis is upon the danger to human health and the possible irreparable damage to various forms of wildlife.

Silent Spring is superbly written and beautifully illustrated with line drawings. The author has made an exhaustive study of the facts bearing on the problem. It is not, however, a judicial review or a balancing of the gains and losses; rather, it is the prosecuting attorney's impassioned plea for action against the use of these new materials which have received such widespread acceptance, acceptance accorded because of the obvious benefits that their use has conferred. The author has reviewed many of the instances in which unfortunate accidents have occurred. In some cases the accidents were the result of carelessness; in others they were caused by widespread use of materials prior to adequate small-scale testing; in some instances the unfortunate effect on wildlife was a result of the failure of those who used the new pesticide to consider wildlife values.

The author's mode of approach to the use of pesticides will undoubtedly result in wider recognition of the fact that these chemicals are poisons and in a more careful and rigorous control of every step in the pathway that pesticide must travel, from the research laboratory, through the process of obtaining government approval, to use in the field. Perhaps the tremendous improvements in public health and welfare that have resulted from the use of these materials have caused us to become careless in our control and use of them. There are serious hazards involved in the use of pesticides. It has frequently been said: "There are no harmless chemicals, only harmless use of chemicals." The recent case in which the death of several infants in a hospital was caused by the inadvertent use of salt instead of sugar in their food comes to mind.

A Matter of Perspective

The possible indirect harmful effects of pesticides on humans and wildlife are stressed in Silent Spring. It is noted that certain of the pesticides may serve as carcinogens and that some may serve as mutagens. How often all the necessary conditions are met, so that the pesticides do actually serve as carcinogens or mutagens, is unknown. The author feels that such dangers are very great. Most scientists who are familiar with the field, including government workers charged with the responsibility of safeguarding the public health, feel that the danger of damage is slight. The author gives no figures for deaths known to be due to pesticides, but her description of certain cases may leave the impression with the uninformed reader that such cases of death due to the direct effects of pesticides are numerous. Actually human deaths in the United States known to be caused by pesticides are less than 100 annually. To place this in proper perspective, consider that almost twice that many deaths are known to be caused by aspirin and that almost one-half as many deaths are known to be caused by bee stings. Another example, in which the author's choice of language may lead to false impressions, is her reference to the "fall of chemical death rain." Many may be led to believe that, just as rain falls on all of our land, so is all of our land sprayed with pesticides. Actually less than 5 percent of all the area of the United States is annually treated with insecticides.

I can understand that the author felt it necessary to portray as "bad guys" all those who recommend the use of pesticides and as "good guys" all those who oppose the use of such insecti-

The reviewer is professor of agricultural bacteriology at the University of Wisconsin, and special assistant to the president of the university. He also serves as chairman of the Committee on Pest Control and Wildlife Relationships of the National Academy of Sciences–National Research Council.

cides. I cannot condone, however, the sarcastic and unjustified attack on the ethics and integrity of many scientific workers. The following quotation is only one of such attacks.

> The major chemical companies are pouring money into the universities to support research on insecticides. This creates attractive fellowships for graduate students and attractive staff positions. Biological-control studies, on the other hand, are never so endowed—for the simple reason that they do not promise anyone the fortunes that are to be made in the chemical industry. These are left to state and federal agencies, where the salaries paid are far less.
>
> This situation also explains the otherwise mystifying fact that certain outstanding entomologists are among the leading advocates of chemical control. Inquiry into the background of some of these men reveals that their entire research program is supported by the chemical industry. Their professional prestige, sometimes their very jobs depend on the perpetuation of chemical methods. Can we then expect them to bite the hand that literally feeds them? But knowing their bias, how much credence can we give to their protests that insecticides are harmless?

The author pleads for a return to the balance of nature as the method of controlling our pests. Greater use of biological control of pests would be desirable, but, if it is to be effective enough to meet human needs, it must result in upsetting the balance of nature. Mankind has been engaged in the process of upsetting the balance of nature since the dawn of civilization. Certain species of plant and animal life that serve the economic or esthetic needs of mankind have been nurtured with great care; other species that have interfered with the health, comfort, or welfare of mankind have been attacked with great vigor; the large majority of the species have been ignored by all but a small portion of the population. Fortunately there is a growing concern, coupled with positive action, for the preservation of all forms of plant and animal life. This effort to preserve our wildlife is too late to save some species and too little to save others, but an encouraging start is being made. Undoubtedly mankind's own self-interests have suffered in the past and are still suffering because of his callous disregard of the damage he does to other species of plant and animal life. But it is equally certain that modern agriculture and modern public health, indeed, modern civilization, could not exist without an unrelenting war against a return of a true balance of nature.

Valuable but Dangerous

Just as it is important for us to be reminded of the dangers inherent in the use of the new pesticides, so must our people also be made aware of the tremendous values to human welfare conferred by the new pesticides. No attempt is made by the author to portray the many positive benefits that society derives from the use of pesticides. No estimates are made of the countless lives that have been saved because of the destruction of insect vectors of disease. No mention is made of the fact that the average length of human life has steadily increased over the last several years. No consideration is given to the important role played by modern pesticides in the production of food and fiber. The author does suggest that, with a surplus of food in the United States, we might well curtail the use of pesticides. Although the United States has a surplus of food, over one half of the people of the world go to bed hungry each night. The greater use of pesticides in most sections of the world would increase food production, alleviate hunger, and improve the health of the people.

Modern agriculture, with its high-quality foods and fibers, could not exist without the use of pesticides. Weeds, disease, and insect pests would take an extremely heavy toll if these chemicals were not used. The yields per acre, the yields per man hour, and the quality of the product would all suffer materially if these chemicals were withdrawn from use. One cannot do more than guess about the changes that would be necessary in American society if pesticides were banned. An immediate back-to-the-farm movement would be necessary, and this would involve many millions of people. It is hoped that someone with Rachel Carson's ability will write a companion volume dramatizing the improvements in human health and welfare derived from the use of pesticides. Such a story would be far more dramatic than the one told by Miss Carson in Silent Spring, which deals with the losses society has sustained or may suffer in the future because of the use of these materials.

The problem which Rachel Carson so effectively dramatizes is not a new one. It has long been recognized by workers in government and industrial laboratories and by chemists and biologists wherever they may work. Several years ago the National Academy of Sciences established a committee of outstanding scientists to study the problem of food protection and the influence of pesticides and other chemicals on human health and welfare. Some three years ago a companion committee was established to deal with pesticides and wildlife relationships. These committees and their subcommittees have members from all of the scientific disciplines that might be able to contribute to the problem, including physicians, wildlife specialists, toxicologists entomologists, agriculturists, biologists, chemists, and economists. Both the Food Protection Committee and the Pesticides and Wildlife Relationships Committee have made a careful and judicial review of all the evidence available, and they have published a series of reports making appropriate recommendations. These reports are not dramatically written, and they were not intended to be best sellers. They are, however, the result of careful study by a wide group of scientists, and they represent balanced judgments in areas in which emotional appeals tend to over-balance sound judgment based on facts.

I suggest that those who read Silent Spring include as companion reading the following publications of the National Academy of Sciences (Washington, D.C.). Publications 920-A and 920-B: Pest Control and Wildlife Relationships, part 1, Evaluation of Pesticide-Wildlife Problems; part 2, Policy and Procedures for Pest Control (1962. $1.25 each); Publication 887: Use of Chemicals in Food Production, Processing, Storage, and Distribution (1961. $0.50); Publication 470: Safe Use of Pesticides in Food Production (1956. $0.50).

The story of Silent Spring, so well told by Rachel Carson, even though it presents only one side of a very complex problem, will serve a useful purpose, if research on better methods of pest control is stimulated and if all concerned with the production, control, and use of pesticides are stimulated to exercise greater care in the protection of the public welfare. In the meantime it is my hope that some equally gifted writer will be willing to do the necessary research and to write the even more dramatic story of the values conferred on mankind by the chemical revolution of the last two decades.

WILLIAM J. DARBY

MANY IN AMERICA'S scientific community have been concerned with the public comment and publicity accorded Rachel Carson's new book, "The Silent Spring." The review of this publication, which follows, appeared in an October edition of a professional publication of the American Chemical Society, and was prepared by William J. Darby, M.D., M.S., Ph.D. Dr. Darby is Head, Department of Biochemistry and Director of the Division of Nutrition, Vanderbilt University School of Medicine.

He holds or has held the following posts: Chairman, Council on Foods and Nutrition, American Medical Association; Chairman, Metabolism and Nutrition Study Section, USPHS, Division of Research Grants and Fellowships; Member of the Food and Nutrition Board, National Research Council (Steering Committee); Chairman, Committee on Food Protection; Chairman, FAO/WHO Joint Expert Committee on Nutrition; Chairman, General Medicine Study Section, USPHS, NIH; Chairman, First Joint FAO/WHO Expert Committee on Food Additives; Member, Board of Scientific Counselors, National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, NIH; Chairman, Nutrition Study Section, USPHS, NIH; Chairman, Advisory Committee on Nutrition and Metabolism to the Office of the Surgeon General, U.S. Army; Member, Second Citizen's Committee on the Food and Drug Administration; Herbert Swift Carter Memorial Lecturer, Columbia University, College of Physicians and Surgeons.

In addition he has held the following editorial appointments: Associate Editor, Nutrition Reviews; Editorial Board, Journal of Nutrition; Editorial Board, Journal of Clinical Investigation.

His professional societies include: American Medical Association; American Institute of Nutrition (Vice President, 1957; President, 1958; Chairman, Management Committee of Journal of Nutrition, 1961); American Public Health Association Fellow (Member, Governing Council, 1957); American Medical Association (Chairman, Council on Foods and Nutrition, 1960); American Society of Biological Chemists (Member, Committee on Clinical Chemistry, 1956-60); American College of Physicians, Fellow; Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine.

from CHEMICAL & ENGINEERING NEWS, October 1, 1962
Copyright 1962 by the American Chemical Society
Reprinted by permission.

A SCIENTIST LOOKS AT "Silent Spring"

SILENT SPRING. By Rachel Carson. 368 pages. Houghton Mifflin Co., 2 Park St., Boston, Mass. 1962. $5.00.
Reviewed by Dr. William J. Darby.

"SILENT SPRING" starts with a bit of dramatic description of a situation which the author then acknowledges does not actually exist. It then orients the reader to its subject matter by stating that "only within... the present century has man ... acquired significant power to alter the nature of his world." It identifies as irrecoverable and "for the most part irreversible" the effects of "this now universal contamination of the environment (in which) chemicals are the sinister and little recognized partners of radiation in changing the very nature of the world, the very nature of life itself." Man has, according to Miss Carson, now upset that ideal state of "adjustment and balance" of life on this planet through "synthetic creations of man's inventive mind, brewed in his laboratory, and having no counterpart in nature." These products the reader is told, are "staggering in number," have "power to kill," have "incredible potential for harm," represent a "train of disaster," result in a "chemical death rain," and are being used with "little or no advance investigation of their effect on soil, water, wildlife, and man himself." She further warns the reader that all of these sinister chemicals will not only extinguish plant life, wild life, aquatic life, and man, but they will produce cancer, leukemia, sterility, and cellular mutations.

There are 297 pages devoted to reiteration of these views. There then follows a 55-page "list of principal sources" designed to impress the reader with the extent of the support for Miss Carson's views. This list uses an extender and is artificially colored and flavored. Its apparent bulk is made one third greater through devoting a line of type to identify each page on which a source bears, and by repeating in full the title of each source in relation to recurrent pages. Its bulk will appeal to those readers who are as uncritical as the author, or to those who find the flavor of her product to their taste. These consumers will include the organic gardeners, the antifluoride leaguers, the worshippers of "natural foods," those who cling to the philosophy of a vital principle, and other pseudo-scientists and faddists.

The flavor of this product is indicated in part by the source list. She refers frequently to testimony given at 1950, 1951, and 1952 Congressional hearings, seldom to later years, and to the opinions of Morton S. Biskind and W. C. Hueper. She ignores the sound appraisals of such responsible, broadly knowledgeable scientists as the President of the National Academy of Sciences, the members of the President's Scientific Advisory Committee, the presidents of the Rockefeller Foundation and Nutrition Foundation, the several committees of the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council (including the Food and Nutrition Board, the Agricultural Board, the Food Protection Committee) who have long given thoughtful study to these questions, and the special advisory committees appointed by the governors of California and Wisconsin. The latter committees were chaired by two distinguished scientist-presidents of universities, Dr. Emil Mrak and the late Dr. Conrad A. Elvehjem.

All of these groups of scientists have recognized the essentiality of use of agricultural chemicals to produce the food required by the expanding world population and to sustain an acceptable standard of living and health. They have recognized the safety of proper use of agricultural chemicals and, indeed, the benefits to the consumer which accrue from their proper use in food and agricultural production.

Miss Carson's book adds no new factual material not already known to such serious scientists as those concerned with these developments, nor does it include information essential for the reader to interpret the knowledge. It does confuse the information and so mix it with her opinions that the uninitiated reader is unable to sort fact from fancy. In view of the mature, responsible attention which this whole subject receives from able, qualified scientific groups such as those identified in the foregoing (and whom Miss Carson chooses to ignore); in view of her scientific qualifications in contrast to those of our distinguished scientific leaders and statesmen, this book should be ignored.

Logically, it should be possible to terminate this review here. Unfortunately, however, this book will have wide circulation on one of the standard subscription lists. It is doubtful that many readers can bear to wade through its high-pitched sequences of anxieties. It is likely to be perused uncritically, to be regarded by the layman as authoritative (which it is not), and to arouse in him manifestations of anxieties and psychoneuroses exhibited by some of the subjects cited by the author in the chapter "The Human Price." Indeed, the author's efforts at appraising psychologic evidence concerning the effects of substances reveal a remarkable lack of competence as a psychiatrist even as great a lack as in the area of toxicology or even knowledge of existing regulatory controls. The obvious effect of all of this on the reader will be to aggravate unjustifiably his own neurotic anxiety.

Her thesis is revealed by the dedicatory quotations: "Man has lost the capacity to foresee and to forestall. He will end by destroying the earth." (Albert Schweitzer) "Our approach to nature is to beat it into submission. We would stand a better chance of survival if we accommodated ourselves to this planet and viewed it appreciatively instead of skeptically and dictatorially." (E. B. White)

Such a passive attitude as the latter, coupled with such pessimistic (and to this reviewer, unacceptable) philosophy as the former, means the end of all human progress, reversion to a passive social state devoid of technology, scientific medicine, agriculture, sanitation, or education. It means disease, epidemics, starvation, misery, and suffering incomparable and intolerable to modern man. Indeed, social, educational, and scientific development is prefaced on the conviction that man's lot will be and is being improved by a greater understanding of and thereby increased ability to control or mold those forces responsible for man's suffering, misery, and deprivation.

The author's motivation is not quite so evident, but the emotional call to write the book is revealed by her acknowledgment that "In a letter written in January 1958, Olga Owens Huckins told me of her own bitter experience of a small world made lifeless, and so brought my attention sharply back to a problem with which I had long been concerned. I then realized I must write this book."

So impelled, Miss Carson has effectively used several literary devices to present her thesis and make it appear to be a widely held scientific one. She "name-drops" by quoting or referring to renowned scientists out of context. A statement divorced from its original meaning is then approximated to an opinion of the author or else to a question posed by her with an implied answer. The reader is led to conclude thereby that the authority mentioned is in accord with the author's position. Nobel prize winners are recognized as especially useful names for such a purpose.

Another device used is that of confusion of the reader with (to him) unintelligible scientific jargon or irrelevant discussions of cellular processes.

Miss Carson's failure to distinguish between the occupational and residue hazards is common to almost all popular writers on this subject. The occupational hazard associated with the manufacture and application of agricultural chemicals is similar to that of other work and can, should be, and is being reduced. That accidents have occurred is well known, but this is not more reason to ban useful chemicals than is the lamentable occurrence of preventable automobile or airplane accidents reason to ban these modern modes of transportation. Despite all of the implications of harm from residues on foods, Miss Carson has not produced one single example of injury resulting to man from these residues.

Miss Carson is infatuated with biological control and the balance of nature. Despite her statement that the really effective control of insects is that applied by nature, one must observe that the very ineffectiveness of such control is the raison d'ertre of chemical pesticides.

She commits the scientifically indefensible fallacy of considering that any substance which in any quantity is toxic must per se be a poison. By such a definition almost everything—water, salt, sugar, amino acids, minerals, vitamin A or D, etc.—is a poison. She gives the reader a mistaken concept of tolerances. Tolerances are not ill-defined levels of maximum quantities which can be ingested without acute harm. They are maximum amounts of a substance which should exist as a residue when the chemical has been employed in good and proper beneficial practice. They are based on extensive use data and toxicologic testing in animals and frequently metabolic studies in man. They include a very wide margin of safety, usually being set at 100 times the minimal amount of the substance which produces any physiologic effect in the most sensitive of at least two species of animals for lifetime or two- to four-year periods.

The benefit of use of chemicals, charges Miss Carson, is for the producer. She ignores the requirement under the Miller bill that a chemical must be effective, which means benefit to the consumer. She fails to recognize that "the consumer" includes the producer, farmer, wholesaler, retailer, equipment manufacturer, their families, and even the scientists who evaluate the chemicals. The toxicologists in industry, in the Food and Drug Administration, in our universities and research institutes have, as consumers, equal stake in protecting the nation's health as does Miss Carson—and are, I believe, better qualified to make those judgments necessary to assure this protection.

Her ignorance or bias on some of the considerations throws doubt on her competence to judge policy. For example, she indicates that it is neither wise nor responsible to use pesticides in the control of insect-borne diseases. The July-August 1962 World Health (WHO publication) reports that a malaria eradication program in Mexico has since 1957 reduced the malarious area from 978,185 sq. km. with 18 million inhabitants to 224,500 sq. km. with 1.5 million inhabitants. "In most areas the simple technique of indoor spraying of houses proved effective . . ."; where bedbugs were resistant to DDT, an insecticide mixture was successfully used. "As a result of the campaign, the Mexican Government is expanding its agricultural programme, distributing land, and undertaking irrigation and hydroelectric schemes." It is most doubtful that Miss Carson really is ignorant of these and other facts which any objective appraisal of this subject demands. Instead, it seems that a call to write a book has completely outweighed any semblance of scientific objectivity.

The public may be misled by this book. If it stimulates the public to press for unwise and ill-conceived restrictions on the production, use, or development of new chemicals, it will be the consumer who suffers. If, on the other hand, it inspires some users to read and heed labels more carefully, it may aid in the large educational effort in which industry, government, colleges, and many other groups are engaged (despite Miss Carson's implication that they are not).

The responsible scientist should read this book to understand the ignorance of those writing on the subject and the educational task which lies ahead.

FACTS ON THE USE OF PESTICIDES

Prepared by the New York State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, and the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station, Geneva, units of the State University, at Cornell University.

In the more than 75 years that man has employed chemicals to control insects, fungi, rodents, weeds and other pests, he has become increasingly dependent on them. This trend has been especially evident since World War II. In general, chemical pesticides have proved highly effective in attaining desired goals, although they have certain objectionable aspects. One of these is their actual or possible hazards to man and other forms of life. Individuals, of varying degrees of competence to make critical judgments in this field, have urged a drastic curtailment in pesticide use, and even a discontinuance of most of the synthetic compounds introduced in the past 20 years.

Since our economy, health, and recreational activities depend in large measure on the use of chemical pesticides, it seems timely and in the public interest to make an objective assessment of all aspects of this important subject.

Do we really need pesticides? This is hardly a debatable question. We not only need them, we are highly dependent on them, especially in the production of food and fiber crops. Without pesticides we would eat very poorly indeed in terms of both quality and quantity. Millions of people are alive today because of the use of DDT and other modern pesticides in suppressing insect-transmitted diseases of man such as malaria, yellow fever, and typhus. Witness, too, how we are relying on pesticides to stamp out the current outbreak of encephalitis in Florida. But if we use these materials, we cannot hope to be free from all possible objectionable consequences of their use. One such problem, for example, is the traces of pesticides that unavoidably may persist in or on some of our food crops beyond harvest.

Do these traces of pesticides constitute a health hazard to consumers? According to the best scientific evidence available, the traces that are allowed – and these are fixed by the Food and Drug Administration – constitute no known hazard. This question of allowable levels involves the "tolerance" concept. Its principle can be illustrated with table salt. As used in our foods, salt is employed at a safe or tolerable amount – for most individuals. At higher levels, however, it becomes a "poison." This was tragically illustrated in a Binghamton, N. Y., hospital recently when salt was accidentally substituted for sugar in the formula fed to new-born babies. All chemicals have their safe and toxic levels. For "toxic" materials such as certain pesticides these levels are simply lower than for table salt.

Before any pesticide can be sold it must undergo extensive feeding tests on laboratory animals. These tests may be continued for two years or longer, and involve several generations and thousands of laboratory animals. The FDA sets a tolerance – zero or otherwise – on the basis of this information. This level always represents an amount far below any that may have shown the beginnings of trouble in test animals. It often reflects a hundredfold safety factor. Most laymen will still ask why we allow even these traces. Fortunately, much of our food is free from them. But what is the meaning of "free" when we now have instruments capable of detecting up to 1 part of pesticide in 1 billion parts of product? Short of not using the material at all, common sense calls for setting the allowable level low enough to meet all safety requirements yet not so low as to prevent the use of a needed product. This is exactly what the FDA attempts to do.

Do pesticides pose a serious threat to wildlife? As a preface to this section two facts should be appreciated: (1) The harm man has done to wildlife in felling forests, tilling fields, draining wet places, polluting waters, and through urbanization, is of much greater consequence collectively, than are the relatively small and temporary losses that have occurred from pesticide use. (2) Of the total land (and water) area of the U. S. A., more than 95 percent receives no pesticides in a typical year; in the wildlands (about 75 percent of the total area) the figure is 99 percent.

As currently used in routine operations to control mosquitoes and pests of our farms and forests, the hazards to wildlife are generally considered to be small. In the past, greatest losses have occurred in special eradication programs, especially where high dosages of pesticides were used more or less indiscriminately over large areas. In the light of present knowledge, some of these programs were unsoundly based. That professionals in this field have profited from past mistakes is evidenced by the highly successful eradication programs against the screwworm fly and the medfly that have been conducted recently in Florida. These were judged to have had little or no effect on wildlife. Wildlife protection is a common interest. Therefore, we can all subscribe wholeheartedly to a plea made by a committee established by the National Academy of Sciences – National Research Council to study pesticide-wildlife problems. It reported: "In order to hold wildlife losses to a minimum, scientists representing all of the disciplines involved should unite forces in an all out effort to identify and evaluate specific hazards and to develop corrective measures for objectionable practices."

Are pesticides upsetting the balance of nature? This question implies that modern man is living under conditions of natural balance in relation to other forms of life. This is far from true regardless of where he lives, farms, or carries out his business enterprises. Man's progress, in fact, is largely measured by the degree to which he has been able to unbalance nature – to his advantage. It is often suggested that we use nature's tools to keep pests in check. Notice though, that there are no "pests" in nature. Pests are a concept of man. Species fluctuate periodically in numbers through competition with one another, but this is of no consequence under nature's grand design. Nature, we find, is usually much too slow and inefficient in control to meet man's standards. Anyone who has seen the eastern tent caterpillar totally defoliate wild cherry trees for two consecutive years before parasites, predators, and disease begin to get the upper hand will understand this. Scientists are exploring the possibilities of using biological methods in control. But experience to date shows that we cannot rely on them alone, particularly in intensive agricultural operations. To produce food at present high volume and quality we are dependent on chemical control measures primarily.

How much are pesticides misused? To some extent, of course. But such misuse is apparently no higher than occurs in any other similar human endeavors. A different logic seems to apply where misuse of pesticides is involved. This is the tendency to fix blame on the pesticide rather than on the person who misused it. When someone runs into a tree with an automobile, what or whom do we blame: automobiles in general, or the man who misused that particular one?

The number of farmers who willfully apply treatments nearer harvest than the law allows is quite small, for several reasons. Even if farmers were not law-abiding as a group – and they are – pesticides are expensive and farmers tend to use them only when needed. They know, too, that pest control treatments applied near harvest usually are of little avail. Reference has already been made to the misuses that have occurred in relation to wildlife. We must also recognize that some pesticide misuses have led to serious illnesses and even deaths. Certain pesticides are toxic at low dosage levels, so in common with many other chemicals, fatalities can occur if they are accidentally swallowed, intentionally swallowed, or are handled with gross carelessness. There is no question that farmers, for their personal safety, should handle and use pesticides with respect. The pesticide safety record of the farm is remarkably high.

Should "less toxic" pesticides be used? No simple answer can be given to this question, as can be illustrated with two insecticides, parathion and rotenone. Parathion is considered, rightly, to be highly toxic to both insects and man; rotenone, on the other hand, is rated relatively "safe." The danger in parathion use is to the farmer who applies the material, not to the consumer who eats parathion-treated crops. This chemical disappears rapidly from spray deposits. It thus may be safer, from the standpoint of the consumer than some less toxic pesticide that lays down deposits highly resistant to weathering. Rotenone is relatively nontoxic to humans, but it is highly toxic to fish. In fact, it is commonly used to exterminate unwanted species of fish from certain ponds or streams before restocking with wanted species. It has been suggested in the interest of safety that plant-derived pesticides such as rotenone, pyrethrum, and ryania be used in place of DDT and the other synthetic organic pesticides. Although these well-known botanicals have found limited use over the years, experience has demonstrated that they are too inefficient generally to cope with the total pest problem. A primary goal of insect toxicologists is to find pesticides with maximum differential toxicity. These would be highly toxic to certain insect species but of low toxicity to man. Examples of such synthetic products are malathion and Sevin.

Are there satisfactory alternatives to chemicals for pest control? As of today, no. This is not intended to belittle nonchemical control principles. Some, such as the breeding of disease-resistant crop varieties, have proved to be highly successful solutions to certain problems. Even in such instances, however, chemical treatments may be needed to protect the crop from diseases and insects other than the one to which the plant is resistant. Other nonchemical principles being actively explored for practical application include: use of various microbial agents; use of insect and mite parasites and predators; manipulation of plant nutrition; and use of various agronomic principles, such as crop rotation and time of planting.

Another method that seems to have important possibilities is the genetic approach. A dramatic demonstration of its application is the eradication of the screwworm fly through mass releases of sterilized males. Sterilization can be effected by irradiation or more cheaply now, possibly, by use of certain chemicals (chemosterilants). The technique used to control the screwworm probably can be applied advantageously to other pests. But there are still other ways in which genetic principles can be manipulated to combat pests.

However, the final standard that all control measures must meet is: do they work? Thus for the foreseeable future we must continue to rely heavily on chemical methods to cope with critical pest problems. We will undoubtedly develop better pesticides – safer, more effective, and perhaps less subject to pest circumvention through the development of resistant strains.

Can pesticides induce cancer or cause gene mutations? This is a consideration that flourishes better in the realm of speculation than in fact. Based on the same "evidence" in this area one can project a given assumption to mean almost everything, or, conversely, almost nothing. The list of substances that have been identified as carcinogens (cancer-producing) is very large. The number known to be mutagens (mutant-producing) is smaller but includes such well-known chemicals as caffeine and, possibly, table salt. The significance of such ratings of chemicals in terms of actual hazards to humans in normal exposure is a much debated subject among scientists.

None of the synthetic insecticides in use today is either carcinogenic or mutagenic. As a matter of fact, any that should be judged to be carcinogenic must, by present law, be given a zero tolerance. DDT has been strongly suspected of being mutagenic by some persons. But in 1957 a well-known geneticist, Professor James F. Crow, reported: "This study shows that DDT as ordinarily used does not have a significant effect on mutation rate."

CONCLUSIONS

Both the chemical and nonchemical methods in use today to control pests are the result of research that has been done by thousands of scientists in state and federal agencies, in industry, in our universities, and in private institutes. These persons include entomologists, plant pathologists, chemists, horticulturists, agronomists, veterinarians, medical scientists, pharmacologists, wildlife specialists, and others. Collectively, they are aware of the areas of both strength and of weakness in all the methods in use. Where the limitations in a given method are serious, two courses of action are followed: one is to eliminate the objectionable feature if possible or to reduce its importance; the other is to find a new material or method that does not have the drawback.

The public can do two things to bring about a better program of pest control. One is to learn more about all aspects of this important subject. The other is to support research, especially on new approaches in which human health hazards are nonexistent or minimal, and to support programs that endeavor to establish the facts about health hazards, if any, in existing control methods.

440 Crossways Pl.
Aiken, S.C.
11/16/62

Dear Sir:

A couple of months ago you printed a review of Silent Spring by an English professor that was somewhat noncommital. At the time I felt it would be much more valuable to hear a scientist's opinion of the book. I found such an opinion in the Chemical & Engineering News, and am sending it along in the hope it will prove equally interesting to you.

Sincerely yours,

Lee Ayden

BOOKS

Silence, Miss Carson

Silent Spring. RACHEL CARSON. 368 pages. Houghton Mifflin Co., 2 Park St., Boston, Mass. 1962. $5.00 Reviewed by Dr. William J. Darby.

Dr. Darby is professor and chairman of the department of biochemistry and director, division of nutrition, at Vanderbilt University school of medicine; member and past chairman of the Food Protection Committee, National Academy of Sciences–National Research Council; and a member of the NAS-NRC Food and Nutrition Board.

"Silent Spring" starts with a bit of dramatic description of a situation which the author then acknowledges does not actually exist. It then orients the reader to its subject matter by stating that "only within . . . the present century has man . . . acquired significant power to alter the nature of his world." It identifies as irrecoverable and "for the most part irreversible" the effects of "this now universal contamination of the environment [in which] chemicals are the sinister and little recognized partners of radiation in changing the very nature of the world, the very nature of life itself." Man has, according to Miss Carson, now upset that ideal state of "adjustment and balance" of life on this planet through "synthetic creations of man's inventive mind, brewed in his laboratory, and having no counterpart in nature." These products, the reader is told, are "staggering in number," have "power to kill," have "incredible potential for harm," represent a "train of disaster," result in a "chemical death rain," and are being used with "little or no advance investigation of their effect on soil, water, wildlife, and man himself." She further warns the reader that all of these sinister chemicals will not only extinguish plant life, wild life, aquatic life, and man, but they will produce cancer, leukemia, sterility, and cellular mutations.

There are 297 pages devoted to reiteration of these views. There then follows a 55-page "list of principal sources" designed to impress the reader with the extent of the support for Miss Carson's views. This list uses an extender and is artificially colored and flavored. Its apparent bulk is made one third greater through devoting a line of type to identify each page on which a source bears, and by repeating in full the title of each source in relation to recurrent pages. Its bulk will appeal to those readers who are as uncritical as the author, or to those who find the flavor of her product to their taste. These consumers will include the organic gardeners, the antifluoride leaguers, the worshipers of "natural foods," those who cling to the philosophy of a vital principle, and pseudo-scientists and faddists.

The flavor of this product is indicated in part by the source list. She refers frequently to testimony given at 1950, 1951, and 1952 Congressional hearings, seldom to later years, and to the opinions of Morton S. Biskind and W. C. Hueper.

The author ignores the sound appraisals of such responsible, broadly knowledgeable scientists as the President of the National Academy of Sciences, the members of the President's Scientific Advisory Committee, the Presidents of the Rockefeller Foundation and Nutrition Foundation, the several committees of the National Academy of Sciences–National Research Council (including the Food and Nutrition Board, the Agricultural Board, the Food Protection Committee) who have long given thoughtful study to these questions, and the special advisory committees appointed by the governors of California and Wisconsin. The latter committees were chaired by two distinguished scientist-presidents of universities, Dr. Emil Mrak and the late Dr. Conrad A. Elvehjem.

All of these groups of scientists have recognized the essentiality of use of agricultural chemicals to produce the food required by the expanding world population and to sustain an acceptable standard of living and health. They have recognized the safety of proper use of agricultural chemicals and, indeed, the benefits to the consumer which accrue from their proper use in food and agricultural production.

Miss Carson's book adds no new factual material not already known to such serious scientists as those concerned with these developments, nor does it include information essential for the reader to interpret the knowledge. It does confuse the information and so mix it with her opinions that the uninitiated reader is unable to sort fact from fancy. In view of the mature, responsible attention which this whole subject receives from able, qualified scientific groups such as those identified in the foregoing (and whom Miss Carson chooses to ignore); in view of her scientific qualifications in contrast to those of our distinguished scientific leaders and statesmen, this book should be ignored.

Logically, it should be possible to terminate this review here. Unfortunately, however, this book will have wide circulation on one of the standard subscription lists. It is doubtful that many readers can bear to wade through its high-pitched sequences of anxieties. It is likely to be perused uncritically, to be regarded by the layman as authoritative (which it is not), and to arouse in him manifestations of anxieties and psychoneuroses exhibited by some of the subjects cited by the author in the chapter "The Human Price." Indeed, the author's efforts at appraising psychologic evidence concerning the effects of substances reveal a remarkable lack of competence as a psychiatrist, even as great a lack as in the area of toxicology or even knowledge of existing regulatory controls. The obvious effect of all of this on the reader will be to aggravate unjustifiably his own neurotic anxiety.

Her thesis is revealed by the dedicatory quotations: "Man has lost the capacity to foresee and to forestall. He will end by destroying the earth." (Albert Schweitzer) "Our approach to nature is to beat it into submission. We would stand a better chance of survival if we accommodated ourselves to this planet and viewed it appreciatively instead of skeptically and dictatorially." (E. B. White)

Such a passive attitude as the latter, coupled with such pessimistic (and to this reviewer, unacceptable) philosophy as the former, means the end of all human progress, reversion to a passive social state devoid of technology, scientific medicine, agriculture, sanitation, or education. It means disease, epidemics, starvation, misery, and suffering incomparable and intolerable to modern man. Indeed, social, educational, and scientific development is prefaced on the conviction that man's lot will be and is being improved by a eight product problems

EMULSIFYING
THICKENING SUSPENDING STABILIZING
GELLING
PLASTICIZING BINDING FILM-FORMING

one simple solution

KELCO ALGIN
KELCO ALGIN
KELCO ALGIN
KELCO ALGIN
KELCO ALGIN
KELCO ALGIN
KELCO ALGIN
KELCO ALGIN

DESIGNED FOR CONTROLLED QUALITY

Data and technical service on request.
75 Terminal Avenue, Clark, New Jersey
20 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois
530 West Sixth St., Los Angeles, Cal.
Cable: KELCOALGIN CLARKNEWJERSEY greater understanding of and thereby increased ability to control or mold those forces responsible for man's suffering, misery, and deprivation.

The author's motivation is not quite so evident, but the emotional call to write the book is revealed by her acknowledgment that "In a letter written in January 1958, Olga Owens Huckins told me of her own bitter experience of a small world made lifeless, and so brought my attention sharply back to a problem with which I had long been concerned. I then realized I must write this book" (italics are the reviewer's).

So impelled, Miss Carson has effectively used several literary devices to present her thesis and make it appear to be a widely held scientific one. She "name-drops" by quoting or referring to renowned scientists out of context. A statement divorced from its original meaning is then approximated to an opinion of the author or else to a question posed by her with an implied answer. The reader is led to conclude thereby that the authority mentioned is in accord with the author's position. Nobel prize winners are recognized as especially useful names for such a purpose.

Another device used is that of confusion of the reader with (to him) unintelligible scientific jargon or irrelevant discussions of cellular processes.

Miss Carson's failure to distinguish between the occupational and residue hazards is common to almost all popular writers on this subject. The occupational hazard associated with the manufacture and application of agricultural chemicals is similar to that of other work and can, should be, and is being reduced. That accidents have occurred is well known, but this is no more reason to ban useful chemicals than is the lamentable occurrence of preventable automobile or airplane accidents reason to ban these modern modes of transportation. Despite all of the implications of harm from residues on foods, Miss Carson has not produced one single example of injury resulting to man from these residues.

Miss Carson is infatuated with biologic control and the balance of nature. Despite her statement that the really effective control of insects is that applied by nature, one must observe that the very ineffectiveness of such control is the raison d'etre of chemical pesticides.

She commits the scientifically indefensible fallacy of considering that any substance which in any quantity is toxic must per se be a poison. By such a definition almost everything—water, salt, sugar, amino acids, minerals, vitamins A or D, etc.—is a poison. She gives the reader a mistaken concept of tolerances. Tolerances are not ill-defined levels of maximum quantities which can be ingested without acute harm. They are maximum amounts of a substance which should exist as a residue when the chemical has been employed in good and proper beneficial practice. They are based on extensive use data and toxicologic testing in animals and frequently metabolic studies in man. They include a very wide margin of safety, usually being set at 100 times the minimal amount of the substance which produces any physiologic effect in the most sensitive of at least two species of animals for lifetime or two- to four-year periods.

The benefit of use of chemicals, charges Miss Carson, is for the producer. She ignores the requirement under the Miller bill that a chemical must be effective, which means benefit to the consumer. She fails to recognize that "the consumer" includes the producer, farmer, wholesaler, retailer, equipment manufacturer, their families, and even the scientists who evaluate the chemicals. The toxicologists in industry, in the Food and Drug Administration, in our universities and research institutes have, as consumers, equal stake in protecting the nation's health as does Miss Carson—and are, I believe, better qualified to make those judgments necessary to assure this protection.

Her ignorance or bias on some of the considerations throws doubt on her competence to judge policy. For example, she indicates that it is neither wise nor responsible to use pesticides in the control of insect-borne diseases. The July-August 1962 World Health (WHO publication) reports that a malaria eradication program in Mexico has since 1957 reduced the malarious area from 978,185 sq. km. with 18 million inhabitants to 224,500 sq. km. with 1.5 million inhabitants. "In most areas the simple technique of indoor spraying of houses proved effective . . ."; where bedbugs were resistant to DDT, an insecticide mixture was successfully used. "As a result of the campaign, the Mexican Government is expanding its agricultural programme, distributing land, and undertaking irrigation and hydroelectric schemes." It is most doubtful that Miss Carson really is ignorant of these and other facts which any objective appraisal of this subject demands. Instead, it seems that a call to write a book has completely outweighed any semblance of scientific objectivity.

The public may be misled by this book. If it stimulates the public to press for unwise and ill-conceived restrictions on the production, use, or development of new chemicals, it will be the consumer who suffers. If, on the other hand, it inspires some users to read and heed labels more carefully, it may aid in the large educational effort in which industry, government, colleges, and many other groups are engaged (despite Miss Carson's implication that they are not).

The responsible scientist should read this book to understand the ignorance of those writing on the subject and the educational task which lies ahead.

NEW BOOKS

Acrole

The Nutrition Foundation, Inc.

NINETY-NINE PARK AVENUE
NEW YORK 16, N. Y.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

TELEPHONE
MURRAY HILL 7-4830

December, 1962

I am writing you because many responsible citizens, including both scientists and non-scientists, are increasingly concerned about the promotion of Rachel Carson's book "Silent Spring" as if it were a reliable and "scientific" document.

As president of The Nutrition Foundation and as immediate past president of the American Public Health Association, I believe that it is important to keep the record straight -- to recognize factual evidence with reasonable interpretation and to be equally critical of distortion and bias, irrespective of the skill and popularity of a writer.

You will find four reprints of articles enclosed with this letter. They are reviews of "Silent Spring," and comments on its areas of concern, prepared by independent distinguished scientists who have had many years of active responsibility in the field covered by this book. Dr. Darby is professor of biochemistry and nutrition in the School of Medicine at Vanderbilt University, and for several years has served as chairman of the Food Protection Committee of the National Academy of Sciences - National Research Council (the top scientific advisory body to the national government) and as chairman of the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association. The other reviews are written by men of comparable stature as scientists who are familiar with the subject matter of the book, and likewise are in independent positions and widely recognized for their integrity as public-spirited citizens.

I hope that you will take the time to read these comments -- for they reflect the opinion of a large, responsible, independent and highly qualified segment of the scientific community.

The problems of health protection, while making desirable use of agricultural chemicals that are major contributors to human progress, are indeed difficult. Governmental, academic and industrial scientists and their respective executives are fully conscious of this -- and, on the whole, their record for competent performance and diligence in protecting the public interest is excellent. As in all walks of life, however, there have been instances of bad judgment, carelessness and accidents. These are a part of the cost of normal, true progress -- as in developing the use of automobiles, airplanes, and electricity. But, there has not been gross negligence or evasion of responsibility for protecting human health. Corrective measures have steadily superseded real evidence of risks -- a pattern of progress well established through twenty years of experience before the book appeared.

The problem is magnified in that publicists and the author's adherents among the food faddists, health quacks, and special interest groups are promoting her book as if it were scientifically irreproachable and written by a scientist.

Neither is true. The book presents almost solely selected information that is negative and uses such bits from a period of many years to build a vastly distorted picture. The author is a professional journalist -- not a scientist in the field of her discussion -- and misses the very essence of science in not being objective either in citing the evidence or in its interpretation.

It is to be regretted that the sales of "Silent Spring" are benefiting the many special interest groups who are now feeding on its publicity. These groups, who are profiting from the atmosphere it attempts to create, are those who advertise and promote to gull and frighten Americans about our food and our health. Their advertisements are designed to convince us that our forests, farms and food are poisoned, our health has failed -- but that a long and happy life awaits if only we will buy or follow panacea "X."

Their alarmist advertising is aimed right at our pocketbooks. They can well afford this publicity and advertising, for each year they sell more than 750-million dollars worth of fakes and nostrums to a gullible public. They poison minds for profit, and Miss Carson's book has become a tool in their hands. Her own selection of persons to quote in formulating alarms and opinions, however, sets the stage for multiplying the distortion.

The net effect is a stimulus to the anti-scientists -- those in each generation who would block such steps forward as the development of vaccines, techniques of transfusion, experimentation with animals to advance surgery, and the control of malaria, tooth decay and typhus; and who seek to nullify the dedicated efforts of those who work to make us less subject to the whims of a hostile environment.

Strenuous efforts are made to avoid accidents and carelessness in the use of agricultural chemicals, and progress in that direction has been relatively good. To place this situation in perspective, during the past year there were twice as many deaths caused by the misuse of aspirin as were caused by agricultural chemicals. Compared with these few dozens, there were over 35,000 deaths caused by automobile accidents alone in the same year.

An agricultural chemical, like the auto, and almost everything in life, can be hazardous when used carelessly. Most persons handle chemicals with care and follow directions. Superior products, tighter regulations, more effective inspections, improved methods of testing, and more effective programs of consumer education -- all are developing steadily as a normal function of progress. Within reason these are all heartily supported by leaders in agriculture, in the food industry and in the chemical industry.

There is ground for satisfaction, and a sound basis for confidence in the future, in the fact that in parallel with the steady increase in the use of agricultural chemicals during the past twenty years, there has been a steady decrease in the deaths due to accidental poisoning by both solid and liquid agents.

I do not believe, as Miss Carson asserts in her story, that man, in the use of agricultural chemicals -- essential to producing an adequate food supply -- is in dire danger of irreversibly polluting his environment, poisoning his fellow man, and damaging the heredity of the human race.

Most well-informed scientists would agree heartily with a summary statement that our food has never been better or safer, our health and life span never more favorable, and never before has science done so much to improve standards of living in the best sense of citizenship goals.

There is no sound basis for maligning the integrity, objectivity and competence of executives and scientists in industry, agriculture, education and government, as does Miss Carson. I have known them and worked with them long enough to challenge forthrightly such implication. It is most unfortunate that a writer of such skill should present so distorted a picture to the public.

The Manufacturing Chemists' Association, which joins with us to see that relevant information is brought to your attention, appreciates, as we do, the time you have given to review this correspondence.

Sincerely yours,

C. G. King

C. G. King
President

SOME COMMENTS ON "SILENT SPRING"

A Review by Fredrick J. Stare, B.S., M.S., Ph.D., M.D.

SINCE FOOD FADDISTS, theatre critics, news commentators and other self-appointed protectors of the public welfare have written critical estimates of Silent Spring, Miss Rachel Carson's controversial book on the effect of agricultural chemicals on man's environment, there seems to be no reason to bar a research chemist and physician, whose principal interest is food and nutrition. Particularly, since a very large part of Miss Carson's work touches on the matter of the safety and wholesomeness of our food supply.

Though I disagree strongly with Miss Carson's central conclusions, undoubtedly she has rendered a service by obliquely arousing an apathetic, unscientific public to a most serious problem — providing enough food for an exploding population, and protecting man from the scourge of epidemic disease.

However, I doubt that this was her purpose. Her book is an emotional picture of the disaster we possibly court through our wide-scale use of agricultural chemicals, and is filled with horrendous examples of how pesticides are polluting our rivers, destroying wildlife and impairing the health of human beings. Throughout, she asserts that we are destroying the balance of nature, and ourselves in the process, and that we must adopt a radically new approach or consign ourselves to certain death.

Miss Carson writes with passion and with beauty, but with very little scientific detachment. Dispassionate scientific evidence and passionate propaganda are two buckets of water that simply can't be carried on one person's shoulders.

The bucket that springs a leak in Miss Carson's case is the scientific evidence. Through omission and commission (the only two ways to commit sin) Miss Carson flounders as a scientist in this book.

So far, through the broad application of a brilliant technology which includes the wide use of agricultural chemicals, man has managed to stave off starvation, disease, and social and political unrest in many parts of the world. But in those areas of the world where chemical technology is not highly developed, disease, famine and social and political unrest are the order of the day.

The fact that the public does not recognize the enormous debt it owes the scientist can have disastrous consequences many times more serious than the alleged risks Miss Carson fears from life-saving chemistry.

In 1956, Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, warned against the unscientific attitude of the public in these words:

"Today our great problem and opportunity is to let science be itself and thus realize its full potential for good. The beneficent applications of science should be given a clear field to reduce the forces tending toward war. The hazard we face is that science will be so identified with destruction, and so hemmed in by security considerations, that its real significance will be lost, its ranks weakened, and its creativity diminished. If American science is to continue to prosper, if it is to continue to attract its proper complement of creative and gifted minds, scientists must combat the notions that science and engineering are incompatible with the disciplines of the great humanities, that they are narrowly materialistic and destructive of human values."[1]

Unfortunately, Miss Carson implicitly accuses the scientific community of disparaging human values. In doing so, she abandons scientific proof and truth and combats them with exaggeration and unscientific deductive reasoning based on axioms of her own making.

Silent Spring is so selective in the instances Miss Carson chooses to make her points that information the public should know about does not get through to them. It may be, of course, that her research simply was not adequate enough to bring these facts to light — although they are known to almost every science writer and scientist. For example: new chemicals to kill insects which have become resistant to old chemical formulations do not have to be more and more poisonous. In fact, they are usually less so.

Also — to refute Miss Carson — research in biological controls—using insects and disease to destroy from NUTRITION REVIEWS, January, 1963. Reprinted by permission.

FREDRICK J. STARE

DR. STARE is Professor of Nutrition and Chairman of the Department of Nutrition, School of Public Health, Harvard University.

He holds or has held the following posts: Member, Food and Nutrition Board, National Research Council; Consultant on Nutrition to United States Public Health Service and Interdepartmental Committee on Nutrition for National Defense; Member, Health Advisory Committee on Intergovernmental Relations; Member, Committee on Aging, Veterans Administration; Member, National Health Education Committee; Fellow, American Public Health Association; Fellow, Society of Experimental Biology and Medicine; Member, National Advisory Committee on Primates in Medical Research, National Institute of Health; National Research Council Fellow, School of Medicine, Washington University; General Education Board Fellow, Cambridge University; Szeged, Hungary; Zurich, Switzerland; Research Associate, Bowman Cancer Foundation, Wisconsin; Associate, Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston.

He is Editor, Nutrition Reviews and author of the column "Food and Your Health."

His professional societies include: American Medical Association; American Institute of Nutrition; American Society of Biological Chemists; American Chemical Society, Biochemical Society (England); Nutrition Society (England); American Society for Study of Arteriosclerosis; American Society for Clinical Investigation; American Heart Association.

other insects — is not being ignored by either industry or the government. Research and experiments have gone on for a long time. In fact, there has been a recent dramatic breakthrough in which chemicals have been used to create a biological type of control: reporting on the insect sterilization activity of certain chemical compounds, scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture claim to have halted reproduction completely in insects of several species (house flies, mosquitos, Mexican fruit flies) by use of chemicals.[2]

Miss Carson says she speaks for wildlife experts. Does she speak for the fish and game authorities who depend on agricultural chemicals to thin out overconstricting wooded areas, increase the quality of our natural resources, and provide better game refuge? Does she speak for experts like Walter Dykstra of U. S. Fish and Wildlife service? He says, talking about chemicals, "We couldn't get along without them."[3]

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, in a less than favorable review of Silent Spring, pointed out "Miss Carson abhors the loss of shelter for wildlife caused by the spraying of weed killers along roadsides. Everyone recognizes that controlled road embankments are a safety factor necessary to increased vision. Weed killers provide an economical and effective method of controlling these hazards, and for better or for worse, this is necessary to our way of life. However, only a small portion of wildlife cover is lost as the result of such spraying. Far more is destroyed when vast acreages are cleared for housing developments and wildernesses are torn apart for super highways; these also are necessary to our civilization."[4]

Some general statements may be made about some of her allegations:

- The examples she cites to show the lethal effects of pesticides are all examples of improper use. If she had so labeled them, she would have done a great deal of good by arousing the public to the necessity for caution and for following directions in the use of chemicals.
- She implies that the deaths due to insecticides are many. As a matter of fact, there has never been one medically-documented death due to proper use of insecticides. Deaths due to improper use, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, totaled 89 last year.[5] Improper use of any substance can cause harm or even death. For example, aspirin alone accidently kills about 150 a year, most of them children. No one has yet suggested we do away with aspirin — or automobiles, which kill thousands of people.
- Residues of DDT do build up in stored fat in humans but not to harmful levels and they are not permanent.[6] Further there is no evidence that ill health in man, except for those few who may have a true allergy to DDT, has ever been caused from DDT residues or foods. If you'll accept that scientific fact, then you will have to discount many of Miss Carson's most hair-raising examples from which she makes possibility projections.
- The book attempts to mobilize farmers, conservationists, and the general public against an enormous, heartless pesticide industry. Not only does the industry account for less than 1% of total annual sales of chemical products, but it amounts to only slightly more than a modest $300 million of sales annually.[7] There must be several hundred American corporations each of whom do that much business alone.
- Those within nearest call of Miss Carson's trumpet, farmers and conservationists, say they cannot do their jobs without agricultural chemicals. If this latter thought intrigues you, I suggest you look into how pesticides are helping to clear the Great Lakes of the pernicious lamprey[8] and are restoring the fish population, and how they are used in wildlife management to increase the game supply. Miss Carson unfortunately leaves these kinds of facts out of her story.

Another thought that intrigued me after reading Miss Carson's presentation is why there was no effort to get opinions straight from the mouths of some of America's farmers — the men who supposedly know the perils as well as the profits of pesticides as a part of their day to day existence. Roswell Garst came to my mind immediately. As most people know, he's the Coon Rapids, Iowa farmer that all the visiting Russian agriculturalists and crop specialists make a bee-line for — to find out how they can use his, and our, techniques to keep Russia and Red China from starving to death. I remember a story from The New York Times of September 17, reporting on a visit of the Soviet Minister of Agricultural Sciences to the Garst farm the day previous. I think Mr. Garst stated the case pretty well. As the Times quoted him, "Mr. Garst, during a lecture on commercial fertilizers and weed killers, declared that the success of American Agriculture was the result of a 'combination of the chemical industry with agriculture.' "

My principle associate at Harvard, Professor D. M. Hegsted, and I beat Mr. Garst to this punch line by eight years when in an article in the Scientific Monthly (September, 1954) we wrote: "The farmer and the chemist together can do a better job of solving the problem of global nutrition than either can alone."[9]

Lone final comment: a curious paradoxical situation has resulted from publication of Silent Spring. Many of the reviewers who have dealt with the book have referred to Miss Carson as "a distinguished scientist." As a consequence, some of the public accepts Miss Carson as the spokesman for the scientific community, a community supposedly up in arms against a heartless, profit-seeking chemical industry led by non-scientists. Nothing could be further from the truth. Miss Carson is a distinguished author.

Listen to these phrases:

"...never ending stream of chemicals...now pervading the world...acting upon us directly and indirectly, separately and collectively. Their presence casts a shadow that is no less ominous because it is formless and obscure..." Lovely writing, but the implication of harm to our health is just not true.

"As the tide of chemicals...has arisen to engulf our environment..." Was the word "engulf" overly dramatic? Why not the word "benefit"?

"...few if any foods can be relied upon to be entirely free of DDT." True, but residues are well below the minimum tolerances.

"This piling up of chemicals from many sources creates a total exposure that cannot be measured." True, but no known ill health in man has resulted and life expectancy in this country continues to increase at every age.

"Today we are concerned with a different kind of hazard that lurks in our environment..." Was "lurks" a good choice of a word? It is an emotional one, but is it an honest one?

It is unfortunate for the scientific community and for the nation as a whole that Miss Carson's book is promoted by its publicists and proponents as the work of a scientist. I have seen no evidence in Silent Spring which justifies calling Miss Carson a scientist. Unfortunately, what evidence there is would lead me to the opposite conclusion. I believe that many scientists I know would agree that in Miss Carson's case, research limited to selective reading, plus the urging of "friends" with special interests, is certainly no diploma of equivalency for the academic training and experience required for authority in this area.

Miss Carson is a literary luminary — and one of splendid accomplishment. That is no mean feat. Miss Carson could have written a book which would have helped bridge the gap between science and the public, instead of one which widens the gulf.

REFERENCES

1. New Worlds of Modern Science. Leonard Engel, editor. New York: Dell Publishing Co., Inc., 1956. p. 12.
2. Borkovec, A. B. "Sexual Sterilization of Insects by Chemicals." Science, Vol. 137, No. 3535, Sept. 28, 1962. pp. 1034-1037.
3. "You're Accused of Poisoning Foods." Farm Journal. Sept. 1962. pp. 29, 52.
4. "The Not So Silent Spring." Pennsylvania Horticultural Society News. Vol. III, No. 8, Sept. 1962, p. 1.
5. Farm Journal op. cit.
6. Farm Journal. op. cit.
7. Manufacturing Chemists' Association, Inc. September 1962.
8. Pest Control and Wildlife Relationships: Part I, Evaluation of Pesticide-Wildlife Problems. Publication 920-A. Washington, D.C.: National Academy of Sciences — National Research Council, 1962. p. 25.
9. Hegsted, D. M. and F. J. Stare. "Agriculture vs. Chemistry in the Nutrition of Man." Scientific Monthly. 79: 177-179. Sept. 1954.

"CAUSE FOR CONCERN"

Man Manipulates Himself in Tampering With His Environment

Perhaps the most critical and most often ignored resource is man's total environment. Increasing awareness of the importance of understanding the balances of nature is reflected in the gradual development of interest in ecological studies. The study of the interaction of all biologic species, among themselves and with the inanimate forces of nature, requires coordination of the contributions of all the sciences, natural and social.

The wisdom of examining environment in the totality of its interaction with man becomes increasingly apparent in view of the rapidity of environmental change in our country. We live in a period of social and technological revolution, in which man's ability to manipulate the processes of nature for his own economic and social purposes is increasing at a rate which his forebears would find frightening.

Man is altering the balance of a relatively stable system by his pollution of the atmosphere with smoke, fumes, and particles from fossil fuels, industrial chemicals, and radioactive material; by his alteration of the energy and water balance at the earth's surface by deforestation, afforestation, cultivation of land, shading, mulching, over-grazing grasslands, reduction of evapotranspiration, irrigation, drainage of large swamp lands, and the building of cities and highways; by his clearing forests and alterations of plant surface cover, changing the reflectivity of the earth's surface and soil structures; by his land-filling, construction of buildings and seawalls, and pollution, bringing about radical changes in the ecology of estuarine areas; by the changes he effects in the biologic balance and the physical relocation of water basins through the erection of dams and channel works; and by the increasing quantities of carbon dioxide an industrial society releases to the atmosphere.

There is a continuing worldwide movement of population to the cities. The patterns of society are being rapidly rearranged, and new sets of aspirations, new evaluations of what constitutes a resource, and new requirements in both type and quantity of resources are resulting.

The effects on man himself of the changes he has wrought in the balance of great natural forces and in the new microenvironment which he has created are but dimly perceived and not at all well understood. The following examples suggested by observable changes in environment illustrate questions for which answers should be sought through research.

Environmental Health and Disease. Little is known of the short-term or long-term effects on man's health and productivity of the great variety of air and water pollutants, in terms of his ability to adapt, to build up resistance over what periods of time, and to tolerate what levels of toxicity. Neurological disorders and physiological reactions have been traced to some of these pollutants.

Geographic and Time Distribution of Disease. Diseases such as cancer and heart disease are in some way environmentally linked, but the mechanisms of linkage are not now known. As various environments have become more industrialized they have shown a rise in certain types of cancer, a drop in others.

The Environment and Biological Functioning. Man, after tens of thousands of years of very slow, very gradual change in environment, has in the past few hundred years made radical and abrupt changes to which he has to adjust more rapidly than ever before. Evidence indicates significant physiological and psychological reactions to such changes, but neither the causes nor the short- or long-range results are clear. Among the changed regimes which produce these physical and mental effects, still to be precisely identified and measured, are: the provision of artificial climates for increasing numbers of our population, changes in the light-dark cycles, changes in temperature and humidity, and increase in ambient noise levels.

There is a host of components of the physical atmosphere that are bioclimatic in nature, which affect, or in some cases are presumed to affect, human biology. Those known to have such effects include motion of air, atmospheric pressure fluctuations, the chemical composition of air, ionizing radiations, and atmospheric electricity. In the "presumed-effects" group are radio waves, long-wave radiation, space charges, electrostatic fields, and variations in atmospheric pressures.

Climatic Modifications. Man has worked assiduously to control or change natural phenomena for his benefit. He has tried particularly to influence weather and climate by modification of the atmosphere. There has been a long history of efforts to induce precipitation artificially, to cause the dissipation of cloud cover, and to reduce the violence of storms.

Many of the questions relating to the artificial induction of rain are far from settled; there is no solid basis at present either for rejection or for optimism. In cloud dissipation, it has been demonstrated that the seeding technique used for inducing precipitation could be used to cut holes in clouds as well, but this effect has not proved particularly practical yet.

Seeding of hurricanes, extratropical cyclones, and thunderstorms to dissipate or release their effects has been tried only on a limited scale, and as yet without significant results. Understanding of the development and movement of such disturbances is so imperfect that it is doubtful that a significant, man-induced influence could now be recognized. Any program to control storms must await the development of understanding of the natural processes involved.

In summary, it is apparent that man must concern himself with a variety of changes in the environment, both those caused by human beings and those reflecting man's responses. Some are good; some may be very harmful. That we often do not have any clear-cut idea of their impact on man, or of man's response, is cause for concern. It would seem unwise to continue to tamper with environment without, concurrently, striving to determine the real and lasting effects of our actions.

—Committee on National Resources, National Academy of Sciences in "National Resources: A Summary Report to the President of the U.S.A." (NAS Publication No. 1,000)

THE RESEARCH FRONTIER

—from "The Violent Gang"

WHERE IS SCIENCE TAKING US? Away from planet earth, at what scientists quite appropriately call "escape" speed. Unconsciously in some cases, consciously in others, thousands of men and women are vicariously joining exploration of the sky-ocean as relief from the problems of home. Perhaps the most widely discussed event of recent decades was the Soviet launching of the first spaceship, Sputnik 1, in October 1957. How much have you heard about something that happened in New York City's Highbridge Park just three months earlier?

On 30 July 1957, a boy named Michael Farmer, aged 15 years, crippled by polio, was stabbed and stomped to death near an upper East Side swimming pool. No money was taken from the boy's mutilated body. No matter of personal revenge was involved. According to all the information that police could piece together

By LEWIS YABLONSKY
University of California

IT IS the contention of this article that a new type of criminal is at large.

This new breed of sociopathic offender is replacing the old sociological model described in Edwin H. Sutherland's classic theory of "differential association." A grossly over-simplified description of Sutherland's model would say that criminals learn to become criminal from association with other offenders. They are trained into criminal patterns at an early age in a school of criminal modus operandi, which specifies certain criminal values and behavior patterns. In "Principles of Criminology" (Lippincott, 1947), Sutherland cited the "professional thief" as a case example:

> Professional thieves make a regular business of theft. They use techniques which have been developed over a period of centuries and transmitted to them through traditions and personal association. They have codes of behavior, esprit de corps, and consensus. They have a high status among other thieves and in the political and criminal underworld in general. They have differential association in the sense that they associate with each other and not, on the same basis, with outsiders, and also in the sense that they select their colleagues.
>
> Because of this differential association they develop a common language or argot which is relatively unknown to persons not in the profession. And they have organization. A thief is a professional when he has these six characteristics: regular work at theft, technical skill, consensus, status, differential association, and organization.
>
> Professional thieves have their group ways of behavior for the principal situations which confront them in their criminal activities. Consequently professional theft is . . . a sociological entity.

This image of the old-fashioned criminal characterizes him as a resourceful, well-trained and effective felon; a member of a profession (albeit illegal) with certain ethics and values which dictate his conduct. In criminal jargon, the "professional thief" had "class" or "character." He would not "give his buddies up" and he even proscribed certain victims. Assault and violence were used as a means to an end—not as an end in themselves.

In sharp contrast to the personality just described is a young modern violent gang member who told me, after a brutal homicide in which he had been involved:

> "I have my mind made up I'm not going to be in no gang. Then I go on inside. Something comes up. Then here all my friends coming to me. Like I said before, I'm intelligent and so forth. They be coming to me—then they talk to me about what they gonna do. Like, 'Man, we'll go out here and kill this cat.' I say, 'Yeah. They kept on talkin'. I said, 'Man, I just gotta go with you.' Myself, I don't want to go, but when they start talkin' about what they gonna do, I say, 'So, he isn't gonna take over my rep. I ain't gonna let him be known more than me.' And I go ahead, just for selfishness . . ."

This type of senseless violence is perpetrated for ego status—for "kicks" or "thrills." The "kicks" involve and produce a type of emotional euphoria which, the new criminal maintains, "makes me feel good." He does it "for selfishness." The goals of the crime are self-oriented in a primary fashion with material gain as a very secondary consideration.

IF the criminal gang involved in burglary and robbery represented the "professional" model criminal behavior patterns of the past, the modern violent gang in many respects represents the prototype structure for the new criminal. This is not to say that criminal gangs do not exist today or that violent gangs were not active in the past; but it is to say that the dominant emphasis has shifted to the wilder criminal and the wilder organization structure—his gang.

The violent gang is characterized more specifically by many or all of the following factors:

There is no evidence of prior contact or interaction between the assailants and their victim.

The act occurs in an unpremeditated, generally spontaneous and impulsive manner.

In some cases (particularly, for example, in violent gang assault), there is a degree of prior build-up to the act; however, the final consequence (often homicide) is not really anticipated.

The violent collectivity has indicated by prior behavior or personality factors a potentiality for the commission of violence for some period of time.

The post-rationale expressed by the offenders for the violent behavior is usually without regret or at least inappropriate to the act committed.

As an individual offender, the new criminal may be classified as follows. He has a persistent pattern of deviant behavior characterized by an almost total disregard for the rights and feelings of others. A listing of overt personality and behavior traits of this brand of sociopath would include most, if not all, of the following factors (1) limited social conscience, (2) egocentrism dominates most interaction, "instrumental manipulation" of others for self-afterward, Michael Farmer did not know his assailants nor did his killers know their victim.

Sociologist Lewis Yablonsky documented that horror story in "The Violent Gang," a book published by Macmillan in 1962. Since the book's appearance, he has gathered further insight into senseless executions by neighborhood toughs. At the 1962 annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Philadelphia last December, he boiled his findings down to a description of "The New Criminal." Although he took personal responsibility, as Associate Professor of Sociology and Social Welfare at the University of California (Los Angeles), for the summation before the Criminology Section of the AAAS, he acknowledged the research collaboration of one of his graduate students, John Irwin. Below are their conclusions, adapted for publication in SR/Research.

—Henry Anderson.

Lewis Yablonsky

advantage (rather than effective relating), (3) inability to forego immediate pleasure for future goals, (4) habit of pathological lying to achieve personal advantage (according to Hervey Cleckley in "The Mask of Sanity," the sociopaths' feelings and emotions are "word deep"), and (5) violent outbursts when blocked from momentary goals.

Borrowing a criterion from David Riesman's "Lonely Crowd," we may say that another observed characteristic of the new criminal basic personality involved a shift from "inner-direction" to "other-direction." Perhaps the change in the basic personality which has taken place in the middle-class person in the United States (as described by Riesman) can be equated with the shift in the basic personality of the criminal. The overall shift of social forces which formed the causal context of change in the middle-class man also appears to have produced changes in the participant in criminal culture.

The "inner-directed" person (old criminal) is more concerned with concrete material gain and less with psychic emotional gratification characteristic of the "other-directed" individual (new criminal). The business of the criminal of the past was making money and to make money took skill. Highly skilled professionals thus emerged within the criminal subcultures. As in the legitimate society, the skills were those that allowed the person to manipulate the material world. Burglary, robbery, hi-jacking, forgery, counterfeiting methods and other professional skills became highly developed. The old criminal was secure in himself and developed his professional craft. He not only knew how to "pull a caper," but how to do it in the "cleanest" way possible. This implied a knowledge of law, court proceedings, police methods, and many other aspects of the "caper."

The old criminal had to make contacts with trusted people whom he needed in the pursuit of his criminal work. He had to trust others to cooperate with his criminal venture. This often meant using a steady "fence" when dealing in merchandise. He often made contracts with lawyers whom he could trust, who were "right." They would afford him legal advice before a crime and would go to bat for him if he were caught. There was even a right way for the old criminal who couldn't "beat the rap" to "do time" when he was caught. The training for it was directed toward getting out with a minimum sentence. It also prescribed the correct behavior in relation to other criminals, officials, "bulls," and other "cons" while "in stir." Inherent in the old criminal society was an important factor which fostered the old cohesive criminal subculture. This was the presence of role models for the maturing delinquent. The means for criminal success were clear. The apprentice had available to him exemplary models.

Partly because the old style criminal models were of limited variety, the new criminal has adopted among other traits a new style. He is "cool" or "hip." The manipulative principle of relating has perhaps filtered down from the middle-class competitive system. For the new criminal, "how to win friends and influence people" becomes interpreted to mean how to beat a "mark" (victim).

This new definition of how to earn money has a different emphasis from the former definition. The old thief was out to make money in the cleanest, quickest, fastest way. The new "hip" criminal is out to make money, too, but of equal importance to him is beating someone in the process, by manipulating them and so making himself look "sharp" to others. The emphasis is often on the sharpness rather than on making money. The means for theft become an end.

A central theme in hipsterism is "having a ball" or getting "kicks." "The main purpose of life for the cat is to experience the 'kick.'" A "kick" may be any act tabooed by "squares" which heightens and intensifies the present moment of experience and differentiates it as much as possible from the humdrum routine of daily life. Seeking "kicks" naturally will be the main concern of youths with no commitment to any goals beyond daily proving oneself.

Violence often replaces "hip" talk and "coolness" (verbal manipulations for ego needs) in this scheme. It becomes an important "rep"-making device. As one youth involved in a gang killing told me:

> "If I would of got the knife, I would have stabbed him. That would of gave me more of a build-up. People would have respected me for what I've done and things like that. They would say, 'There goes a cold killer.'"

Addiction to alcohol or drugs can be seen as another convenient and amenable pattern for the new criminal. If one views hipsterism, "coolness" and "kicks" as overt symptom patterns of an underdeveloped self, it is logical to anticipate how the drug addiction symptom could also take over. In many ways, addiction is a new fad which the "other-directed" criminal has grabbed onto. As one "hip" criminal stated:

> "Man, getting on drugs is like putting all your little bills in one easy package. When you become hooked, you only got one problem: getting stuff."

The basic personality of the "other-directed" criminal makes him very susceptible to drug addiction. All that he requires to start using drugs is to come into contact with a drug-using collectivity. He is seeking "kicks," trying to keep up with the trends of his culture, trying to be "hip;" so if drugs are "the scene," the "other-directed" criminal will "make it."

In summary, the new criminal is "kicks"-oriented, be it violence, drugs or being a hipster. As an "other-directed" personality, he is amenable and susceptible to criminal fads or new scenes. As a sociopath, he is not totally disoriented from the larger society. However, he characteristically has a limited social conscience or concern for others. He is undersocialized to the legal society, and his own criminal subculture has few clear and binding rules or demands.

This is in marked contrast with the well-trained old criminal who assumed responsibility for relating positively to his cohorts in their criminal activities. He had "character" and "ethics" in his criminal pursuits.

The new criminal, by contrast, would and does literally give his crime partner up in return for an offer of a "fix" or a "pill."

The causal context from which the new criminal personality has risen seems to include the following forces:

1. The shift from a stable slum condition to a disorganized slum. The high delinquency areas of the past had a stable population. A criminal hierarchy could develop. There was room at the top for an enterprising "hood" if he trained with an older criminal and had vision. The modern scene emphasizes "kicks" and achievement in the "here and now," because there is no criminal ladder to climb in the shifting slum.

2. Because of the current limited neighborhood criminal hierarchy, there is a concomitant limited training or recruitment system for the youth personally predisposed towards a life of professional crime. As a corollary of this fact, good professional criminal role models and educators are disappearing.

The downfall of the old criminal culture is also partly due to improved police methods. New safes, new detection methods, fingerprint systems, etc., have made it difficult for the old type professional criminal to operate effectively.

Also, the world-wide discussion of potential total destruction and manipulation of instruments of violence, although difficult to prove as a causal force, no doubt filters down to help develop the problem. And the acceleration of great social change affecting our society also plays some role in spawning the new criminal.

HOW is society to treat the new criminal?

The old prison does not work for him. In particular, traditional rehabilitation schemes are a totally ineffective approach to the addictive component of his behavior system.

A new approach called Synanon has emerged. Synanon is a therapeutic community composed of ex-criminal addicts who have gone legal and honest in the extreme. This anti-addiction society originated with Charles E. Dederich, a former business executive, who had worked out of an alcoholic problem and was motivated to transmit the forces which had led to his own recovery. A brilliant person with many characteristics of a charismatic leader, Dederich attracted to his residency by the beach in Ocean Park, Calif., a coterie of alcoholics and drug addicts who were stimulated by the philosophical discussions which he led. Many of these people had no roots. Some moved into Dederich's "pad." Within a short time, a small colony of about fifteen addicts moved into various apartments in the immediate area. Over the past four years, the experiment has attracted more than 600 financial sponsors. As a result of exposure to this unique social system, approximately 150 persons, most with long criminal and addiction records, no longer find it necessary to use drugs or commit crimes. Some have been clean of deviant patterns for periods of up to four years, seventy for over one year.

One of the creations of Synanon is a breed of therapist —a Synanist, who has three levels of experience which uniquely qualify him for work with other offenders:

1. He has a lengthy history of criminal experience.

2. At Synanon, this individual has deeply experienced the emotional upheaval of rejecting one way of life for another.

3. He knows the Synanon social system. He has a subconscious conception of the processes at work for helping others and is himself a functional part of this organization.

INITIALLY, Synanon society is able to involve and control the offender. This is accomplished through providing an interesting social setting comprised of associates who understand him and will not be outmaneuvered by his manipulating behavior. Within this system, the offender can (perhaps for the first time) see a realistic possibility for legitimate achievement and prestige. He is no longer restricted to "inmate" or "patient" status, since there is no inmate-staff division. All residents are staff and any resident can potentially achieve any position in the status system.

Synanon creates a new social role which can be temporarily or indefinitely occupied in the process of social growth and development. (Some residents have made the decision to make Synanon their life's work.) This new role is a legitimate one supported by the ex-offender's own community as well as by the inclusive society. With the opening of new Synanons and increasing development of projects in federal and state prisons (there is a Synanon project at the Terminal Island Federal Prison and another one at the Nevada State Prison), Synanists are increasingly in demand.

In the process of acquiring legitimate social status in Synanon, the offender necessarily develops as a side effect the ability to relate, communicate and work with others. The values of truth, honesty and industry become necessary means to the goal of status achievement. The threat of ostracism becomes a binding force. After being initially involved in Synanon, the individual does not for a time feel adequate for participation in the larger society. After a sufficient residue of Synanon social living has been acquired, the individual no longer fears banishment; by then he is better prepared for life on the outside (if this is his choice). When these socialization processes take hold, the sociopathic new criminal tends to become reconnected with the legitimate society and no longer finds it necessary to use drugs or assume a deviant role.

The Synanon approach provides a method for effectively working with a new symptom manifestation of the old crime problem. It is the most feasible therapeutic system currently available for treating the new criminal.

THE conclusions reported here are not based on any one special study but upon my own close contact with various offenders and with the structure of the crime problem over the last twelve years. I have studied New York violent gangs, ex-addicts, and ex-criminals currently living in an anti-criminal society at Synanon House in Santa Monica, California. My experience in running group psychotherapy sessions with offenders in custody in various institutions over the last ten years has also contributed to these observations. My conclusions are more hypothetical than "hard" research results; yet they seem to be confirmed by considerable evidence. Obviously, more intensive research is needed on this oldest frontier of human society—the otherworld of crime.

on our toast and oatmeal, especially those that come from a man admittedly addicted to squirting Tabasco sauce and chicory on a dish to conceal the fact that it contains some non-edible article called chitlins, or hominy grits . . ."

At that point, chef Verdon had the hands hustle in the hominy, which was passed all around. "Ah'd certainly like you all to share this," said Boggs, smacking his lips. The President tried a mouthful and let it go at that. Then, as Sen. Hubert Humphrey said later: "We went back to the Midwest-Boston coalition" (eggs, bacon, jam, sweet rolls, toast, coffee, milk).

CIVIL RIGHTS:

Passport to Progress

A shotgun spat three times in the sticky September night in Ruleville, Miss., a town of 2,000 in cottony Sunflower County. The buckshot tore into a small frame house in Ruleville's Negro section where Mrs. Hattie Sisson, 78, and her husband, Herman, were putting up their granddaughter, Mary Lee Burks, 20, and her Jackson State College schoolmate, Vivian Hilley, 18.

The girls tumbled from the studio couch and sprawled on the floor—Vivian wounded in the head and neck, Mary Lee in the arm and leg. A pellet pinged off the fan and grazed Mrs. Sisson's arm.

The message, for the Sissons, was unmistakable. A month before, they had joined a drive to register Sunflower's Negroes to vote. But in Sunflower, though voting-age Negroes outnumber whites by 13,524 to 8,785, only 114 are on the voting rolls.

Discrimination? Not to hear Sunflower's first citizens tell it. "Everybody's being treated alike," said the county's best-known native son, U.S. Sen. James O. Eastland, master of a 6,000-acre plantation near Doddsville. "Hell," said Ruleville's mayor (and Citizens Council vice president) Charles M. Dorrough, propping his black-booted feet on his desk, "most of these niggers ain't interested in voting."

But in Washington, the refrain sounded familiar—and unconvincing. Across the South, only 30 per cent of the eligible Negroes are registered; in some counties—thirteen in Mississippi—none at all are on the rolls. In a time of more dramatic strategies—of sit-ins and freedom rides—the Kennedy Administration has committed itself increasingly to the ballot as the Negro's passport to progress on all fronts in his revolt against discrimination. Where he cannot win the ballot himself, the U.S. has tried to help, and inevitably Sunflower's number came up. After months of investigation and negotiation, the Justice Department filed suit last week for an order barring discrimination against qualified Negroes seeking to register.

It was the 33rd such suit filed under the Civil Rights acts of 1957 and 1960—the eleventh of its kind brought in Mississippi. But many civil-rights advocates regard it as a singularly critical test. Sunflower is in the heart of the intransigent Delta country, the flat-as-a-skillet Mississippi River bottomland where cotton growers still call themselves "planters" and Negro sharecroppers and tenant farmers are tied to the black soil as surely as feudal serfs. James Eastland was born there; so was the segregationist Citizens Council movement, in 1954. So powerful is the symbolism of the Sunflower suit that one voting-rights leader ranks it alongside a general attack on Mississippi's restrictive registration laws as the two most important voting cases filed to date.

Irony and Bubbles: Mississippi law alone is a strong deterrent to Negroes. It requires that an applicant copy and interpret any section of the state constitution to the satisfaction of the local voting registrar. If the questions are not so raw as in the old days ("How many bubbles in a bar of soap?") they are often technical, and sometimes freighted with irony. Some Sunflower Negroes were asked, for example, to discourse on Section 15: "There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in this state . . ." An applicant must, besides, show his "good moral character," and his name must be listed in local papers for two weeks—a convenient Who's Who in The Movement.

But the law is only the first line of defense; beyond lie more prickly weapons. Expecting trouble in Mississippi, five civil-rights organizations pooled staff workers under the single banner of the Council of Federated Organizations. COFO's Mississippi vote campaign director, Robert Moses, a New York Negro with a Harvard M.A. in philosophy, arrived in Ruleville early last August to lead the Sunflower County effort.

Starting Aug. 14, handfuls of Negroes headed down the road to Indianola to fill out forms. Trouble dogged their heels. A city garbage-truck driver whose wife had tried to register was fired from his $35-a-week job. A sharecropper's wife was evicted on overnight notice, though her husband was ordered to stay and "finish out the crop" (at an average of $1 a day) before he could take his household belongings. COFO canvassers were arrested. Two Negro dry-cleaners were shut down for violating city ordinances. Twenty-seven gospel-singing Negroes rode to Indianola on a bus without incident, but the driver was arrested and fined $30 because his bus was the wrong color—school-bus yellow.

Water Power: Mayor Dorrough himself turned off the water supply at Williams Chapel, the Negro Baptist church where registration meetings had been conducted, and cut off its tax-

Associated Press

The Other Cheek

Billie Sol Estes, cheerful and dapper after weeks of evangelizing as a lay preacher, took a break from the sawdust trail last week to attend a temporal judgment day. The judge gave him eight years for swindling a Pecos, Texas, farmer out of $94,500.

It was the first jail sentence the much-indicted Estes (photo) has drawn. And when District Judge Otis Dunagan handed it down in Tyler, Texas, the sometimes talkative Billie Sol had little to say. The judge denied a new trial on the charge that Estes had induced a farmer to sign a mortgage for nonexistent fertilizer tanks, then sold the mortgage and kept the money. Then he asked if Estes had anything to say.

"No, sir," said the Pecos financier.

But Billie Sol would have other days in court—in two more Federal criminal trials and a passel of civil suits.

Estes showed his silence was neither grudging nor insecure. After his lawyer had filed notice of appeal and obtained his freedom on bail ($5,000), Estes extended his hand to Judge Dunagan. "Good luck," he said. "Thank you," gulped the judge.

exempt status. "You all ain't having religious services down there," he said. "You're carrying on a lot of mess and I ain't gonna stand for it."

September brought darker omens. Shotguns blazed at the Sisson home and two others nearby. "You done that yourself," Dorrough told Sisson at the hospital that night. He arrested a campaign worker, Charles Cobb, but let him go next morning with a parting shot: "I think you-all shot at those houses. You were disappointed at the lack of violence here." After the gunplay, morale sagged. "It took a month to start up again," COFO's Bob Moses said. "After something like that, you don't ask people to go down and register—you just show your face and let them know you haven't left them."

They haven't left yet. But they have little to show for their work. In five months, 60 Ruleville Negroes have been persuaded to try—but only four of them have been placed on the rolls. Statewide, the yield has been no more than 150 votes in fifteen months.

Ph.D.'s Pass: But the Justice Department feels it has just begun to fight. Nibbling at the problem county by county, it has thus far won 16 of 33 voting-rights cases and lost one; the rest are pending. The process is long, costly, and tedious. Some cases bring dramatic breakthroughs, but others produce simply token registration: Negro Ph.D.'s pass literacy tests that barely schooled whites have sailed through for years.

Even so, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy—sending off his annual report to the President last week—could recite some gains: four Mississippi and Louisiana counties were registering Negroes for the first time since Reconstruction, 29 counties had opened their rolls to government inspection without a court fight, four voluntarily gave up discriminatory practices—and scores more cases were in the works. Despite the Mississippi riot and all the stubborn problems that remain, Kennedy concluded, 1962 would go down in history as a "year of great progress in civil rights."

There was progress, but, in dozens of communities like Sunflower County, it was progress measured in inches, will against stubborn will. "We don't resent our local niggers," Mayor Dorrough said, "but we don't want Bobby Kennedy and a bunch of damn burrheads telling us we gotta change our way of life." But a few local Negroes might surprise him. Mrs. Joe McDonald, 70, a three-time loser in the registrar's office, is living vulnerably, with her husband, on $60 a month Social Security; their home has been shotgunned by night riders. "It's rough with us," Mrs. McDonald said, "but God is letting us pull through some sort of way. I've done stuck my neck out and I'm going on as long as I can."

UPI

Meredith heads home at mid-term: An integrated push for a balky car

Patience—Wearing Thin

One remarkable fact in the long, troubled story of desegregation has been the poised restraint of the Negro under pressure. Tested by violence, harassment, and threats, he has rarely cracked. But there is a limit.

For 40-year-old Jasper Brown, the moment came in the first tense hours of court-ordered desegregation of three schools in rural Caswell County, N.C. Early on the morning he enrolled his own children—four of the sixteen Negroes admitted to previously white schools—the badgering started. Carloads of leather-jacketed white youths blocked his car. The gibes began. "That's Brown," yelled one punk. "No it ain't, it's black," a comrade replied.

By that afternoon, when his car bumped into another which was dogging him on a road near Yanceyville, Jasper Brown had had enough. He leaped from his car, a .38 pistol in hand, and fired six times at the four young white men in the other vehicle. Bullets grazed the scalp of one, N.L. Oliver, 21, son of a county education board member, and nicked the shoulder of a second, James Nixon, age 23. Authorities first lodged Brown—a well-to-do tobacco farmer and long a desegregation leader in Caswell County—in an undisclosed jail. Later he was freed on $2,000 bail under a charge of felonious assault.

After School: Patience also ran out last week for William Howard, a 33-year-old service station operator whose niece, Sarah Etoria Howard, 15, is one of two Negroes in suburban Dollarway School near Pine Bluff, Ark. Howard had just picked up his niece, as well as the other Negro Dollarway student, Samuel Wayne Cato, 8, when a jeering cluster of white youths gathered after school near his station wagon.

When a chunk of concrete struck a window, Howard jumped out to "see what was happening." He found himself facing an 18-year-old white student, Johnny Irvin, and in an ensuing scuffle Howard stabbed Irvin in the side, inflicting a minor injury.

While Howard was jailed, charged with assault with intent to kill and released on $1,000 bail, The Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock speculated shrewdly on the cause of a seemingly new impulse to disorder—an impulse that seemed especially odd at Dollarway School, where events have gone smoothly since integration came in 1960.

"The apparently impending withdrawal of James Meredith from the University of Mississippi," said the Gazette, "may have raised some false hopes that desegregation can be halted by hounding Negroes until they are afraid or unable to continue in a formerly all white school."

Meredith's Trial: Had patience indeed run out for Meredith himself, protagonist of the longest and toughest test of nerves since desegregation began? Last week, when the 29-year-old Negro skipped his algebra exam (though completing the others) and left the campus in his balky auto (photo), he spurred rumors that he would quit.

Yet, whatever his personal feelings, Meredith was under immense pressures to induce him to stick it out. President Kennedy told last week's news conference: "I hope he continues. It would be a loss not only to Mr. Meredith but to the university."

Though Meredith seemed determined to conceal his decision from the public until this week, one clue to it came out of a private report which comedian Dick Gregory made to friends in the Justice Department after his conversation with Meredith in Jackson, Miss., last week. If Meredith withdraws, Gregory said, "I'd be surprised."

Defenders of the Right

When the Lone Star flag of Texas is flying in front of the old two-story house of stucco, brick, and frame, the neighbors along Turtle Creek Drive know that former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker is in residence in Dallas. The flag fluttered high last week in Dallas while a Federal court in Oxford, Miss., weighed charges that Walker helped egg on the riots at the University of Mississippi.

Walker was one of eleven men accused of trying to prevent the enrollment of James Meredith. But the grand jury indicted only four—none of them Ole Miss students—and Walker was among the seven cleared.

Walker shunned reporters in his hour of victory, but in downtown Dallas, only a few miles from the ex-general's flagpole, it brought a salute from Robert Morris, president and counsel of an organization that represents a new phenomenon in the U.S. political thicket. Called the Defenders of American Liberties (DAL), the group protects the civil liberties of the right-wing underdog —much as such outfits as the Civil Rights Congress have fought the same battle for the Communist left.

It was Morris and his Defenders who sprang to help rabble-rouser Walker when the government arrested and confined him for psychiatric examination, and who managed to win his release from custody. Last week Morris hailed the ex-general's exoneration as "an assertion of the due process of law."

A tall, heavy-set man of 212 pounds who settled in Texas after his defeat for a New Jersey Senatorial seat on the Republican ticket in 1960, Morris can trace his experience with civil rights back to service as chief counsel of the Communist-hunting Senate Internal Security subcommittee. Nowadays he sees outrages against civil liberties on all sides, and few defenders.

Sued, Harassed: "The Communists aren't getting into any difficulty, or very little difficulty," he said. "But the patriotic citizens who see the loss of their heritage—these people are being sued mercilessly, they are being harassed, and these are the people who today have no defenders on the national scene."

Associated Press

For counselor Morris (right), Walker was the right kind of underdog

Among more than 100 cases handled by DAL since its inception last summer, Morris cited farmers who had ignored Federal crop-acreage allotments; patriots sued (as they have been by Bullock's in Los Angeles and S. Klein's in Yonkers, N.Y.) for holding anti-Communist "card parties" in stores stocking goods from Communist countries; a physician who lost a place on a hospital staff because of John Birch ties. One implication was clear: that the American Civil Liberties Union, the best-known organization in the field, leaves something to be desired.

"We are primarily interested in those who are willing to preserve our traditions," said Morris "... For instance, in the prayer case, I notice that the ACLU is intervening on behalf of those who are moving to strike references to God and prayer ... We take the opposite position. We would be willing to defend ideological Communists or ex-Communists. We cannot defend a Communist with a capital C because such a person is not a free individual but one of Khrushchev's shock troops."

The ACLU, nevertheless, did step into the Walker case by writing to the government in protest at his confinement without trial or counsel. "We don't separate right-wingers from anyone else," said a spokesman. "This would not have stopped us in Walker's case."

What did stop the ACLU was that Walker didn't ask for its help, probably feeling more at home with Morris, who, like himself, believes that there is "hidden civilian control over the Pentagon" and a possibility "of United Nations troops moving into Mississippi." Last week Walker broke his Spartan silence only long enough to add another pronouncement of the same coinage.

"I am glad to be vindicated today by a Mississippi grand jury," the former general said. "Today my hopes returned to the Cubans and millions of others who long to return to their homes after having escaped from jails and boundaries of police states."

ARMED FORCES:

Out of the Barracks Bag

A senior officer of colonel's rank was angry enough to ignore the caution against writing complaints to headquarters. "As I understand it, all the raise I will get is about $45 a month," he said. "That is almost insulting after waiting nearly five years for a raise while Civil Service had at least two raises and are now getting another ..."

Around the world, while other Americans clucked over the prospects of a record budget's spending, military servicemen—some 2.7 million strong—griped that so little of it would boost their pay. Last week Lloyd Norman, NEWSWEEK's Pentagon correspondent, reported:

The armed forces are downright unhappy with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's new pay bill proposing an average 14.4 per cent increase—at a cost of $900 million more in fiscal 1964 added to the $12 billion annual military payroll. The cost of the pay boost, beginning Oct. 1 would rise to more than $1.2 billion in later years.

"They keep nibbling away at our pay and privileges until we're second-class citizens," gritted a Navy petty officer at Norfolk. "Talk about segregation! What

What British Doctors Really Think About Socialized Medicine by Richard M. Titmuss

The guest in the Easy Chair this month is professor of social administration at the University of London and head of the department of social science and administration at the London School of Economics.

AT THE end of a two months' visit to the United States, from the West to the East, I am left with one clear impression. The extent and character of misconceptions about the British Health Service are really quite startling, particularly when one remembers our common language and democratic values, and our common interest in combining the freedom of doctor and patient in the provision of medical care.

At the same time I encountered a deep sense of frustration about the power of organized medicine in the United States and widespread feelings of helplessness and cynicism in the face of rising medical costs. It is not for me to explain the cause of this disquietude. But were I an American citizen, I would fear for the good name of medicine. In California, for instance, I learned that a young doctor has to pay around $820 a year for malpractice insurance. In Britain the comparable figure is six dollars.

Since 1948 when the British Health Service Act was adopted, an unbelievable quantity of generalized ink has been spilled on the subject; and it has run into the Atlantic from both sides. During my stay in the United States I heard most of the familiar arguments—that the quality of medical care has deteriorated; that doctors have been turned into minor bureaucrats and are so unhappy about their condition that they are fleeing the country in large numbers; that the general practitioner has lost status; that the Health Service unleashed a torrent of demand and is bankrupting the country.

Leaving aside the more piquant and colorful statements, my purpose here is simply to set the record straight. Some of the major lessons of the Health Service can be illustrated by a rather simple story.

A few years ago I was involved in a medical and sociological study of the structure and functions of general (family) practice in Britain. For six months I spent a good part of each day sitting in a doctor's office recording, minute by minute, what took place in each consultation. There was one patient I remember—let us call her Mrs. Smith—who appeared regularly every Monday morning for about two months. She was an elderly widow, living alone on her old-age pension, who suffered from chronic heart disease. After full diagnostic investigation, the treatment consisted of a drug containing digitalis and a certain amount of social-work aid.

The core of the matter, however, was to find the right dosage; to adapt the therapy to the biology of the unique individual; to find the level of stabilization; to avoid harmful side effects; to keep Mrs. Smith out of the hospital. This is a usual problem today in the use of many new and potent drugs. To solve it requires regular and frequent contact between doctor and patient.

Mrs. Smith's doctor was asked to comment on the effects of the Health Service on his practice. "Before the Act," he said, "I would have had to carry on a private soliloquy with myself as to whether I could ask Mrs. Smith to see me regularly for a longish period. She might have thought I was more interested in collecting more fees than in the condition of her heart. I did not want her to think this of me—after all, I am a doctor. But unless I could see her often I could not explain all the facts about the action of the drug. We could communicate less—a restriction of the patient's freedom. Now, on the Health Service, our relationship is more open. I can say what I professionally think."

This doctor was consciously separating the professional and financial elements in his life. Essentially, he was talking about self-respect: his self-respect (the basis of professional behavior); the patient's self-respect (the basis of personal freedom); mutual respect (the basis for effective medical care). Self-realization in modern society depends on the building of a hundred and one such tiny acts of self-respect. We cannot organize them; we can only so arrange our affairs as to make more of them possible.

The single most important effect of the Health Service Act in 1948 was that it abolished the financial barrier between patient and doctor. This was the first principle set down in the wartime coalition government's White Paper of 1944: "to divorce the care of health from questions of personal means or other factors irrelevant to it."

Another basic principle of the Health Service was to provide medical care that would be "comprehensive" (i.e., meet all of the individual's health needs) and of high quality. This has not been an easy goal to achieve. A major obstacle has been the fact that many of our hospital buildings in Britain are ancient. About 45 per cent of them were erected before 1891 and, with Victorian solidity, they were built to last. Hospital construction stopped in 1939 and during the first ten years of the Service little money was spent on new hospitals. This was due partly to the priorities in capital investment given after the war to houses and schools, and partly to the sustained attacks on the Health Service for being too costly. By the middle 1950s, however, it was found that Britain was spending a lower proportion of its national income on medical care than in 1948. It is now argued that Britain is not spending enough, and the rate of hospital building has been stepped up.

Moreover, three months ago the government published a ten-year national plan for hospital development. This envisages the replacement of over 40 per cent of all existing hospitals; the construction of many new general hospitals with a total of about 150,000 beds; the closing of many small and specialist hospitals; the eventual abolition of large mental hospitals; and a great expansion in home and community care for the mentally ill and disabled.

Britain's hospitals have been nationalized, which means the distinction between voluntary and public institutions has been virtually wiped out. But this change has not introduced centralized ministerial rule into our hospital system. In practice it meant no more than a reshuffling of the same people who had always run the hospitals —the unpaid volunteers who had acquired some expert knowledge, plus a much higher proportion from the medical profession.

At present, except for a handful of private hospitals and clinics, Britain's three thousand or so hospitals are run by some four to five hundred hospital management committees on which doctors have at least a quarter of the seats (all professional matters are entirely in the hands of doctors). The committees also include local government officials and people who had been governors of voluntary hospitals before 1948.

Since the early 1950s there have been as many unpaid volunteers in health activities as ever, if not more—though, it should be remembered, they now spend very little of their time in the fund-raising which occupies so much of the energies of health volunteers in the U. S.

Illustrative of the role of the volunteer in Britain is the National Blood Transfusion Service—an increasingly vital element in modern hospital care, surgery, and highway-casualty treatment. The number of blood donations, freely and voluntarily given by members of the public, has risen steadily from 384,000 in 1948 to 1,024,000 in 1960. The number of effective blood donors rose from 374,000 in 1948 to 854,000 individuals in 1960. This service is also largely run by voluntary organizations and unpaid helpers. Blood transfusions are used in the hospitals without distinguishing between public and private patients. (About 2 per cent of the beds in British hospitals are set aside for private patients who pay in full for accommodations and service. In general, the supply of such beds has met the demand for them.)

Most of the medical staffs of all hospitals are paid on a part-time or sessional basis. Of all qualified and practicing British doctors, around 40 per cent are full-time salaried. Surprisingly to some people, that is only about 5 per cent or so higher than the proportion of full-time salaried doctors in the United States.

SO far as the general practitioner or family doctor is concerned, we in Britain have held onto the conception of personal physicians as the first line in medical care. This is contrary to the trend in the States where, I am told, the family doctor is a disappearing category. About one-half of all British medical students now enter general practice. All members of a family are free to choose and change their doctors and some 95 per cent of the population now have the family doctor of their choice under the Health Service. The remaining 5 per cent or so of the population get medical care privately either by paying doctors' bills directly or, more generally, through membership in nonprofit prepayment schemes. According to the code laid down by the British Medical Association, patients must not go directly to specialists or consultants without first being seen and referred by general practitioners.

Each general practitioner is restricted to a ceiling of 3,500 Health Service patients—a figure too high in the opinion of many people. In addition, they may have as many private patients as they like. Between 1948 and 1960, the average number of Health Service patients on doctors' lists fell considerably and is now 2,300.*

Doctors are paid on a capitation basis, receiving an annual payment for each patient accepted. There is a special "loading" (i.e., an additional payment per capita) to favor doctors with medium-sized lists and to taper off rewards for

* No precise comparison with an American doctor's private practice is possible. Assuming, however, that each patient on the British doctor's panel of 2,300 is seen four times a year, this would amount to 9,200 visits annually. It is estimated that a typical general practitioner in the U.S. sees 25 to 30 patients a day, amounting to 6,000 to 7,000 a year. (See Doctors, Patients, and Health Insurance, by Herman M. and Anne R. Somers. Washington, The Brookings Institution, 1961, pp 49-50.)—The Editors

WHY DON'T I HAVE A MOTHER ?

石光琪

(Her name means "Pretty")

We may never have an answer for little Kuang Ch'i. She was found abandoned in the yard of a Children's Home in Formosa (Taiwan), bundled in rags -- hungry -- cold -- crying. Perhaps her parents were desperately poor. Or maybe her mother couldn't bear to see her slowly starve.

The women of the Home named her Kuang Ch'i -- meaning "Pretty." They loved her, cuddled her, laughed with her -- but still she asks: "Why don't I have a mother?"

There are thousands of boys and girls in the world, asking this same question. They didn't have a choice about being born -- in fact, half the world's children go to bed hungry every night . . . that is, if they have a bed . . .

Could you love this sad-eyed wistful little girl? Children like her can be found in any of the countries listed. The cost for "adopting" these children of tragedy is the same in all countries -- ten dollars a month.

You will receive the youngster's picture, personal history and the privilege of exchanging letters and Christmas cards. Your "adopted" child will grow up knowing that you -- across the ocean -- care enough to send your love.

Christian Children's Fund, incorporated in 1938, with its 469 affiliated orphanage schools in 55 countries, is the largest Protestant orphanage organization in the world, assisting over 41,000 children. With its affiliated Homes it serves 45 million meals a year. It is registered with the Advisory Committee on Voluntary Aid of the International Cooperation Administration of the United States Government. It is experienced, efficient, economical and conscientious.

COUNTRIES:
Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, Borneo, Brazil, Burma, Cameroun, Canada, Ceylon, Chile, Costa Rica, Egypt, England, Finland, France, Greece, Haiti, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Iran, Israel, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Jordan, Kenya, Korea, Lapland, Lebanon, Macao, Malaya, Mexico, Nigeria, Northern Rhodesia, Okinawa, Pakistan, Paraguay, Philippines, Portugal, Puerto Rico, Scotland, Southern Rhodesia, South Africa, Republic of; Spain, Swaziland, Syria, Taiwan, Thailand, Turkey, Uruguay, United States (Indian, Negro, White), Vietnam, Western Germany.

For Information write: Dr. J. Calvitt Clarke

CHRISTIAN CHILDREN'S FUND, INC.

Richmond 4, Virginia

I wish to "adopt" a boy ☐ girl ☐ for one year in _____.
(Name Country)
I cannot "adopt" a child but want to help by giving $_____.
I will pay $10 a month ($120 a year). Enclosed is payment for the full year ☐ first month ☐. Please send me the child's name, story, address and picture. I understand that I can correspond with the child. Also, that there is no obligation to continue the adoption.

☐ Please send me further information.
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____ ZONE ____
STATE _____

GIFTS OF ANY AMOUNT ARE WELCOME. Gifts are deductible from U.S. and Canadian income taxes. Canadians should write: Christian Children's Fund of Canada, 1139 Bay Street, Toronto 5.

THE EASY CHAIR

larger practices. There are also built-in incentives to partnerships and group practices, payments for the training of assistants, special fees for maternity services, for clinic sessions at local maternity and child-welfare centers, for part-time school and factory work, for part-time posts in hospitals, and for new entrants in under-doctored areas.

A particularly important innovation is a payment to doctors who attend postgraduate and refresher courses. One of my more amusing medical friends said recently (in talking about scientific advances in medicine): "If you now go away for a weekend you are out of date on Monday." Last year 13 per cent of general practitioners in Britain attended a postgraduate course and received a public grant to help pay a substitute. In 1948 the figure was only 5 per cent.

At the outset, doctors, being highly organized, did not take kindly to change—whether caused by political, administrative, or scientific factors, and in this respect they are no different from workers in other professions and trade unions exposed to changes induced by technology, cybernetics, and science. But over the years the discontents of the medical profession have diminished.* And certainly the Health Service has brought about a better geographical distribution of doctors. This trend toward territorial justice (as I call it) has been accompanied by a movement for more doctors to work in partnerships and group practice. By 1960 the percentage had risen to just over 70. At the same time general practice has been made more attractive by a policy of throwing open (known as "open access") the X-ray,

* Experts from nine British medical associations completed a four-year study of the Health Service in October 1962. This committee found the Service essentially "sound" although a number of operating improvements were recommended. Chiefly, the committee urged a greater voice for physicians in administrative matters and a reduction in the maximum number of Health Service patients on each general practitioner's list. Concurrently, the committee released the results of a Gallup Poll which showed that 89 per cent of the people questioned were satisfied with the Health Service.

Why go Parlor Car?

A coach seat on any train costs less, gets there just as fast. But, if you find elbow room, extra service, stretch-your-legs-out comfort worth a bit more fare, why not? It can make the trip a lot more enjoyable.

Why not apply the same thinking to your trip to Europe? Go First Class on a Holland-America ship. Let us show you what "elbow room" really means. Let us pamper you, coddle you, feed you luxuriously all the way across the ocean. This time go "First" on Holland-America. It's that much more fun.

Holland-America Line

Pier 40, North River, New York 14, N. Y.

The definition of what is the best kind of life insurance is clear and simple. You want the insurance that remains in force as long as possible for your beneficiaries. Mutual Benefit Life policies have the finest built-in safety factors that can be obtained. For example, even if a man paid only one annual premium and died two years later, his full insurance could still be in force at the time of his death. This is characteristic of many kinds of Mutual Benefit Life policies.

MUTUAL BENEFIT LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEWARK, NEW JERSEY • SINCE 1845

pathological, and other diagnostic facilities of the hospital. This means that general practitioners have the right to send their patients direct to these departments and to get the reports back quickly.

This policy has helped to avoid the wasteful duplication of expensive diagnostic equipment and to make possible a more rational use of pathologists and other scarce specialists. The complex diagnostic procedures of modern medicine can no longer be successfully interpreted by th average doctor or small local h pital. It is a job for the expert. Health Service has been able ploy more widely the bene medicine's technological skil removal of financial barri aided this process; so too removal of political and adm tive boundaries. For examp possible under the Service for in the north of Scotland s from a rare form of spinal di be sent to a London special pital without any bookkee financial problems.

WHAT of the demand for medical care? Of course we still have unmet needs: waiting lists at hospitals (mainly for tonsillectomies and other "cold" surgical cases), inadequate hospital buildings, too many old people in hospitals for chronic illness, not enough nurses, psychiatrists, and other health workers, and so on. What, indeed, is the limit in more prosperous societies to demands for medical care? This is an almost metaphysical question applicable to all Western societies. How then can one judge whether there has been "abuse" of a free-on-demand health service?

So far as the general practitioner is concerned, we can at least say that expressed demands for his services are no higher than they were before 1948. Measured statistically in terms of all consultations (office and home), demand is somewhat lower than in the 1930s—around four consultations a year per patient. Moreover, general practitioners now have fewer night cases, less weekend work, smaller quantities of certificates, forms, and accounts to deal with, and no unpaid bills. Over one-third of all consultations take place in the patient's home —thus helping the family doctor to

UNIQUE

JAPAN!

Come see the Pearl of the Orient . . . Japan. It's nothing like any place else! Gilded pagodas guard exquisite miniature gardens. Snow-capped mountains shadow placid blue lakes. Modern hotels—side-by-side with ancient shrines. And the joy of gourmet feasts is enhanced by charming hospitality. Visit Japan . . . the year around!

Japan National Tourist Association
Dept. 202, 45 Rockefeller Plaza, N.Y. 20, N.Y.
Please send me a set of colorful booklets on the joys of visiting Japan.
NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____ ZONE _____ STATE _____

JAPAN NATIONAL TOURIST ASSOCIATION
New York • Chicago • Dallas
San Francisco • Honolulu • Toronto

Bean's Free Spring Catalog

Ready February 8

Fully illustrated 100 pages, shows 380 items of interest to both men and women—special fishing tackle, footwear, clothing, leather and canvas specialties, many of our own manufacture.

Chamois Cloth Shirt

Looks and feels like high grade chamois leather. Machinewashable and is more durable than wool. Mr. Bean personally uses this shirt on his fishing and hunting trips. Colors: Tan and Bright Red. Sizes: 14½ to 19. Price: $5.85 Postpaid. Send for free sample and Free Spring Catalog.

L. L. Bean, Inc., 239 Main St., Freeport, Maine
Mfrs. Fishing, Hunting and Camping Specialties

THE CROSSROADS OF THE WORLD

the famous HOTEL Astor on times square, n.y.

Gaiety and excitement—find them at the Astor! Ideally located next door to leading Broadway theatres . . . steps from New York's famed department stores, shops and business districts . . . close to all terminals and transportation facilities.

750 delightful air-conditioned rooms with free TV . . . and a courteous multilingual staff to serve you—more reasons why the Astor is the first choice of knowledgeable travelers.

Singles from $9.00 Doubles from $14.00
Cable: ASTOTEL

Anthony M. Rey
Vice President and General Manager

take account of social factors in diagnosis and treatment. The comparable home visit figure in the States is around 10 per cent.

There is thus no evidence of inordinate demands on the family doctor since 1948. The removal of the financial disciplines of the private market has not had the consequences that were feared.

So far as the hospital is concerned, there has been a striking fall in the average length of stay of patients although treatment is free for 98 per cent of the population. In Br as in the United States, some 4 cent of all hospital beds have occupied by mental patients ever, this picture is changing thanks to a new and revolu Mental Health Act passed i which makes practically all sions free and voluntary; and also to the growing use of the hospital as a therapeutic sh instrument, the developm short-stay mental units in hospitals, scientific advances in treatment of schizophrenia, a ne research interest in the chemical functioning of the nervous system in relation to mental illness, and the drawing together, clinically and administratively, of physical and psychological medicine.

All these trends mean that we can now envisage the disappearance of the vast, outworn, archaic, recumbent mental institutions of the past. Only twenty years ago, by a patient's eleventh year of residence in a mental hospital the odds were one hundred to one against his discharge from the hospital. Today, in Britain, the chances are almost one hundred to one against a patient's remaining in a mental hospital after two years.

This, I think, is one of the most important lessons we have learned since 1948. Without the Health Service, it would not have been possible to move on a national scale toward the integration of physical and psychological medicine. One could not grow without the other. To separate the two professionally, administratively, and financially—to regard mental illness, organizationally, as a "bad risk"—is to promote the growth of the "institutionalized" personality, a dead end for patients, a dead end for doctors.

The corollary of this change in

Where strangers are honored guests

India's legends and true-life stories are rich with anecdotes of hospitality—wholeheartedly given and gracefully accepted. When a stranger stood at the threshold, he became an honored guest of the house. The tradition of centuries is even stronger today. The people of India wish to welcome visitors from other lands, and to share with them, even if briefly, the Indian way of life. To make it easier for you to meet them a special program has been developed.

The idea is simple and gracious—and, of course, costs nothing. Let's say you are a businessman, a teacher, a lawyer, a doctor, or just a person who wishes to meet Indians with interests similar to your own. Before you leave for India, call upon the Government of India Tourist Office at 19 East 49th Street in New York City; 685 Market Street in San Francisco; 177 King Street W. in Toronto. Or after you arrive in India, upon the Government of India Tourist Offices in Bombay, Delhi, Calcutta or Madras. Tell them your likes, your hobbies, your special interest in India. They will be happy to help you choose your Indian friends from a list of persons who will be looking forward to welcoming you in their homes, and to making your visit as full and as rewarding as they can.

Once in India, meet with your new friends, accept their invitation to tea or a meal with them in their home. There you will meet other members of their family, exchange ideas and glimpse their particular brand of humor. You may enjoy seeing the local sights with your new friends, or playing a round of golf at an elegant country club. Perhaps a day at a sunny beach or a cricket match, the cinema or a dance recital. Simple delights which heighten in pleasure when you enjoy them in the company of your Indian friends.

The people of India are very much like you, proud of their country and their traditions. They have a lively interest in knowing more about your country, how you feel about today's world and everything in it. Come to India—maybe this year, maybe the next—your Indian friends will wait for you.

medical care—a shift from the institution to the home—calls for more community care services. Apart from the problems of finance, this, in my view, is the biggest challenge in Britain in the field of medical care.

ONE criticism of the Service that is still heard is that the cost was seriously underestimated. Of course it was. Twenty years ago, when the original estimates were made by the government, no one could predict the scientific advances that have changed the fate of medicine in two decades.

In 1949-50, the first full year of the Service, the gross cost to public funds was 3.8 per cent of the Gross National Product. This figure fell slowly to 3.2 in 1955 and has since risen to 3.6 in 1960. (In the United States in 1958-59 total public and private expenditures for medical and health care were estimated at 5.4 per cent of the Gross National Product.) Clearly, Britain has not been overspending on medical care. Public demand for a "free" service and the rising costs of new drugs have certainly not bankrupted the nation. We have learned, however, that we shall have to spend more on building new hospitals, in training more social workers, and in developing community care services.

We have also learned in Britain to respect the political and trade-union power of the medical profession. The last Royal Commission on doctors' earnings, reporting in 1960, showed that, compared with other high-income groups, doctors had done well out of the Health Service. Between the ages of thirty and sixty-five, for example (and disregarding the benefits of a generous pension scheme and heavily subsidized medical training), medical specialists and consultants earned substantially more than accountants, actuaries, lawyers, architects, university teachers, and all university graduates in industry. There is no lack of young people in Britain who want to be doctors. The real problem for the deans of the medical schools has been how to select and how to restrict (as they have done) the number of candidates accepted for training.

It has been alleged recently that over six hundred doctors are leaving Britain every year. It is further said they are refugees from "socialized medicine." But such statements fail to point out that these "estimates" include graduates from British medical schools born and brought up overseas (including the U. S. A., Canada, Ireland, and many other countries), British doctors working temporarily with the World Health Organization in hospitals and posts in Africa and other parts of the underdeveloped world, and British doctors doing graduate and research work overseas. Wrongly included in these "estimates" (incautiously bandied abo by the American Medical Ass tion) are also substantial numb British-trained women doctors rying overseas citizens and e ing, and many categories of doctors of both sexes who spell abroad return to practic cine in Britain.

What is more to the p that despite this "internatio change," the ratio of all types ticing doctors in Britain per in the population has risen per cent since 1949. Though we need more doctors, we have done be ter than the U. S., where the ratio has fallen during the same period.

After nineteen months of deliberation, a committee appointed by the British Medical Association to consider recruitment concluded in its report published in May 1962 that it is not prepared to commit itself on the need for more doctors. The report adds that there are more than enough potential recruits of the right caliber to fill the places available at the medical schools.

These conclusions are very different from those of the U. S. Surgeon-General's committee in the 1950 "Bane Report." Here it was said that the United States may expect to be 20,000 short, in the next fifteen years, of the number of physicians required to maintain the present position—let alone improve it. In other words, the ratio of doctors to patients may worsen by 50 per cent. It would thus follow that the U. S. will be less able to make a contribution to less fortunate countries. If this should happen, the underdeveloped world will be even more desperately undersupplied with doctors, and other countries will be asked to make greater sacrifices to uphold the high traditions of Western medicine to serve the poor.

2-18-58

The Evening Star

With Sunday Morning Edition

Published by
THE EVENING STAR NEWSPAPER COMPANY
WASHINGTON 4, D. C.

Samuel H. Kauffmann
President

Benjamin M. McKelway
Editor

MAIN OFFICE: 11th St. and Pennsylvania Ave. (4)
NEW YORK: 342 Madison Ave. (17)
CHICAGO: 221 N. La Salle St. (1)
DETROIT: New Center Building (2)
SAN FRANCISCO: Russ Building (4)
LOS ANGELES: 3242 West 8th St. (5)
EUROPEAN BUREAU—
PARIS, FRANCE: 21 Rue De Berri

Delivered by Carrier

Evening and Sunday		Sunday		Evening
Monthly	1.95	Per Issue	.20	Monthly	1.30
Weekly	.45			Weekly	.30
Night Final and Sunday	2.60			Night Final Only	1.40

Rates by Mail—Payable in Advance
Anywhere in the United States

Evening and Sunday		Sunday		Evening
1 year	29.00	1 year	12.00	1 year	18.00
6 months	14.50	6 months	6.00	6 months	9.25
3 months	7.25	3 months	3.00	3 months	4.75
1 month	2.60	1 month	1.00	1 month	2.00

Telephone: STerling 3-5000

Entered at the Post Office, Washington, D. C. as second class mail matter

Member of the Associated Press

The Associated Press is entitled exclusively to the use for republication of all the local news printed in this newspaper as well as A. P. news dispatches.

file: Israel Cohen Hoax

STORY OF A PHONY QUOTATION

A Futile Effort to Pin It Down

'A Racial Program for the 20th Century' Seems to Exist Only in Somebody's Imagination

(See Editorial: "Running Down a Hoax")

This story begins, in so far as it concerns us, with The Star's publication last March of a letter from R. A. Hester, then the chairman of the Montgomery County Chapter, Maryland Petition Committee, Inc.

In the course of his letter, commenting on a news story, Mr. Hester wrote that—

"Over 40 years ago, an English Communist, Israel Cohen, wrote:

"'We must realize that our party's most powerful weapon is racial tension. By pounding into the consciousness of the dark races that for centuries they have been oppressed by the whites, we can meld them to the program of the Communist Party. In America we will aim for visible victory. While inflaming the Negro minority against the whites, we will endeavor to instill in the whites a guilt complex for their exploitation of the Negroes. We will aid the Negroes to rise in prominence in every walk of life, in the professions and in the world of sports and entertainment. With this prestige, the Negroes will be able to intermarry with the whites and begin a process which will deliver America to our cause.' (From "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century" 1912.)"

* * * *

The letter and quotation remained unchallenged until the following June, when The Star received a letter (for publication) from Herman Edelsberg, director of the Washington Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

In his letter Mr. Edelsberg said that Representative Abernethy of Mississippi, during debate on the civil rights bill, had placed the quotation in the Congressional Record (June 7). Mr. Abernethy had explained that "Israel Cohen, a leading Communist in England, in his 'A Racial Program for the

MISSING CARTOONISTS

Cartoonist Jim Berryman is vacationing in Latin America. Cartoonist Gib Crockett is snowbound in the wilds of Montgomery County. We hope things will change for the better in the near future.

"small Rightest newspaper" and was supplied to that newspaper by an employe of the Library of Congress. "It was accepted in good faith by the publisher, but he does not possess a copy of 'A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century' nor has he ever seen one . . . Inquiries made in England have been equally fruitless."

Mr. Stephenson enclosed a photostat of a reference to Israel Cohen in "Who's Who in World Jewry" which contained his London address.

* * * *

Within a few days after the receipt of the letter from Mr. Stephenson, The Star received a letter from Everette Severe, the new Chairman of the Montgomery County Chapter of the Maryland Petition Committee, Inc. Mr. Severe wrote:

"On July 15, a director of the Maryland Petition Committee, Mr. E. T. Smith, received a letter from Mr. Eustace Mullins, Box 1785, Chicago (90), Illinois. Mr. Mullins, who was formerly with Senator McCarthy's office, gave us permission to quote his letter, which read in part as follows: 'The Cohen quote was copied by me from a Zionist publication while doing research work at the Library of Congress in 1952. It has since been reprinted widely in many publications. Congressman Abernethy inserted it in the Congressional Record after it had been generally circulated for three years. I do not have my files with me in Chicago, or I could give you the exact name and date of the publication in which the aid. I never visited America until the fall of 1931. I was there for only two weeks and did not write anything political while there. I published my autobiography under the title 'A Jewish Pilgrimage' last November. If you can get a copy . . . you will see that I could not possibly have written the statement. I am very curious myself to learn who this Israel Cohen was who wrote it. Why not ask the writer who sent you the letter? He ought to be able to tell you where he found the statement, whether in a book, pamphlet or magazine. . . . I have never known of an American Jewish writer having the same name as myself. My career is set forth in Who's Who and in the catalogue of the British Museum. I am credited with a long list of books, pamphlets, etc., but none of them has anything to do with Communism or the Negro question."

* * * *

The Star next requested a research assistant at the Library of Congress to make a thorough search, first, for a publication, "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century," by Israel Cohen or by anybody else; second, for the alleged quotation from the works of Mr. Cohen. The research was fruitless in both its aims.

The Star next requested the director of the Jewish Information Bureau, Inc., 250 West 57th street, New York, to make a search for the publication or the quotation or the identity of an English Communist named Israel Cohen. Bernard G. Richards, director and chairman of the board of the Jewish Information Bureau, replied that "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century" was "entirely unknown" and that the alleged statement was, on its face, fraudulent. The only Israel Cohen known to Mr. Richards was the distinguished writer in London, previously

Running Down a Hoax

In adjoining columns on this page today we print an account of our efforts to run down the source of what we are convinced was a fraudulent quotation contained in a letter printed in The Star last March. The "quotation" had been in circulation for some time before its inadvertent publication in The Star. But since Representative Abernethy of Mississippi, under the impression that it was authentic, inserted the quotation in the Congressional Record last June, it has been given broader currency with an added color of authenticity. We have recited our own efforts to trace the "quotation" in the belief that others will also be convinced that it is spurious, or that someone may be able to establish its real source. Certainly one innocent victim of this fraud has been Israel Cohen of London, a journalist and writer of excellent reputation, whose name seems to have been gratuitously exploited as part of the fabrication.

In his letter Mr. Edelsberg said that Representative Abernethy of Mississippi, during debate on the civil rights bill, had placed the quotation in the Congressional Record (June 7). Mr. Abernethy had explained that "Israel Cohen, a leading Communist in England, in his 'A Racial Program for the 20th Century,' wrote, in 1912 the passage referred to above. Mr. Edelsberg said his own research convinced him that the alleged quotation was a fabrication, that no such publication as "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century" was known either to the Library of Congress or the National Union Catalogue, which summarizes holdings of 800 principal libraries in the United States. Furthermore, he said, he had been unable to find any information that might serve to identify an [illegible] Communist, Israel [illegible].

The Star printed Mr. Edelsberg's letter with an Editor's Note, explaining that Mr. Hester, when asked by The Star to give the source of the alleged quotation, said he had read it in "some newspaper," but could not remember which one. The Star apologized for having printed the letter from Mr. Hester without first establishing authenticity of the alleged quotation and stated that a [illegible] available sources [illegible] such publication as "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century."

* * * *

Publication of Mr. Edelsberg's letter seemed to close the incident until the latter part of July, when The Star received a letter from a reader, not for publication, taking issue with Mr. Edelsberg. She said that an Israel Cohen lived in London, was listed in the British Who's Who, that he had written extensively, was the author of numerous publications, and that the same quotation appearing in Mr. Hester's letter to The Star in March had previously appeared as an advertisement in the December, 1956, issue of "The Virginian," published at Newport News, Va.

A letter was immediately dispatched to the editor of "The Virginian" requesting information as to the source of the alleged Cohen quotation.

The editor, William Stephenson, replied by reciting his own efforts to establish its source. "Personally," he wrote, "I have been forced to conclude that the 'quotation' is phony."

It had first appeared, Mr. Stephenson wrote, in a [illegible] Library of Congress in 1952. It has since been reprinted widely in many publications. Congressman Abernethy inserted it in the Congressional Record after it had been generally circulated for three years. I do not have my files with me in Chicago, or I could give you the exact name and date of the publication in which the Cohen statement appeared. I used this quotation more than three years ago, and have not had occasion to refer to it since, [illegible] was never questioned."

A letter was written to Mr. Mullins at the Chicago address. It related the circumstances and requested him to furnish some clue to the source of the alleged quotation, or to the location of his "files," with the understanding that The Star would then undertake the research, following any lead that Mr. Mullins might furnish, to run the quotation down.

Mr. Mullins promptly responded, writing on stationery of the "American Humane Church," Route 1, Huntley, Ill. The stationery described him as "Rev. Eustace Mullins, director, Society for the Propagation of the Human Faith."

Said Mr. Mullins: "I had done research on the writings of one Israel Cohen, a Communist, several years ago, but I do not have my files available. At any rate, [illegible] determined to make a political issue of the matter, and the church feels that I should devote my time to religious problems."

He concluded his letter by inviting The Star to join his church in its crusade against "the barbarous Hebrew method" of slaughtering meat animals.

* * * *

The Star considered Mr. Mullins' letter to be a revealing evasion of the question of where he got the quotation, and wrote to Israel Cohen, now nearly 80 years old, living in London. He was asked if he could shed any light on the matter.

Mr. Cohen promptly replied, in his own clear handwriting, that he was astonished. "I have never written a book, pamphlet or article under the title 'A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century', or under any title resembling this or any subject relating to it. . . . I have never been a Communist or had any sympathy with the movement. In 1912 I was living in Berlin, where I worked in the Secretariat of the World Zionist Organization and acted as correspondent of the Glasgow Herald.

Mr. Cohen's letter was forwarded to Mr. Mullins, who replied that "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century" was "entirely unknown" and that the alleged statement was, on its face, fraudulent. The only Israel Cohen known to Mr. Richards was the distinguished writer in London, previously referred to. Mr. Richards, naturally, suggested that we try the Library of Congress, for if there was any such publication as the one described, it would surely be there.

The Star concluded there was no such publication as "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century" and that the alleged quotation was a hoax. But as discussion of the incident had died down, as The Star had already acknowledged its error in printing the alleged quotation, and as printing it again might put the "quotation" back in circulation, it was decided to drop the matter—unless it popped up again.

* * * *

It popped up again last week. This time the "quotation" was included in some of the "hate literature" mailed from some anonymous source in Philadelphia to Arlington County high school pupils and signed "Veritas."

This time the phony quotation is described as "an excerpt from testimony given on the floor of the House of Representatives" June 7, 1957. The anonymous literature mailed to Arlington pupils attempts to authenticate the "quotation" by citing the Congressional Record as the official source.

Mr. Edelsberg cites other examples of the circulation of Mr. Abernethy's statement in the Congressional Record.

The Richmond News Leader on June 26, 1957, carried a letter, with Mr. Abernethy's picture, quoting his insertion in the Congressional Record.

A magazine, "South," quoted the statement in its lead editorial in its October 21, 1957, edition.

The "quotation" was carried in a column by Charles Hill in the Jackson, Mississippi, Clarion Ledger, in October of 1957.

The Citizens' Council of America, in Texas, reprinted the Abernethy statement from the Congressional Record in its news letter of September 5, 1957, and the same statement was used in a radio broadcast on January 19, 1958.

The statement will doubtless continue to circulate. This recital of The Star's experience in trying to trace its origin may help to prove that it is a fraud or produce evidence to the contrary.

Morning Mail

Bham. Post-Herald
Feb. 2, 1959

Book As Quoted In Letter Proves Hoax

On Thursday of last week there appeared in these columns a letter under the heading "Race Troubles in Commie Plan" which quoted a purported excerpt from a book by one "Israel Cohen" allegedly published in 1913 under the title "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century."

The excerpt taken from remarks inserted by Rep. Tom Abernathy in The Congressional Record said in part:

"We must realize that our party's most powerful weapon is racial tension. By propounding into the consciousness of the dark races that for centuries they have been oppressed by the whites, we can mould them to the program of the Communist Party.

"In America, we will aim for subtle victory. While inflaming the Negro minority against the whites, we will instill in the whites a guilt complex for their exploitation of the Negroes..."

This quotation has been published many times around the country. It first appeared in The Washington Star in a letter to the editor and it was from this letter that Rep. Abernathy quoted in The Congressional Record.

The whole thing apparently is a cruel hoax and The Post-Herald regrets that it has been a party to its circulation.

A diligent search of the Library of Congress, the British Museum and the National Union Catalogue which summarizes the holdings of 800 libraries in the United States reveals the listing of no book or pamphlet under the title "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century" nor can any trace be found of a Communist leader, philosopher or pamphleteer by the name of Israel Cohen.

THE EDITOR

The State: South Carolina's Progressive Newspaper

COLUMBIA, S. C., SUNDAY, APRIL 12, 1959

CAROLINA FOLKLORE

'Communist Plan' Labeled a Hoax

By F. W. BRADLEY

On March the 18th appeared in this column a copy of a 'Communist Plan for America," taken from the Congressional Record, and supposed to have been written by one Israel Cohen.

I am indebted to Dave Baker, Esq., for the information that this "Plan" has been investigated thoroughly, and proved to be a hoax. It first appeared, not in 1912, but in a letter to the editor of the Washington Evening Star, signed by Mr. R. A. Hester, with the apparent intent of defaming the Jews, since the name of the supposed author was Jewish.

Full particulars of the hoax are given in the ADL Bulletin, 515 Madison Ave., New York 2, published by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

I shall also write to my friend in North Carolina who sent me this letter. He and I were only interested in defending the South against the accusation of a guilt complex, which was mentioned in the letter of Mr. Hester. A correction has been inserted in the Congressional Record, and the Star has published its regrets. I thank Mr. Baker for setting this straight.

communism is treason! fight it with common sense!

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:
Plain envelope, unsealed . . . $1.
Plain envelope, sealed . . . . . $3.
Foreign & Canada, (10 mos) $1.

The Nation's Anti-Communist Newspaper

Common Sense

Copyright Registered 1948 United States Patent Office.

"The Truth, the whole Truth, and nothing but the Truth"
Without fear or favor,
Conde McGinley
FOUNDER AND EDITOR

Issue No. 350 (15th Year) | Union, New Jersey, U.S.A. | Oct. 1, 1960 | Entered as Second Class Matter January 27, 1948, at the Post Office at Union, N. J., under the Act of March 3, 1879 | FIVE CENTS

NIXON IGNORES VITAL ISSUES

WHAT IS THE MYSTERIOUS FORCE RESPONSIBLE? DOES HE DARE CAMPAIGN TO WIN?

Kennedy is winning every round with Nixon; apparently it is planned that way. Reminds us of when Tom Dewey, a Republican, ran against F.D.R. Dewey was campaigning when it became known he was going to expose the maneuvering by Roosevelt, ordered by Churchill, to bring about the Pearl Harbor tragedy which cost the lives of over three thousand of our boys and a good part of our navy. Eleanor had said in a speech at Philadelphia:

> "For eight days we listened to the radio, expecting a report of the bombing of Pearl Harbor."

The boys who were killed had not expected it.

Exposing the Pearl Harbor crime would have sunk FDR and elected Dewey, but the Invisible Government ordered General Marshall to go to New York and demand Dewey forget Pearl Harbor and use a milk-toast tive assistant to Kennedy), Anna Rosenberg (named as a communist in sworn testimony before Congressional Committee by Ralph DeSola, a former communist), also chief political adviser to Nelson Rockefeller until he failed to be nominated, now one of Kennedy's advisers.

All of the above are Jews. Nearly all have communist front citations.

Here are the non-Jew disciples and tools of Zionist Jews:

Chester Bowles, Adlai Stevenson, James Roosevelt, Franklin Roosevelt, Adolph Berle, Jr., Walter Reuther, Henry Steele Commanger, John Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard Professor Archie Fox.

To the above must be added Eleanor Roosevelt with 102 red-fronts, Americans for Democratic Action, a Marxist Jewish political group, Anti-Defamation expecting a report of the bombing of Pearl Harbor."

The boys who were killed had not expected it.

Exposing the Pearl Harbor crime would have sunk FDR and elected Dewey, but the Invisible Government ordered General Marshall to go to New York and demand Dewey forget Pearl Harbor and use a milk-toast campaign. This election is similar to two boxers put in the ring with ten oz. gloves (4 oz. are used for a fight) and told to give the audience a good show but not get rough.

Those who advised Nixon to appear on television in Chicago apparently are for Kennedy, and if Nixon is free to do so, he should refuse to appear with Kennedy again. The comparison is all in Kennedy's favor. Good looks and quick retort, cause the audience to forget that Kennedy has surrounded himself with advisers who are known as liberals, Marxists, socialists or communists, all of them New Dealers who swarmed into Washington when Roosevelt opened the gates to Marxists who forced us to take part in a war which resulted in building communism as a world threat.

Richard M. Nixon

We list the most important brains behind Kennedy without whom he would have no chance:

Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., Al Segal, Ben Cohen, Dore Schary, David Dubinsky, Sam Rosenman (FDR's ghostwriter), Al Rose, Herbert Lehman, Jake Arvey (Chicago political boss), Arthur Goldberg (Walter Reuther's atty.), Myer Feldman (administra- Chester Bowles, Adlai Stevenson, James Roosevelt, Franklin Roosevelt, Adolph Berle, Jr., Walter Reuther, Henry Steele Commanger, John Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard Professor Archie Fox.

To the above must be added Eleanor Roosevelt with 102 red-fronts, Americans for Democratic Action, a Marxist Jewish political group, Anti-Defamation League, American Jewish Congress and American Jewish Committee.

Kennedy has cooperated closely with these. Kennedy, himself, is a Fabian Socialist educated under Harold Laski, top communist brain in London. The ADA stated that the election of Sen. John F. Kennedy as President is imperative for "strong liberal executive leadership."

The Invisible Government, to be doubly sure, has placed socialist advisers around Nixon: Among them Arthur F. Burns (Burnstein) from Austria; Joseph Kaplan, Professor, University of California; and David Sarnoff.

—o— Please turn to page 4 —o—

OUR STATE DEPT SCORES AGAIN FOR COMMUNISM

(Editor's Note: In the following article reference is made to a mysterious force in our State Department which is more powerful than the Secretary of State and the White House. These good former Ambassadors have not done sufficient research on the World Conspiracy to understand that this is the Invisible Government with irresistible pressure.)

FROM THE SENATE INTERNAL SECURITY SUBCOMMITTEE — 9/11/60

"Cuba was handed to Castro and the Communists by a combination of Americans in the same way that China was handed to the Communists," Senators James O. Eastland (D. - Miss.) and Thomas J. Dodd (D. - Conn.) said today in releasing the testimony of two former United States Ambassadors to Cuba, who appeared before the Subcommittee on Internal Security. The Ambassadors who gave evidence on which the two Senators based their statement were Earl T. Smith, who represented the United States in Havana when Castro rose to power, and Arthur Gardner, who was Mr. Smith's immediate predecessor.

"The testimony of both these gentlemen demonstrates that American foreign policy is not made in the office of Secretary Herter on the fifth floor of the State Department," said Eastland and Dodd. "It is made on the fourth floor, by the unknown policy planners and memo makers who fill the Secretary's 'in' basket." According to Messrs. Smith and Gardner, Fidel Castro was the hero of the In-Basket Brigade. They worked with pro-Castro elements in the American press to make Castro appear as Robin Hood. They misguided American opinion in exactly the same way the In-Basket Brigade of 1945 misguided American opinion with the myth that the Chinese Communists were 'agrarian reformers'.

"The State Department has not been cleansed of those elements whose policies contributed so much to the loss of China to the free world. Secretary Herter, the man on the quarter deck, is not in charge of the ship."

The Senators drew particular attention to this statement of Ambassador Smith.

"We helped to overthrow the Batista dictatorship which was pro-American, only to install the Castro dictatorship, which is pro-Russian."

According to former Ambassador Smith, the agencies of the United States Government which "had a hand in bringing pressure to overthrow the Batista government" were "certain influential people, influential sources in the State Department, lower down echelons in the CIA" and "representatives of the majority of the United States Government agencies which have anything to do with the Embassy" in Cuba

Both former Ambassadors indicated that William Wieland, who had charge of Central American Affairs as Director of the State Department's Caribbean Division, was a supporter of leftish elements in Latin America. Both indicated that Roy A. Rubottom suggested policies which aided Castro's rise to power, although Mr. Smith expressed the opinion that Mr. Rubottom had done so only after "terrific pressure." Mr. Rubottom was

—o— Please turn to page 2 —o—

OUR STATE DEPT SCORES

—o— Continued from page 1 —o—

Assistant Secretary of State for Latin American Affairs during the ambassadorships of Messrs. Gardner and Smith. He was recently named Ambassador to the Argentine.

Mr. Smith made the extraordinary revelation that William Wieland sent him (Smith) to Herbert Matthews of the New York Times to get a briefing on Cuban affairs before Smith departed to take up his post in Havana. This occurred in 1957, after Matthews had written a series of articles which made "a Robin Hood" out of Fidel Castro.

When Mr. Smith reached Havana, he found out that "Castro was a revolutionary and a terrorist. From the time that he was "a university student, he was a gun-toter," said the former Ambassador. "I was informed by a diplomat that he had killed two priests and one nun in Bogota during the uprising in 1948."

"Whether he started out as a Communist or not I doubt. But Fidel Castro did make a number of statements at Costa Rica and out of Mexico (before he won the revolution) which clearly showed his Marxist line of thinking."

Mr. Smith was asked by Counsel J.G. Sourwine: "Is there any doubt in your mind, that the Cuban government under Castro is a Communist government?"

He answered. "I would go further.. I believe it is becoming a satellite, a Communist satellite."

"The U.S. Government agencies and the U.S. press played a major role in bringing Castro to power," continued the Ambassador.

"Three front-page articles in the New York Times in early 1957, written by the editorialist Herbert Matthews, served to in-

C. Douglas Dillon (Lapowski) — would like Dominican Republic's doors thrown open to Reds as was done in Cuba, China, Korea and many other countries.

"The United States would never agree to support or would never permit me to negotiate because it would be considered as intervening in the internal affairs of Cuba.

"As far as the disintegration of the armed forces around the Batista government, the answer is that this negative action helped shatter the morale of the existing government. The responsibility for the deterioration in the morale of the army, navy and Cuban Air Force dates back to many other forms of direct and indirect — I use the word "intervention" advisedly.

"Primarily I would say that when we refused to sell arms to the Cuban Government and also by what I termed intervening by innuendo (which was persuading other [illegible] not to sell arms to sent down surreptitiously almost every night. Every once in a while we were able to catch such a shipment and stop it. But we were not very active about it, and one factor which I think was one of the most serious was that the former President, named Prio, was living in Miami. I don't know whether you know this or not, but he was arrested, convicted and paid a five-thousand dollar fine for gun-running. He was also indicted a second time. And yet no action was ever taken on it."

This is Mr. Smith's testimony: The Batista government complained continually about the airlifts and airdrops of bodies and arms from the United States. I always kept the State Department fully informed.

"But we seem to have great trouble in enforcing our neutrality laws. I have sometimes wished that we had been half as diligent at that time in enforcing our neutrality laws as we have been lately."

Senator Eastland. Enforcing those laws now is an aid to the present government in Cuba, is it not?

Mr. Smith. Yes, sir.

In answer to a question from Senator Dodd as to whether he had ever discussed Castro with Mr. Rubottom, Mr. Smith said that he had done so on numerous occasions.

"Mr. Smith. In all due justice to Roy Rubottom, I think that Roy Rubottom was under terrific pressure from segments of the press, from certain Members of Congress, from the avalanche of Castro sympathizers who daily descend upon the State Department, and Rubottom may have taken the line of least resistance."

Mr. Smith said: "The espionage system of the Castro people was so good that they knew nearly everything that was going on. They had their spies planted in the Cuban Embassy in Washington before Castro [illegible] to power.

munist satellite."

"The U.S. Government agencies and the U.S. press played a major role in bringing Castro to power," continued the Ambassador.

"Three front-page articles in the New York Times in early 1957, written by the editorialist Herbert Matthews, served to inflate Castro to world stature and world recognition. Until that time, Castro had been just another bandit in the Oriente Mountains of Cuba with a handful of followers who had terrorized the campesinos, that is the peasants, throughout the countryside.

"Fidel Castro landed on the south coast of Oriente in December of 1956 from Mexico with an expeditionary force of 81 men. Intercepted by Cuban gunboats and patrol planes, Castro and a handful of stragglers managed to esconce themselves in the rugged 8,000-foot Sierra Maestra Range.

"After the Matthews articles which followed an exclusive interview by the Times editorial writer in Castro's mountain hideout and which likened him to Abraham Lincoln, he was able to get followers and funds in Cuba and in the United States. From that time on arms, money and soldiers of fortune abounded. Much of the American press began to picture Castro as a political Robin Hood.

"Also because Batista was the dictator who unlawfuly seized power, American people assumed Castro must, on the other hand, represent liberty and democracy. The crusader role which the press and radio bestowed on the bearded rebel blinded the people to the leftwing political philosophy with which even at that time he was already on record.

"His speeches as a student leader, his interviews as an exile while in Mexico, Costa Rica, and elsewhere clearly outlined a Marxist trend of political thought.

"The official U.S. attitude toward Castro could not help but be influenced by the pro-Castro press and radio, certain Members of Congress picked up the torch for him.

"There were a number of times, number of occasions when I was asked as the Ambassador if we would help the church in its efforts to establish a bridge between Castro and Batista, or if we, in any way, would support a national unity government. Such government would act as a provisional government in Cuba to maintain law and order while elections were being held.

ioration in the morale of the army, navy and Cuban Air Force dates back to many other forms of direct and indirect — I use the word "intervention" advisedly.

"Primarily I would say that when we refused to sell arms to the Cuban Government and also by what I termed intervening by innuendo (which was persuading other friendly governments not to sell arms to Cuba) that these actions had a moral, pyschological effect upon the Cuban armed forces which was demoralizing to the nth degree.

"The reverse, it built up the morale of the revolutionary forces. Obviously when we refused to sell arms to a friendly government, the existing government, the people of Cuba and the armed forces knew that the United States no longer would support Batista's government.

"A decision such as prohibiting the sale of arms to a friendly nation can have devastating effects upon the government in power.

"We even did not fulfill our promise to deliver 15 training planes, which had been bought and paid for by the Batista government. In accordance with instructions from the State Department I informed Batista that delivery would be suspended, because we feared some harm might come to the 47 kidnapped Americans. The kidnapping by Raul Costro of 30 U.S. marines and sailors, 17 American citizens, and 3 Canadians occurred at this time.

"After the kidnapped Americans were returned we still refused to deliver these training planes because we feared that bombs could be put on the planes even though they were strictly for training purposes. "I reiterate that decisions such as these may determine whether a government can remain in power.

"Although they could buy arms and ammunition from other sources, the psychological impact on the morale of the government was crippling. On the other hand, it gave a great uplift to the morale of the rebels."

Former Ambassador Gardner declared that a shipment of military equipment to Batista, arranged under the mutual aid pact, was "stopped" on the New York docks. He declared it was "common gossip" that "Rubottom was the only man who could have stopped it."

At the same time, according to Mr. Gardner, shipments of arms and ammunition to Castro from the United States "were being pathizers who daily descend upon the State Department, and Rubottom may have taken the line of least resistance."

Mr. Smith said: "The espionage system of the Castro people was so good that they knew nearly everything that was going on. They had their spies planted in the Cuban Embassy in Washington before Castro came to power.

"Many of these people, who later became members of the first Cabinet of Castro were asylees in the United States. They had close contacts with members of the State Department.

"To name a few: Urrutia, the first President of Cuba, Agramonte, the first Foreign Minister of Cuba, the first Prime Minister of Cuba, Miro Cardona. As a matter of fact, the first time that I met Cardona was after Batista had left the country. It was about the 4th of January of 1959 in the Presidential palace. He turned to me and said, ' I am a good friend of William Wieland, a very good friend of William Wieland.' "

Mr. Smith asserted that before the Castro forces arrived in Havana, they had been demanding tribute throughout Cuba. "By the fall or the late summer of 1958, they decided to also demand tribute by American business and American property holders. Toward the closing days of the Batista regime, I believe some Americans did pay protection money. They were paying taxes to the Batista government and were also paying taxes to the Castro people."

Mr. Smith also strongly criticized the haste with which the Castro government was recognized by the United States. He declared that the State Department had ordered him to recognize the Castro government before Castro himself reached Havana in January 1958. In protesting against the making of policies by the people "on the fourth floor" Mr. Smith said:

"I believe that the policies are determined in the lower echelon, and by the time the higher echelon receives them, policies have already been made, and they have to live by them.

"If they believed it was in the best interest of the United States to be friendly to another power and to give aid to that power, then our actions along that line should be guided accordingly."

Mr. Gardner declared that when he was Ambassador he endeavored to lay the facts about Castro and the Cuban situation before Secretary Herter, former Under Secretary Robert Murphy and Under Secretary Loy

Henderson, as well as others in the State Department . He said he was "ignored, overlooked and circumvented."

Both former Ambassadors emphasized that before Batista's downfall Cuba was enjoying the greatest prosperity in its history. "Today", commented Senators Eastland and Dodd, in their joint statement, "the Cuban economy has been reduced to chaos, according to standard Communist procedures for instituting systematic disorder before imposing the final acts of Red despotism."

OUR FRIEND FOR THIRTY YEARS DOMINICAN REPUBLIC — TARGET OF RED DIRECTED STATE DEPARTMENT

This red directed outfit has cancelled diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic and has called on all countries to follow our lead of economic boycott.

Douglas Dillon, who is really running the State Dept. is quoted by Associated Press of 8/25/60 as saying,

"Trujillo is a tyrant, torturer, and murderer."

We don't remember hearing him say that about Khrushchev, the butcher, who murdered several million or Castro. Trujillo has brought his country from chaos, and a starving run-down country 30 years ago, built it up with beautiful buildings, clean streets and today they have no national debt. Long ago Trujillo cancelled diplomatic relations with Soviet Union, something the U.S. should have done.

It is mainly our State Dept. that has maneuvered the U.S. into such a staggering national debt, that economists are warning we face bankruptcy. Our State Dept. doesn't like dictators, meaning rulers who are rough on communism. Agents from the State Dept. ran Chiang Kai-Shek out of China, Syngman Rhee out of Korea and tried for years to run Gen. Franco out of Spain; and brought pressure on Belgium

ARGENTINA -- A COLONY OR A SATELLITE STATE OF ISRAEL?

Republished from the political review, "Pregondo Verdades" in Buenos Aires June 9th 1960

The Eichmann Case has to be investigated! The Zionist centers are academies of spy-work and subversion!

The people have suspicioned that here a policy with strange traits was in development, the details of which could not be clearly recognized, but had a determined aim, to undermine the fundamentals of our economic and political structure. For many, the problem was already clear as daylight and the facts which are eloquent and characteristic, give the reasons for the evaluation they have provoked.

THE STRATEGY OF THE SYSTEM

We have seen, how slowly but surely positions of strategical importance beyond any doubt on all reaches of our life have been snatched away, even those which have decisive importance for the economical and social organization and are narrowly tied and united to the defense of our country. This results from the old military principle that the capacity for action of the armed forces in case of war depend on the organization of the inner front, which has to be wholly homogenous to be able to give without delay the support, which an army, having defensive and offensive tasks, needs. The inner fronts must be watched carefully in modern times for it is a question of our own sovereignty and there can be no question, which may conspire against our security or may open a breach by which information may trickle

WHO CONTROLS THE SOURCES OF CREDIT?

How many banks and credit institutions in Argentina and in all America are controlled by Jewish capitalism? Following a strategical plan, the aim of which is to expand Jewish controlled economy, banks and companies have been established which make use of the enormous volume of capital they are able to dispose of, to throttle all possibility of development or all self-defence of the great majority of Argentinian enterprises, until either by economical pressure, stoppage, restriction or calling off credits they will have forced them to surrender into the hands of the Jews, who are supported by these companies of Jewish capitalists. The truth is that more than 70% of the national capital is controlled either by Jewish enterprises or personalities. By this way purposedly the economical potentialities of the Argentinians to live and to develop are Jewish controlled, which will transform us in a short time into slaves of a small power, that we will be forced to spend all our work and efforts only to the profit of Israel and of Jewish capitalism. There is only one way of salvation left that even with so much money they can not buy all consciences in the country and can not break all moral principles which we Argentinians generally strive to maintain.

INTERNATIONAL JEWISH POLICE FORCE

When we heard that on our territory, on our beloved fatherland agents of Israel's Secret Service have managed to arrest maneuvered the U.S. into such a staggering national debt, that economists are warning we face bankruptcy. Our State Dept. doesn't like dictators, meaning rulers who are rough on communism. Agents from the State Dept. ran Chiang Kai-Shek out of China, Syngman Rhee out of Korea and tried for years to run Gen. Franco out of Spain; and brought pressure on Belgium to leave the Congo to Lumumba to set up communism. And now Trujillo.

This same outfit refused to help Hungary and prevented Spain from sending troops to help Hungarian Freedom Fighters, who were being slaughtered by Khrushchev. He's no dictator? Castro is no dictator? Castro insults us everyday — steals several hundred million of American property, arrests our people and puts hundreds of Cubans before the firing squads for nothing. He has communist fighter planes, has set up a refueling station for communist subs., and communists have built a landing field. We keep turning the other cheek. Ike said the other day that Cuba was not our government, we could not interfere.

Trujillo has been our good friend for 30 years but has been rough on a gang of communists that escaped from Spain and who were trying to communize the Dominican Republic. We stick our nose into trouble all over the world but we are timid where communism is concerned. Are we trying to crush Trujillo and force his country under communism?

After the surrender of Germany hundreds of scientists and technicians trying to surrender to the U.S. were forced to go to Soviet Union. On whose orders? The State Department's. After Washington had agreed to lend money to Egypt to build Aswan Dam, our State Dept. cancelled out forcing Egypt to deal with Soviet Union. The State Dept. has assumed the power of the executive department and congress.

A few weeks ago we were speaking with a man engaged full time in patriotic work. He had just returned from a visit to all Caribbean countries, where he found in public buildings, posters with the Hammer & Sickle. He said:

"The only friend we have in the Caribbean is Dominican Republic."

So why not attack them, that is what we have been doing since 1941. Attack our friends and help our enemies — even if it bankrupts us!

——o——

which has to be wholly homogenous to be able to give without delay the support, which an army, having defensive and offensive tasks, needs. The inner fronts must be watched carefully in modern times for it is a question of our own sovereignty and there can be no question, which may conspire against our security or may open a breach by which information may trickle out of the country, or elements able to commit sabotage against the production of war materials or may hinder their transport or deteriorate their quality.

WHO CONTROLS THE SOURCES OF IMPORTANT AND CRITICAL MATERIALS?

It is a strange occurrence that more than ninety percent of the production of vital materials, such which relates to national defense in Argentina is controlled by Jewish companies, and by a short survey we are able to demonstrate that fact: the great chemical laboratories which can be transformed into centers of military production,the laboratories of medicinal drugs and pharmaceutics, which are indispensible to the country in case of war, the great metallurgical plants which are of vital importance for the production of war stores and equipment, the plants for manufacturing minerals and their further working up, the industries of food stuffs, of textiles, of artificial fibres and of auto-motors, moreover the petroleum-chemical industry in evolution, they all without any exception belong under this statement. That will say, the Zionist economy is managing the whole fundamental system of our defense.

WHO CONTROLS THE CENTERS WHERE PUBLIC OPINION IS FORMED?

At the inner front in time of peace and of war the organizations of opinion and information are important. That has nothing to do with the freedom of the press nor with the freedom to express one's own opinion, but it is a matter of security of the State. There exists a continuous execution of a program of taking away these means mentioned above, of snatching away reviews, magazines and newspapers, which are all transferred into Jewish hands. To them must be added the radio transmissions and radio stations,which are in the same situation of gliding more and more into Jewish hands; while permanently more and more Jews turn up as commentators in television and radio as far as these are not wholly controlled by Jews or by Jewish societies.

buy all consciences in the country and can not break all moral principles which we Argentinians generally strive to maintain.

INTERNATIONAL JEWISH POLICE FORCE

When we heard that on our territory, on our beloved fatherland agents of Israel's Secret Service have managed to arrest Eichmann and to abduct him by an avion to Israel, we first did not believe that such an aggression on Argentina's sovereignty was possible. But the hard facts and Israel's own confession have made the truth evident, and the matter has a much bigger dimension by the cynicism which is expressed in the note which Israel has submitted to our Minister of Foreign Affairs. We don't want to say here, how our laws have been violated and how international law has been offended, and we don't want to enter into an investigation of Eichmann's personality. It was enough that the whole world has heard about the coup made against us, that all newspapers and leaders of Zionism in the world began a perfectly uniform campaign to hinder Argentina from demanding Eichmann to be returned according to international law and rules.

THE SPY-WORK OF THE MOST RACIST RACE BY ZIONIST ORGANIZATIONS

The Argentinian Republic stands today at the second place in the world as to the density of Jewish population and in this respect is only exceeded by the United States. From this point of view, which most people ignore it must be stressed that the real Jewish State does not shelter as many Jews as Argentina does, the Jewish population of Argentina being more than three million persons. The racist feeling, developed in the highest degree among the Jews brings out that they never finally integrate into our nation nor in any other nation. The Jews have always remained isolated. There exists a Jewish axiom of their creed that absolute racial purity will allow them to rule the world one day. It is indeed this tendency aiming at the dominion of the world, which is far from all development of humanity (though this development tries to make itself free from sentiments of hatred inherited from their ancestors) which characterizes definitely the Jews as the only rabidly racial minded beings existing in the world of today. There is no assimilation to the surrounding world nor any attempt to reach such an assimilation. There is an absolute separation from our history, from all Argentinian efforts to create a better future. This will surely provoke the reaction of those who are only influenced by powerful interests and will set up a false defense of the Jewish cause. Those blare out the stupid slogans of "racial persecution", "beginnings of nazism", and "anti-semitic campaign", whenever these very serious problems are discussed.

—o— Please turn to page 4 —o—

ARGENTINA

—o— Continued from page 3 —o—

Who orders that nobody is allowed to touch the Jewish subject?

One must break through the close veil and disclose the lie under the cover of which the Jewish organizations are working.

SECRET SERVICE AND SPY-WORK

We say that the structure of Jewish power in our country has made it possible to build up an efficient secret service; this statement being confirmed by the fact that Jewish penetration of our country is so all comprising that those forms of activity of national life, which are not yet brought under Jewish control are only exceptions. This apparently invisible penetration has been effected in a slow but stubborn way, gradually a strategy being employed which is based on a far reaching plan; and this plan has been conceived, ripened and put into effect with a view into the future. our military or economical potentiality is in front of their financial power, around which our whole development is turning.

In many offices which have to do with these matters, there sit Jewish "fellow-citizens" as employees or clerks and access to information, which in other countries of the world would be totally closed to them, exactly because they are active as citizens of the Jewish State. But in spite of that all people are so misled to defend with cynicism their position not only in Israel being paid, these young Jews and Jewesses were prepared and trained in special Zionist camps and schools situated near to Buenos Aires. There they are taught fencing, boxing, judo, tactics of commando troops and spy-work. This training in camps is made obligatory for all Jewish youth enjoying their full sexual liberty. Of course these Jewish clubs and organizations are exclusive and don't admit any goy(non-Jew). The rigid racial consciousness of the Jews makes it difficult to get nearer information about the inside activities and the practice in these training camps, where also military exercises are made, all under inoffensive camouflage of cultural arrangements. It is important to know that all these Jewish associations and clubs serve as information offices for Israel's secret service and that nobody in the country dares say a word about it. It will be necessary to give more details particularly about certain organizations. At any rate, it is a concrete fact that in our country intense spy-work and dark activities are happening.

PALESTINE – WORLD CAPITAL

To quote a French Canadian paper, L'Unite' Nationale, No. 4/1953, published in Montreal: "The President of the World Jewish Congress, Dr. Nahum Goldmann, at Montreal in 1947, declared: 'The Jews might have had Uganda, Madagascar and other places for the establishment of a Jewish fatherland, but they want absolutely nothing except Palestine; not because of the Biblical or religious significance of Palestine; not because the Dead Sea waters by evaporation can produce five trillion dollars worth of metaloid and powdered metals, not because (following Mr. Dulles) the sub-soil of Palestine contains twenty times more petroleum than all the combined reserves of the two Americas, but because Palestine is the crossroads of Europe, Asia and Africa, because Palestine constitutes the veritable center of

NIXON – VITAL ISSUES

—o— Continued from page 1 —o—

It appears that Nixon, had he been able to resist the pressure put on successful politicians, would be a strong character. But early in his career, in steps a clever A.D.L. Jew to control him. Murray Chotiner managed Nixon's first two political campaigns. Chotiner, because of his association with Nixon, although living in California, was hired as defense attorney by four different New Jersey concerns accused of defrauding the government on clothing contracts. In persuading the Justice Dept. to go easy with the prosecution, Chotiner operated from Nixon's office. Maxwell Rabb assisted Chotiner according to the press. Those involved as defendants were Herman Kravitz, Samuel Kravits, George Klass and Nathan Lieberman.

Nelson Rockefeller, who is identified with the Invisible Government, has apparently made a complete captive of Nixon, who went to New York at Rockefeller's bidding, and after an all-night conference, went to Chicago and forced Rockefeller's policies into the Republican platform. Should Nixon be elected, who would run the government? Nixon in his TV debate with Kennedy in Chicago said a number of times how he and Kennedy were agreed. While Kennedy referred approvingly four times to F. D. Roosevelt, giving the impression he would follow the New Deal program, Nixon made no move to remind 73 million listeners that FDR had turned millions of helpless people in Europe over to Stalin.

Nixon must know that if he used facts from Walter Judd's speech which he heard at the Republican Convention, the Democrats would be discredited and Nixon would be President. Many people wonder what power prevents discussion of vital questions while the religious question gets the play.

Why not bring out the fact that no Senator has a more leftist voting record than

In many offices which have to do with these matters, there sit Jewish "fellow-citizens" as employees or clerks and access to information, which in other countries of the world would be totally closed to them, exactly because they are active as citizens of the Jewish State. But in spite of that all people are so misled to defend with cynicism their position not only in public administration, but also in the positions mentioned above. All these circumstances help them to collect information, which later on is classified and will converge in Tel Aviv, mostly by the way of New York, the center of the Jewish terroristic organizations —HAGANAH and the STERN GANG, which have contributed particularly to the creation of the State of Israel. Both these organizations, under an iron leadership, coordinate their efforts and spy-work in all countries. Eichmann was kidnapped from Buenos Aires by their spy service. Therefore it would be of special interest to know the names of their agents in Argentina, who have travelled during last December to New York or to Tel Aviv. There were several of them and some have been bearers of information concerning the stay of Eichmann, Dr. Mengele and other personalities persecuted by Israel and also of apostate Jews, who are condemned to death by the terroristic Jewish organizations.

JEWISH CLUBS AND CULTURAL ASSOCIATIONS AS CENTERS OF TRAINING AND ISRAEL'S SECRET SERVICE

When the Committee to Investigate Un-Argentinian Activities had been created by the Argentinian parliament, it took away legal personality from the German main association of cultural character and prohibited any further activity of the numerous German associations, saying they were centers of spy-work and Nazi propaganda. Many of these measures were taken because of accusations brought forward by Jewish centers and associations, which have always found a favorable acceptance with the interested authorities.

Today it is the question of the first centers of Jewish spy-work; training for Israel's secret service is made in apparently innocent Jewish clubs and cultural centers. We know from the information given to us by some young Jewesses that when the system has been introduced to make young Argentinian born Jews and Jewesses work in Israel, all the costs of their transport to because the Dead Sea waters by evaporation can produce five trillion dollars worth of metaloid and powdered metals, not because (following Mr. Dulles) the sub-soil of Palestine contains twenty times more petroleum than all the combined reserves of the two Americas, but because Palestine is the crossroads of Europe, Asia and Africa, because Palestine constitutes the veritable center of world political Power, the strategic military center for world control.'—"

STATEMENT OF OWNERSHIP

Statement of ownership, management etc., required by the act of Congress of August 24, 1912, March 3, 1933 and July 2, 1946, of published semi-monthly, once July and August at Union, New Jersey for October 1, 1960.

COMMON SENSE

The name and address of the publisher is: Christian Educational Association, 530 Chestnut Street, Union, N.J. Editor Conde McGinley, 530 Chestnut Street, Union, N. J.

The owner is: Christian Educational Association, 530 Chestnut Street, Union, N. J. Stockholders: John G. Crommelin, Jr., Montgomery, Alabama, Hannah Cummings, Philadelphia, Pa., James Weis, Columbus, Ohio.

The known bondholders, mortgagees and other security holders owning or holding 1% or more of the total amount of bonds, mortages, or other securitiies are. None

The average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the 12 months preceding the date shown above was 84,000.

(Signed) Conde McGinley

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 30th day of September, 1960, Ethel B. Stewart, Notary Public of N. J. My commission expires Aug. 23, 1962.

Common Sense*

Union, New Jersey, U.S.A.

Conde McGinley, Editor

One year's subscription, $1; Three years for $2.50. First Class (Sealed) — $3.00 per year. Foreign, 10 months, $1.00

In BULK, same issue or assorted

25 Copies — $ 1.00
100 Copies — 3.00
500 Copies — 10.00

Common Sense*

Published twice monthly except July and August, once each, by Christian Educational Assn. 530 Chestnut Street, Union, N. J.

Trade Mark Registered U.S. Patent Office

Nixon must know that if he used facts from Walter Judd's speech which he heard at the Republican Convention, the Democrats would be discredited and Nixon would be President. Many people wonder what power prevents discussion of vital questions while the religious question gets the play.

Why not bring out the fact that no Senator has a more leftist voting record than Kennedy? To stop Kennedy is to stop the gang who surrounds him. Why does Nixon not dare win with facts like these? Under Democratic rule we turned the Balkans over to communism; we divided Poland and gave half to communism. It was a Democratic administration that divided Germany giving half to communism, leaving Berlin surrounded by communist territory — a lighted fuse for war. The Democratic administration divided Korea and let communism have North Korea. It was a Democratic President Truman who ordered the atomic bombs dropped on Japan after they had offered to surrender; he also recognized the illegitimate state of Israel. Millions of Russians who fled into Germany to escape communism were forced to return to the Soviet Union, where they were slaughtered. This was an order by a Democratic administration ruled by Zionists.

It is evident there is not a great deal of difference between the two parties. A president from either party is not a free man. We allowed this condition to slip up on us. Now we are trapped and puzzled as to what to do. We are not giving advice for this election, only information which may be helpful. Some patriots have been working to give thoughtful people an escape from this trap. In some states independent candidates are on the ballot. You can vote for them; they are not controlled. In other states there are independent electors on the ballot to vote for; and in at least one state there is a write-in campaign. Particular attention is called to Virginia, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Washington, Michigan, Wisconsin and Delaware.

Use your vote the best way to stop Kennedy.

For more complete information on John Kennedy's red record read Common Sense issues No. 344 and 345 and 348.

Read and pass on!

COMMUNISM IS TREASON!

FIGHT IT WITH . . .

Common Sense

AMERICA'S NEWSPAPER AGAINST COMMUNISM

Copyright Registered 1948 United States Patent Office.

"The Truth, the whole Truth, and nothing but the Truth"

Without fear or favor,

Conde McGinley

FOUNDER AND EDITOR

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Plain envelope, unsealed ..... $1.
Plain envelope, sealed ..... $3.
Foreign & Canada, (10 mos.) $1.

Issue No. 352 (15th Year) Union, New Jersey, U.S.A. Nov. 1, 1960 Entered as Second Class Matter January 27, 1948, at the Post Office at Union, N. J., under the Act of March 3, 1879 FIVE CENTS

ZIONISTS CONTROL NAACP

Herbert Lehman

Zionist Jew, director in the NAACP, has 10 Communist Front citations. Most powerful in Marxist movement.

Felix Frankfurter

Zionist Jew, rules Supreme Court with an iron hand, was attorney for Red-front NAACP for ten years.

Arthur Spingarn

Zionist Jew, is president of the NAACP and has contact with many Red-front organizations.

Sen. Jacob Javits

This Zionist Jew along with Congressman Emanuel Celler were authors of the infamous Civil Rights Bill.

How Red Is NAACP & Its Leaders?

Herbert Lehman

Zionist Jew, director in the NAACP, has 10 Communist Front citations. Most powerful in Marxist movement.

Felix Frankfurter

Zionist Jew, rules Supreme Court with an iron hand, was attorney for Red-front NAACP for ten years.

Arthur Spingarn

Zionist Jew, is president of the NAACP and has contact with many Red-front organizations.

Sen. Jacob Javits

This Zionist Jew along with Congressman Emanuel Celler were authors of the infamous Civil Rights Bill.

How Red Is NAACP & Its Leaders?

The NAACP, supposedly a Negro organization, is controlled by Asiatic Marxist Jews who do not have the welfare of the Negro at heart! They use the Negro to create strife and disorder—The oldest trick in the book—DIVIDE AND CONQUER! !

Some people in Northern States are under the impression that Negro people want to abolish segregation and that it is the colored people who are pushing for integration.

After interviewing people of both the Black and White race in 20 States we can truthfully say that approximately 90% of the colored people throughout the South WANT separate schools for their children

Why shouldn't they? Most people like to be with their own kind. We saw Negro schools which appeared equal, and in many cities the Negro schools were better than those for whites!

The two races have been living in harmony in the South for a long time, and they understand each other. Clever Jewish Communist organizers from New York area have been agitating young Negroes in the South, using false promises just as they did with the Hungarian workmen to secure their support in communist Hungary. Later when Jewish Communism had gained full control of Hungary, the workers asked for recognition and were mercilessly slaughtered. We now state that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is positively a Communist dominated, agitating group which has never had a Negro as head of the organization since it was founded and financed by the Communist Garland Fund. A JEW has always headed the National Association for the Agitation of Colored People (A more appropriate name for the NAACP).

The NAACP derives its real power from the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith which is the Jewish F.B.I. Twenty-four years study of the Marxist conspiracy enables us to state that the United States is in the process of being brain-washed and slowly but surely being prepared to give up its freedom.

Since the Supreme Court decision on segregation has focused attention on the NAACP, and they have been exposed time and again as a Communist-front, at important public meetings they cleverly state that they must be careful to screen out all Communist influence. Then, why don't they start with themselves? All the important officers in the NAACP we know of, have been tied up with Communism for years. When the Communists are put on the spot or in a corner they conveniently take the "FIFTH AMENDMENT" or "don't remember," or like Alger Hiss, who in an effort to deceive the public, sued Whittaker Chambers for calling him a Communist. Major Jordan's Diary shows conclusive evidence that former Senator Herbert Lehman (Zionist) is a powerful man in the world Communist movement and certainly he is the most powerful man behind the NAACP!

The Zionist controlled NAACP agitators hand-pick Negroes to force into schools of the South as an opening wedge to break down segregation. The Autherine Lucy case

—o— Please turn to page 4 —o—

Roy Wilkins
Executive Secretary NAACP
9 Communist - front citations.

Dr. Ralph Bunche
Deputy Sec. Gen. of U.N., has 7 Red front Citations. National director of NAACP.

Thurgood Marshall
Special Council NAACP, has 5 Communist - front citations.

Channing Tobias
Asst. Treasurer of NAACP, at least 50 Communist-front listings.

Martin Luther King Jr. MARXIST TOOL & RACE AGITATOR

By Sam Crockett

On Jan. 1, 1958, the power-crazy Negro "leader" Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., led a "Pilgrimage for Public Schools on Emancipation Day" march on Richmond, Va. The Va. branch of the NAACP and the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) co-sponsored the march. This school integration propaganda gesture is another in the long series of racial agitation activities led by King, and as usual was reported in the Worker, 12/21/58, p. 16, with full approval by the Communist Party's official organ.

Let's take a good look at King's record since he was picked as one to "lead" the Negroes down the crimson path to a Soviet America.

"Over the Labor Day weekend (8/30 to 9/2/57), Highlander Folk School, at Monteagle, Tenn., staged its 25th anniversary seminar on 'the . . . integration struggle.' Notorious communists, veteran communist fellow travelers, and Negro leaders in all the recent major incidents attending integration were present at the seminar . . . (This) School was organized by . . . Don West." West was District organizer of CP of No. Carolina. This school is actually a Communist Training School. The closing address at this seminar was made by Martin Luther King. Pictures taken at that time shows him together with Abner Berry, Negro member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and columnist for the Daily Worker. Pete Seeger, participant in the N. Y. State Youth Board of the CP (Daily Worker, 2/22/49) and long time CP member, entertained the delegates

Martin Luther King Jr.

Negro's evaluation of himself . . . ." Ruskin contributes another article and is identified as having "had many years of direct experience in racial conflicts in the South." In 1946 he served a sentence on the chain gang in N. C. for refusing to sit in the Negro section of a bus. He went to India in 1947 and Africa in 1953. He is an expert on civil disobedience. The title of his speeches delivered in Africa and U. S. was "AFRICA AND THE WORLD STRUGGLE." Bayard Ruskin was sentenced to 60 days in jail as a sex pervert in Pasadena, Calif., January 22, 1953 by Judge H. Burton Noble.

The Youth March for Integrated Schools to Washington, D. C., 10/25/58, was another of King's activities. He was co-chair-for the Youth March and were in vast audience." Challenge, official publication of the Young Peoples Socialist League (11/1/58) headlined the story and pointed out that the Marcher's White House Student delegation leader and 14 of the main youth organizers were members of the YPSL.

The N. Y. Post (7/11/58 reports an interview with King by Mike Wallace (Myron Wallik✡) in which King asserted "I'm sure that integration will lead to intermarriage. I don't deny that . . ."

The Communist National Guardian, 10/20 58, p. 8, carried a laudatory review of King's book "Stride Toward Freedom."

While autographing copies of this book in a Jewish department store in Harlem, King was stabbed in the chest by a Negro woman who resented his integration activities and yelled as she stabbed him "You made enough people suffer in the last six years." (N.Y. Journal American, 9/20/58). With King was the president of NAACP, Arthur B. Spingarn (✡). The woman also stated that Rev. King has ruined my life; he is no good; the NAACP is no good, it's Communistic. (N.Y. Amsterdam News, 9/27/58, p. 11).

The Daily Worker, 3/10 & 14/57, described the celebration marking the birth of the Communist-run Negro state of Ghana in Africa under the premiership of Communist Party member Kwame Nkrumah. Soviet representatives were present: Communist W. E. B. DuBois (72 Fronts) was invited by Nkrumah; Cedric Belgrage, CP member, was present; Communist-fronter A. Philip Randolph and identified Party member Ralph Bunche were there, and so were King and his wife.

The one organization in this country closing address at this seminar was made by Martin Luther King. Pictures taken at that time shows him together with Abner Berry, Negro member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and columnist for the Daily Worker. Pete Seeger, participant in the N. Y. State Youth Board of the CP (Daily Worker, 2/22/49) and long time CP member, entertained the delegates.

King is president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and led the Montgomery Boycott and the March On Washington, the latter with Bayard Ruskin his manager, who, according to the Daily Worker, attended the 1957 convention of the Communist Party.

"Leading Communists have been writing enthusiastically about King's movement . .. the Party looks upon King's work and movement as a new opportunity to incite racial animosity."

King's manager, Bayard Ruskin, is listed as a member of the Editorial Board of Liberation (April 1956; Jan. 1957 issues). This is a pacifist-anarchist publication. Its contributors included typical communist-fronters Norman Mailer, Dorothy Day, Lewis Mumford, Pitirim Sorokin. A. J. Muste, infamous pacifist, communist-collaborator, also is listed on the Editorial Board. Martin Luther King contributed an article to the April 1956 issue in which he stated that "The extreme tension in race in part by the revolutionary change in the of his speeches delivered in Africa and U. S. was "AFRICA AND THE WORLD STRUGGLE." Bayard Ruskin was sentenced to 60 days in jail as a sex pervert in Pasadena, Calif., January 22, 1953 by Judge H. Burton Noble.

The Youth March for Integrated Schools to Washington, D. C., 10/25/58, was another of King's activities. He was co-chairman along with veteran Communist-fronter A. Philip Randolph, Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, who also has a record, and committee member Algernon Black(66 fronts), George B. Ford, Harry Fosdick, Milton Galamison(Brooklyn NAACP head), Clarence Pickett, James H. Robinson, Bayard Ruskin, all of whom have front records. (See Call) Three bus loads of Communists from the cited Communist N.Y. Teachers' Union participated in the March (N. Y. Teachers News, 10/18 & 11/1/58). The Worker(11/2/58, p. 3) reported the March with the heading "Rev. King said: The Oppressed Always Marched For Freedom" accompanied by a picture of Mrs. King, who delivered the speech for her ailing husband. The Youth Pledge of the Marchers was reprinted in its entirety by the Worker. The entire front page of this issue and 14 columns of print were devoted to the March, May 17, 1959. Communist-fronter Harry Belafonte was a speaker to the Marchers. The Worker stated(p.15) that "Large numbers of the Left(Communist) forces actively aided in mobilizing support Africa under the premiership of Communist Party member Kwame Nkrumah. Soviet representatives were present: Communist W. E. B. DuBois(72 Fronts) was invited by Nkrumah; Cedric Belgrage, CP member, was present; Communist-fronter A. Philip Randolph and identified Party member Ralph Bunche were there, and so were King and his wife.

The one organization in this country which has been supporting the South African communists traitors currently on trial is the American Committee on Africa. An 11/7/58 letterhead shows King listed as a member of its national committee, along with a long list of communist-fronters: John Gunther(✡), Oscar Hammerstein II(✡), Will Maslow (✡), identified Communist Party member Alex Meiklejohn (✡), Reinhold Niebuhr, Sidney Poitier. A. Philip Randolph, Mrs. FDR(over 100 Fronts), Rex Stout, Channing Tobias(50 Fronts), and about three dozen more. A Jan. 11, 1956, letterhead shows Bayard Ruskin on the Executive Board (Also 1957 letterheads).

The 1958 CORE(See above) letterheads show King on the National Advisory Committee along with red-fronters Roger Baldwin, Will Maslow, A. J. Muste, A. Philip Randolph, Ira DeA. Reid, and Goodwin Watson(82 Communist fronts).

Warren Studies Talmudic Law

HEAD OF THE SUPREME COURT

Justice Earl Warren, a darling of the Zionists is shown on his arrival in New York with Rabbi Louis Finkelstein, to study TALMUDIC Law. He is not content with the way his "DECISIONS" have upset the U.S., he now must study Jewish law. We can now brace ourselves for more of his weird Red-favored decisions!

In a recent popularity contest in Warren's home State of California, he ran a poor last

—o—

LEADING NEGRO AGAINST RACE MIXING

Bishop C. C. Addison

Native of Georgia, Archbishop and Pres. General. African Stock Exchange Assn., 14 Webster Place, East Orange, N.J. This is one of nine Negro leaders actively opposing integration in the United States today.

FORCE THE RACES TO MIX - NAACP'S GOAL

INTEGRATION IN SCHOOLS - RESULT INTERMARRIAGE

In considering the problem of race segregation, it must be approached from the standpoint of the greatest good both to Negro and White. Sentimentality or prejudice cannot properly enter into the merits of segregation.

The only logical method to determine the best situation is to depend on well authenticated facts as to results when conditions have been in effect long enough to have produced a definite pattern.

Free, indiscriminate, intermingling of the races is the NAACP's goal. It is a sinister plot by the Marxist masterminds out of New York and Washington, D.C., to weaken and degenerate the entire White race.

The Negro should be proud of his OWN heritage and NOT let the Jewish controlled NAACP force him into seeking the unnatural association of the whites!

If our Creator intended only one race, a mulatto race, he would have so created it in the beginning and NOT expected the NAACP to finish His work for Him. Our Lord gave each race its own character, individuality and charm. It is obvious He intended they should remain so. The Jewish organizations and the NAACP intend to change the wishes of our Creator.

If the Communist policy of conquest by absorption can be fulfilled through racial intimacy and the inevitable intermarriage of Whites and Blacks, then this evil Marxist philosophy will prove the downfall, if not the actual disappearance of the entire White Race !!

The North, like the South is not without its share of the segregation problem in its schools as well as its public housing projects.

In the latter part of 1957, deep in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant area, which has a predominantly Negro population Stuyvesant section all Negro. Disregarding this fact, the NAACP, always on the offensive when there is a chance to agitate, contended that if the school was "not good Here we have race-mixing at the Communist Training School, Monteagle, Tenn.

Dancing at school would be encouraged by certain teachers and the children would not be capable of coping with the overwhelming Red propaganda aimed at them. This is the inevitable result of integration. The young child in school can come under the influence of the increasing crop of one-world minded teachers. Lenin's theory was to capture the young minds of the children at school, indoctrinate them, and parents would lose them forever.

This is the same type of philosophy the Jewish controlled NAACP thrives on. The seating of a Negro child beside a White child is just the opening wedge!

CONGRESSMAN — REVEREND — TAXDODGER — intimacy and the inevitable intermarriage of Whites and Blacks, then this evil Marxist philosophy will prove the downfall, if not the actual disappearance of the entire White Race !!

The North, like the South is not without its share of the segregation problem in its schools as well as its public housing projects.

In the latter part of 1957, deep in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant area, which has a predominantly Negro population, public school 258 incurred the wrath of the Jewish controlled NAACP!

P.S. 258, a new junior high school with 1,500 Negro students and less than 5 or 6 white students was not integrated enough to suit the NAACP.

The white families, trying to protect their children had moved out of the neighborhood as fast as the Negro families had moved in, thus making the Bedford-Stuyvesant section all Negro. Disregarding this fact, the NAACP, always on the offensive when there is a chance to agitate, contended that if the school was "not good for whites it is not good enough for Negroes" and went into their usual tactics. They created such a disturbance and pressured the school board to such an extent that the Negro children are now being transported by bus several miles out of their way to schools in all-white districts at taxpayers expense! All this just to pacify the NAACP and forcefully integrate the races.

A great majority of New York schools are being FORCEFULLY integrated in this manner. The white students are being transported or "reassigned" to previously all-Negro school districts, despite their parents disapproval!

As a direct result of this NAACP inspired FORCED integration the teaching standards of New York schools have dropped far below par due to the loss of many qualified teachers quietly leaving the profession in disgust. Crime is rampant throughout the school corridors to such extent that school authorities cannot cope with it and many schools require police protection for its students as well as its faculty members.

The only safe alternative for many white families is to move out of the city and into the suburbs, or as a last resort, out of New York state itself! This very same pattern of forced integration is being enacted in many large metropolitan areas throughout the North with the inevitable happening—the cities automatically become segregated.

In Washington, D.C. with the forced integration of previously all-white schools, the wholesale muggings, stabbings and rapings of decent girls has forced the white families to send their children to private schools across the line to Arlington. Va., where the NAACP is now agitating in the Courts for immediate integration of all Virginia schools. In our Capitol, Washington, the schools, after integration, are now 75% Negro.

—o—

by certain teachers and the children would not be capable of coping with the overwhelming Red propaganda aimed at them. This is the inevitable result of integration. The young child in school can come under the influence of the increasing crop and parents would lose them forever.

This is the same type of philosophy the Jewish controlled NAACP thrives on. The seating of a Negro child beside a White child is just the opening wedge!

– JEWS STIR UP NEGROES –

AL LEVENSTEIN (✡), delegate from So. Africa to U. N. photographed while speaking to negroes March, 7, 1960 in Montgomery, Alabama. Although a citizen of a foreign country, this Jew is traveling over our Southern States sowing discord and confusion among our citizens. As the PROTOCOLS state, Jews will turn classes and races against each other so that confusion reigns while Marxists spring the trap as they have already done in 17 other countries.

CONGRESSMAN — REVEREND — TAXDODGER —

Adam Clayton Powell, U.S. Congressman from New York, appearing on the Mike Wallace (✡) television program Channel 13 at 11 P.M. Friday, March 20, 1959 made several significant statements.

Powell stated that in New York City 64% of the school population are Negroes and Puerto Ricans; 50% of the city population is Negro and Puerto Ricans; that in the U.S. 28 million whites have Negro blood and 70% of the Negroes have white blood. When asked by Mike Wallace what he thought was the best way to solve the race problem, Powell quoted an educator at Harvard University as stating that intermarriage would solve the race problem.

– KEEP INFORMED –

Space will not permit us giving in one issue a full understanding of the terrifying danger of the race mixing plot promoted by cunning Marxist minds who are using vote-hungry politicians to enforce it.

Ask your friends to subscribe to COMMON SENSE at the low subscription price of $1.00 per year so they can be informed. Only an aroused public can prevent our being slaves under Jewish communism as exists in 17 countries.. In 42 years, more than 40% of the world's population has been enslaved under communism.

REDS RACIAL RECORD

William Z. Foster, present head of the Communist Party in America, declared in his book entitled —

TOWARDS SOVIET AMERICA

"The American Soviet will of course abolish all restrictions upon racial intermarriage . . . . The revolution will only hasten this process of integration, already proceeding throughout the world with increasing tempo."
(page 305-306)

David Lawrence reported in his newspaper column (Times-Picayune, Nov. 12, 1958) that Prof. Allen Nevins, long time professor of American history at Columbia University, two time Pulitzer prize winner—

"is emphatically in favor of desegregation and calls upon the Southern people to face reality, as he tells them that intermarriage between the races in the coming years is inevitable."

Today, the Kremlin leadership in Moscow feels so firmly entrenched in the NAACP that the top official organ of the Communist Party in the US has advised all of its followers that:

"We must support the NAACP in this struggle with every ounce of energy at our disposal."

(Political Affairs, official organ of the CPUSA, Feb. 1950, p. 26).

HOW RED IS THE NAACP?

—o— Continued from page 1 —o—

was an outstanding example of this type agitation, the same tactics were used in Little Rock. Anyone who has studied the NAACP and its questionable leaders should

ANNA ROSENBERG VISITING U. S. TROOPS

Anna Rosenberg(✡), while Asst. Secretary of Defense in charge of all manpower, supervised the hiring of more than a million employees of 115 government agencies. She packed the Defense Dept. with Reds and Communists during the Truman administration.

When the late Sen. McCarthy began digging into the Defense Dept. and demanded to know who promoted Peress, the Reds and liberals screamed for McCarthy's scalp.

It was Anna Rosenberg's influence that caused the removal of crosses from cemeteries and the placing of thousands of Negro troops in Germany where they had close associations with the girls. Results—Eleanor Roosevelt asked the U.S. to adopt 5,000 Negro babies from Germany.

– FAMOUS QUOTATIONS –

Senator Theodore G. Bilbo

"If our buildings, our highways, our railroads should be wrecked, we could rebuild them. If our cities should be destroyed, out of the very ruins we could erect newer and greater ones. Even if our armed might should be crushed, we could rear sons who would redeem our power. But if the blood

All Jewish Groups Urged to Consult On Integration

BOSTON (NJP) — The view that consultation between all the Jewish agencies and the Jews of

HOW RED IS THE NAACP?

—o— Continued from page 1 —o—

was an outstanding example of this type agitation, the same tactics were used in Little Rock. Anyone who has studied the NAACP and its questionable leaders should be able to see right through their evil schemes.

The master-minds in New York are directing this attack on segregation, fully realizing that it is going to bring trouble between White and Black — that is the reason they work so feverishly. Few people realize that this is only part of the plan to further weaken and condition our country for Communism!

A great part of the world in which half the population of the world exists, has already been broken down and Marxist rule set up. All kinds of deception were employed to bring this about, camouflaged with high-sounding purposes.

The Jews of the South may join the Citizens' Councils, but each and every Jewish organization and publication in the U.S are whole-heartedly backing the fight to mongrelize the races through integration! ! If Zionist pressure were withdrawn from the race-mixing movement, it would die a sudden death!

Careful research has been done on Marxist leaders within the NAACP and key Government positions. With this information, the subject of integration will be approached with a better understanding of exactly who controls the NAACP and the Supreme Court of the United States!

The NAACP was a member of American Youth For A Free World, which was organized in 1942 and, in 1948, was described by the California Un-American Activities Committee as "heavily infiltrated and effectively dominated by the Communist Party." The House Un-American Activities Committee in its 1951 Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications described the American Youth For A Free World as "a Communist clearing house."

HELP AWAKEN YOUR NEIGHBORS —to the DANGER OF INTEGRATION by circulating this issue. We pay postage

25 copies $1.00 100 copies $3.00
500 copies $10. 1000 copies $20.

Senator Theodore G. Bilbo

"If our buildings, our highways, our railroads should be wrecked, we could rebuild them. If our cities should be destroyed, out of the very ruins we could erect newer and greater ones. Even if our armed might should be crushed, we could rear sons who would redeem our power. But if the blood of our white race should become corrupted and mingled with the blood of Africa, then the present greatness of the United States of America would be destroyed and all hope for the future would be forever gone. The maintenance of American civilization would be as impossible for a negroid America as would be redemption and restoration of the white man's blood which had been mixed with that of the negro."

READ AND BE INFORMED

THE AGE OF TERROR
By W. E. Michael $3.50

CIVIL RIGHTS REVOLUTION
By Aldrich BLake $1.00

REDS PROMOTE RACIAL WAR
By Kenneth Goff $1.00

WHAT PRICE INTEGRATION
By Austin Earle Burges $1.25

COLOR, COMMUNISM & COMMON SENSE
By Manning Johnson $1.00

LET US UNDERSTAND THE NEGRO
By Paul Clark 15¢

Order from —

Christian Educational Assn.
530 Chestnut St., Union, N.J.

—o—

Common Sense*
Union, New Jersey, U.S.A.
Conde McGinley, Editor
One year's subscription, $1; Three years for $2.50. First Class (Sealed) — $3.00 per year. Foreign, 10 months, $1.00
In BULK, same issue or assorted
25 Copies — $ 1.00
100 Copies — 3.00
500 Copies — 10.00
Common Sense*
Published twice monthly except July and August, once each, by Christian Educational Assn. 530 Chestnut Street, Union, N. J.
*Trade Mark Registered U.S. Patent Office

All Jewish Groups Urged to Consult On Integration

BOSTON (NJP) — The view that consultation between all the Jewish agencies and the Jews of all parts of the U.S. on problems involved in the school integration fight was desirable was expressed by several speakers at the 17th plenary session here of the National Community Relations Advisory Council. The NCRAC is the over-all Jewish agency involved in community relations work.

David L. Ullman, was reelected chairman of the group.

An exact reproduction from the National Jewish Post of June 20, 1958.

AID INTEGRATION RABBIS ARE ADVISED

Excerpts from Miami Herald of May 1, 1958.

The attitude of the rabbi both in the South and North must be "clear and definite" concerning integration, rabbi Paul Reich of Norfolk, Va., declared. He added "there must be no pussyfooting."

Rabbi Reich spoke to 600 spiritual leaders of the conservative branch of Judaism at the annual convention of the Rabbinical Assembly of America.

The "COMMITTEE OF 100"

The reader will get a more accurate understanding of the background of the NAACP from the letterhead of the "Committee of 100" which is "in support of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc." located at 10 Columbus Circle, N.Y., New York. Its letterhead contains names of 97 sponsors, 65 of whom have a total of 861 Red-front citations by the Dept. of Justice and the Un-American Activities Committee.

COMMUNISM IS TREASON!

FIGHT IT WITH . . .

Common Sense

AMERICA'S NEWSPAPER AGAINST COMMUNISM

Copyright Registered 1948 United States Patent Office.

"The Truth, the whole Truth, and nothing but the Truth"

Without fear or favor,

Conde McGinley

FOUNDER AND EDITOR

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Plain envelope, unsealed .... $1.
Plain envelope, sealed ..... $3.
Foreign & Canada, (10 mos.) $1.

Issue No. 356 (16th Year) Union, New Jersey, U.S.A. Jan. 1, 1961

Entered as Second Class Matter January 27, 1948, at the Post Office at Union, N. J., under the Act of March 3, 1879

Five Cents

"Hate Germany" Propaganda Exposed

By Holten Whitney

(A word about the Author: The author of the following article, an American soldier, went to Europe believing all the conventional hate propaganda against Germany that had been disseminated in America by a controlled and kept press, radio, movies and other sources of information. But being possessed of a keen, intelligent and inquiring mind, he investigated in a fair way. After carrying on his research, he came back home from Europe disillusioned with his former feelings of animosity against Germany.)

WHAT I SAW.

Back in June, 1945, I was stationed at the former German concentration camp at Dachau, Bavaria.

The jewish refugees were still there in great numbers, the war having ended for Dachau only two months earlier. The other refugees had long since gone home and to work. The jew refugees remained and were

The house of the former commandant of the camp in German days was occupied by a jew named Miklos and his White servants. He wore black leather boots and riding pants and drove around the camp in a German

THOSE "SIX MILLION" JEWS

The Jews have so intimidated the public that no columnist has dared give the German side of the "six million" Jew story, hence, the lie is repeated by people who know nothing of the facts.

It is queer that members of our military occupation forces and non-military men who devoted weeks and months over post-war Germany trying to locate the remains or some sign of the gas chambers found nothing. These investigators were sent from one place to another. Only a pipe was called to their attention but further inquiry proved that these were buildings where millions of prisioners were sent through to disinfect their clothing and delouse the bodies as a safety measure in preventing disease. The official Jewish figures for Jewish population in Germany was 540 thousand.

WHAT I SAW.

Back in June, 1945, I was stationed at the former German concentration camp at Dachau, Bavaria.

The jewish refugees were still there in great numbers, the war having ended for Dachau only two months earlier. The other refugees had long since gone home and to work. The jew refugees remained and were stripping the camp of everything they could steal and carry away. The warehouses and shops and storerooms of the camp had been full of all kinds of goods and material at the end of the war.

The first time I noticed this jew thievery was when a jew commandeered an army truck going into Munich. He had large cloth bags with him. They were full of leather. But he was just an ordinary thief. Another time a jew tried to steal five hundred pounds of brass out of a utility shop and got caught within my presence.

One Rumanian jew stole enough goods out of the camp and got enough free labor from the prisoners of war that he started a factory of his own and shared its ownership with the jewish-American sub-commander of the camp maintenance system. His name was Major Greene. The reason I know is that I often took gangs of prisoners of war over to the factory near the village of Dachau and guarded them while they toiled.

The jews stole cars and trucks from the camp and maintained them right in the camp at the expense of the American army. I've seen them bribe G I's to steal gasoline for the trucks and cars.

German engineers and auto experts were employed to keep the stolen vehicles in good condition, when the German prisoners were supposed by army authorities to be working on American army trucks.

An enduring mental picture I have of the Automotive Repair shop is the cars of the various jews jacked up for repairs and occupying all the space in the garage.

The jews also used material and labor from the camp in order to keep up and repair their homes and homes of their girl friends outside the camp, sometimes as far away as Munich. I used to take work details over to Munich to work on these private houses.

The jews occupied nearly all the decent housing on the premises of the camp while many American soldiers had to live three to a room.

The house of the former commandant of the camp in German days was occupied by a jew named Miklos and his White servants. He wore black leather boots and riding pants and drove around the camp in a German limousine. He used to throw parties for some of the American officers. Then the house would be lit up all night and the sound of the band could be heard all over the camp, which covered about a square mile.

I sometimes would mention to other G I's stationed at Dachau what I saw the jews doing. "That's nothing. Yesterday they . . ." was an answer I often got back. The same thing was happening all over the camp from what I heard. I was told specifically that the jews stole glass wool, army gasoline, radio parts by the truckful, and a whole warehouse full of skis.

Within a few months after the war, the cupboard was bare of materials and goods in so far as wartime Dachau was concerned. But many a jew fortune was made.

How did the jews get away with it?

One way was thru the propaganda about their persecution at the hands of the Germans during the war. This propaganda caused the Americans to be indifferent towards the jewish plundering of property belonging to others.

Some people seemed to think that jews were above the law and beyond criticism. Once a jew went up to a G I, a youngster in years and army experience, and pointed out the window to a detail of Hungarian prisoners of war. "See that Hungarian out there with the stripes on his arm? He was a member of the Hungarian secret police during the war. He tortured a lot of jews." The American soldier went out and forced the Hungarian to clean snow off the tops of a row of army trailers. He made him do it with bare hands.

Another thing was the organization of jewry itself. The jews were for all practical purposes in charge of Dachau. Most important jobs and positions seemed to be in their hands. The section of the camp where I was employed was overseen by an American jewish officer. The American army sergeant of the prison compound where I worked was still another American jew.

—o— Please turn to page 2 —o—

ing. These investigators were sent from one place to another. Only a pipe was called to their attention but further inquiry proved that these were buildings where millions of prisioners were sent through to disinfect their clothing and delouse the bodies as a safety measure in preventing disease. The official Jewish figures for Jewish population in Germany was 540 thousand.

Germany was being threatened from the outside while the communist Jews were trying to take Germany over from the inside, this forced Germany to place many Jews in concentration camps. Jews over the world cried for war on Germany; 22 nations then were out to destroy Germany which was attacked by several thousand bombers in a single day.

Germany was blockaded and faced with feeding themselves as well as millions of prisoners; thus, Germans were on the verge of starvation. Communist Jews inside Germany were a serious source of trouble, they who had brought on the war could not escape suffering under these conditions which they were responsible for.

The whereabouts of these so-called Jews is no mystery to those who have given time to the study of the question. The U. S. as well as South America and other countries have been systematically flooded. It is well to remember that President Truman set aside 12 ships to bring Jews from Europe after the war. Hundreds of thousands came in illegally.

"Six million Jews," is an effective slogan for blackmailing the Germans and adding to the age old propaganda of Jews being persecuted. West Germany and U. S. taxpayers have given hundreds of millions to Israel that did not exist during the war.

The Jewish-owned TV channel 5 in New York City on July 18 ran an hour long film "REMEMBER US" — a movie creation grossly exaggerating conditions in Jewish camps in Germany during the war.

Several times NINE million Jews were mentioned as being burned in ovens. A woman described what she witnessed in several camps, but like the Anne Frank lie, it was not explained how she was allowed to see all of this and live!

In order to deceive the public more fully, pictures of several ovens were shown. The same single-body oven found in every city for cremating. Jews outsmart themselves in their "LOVE THE JEWS", hate the Germans, program.

—o— Please turn to page 4 —o—

– "HATE GERMANY" –

—o— Continued from page 1 —o—

His name was Givertz. The foreman of all the prisoners of war sent out from the compound was a jew refugee. And the compound office swarmed with droves of other jews.

When Givertz came to the office in July, he was a "T" corporal and was outranked by a gentile buck sergeant. The buck sergeant was transferred to another job in another part of the camp early in August. Later on he took a civilian job at the camp at $5,500 a year. Givertz was promoted first to buck sergeant, then to staff sergeant, and the last I heard he was a master sergeant, by the first of 1946.

In January of 1946 the American army forcibly deported Ukrainian freedom fighters to Communist Russia. When the war had started in 1941 between Russia and Germany, the Ukrainians had risen up against the Red dictatorship at Moscow and fought alongside the Germans. They did so in order to free their country from Russian occupation.

The Russians permanently reoccupied Ukrainia at the close of WW II and hundreds of thousands of Ukrainians had fled to the West for sanctuary, where they were jailed by the American army and kept in camps like Dachau. The Red government at Moscow said the Ukrainians were Nazis and demanded their return.

One day at noon I heard a terrible cry and sounds of commotion at the Ukrainian compound. Upon arriving there, I saw that the Ukrainians were being forced by a contingent of the artillery soldiers, to board railroad boxcars. The train was parked on a siding just outside the Ukrainian compound.

The effort to force the Ukrainians had not succeeded as yet. First the American officers had asked the Ukrainians to get on the train. Then they sent American soldiers into the barracks to force them out. Then the Americans had tossed tear gas bombs cleared out from the barracks whoever tried to remain inside. One youth was dragged by the feet out from one of the barracks. He had wedged himself under a bed and breathed deeply of the gas fumes. When they dragged him out he was

ALLIED BOMBERS LEAVE THEIR MARK

This is one of the many groups of victims of the ferocious Allied bombings of Dresden, Germany, the art center, on Feb. 13, 14, and April 17, 1945, which "held no important industries which could have bolstered the fading German war effort" (N.Y. Herald Tribune), but whose 625,000 population had just then been swelled to 1,000,000 by refugees from the Russians believing that the Four Freedom crusaders would not bomb where bombing would kill only women and children—and art. "When the Red Army arrived on May 8, it ordered the thousands of corpses that were still being taken out of the debris to be piled up in the Altmarkt . . . . . The streets leading to the square were roped off and flamethrowers were turned on the bodies."

Hundreds of thousands of Germans who were buried in the mass graves as a result of bombings were exhibited later to deceive Americans into believing they were Jews.

gation in My Capacity as a Guard at the Camp.

GAS OVENS AT DACHAU

When I came to Dachau I had heard of the horrors of the gas chambers where it was stated that millions of jews had been contingent of the artillery soldiers, to board railroad boxcars. The train was parked on a siding just outside the Ukrainian compound.

The effort to force the Ukrainians had not succeeded as yet. First the American officers had asked the Ukrainians to get on the train. Then they sent American soldiers into the barracks to force them out. Then the Americans had tossed tear gas bombs into the barracks. And still the Ukrainians had not come out. Instead the Ukrainians crowded to the windows for fresh air and pleaded with the American soldiers for mercy.

Near the gate to the prison enclosure stood the American officers and the Red officers who were to accompany the Ukrainians to Russia. Swarming around the boxcars of the train and spilling over into the compound were hundreds of spectators. The compound was filled with a battalion of American soldiers milling around trying to escape the fumes from the bombs that had been tossed into the barracks. They were unable to approach them because of the gas clinging to the building and all in it.

After a conference between the American and Communist officers, gas masks had been summoned from an infantry regiment headquarters. Shortly the American soldiers donned the masks and divided into teams.

American soldiers went into the barracks with clubs. They beat down resistance and dragged the Ukrainians out of the barracks one by one. They handed them to the main body of American soldiers who remained outside the barracks. Two soldiers would then get on either arm of a Ukrainian and another American soldier would follow along behind with a club. If the unfortunate twisted or resisted the soldier behind would strike him on the back of the head. And they did not spare the rod.

The doors of the railroad boxcars were thrown wide open. The Ukrainians like cattle were packed tightly in both ends of the boxcars. Both ends were boarded up and nailed fast, leaving the middle of the car empty where the doors opened. A soldier rode in the middle of the car as guard.

As a last measure of resistance, the sweaty, tear-stained Ukrainians locked their arms together in sheer desperation and came outside the barracks. The ragged lines swayed as they sang national anthems of their country. The soldiers charged the lines and beat them down with clubs.

Still another team of American soldiers cleared out from the barracks whoever tried to remain inside. One youth was dragged by the feet out from one of the barracks. He had wedged himself under a bed and breathed deeply of the gas fumes.

When they dragged him out he was suffocated by the tear gas. The color of his face was deep purple. His long, lank body and close-cropped blond hair reminded me of some American high school athlete of pre-war days in America. But the youth was not the only dead Ukrainian. The area was littered with the bodies of victims of tear gas and physical assault. One of them had regained an upright position. He was praying, and for some reason I fancied he was saying "Forgive them, Oh Lord, for they know not what they do."

I knew that history was in the making. I therefore had the urge to participate. So I joined the ranks of one group of American soldiers as they left the railroad cars after having delivered their charges to them.

I got in line and grabbed the left arm of a Ukrainian and began escorting him to the train. The smell of tear gas was strong and I could feel the sweat under his arm thru his torn shirt. He sagged a little and bent his head as he went along. Half way to the gate I leaned towards his ear and said in a low voice, "Fini, eh?" He answered in the affirmative.

For a long time I fancied I could smell the sweat from his arm on my fingers. I could not help but contrast the oriental features and squat build of the communist officers with the light complexioned and straight-featured countenance of the Ukrainian patriot.

Days later there were stories around the camp that the Ukrainians had been shot as soon as the train crossed into the Soviet zone of Germany.

I hate to admit it but not one American soldier I talked to about it displayed the slightest amount of sympathy for the Ukrainians. "They were traitors," were the inevitable answers. Once I replied to a buddy of mine, "Then the Italians were traitors for turning on Germany. The Ukrainians are no more Russians than the Italians are Germans." My friend could not understand.

What I Learned Thru Personal Investigation in My Capacity as a Guard at the Camp.

GAS OVENS AT DACHAU

When I came to Dachau I had heard of the horrors of the gas chambers where it was stated that millions of jews had been burned to death. I had seen pictures of the death train found at the gate of Dachau in April, 1945, when the American army moved in. The picture showed heaps of dead bodies of men, women, and children. They were incredibly wasted and were lying sprawled around the open doors of boxcar doors.

Once in Dachau I sensed vagueness about the alleged murders. The whole question melted away when brought up. In general I never saw any proof of the gassing of millions or even thousands of prisoners. No one knew anything about it altho I asked many questions.

At that time in the summer of 1945, the story of the "six million" had not yet been born. The number claimed dead was much smaller than it is now.

It seemed that all the jews and ex-prisoners at Dachau had been there a long time since before 1939 in many cases. Most of them appeared to be in good health and unmarked by life. A few of them had a hollow look around the eyes and a certain tightness to the skin of the face. The ones I asked about it said they had had typhus "Everyone here had it," they said.

Typhus is a fever that literally burns up and makes skeletons out of its victims.

I asked a German about the murder of millions at Dachau in the crematory. He waved his hands and told me not to believe such lies. He had been at the camp since being drafted into the German army in 1942, first as a guard and then as a prisoner of the Americans.There had been no cruelty, no gassing, no murder.

WHAT ABOUT THE DEATH TRAIN?

"They were prisoners of war, Russian guerrilla bands mostly, brought here to Dachau as we retreated from the East." he said. "Bombing attacks slowed the movement of the train. Typhus broke out on it amid filthy conditions," he continued, "and by the time the train got here, most of the prisoners were afflicted and dying."

"HOW DO YOU EXPLAIN THE

that the Four Freedom crusaders would not bomb where bombing would kill only women of bombings were exhibited later to deceive Americans into believing they were Jews.

CREMATORY?" I asked.

"Every prison and asylum has a crematory," he said. "There's no room for graveyards in Germany, at least for prisoners. We must use the land to grow food. How could we have a funeral for each of the thousands of Germans killed by bombs including the prisoners?"

The crematory at Dachau was one of the first places I visited upon reaching Dachau. One Saturday I went on a conducted tour of the gas chambers. I joined about fifteen men and women tourists from different countries at the main gate. We went thru a little clump of trees in one corner of the camp, down a muddy path. We entered a small concrete building about the size of a backyard garage.

The first room was empty except for several signs and a large painting around the room. The signs indicated that many beings had met their death on these premises. It was obvious to me that this was propaganda paraphernalia placed there after the war to prejudice tourists. It was not placed there by the Germans. I forget the exact number that the signs claimed had been put to death in Dachau. But it was a few thousands. Since then I have read repeatedly in national magazines that nearly a million jews were exterminated there.

The painting showed a gaunt prisoner in striped convict suit with ball and chain attached to one leg.

The guide said that the prisoners had been relieved of all possessions and clothing in this first room. He said that gold and stainless steel dentures and the hair on the head had been salvaged after the executions which had taken place in the next room.

The second room was fitted out with shower nozzles running along the walls. There were no windows and both doors were heavy. It was not much bigger than a small bedroom. The guide said that the prisoners were gassed in this second room. The gas was wafted thru the shower nozzles after the prisoners had been told they years to burn a million bodies at Dachau.

When we stepped out the back door of the crematory, there was a buzz of conversation in the crowd and short laughter. One girl laughed cynically and said, "Is that all there is to it?" The German people had not been so evil as she had thought.

But there was one more thing to see. The guide showed us stacks of earthen ware jars. They were meant to hold the remains of the dead. The jars were shipped to relatives of the dead.

More than once afterwards during my months at Dachau, I went back to the small building housing the crematory. Most week days it was deserted.

Several things about the premises struck my attention. One was the shower room. The doors were not air tight. No gassing of prisioners seemingly could have taken place in the shower room. The escaping gas would have sickened and eventually killed the guards and attendants.

Also the shower nozzle, from whence it was alleged the deadly gas wafted, appeared to be new. The nozzles were bright and shiny. The plaster around them was lighter in color than the plaster on the rest of the room. The plaster around the nozzles was no more than several months old if that much. This fact suggested that the shower nozzles had been installed after the war, as I had heard before from a German plumber, named Alex, who had been in the prisoner work gang ordered to install them.

The presence of push carts outside the boiler room suggested something too. They probably had been used to bring the dead from the hospital and barracks to the crematory after having died from natural causes.

Incidentally up until the last part of the war, the victims of illness at the camp had been treated at the camp hospital, whose facilities for treatment were excellent even by American standards. Each bed was fitted out with radios and earphones.

As for cremation, it permitted the families of the dead to claim the ashes and the last month of the war, the ashes of every single human being who died at Dachau was sent home to his family.

Towards the last part of the war, many of the dead from the epidemics that swept the camp had no records in camp. It was impossible to label the remains of them. So they were given a common burial in large caskets.

When the American army over-ran Dachau, so did teams of jew agents. These orientals and bolshevists engineered the story of Dachau as a murder camp. Meanwhile other teams of jews were doing the same thing all over Europe. They took possession of the German war archives. They appropriated records, films and whole libraries of information. They forged documents that incriminated individual German governmental officers. The jews destroyed documents that justified the Germans. They coerced and tortured confessions out of prisoners. They doctored photographs. They doctored papers.

In the end they burned over 100 million library and school textbooks in the greatest book burning outrage in the history of the world.

Evidence collected by the German army showed that the Reds had slaughtered close to seventy-eight million Whites, mostly blonds, in Russia and Eastern Europe from 1917 onwards. The Reds liquidated the native Russian stock. By 1941 only Asiatics and mixed breeds remained.

The jews destroyed all evidence of Communist genocide.

But they did more. For example the jews would take a photograph of a Khazar tribeman murdering a blond-haired German family in Russia. They would doctor the photograph and change the faces and insignia on uniforms to make it seem that the White was killing the Asiatic.

The Germans had captured thousands of detailed pictures showing the mass murder of the Russian equivalent to our Pennsylvania Dutch, in Russia in 1940-1941.

The jew agents, who descended upon tions which had taken place in the next room.

The second room was fitted out with shower nozzles running along the walls. There were no windows and both doors were heavy. It was not much bigger than a small bedroom. The guide said that the prisoners were gassed in this second room. The gas was wafted thru the shower nozzles after the prisoners had been told they were going to take a shower.

The guide made no reference to jews being gassed. I got the impression that the victims were mostly Russian prisoners of war caught operating back of German battle lines and executed as spies.

The back door to this shower room looked down into a cramped boiler room. This boiler room looked like part of a basement to some small brick building. It was fitted out with two large boilers. The boilers had gas jets inside.

Each boiler was fitted out with two metal stretchers on rollers attached to the front of the boiler. The corpses were placed on the stretchers and pushed inside the boilers. In an hour or so the bodies were reduced to cinders. The remains were raked off the stretchers and new corpses were put in place.

We followed the guide down into the boiler room. We saw wooden push carts sitting outside the boiler room doors under a tree.

The sightseers had been apprehensive and a little jittery when we started from the main gate. They seemed gloomy when we were in the ante-room. But another emotion seemed to come over them down in the boiler room.

The crematory had not quite panned out. Some of them had traveled far to see it. From afar they had heard of a Nazi death factory. They had expected banks of gas ovens and evidence of murder, mass murder.

Instead of a million jews it turned out that a few thousand prisoners of war had been executed there, and after death had been cremated instead of buried. And for all the sightseers knew, the prisioners may have deserved it.

It was obvious to all that the equipment at hand was not sufficient to gas or burn very many bodies. I figured it up later. It would have taken 540 years to burn the proverbial "six million" at Dachau even if the crematory were kept busy all day long, seven days a week, fifty-two weeks a year. It would have taken ninety matory after having died from natural causes.

Incidentally up until the last part of the war, the victims of illness at the camp had been treated at the camp hospital, whose facilities for treatment were excellent even by American standards. Each bed was fitted out with radios and earphones.

As for cremation, it permitted the families of the dead to claim the ashes and to give them a decent burial at home, something they would not have been able to do in most cases without cremation.

Cremation is indeed the accepted way of disposing of dead bodies in many European institutions and prisons and asylums even today. The one at Dachau was no bigger than normal. It served the need to dispose quickly of diseased corpses in order to prevent and control epidemics. The crematory served as camp graveyard.

Further Investigative Research Carried Out By the Author After Leaving Camp Dachau.

Here is how I reconstructed the operation of the crematory, after much thinking and questioning and reading. Every morning the pushcarts gathered the dead from the barracks. It must be said that many prisioners were in bad health or suffering from sickness when they came to Dachau.

The corpses were delivered to the anteroom. They were examined there by a doctor. Death certificates were made out and the bodies were prepared for cremation.

All clothing was removed and valuables were removed. The possessions of the dead were confiscated by the state. They were contributed to the war effort of common defense against Communist invasion from the East.

Here I take issue with the government. The personal possessions ought to have been returned to the families of the dead when possible. This might indeed have been done before the last years of the war.

The bodies were laid out in the so-called shower room. The doors were kept closed for obvious reasons.

The crematory burners were started. The bodies were carried down to the boiler room one by one on stretchers and burned. After an hour or so the ashes were raked out of the boilers and placed in jars. The jars were sealed, labeled and stacked out in back of the crematory. A truck picked up the jars and took them to the camp express office. They were sent home free of charge. Until man murdering a blond-haired German family in Russia. They would doctor the photograph and change the faces and insignia on uniforms to make it seem that the White was killing the Asiatic.

The Germans had captured thousands of detailed pictures showing the mass murder of the Russian equivalent to our Pennsylvania Dutch, in Russia in 1940-1941.

The jew agents who descended upon Germany after the close of World War II forced German citizens to sign false confessions admitting the murder of jews. Their confessions were used against Germanic people everywhere.

Frankfort Germany served as headquarters for the processing of what the jew teams invented, faked and forged. The central office for the jew fabricators was said to be located in the I. G. Farben building for a while.

There the final processing was done on the truckloads of affidavits, photographs and film. The whole mass of faked evidence was assembled into a coherent tale by the end of 1945. It has served as a basis for prosecution in all war crime trials since then. That part of the forged evidence pertaining to the trial of the so-called major war criminals of 1946 is called "Official Documents of Nazi War Crimes and Aggression."

Afterwards the whole bulk of the material was shipped to the Wiener Library in London. This library was made up of thousands of statements by jews charging the Germanic people with all sorts of crimes since 1933.

It is a fact that no jews were driven to prisons in Nazi Germany simply because they were jews.

Wherever it is possible to investigate the truthfulness of stories that jews were persecuted, none can be proven. For example it is admitted that no French jews were gassed. It is too easy to check the facts in France. Journalists have access to all parts of the country. People are not afraid to talk. Plenty of impartial witnesses exist to confirm or deny.

The well-known radical jewess Gertrude Stein lived in France all thru the war. She was not molested by the Nazis.

Our sources of information about the extermination of the "six million" come to us from just those areas where no confirmation is possible, i.e., Eastern Europe and areas are strongly anti-German, anti-White and anti-Nazi. History shows that the governments were launched by these so-called jews and jew ideas. The press and institutions for scientific research and scholarship of nearly all of them are tied to national political policy and are regarded as tools of the state.

—o— Please turn to page 4 —o—

– "HATE GERMANY" –

—o— Continued from page 3. —o—

Therefore the case against Germany is based upon the word of their worst enemies, supported by witnesses who have been subjected to strong coercion and by documents filtered thru jewish hands.

Such evidence is no evidence.

In 1933 the Reds burned down the German capitol buildings in Berlin as a signal to Red revolution. The revolution failed. Camp Dachau was built as an auxiliary prison for the purpose of housing communist traitors. Many if not most of them were jews.

Dachau continued thru the thirties to serve as a prison for Red traitors. Conditions at the camp were no better or worse than any other prison in north Europe. Until 1939 it accommodated only German jewish and German prisoners. No executions took place there.

Dachau was expanded when war broke out in 1939. Communist infiltraters, spies, and saboteurs from other parts of Europe were sent there once the war started.

Few or no jews were sent to Dachau after 1941 when the Russo-German war started. The Russian jews fled en masse with the flight of the Red army. They believed their own propaganda. Few of these Russian jews ever came under jurisdiction of the German government.

The jews in such nations as Italy, Rumania, Slovakia, Bulgaria and Hungary also were beyond the control of the German state. Nazi officials like Joseph Goebbels complained often in their wartime diary-writings that jews still strongly influenced the rulers of these German allies.

bodies of German guards and their prisoners. There was one gathering of the dead in the morning and another in the afternoon. The camp command gave up push carts and resorted to trucks in order to get the corpses delivered to the crematory.

Many of the corpses weighed no more than fifty pounds. They would be reduced to ashes within thirty to forty minutes in the incinerator.

It is important to remember that each of these corpses were counted as jews by the press in later compilations. Also each one was said to have been murdered instead of having died naturally from disease.

The attendants and German guards at the crematory died from contamination from the dead. Towards the end of the war, most of the German guards and some of the officers and their families stationed at the camp fled. Finally the crematory was abandoned. The bodies were left lying in their beds or at best stacked in one place. The guards who had the courage to remain retreated to the guard towers in order to escape the pestilence. Many were found dead at their posts.

There was no food in the camp for the last three days. These were three of the days late in April that the American army waited passively nearby while the Red army closed in on the heartland of the White man.

The same stories about German atrocities were told during and after World War I. They were shown to be false by revisionist historians after the close of the war. The stories of the gas ovens of World War II were more of the same wartime propaganda of hysteria, designed to fire up the people to fervor for war. But after WW II, it served jewish propaganda to continue with the stories and to continue to make fools of the masses. The spirit of deliberate scholarship and scientific honesty in evaluating the past has disappeared since 1918. True liberalism in historical research is dead for the most part. The result is that most years ago. The cry of persecution is valuable to this group which is a nation within a nation.

Why have the Jews been repulsed in England, France, Germany, Hungary, Rumania, Italy, Poland, Austria and now the Soviet Union and the Middle East. It is important that our people understand how organized Jewry has deceived the world about the situation in Germany, so that we can prevent them from maneuvering us into World War III, as they did in World War I and II.

No one can disprove these facts.

Are there any four Jewish leaders in the World who will meet Mr. McGinley and Mr. Freedman in debate and deny that the Zionist brought the U. S. into World War I and II against Germany? There are not.

BROTHERHOOD?

The following are exact quotes from the book "GERMANY MUST PERISH" by Theodore N. Kaufman, published by Argyle Press, Newark, N. J., February, 1941.

This book was accepted by the Zionist leaders as the guide for dealing with the German people who had challenged the Jewish plot to rule the world by communism.

"The population of Germany, excluding conquered and annexed territories, is about 70,000,000, almost equally divided between male and female. To achieve the purpose of German extinction it would be necessary to only sterilize some 48,000,000— a figure which excludes, because of their limited power to procreate, males over 60 years of age, and females over 45.

"Concerning the males subject to sterilization the army groups, as organized units, would be the easiest and quickest to deal with. Taking on the assumption that each will perform a minimum of 25 operations daily, it would take no more than one month, at the maximum, to complete their sterilization.

own propaganda. Few of these Russian jews ever came under jurisdiction of the German government.

The jews in such nations as Italy, Rumania, Slovakia, Bulgaria and Hungary also were beyond the control of the German state. Nazi officials like Joseph Goebbels complained often in their wartime diary-writings that jews still strongly influenced the rulers of these German allies.

At no time were there more than a million jews under control of Nazi Germany. There were no more than half that number ever living at one time inside Greater Germany, including three fourths of the land now claimed as Poland.

By 1944 the Red army began its invasion of Germany. Prisons inside Germany did double and triple duty in order to accommodate prison populations from those portions of Europe that the Asiatics had driven into.

Dachau got its share of prisoners of war starting late in 1944 and early 1945, a few months before the end of the war.

The spring of 1945 brought clear weather to the small territory left to the German army. It also brought clouds of American and British aircraft who shot up everything in sight. The planes strafed and bombed even at night. Nothing on wheels could move.

By April communications and governmental control had broken down in Germany. The Reich was prostrate. Dachau was isolated and quarantined.

Trainloads of prisoners on the way to Dachau were stalled on track sidings for weeks. The results can be imagined. The authorities could not turn the prisoners loose, and they could not supply them with food or medication.

It was one of these trains that was parked at the gate at Dachau on a morning late in April, 1945, when the American army reached Dachau. The Americans were horrified. But they knew it was one of the accidents of war caused by allied invasion of Europe and concomitant circumstances. It took a jewish press to convince the world otherwise.

The trains that reached Dachau before the Americans came found the same bad conditions there. Food supplies had given out at Camp Dachau. Famine and sickness swept the camp. The newcomers only added to the overcrowding and brought more epidemics to sweep the camp.

The crematory worked overtime to dispose of the typhus racked, pitifully thin were more of the same wartime propaganda of hysteria, designed to fire up the people to fervor for war. But after WW II, it served jewish propaganda to continue with the stories and to continue to make fools of the masses. The spirit of deliberate scholarship and scientific honesty in evaluating the past has disappeared since 1918. True liberalism in historical research is dead for the most part. The result is that most people still believe in the myth of the "six million."

-Those "SIX MILLION JEWS"-

—o— Continued from page 1 —o—

Anne Frank's diary described her at age 15 standing naked watching a line of naked women four abreast, being thrown into the ovens. She described another camp where she was later, but did not explain how,—without clothes, she concealed her diary. Her own father here in New York for a court hearing stated that the statements attributed to her could not be from a girl her age.

A man born and lived in Russia for 25 years viewed the "REMEMBER US" film with us and says that a number of the gruesome scenes attributed to Germany were from the Soviet Union.

Now—hear two Jews on Channel 13: On July 6, 1960, George Sokolsky in an interview with Mike Wallace on TV-NTA, New York, stated that many of the Jews thought to be killed by Germany were killed by Stalin.

Reminds you of the Katyn Massacre—where 14,000 Polish officers were buried in four graves—killed by the Soviet Union and blamed on Germany.

A Colonel of the U. S. Army examined these Polish graves while a German prisoner and reported it was the work of the communists, but our defense department remained silent—protecting the Soviet Union.

Not one Jew or non-Jew was burned alive; thousands of dead, mainly Germans were cremated for sanitary reasons.

Never have we heard one word of sorrow from the Jews as to more than 75 million non-Jews killed under direction of the communist Jews in the Soviet Union and communist-controlled Countries.

Two and a half million Germans, who were prisoners of the Soviet Union, have never been heard of to date.

Today Jews cry before the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem for persecution a thousand power to procreate, males over 60 years of age, and females over 45.

"Concerning the males subject to sterilization the army groups, as organized units, would be the easiest and quickest to deal with. Taking on the assumption that each will perform a minimum of 25 operations daily, it would take no more than one month, at the maximum, to complete their sterilization.

"Inasmuch as sterilization of women needs somewhat more time, it may be computed that the entire female population of Germany could be sterilized within a period of three years or less. Complete sterilization of both sexes, and not only one, is to be considered necessary in view of the present German doctrine that so much as one drop of true German blood constitutes a German."

A copy of this book was forwarded to the Library of Congress for copyright purposes in February, 1941. You will note that this book was written and printed 10 months BEFORE the United States was promoted into World War II. It was printed while the United States was at peace with Germany. Like the Gomberg Map, prepared and printed months before Pearl Harbor, it was done in anticipation of our being shoved into this unnecessary war.

Consider the enormity of this un-Christian, un-American suggestion.

- WE ARE GRATEFUL -

Sacramento, for those new bills; they are put to good use.

Philadelphia, Chicago and Louisville, your contributions come through OK.

Only God and your conscience can reward you for this urgently needed help to preserve our freedom

We are making the best use of your help. As you know, I draw no pay. Editor

Common Sense*
Union, New Jersey, U.S.A.
Conde McGinley, Editor
One year's subscription, $1; Three years for $2.50. First Class (Sealed) — $3.00 per year. Foreign, 10 months, $1.00
In BULK, same issue or assorted
25 Copies — $ 1.00
100 Copies — 3.00
500 Copies — 10.00
Common Sense*
Published twice monthly except July and August, once each, by Christian Educational Assn.
530 Chestnut Street, Union, N. J.
*Trade Mark Registered U.S. Patent Office

The Thunderbolt

THE WHITE MAN'S VIEWPOINT

ISSUE # 31, JUNE 25, 1961

"Birmingham News" Persecutes White

All of the Whitemen being picked out of line-ups these days over the C.O.R.E. bus incident are being identified by newsmen from the "Birmingham News". No city detectives are involved in this. The "Birmingham News" has taken over the crusade to identify and arrest everyone in the picture taken by Tommy Langford. Julian "Bud" Gordon is the 'Ace Birmingham News reporter' with the brilliant brain who can remember the faces of hundreds of people who were at the bus station. Clancy Lake could not identify Mr. Herschel W. Acker of Rome, Ga., as an attacker, but Bud Gordon could! Tommy Langford could not identify Howard Thurston Edwards as one of those who touched him, but old reliable Bud Gordon could. Anyone who has seen the picture of the blond, wavy headed man who hit the communist James Peck and a picture of brunett

The Face of the NAACP

North And South Must Unite

HOLD ON SOUTH - THE NORTH IS WITH YOU

By Roy Frankhouser, Reading, Penna.

For years after the Civil War the North and South remained in conflict over the Negro Question. The reason was simple, the North had little or no Negro population. Times have changed and now through rapid breeding and immigration from the South, Black Belts have formed in the North. Here is the story from a Northerner himself.

"South, hold the line, we are fighting the same fight to save our children and the future of our nation. Our cities in the North have become black jungles. Our wives and children dare not wander the streets at night. NAACP bloc vote machines now control our tegrate. These 'chosen people' are the conspirators like the real head of the NAACP, Arthur Spingarn a Jew and Kivie Kaplan chief NAACP fund raiser and Jack Greenberg head of the NAACP legal dept. These are who negro fronters like Thurgood Marshall and Roy Wilkins as office boys and window dressing to fool both blacks and Whites. Fred Shuttlesworth stated publicly that the Jew Marvin Rich runs the CORE sit-in headquarters in New York and sent him $500.00 for the Bus agitators expenses while they were here in Birmingham."

"Remember the crime rate among INTEGRATED Negroes in the North is 300% higher than that of the White population. More than 50% of all murders are committed by Negroes and the same situation exists in felonies, burglary, rape and Bud Gordon could! Tommy Langford could not identify Howard Thurston Edwards as one of those who touched him, but old reliable Bud Gordon could. Anyone who has seen the picture of the blond, wavy headed man who hit the communist James Peck and a picture of brunett Howard Thurston Edwards knows it is not the same person. The "Birmingham News" wants someone to pay, and pay dearly for the beating of communist James Peck. They want to make an example out of some fall guy. Hard working, family-man, Howard Thurston Edwards, 22 yrs. of age with two small children and war veteran is their victim. They know that there is not a jury in the South which would convict anyone in the James Peck beating. So, "Birmingham News" reporter Bud Gordon comes up with the tall story that the man who hit Peck also hit "Birmingham News" photographer Tommy Langford. So they charge Howard Thurston Edwards with hitting News photographer Tommy Langford. The outrageous charge is "Assault with intent to murder." Bud Gordon wants Edwards to get 20 yrs. in prison as a warning to the rest of us not to stand in the way of the "Birmingham News" campaign to comply with the Supreme Court and mix the races in this city. The actual facts in this case are that Edwards is not the man in the picture and can easily prove his innocence before a fair and impartial jury. Those who should be on trial are Bud Gordon and the "Birmingham News" for looking for a sacrificial victim to hold over the publics head. Then, every time CORE, NAACP, Martin Luther King or Shuttlesworth want to ride roughshod over the city, the "Birmingham News" will threaten us with arrest with, "We'll give you the same raw deal we gave Howard Thurston Edwards." If you want to let Bud Gordon know how you feel about his accusations in this case, his address is, Bud Gordon, 5845 Court "O", in Central Park. His phone number is ST. 1-3596.

"Face of the NAACP." This picture shows Thurgood Marshall, mulatto special counsel for the NAACP, receiving a special NAACP Life Membership plaque from Kivie Kaplan, co-chairman of the NAACP Life Membership Committee, while Arthur B. Spingarn, NAACP president looks on with approval. Take a good look at this picture.

There is not now, nor has there ever been a Negro at the head of the N.A.A.C.P.. Two multi-millionaires Jewish brothers (Joel and Arthur Spingarn) founded the group. Joel Spingarn was President of the N.A.A.C.P. until his death in 1939. Arthur Spingarn then took over and has been N.A.A.C.P. president ever since. Head of the N.A.A.C.P. Life membership Committee and chief fund raiser is the Jew Kivie Kaplan. Jack Greenberg runs the NAACP legal staff. Thurgood Marshall and Roy Wilkins are just window dressing, sitting around to fool Negroes (and Whites).

'Birmingham News" Surpresses Fire Story

"Birmingham News" circulation hit an all time high the week after the C.O.R.E. bus agitators hit town. The reason the "Birmingham News" plays up, out of all proportion, all local racial problems is to make money, no matter how bad a name they give our fare city. The "Birmingham News" presses were going round the clock turning out extra editions on the racial bus conflict. When the "Birmingham News" was fanning the fires of discord among the whites, a fire was flaming inside the newspaper itself. While the "Birmingham News" built up this little racial shoving back and forth at the bus station on page one, a serious tragedy struck inside the "Birmingham News" building.

On Tuesday, May 16th the overworked presses caught fire. Smoke bellowed from the building. Many fire trucks were called to the area. The poisonous fumes overcome 20 persons. Ambulances rushed to and from the scene. Thirteen of the injured were firemen, while seven were employees of the "Birmingham News." All of the fire victims were taken to the West End Hospital for treatment. Any other newspaper in America would have headlined this disastrous fire on page one. But not the "Birmingham News", they instead continued to headline the 'nigger hit in the head' bus story, and pushed demands that all the White people, who reporter 'Bud' Gordon fancies he saw at the bus depot be arrested. The fact that the "Birmingham News" caught fire and many were injured made page 26 of the May 17th edition of "Birmingham News". In a small article they played the story down as a 'minor fire'. The fact that men were risking their lives to put out a fire in the "Birmingham News" didn't matter to them. They were to busy faning the fires against the White Citizens of this state. Seems as if reporters like Bud Gordon can't see the real fire even when standing in the furnace.

himself.

"South, hold the line, we are fighting the same fight to save our children and the future of our nation. Our cities in the North have become black jungles. Our wives and children dare not wander the streets at night. NAACP bloc vote machines now control our cities. Our politicians crawl and kiss the feet of the minority bloc vote. Our taxes are spent to pay for their illegitimate children, (which they have by the score). Millions go to tripple the size of police forces to hold down the growing black terror."

"There have been more and worse race riots in the North than in the South. (One riot covering blocks and thousands of people was completely surpressed by the press in Philadelphia last year alone.) Our newspapers have long been taken over by the liberal, red racemixing element. (90% or the Northern Press, 80% of Magazines and 100% of the T.V. Radio and Movies are controlled by the enemy.) Organized minority groups have pushed laws through our state legislatures forcing us to cut Negroes hair, sell him a house, rent to him and go to school with him and eat in public places with him."

"This is what is known as freedom for the blacks, and tyranny for the Whites. This misery is being inflicted upon both races by a selected few who refuse themselves to in-agitators expenses while they were here in Birmingham."

"Remember the crime rate among INTEGRATED Negroes in the North is 300% higher than that of the White population. More than 50% of all murders are committed by Negroes and the same situation exists in felonies, burglary, rape and other major crimes. Our cities have become a nightmare and the nation is being terrorized by only 13% of the population, the Negro. The most important point to remember is that the South has a much greater Negro population than does the north, the Segregated Southern crime rate is much smaller than that in the North. The reason is Segregation, and racial self respect. We in the North have now formed groups like the Citizens Councils and States Rights Party and our memberships are booming. More than half of all Segregation Literature printed today goes into the North, at the request of the Northerners themselves. South look up the North is coming. Hold your racial banners high, we know your struggle for it is now our own. Stand proudly and know the truth. Though you may not hear it from our controlled press, we are with you in your fight for Race, Nation and Faith. Let us say both North and South, UNITE, UNITE! Let us say in the words of Patrick Henry, both to Federal tyranny and race mixing, "I know not what course others might take, but for me give me Liberty or give me Death!"

"BIRMINGHAM NEWS" DOES IT AGAIN

On Sunday May 21st on a Tarrant City bus, a Negro crowded in between two Whitemen who were talking together in a front side seat of the bus. When Mr. William H. Merrill, 68 yrs. of age, asked why the Negro didn't sit in the back of the bus where there were plenty of empty seats, the Negro struck him over the head with a blackjack and jumped off the bus and fled. Merrill, who lives at 422-38th Ave., N., was X-Rayed for skull fractures at University hospital. The "Birmingham News" barely mentioned the incident, as they were too busy still crying over CORE bus agitator James Peck.

If the situation had been reversed and it had been the Whiteman who had hit the Negro for siting beside him, the "Birmingham News" would have headlined the story on page one, charging the Whites with being prejudiced, brutal, intollerant, etc. etc.. They would have demanded the immediate arrest of the Whiteman on assault with intent to murder (the usual phoney rap) and the arrest of every other whiteman on the bus who was a witness?

HISTORY OF COMMUNIST

THE TREASON TRIALS

Since early 1945 the Communist party has been involved in a series of highly publicized treason and conspiracy trials utterly without precedent in American history. These included the "Amerasia Case," the "Gerhart Eisler Case," the "Judith Coplin Case," the "Alger Hiss Case," the "Hollywood Ten Case," the "Fuchs-Gold Atom Spy Case," the "Rosenberg-Sobell Case," and the case of "Eugene Dennis and the Convicted Eleven."

It was impossible, of course, to conceal altogether the Jewishness of the overwhelming majority of the defendants. But Jewish propagandists exhausted every trick in trying. One Jewish publication—Look magazine—ran a picture story on the spy trials in which the defendants were variously described as "typical Americans" . . . "American born" . . . and "as American as apple pie." So there will be no further doubt regarding the racial identity of the American Communist party, we have accumulated photographs and data on virtually every Communist indicted or tried for Communistic activity since 1945. The reader may judge for himself.

Amerasia Case

Philip Jaffe, editor of "Amerasia," and head of the ring which stole 1700 secret documents. Like many other high ranking reds, he originally came from the Pale of Settlement.

In early 1945 six individuals arrested , three of whom are known Jews, for stealing 1700 highly confidential documents from State Department files. This was the Amerasia Case. Those arrested were:

PHILIP JAFFE, a Russian Jew who came to the U. S. in 1905. He was editor of the magazine, "Amerasia," and was the former editor of the Communist paper. "Labor Defense." He was convicted and fined.

ANDREW ROTH, a Brooklyn-born Jew with a lieutenant's commission in Naval Intelligence.

MARK GAYN, a writer, born in Manchuria of Russian-Jewish parents. His Jew name is Julius Ginsberg.

JOHN STEWART SERVICE, a nigh State Department official who gave Jaffe much of the stolen material. He is believed to be a gentile.

ALSO ARRESTED were Em-pro-Marxist causes. He first attained prominence as one of the defenders of Sacco and Vanzetti.

Frankfurter, along with Lehman and Henry Morgantheau, is one of the most influential Jews in America today. In addition to Acheson and Hiss, he has been responsible for the placing of an estimated 200 of his "proteges" in high places. These include: (1) Nathan Witt, former general secretary of the National Labor Relations Board; (2) Lee Pressman, chief legal counsel for the CIO; (3) John Abt, key attorney for the SEC, AAA, and WPA. All are Marxist Jews; Pressman has admitted being a card carrying party member.

Frankfurter may or may not be a Communist, but an amazing number of his proteges, including Alger Hiss, have turned out to be. That was the background of the Alger Hiss Case.

Judith Coplin, a convicted spy, is also Jewish. She worked for the Justice Department.

Judith Coplin

One of the most publicized treason trials was that of Jewish Judith Coplin, in June of 1949. She was caught red-handed passing classified documents from Justice Department files to a Russian agent, who happened to be employed by the United Nations. She was convicted of espionage and sentenced to 15 years in prison. Later the conviction was set aside by the Supreme Court on the grounds that the FBI had arrested her improperly and without a warrant. It pays to have a friend on the Supreme Court, or so it would seem . . .

Gerhart Eisler

The highest ranking Communist ever brought to trial in the U. S. was Gerhart Eisler. Between 1935 and February of 1947 he was the secret boss of the Communist Party in the U. S. In those years he commuted regularly between the U. S. and Russia, using the aliases Berger, Brown, Edwards, and others. His right hand man, and the second ranking cominform agent in the U. S. was J. Peters, author of the "Peters Manual." His real name was academy award winning actress Gale S

(3) Lester Cole, also a party membe

(4) Edward Dmytryk, who belongs t tenced.

(5) Ring Lardner, Jr., a script writer

(6) John Howard Lawson, a Broadwa Wrote "Professional," "Success Story."

(7) Albert Maltz, wrote "Merry-go-R member.

(8) Sam Ornitz, a screen writer.

(9) Adrian Scott, nationality not veri

(10) Dalton Trumbo, a party membe

The Fu

KLAUS FUCHS

On February agents arrested atomic scientist He was accused of passing atom

At the begi had been intern alien. He was British custody the personal in As a scientist f had access to between 1942 a one of the few construction of serving a penit espionage.

Acting on Fuchs, there b which resulted other members all of whom we Jewish. Here entire ring:

HARRY GOLD

Harry Gold (Jew name Goldodnitsky Switzerland of Russian-Jewish parents. H University of Pennsylvania, and Xavier U the Soviet espi who used the A a base of opera the country col members strate atomic energy i of the ring which stole 1700 secret documents. Like many other high ranking reds, he originally came from the Pale of Settlement.

JOHN STEWART SERVICE, a nigh State Department official who gave Jaffe much of the stolen material. He is believed to be a gentile.

ALSO ARRESTED were Emmanuel Larsen and Kate Mitchel, nationality unknown.

Only two of those arrested were actually brought to trial, although the Justice Department's case was considered airtight. The trial of the ringleader, Philip Jaffe, was one of the strangest on record. Late one Friday afternoon he was rushed into court without any previous notice or publicity, and before anyone knew what was going on he pleaded guilty, and was sentenced and fined. By paying the comparatively insignificant sum of $1,500.00 he was relieved from the danger of any future prosecution. Roth paid a $500.00 fine.

John Stewart Service was not prosecuted, nor was he discharged from his high State Department position. The State Department, despite the constant prodding of Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, refused to accept the evidence against him. Four times he was called before the State Department's "loyalty board," and four times he was cleared.

This in spite of a wire recording of his transactions with Jaffe! Not until the fifth loyalty hearing was it decided that there were "reasonable" grounds for suspecting his loyalty. This came six years after the original arrests. Somewhere, hidden hands were pulling wires . . .

in Manchuria of Russian-Jewish parents. His Jew name is Julius Ginsberg.

Andrew Roth aided in the theft of State Department documents. He is a Brooklyn Jew.

JOHN STEWART SERVICE

ALGER HISS CASE

The second treason case also involved the State Department. This was the trial of Alger Hiss, protege of Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter. Hiss, like Acheson, was a student under Frankfurter at Harvard.

Hiss was one of the most influential men in the State Department. At Yalta he had been a Roosevelt advisor; at San Francisco he helped draw up the United Nations charter. And he was an intimate friend of the secretary-of-state.

Hiss, although a communist, was not convicted for being one. He perjured himself by denying his communist activities, however, and it was on this charge that he was tried and convicted.

The Alger Hiss trial was also a unique one. Dean Acheson's wife campaigned to raise funds for his defense. Acheson himself declared: "I'll not turn my back on Alger Hiss." Felix Frankfurter actually took the witness stand to testify as a character witness for his protege. In spite of all this, Hiss was convicted and sent to the penitentiary.

Frankfurter's role in this treasonable drama is worth commenting on. An immigrant Jew from Austria, he has a life-long affinity for and February of 1947 he was the secret boss of the Communist Party in the U. S. In those years he commuted regularly between the U. S. and Russia, using the aliases Berger, Brown, Edwards, and others. His right hand man, and the second ranking cominform agent in the U. S. was J. Peters, author of the "Peters Manuel." His real name was Goldberger, and like Eisler he is Jewish.

GERHART EISLER, highest ranking communist ever convicted in the U.S. He's Jewish.

Several of Eisler's family have also been prominent in the Party. A brother, Hans, has built an outstanding reputation as a writer of revolutionary songs. He is presently employed as a songwriter in Hollywood. A sister, Ruth Fischer, was a Communist agent for a number of years.

In May of 1950, while free on bail, Eisler fled the U.S. on the Polish ship Batory and is now propaganda chief of Russian-occupied Eastern Germany.

The Hollywood Ten

In 1950 the ten leading film writers of the Hollywood Film Colony, nine of whom are known Jews, were convicted for contempt of Congress and sentenced to prison. All had appeared before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1948, and all had refused to testify.

The Film Colony went all-out in its support. A group of film notables, including Lauren Becall and Humphrey Bogart, chartered a special plane to Washington. Jewish publications everywhere raised the cry Shown above are the convicted "Hollywood Ten." All wear $200.00 suits, all are in the one-to-five thousand dollar a week income bracket. All of them are Yiddish except one.

that the Un-American Activities Committee was victimizing a group of artists who, at the worst, were liberally inclined.

As events proved, the committee knew exactly what it was doing. Six of the "Hollywood Ten" were communist party members. The other four had flagrantly pro-communist records. Furthermore, as screen writers they were in a particularly advantageous position to insert subtle bits of red propaganda into pictures. Given here is a roll-call of the Hollywood Ten:

(1) Alvah Bessie, a sceen writer. A communist party member, he wrote for the party publication, New Masses.

(2) Herbert Biberman, received a six month sentence and a $1,000.00 fine. A party member, he is the Yiddish husband of entire ring:

Harry Gold (Jew name Goldodnitsky). Switzerland of Russian-Jewish parents. He University of Pennsylvania, and Xavier Uni the Soviet espio who used the Am a base of operat the country colle members strategi atomic energy in of 1950, he plea received 30 yea

David Green Jewish father a was one of thos mation to Gold he was employe tion at Los Ala gave Julius Rose cerning the "fu A-bomb. Signifi Alamos project Robt. Oppenhei passing A-bomb from Los Alamos

Abraham Bro of the ring. He of A. Brotham a

ABRAHAM BROTHMAN

DAVID GREENGLASS

ROBT. OPPENHEIMER

ISRAEL WEINBAUM

N. Y. He supplied Gold with secret dat aircraft engines, and synthetic rubber. So that a Russian official allegedly told him brigades to Soviet Russia. He was arre conspiracy against the U. S., and was con

Miriam Moskowitz was also caught in the City College of NYC, she was arrest of the same apparatus. She was emplo Commission between 1942-44, and was Brothman firm. Miriam is Yiddish. She w

Sidney Weinbaum, a product of Rus Technology, came to the U. S. in 192 Weinbaum., He was connected with the Tech for four years, during which time he ment with atomic secrets. He was convic

Alfred Dean Slack, was the only g apprehended. While employed at the gave atomic information to Harry Gold. given Gold intelligence about a new secr at th

Battle Creek, Mich.

NDERBOLT

ISSUE # 31, JUNE 25, 1961

ST SPY RINGS IN AMERICA

By Frank L. Britton

Gale Sondergaard.
member.
elongs to 15 fronts. Fined and sen-ot writer and party member.

Broadway playright and screen writer.
Story." A party member.
rry-go-Round," "Snake Pit." A party er.

not verified.
member.

he Fuchs-Gold Spy Ring

February 3rd, 1949, British intelligence arrested a diminutive German-born scientist by the name of Klaus Fuchs. accused, and subsequently convicted, ng atomic secrets to the Russians.
he beginning of World War II Fuchs n interned by the British as an enemy He was subsequently released from custody and admitted to the U. S. at sonal instigation of Albert Einstein. ientist for the Manhattan Project, he ess to our innermost atomic secrets 1942 and 1945, and he is said to be the few men familiar with the overall tion of the A-bomb. He is now a penitentiary term in England for ge.
ng on information obtained from there began a series of investigations esulted in the eventual arrest of nine embers of the ring. Of these nine, hom were later convicted, eight were Here is a brief description of the ing:

odnitsky). A chemist, he was born in nts. He studied at Drexel University, avier University. He was a courier for et espionage chief, S. M. Semenov, d the Amtorg Trading Corporation as f operations. Gold travelled all over ntry collecting information from ring strategically placed in defense and at Kingsport, Tenn. His alma mater is Syracuse University.

JULIUS and ETHEL ROSENBERG

The Rosenbergs

Three other members of the Fuchs-Gold ring were also arrested. However, unlike the first seven—who pleaded guilty—they chose to plead "not guilty." As a result two of them—Julius and Ethel Rosenberg — received the death penalty and the third, Morton Sobell, received 30 years in prison.

Julius Rosenberg was born of Russian-Jewish parents. An electrical engineer and a graduate of the City College of New York City, he was instrumental in recruiting Greenglass into the spy ring. While employed at the Emerson Electric Company he stole the plans for the highly secret proximity fuse which is now being used against American planes in Korea. He also aided in the theft of atomic secrets. His job was to digest information from Greenglass, and then pass it on to Soviet agents. He was sentenced to death.

MORTON SOBELL

Ethel Rosenberg, wife of Julius, was convicted of the same charges at the same time. She is a sister of David Greenglass. David Greenglass's wife acted as a courier between Greenglass and the Rosenbergs, but for some reason was not put on trial.

Morton Sobell was also a graduate of the City College of New York City. He and Rosenberg were classmates together. Sobell passed electronic data to Rosenberg, including radar secrets. He fled to Mexico to escape arrest, was returned by Mexican authorities. He was convicted for conspiracy to commit espionage and was sentenced to 30 years in prison. He's a Jew.

Behind the Atom Treason

The question which instantly comes to mind is: how were Communist agents able to ferret out our valuable atom secrets when so much secrecy surrounded the entire project? Why was it that Russia had the full secret of atom-bomb manufacture before the American people even knew of the existence of atomic weapons? These questions are especially puzzling when we consider the fantastic security

"Scientist X" proved to be a Jew by the name of Joseph W. Weinberg of the University of Minnesota.

Steve Nelson? His real name is Mesarosh and his birthplace is Belgrade. "Nelson" studied at the Lenin Institute in Moscow and resided in Russia from September of 1931 to July 1943. Recently cited for contempt of Congress, he was originally arrested for deportation in 1922 when it was found that he had fraudulently entered this country by using the passport of one Joseph Fleishinger, a cousin . . .

STEVE NELSON

Canadian Spy Ring

Fred Rose, member of Parliament and leader of the Canadian Spy Ring, is a Polish-Jew.

Canada has also had spy trouble. There, as in the U. S., the Soviet Embassy served as headquarters for espionage activity. There, as in the U. S. the principal characters in the plot were Jews.

In early 1945 an employee of the Russian embassy in Ottawa packed hundreds of secret Russian documents into a suitcase and turned himself over to Canadian authorities. As a result, a spy ring was uncovered which included — among others — a member of the Canadian Parliament and a professor at McDill university. Leader of the ring, and by far its most important member, was Fred Rose (Rosenberg), the only communist in the Canadian Parliament. Rose, a Polish-Jew, was the ringleader, the recruiter, and the courier for the ring.)

On June 16, 1946, he was sentenced to prison for his activities. The following year (Dec. 6, 1947) Dr. Raymond Boyer, a professor at McDill university, was sentenced to two years in prison for having given Rose information concerning the secret explosive, RDX. Boyer was married to the Jewess, Anita Cohen. Arraigned with Rose were Samuel Gerson (of Russian-Jewish parentage)

odnitsky). A chemist, he was born in nts. He studied at Drexel University, avier University. He was a courier for et espionage chief, S. M. Semenov, d the Amtorg Trading Corporation as f operations. Gold travelled all over ntry collecting information from ring strategically placed in defense and energy installations. Arrested in May he pleaded guilty of espionage and 30 years in prison.

d Greenglass, the son of a Russian-father and a Polish-Jewish mother, of those who passed atomic infor-to Gold. Between 1943 and 1946 employed at the vital atomic installa-Los Alamos, New Mexico. He also lius Rosenberg vital information con-the "fuse" used to detonate the Significantly, the chief of the Los project at this time was the Jew, ppenheimer. Klaus Fuchs was also A-bomb information to Harry Gold Alamos during this period.

ham Brothman was another member ng. He headed the engineering firm otham and Associates, Long Island,

WEINBAUM

MIRIAM MOSCOWITZ

cret data on aviation gasoline, turbo ber. So valuable was his contribution told him his efforts were worth two was arrested on July 27th, 1950, for was convicted.

ught in the spy net. A graduate of as arrested August 17, 1950 as part s employed by the War Manpower and was later associated with the . She was convicted. of Russia's "Charkoff" Institute of in 1922. His real name is Israel vith the radiation laboratory at Cal-time he furnished the Soviet govern-s convicted on a perjury charge.

only gentile besides Fuchs to be at the Oak Ridge establishment he Gold. He is also believed to have new secret explosive while employed at the Holtson Ordnance Works Mexican authorities. He was convicted for conspiracy to commit espionage and was sentenced to 30 years in prison. He's a Jew.

Behind the Atom Treason

The question which instantly comes to mind is: how were Communist agents able to ferret out our valuable atom secrets when so much secrecy surrounded the entire project? Why was it that Russia had the full secret of atom-bomb manufacture before the American people even knew of the existence of atomic weapons? These questions are especially puzzling when we consider the fantastic security measures taken to safeguard the secret. Bob Considine once described a fire which burned down a large building housing an atomic installation. Although firemen could have easily saved the building, plant guards would not permit them to enter the restricted area because they didn't have authorized passes! Not even members of the U. S. Congress were let in on the secret. Yet the Soviet agents were able to penetrate this security wall as though it weren't there. How did they do it?

First it should be remembered that a central figure in the atomic program was Albert Einstein, a foreign-born Jew with a record of 16 red fronts to his credit. It has never been proven that Einstein is an actual party member, but there can be absolutely no doubt as to where his sympathies lie. Nor can there be any doubt regarding the red tint of his friends. A list of those around Einstein reads like a Who's Who of Communism. It was Einstein who was instrumental in having Fuchs brought to the United States.

Furthermore, it should be remembered that the chief of the Los Alamos installation between 1943-45, when most of the secrets were stolen, was the Jew, Robert Oppenheimer. Robert Oppenheimer has a brother, Frank, who is also an atomic scientist and who is, or was, a card carrying communist. Frank Oppenheimer belonged to "Professional Unit No. 122 of the Communist Party," while on the staff at Cal-Tech.

Left to right: W. W. Waymack, L. L. Straus*, David Lilienthal*, R. F. Bacher*, Sumner Pike. In 1945 Harry Truman removed atomic energy from military authority and placed it under this Jew-dominated board, headed by David Lilienthal. Lilienthal had a pro-communist record.

Finally, it should be noted that shortly after V-J day Harry Truman turned America's atomic energy program over to a board consisting of five men, three of whom were Jews. Not only that, but the Jewish chairman, David Lilienthal, had belonged to at least two communist fronts previous to his appointment. This was the background to the atom treason.

Scientist X

There have been other instances of Jewish treason in our atomic energy program. Witness the case of the much publicized "Scientist X" who from 1943 on passed vital atomic information to Steve Nelson.

Polish-Jew, was the ringleader, the recruiter, and the courier for the ring.

On June 16, 1946, he was sentenced to prison for his activities. The following year (Dec. 6, 1947) Dr. Raymond Boyer, a professor at McDill university, was sentenced to two years in prison for having given Rose information concerning the secret explosive, RDX. Boyer was married to the Jewess, Anita Cohen. Arraigned with Rose were Samuel Gerson (of Russian-Jewish parentage), and David Shugar, believed to be Jewish. Other Jews implicated in the Fred Rose spy ring included: J. Isidor Gottheil, Israel Halperin, and Sam Carr (Cohen). (NOTE: This is not a complete listing of the Fred Rose spy ring.)

KARL MARX

LAST BUT NOT LEAST

The main spy case broken in 1957 was uncovered with the arrest of master spy, Col. Rudolph Abel. He pretended to be a Jewish refugee from Germany, but actually headed a vast spy ring of Jews in America. The latest were the arrests of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Cohen in England. They are from the Bronx in New York. Using phoney passports, they guided an international spy ring.

The fact that every Red Spy in America has been completely dominated by Communist Jews casts grave suspicion on the Loyality of all Jews residing in America. Those who place the interests of Communist Russia or Zionist Israel over America should have their citizenship revoked and be deported back to the country they are fronting for.

Karl Marx, Jewish son of a long line of Rabbies imbedded in his Communist philosophy all the basic components of Judaism. Thus, we find a strong leaning by ALL Jews toward Communism.

A true explanation for all this was proclaimed by World Zion-long line of Rabbis imbedded Wise, when he said "Some call it Marxism, I call it Judaism."

T.V. News

T.V. QUOTES OF THE MONTH CHAMP LETS CAT OUT OF BAG.

After the light-heavyweight championship fight on June 10, Archie Moore announced to a nation wide T.V. audience that part of his winnings would go to the following charities. $500.00 to B'nai B'rith, $1,000.00 to the "Freedom Riders", and $500.00 to buy him a life membership in the N.A.A.CP.. Archie Moore actually helped awaken America. People have started putting 2 & 2 together. B'nai B'rith plus N.A.A.C.P. equals "Freedom Riders", Jewish Communism and Race-Mixing.

KELLOGG SPONSORS MIXING ON T.V.

The Kellogg cereal Co, sponsors of "Whats My Line" with John Daley insulted all White people Sunday night June 11. On their panel they placed the race-mixing Negro agitator Harry Bellefonte between 2 White Women panelists. Bellefonte sported a phoney English accent and acted extremely arrogant on the show. He was all smiles with White women seated on both sides. We feel sure all our readers will feel ill everytime they eat a Kellogg cereal and think of this horrible Race-mixing exhibition. We are sure your will be able to buy some other brand in the store. In the meantime, you can express your opinion by writing your views on this type of race-mixing propaganda to Public Relations Dept., Kellogg Co., Battle Creek. Mich.

THE CHICAGO JUNGLE

THE JUNGLE BEAST THAT WALKS LIKE A MAN AND KILLS LIKE A BEAST

The below photographic reproduction is from the Negro magazine, "Jet." This heinious crime which was committed right in the streets of Chicago's famous "Loop" was given no publicity in the Negro-catering newspapers of that corruption-ridden city.

The guilt for this crime cannot be placed entirely upon the shoulders of the killer. After all, the Negro is an emotional, amoral, semi-primitive. In the dark jungles from which he comes, when one Negro becomes angry with another he simply goes into his enemy's village, seeks him out, chops off his head, and shrinks it. We must not forget that the Negroes of America are not far removed from that state. To the Negro, the only solution to a problem is the solution of the savage.

And these are the type of people that the de-segregationists want to mix with little white children in the shcools; the people who should be our social equals; the people who should be allowed to move into respectable, crime-free white neighborhoods and communities.

CHICAGO MAN BEHEADS LOVER;

BY ALEX POINSETT

From his Chicago jail cell last week, 29-year-old laborer Marshall Abraham seemed totally unconcerned over the grim fact that he had hacked off his girl friend's head with a hunting knife—only disturbed over reports that news stories had given inaccurate details of his grisly crime. Newspaper accounts had indicated that he had very carefully cut off the head of 34-year-old Anna L. Jones, then lugged it four blocks before finally depositing it in a trash can. "But that wasn't true," complained the unemployed construction worker. "I was misrepresented. I didn't carry her head no four blocks like they said. It was six." Then he named in quick succession the streets along the six-block route of his post-execution journey.

For a man whose own doom now seemed certain, Abraham was not at all reluctant to discuss his version of the crime he had committed in the late near-midnight hour before Easter. He had beheaded her, he said, "because I promised her I would. She had squandered money, he said, which he had given her periodically in amounts varying from $20 to $25 since their first meeting last June in a tavern. She had, at times, visited him in his apartment, he added, but would not agree to live with him because she feared loss of public charity checks which she received for support of her three children. On the night of the slaying it was an argument over her refusal to visit him that led to the grisly execution. In fact, as Abraham explained it, Miss Jones had teased him about it, as well as boastfully taunting him about her romantic excursions with other men.

Marshall Abraham

"I don't play that," he said indignantly, the angry jealousy rising within him. And apparently he was not in a playing mood either when he rapped on Miss Jones' apartment door about 11 p.m. on Easter eve.

REMAINS UNMOVED BY SLAYING

through the neighborhood with his girl friend's head tucked under his arm remained for other witnesses to fill in. About five blocks from the scene of his self-styled

Science Proves Races Are Different

THE APE

The black skin of the Negro has nothing to do with climate. It is caused by animal coloring matter between the true and the scarf layers of the skin. It is proven the world over that black and yellow skins are signs of mental and spiritual inferiority and that no tinged race can create a civilization.

A few mulattoes may appear to be brilliant but this brilliance never allows them to invent or create which shows they have not bridged the gap between the black and white, for no archaic form can become modern.

While the Japanese are great imitators they have never been known to produce a great inventor or creator because they are a white race that has become polluted by Negro blood at some time in their history.

The Negro is much closer to the ape than any other race physically and consequently mentally for form must determine mental and moral qualities and like must produce like. keep it going.

Negro blood which differs from all other human blood and has a sickle shaped cell, has destroyed Egypt, India, Carthage, and caused the deep animal sleep to fall upon China, Portugal, Spain and Turkey.

Unless the Negro race with its deadly sickle celled blood is separated from the white race it will completely destroy America.

The Negro's head shows the archaic form. The front of the Negro's skull is much smaller than the white man's thus giving the Negro less room for the higher faculties, such as affection, self control, will power, reason, judgement, apperception, orientation and a feeling for the relationship of personality to environment.

Formation determines the amount of intelligence that will be reflected just as the size and shape of a glass pitcher determines the size and shape of the water in it. If this were ceived for support of her three children. On the night of the slaying it was an argument over her refusal to visit him that led to the grisly execution. In fact, as Abraham explained it, Miss Jones had teased him about it, as well as boastfully taunting him about her romantic excursions with other men.

Marshall Abraham

"I don't play that," he said indignantly, the angry jealousy rising within him. And apparently he was not in a playing mood either when he rapped on Miss Jones' apartment door about 11 p.m. on Easter eve. She was at home with a son, James, 11, and a daughter, Ethel, 9 (another son, Charles, 10, was visiting an aunt). It was James who heard Abraham order his mother to leave with him. "But I've got to stay with my kids," she argued.

Abraham left alone. He went home, doffed his white sport coat and cream colored trousers, and slipped on a pair of old blue jeans and a sweat shirt—the kind of clothes he wore when he went to work. This time his only work tool was a well-sharpened Sears-Roebuck hunting knife.

In a short while he returned to Miss Jones' apartment and broke down the door when she would not admit him. He faced her, he said, knife in hand. "I told you I was gonna kill you," he said angrily, then lunged at her.

"I grabbed the back of his shirt," recalled young James, "and tried to pull him back. Then he got after me and Ethel with the knife, too. But we ran too fast for him."

Miss Jones was not so fortunate. Abraham, who admitted that he had fortified himself with six drinks of whiskey before his visit, said she swung at him with an iron bar. "She didn't trip over a curb like the newspapers said," he explained. "I knocked her down. Then I stabbed her a bunch of times here and there (he pointed to his shoulder blades). Then I cut her head off."

One witness, who preferred to remain unnamed, thought she was having a terrible nightmare, when, from her living room window, she saw Abraham astraddle Miss Jones, pounding her in the back.

"I thought he was hitting her with his fists," she said. "It was dark and you couldn't tell. Then I phoned police. When I looked through the window again, it looked like he was struggling to pull up something. He got it free in about five minutes. I could see then it was the woman's head. I couldn't stand to look anymore."

What happened after that on Abraham's six-block trek through the neighborhood with his girl friend's head tucked under his arm remained for other witnesses to fill in. About five blocks from the scene of his self-styled execution, Abraham stopped at a tavern, laid aside the head for a moment just outside the door, then walked in, lit a cigarette and ordered a glass of beer.

"I served him right away," recalled bartender Romero Berni. "Then some woman asked him 'how come you so bloody?' The guy says, 'I just cut off your girl friend's head. You wanna see?' She didn't believe him, so he took her outside and lifted the thing off the sidewalk. She nearly fainted."

From there, Abraham went on his way, found a trash can, dropped the head in and headed for home. But he had forgotten to leave his bloody sweat shirt and knife. When he returned a short while later, police were already on the scene. They scrutinized him, asked him casually if he had killed the woman. "Yeah, I killed her," Abraham admitted.

"What were you going to do if we hadn't arrested you?" police wanted to know.

Abraham shrugged. "Go home. Take a bath, change clothes and get some sleep, I guess."

Does he regret committing the crime? "I'll be frank," he reflected in jail. "I never gave it no special thought." Then, when reminded that he had been declared sane and is charged with murder, he summed it up thusly: "Murder is murder. I guess I'll die if I have to."

THE THUNDERBOLT is the official White Racial Organ of the National States Rights Party . . . This Newspaper is published monthly, free for members. Subscription rates for non-members is $3 per year.

"THE THUNDERBOLT"

P. O. BOX 738,
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Dr. Edward R. FIELDS . . . . . Editor
Issue No. 31 . . . . . June 25, 1961
PHONE STate 7-6818

CITIZENS AWAKE – SUBSCRIBE TODAY

We have been publishing for three years. Now is the time to build THE THUNDERBOLT into a National Weekly. Only YOU can do the job. Show this paper to your friends, neighbors and fellow workers. If they want to subscribe, please phone in their names, or have them phone us, or use the blank below -- Now is the time to stop papers like "THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS " -- Make this the biggest paper in the country. We are standing by our phone -- Please have your friends call us today -- STate 7-6818.

6 Months for Only $1.50

MAIL TO:
NATIONAL STATES RIGHTS PARTY
P. O. BOX 783
BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA

Name _____

Address _____

OR PHONE YOUR ADDRESS INTO State 7-6818
AND WE WILL BILL YOU.

imitators they have never been known to produce a great inventor or creator because they are a white race that has become polluted by Negro blood at some time in their history.

The Negro is much closer to the ape than any other race physically and consequently mentally for form must determine mental and moral qualities and like must produce like. Every race is different physically and thereby mentally. With the Negro, the body - hence mind - is the lowest of all.

No amount of imitation and apeing will instill a creative or inventive instinct into the Negro nor will education or sympathetic aid.

The Negro has had just as long as the white man to develop. Tens of thousands of years have passed by and the Negro has not produced a civilization. Where is his art, his science, his religion? What single aspect of civilization has he contributed to present day culture?

The Negro has no morals. He is not immoral but nonmoral. Without the white man to control him the Negro reverts to savagery and practices torture, cruelty and witchcraft. The Negro is a natural cannibal and on his native doorpost may be found choice cuts of human flesh. In Africa the Negro even sells his dead relatives and will eat human flesh after it has become decomposed.

The black genes of the Negro are more powerful than white genes. The Negro gene is dominant over the White gene at a 4 to 1 ratio. In other words, if a Negro marries a white and they have 4 children 3 of them will be predominantly Black and 1 child would be mostly White. This proves we cannot assimalate the black race. The black gene would devour our entire race and the vast majority of the offspring would be Black. Thusly we cannot mix with the Negro and whiten his race. He will drag us down into the black depths of mongrelization. The Negro has thereby destroyed every white civilization that he has come in contact with or has left that civilization stagnant and rotting and dependent upon the last drop of white blood from outside to higher faculties, such as affection, self control, will power, reason, judgement, apperception, orientation and a feeling for the relationship of personality to environment.

Formation determines the amount of intelligence that will be reflected just as the size and shape of a glass pitcher determines the size and shape of the water in it. If this were not so there would be no law governing intelligence and one organism would reflect as much mind as another regardless of its construction.

The Negro's whole skull capacity is much undersize so that the black brain weighs 35 ounces as against 45 ounces for the Caucasian brain.

In the Negro the cranial bones are very thick and the cranial sutures unite early in life. This checks the development of the brain and explains the sudden stunting of the Negro intellect shortly before puberty.

The Negro's hair is flat and without a center core or duct. It is not a true human hair but resembles the wool of the lower animals and it can be felted.

The Negro's eyeball is tinged with yellow as is the ape's. The jaws protrude so that the facial angle of the Negro is 60 degrees as in the ape. The white man's facial angle is 70.

The Negro's nose is concave at the bridge as is the ape's. The nostrils turn up and show the red inner lining. The lips are everted and show the red mucous membrane.

In the white man the alveolar arch and palatine area of the mouth became shortened and widened and the tongue became shortened and more horizontally flattened which allows for greater refinement in pronunciation while the Negro palate and tongue remained ape like (macrodont) and he is unable to pronunce sibilant sounds. Sibilant sounds are unknown in Negro dialect.

The Negro carries stench glands as does the dog and in his natural state these may serve as a means of identification in place of a name. This stench (from extra sweat glands) is partly under control and is put out when the Negro is excited.

Ohio Group Exposes Anti-Semitic Hoax

File Israel Cohen Hoax So. Israelite 8/18/61

CINCINNATI, (JTA)—A vicious anti-Semitic hoax was brought to light by the Jewish Community Relations Committee here after "The Cincinnati Enquirer" unwittingly reprinted it.

As a result of the facts brought out by the JCRC, the Enquirer published an editorial retraction, expressing its regret for "making use of an erroneous piece of information." The hoax consists of a statement purportedly printed in a book, allegedly published in 1912, entitled "A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century." The author of the book was said to have been "an English Communist, Israel Cohen."

The non-existent "book" by the fictitious Cohen had allegedly included these quotations:

"We must realize our party's most powerful weapon is racial tension. In America, we will aim for a subtle victory. While inflaming the Negro minority against the whites, we will endeavor to instill in the whites a guilt complex for their exploitation of the negroes, and begin a process which will deliver America to our cause."

Declaring the very existence of the book, its alleged author, and the quotation, "a piece of journalistic fakery," The JCRC said "the hoax was clearly calculated to revive the old 'Communist-Jewish plot' libel, long used by enemies of American democracy."

According to the JCRC, the report was first submitted to the Washington Star in 1957 by R. A. Hester, then chairman of the Montgomery County chapter of the Maryland Petition Committee Inc. The Star published the story in March, 1957, then printed a retraction nearly a year later when its own extensive research, spurred by the investigation of Herman Edelsberg, director of the Washington office of ADL, proved that there had never been any such book, and that there was no Communist party leader, philosopher or pamphleteer named Israel Cohen.

The Star did establish that the real Israel Cohen is an Anglo-Jewish writer who has written some two dozen books, none of which deals with Communism. He was secretary of the World Zionist Organization from 1922 to 1939.

Later in 1957, the Hester letter was inserted in the Congressional Record by Rep. Thomas Abernathy, of Mississippi. When the Star asked Mr. Hester to give the source of the quotation, the newspaper reported, Mr. Hester said "he had read it in some newspaper, but could not remember which one."

Write for Pvt. White Schools — MA 2-4850... PO Box 6551 Sta G

The White American

Location is meeting next Tues. Meeting next Tues. send application Get a state grant... Who! Dr. Fields Issue Number I

August 1961

Strong seed

Kill Whites Negroes Told

Not allowed

TRAIN BEHIND IRON CURTAIN

JEWISH FIEND IN CHARGE

The European branch of the N.A.A.C.P. known as the "INSTITUTE FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF THE NEGRO RACE" operating in communist controlled East Germany is training 50,000 negroes to carry out the Communist Party's goal of organizing the blacks on a world wide scale against white civilization. Intelligence sources recently revealed

Negroes Endanger Health

A NEW INCURABLE DISEASE

The American Illustrated Medical Dictionary defines sickle cell anæmia thus:—"A disease marked by anæmia and by ulcers and characterized by the red blood cells of the patient acquiring a capable of transferring it in active form to his progeny."

Summarizing the issue in Sickle Cell Anæmia as a National Health Problem, Dr. Ogden declares:—

The European branch of the N.A.A.C.P. known as the "INSTITUTE FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF THE NEGRO RACE" operating in communist controlled East Germany is training 50,000 negroes to carry out the Communist Party's goal of organizing the blacks on a world wide scale against white civilization. Intelligence sources recently revealed that negro deserters from the U. S. Army are among thousands of blacks being trained at Bautzen, East Germany.

Authoritative sources said that hundreds of blacks who have completed training at the party's center are already operating in the U.S.A., mainly in the southern states.

The blacks from all parts of the world, including South Africa, Gahna, Liberia and the Congo, receive special training before being smuggled into the United States, and other countries where there are large negro populations. The negroes are trained as agitators, sabatoeurs and assassians. Special emphasis on methods of murder in which the death of the victim will appear accidential are being stressed.

Through their secret system of transportation, Negroes who only a few months ago raped white Belgians can be in the United States committing the same kind of sex crime.

GERHART EISLER, highest ranking communist ever convicted in the U.S. He's Jewish.

He escaped while under watch by F.B.I.

WHITE VICTIM

Photo from the files of the House Un-American Activities Committee

In charge of training blacks is the Jew, Gerhard Eisler, top man in the U. S. communist party until the year 1950, when he escaped to Germany while under watch by the F.B.I. The F.B.I. has not explained why he was allowed to escape but sources in Washington say that some of the F.B.I. could have been communists themselves.

With terrifying cunning the crafty Jew, Eisler, offers white women to the simple minded negroes as a person might tempt a child with a piece of candy. On his instructions hundreds of naked white women adorn the walls of the negro living quarters. Movies taken in the Congo of negroes raping white women are shown daily. The lust of the negro is thus directed totoward the white woman which becomes a sex symbol in his primitave and simple mind. These are the negroes who upon their arrival in the U.S.A. agitate and inflame their black brothers against the white man.

Inside sources quoted Eisler as saying "a white wife for all who aid us in this struggle", and promises that even though they are slaves of white men today, that tomorrow they will be the masters.

Many trainees have been sent to aid Martin Luther King, Jr. in Atlanta and other southern cities.

The shocking murder of beautiful Donna Trussell of New Orleans, a first cousin of Miss America, who was killed by a sex crazed negro this year on her birthday, is one example of the fruits of race mixing. In the Belgian Congo childrens clothes were ripped off to determine their sex. Two and three year old children were raped by grown negroes.

Eisler tells his negro terrorists that if they are caught they have little to fear as the Supreme Court will release them on technicalities. "We are sure to win" he says "How can we lose with the Supreme Court and White House on our side".

Negroes Endanger Health

A NEW INCURABLE DISEASE

The American Illustrated Medical Dictionary defines sickle cell anæmia thus:—"A disease marked by anæmia and by ulcers and characterized by the red blood cells of the patient acquiring a sickle-like of crescentic shape in vitro. The disease seems confined to the negro race and it is hereditary."

It has been estimated that in the U.S.A. over 1,000,000 negroes have the hereditary sickle cell trait and over 150,000 have the actual disease.

In a report in the Archives of Internal Medicine, Vol 71, one of the leading authorities on the disease, Dr M. A. Ogden, states:—"It has also been proved that every sicklemeic person is a potential bearer of sickle cell anæmia and that, while not showing any marked clinical manifestations of the disease himself, he is capable of transferring it in active form to his progeny."

Summarizing the issue in Sickle Cell Anæmia as a National Health Problem, Dr. Ogden declares:—"The sickling trait is a condition found in the negro race only, and the findings of such a trait in another race indicates an admixture of negro blood in the immediate or remote ancestry. Sickle cell anæmia is a national public health problem especially in the United States. Inter-marriages between negroes and White persons directly endangers the White Race by transmission of the sickling trait, as has been proved in the nine case histories here presented."

Intermarriage is a loathsome evil This disease is but one of its hideous results. The nation's health requires the prohibition of intermarriage

BLUEPRINT FOR DESTRUCTION

Every race agitator and every professional race mixing organization knows that the first step toward racial mongrelization is the "integrated" school. They know that if the growing child can be exposed to an inter-racial atmosphere early enough in life, and can be conditioned in a Negroidal environment from kindergarten on, it will never develop racial pride or racial self respect.

Accordingly, the integrationists are seeking to transform the educational process into an instrument of mass mongrelization; they are fanatically determined to mix Negroes and whites in our public schools at all costs. In Little Rock they tried to do it with bayonets. In New York City they are using school buses to import Negroes into all-white schools. In other areas they are utilizing court injunctions, coercion and propaganda to gain their ends. Their immediate goal is the integration of our schools; their ultimate objective is the bastardization of the white race . . .

PRESERVE WHITE CIVILISATION

Juston Finger

Integration Hits Atlanta

Hartsfield-Jenkins Ready

SCHOOL DAYS
Reading, Writing and Race Mixing

Jews Admit

Brutal Police Force

While Atlanta and national Jewish groups manipulate secretly behind the scenes, brutal plans are being drawn up to supress the freedom of speech and assembly of the white citizens of Atlanta.

Vicious dogs already trained will be put to use against Atlanta whites who are not in favor of race mixing in the city's schools this fall, if any demonstrations occur. Just what category a "demonstration" fits into is not known. However it looks as though the peoples right to freedom of assembly, peaceful or otherwise, will be classed as disturbing by the Hartsfield-Jenkins goon squad police department.

Hartsfield has stated that "skulls will be cracked". This statement clearly shows the cruel mind of this traitor to the White Race.

Backed in their plans by Atlanta Newspapers Inc. (Red Ralph McGill etc) these gutless political prostitutes intend to loose savage blacks on innocent white children of all ages. Knowing full well what the outcome will be, Atlanta's Political leaders have sold out the white citizens to gain votes and achieve their own political ends.

If integration is allowed to go on unchecked Atlanta will become even

This Negro can force his way into a white School under the protection of bayonets, but what happens when the troops leave is another matter.

The Man Who Started It All

The Jew, Karl Marx, founded communism and by so doing has sent the

SCHOOL DAYS
Reading, Writing and Race Mixing

Jews Admit Race-Mix Plot 54 Groups Meet

The Atlanta Journal — Friday, July 14, 1961

...ate ... treatie...
Germanys.
It did not close the door to ...

Jewish Group Supports School Desegregation

The Atlanta Jewish Community Council has adopted a resolution which affirms support of the Atlanta Board of Education in desegregation of city schools this fall.

The council, composed of 54 affiliated and constituent member organizations, said:

"Whereas, our public schools are essential for the education of all the children of our community, and whereas public schools are basic to the strength and vitality of our democratic institutions;

"Therefore, be it resolved that we pledge our support to the Board of Education and to the school administration in their efforts to achieve a peaceful and orderly desegregation of our public schools.

"We call upon all our affiliated member organizations to take affirmative action in support of the Board of Education and to urge all their members to do likewise in the best interests of all our citizens. . . ."

...meet-
...uss the ...ish and said, pre-
...on of Khru-
...ced to Presi-
...e Vienna sum-
...aties with the turnover of routes to Germans,
...tes were
...h diplo-
...tline of proposals wartime
a "free,
...n and sepa-

...d;
...lise

...isn
...eren
...align st
Berlin sho...dow
...ources said Sa
The sources would either c
...ow the Soviet
Congress in M
...ober.

Riots
Rhode SALISBUR
...ia, July
...roops, Air F
...egin antiric
...veek before
...lum on a
...outhern R
The blac
...pposed t
...acial viol
...he const
...uards fo
...ces, Afr was dr
...mand a
...nt of th

Newspapers Inc. (Red Ralph McGill etc) these gutless political prostitutes intend to loose savage blacks on innocent white children of all ages. Knowing full well what the outcome will be, Atlanta's Political leaders have sold out the white citizens to gain votes and achieve their own political ends.

If integration is allowed to go on unchecked Atlanta will become even more a cesspool of communist subversion and crime than it is today.

It is well known the communists have chosen Atlanta for their headquarters in the south. This is because they have full cooperation of the Atlanta newspapers, television, and the police department.

City parks will become battle grounds for gangs of knife wielding and pistol packing blacks. Instead of being places of recreation, city parks will become places of horror more dangerous than the actual jungle. In this way the communists begin to take over. To stop these manufactured riots and disturbances supressive laws will be passed which will destroy the freedom of the individual.

The Hartsfield-Jenkins dictatorship in Atlanta allows negroes to demonstrate and parade through the city by the hundreds while whites who do likewise are jailed.

Integration in Atlanta's public schools will throw innocent white children into contact with blacks actually and literally reeking with veneral diseases.

At stake is not just the white children of today but the future of the White Race forever. The white citizens of Atlanta must not sacrifice their children to the Jewish-Communist plan of race mixing.

Since they have been deserted by their elected representitives the white citizens must avail themselves to every possible lawful method to stop race mixing in Atlanta.

White citizens who wish to aid in this crisis are urged to contact
The NATIONAL WHITE AMERICANS PARTY
P. O. BOX 2013
ATLANTA 1, GA.

The Man Who Started It All

The Jew, Karl Marx, founded communism and by so doing has sent the twentieth century into chaos and destruction. Jewish-Communism today rages like a fire out of control and threatens to engulf the entire world. Important to remember is the fact that all top communist spies have been Jews.

ABRAHAM BROTHMAN

DAVID GREENGLASS

HARRY GOLD

ALL TOP COMMUNIST SPIES HAVE BEEN JEWS

Tolerance Propaganda Dulls U.S. Racial Pride

SPECIAL — One of the more pernicious canards utilized by Jewish propagandists to destroy racial pride and self-respect among white Christian Americans is the one which holds that all children are born without racial awareness or "prejudice", and that racial consciousness is an unnatural phenomenon which children learn from their grownups. The argument is intended to prove that racial awareness is an acquired trait, and is therefore artificial.

This theme, with variations and embellishments, finds its way into much of the propaganda disseminated by the National Conference of Christians and Jews as a part of its annual "Brotherhood Week" celebration, and it is fairly safe to say that few propaganda cliches have been repeated with more frequency, or with more fervor, than this particular one.

The controversy over the forceful "integration" of the nation's public schools has added new lustre to this argument, and enthusiasts for race-mixing never tire of pointing out that in schools where children of different races have been "integrated", it is the parents rather than the children who object. "The children", they shrill triumphantly, "get along fine together without distinction as to race or color. It is only the parents who make the trouble."

Relatively few parents take the time or trouble to analyze the shallowness of this sort of reasoning, and the more susceptible they are to the religious or moral approach, the more likely they are to succumb to it. Many church going parents have actually been cowed into a shamed acceptance of racial "integration" after being reminded a few times by Negro-loving ministers and church publications that "the Lord created little children without racial consciousness; it is the grownups who teach them race prejudice, etc."

Cont. Page 4

WHAT NEGROES WANT

SEEK WHITE WOMEN

Contrary to what they claim, the American negro cares very little for equal rights. They possess a terrifying psychological lust for sexual relationship with white women. Urged on by Jewish-Communist revolutionaries who lead them to believe that white women are theirs for the taking, the negro looks for the day when he can go to bed with white women. When their advances toward whites are spurned many become enraged, go berserk and violate their victims with diseased bodies. These animals in human form are not content with rape, their beast like instincts come out and they murder the victim as well. Police records show that negroes murder most of their victims or attempt to do so to escape detection and identification.

The African Congo today is an example of what can happen when blacks are given equality with whites. This same situation can become a reality in America if Jewish-Communist are allowed to continue feeding the primitive desires of the negro. America can soon become a slaughter house filled with half breed mongrels.

New York already fits this description. In this city a mixture of every race on earth exists. Brutal rape and murder is an every day occurence and the negro is the dread of the night.

If white Americans honestly face the racial problem they will arrive

THE RADICAL EXPONENTS of compulsory mongrelization have long boasted that ultimately the race problem will be solved in the

THE DREAM AND GOAL OF THE AMERICAN NEGRO

Jews Behind Negroes

the primitive desires of the negro. America can soon become a slaughter house filled with half breed mongrels.

New York already fits this description. In this city a mixture of every race on earth exists. Brutal rape and murder is an every day occurence and the negro is the dread of the night.

If white Americans honestly face the racial problem they will arrive at the inescapable conclusion that the negro does not belong in America. The negro should be returned to his African homeland where he will cease to hinder the progress of this country, where he is now a ready and willing tool of communist subversion.

NEGRO INSANITY

Jet, an American magazine by and for negroes. makes this admission:—

"A study of mental disease among negroes in New York State, conducted by Dr. Benjamin Malzberg of the State's department of hygiene, showed that, proportionately, negro insane outnumbered whites two to one and their insanity rate is rapidly increasing. It has been estimated that one out of every 200 negroes has been in an asylum, and one out of ten now walking the streets is sufficiently neurotic to require medical care."

THE RADICAL EXPONENTS of compulsory mongrelization have long boasted that ultimately the race problem will be solved in the bedroom. The more effete apostles of interracial amity usually content themselves with the pious hope that the day will soon arrive when the "barriers of racial discrimination" will have been destroyed. But regardless of the semantics, the picture to the left pretty well depicts the end result.

It does not require much investigation to determine that much of the propaganda designed to popularize race-mixing between Negroes and whites is emanating from the Jewish-owned entertainment industry. The studios in Hollywood, which with one or two exceptions are all Jewish controlled, have already turned out a long procession of propaganda films glamourizing Negro "war heroes", sports figures, boxers, baseball players and others. Now the emphasis seems to be shifting toward Negro crooners and musicians, who are currently getting a big play in Hollywood and throughout the entertainment field. The bobby soxer who formerly swooned over a Sinatra or a Perry Como is now more and more switching her adoration to Negroidal idols such as Billy Daniels, Billy Eckstine, Nat King Cole, Harry Bellafonte... At the same time the sex interest of the male public is being directed toward Negresses like Pearl Bailey, Eartha Kitt, Dorothy Dandridge... Take another long look at the above photo for a preview of the inevitable result.

Boy meets girl . . . "bebop" style

Jews Behind Negroes

The NAACP receives a gift of $75,000 from the Philip Murray Memorial Foundation in New York ceremonies. Shown during the presentation, left to right, are Arthur Spingarn, NAACP president; Walter P. Reuther, CIO president, and Roy Wilkins, NAACP administrator.—Campbell Photo.

As the clipping indicates, the C.I.O., under the leadership of the Russian-loving Walter Reuther, recently presented the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) with a $75,000 donation to help with its "educational" fund ("education" for whites, that is; not for Negroes). The $75,000 gift was accepted by NAACP president Arthur Spingarn, the Jew who has headed that trouble-making organization since 1939.

JEWS HAVE ALWAYS LED THE N.A.A.C.P.

THESE ARE THE PRODUCTS OF INTEGRATION...

This girl, on honeymoon with her Negro husband, will make her parents proud someday—with mulatto grandchildren.

These white girls, all of whom have married Negroes, have obviously taken racial "tolerance" seriously—as they were taught to do.

Experience has already shown that there is no such thing as just a little integration. Negroes cannot be integrated in the classroom, but segregated at the school party; they cannot be treated as "equals" in the school lunch room, but as inferiors at the junior prom. It's all or nothing; the line cannot be drawn halfway . . .

These are the products of integration — the inevitable consequence of throwing Negroes and whites into the same schools, churches and social environment. Once integration is achieved on a mass scale, mongrelization on a mass scale can be expected to follow.

INTERRACIAL MARRIAGE

INTERRACIAL FRIENDSHIP

Are Blacks as Good as Whites?

THE blacks say "yes . Those renegade whites who are sponsoring black settlement in our land, and the pollution of our race, say " yes ". The cranks, charlatans, and lying propagandists they have brought forward as "experts" say "yes" too, and have persuaded large numbers of well-meaning but gullible people to say "yes" as well.

But science and common sense emphatically say "no"

Proof of the Pudding

Common sense answers that the proof of the pudding is in the eating, and the real gauge of the black man's ability lies in what he can achieve when left entirely to himself, without the white man's help, and any infusion of the white man's blood. If the black man is as capable as the white man, why did he prove utterly incapable of creating civilization for himself in Africa before the white man arrived on the scene to do the job for him? The race mixers do not face up to this question because it destroys their whole argument.

Here now are some findings of science corroborating and explaining this verdict of common sense.

"MENTALLY INFERIOR"

The Encyclopaedia Britannica has stated:-

" In certain of the characteristics mentioned. . . . the negro would appear to stand on a lower evolutionary plane than the white man, and to be more closely related to the highest anthropoids. The characteristics are length of arm, prognathism (forward projecting jaws), a heavy massive cranium with large zygomatic arches, flat nose depressed at base, etc.

" Mentally the negro is inferior to the white. The remark of F. Manetta, made after a long study of the negro in America, may be taken as generally true of the whole race : 'The negro children were sharp, intelligent and full of vivacity, but on approaching the adult period a gradual change set in. The intellect seemed to become clouded, animation giving place to a sort of lethargy, briskness yielding to

LESS CAPACITY

DR. FRANK C. J. MCGURK, Associate Professor of Psychology at Villanova University, says that psychological tests given to negroes during World War 1 and since have shown them to be inferior to whites in the ability to learn. Factual evidence, he says, completely denies the theory that improving the social and economic status of the negro improves his capacity for education.

MIXTURE MEANS DECLINE

"WHEN WE bring young people of the two races together in intimate social relationship we promote the protoplasmic mixing of the races. This will result, as generations come and go, in the production of an ever increasing proportion of mixed breed people and a lessening of pure strains. In my judgement, one of the consequences will be the deterioration and probably destruction, of the creative genius of our people."

Prof. Wesley Critz George

University of North Carolina.

Tolerance Propaganda

Very few victims of this interracial brainwash ever stop to consider that their children were also created without any perceptible awareness of morality, honesty, cleanliness or, for that matter, good table manners. The very young child, it is true, has no racial prejudice, but then neither does he have any prejudice against dirty or unsanitary objects, either.

It would be well to remember this the next time you encounter the argument that our children are accepting racial "integration" in the schools without protest. The fact that they submit to "integration" without question means nothing—except that they should be taught racial self-respect along with the rest of their education . . .

Food For Thought

A Paris correspondent states that the President of the newly independent country of gabon in Africa, one Leon M'Ba, has served four years in prison for eating his mother-in-law. The correspondent also said that a member of the French Senate, Biaka Boda, representing another African country, was eaten by his constituents because he refused to supply a babyfrom his family for the annual ritual feast.

NEGRO THREATENS BLOOD BATH

A North Carolina negro leader of the N.A.A.C.P. has threatened to give the people of Monroe, N. C. a blood bath if his house is attacked. Robert F. Williams, communist loving friend of Red dictator Fidel Castro is hoarding arms in preparation for the coming "blood bath". A North Carolina state senator said "Williams openly admits what other negroes are afraid to say". Williams has made two trips recently to communist controlled Cuba.

Mongrel Born to Sammy Davis, Jr. VD Tests Given

Pictured above, Sammy Davis and his White bride, Mai Britt, known for her perverted ways.

Sammy Davis, Jr. and his white wife Mai Britt now have a mongrel baby. "This is the ideal American of the future" says Davis who is a convert to the Jewish faith.

Hospital records showed the baby was given tests for several types of veneral diseases. A hospital spokesman later questioned said it was "just to make sure".

It is common knowledge among doctors that negroes have the highest rate of inherent syphilis known. The dread "sickle shape" blood anemia is also highest among negroes.

President Kennedy's brother-in-law, Peter Lawford is known to be intimate with Davis who includes among his friends many notorious Hollywood communists.

KING MAYOR IN 65

It has been reported that Martin Luther King, Jr. with the support of Atlanta Newspapers Inc. and Atlanta Jewish and negro organizations will run for mayor of Atlanta in 1965. It is said he was promised the position if Atlanta is successfully integrated this fall. Atlanta Newspapers Inc. with the combined negro and Jewish bloc vote has elected radical race mixer William B. Hartsfield mayor of Atlanta for over 20 years.

Negro Population Growing

The population of negroes in the United States has grown by four million in the last ten years and is expected to increase by seven million in the next ten years. An official in Washington said this presented one of the gravest dangers yet to American securtiy.

The chart to the right shows the comparative crime rates of Negroes and whites on a per capita basis. The chart is based on statistics taken from the FBI "Uniform Crime Report for 1949".

As the chart indicates, the per capita crime rate base, etc.

"Mentally the negro is inferior to the white. The remark of F. Manetta, made after a long study of the negro in America, may be taken as generally true of the whole race: 'The negro children were sharp, intelligent and full of vivacity, but on approaching the adult period a gradual change set in. The intellect seemed to become clouded, animation giving place to a sort of lethargy, briskness yielding to indolence. We must necessarily suppose that the development of the negro and white proceeds on different lines. While with the latter the volume of the brain grows with the expansion of the brainpan, in the former the growth of the brain is on the contrary arrested by the premature closing of the cranial sutures and lateral pressure on the frontal bone.'....

"On the other hand negroes far surpass white men in acuteness of vision, hearing, sense of direction and topography. A native who has once visited a particular locality will rarely fail to recognize it again. For the rest, the mental constitution of the negro is similar to that of a child, normally good-natured and cheerful, but subject to sudden fits of emotion and passion during which he is capable of performing acts of singular atrocity, impressionable, vain, but often exhibiting in the capacity of a servant a dog-like fidelity which has stood the supreme test.'

"The recognized leaders of the race (in America) are almost invariably persons of mixed blood, and the qualities which have made them leaders are derived certainly in part and perhaps mainly from their white ancestry."

NEGRO BRAIN SMALLER

The sutures of the negro's skull close quite early in life, preventing the further expansion of the brain, whereas the sutures in a white man do not close until late in life. It is estimated that the sutures in the skull of an anthropoid ape are obliterated at the age of twelve, in a negro when he is twenty, and in a white man when he is forty.

Measurements made by various anatomists over a 100-year period all show that the negroes have fewer and smaller brains than the whites. Burmeister found the average negro brain ten ounces lighter than the average European brain.

More Like Apes

"The difference in weight of brain between the highest and lowest of men or between the white and the negro is far greater, both relatively and absolutely, than between the negro and the highest ape."

Prof. Huxley in Man's Place in Nature.

of the races. This will result, as generations come and go, in the production of an ever increasing proportion of mixed breed people and a lessening of pure strains. In my judgement, one of the consequences will be the deterioration and probably destruction, of the creative genius of our people."

Prof. Wesley Critz George

University of North Carolina.

Kennedy Frees Red

Communist leader Henry Winston pledged Wednesday to continue party activity despite blindness and the possibility of being sent back to prison. He was released from Federal custody recently by White House direction.

It is difficult enough to arrest and convict communists today but it is almost useless to do so when the President frees them so they can continue subverting the U. S. government.

the people of Monroe, N. C. a blood bath if his house is attacked. Robert F. Williams, communist loving friend of Red dictator Fidel Castro is hoarding arms in preparation for the coming "blood bath". A North Carolina state senator said "Williams openly admits what other negroes are afraid to say". Williams has made two trips recently to communist controlled Cuba.

this fall. Atlanta Newspapers Inc. with the combined negro and Jewish bloc vote has elected radical race mixer William B. Hartsfield mayor of Atlanta for over 20 years.

expected to increase by seven million in the next ten years. An official in Washington said this presented one of the gravest dangers yet to American securtiy.

NEGROES LEAD IN CRIME

Ten per cent of the total population of the U.S.A. is negro, yet a recent crime report on 1,389 cities issued by the Federal Bureau of Investigation revealed an immensely higher proportion of negroes arrested.

- 63% arrested for murder were negroes.
- 63% arrested for dope violations were negroes.
- 63% arrested for aggravated assaults were negroes.
- 62% arrested for prostitution were negroes.
- 55% arrested for possession of deadly weapons were negroes.
- 53% arrested for robbery were negroes.

More negroes mean more crime.

The chart to the right shows the comparative crime rates of Negroes and whites on a per capita basis. The chart is based on statistics taken from the FBI "Uniform Crime Report for 1949".

As the chart indicates, the per capita crime rate is vastly greater for Negroes than for whites. The incidence of rape, for example, is 400% higher among Negroes than whites. For murder the figure is 750%. Other crimes yield a similar ratio.

While the bleeding-heart set readily acknowledge these facts to be true, they are quick to point out that the high Negro crime rate is attributable to the depressed living standards of Negroes. According to this line of reasoning, the Negro crime rate is merely a reflection of inferior economic opportunity.

This is not a very good argument, however, because statistics show crime to be far more prevalent among Negroes in the North and West (where they enjoy relatively high standards of living)—than it is in the South. In other words, a higher living standard does not decrease Negro crime; rather it increases it.

FREE
one full year

If you send $3.00 for the first year now, you will receive one additional year free of charge. This offer limited to our first edition. Subscribe Now Fill in your name and address below.

YOUR NAME

ADDRESS

CITY ZONE STATE

Applications for membership sent upon request

Keep America White

SUBSCRIBE TO THE White American

Official Organ of the

NATIONAL WHITE AMERICANS PARTY

P. O. Box 2013 Atlanta 1, Georgia

ROBERT A BOWLING

EDITOR

Phone Tr. 2-9064

The White American

FBI exposed

SEE PAGE 3

Issue Number 2

1961

RACE WAR PREDICTED

Negroes Arming

Whites Vow to Take No More

STRUGGLE TO TAKE ON MANY FORMS

As the Kennedy administration nears the end of it's first year alarming reports them out. Opposition to the dictatorial policies of the federal government is stiffening as never before. Despite the protests of White Americans who elected them

STRUGGLE TO TAKE ON MANY FORMS

As the Kennedy administration nears the end of it's first year alarming reports of race wars are becoming more and more frequent. Facts are bearing out these reports however, as the case of one N. A. A. C. P. leader will show. A Negro; Robert F. Williams of Monroe, North Carolina is State president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Williams is now being hunted by police after he kidnapped a White woman and later shot it out with police. He earlier had threatened to give the city of Monroe a "blood bath".

In Negaunee, Michigan 250 black airmen from a nearby airbase literally invaded the city streets because some Negroes claimed they had been harassed by Whites in cars. Some Whites and Negroes were arrested after local police were forced to call in state troopers. This is evidence of the groing boldness of the American Negro pouplation and is but one case in many thousands like it throughout the country

The bus riots in Montgomery, Anniston and Birmingham caused by the Communist "freedom riders" verged on the brink of civil war as relations betewee n the state of Alabama and the federal government deteriorated. President Kennedy and his brother Robert F. Kennedy, it was learned, backed the so called "freedom riders".

WILL IT HAPPEN AGAIN
The two Negroes shown above were captured and executed by White vigilantes for the rape and murder of a teen age White girl.

The "Wade In's" in a northern city like Chicago where thousands took part in riots recently, is evidence that clearly shows race war is becoming a national problem not just a southern one.

Since the 1954 Supreme Court decision, dealers in firearms throughout the nation report a tremendous increase in the purchase of firearms by Negroes. In order to protect themselves it is necessary that every White man arm himself. Many have already done so. As incidents become more frequent and both races continue to arm the outcome can only be race war.

Negroes led by fanatical Jewish Communist agitators demand that we surrender our nation, our traditions and our White women to them The old adage of "give a nigger an inch and he'll take a mile" is being proved daily. Meetings and organizations of segregationist groups are More numerous than at any time in the past thirty years A new train of thought today reveals the JEW as one of the major causes of race mixing and world strife. Whites throughout the North and South have vowed to resist any and all attempts of the national or local government at race mixing

New political parties have been formed and people are beginning to realize that the politicians of the two major political parties have sold them out. Opposition to the dictatorial policies of the federal government is stiffening as never before. Despite the protests of White Americans who elected them to office the politicians continue to do the bidding of both Negro and communist Jewish pressure groups. This situation has shown the people they must seek a remedy outside the Democratic and Republican parties.

On the horizon the day is not far distant when we shall be called upon once more to sacrifice all to save all--OUR NATION OUR RELIGION and OUR WHITE RACE. The lines have been drawn. The conflict is upon us. Patriot or traitor there is no middle ground.

Negroes shown in picture (above) were among 600 rioting blacks who attacked Newark, N. J. police station after police were called to quell disturbance at school.

Mayor Sued

MILLION DOLLAR SUITS PENDING IN INTEGRATION ARRESTS

Forced integration came to Atlanta Aug. 30th, 1961 with all the trappings of a communist style, Castro type dictatorship to go with it. Even though the White citizens of Atlanta wished to maintain their traditional educational system of segregated schools the radicals and extremists of the communist front such as Red Ralph McGill were able to integrate four city schools by the use of police state methods. Citizens and laws alike were trampled underfoot as the Jewish-Communist plan of racemixing was put into effect. It was in this way Atlanta schools began the transition to decay.

The first day of school five teen age youths were arrested for standing on the streets near the schools. When one mother asked the citys grimy police judge what law her son had broken he replied "none, we were afraid he might do something". One youth claimed he was assaulted by police Capt. R. E. Little who he said jabbed him in the stomach with three fingers searched him and then hit him in the stomach. A warrant for the

At a hearing, held later, Little claimed he was not present where the alleged assault took place. Even though the charge was dismissed other legal action is being taken in the matter, it was reported. The youths were tried in less than an hour without benefit of legal counsel and given sentences ranging from 30 to 60 days in the city stockade.

One parent said "we have learned that in Atlanta to be a patriot is a crime". A Habeas Corpus hearing was set by the boys lawyers, and Hartsfield, afraid lest the truth be made public, decided to release the boys. But the outraged parents and public have not been satisfied. Suits totaling over a million dollars are now pending against Mayor Hartsfield, Chief Jenkins and Capt. Little.

Little Lurks

Capt. R. E. Little lurks behind bushes(above) as he spies on White segregationists. Only moments later he assaulted White youth. Little was named in million dollar suit against Mayor Hartsfield and Chief Jenkins.

UN Communist Ruled

JEW-NEGRO BLOC IN CONTROL

ing". One youth claimed he was assaulted by police Capt. R. E. Little who he said jabbed him in the stomach with three fingers searched him and then hit him in the stomach. A warrant for the arrest of Little was issued and he posted a $300.00 bond.

JEW SUCCEEDS MARSHALL

Jack Greenberg, Communist Jew, and longtime N. A. A. C. P. attorney will replace Thurgood Marshall as it's chief legal adviser. Red loving President Kennedy recently appointed Marshall to a federal judgeship in pursuance of his "New Frontier" policy of placing the federal judiciary in the hands of negro and Jewish radicals Greenbergs appointment was no surprise. The N. A. A. C. P. was founded by communist Jews. It's present head is the Jew, Arthur Spingarn Nearly half it's life members are Jews. Without Jewish money and backing the N.A.A.C.P. could not exist.

"Re-educating" the Germans

At Bamberg, Germany, a 15 year old German school girl has been attacked by 7 American negro soldiers and raped by all of them. This is just one of the continual stream of cases of assault and rape by blacks stationed in the country. There are now reported to be thousands of half-breed children in Germany.

JEW-NEGRO BLOC IN CONTROL

UNITED NATIONS FLAG

RUSSIAN ARMS BANNER

UN SYMBOL LIKE UN POLICY IS SAME AS COMMUNISTS.

Communists plan take over in South American countries as next move to to gain U. N. seats.

Jewish-Communists in Moscow and other world capitals such as New York now believe they may at last be taking the final steps to achieve world control as they split the African continent into seperate nations populated by easily ruled blacks led by Red bosses. The United Nations has helped to make their dreams of conquest become a reality at the expense of White Western Civilization. The Belgian Congo in Africa has been the latest victim of combined U. N. communist agression. The murder and rape of thousands of Whites in the Congo is an example of what the black mind considers freedom to be. The communists believe they can eventually gain control of the world through the U. N. by localizing their conquests thereby averting a large scale war which they could not win.

As communists split African colonies more blacks gain seats. Majority of UN is now red.

Communist blueprint for control of United Nations is being fulfilled as blacks pack U. N. seats.
Upper Volta, newly created African nation, is about the size of Colorado, but has one vote in General Assembly-same as United States. Pouplation of Upper Volta is only four million. U. N. usurped power in Congo. Using same methods Jewish-Communists and blacks can also dictate and influence American policy at home and abroad. One of few things holding back U. N. from complete world take over is lack of money. United States now pays most of expenses.

F.B.I.– CITY POLICE CHARGED IN ASSAULTS

Violate Laws to Enforce Race Mixing

SURPRISED AGENTS
These thugs are typical of what the FBI now has on it's payroll.

HARD WORKER
FBI agent sits in car and thumbs nose.

BASHFUL BEAUTIES
Driver of F.B.I. car hides face with fan. Later other agent also produced fan.

The arrival of carloads of FBI agents in Atlanta two weeks prior to the date set for race mixing in Atlanta's schools went unoticed by the average citizen. Segregationist patriots however, members of the National stopped his car at the intersection of Linden and Courtland streets to photograph the car directly behind him. The FBI agent driving the car, aroused, lest a photo of his moronic face appear in print and evidently habor-

JEW BURNS SYNAGOGUE

FBI agents in Atlanta two weeks prior to the date set for race mixing in Atlanta's schools went unoticed by the average citizen. Segregationist patriots however, members of the National White Americans Party, N. S.R.P., Klan groups and others were the prime targets of these "shock troops of integration". Those who awakened to find FBI men stationed outside their homes and who had never before seen these untouchables were in for a surprise. Instead of the faces of honest White police officers the spectacle of swarthy Jews and mongrel faced criminal types peeped from car windows and from behind bushes. Once a fine law enforcement agency dedicated to our nations welfare, these agents were visual proof of a purge in the FBI ranks in which agents loyal to American principals have been replaced by radical Jews and racial degenerates instilled with the communist doctrine. Members of the National White Americans Party decided to photograph these "gestapo" just for the record Learning that their pictures were being taken these deciples of race mixing gave vent to their frustration by cursing and making obscene gestures.

An example of Kennedy's "New Frontier" in action was an assault by FBI agents on the editor of the "White American". Perceiving his car being followed by five cars of FBI goons the editor stopped his car at the intersection of Linden and Courtland streets to photograph the car directly behind him. The FBI agent driving the car, aroused, lest a photo of his moronic face appear in print and evidently haboring a guilt complex in his feeble brain, leaped from the car and wrestled the camera from the editors grasp. The camera was regained by the editor after a brief struggle but not until it's film content had been stolen by the agent who fled after seeing that his actions were being photographed by one of the editors associates. This is a police state in action. The National White Americans Party urges an investigation of the FBI by Congress before these startling un-American incidents are repeated. If it's terror tactics are not curbed the FBI is well on it's way to becoming a secret police agency equaled only by the Russian N.K.V.D.

NEGRO KILLS TEACHER

Chicago, Ill.

A 14 year old negro fifth grader was convicted of fatally stabbing a White school teacher and a jury set the sentence of Lee Arthur Hester at 55 years in prison The teacher Mrs. Josephine Keane, 45, and mother of six children was raped and murdered in the storeroom of the Lewis-Champlin School. A coroners examination showed she had been sexually molested and stabbed seven times.

JEW BURNS SYNAGOGUE

ATLANTA TEMPLE CASE CITED

A 19 year old Jewish college student has confessed to police that he set three fires that caused and estimated $150,000 damage to a Baptist church and a synagogue. Police Capt. John Kistner said that Richard Friedman of Chicago, the son of a Jewish liquor dealer gave no reason for setting the three fires during a two week period. Friedman told police he used "matches, rags and whatever I could find" to set the fires at Agudath Achim Synagogue and two earlier fires at Calvary Baptist Church a few blocks away. Police said they could find no previous record on Friedman who is a student at Lincoln College, Lincoln, Ill.

For some time evidence has pointed to the Jews bombing their own temples etc. This has been done to gain public sympathy, enrich themselves by collecting insurance money and at the same time destroy their political enemies by blaming them with the crime. The 1958 Bright temple bombing trial demonstrated a vicious attempt on the part of the Jews, the Atlanta Police and the F.B.I. to frame innocent patriots. The purpoted Israel plan to blow up the American Embassy in an Arab capital is similar. The trick of course was for the Jews to blow up the American Embassy in an Arab city and then make it appear that the Arabs had done it, necessitating that we Americans go to war against the Arabs. The facts speak for themselves. It is the same story the world over. The Jewish communists are up to their old tricks. In the U.S.A. the FBI seem to be giving them aid. But the public is awakening and Mr. Khrushchev (who is married to a Jewess) as well as Mr. J. Edgar Hoover will find an informed American public that refuses to be tricked again.

TOP U.S. RED IS JEW

Jews take the lead in Communist activities in the U.S.A. reports show. Today, the leader of the Communist Party in America is Arvo Mike Halberg alias Gus Hall Halberg is Jewish. Before he became leader, the position was held by Gerhard Eisler, who is also Jewish

A CALL TO ARMS!

N.W.A.P. Organizes for Victory

White youth read party paper, "The White American"

Today, with communism 90 miles from our shores in Cuba, with Soviet Russia controlling nearly half the globe, with our tax dollars being used to feed and arm our enemies, and bayonets being used on White citizens to force them to mix with blacks, it is becoming evident to all White Americans that something is drastically wrong with the leadership of

OFFICIAL PLATFORM

of the
NATIONAL WHITE AMERICANS PARTY

The National White Americans Party was organized for the purpose of preserving constitutional government, defeating the communist conspiracy and restoring the reigns and control of government, of this republic, national, state and local, to the White Race which gave it birth. The government of this republic was established by White Men, for White Men alone and it was never the intention of it's founders that it should fall into the hands of COMMUNIST JEWS and AFRICAN BLACKS as history must record the last five decades of it's existence. In order to accomplish these objectives upon which the continued evolution and progress of White civilization depends, the party has adopted the following program.

RACIAL POLICY

I. Preservation of White racial purity. 2. Racial seperation. 3. Admittance of pure White immigrants only. 4. Passage of a federal law prohibiting intermarrige of diverse races. 5. Restoration of segregation in the armed forces. 6. Provide federal funds for the voluntary resettlement of Negroes in Africa.

ECONOMIC POLICY

I. Steady employment of all citizens to be attained by the resettlement of non-whites in Africa. 2. Drastic reduction of federal income taxes made possible by the immediate halting of "giveaway" loans. 3. Cancellation

DOMESTIC POLICY

I. A return to constitutional government. 2. Preservation of states rights as guaranteed by the U. S. Constitution. 3. Nullification of unconstitutional decrees of the U. S. Supreme Court. 4. Preservation of U. S. sovereignty as opposed to world government 5. A constitutional amendment so that the supreme court is elected by the people or appointed by congress with all regions of the U. S. represented by it's members. 6. The passage of a constitutional amendment revoking the citizenship of all those who pledge allegiance to a foriegn government. 7. A cultutural rebirth being used to feed and arm our enemies, and bayonets being used on White citizens to force them to mix with blacks, it is becoming evident to all White Americans that something is drastically wrong with the leadership of our national government and the Democratic and Republican parties which have allowed and encouraged these things to happen. The last and only hope for our nation and race is a new political party. The National White Americans Party is dedicated to the fulfillment of the platform set forth on this page. With your help and support we can nominate and elect our candidates to public office, defeat the communist conspiracy and insure a progressive and prosperous White America for future generations. Enlist in the growing ranks of the National White Americans Party. Join in the fight to make America White.

Party members march in front of Atlanta City Hall

ECONOMIC POLICY

I. Steady employment of all citizens to be attained by the resettlement of non-whites in Africa. 2. Drastic reduction of federal income taxes made possible by the immediate halting of "giveaway" loans. 3. Cancellation of the national debt. 4. Demand for payment of all long standing debts due U.S. government.

FORIEGN POLICY

The adoption of a program of positive action against world communism including:

2. The immediate end of all diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia and her puppet states. 3. The use of force if necessary to restore self government to those nations now ruled directly or indirectly by Soviet Russia and Support of counter revolution in Russia and her slave states. 5. The halting of all foriegn aid to communist countries such as Yugoslavia, Poland etc. These nations would suffer an economic collapse without the aid which they are now receiveing from our country. 6. A naval blocade of communist Cuba. 7. The threat of economic boycott against England, France or any other nation that persists in trading with the communist bloc. 8. The enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine to stop the communist takeover of South America. 9. Total rearmament of West Germany as a bloc in Europe to prevent communist encroachment. I0. No more useless treaties, conferences or agreements with communists who would break them at any time it was to their advantage.

the people or appointed by congress with all regions of the U.S. represented by it's members. 6. The passage of a constitutional amendment revoking the citizenship of all those who pledge allegiance to a foriegn government. 7. A cultutural rebirth through racial purification.

SUBSCRIBE TO THE White American

WRITE P.O. BOX2013
Atlanta I, Ga.
OR CALL IN YOUR SUBSCRIPTION
PHONE TR. 2-9064

In the coming months the White American will bring you news that only a fearless publication dares to offer. Subscribe now. Don't miss the next issue. One year and a half for only $3.00

YOUR NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ ZONE _____ STATE _____

SPECIAL BOOK OFFER
TWO SHOCKING WORKS
BOTH for only $I.00

"FRANKFURTERS RED RECORD" This tells how the Jewish Supreme Court Justice aids communism. and "KNOW YOUR ENEMY" expose of Jewish-Communism by a former counter intelligence officer.

The White American is the official organ of the National White Americans Party.

ROBERT A. BOWLING
EDITOR

ICKRICK SAYS

t true that all "white" and "colred" signs were removed from City Hall rest rooms two weeks ago? Why? Who is it that is colored and ashamed to use a "colored" rest room or white and ashamed to use a "white" rest room? Are there those in Atlanta who are so ashamed of their racial identity that they would try to hide it by using rest rooms belonging to others? Or, are they being mixed for the cause of politics?

LESTER MADDOX

I UNDERSTAND

the Atlanta Police Committee will decide Wednesday night as to whether Negro police will arrest white people. In my opinion, the answer will be NO if they vote like they feel is right, and YES if politics must come ahead of what is best for Atlanta.

MEETING AND EATING AT THE PICKRICK THIS WEEK

Monday Evening, Feb. 5	AMERICAN WELDING SOCIETY
Tuesday Evening, Feb. 6	HEMPHILL CHURCH OF GOD
Thursday Evening, Feb. 8	SOUTHERN BELL-MID-TOWN DISTRICT PLANT
Saturday Noon Feb. 10	SIXTY-FIVE CLUB
Feb. 10 Noon	CHRISTIAN BUSINESSMEN
Saturday Evening, Feb. 10	GRANT PARK LODGE

CALL TR. 4-9344, TR. 6-0449
FOR BANQUET ACCOMMODATIONS

THE FOLLOWING

quotation is from the Congressional Record of June 7, 1957 and a photostatic copy is on display at the Pickrick. According to the Congressional Record, the statement comes from the book: "A Racial Program For the 20th Century," by Israel Cohen, reported as a "leading English Communist."

"We must realize that our party's most forceful weapon is racial tension. By propounding into the consciousness of the dark races that for centuries they have been oppressed by the white, we can mold them to the program of the Communist party. In America, we will aim for subtle victory. While inflaming the negro minority against the whites, we will endeavor to instill in the whites a guilt complex for their exploitation of the negroes. We will aid the negroes to rise in prominence in every walk of life, in the professions and in the world of sports and entertainment. With this prestige the negro will be able to intermarry with the whites and begin a process which will deliver America to our cause."

Are you helping (through advocating racial integration) the Communists to destroy America and the white and negro civilizations of America?

WE SURE HAD

a wonderful business last week-end. Folks figured that if the world really was coming to an end they would like to enjoy one more good meal at the Pickrick.

SPECIAL TONIGHT

ORDER OF PICKRICK SKILLET-FRIED 25c

ATLANTA JOURNAL 2-10-62

WE SURE HAD

a wonderful business last week-end. Folks figured that if the world really was coming to an end they would like to enjoy one more good meal at the Pickrick.

SPECIAL TONIGHT

ORDER OF PICKRICK SKILLET-FRIED CHICKEN

25c

Drumstick and thigh served right from the skillet! (No carry-out orders at this special price.)

SILLY OR SLANTED?

Look at this front page headline that appeared in the Atlanta Constitution on Friday, February 2, 1962.

"193 MILLION PROGRAM TO END POVERTY IN U.S. IS OFFERED BY PRESIDENT"

Now, friends, with about 7,400,000 people on welfare, the $193,000,000 will increase their take about $26 each. My question—How can you remove poverty from America at $26 per person? Why, this amount would not supply the heavy smokers with cigarettes for a month, nor the heavy drinkers with liquor for a week-end, much less remove them from poverty. What some folks don't seem to understand is that many people don't want to get out of poverty. Let us help all who need assistance and can't help themselves, but it is crazy to suggest we can win over Communism by aping it. The more we cause our people to depend on government, the more our freedom is lost.

JESUS SAID

"For ye have the poor always with you . . ." and the vote seekers of Washington are saying: "It ain't so." And the Bible instructs that we take from the man who will not use his talents and give it to the man who will. Washington says: "No, take from the man who will use his talents and give to the one who will not use his talents."

OUR SUNDAY MENU

ROAST YOUNG TURKEY WITH DRESSING, GIBLET GRAVY AND CRANBERRY SAUCE ....55¢
BREADED VEAL CUTLET, CREOLE SAUCE .....50¢
BARBECUED CHICKEN .....50¢
ROAST ROUND OF BEEF, AU JUS .....65¢
PICKRICK MEAT LOAF, CREOLE SAUCE .....50¢
FRIED FILLET OF HADDOCK .....50¢
SKILLET-FRIED CHICKEN .....50¢

FREE PARKING

THE pickrick

891 HEMPHILL AVE.
LUCKIE ST. [illegible] BLOCKS N. OF GA. TECH

SOUTHEASTERN REGIONAL OFFICE

ANTI-DEFAMATION LEAGUE

Of B'nai B'rith

41 EXCHANGE PLACE, S.E., ATLANTA 3, GEORGIA

9M 31612

REGIONAL BOARD

SIMON S. WEIL, Nashville
Chairman

JAC H. ROTHSCHILD, Columbus
Vice-Chairman

ABE GOLDSTEIN, Atlanta
Honorary Chairman

LEO BEARMAN, Memphis
BEN J. MASSELL, Atlanta
DONALD OBERDORFER, Atlanta
DR. WILLIAM A. WEXLER, Savannah
Honorary Vice-Chairmen

MORRIS B. ABRAM, Atlanta
FRANK BERMAN, Savannah
WILLIAM BREMAN, Atlanta
JACK BRICKMAN, Charleston
HARRY ELSON, Atlanta
DR. IRVING GOLDSTEIN, Atlanta
DR. SOL NEIDICH, Beaufort
MAYER U. NEWFIELD, Birmingham
MELVIN STEIN, Mobile
MORRIS L. STRAUCH, Memphis
MRS. HARRY STRAUSS, Knoxville
DR. ALFRED A. WEINSTEIN, Atlanta
MRS. I. WILEN, Atlanta
Executive Committee

ARTHUR J. LEVIN
Director

ABE GOLDSTEIN, Atlanta
MAYER U. NEWFIELD, Birmingham
MORRIS STRAUCH, Memphis
MRS. HARRY STRAUSS, Knoxville
Commissioners, Southeastern Area

NATIONAL COMMISSION

HENRY EDWARD SCHULTZ
Chairman

MEIER STEINBRINK
Honorary Chairman

BARNEY BALABAN
A. G. BALLENGER
JACOB K. JAVITS
PHILIP M. KLUTZNICK
HERBERT H. LEHMAN
LEON LOWENSTEIN
WILLIAM SACHS
BENJAMIN SAMUELS
DORE SCHARY
MELVIN H. SCHLESINGER
JESSE STEINHART
Honorary Vice-Chairmen

ABE GOLDSTEIN
HAROLD LACHMAN
DAVID A. ROSE
Vice-Chairmen

BENJAMIN GREENBERG
Treasurer

HERBERT LEVY
Secretary

BENJAMIN R. EPSTEIN
National Director

PAUL H. SAMPLINER
Chairman, Executive Committee

JOSEPH COHEN
Vice-Chairman, Executive Committee

•

LABEL A. KATZ
President, B'nai B'rith

MAURICE BISGYER
Executive Vice-President, B'nai B'rith

STAFF DIRECTORS

NATHAN C. BELTH
Public Relations

OSCAR COHEN
Program

ALEXANDER F. MILLER
Community Service

J. HAROLD SAKS
Administration

LESTER J. WALDMAN
Organization and Planning

•

ARNOLD FORSTER
General Counsel

PERSONAL February 13, 1962

Mr. Pat Watters
Atlanta Journal
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Pat:

As you undoubtedly know, Lester Maddox has run the "Israel Cohen" item in his advertisement, as per the attached, three times.

On the first occasion, an individual wrote to him, with substantiating documentation, pointing out the spuriousness of this hoax. Maddox responded by rerunning the item, and he has now repeated it a third time. It has caused a great deal of anger in the community not only at Maddox, but also at the Atlanta Journal for carrying such ads.

While the content of your newspaper, including ads, is your own business which I would not presume to question, I do believe that the Journal does have a responsibility to correct false information. I am therefore attaching documentation proving that the "Israel Cohen" quotation is a hoax, with the suggestion that you may want to carry it as a news item or a feature. You may quote me as the source of the information if you wish to do so.

Since Maddox has given such widespread currency in your newspaper to this hoax, further publicity will not serve to spread the canard but rather to refute it, on which I would very much appreciate your help.

Warmest personal regards.

Sincerely,

AJL

Arthur J. Levin

ajl/tg

Avoid Union With Whites, Muslims Told

CHICAGO, Feb. 26 (UPI)—Elijah Muhammed, leader of the black Muslims, told thousands of his Negro followers Sunday that efforts at integration were made to deceive them.

"I'm teaching separation of the races," he said, "because God has chosen us, He's asking us to leave the white man."

Muhammed said "it is nothing but decency for a race to keep to itself. It is ignorant for you and I to want to assimilate ourselves into the white race."

The statement drew vigorous applause from the audience, including George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi Party, and several of this self-styled "storm troopers."

Following Muhammed's speech, Rockwell addressed the assembly and called Muhammed "The Adolf Hitler of the black man."

"Elijah Muhammed is a leader who is trying what I am trying to do," Rockwell said. "I believe Elijah Muhammed will solve the race problem."

* * *

ROCKWELL attacked the Congress of Racial Equality and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, asking, "Do black people have to go and get Jews to lead them? Just as Elijah Muhammed is leading the field slaves we are leading the common people, who are with us."

Rockwell, who also lashed out at the "hypocrites who are leading this country, the beatniks in Washington," said he understood Negro problems because he had been in prison and in a mental institution.

2/26/62 Sun

ATLANTA BILTMORE HOTEL INTEGRATES

SPEND YOUR DOLLARS WITH THE BILTMORE AND HELP SPREAD RACE MIXING

6 The Atlanta Journal Tuesday, March 27, 1962

Lillian Smith, Georgia Writer, To Be Honored

Lillian Smith, Clayton, Ga., novelist and writer on human relations, will be honor guest at an autograph tea Saturday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Miss Smith will sign copies of her new and revised "Killers of the Dream," published by W. W. Norton and Co.

The public is invited to this tribute to Miss Smith.

Hostesses will include Mrs. Ted Fisher, Mrs. Charles Perkins, Mrs. Sam Massell Jr., Mrs. Mrs. Thomas L. Brogden, Mrs. Samuel DuBois Cook, Mrs. John B. Pendergrast, Mrs. Rufus E. Clement, Mrs. Ed Albright, Mrs. Jake Harris, Mrs. Charles Demere, Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., Mrs. Clifton Hoffman, Mrs. Joseph Masuk, Mrs. John Youngblutt, Mrs. Paul Groves, Mrs. James K. Fancher Jr., Miss Marge Manderson, Mrs. W. C. Thomas, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, Mrs. G. Ray Mitchell, Mrs. P. C. Yancey, and Miss Helen Bullard.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

BILLIONAIRES CAN'T PAY— TAX GOT 'EM

AUGUSTA, Maine, March 27 (UPI) — The "Billionaires," a team in the local men's basketball league, was disqualifed from postseason playoffs because members couldn't raise the entry fee.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

* Also Served Atlanta Lawyers' Club Banquet and Republican Fund Raising Banquet—Both Integrated.

Mrs. Martin Luther King; Mayor Allen's Executive Secretary, Miss Helen Bullard; Mrs. Sam Massell, Jr., wife of Sam Massell, Jr., President of Atlanta's Aldermanic Board; Mrs. Rufus Clement, wife of Dr. Rufus Clement, Negro member of Atlanta Board of Education; and numerous other White and Negro women are hostesses at this autograph tea for the South shaming extreme leftwinger, LILLIAN SMITH.

MIXED TEA IN PROGRESS NOW

SPEND YOUR DOLLARS AT THE ATLANTA BILTMORE

AND IT WILL HELP TO SPEED INTEGRATION OF YOUR CHILDREN, GRANDCHILDREN AND THE DESTRUCTION OF THE WHITE CIVILIZATION.

1962

MOPSY

Fulton Asked To Charter Special Group

A nonprofit corporation to expose "communism, Marxism, mongrelism, and nihilism" and to "force adherence to the state rights of each sovereign state" has been chartered in Fulton County.

The charter for the "Defensive Legion of Registered Americans, Inc.," which is on file at the secretary of state's office at the State Capitol, also says the incorporators want the power necessary to carry out their purposes.

What this last means was not spelled out in the petition for charter, which was filed by James Venable, an attorney whose name has often been connected with the Ku Klux Klan's legal life.

But Secretary of State Ben Fortson tended to scoff at the idea that the organization would get any special powers. "Those folks will be limited by the corporation law and the other state laws, just like anybody else."

nected with the Ku Klux Klan's legal life.

But Secretary of State Ben Fortson tended to scoff at the idea that the organization would get any special powers. "Those folks will be limited by the corporation law and the other state laws, just like anybody else," he said.

* * *

THE CHARTER lists these as the petitioners:

Stewart R. Gullion, 1251 Lynwyn Lane, SE, Atlanta; C. J. Bullard, Gordon Avenue, Stone Mountain, and Mrs. W. M. Smith, Rte. 2, Stockbridge. (The Atlanta City Directory lists a Stuart Gullion at the Lynwyn Lane address.)

The charter was signed April 10 by Judge Stonewall Dyer of Fulton Superior Court. The life of the corporation was set at 35 years.

The incorporation papers ask that the Defensive Legion be accorded the tax exemptions which are granted to other nonprofit organizations, and they give these purposes and aims of the group:

". . . To work for the good of the people of the United States and to help educate the said people of the United States concerning the preservation of the United States Constitution; also the preservation of the question of the Holy Writ of the various religious denominations; to uphold the Constitution of the United States, and to guard against its perversion by officeholders and others; to uphold the American economic system of free enterprise; to oppose communism, marxism, mongrelism, and nihilism in all their many forms; to uphold the sovereignties of the 50 states in their respective spheres; to help in the election of public officials who believe in the principle of abiding strictly by the Constitution of the United States, and the constitutions of the 50 states of the Union of the United States; to educate the people of the United States as to the wisdom and righteousness of the traditional way of life our forefathers adopted; to force adherence to the state rights of each sovereign state in the union. . . ."

* * *

NIHILISM is the belief that traditional values are useless.

"To achieve these purposes," states the charter, the group wants to adopt a constitution and bylaws; publish papers, recordings, and motion pictures, solicit for funds, and "to have any and all such other and further powers as may be necessary to carry out these purposes and objects mentioned herein. . . ."

Morgan Junior High School

Mrs. Anita Carter, 6th Grade
Mrs. Ada Clements, Soc. St.

CALHOUN COUNTY SYSTEM
MORGAN, GEORGIA
JAMES B. CLEGG, Principal

Mrs. Mildred Davis, Ass't Prin.
Math - Science
Mrs. Ruth Gleaton, English

April 1, 1963

Mr. Pat Watters
The Atlanta Journal
Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. Watters:

May I comment on your question, " Why is there not more moral resistance to Mississippi evil?", appearing in yesterday's edition?

One wonders why you ask such a question or even bother to write on the subject. Are you, McGill, and Patterson losing your feeble minds over this racial business? Are the decent, intelligent white people driving you batty because they refuse to follow your hysterical line on integration?

Do you actually wish to see the Ubangis elected to public office in those several Southern counties where they outnumber the whites, two to one?

Why should the white people of the South, far better educated and holders of ninety per cent of the property, suddenly play dead and hand over the governing powers of their counties and municipalities to those sons of Ham just to please the Washington politicians?

Are you not aware that ninety-nine per cent of the educators of Georgia and all other Southern states applaud all resistance to integration of any type? About one of fifty negroes is qualified to ~~xxxx~~ vote according to the principles set down in our original Constitution. Do you really think the field hands of Mississippi, because of their superior numbers over the whites, should be given control of the ballot?

You and your cohorts of the Atlanta newspapers are truly disgraces to Georgia, the South, and the white race. Would it injure you to know that at least eighty per cent of the Northern whites agree with us on this question?

You're sickening --- and your pitiful attempts to sway the people toward acceptance of the kinky-heads only add fuel to our fires of resistance to the unlawful encroachments of those blacks which are backed by federal force.

We love our children, Mr Watters. We love those we teach as well as our own. We want no so-called reforms tending to throw our children in contact with the blacks. Thus, we shall resist, too.

Take a look at history, Mr. Watters. This was the most powerful nation on earth until we succumbed to the integration fanatacism. Take a look at Washington and its integrated schools. Would it shock you to know that in every good-sized city in the North negro gangs obtain hundreds of dollars a month from white kids who pay from fifty cents to a dollar for the privilege of not getting a beating from the blacks? Would it shock you to know that one of the Atlanta high school principals told the writer that only one policy was sensible there-- "Just ignore them"-- ?

James B. Clegg

The Factual Education Council

PRESENTS

TOM ANDERSON

PRESIDENT-EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

"Farm and Ranch Magazine"

SPEAKING

"STRAIGHT TALK"

ON

"BI-PARTISAN TREASON"

DINKLER PLAZA HOTEL

ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Thursday July 25, 1963

8:00 P.M. DONATION $1.50

TOM ANDERSON

"STRAIGHT TALK" speaking

on

"BI-PARTISAN TREASON"

Thursday, July 25, 1963

Dinkler Plaza Hotel — Atlanta, Ga. — 8:00 P.M.

In this age of filtered news, "managed" mass communications, and entertainment concocted primarily for what Tom Anderson calls "The Boob Tube," there's no room for a Will Rogers. TV reaps its real monetary harvest from re-uses rather than first runs. Such formats necessarily must ignore the topical, must avoid today so as not to be old-hat tomorrow. Were this not the case, Tom Anderson would be today's Will Rogers.

Tom Anderson's forte is evaluating each today in perspective with its assessable yesterdays and its assayable tomorrows. Reviewed months and years after their utterance, his incisive analyses of the minds and events combining to subvert a great nation into a slave state prove to be profoundly prophetic.

On January 17, 1960, Anderson was principal speaker on The Manion Forum Network. In presenting him, Dean Clarence Manion observed "No writer in America can take the padding out of a stuffed political shirt any faster or more effectively than Tom Anderson. Every Southern Congressman and Senator I know reads his monthly 'Straight Talk' with respectful attention and some of them frequently with commendable chagrin."

A native of Tennessee and graduate of Vanderbilt University, Tom Anderson served as a Naval Officer overseas during World War II. Beating his sword into an editorial plowshare, Tom then embarked on his notable career in agricultural journalism. He is President, Editor-in-Chief and majority owner of "FARM AND RANCH MAGAZINE." Tom also owns five other agricultural publications with a combined circulation in excess of 1,300,000.

Tom's "STRAIGHT TALK" editorial page is the most reprinted feature in the farm field. His brilliant syndicated column is carried by hundreds of papers. Tom Anderson is unquestionably the nation's most-quoted farm editor.

Twice, Tom has received the Liberty Award of The Congress of Freedom, once for his public addresses, once for his editorials. He was also recipient of The Freedam Award of Freedom's Foundation at Valley Forge "For outstanding achievement in bringing about a better understanding of the American way of life." During the past two years, Tom has traveled more than 110,000 miles, to make some 160 speeches. Almost without exception his speeches are followed by standing ovations.

To the American economy and American destiny, agriculture is what anatomy and materia medica are to a physician. It's the foundation. Nobody knows more about that foundation and how the Marxist planhandlers have been manipulating it than Tom Anderson.

Tom will tell you about some mighty strange cuttings and seedlings already planted and nourished by your tax dollars in such fertile bottom land as The White House and our State Department.

George Racey Jordan,
Major, USAF, (Ret.)

hanks.

COMMUNISTS IN OUR CHURCHES

by Matt Cvetic

(For 9 years a Communist for the F.B.I.)

In this article, let me answer once and for all the question of whether or not there are Communists in our churches and church organizations.

I find it difficult to understand why some of our clergy refuse to recognize the facts about Red infiltration into our church groups, when they are so blatantly evident. How any clergyman, or for that matter, any believer in God, can front for Red causes in the face of the murderous history of Communism, is also something that staggers the imagination.

Both Marx and Lenin considered religion their prime enemy, therefore the prime target for destruction. "Religion", they both taught, "is an opiate for the ignorant masses — it must be destroyed."

With this destructive thesis of the Reds on religion, how can any believer in the Supreme Being blind himself to the realities of Communism by joining Communist fronts, or by defending Communists in their evil conspiracy, when by so doing, he is contributing to his own murder? So-called "intellectuals," especially in the fields of religion and education, would do well to learn from history, which records that in every nation which was lost to Communism, most of the "intellectuals," even those who were in the forefront aiding, abetting and defending the Red cause, were murdered, thrown into political prisons, or sent to slave camps.

Are the Reds infiltrating the churches in the United States? Of course they are — and in many cases with the help of the very clergy who would be tortured and murdered if the Reds took over.

As an example of Communist church infiltration, let me recall a Red meeting which I attended in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in the Fall of 1949. At this meeting, Steve Nelson, a top Red agent, read a report from Joseph Stalin, the leader of International Communism at that time. In this report, Stalin laid out plans for the mass murder of twenty million people in China to solidify Red control of that country. This Kremlin report, and the ensuing discussion, also outlined plans for the murder of additional thousands in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Where did the Communists plot this mass murder of millions? Was it in some deserted cellar, or some far-away secret hide-out? — No, the Kremlin plot was revealed in a most respectable place — the meeting room of one of the largest churches in the northside section of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania — and with the permission and full knowledge of the pastor!

Many American clergy and church laymen are not aware that the Reds have a well worked-out plan for the infiltration of our churches and church organizations.

This infiltration is planned by a secret group of high level Red agents, labeled the "Clergical Commission of the Communist Party." This Red "Commission" is composed of Soviet agents and American Reds, posing as ministers, preachers and priests, who have fallen away from the church and joined the Communist Party, and lay Red agents. How do I know about the existence of this Red Clergical Commission? I have reason to know only too well, because in 1945, while posing as a Communist for the F.B.I., I was a member of this Red Commission. In the Pittsburgh district alone, this commission consisted of 12 well-trained Red agents. Similar Red commissions with orders to infiltrate and use the churches and church bodies exist in every section of the United States.

It might be apropos to point out that at this very moment, Red agents are well-entrenched in key positions of some of our national church bodies. There, under the cover of respectability, they are zealously carrying on their Communist work, often aided and abetted by the very churches and church groups they are plotting to destroy.

"What about Red China?," I am often asked, "If we would recognize Red China we could send over our missionaries. We can't ignore 600,000,000 Chinese people." My answer to those who would play into the Red hands by recognizing Red China as a "spiritual must," can be given by posing this question: "How many missionaries have we been permitted to send to Soviet Russia since we so foolishly recognized that Godless Red government in 1933?" The answer, of course, is none. If we recognize Red China, we may be assured that the Red tyrants will never permit us to preach our Gospel, which the Reds are sworn to destroy.

It is true the Reds in Russia permit a small percentage of the churches and synagogues to function, about 2 or 3% of the number in existence prior to the red take-over in that nation. However, this small exercise of Religion is permitted by the Reds in Russia solely to mislead visitors from free countries. The Reds' plot calls for the ultimate destruction of all religion, including this 2 or 3%, when they find it no longer necessary to permit some display of religion behind which to hide their ulterior motives.

For a more recent picture of "Freedom of Religion" Communist style, let us take a look at poor Tibet. Since the Reds have stolen this little country, the Tibetan monks have been publicly tortured and murdered or imprisoned. The Tibetan nuns have been sent into brothels for the Red soldiers, and the children of Tibet have been taught to spy on their parents, brothers and sisters, and report any spark of opposition to the Red tyrants.

If the Reds ever take over in our free nation, we may be certain that their plan for religion is the same as it is for Russia, Red China and Tibet. I personally sat in secret Red meetings where plans for the torture and murder of the American clergy were discussed.

Read and pass on dont destroy.

What is our answer to the Communists and their sympathizers? We must brook no compromise with the Reds, or with those who aid and abet them in any way. Jesus Christ sounded the warning in these words: "A man cannot serve both God and mammon." Yes, it is time that the flock calls on the Red-fronting ministers to answer for their betrayal of God, by espousing Communism and Communist causes. "No man can serve two masters," adds Jesus Christ.

We must open our eyes and speak out against the godless Red tyranny. Let us rid ourselves of these "wolves in sheeps' clothing" who, while hiding behind the holy cloth and the respectability of the Church, are carrying on their un-Godly and devilish work to destroy us.

- [redacted].

Don't let this tract die. Pass it on and send for more. All tracts free as the Lord provides the means.

GOSPEL TRACT SOCIETY

2302 Blue Ridge Blvd.

Kansas City 29, Missouri

Unmasking MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. the Deceiver

BY DR. BILLY JAMES HARGIS

A CHRISTIAN CRUSADE PUBLICATION

Recent statements by race agitator Martin Luther King, Jr., clearly indicate that it is time to rip off his pious mask and reveal the real purpose and drive behind his anti-American activities. Though King has been sainted in many popular weekly magazines, his infamous alliance with Communist objectives and personalities has been kept a carefully guarded secret.

The Tulsa Tribune, May 3 ,1961, carried an article datelined Atlanta, (Ga.) which read: "The Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. and 16 other big names in the Southern Negro integration movement joined today in demanding that the controversial House Un-American Activities Committee be abolished and that a man jailed for defying it be pardoned by President Kennedy.

"Carl Braden of Louisville, Ky., whose release the bi-racial leaders were demanding, was jailed Monday along with Frank Wilkinson of Los Angeles. The two were convicted by a federal jury in Atlanta in early 1959 for refusing to tell the House Committee whether they were Communists . . .

"King said the jailing of Wilkinson and Braden is evidence that 'McCarthyism' is on the rise again. He told United Press International that 'I have no doubt they are being punished — particularly Mr. Braden — for their integration activities.' "

Rev. King, in his statement that Braden was jailed because of his integration activities, conveniently ignores the fact that both Braden and Wilkinson are known, identified Communists and that Braden is field director of the Southern Conference Educational Fund. According to sworn testimony before the Florida Legislation Investigation Committee, Feb. 10, 1958, Dr. J. B. Matthews said, "The principal function of the Southern Conference Educational Fund is to serve as a bridge between the Communist Party on the one hand and mis-guided Southern Liberals on the other hand. The Southern Conference Educational Fund is the new name for the Southern Conference for Human Welfare of which the Senate Security Subcommittee said '. . . was conceived, financed and set up by the Communist Party in 1938 as a mass organization to promote Communism throughout the Southern States.' "

Mr. Wilkinson could hardly be punished for his integration activities since his particular function for the Communist Party is field representative for the Communist front The National Committee to Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee.

ASKING IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

An editorial in the St. Petersburg Independent, March 7, 1961, said concerning the sentencing of Braden and Wilkinson:

"It was most certainly pertinent to and important for the (House Un-American Activities) committee to find out if possible whether Wilkinson was fighting the committee as an American or as a Communist. And it was equally pertinent to find out whether Braden was working for integration as an American with concern for the Negro or as a Communist concerned for the advancement of the cause of the Kremlin."

The same all-searching questions could well be asked in the case of the pro-Soviet agitator Martin Luther King, Jr. King's constant agitation of racial troubles, his attack against our private enterprise system as guaranteed in our Federal Constitution in an Indiana speech last summer, and his recent open alliance with enemies of our nation, places him squarely in the camp of subversives.

King's Communist affiliations and acquaintances go back many years and establish a clear pattern of Marxist affinity.

Over the Labor Day weekend, 1957, Martin Luther King was a participant in the 25th anniversary seminar on the integration struggle sponsored by the Highlander Folk School, Monteagle, Tennessee. He has been closely associated with the leadership of the school since that time. The Highlander Folk School was founded in 1932 by Myles Horton and Don West; James Dombrowski joined them shortly thereafter. Don West was district director of the Communist Party of North Carolina.

Paul Crouch, the top Communist Party functionary in the south, testified before the Subcommittee of the Committee on Un-American Activities that Dombrowski "gave me the impression of being completely pro-Communist and anxious to collaborate with the Communist Party and follow its leadership without taking the risk of actual Party membership."

KING ASSOCIATES WITH COMMUNIST SCHOOL

Paul Crouch further testified that "The Highlander Folk School is . . . operated . . . ostensibly as an independent labor school but actually working in close co-operation with the Communist Party."

Pictures taken at the Highlander Folk School over the 1957 Labor Day weekend show Martin Luther King with Abner W. Berry, Negro member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party and columnist for the Daily Worker. Another in the photograph was Aubry Williams, President of the Southern Conference Education Fund and a top leader of all-out integration. According to the Daily Worker, Sept. 10, 1957, Williams spoke "prophetically" when he declared that the situation in the south "is only a short step to general violence" and that the "stuff out of which rebellions are made is definitely being planted." Aubry Williams has at least 43 separate listings as being associated with Communist fronts and organizations. Pete Seeger, a nationally known folk singer who has been prominently identified with the Communist movement in this country for many years, was another Labor Day attraction at the school. Seeger has been named as a member of the Communist Party in sworn testimony.

KING LAUDED BY COMMUNIST PRESS

Rev. King is president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and led the bus boycott in Montgomery, Alabama. His activities are usually highly praised in the Communist press as is evidenced by these gushing lines from the pen of Herbert Aptheker, Communist editor of Political Affairs:

"And in Montgomery, Alabama, there is the epic struggle of the entire 50,000 members of its Negro community. . . . Here, with women in the lead, is the unparalleled and unbreakable splendor of an entire people speaking out to the world in tones of purity and self-sacrifice and saying: 'We will live in freedom, in our own day and here in our own city.'"

King also led the Negro "March on Washington" and was accompanied by his manager Bayard Ruskin, who, according to the Daily Worker, attended the 1957 convention of the Communist Party. According to one anti-Communist paper, "Bayard Ruskin is listed as a member of the Editorial Board of Liberation. . . (a) pacifist-anarchist publication. Ruskin contributes another article and is identified as having 'had many years of direct experience in racial conflicts in the South.' In 1946 he served a sentence on the chain gang in N. C. for refusing to sit in the Negro section of a bus. He went to India in 1947 and Africa in 1953. He is an expert on Civil Disobedience."

KING WORKS WITH COMMUNISTS

In the Youth March for Integrated Schools of Washington, D.C. in 1958, Martin Luther King was co-chairman of the group along with veteran Communist-fronter A. Philip Randolph. The march was fortified by three bus loads of Communists from the cited Communist New York Teacher's Union. Again, Rev. King made the pages of the Communist Worker which reported: "Rev. King said: The Oppressed Always Marched For Freedom." On May 17, 1959, the Worker devoted the entire front page and fourteen columns of print to the March. That King's Washington March was aided and engineered by the Communists is attested to by the Worker. On page 15 they said:

"Large numbers of the Left (Communist) forces actively aided in mobilizing support for the Youth March and were in vast audience."

Challenge, official publication of the Young People's Socialist League (11-1-58) headlined the story and pointed out that the Marchers White House Student delegation leader and 14 of the main youth organizers were members of the YPSL.

LAWLESSNESS AND VIOLENCE ACCOMPANY KING

Martin Luther King also has the dubious distinction of being associated with integrationist groups designed to stir up racial trouble. The Tulsa World, May 15, 1961 reported the violence associated with two bus loads of Negroes and whites sponsored by "Freedom Riders" a group seeking to break the segregation barrier in the South. The "Freedom Riders" were part of a group connected with CORE — Congress of Racial Equality. The 1958 CORE letterheads show King on the National Advisory Committee along with a number of other Red-fronters.

Rev. King has also been associated with the NAACP — The National Association For The Advancement of Colored People. Of the 5 founders of the NAACP, only one was a Negro. He is an identified Communist — W.E.B. DuBois.

According to Attorney General Eugene Cook of Georgia, ". . . white people with long records of affinity for, affiliation with, and participation in Communist, Communist-front, fellow-traveling or subversive organizations, activities and causes have directed and subsidized the NAACP. . . . the President, the Chairman of the Board, the 'Honorary Chairman', 11 of the 28 Vice Presidents, the Treasurer, 28 of 47 Directors, the Chairman of the National League Committee, the Executive Secretary, the Special Council, the Assistant Special Council, the Southeast Regional Secretary, the West Coast Secretary, the Director of the Washington Bureau, the Director of Public Relations and two Field Secretaries. The transcript of this evidence numbers 121 pages of single-spaced, typewritten copy and would require more than six hours to be read aloud.

"Elizabeth Dilling reported in her book, "The Red Network," that, during the seven years from 1923 to 1930, the NAACP received some $43,000 from the radical Garland Fund among whose directors were Communists William Z. Foster and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn. She also disclosed that the official report of the Fourth National Convention of the Communist Party of the United States held in 1925 stated that 'the Party had penetrated the NAACP.' "

In 1958, J. B. Matthews, an expert on Communist infiltration, wrote:

"Listed on the current letterheads of the NAACP are the names of 236 different national officers. One hundred forty-five (or more than 61 per cent) of these individuals have been involved, in one way or another, with Communist enterprises, for a grand total of 2,200 affiliations of public record."

KING AIDS COMMUNIST PARTY OBJECTIVES

The Communist Party has often and in numerous places outlined its objectives for the Negro in America. In 1928, the Party published a pamphlet written by John Pepper, the representative of the Communist Party in the United States, in which he said: "The Communists must participate in all national liberation movements of the Negroes which have a real mass character."

Negro Communist leader Benjamin Davis published his pamphlet entitled "The Path of Negro Liberation," in which he wrote:

"Consequently the Negro people are moving in the direction of some form of statehood in the Black Belt. This would mean an adjustment or rectification of the lines demarking 12 states through which runs the Black Belt area where Negro people are in a majority."

The remarkable way in which Martin Luther King has fitted into these goals of the Communist Party is attested to on the pages of the official Party organ, The Worker. The October 30, 1960 edition left no question as to the importance which the Communists recognize in the person of Rev. King toward achieving their Communist goals. After Rev. King was jailed in Atlanta following three days of mass sit-ins and picketing by hundreds of students of the Atlanta University Center, in an appeal usually reserved for top Party functionaries, the Worker told its Communist subscribers:

"The outrageous sentencing of Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., requires the protest of all decent Americans.

"Demand Dr. King's immediate release. Demand that the persecution of the sit-inners be haulted. Demand that the federal government protect those who exercise their Constitutional 'right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.' (Note that the Worker takes no notice of the "civil disobedience" engaged in by the "peaceful" sit-inners. Ed.)

". . . The cause for which Dr. King speaks is the cause, not of the Negro people alone, but of all democratic America.

"Let, then, labor speak out. Let all organizations of the people speak out. Let all right-minded Americans speak out.

"Wire or phone to President Eisenhower and to both presidential candidates, Richard Nixon and John Kennedy. Let your Representatives and Senators hear from you.

"Let every candidate — for every post from state legislator to president — back up his avowed allegiance to civil rights by acting now. If he won't act now, what can you expect after election?"

TOP COMMUNISTS SPEAK FOR KING

So ingrained into the workings of the Communist Party are the policies and actions of Rev. King that his incarceration evoked protests from the top Communist command in the U.S. The same issue of the Worker said:

"Gus Hall, general secretary, and Benjamin Davis, national secretary of the Communist Party, on Monday protested the arrest of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, in wires to President Eisenhower, vice-president Richard Nixon and Sen. John Kennedy, and demanded the Rev. King's release."

Rocketed to national prominence through the distorted and one-sided coverage given his infamous and illegal activities by the left-wing press and Life, Time, and Look magazines, Martin Luther King now has the official ear of Washington on behalf of his crusade. The February 5, 1961 issue of the Communist Worker quoted King as saying, "The Justice Department 'has vast potential' to open up 'hitherto untried avenues in the desegregation struggle.' The power inherent in executive orders has never been exploited."

KING PULLS WASHINGTON STRINGS

As is the case with most Communist directives these days, the step from announcement to fulfillment is a short one. The Newsweek magazine, May 1, 1961 reported:

"Full protection for any Negro trying to register for voting. That's what Attorney General Robert Kennedy promised the Rev. Martin King at a private meeting in Washington last week. The Negro leader is about to launch a new campaign throughout the South to add 250,000 Negro voters to the rolls."

The WEEKLY CRUSADER is at a loss to understand why the Attorney General, who was active in the McCarthy hearings into Communist and un-American activities, is now making promises to Communist collaborators as an official of the U.S. government.

FULL SCALE INVESTIGATION CALLED FOR

Martin Luther King's open, deceitful influence over so much of our population is a national disgrace. The WEEKLY CRUSADER calls for an all out investigation into the activities of this co-operator with known Communists. Concerned Americans would like the answers to the following pertinent questions:

1. Is Martin Luther King interested in the Negro for the Negro's sake or for the furtherance of Communist objectives in our country?

2. Where does Martin Luther King derive the income for his multitudinous activities? What large interests are paying his way?

3. What are the REAL reasons for his objections to the House Committee on Un-American Activities? Could it be that he fears exposure of his true motives from this investigating committee?

4. Why does this man, who has selected known Communists as his closest associates and advisers, have access to the top offices of our government and personal audiences with our policy making leaders?

It is time Martin Luther King was unmasked before the American public. Only a full-scale investigation will serve the best interests of both the Negroes and whites of our nation.

A Reprint From Christian Crusade's Weekly Editorial Voice
THE WEEKLY CRUSADER

Order Additional Copies

25 Copies	$1.00
200 Copies	5.00
500 Copies	10.00

CHRISTIAN CRUSADE — Tulsa 2, Oklahoma

S H A M E!! S H A M E !

T O A T L A N T A

NIGGERS DEFEAT STATE POLICE IN"FREEDOM DRIVE"

GARLAND BYRD AND VANDIVER EMBRACE APE CAUSE;

Atlanta white citizens, today, Feb. 12th, descended to the lowest depths of degredation, as a band of hyena-voiced Niggers took over the State Capitol building and stopped both Houses of the Legislature, with their yowling.

Over 100 fully armed State Troopers, aware of this assault, had strict orders to arrest every marcher who dared to cross the street.

As an added protection, every Trooper was given a Billy, or long night stick, and told to use it without mercy, on the sculls of the Jigaboos.

The Niggers were three times turned right to keep them from crossing Chestnut Street, to the State owned property. They then decided to cross, in defiance of warnings. [redacted] Troopers were frothing in the mouth with anger, as LAST MINUTE ORDERS came from the GOVERNORS office, to let them come in.

WHO GAVE THOSE ORDERS? Vandiver or Byrd? Colonel Connors of the GBI passed them on. He told the Niggers they might enter without any signs, and with no demonstration of any kind. Four white girls accompanied the Niggers, one holding hands with a buck Jigaboo, another having her back and fanny stroked by a coal black Jig, as they walked to the 4th floor together. Even ladies were heard to say:- "God, how disgusting!" The fannies of these blond tarts should have been stroked with a horse whip. If that were not demonstration enough, the invaders stopped all legal proceedings in the House by singing an Freedom song composed by the Jew scum of the NAACP, a JEWISH Organization. [redacted] Ralph McGill and his Jew controlled Rag- the Constitution, plus all the other Jew papers here, had a field day of publicity, and pictures. There isn't a single State Trooper tonight, this Lincoln's birthday, who isn't ashamed of his uniform. The KU KLUX KLAN demands action, and calls every white man and woman to band together.

Calvin Craig, Grand Dragon of Georgia,
Knights of the KU KLUX KLAN.

GOODBYE POLITICAL CROOKS, - YOU'RE DEAD!

Legislature: Demand protection for your daily proceedings!

NEXT IN LINE

Mayor Allen wants to experiment with your wife, daughters and sons by letting the Negro police have the right to arrest, manhandle and blackjack if necessary. This is one of the concessions Mayor Allen made to get the Negro block vote.

WHITE PEOPLE OF GEORGIA — ARE YOU CONCERNED WITH THE SAFETY AND WELFARE OF YOUR SONS AND DAUGHTERS, NOT TO BE MAULED BY THE NEGRO'S HANDS?

If you are, be at the Aldermanic Police Committee meeting Wednesday Night, 4th Floor Police Station, Decatur Street, at 7:30 P. M., and protest this move by this sell-out radical politician.

WHY: CAN THE N.A.A.C.P. RENT THE CITY AUDITORIUM YET THE MANAGER REFUSES THE UNITED KLANS K.K.K.K.

United Klans, P. O. Box 10753, Atlanta, Georgia

THE MAN WHO NEVER WAS

The "Israel Cohen, English Communist" hoax is increasingly quoted by anti-Semites and their dupes. Here's how it started.

by MILTON ELLERIN

ISRAEL COHEN, English communist, is today a well-known character throughout the United States. His name has appeared in such illustrious publications as the Washington Star and the Congressional Record as well as scores of infinitely less illustrious ones. To those who read about him, Israel Cohen comes through as a most unlovable man. Not only is he a Communist; he is also the author of a plan which—in his own words—will inflame "the Negro minority against the whites" through a program of "racial tensions" in order to "deliver America to our cause."

Because of his common name—undoubtedly there are many Israel Cohens throughout the world—those who read about this one have little doubt about his religious origin. Anti-Semites throughout the country love to roll the name Israel Cohen off their tongues slowly, then spell it out to make sure their listeners get the point. The fact of the matter, however, is that this Israel Cohen is not Jewish. Nor is he Anglican, Buddhist, or anything else. Even though his name is heard increasingly, this Israel Cohen simply does not—and never did—exist.

Some anti-Semitic hoaxes—like "The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion"—are ancient and a bit unwieldy for easy use by the professional bigot. The Israel Cohen hoax is new and just right. It is shrewdly adapted to exploit the tensions of the day; it is brief and clear; it raises all the bogies of the prejudiced in just a few sentences.

According to all available evidence, the Israel Cohen fabrication first appeared, full-blown, in the pages of a less than three-year-old, fairly elaborate anti-Semitic, racist monthly, The Virginian, published in Newport News. Under the heading, "Quotes from the Communist Press," appears the statement:

"We must realize that our party's most powerful weapon is racial tension . . . By pounding into the consciousness of the dark races that for centuries they have been oppressed by the whites, we can mold them to the program of the Communist Party . . . In America, we will aim for subtle victory. While inflaming the Negro minority against the whites, we will endeavor to instill in the whites a guilt complex for their exploitation of the Negroes. We will aid the Negroes to rise in prominence in every walk of life, in the professions and in the world of sports and entertainment. With this prestige, the Negroes will be able to intermarry with the whites and begin a process which will deliver America to our cause."

The alleged source of the statement is given as: ". . . from A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century by Israel Cohen, English Communist (1912)".

The item appears in The Virginian as a paid ad. Underneath is the notation: "This space sponsored by a Christian Virginian and a Marine Corps Veteran."

This appeared in the December 1956 issue of the Virginian. In February 1957, the next reference to "Israel Cohen, English Communist" appeared in a letter to the editor of the Sumter (S.C.) Daily Item written by Stanley F. Morse of Charleston, who heads the pro-segregation Grass Roots League there. The quotation then appeared in full in a letter to the editor of the Washington Evening Star in March 1957. It was written by R. A. Hester of the Marylands Petitions Committee.

Thus the hoax appeared in a major, highly respected daily newspaper. From here it was but one step away from being reprinted in one of the most highly regarded sources of all—the Congressional Record. It found its way there when, on June 6, in the course of the debate on civil rights legislation, Congressman Thomas Abernethy of Mississippi said:

"This civil rights business is all according to a studied and well-defined plan. It may be news to some of you but the course of the advocates of the legislation was carefully planned and outlined more than 45 years ago. Israel Cohen, a leading Communist in England, in his A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century, wrote in 1912 the following . . ."

Congressman Abernethy then proceeded to insert in the Congressional Record the full Israel Cohen quotation. He concluded: "What truer prophecy could there have been 40 years ago of what we now see taking place in America . . . Many thousands in America today who are in no sense Communists are helping to carry out the Communist plan laid down by their faithful thinker, Israel Cohen. Truly, vigilance is the price of liberty."

NOW THE LIE was poised to do its work; its appearance in the Congressional Record of June 7, 1957, as a portion of the remarks of Congressman Abernethy, has probably given it its greatest currency and sanction. It is fascinating to watch the course of the Israel Cohen hoax since. In the form of letters to the editor, it has appeared in many respectable newspapers. The Richmond (Va.) News Leader used it on June 26 in a letter from W. Reid Williams. The Orlando (Fla.) News used it in a letter several months later. The October 21 issue of the magazine South, published in Birmingham, featured it as the subject of a lead editorial. Dick West, Dallas Morning News columnist and radio commentator, broadcast it further in December.

Veteran propagandists have welcomed the Israel Cohen hoax as new ammunition in their old war. Gerald L. K. Smith referred to it in his recent report called "Arkansas—the Hungary of America." Speaking in Pasadena, Texas, long-time bigot Kenneth Goff gave a detailed description of the Israel Cohen master plan as a warning of what the Jews were up to. Myron Fagan, in January 1958, appeared at a Los Angeles City Council hearing on a proposed fair employment practices ordinance, repeated the Israel Cohen fabrication, and announced that he was quoting from the Congressional Record. Fagan added that, to carry out the Israel Cohen program, both the Anti-Defamation League and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were organized in 1913. Anyone who votes for FEP, Fagan went on, is serving the communist conspiracy —as laid down by Israel Cohen—and committing treason against the United States.

The Israel Cohen quotation is a natural one for use by White Citizens Councils too. The publication of the Citizens Council of Tarrant County, Texas, among others, has reprinted the Israel Cohen hoax in full. On January 19, in New Orleans, the chairman of the local Citizens Council, Dr. Emmett Irwin, appeared on a Council-sponsored television show to read the Israel Cohen "plan" verbatim.

The Israel Cohen hoax is fast becoming a major weapon in the bigots' arsenal. There is danger of its being imbedded in the American mind, consciously and unconsciously, by anti-Semites, anti-integrationists, and just plain dupes. What are the facts about "Israel Cohen, English Communist"?

HERMAN EDELSBERG, ADL's Washington representative, investigated the story soon after it appeared in the Congressional Record. He found, among other things:

¶ There is no record of a Communist leader, philosopher, or pamphleteer by the name of Israel Cohen, in England or anywhere else in the world.

¶ No book or pamphlet of the title, A Racial Program for the Twentieth Century, is known to the Library of Congress, the British Museum, or the National Union Catalogue which summarizes the holdings of 800 libraries in the United States.

¶ Executive and congressional agencies concerned with combatting Communism —collectively, these agencies have biographical and bibliographical data about virtually all Communist personages and writings throughout the world—have no record of Israel Cohen.

¶ The term, Communist Party, was not used in 1912. It was initiated, under Lenin, after the Russian revolution in 1917.

These are facts that make the Israel Cohen quotation a transparent hoax. Added to them are the informed opinions of

Continued on page 8

Newly Elect

—BERNARD NA
executive committe cago Welfare Fund

Nath

—SOL KOLACK regional director:
Governors of the of Boston Univers

. . . And App

—SIDNEY S. M
Ohio, member of regional advisory b
William O'Neill's
civil rights.

—HENRY POHL
gional advisory b
of the Speakers Re
United Nations.

Feeney Dep

FATHER LEONA
municated Jesuit
60-odd followers
Common. They Cambridge, Mass.,
locale of their ope
in the Still River seven and a half y foul, Father Feene preached bigotry against Catholics, most recently just ings had been pr
Cushing in 1949.
lieved police offici
our lease on the C meeting here any

Revision

THERE HAVE b
new Bible publis
Afrikaans, the lan can Dutch. In the Song of Songs, Ch of Sharon" says:
O ye daughters o
of Kedar, as the cu not upon me, tha
sun hath tanned
African version—views of racial su merely says: "I brown by the sun

HOAX

Continued from page 5

social scientists and researchers who have studied the contents of the alleged plan and conclude that it could not have been written in 1912. For one thing, the term "guilt complex "was barely used or known then. Allusions to Negroes "in the professions, in the world of sports, and entertainment" appear to be after-the-fact thoughts.

The language of the plan is not Marxian. The idea that the Communist revolution could be achieved by intermarriage between whites and Negroes would make sense only to an ardent segregationist. Nowhere in Communist literature is there any suggestion that racial intermarriage is to be the source of the Communist revolution. In fact, the whole thing is nothing but what it appears to be—a latter-day attempt to exploit fears and prejudices now current and often verbalized.

Congressman Abernethy said that he had based his remarks on the Israel Cohen text as it appeared in the Washington Evening Star letter to the editor, from Mr. R. A. Hester. When Mr. Edelsberg brought the facts about the hoax to the attention of the newspaper, its editor said, in print, that "we accept Mr. Edelsberg's statements as being correct and we regret the publication of Mr. Hester's letter."

Congressman Abernethy was informed of the Washington Evening Star's "regrets." But he made no attempt to delete the insertion from the Congressional Record. In a letter to the Congressman, Mr. Edelsberg assured him that he knew that his use of a false quotation was inadvertent, that it was inserted without thought of religious prejudice. However, he concluded, "there is no doubt that . . . the quotation was fabricated by a man whose purpose was to promote anti-Semitism, and that anti-Semitism would be its effect."

On August 30, 1957 Congressman Abraham Multer of New York placed a "correction" in the Congressional Record and, with a bow toward Abernethy's good faith, showed that the Israel Cohen quotation was a hoax.

There was still no admission of error or deletion of the item by the Congressman from Mississippi.

Most recently, last month, Congressman Multer told Congressman Abernethy how Myron Fagan had made use of the Israel Cohen hoax in his appearance before the Los Angeles City Council. He said that "I am sure that the incident will be repeated many times in the future unless, even at this late date, you make a statement in the Congressional Record withdrawing your reference to that item."

But, to date, there has still been no action by the Congressman from Mississippi. Because the Congressional Record item about Israel Cohen has been cited so often, Congressman Abernethy has become the most-quoted "authority" of the professional hate-monger and anti Semite.

the AJC bulletin
515 Madison Ave., New York 22
Entered as 2nd class matter.

R.F.D. 1. Atlanta, Ga. Feb. 1962

The Hon. Pat Waters,

Dear Sir:

Did you know that Atlanta, Ga. is the biggest Negro infested town to be found anywhere?
Did you know that the Integrationist, Liberals, Radicals, The Hope Inc. The League of White womens voters, The Pat Waters has joined up with The NAACP, The League of Negro Voters, The Negro block voters gang and have declared war on Segregation and have gone all out for Integration

They want mixed schools, mixed swimming pools mixed shows theaters eat and drink and dance together. They want mixed teachers, mixed preachers mixed marriages mixed breeds half breeds a mixed race and I dont know what all in the hell they do want. They have gone Negro mad, Negro wild and Negro crazy. A bunch of Negro lovers Negro Worshippers and Negro sympathisers.

They dont appreciate being white and no credit to our white race and it would have been better for humanity had they never been born. Here it is our white people are forced against their will to let Negro children in their white peoples schools to mix the Negro children with the white children. To mix the Negro female with the white school boy. To mix the Negro buck with the white school girl. And what respect would the Negro buck have for a white school girl if he had a chance? None he would rape her the minute he had a chance believe it or not

Besides the Negro children use the same toilet and rest room as the white children use. Also Negro teachers to teach the white children. All of this is Communistic ungodly unjust it is an assault on liberty to force one race on another besides it is a disgrace to our white race our rights being taken away for to pacify the Negro race and to yield to the demans of THE NAACP. an organization for the advancement of the Negro race and the downfall of our white race an organisation to rule or to ruin, to bring destruction to our white race.

When the races are separate and Segregated ther is peace and Harmony but when races mix and integrate ther will be raping, riots, fights hatred, strife and enmity, trouble and just plain old HELL if you will excuse the expression.

No one wants integration but the political politicians who wants the Negroes votes to get elected and stay in power and the newspaper politicians who wants the money he can get out of the NAACP. to make him rich. Neither one dont consider any principle at all. No consideration of their own white race kin brother or sister

James Cox who owns the printing presses is furnishing the printing press, paper and power to print propaganda for to brainwash people into accepting integration have the white people all mixed with the Negro race. It is a sad move. James Cox is doing more to mix the races than the Negroes are doing. His plan is to do away with the white race and have a mixed race.

God Made the Heavens and the Earth the beast of the fields the fowls of the air take the birds for instance the blue bird wont mix and mate with the red bird. The hawk wont mix and mate with the crow. The lion wont mix and mate with the tiger but dan it they want to mix and mate the White woman with the Negro man and mix and mate the Negro woman with the white man. Can you beat it?
James Cox is the most dangerous human that ever trod Georgia Soil
What does he care for our way of life our tradition? None

Trustingly,
A. . Alden

THIS BIG 200,000

BLOC ■ VOTE

CAN CONTROL GEORGIA

It is now clear that a majority of white Georgians are going to vote for Marvin Griffin for governor; but this is a popular vote race, and a white majority does not guarantee Mr. Griffin's election. There is another big force to be considered. That is the 200,000 Negro Bloc Vote. That vote will undoubtedly go to Carl Sanders who has sought it by every means at his command. He is willing to make it the balance of political power in Georgia—if he can.

To get this Big Bloc Vote, controlled by Martin Luther King and his NAACP, a candidate has to promise, promise, promise, and then give, give, give!

EXAMPLES

In Atlanta, the white majority voted for another candidate to be mayor, but The Big ■ Bloc Vote, added to a white minority, elected Allen. Since then, this Bloc Vote has demanded concessions out of all proportion to its numbers.

In Macon, the white majority voted for another candidate, but The Big ■ Bloc Vote, added to a white minority, elected Wilson mayor. There, too, concessions have been demanded and received.

DIVIDE AND CONQUER

DIVIDE AND CONQUER

Here's how it happens. In every town, city, county and, yes, in the state, voters are divided into various factions. This is good, as each faction checks on the other.

This is Democracy. It works when each side plays fair.

It's bad when the weak side wants to win so badly that it is willing to promise, give, concede and trade anything to get a bloc vote such as The Big ■ Bloc Vote controlled by King and his NAACP. When such a combination wins, chaos is the result.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER

It's just this—the white factions must forget their differences at the town, city, county and state level. They must decide who best can protect the people of Georgia against domination by this Big ■ Bloc Vote and vote for the man who will be fair to every citizen, but will not be intimidated or coerced by or overly indebted to any bloc vote group.

THE CHOICE IS CLEAR

You can vote for Marvin Griffin and give everyone fair representation, or you can vote with the minority and risk turning the State of Georgia over to control by The Big ■ Bloc Vote which would be the balance of power.

SEPTEMBER 12 IS THE DAY

Georgia's fate rests with you. The decision is yours.
Talk this over with your friends, and let's join together and all vote for

MARVIN GRIFFIN

This ad paid for by friends of Marvin Griffin who believe in him and in the future of Georgia.

THE SUPREME COURT?

Political appointed representatives of the Invisible Government within our government.

The nine-man politiburo operates with the theory that Americans cannot defeat nor overcome that which they cannot see, or understand. However, this wild-eyed theory works as well against its evil and sadistic plan and scheme. In the traffic of life down the highway, traffic also moves in the opposite direction to the Supreme Court's direction of movement.

"Truth shall spring from the earth and righteousness shall look down from heaven." Scripture: Psalms 85:11.

The invisible government operates as a university or college through the media of communications. Its purpose is to educate the Americans as Christians through the psychology of mass thought control to accept its false ideals. This is hypocrisy in the rawest form, designed to proselyte the naive and gullible.

The invisible government's colors: Red, pink, and yellow.

The membership: "Round heads" who think they have the world by the tail with a down-hill pull: So-called-Jews.

The advisers: First generation Americans, descendants of the Huns, and Mongolians. Intermixed and intermingled with Russian, German, Polish, Austrian, and Ethiopian blood for centuries. A miscegenation as is found in New York City and other principal cities.

The invisible governments policies: As "Friends of the Court" to do the "Friends of America" in first.

Their Long Range Plan: To demoralize and immoralize the youth of our land with false doctrines, false phrases, and false ideals contrary to Christian faith of our Fathers.

The representative's method: To use the economic control with which to obtain political control so as to secure the social dictatorship through military directives by their "Charley McCarthy" of the executive branch. Americans apathy, blindness, and dumbness can be depended upon to assist the International Combine of Socialistic-Communistic Alien-so-called-Jews. The majority of Americans, however, are not that dumb, stupid, ignorant, and apathetic as to swallow the crackpot-nutty psychological quackery.

The psycho-theocrats would like nothing better than to modernize the true theologians of Christly men over to their modernistic pseudo-religious ideals and creeds founded in secrecy and deceit by the proselyting hypocrites.

Every loyal American imbued with the tradition and customs of his heritage can through the fraud of "Its the Law of the Land", and the myth of "Equality" be arrested, jailed, and declared insane by the psycho-ceramics, (Crack-pots) and sent to a mental institution for the enemies of the New State. The innocent victim under drugs and helpless might be hospitalized, and undergo an operation of the nerve system controlling the normal thought process. (General Walker's case is a prime example of this Frankenstein monster idea, and trial balloon.)(Not as successful as hoped for, however.)

The court's opinions: Pre-determined and fore-ordained. Masters or deceit have blue-printed the design of action. Every opinion is to be anti-Southern, anti-America, and anti-Christ. All opinions to be pro-Socialisticly Communist. Pro K. K.K.K.'s. (King, Kennedy, Krushev, Kastro)

The Invisible Government Flag: Green currency of Uncle Sam.

Their Motto: In Rothschild's money we trust.

The court flower: Forget-me-not.

A prophesy of the court: Through the infinite wisdom of a truly Supreme Judge, Creator, and Architect of heaven, earth, the seas, humanity, time, and space and everything in between, every member of the court together with each one of the bubble-heads, one-worlders, united-nuts, and assorted psycho-ceramics (Crackpots) will inevitably be buried with, or without, benefit of assistance by "Krushy". For the fearful and faithless minorities the news media of the press, radio, television, and Hollywood distributes un-American propaganda for the purpose of confusing, confounding, complicating, and frustrating the thought processes of the individual mind so that the un-Godly, sadistic, and heathenish Frankenstein monster might rule.

The faithful ones, however, reject the false doctrine of "Inevitability" holding fast to the natural laws of creation, rather than nine-old men's fallible misinterpretations.

J. A. Webb
728 Cobb Street
Athens, Georgia

Feb-14-62

Att Mr Pat Watters-

Dear Sir-

The White Prov-Co- (meat packers-+ect) on Howell Mill Rd- will close for good throwing out of work over 700 employess on Feb-22-62- closing down for good

After all these years in buisness- 50 or more years-

I wish you could go out there and pleas write a story on this giving both sides and telling about it- why-+ how-this would be appreciate + make good reading in journal

Your Truly
W. Frakes-S.R.

TO Journal Editor FROM: Office or Location FILE NO.

G110

OFFICE Atl. Journal DATE 2/20/63 INSURED

Atl. Journal + Constitution
To the Editor,
Will you please find a small place in your paper for this news.
I am a married man 52 years of age was employed with Southern Railway System since 1929 and was cut off in 1960 since that time I have been to hundreds of places seeking employment two thirds of these places don't want an old man or they either brush you off. So I would like to know what a man 52 years of age going to do sit around and starve to death waiting until he gets 65 years of age.

Treat Our Customers Well — We Need Them!

PRINTED IN U.S.A.

TO FROM: Office or Location FILE NO.

G110

OFFICE DATE INSURED

The way it is at this particular time, I am to young to go on a pension and to old to get a job, the Railroad cut me off and because I failed to file my correct mailing address the took my seniority away from me, and now if they did have an opening in the Dept. I was in my age is about 17 years to old they do not hire anyone over 35 yrs. of age regardless of my experience. Will you please print this or at least a part of it maybe someone needs a 52 year old man. I can furnish references, Reccommendations. Have experience in General Clerical Work, Shipping + Receiving for 23 yrs.

Thanking you,

Treat Our Customers Well — We Need Them!

(over)

PRINTED IN U.S.A.

a long time subscriber.

E. E. Fitzgerald
1225 Mary Lou Lane S. E.
Dr. 7-7239
Dr. 3-7088

Excuse the 2 colors of ink

Tenants like these make slums.
I refer to those residing on Trowbolm St SW. a few feet off Wellside Rd SW.
Namely I refer to debris back of the houses. Here lies about 100 empty cans of Solox. This is mixed with water and consumed. It is plainly marked poison with picture of skeleton on can. Those that drink this have a bad offensive odor of breath and their skin deteriorates.
I dont see how one can live drinking this stuff. Occasionaly one cries with pains from this mixture. They may not be violent but do become disorderly. (They become intoxicated)
One house is known as "Solox House" often raided by city police and detectives arrests are made.
There are in this house small children one set of boy twins about 2 years of age.
Overcrowded with adults some that do not reside here in this house.
It is sickening to smell this.
Users should be given medical treatment and if necessary try and find cure for them.
No doubt some deaths have occured by Solox drinkers.

P.S. Solox is used for paint brushes also the thinning of varnish ashellac and paint.

COUNCIL FOR BASIC EDUCATION CBE

BULLETIN

Issued by the Council for Basic Education
725 Fifteenth Street, N.W. Washington 5, D. C.

Editor: Mortimer Smith

VOL. 7, NO. 6 FEBRUARY 1963

MORE ON THE EDUCATION OF THE SLUM CHILD

The Bulletin has pointed out before that in the commendable present desire to "do something" for the slum child, two schools of thought seem to be emerging about what that something should be. One school advances the traditional argument that education should seek to enlarge the horizon of the student wherever he is, to improve and refine him as a human being. The other school advances a more deterministic theory, and is inclined to deal with the slum child within the framework of his slum status, and to assume that this is where he will stay.

A variant of the latter point of view was expressed by Edgar Z. Friedenberg, associate professor of education at Brooklyn College, at a December conference on school dropouts, which was reported by the Washington Post. According to this account, Mr. Friedenberg thinks that an important factor in the dropout situation is that schools are trying to teach middle class values to lower class children who don't like middle class values. He believes that schools have no right to force such values on pupils, that said schools have "become inherently dishonest" in refusing to deal with the "culture of poverty," or to recognize such lower class values as energy, spontaneity, and direct sense gratification. (Interesting terms, those. What in the context of schools do spontaneity and direct sense gratification include—throwing a book at the teacher, spitting on the floor, wielding a switch-blade, rape?)

At the same conference, still according to the Post, Thomas Gladwin of the National Institutes of Health defended such middle class values as gentility, hard work, and planning for the future. He expressed the opinion that we should not get cynical about such values or consider them a fraud: "I don't think they are. We ought not to repeal the middle class but to think of organizing it so that schools can better develop those values."

These days it is considered a little stuffy and "square" to defend middle class values, but nonetheless we think Mr. Gladwin has the better of the argument. Unless one is prepared to say that the "culture of poverty" is just as good as middle class culture, why shouldn't the school try to improve the lot of its students by emphasizing hard work and accomplishment and the value of using the mind?

Many of the slum families of former generations, the Irish and Slavic immigrants of sixty and seventy years ago, wanted passionately to move from a culture of poverty to middle class culture, and they looked to education as the means. Historically, the public school has been the great ameliorative force in American life, the one public institution available for the improvement of all American youth.

A recent book about the late Morris Raphael Cohen, who was once described by Bertrand Russell as America's most significant philosopher and as a more important figure than John Dewey, gives a typical picture of the desire of the immigrant poor of seventy years ago to improve their lot. Cohen's parents, poor Jews from the ghetto of Minsk, lived in poverty in Brooklyn, often without food or money, but they never lost their intense feeling that their children, through education, could move out of the "culture of poverty." (See Portrait of a Philosopher by Leonora Cohen Rosenfield.) This was the pattern among thousands of slum parents. There was no feeling among such parents that the schools were imposing alien values; on the contrary, they were touchingly eager that their children be exposed to such values.

It is true that the nature of our slum population is rapidly changing, that the Irish and Jews in the slums have been replaced by Negro and Spanish speaking populations who are forced into a cohesive culture of their own as a result of a racial discrimination much more intense than that directed against the older immigrants. But these barriers of discrimination are breaking down, slowly but inexorably. Certainly thousands of Negroes are constantly moving from a slum or semi-slum status to a middle class status.

Those who remain in the slums will not be helped by a sociological theory that assumes that a slum, or proverty, culture has a dynamic quality that should not be disturbed by an overlay of middle class values. Nor, in our opinion, will children who remain in the slums be helped by current efforts to revise reading materials by (1) simplifying the vocabulary and increasing the pictures, and (2) by confining the content to the milieu of the slums. An inescapable function of true education in any culture is to take the recipient where it finds him and move him on to something better.

ON READING THEORY

An excellent article on reading theory is Reuben A. Brower's "Book Reading and the Reading of Books" (Daedalus, Winter 1963). Many articles in recent years have dealt with the inadequate methodology now current in teaching reading, but this one, by a professor of English at Harvard, deals with the larger philosophical questions underlying current reading theories. Says he: "The lack of interest in literature displayed by many of the experts points to severely limited aims for education in reading and for all reading. Titles and recurrent phrases reveal the more serious purposes: 'reading in a changing society,' or 'for effective living,' or 'for keeping abreast of the times,' or for 'child development,' or to meet children's 'interests' and 'needs,' or for 'maturity.'" Mr. Brower believes these are inadequate, or even ignoble, purposes. This issue of Daedalus contains several interesting articles dealing with "The American Reading Public."

NEW TEACHING MATERIALS

For those who are looking for clear and simple material dealing with the rudiments of grammar and writing for the second, third, and fourth grades, Grammar and Orthography, Books I and II, by Marjorie Kahl Lawrence, should prove useful. Inquiries about these should be addressed to the publisher, Henry Regnery Company, 14 East Jackson Blvd., Chicago 4, Ill.

In the field of reading instruction, undoubtedly the most important new material for 1963 will be the Lippincott Basic Reading series by McCracken and Walcutt. The publishers announce this series as one "incorporating latest discoveries about the functions and value of phonics in reading," and point out that all the reading exercises have been chosen for high literary merit. All materials for Grade 1 will be published in February, including a pre-primer, a primer, two graded readers, a workbook for each, two teachers' editions, and a set of eight filmstrips. The complete program for Grades 2 and 3 will be published in January of 1964, and the remaining books for Grades 4 through 8 will be available in January of 1965. For information about this new series, address Dept. EL-1, Educational Publishing Division, J. B. Lippincott Co., East Washington Square, Philadelphia 5, Pa.

Those happy few who still believe that young children can read and appreciate adult literature will be interested in investigating the new Junior Great Books Discussion Program. The objective of this program is "to introduce youngsters from the fifth through twelfth grade to some of the greatest writings of all time," including unabridged works of Lamb, Chaucer, Thoreau, Hawthorne, Blake, Dickens, and Poe. For information about forming an experimental Junior Great Books Program, address The Great Books Foundation, 5 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago 3, Ill.

NOTICE

We have on hand a limited supply of back issues of the Bulletin, beginning with the year 1957. These are available at a cost of 10 cents per copy.

MALCOLM D. JONES
Director

CITY OF ATLANTA

DEPARTMENT of URBAN RENEWAL

Atlanta 3, Georgia

March 20, 1963

Memorandum To: Members of the Citizens Bond Information Committee and Other Key Citizens

From: Director, Urban Renewal

It is apparent that Urban Renewal needs, and the principle on which Urban Renewal is based, are not clearly understood by the majority of the citizens of Atlanta.

This memorandum is intended to provide you with information as to some of the most pressing needs for Urban Renewal in Atlanta, where these needs are located, proposed order of importance and to show how our current efforts in Urban Renewal are actually paying off.

It should be borne in mind that, except for 210 units of Public Housing for the elderly, to be erected in the Butler Street Urban Renewal Project, through the Public Housing Administration, that all of the redevelopment in Atlanta's current Urban Renewal Projects with exception of Public Schools, Parks, Street and Sewer improvements etc., which in all probability would have been done by the City anyway even if there had been no Urban Renewal, is being done by private enterprise at its own expense and without any bond funds being used therefor.

Furthermore it should also be realized that the City is using the cost of these public improvements as credits to assist in meeting its 1/3 share of the Net Cost of the Projects. This Net Cost is basically the difference between the expense involved in buying up the slum properties, demolishing the dilapidated structures, reassembling the small (and in many instances unusable) parcels and the money received from reselling the readjusted disposal tracts to private enterprise for tax paying new development by them. Current examples of this are Phoenix Tower, Holiday Inn Motel, the newly committed $4½ million Marriott Motel, the 76 units of low cost apartments recently constructed on Boulevard and the 150 units of 221 housing built in the Thomasville Urban Renewal Project.

The tax increase to the City, at current rates, from this new development will be many times that previously received from the same slum areas, and will continue to produce such tax increase for the City for years to come.

Furthermore, to assist in meeting the 1/3 local share, the City is allowed substantial credits for the cost of Public Improvements such as Schools, Parks, Sewers, Street widenings etc. developed in the Urban Renewal Project areas. It should be remembered that most of these Capital Improvements would have been made anyway even if there had been no Urban Renewal. By coordinating their location and timing with Urban Renewal Projects, tremendous financial benefits to the City are thus realized.

Encl. #1 is a condensed proposal for future Urban Renewal Projects in Atlanta, submitted to the Chairman of the Citizens Study Commission, October 25, 1962, by the Chairman of the Urban Renewal Committee of the Board of Aldermen, with the recommendation that for the present, Group A Projects ($6,000,000) be reduced for consideration by the Commission to $4,000,000. This reduction to be accomplished by omitting $1,500,000 of the requirement for Buttermilk Bottoms (to be delayed until a later date) and by eliminating at this time from the Transportation Plaza Project, $500,000 proposed for the southern portion of that area.

Encl. #2 is copy of a page lifted from the report submitted December 1, 1962, to the Federal Government for recertification of Atlanta's Workable Program. This shows the tangible progress that has already been made in Atlanta's Federally assisted Urban Renewal Projects.

Encl. #3 is a summary showing the overall tax advantages anticipated through Urban Renewal in Atlanta's first five Urban Renewal Projects.

Encl. #4 is a recapitulation of actual disposition to date, to private enterprise, of land in Urban Renewal Projects showing area involved, price received, value of new development committed to be placed on this land and the tax benefits to be derived from it.

Encls. #5 and #6 are copies of recent local press comment on tax benefits, at current rates, resulting from new developments by private enterprise in Atlanta's Urban Renewal Projects.

Encl. #7 shows tangible accomplishments through application of the Housing Code throughout the City, in areas other than Urban Renewal Projects.

Encl. #8 is a local press account of the Slum Fight in Atlanta.

Encl. #9 is a comprehensive report of Urban Renewal accomplishments in Atlanta during 1961. This is a factual review of actual accomplishments and future plans for our overall Urban Renewal Program in Atlanta. A similar report for 1962 will also be prepared.

It is hoped that the material contained in this memorandum, and the enclosures attached hereto, will assist in providing a clearer concept of Urban Renewal in Atlanta.

MDJ:lp

9 Encls: As listed

DEPARTMENT OF URBAN RENEWAL

CONDENSED PROPOSAL FOR 6 YR. URBAN RENEWAL PROGRAM
(Revised to March 15, 1962, from November 8, 1960, Proposal)

Adopt projects and submit applications for survey and planning advances as follows: (A represents 1st Phase; B represents 2nd phase.)

Priority 	Year	Location	Approx. Size (Acres)	Principal Reuse	Estimated Net Project Costs: Local Share	Estimated Net Project Costs: Federal Share
1A	1962	Buttermilk Bottoms	160		$3,500,000 2,000,000	$7,000,000
B	1962	Howard School B (Companion Project to Buttermilk Bottoms)	32	Res.(Pub.Hsg)	100,000	1,000,000
2	1962	East Atlanta	110	Res.	67,000 (a)	1,284,000
3	1962	Plunkettown	48	Indust.	Self Liquidating (b)
4	1963	West End (GNRP Approved)	50	Rehab.	400,000 (c)	1,000,000
5		Revolving Fund			1,000,000 (d)
6	1963	Trans. Plaza (FS Approved)
		Lightning C (1962)	16	Res.(Pub.Hsg)	50,000	500,000
		" B (1963)	55	Indust.	250,000	500,000
		~~" A (1964)~~	~~60~~	~~Indust.~~	~~500,000~~	~~1,000,000~~
7		Contingencies and Current Projects			133,000	1,716,000
		TOTAL GROUP A			$6,000,000* 4,000,000	$14,000,000
8	1964	Summerhill	100	Res.&Com.	1,000,000	2,000,000
9	1965	Georgia Tech	50	Col. Exp.*	Borne by Ga. Tech	2,000,000
10	1966	Hemphill	60	Com.&Res.	500,000	1,000,000
11	1967	Cooper-Glenn	130	Res.&Com. (Incl.P.H.)	500,000	1,000,000
		TOTAL GROUP B			$2,000,000	$6,000,000
		TOTAL GROUPS A & B			$8,000,000* 6,000,000	$20,000,000

COMMENT:

Certain Projects should complement each other; i.e.:
Buttermilk Bottoms & Howard School B.
Plunkettown & Public Housing in vicinity of Poole Creek Rd.
Lightning C (north of Herndon Homes) and Lightning B.
Cooper-Glenn & Public Housing (in same area).

NOTES:

* Should cost City nothing and also provide surplus credit.

 Local Share of Net Project Cost may be increased by creditable Public Improvements to be placed in project areas by other Departments.

 Priorities for Projects, and even changes in location of some Projects, may and probably will occur. However, the over-all monetary requirements should remain substantially as shown.

* Fulton and DeKalb Counties should assist financially in proportion to amount of taxes each collects from the area, as compared with taxes collected from the same area by the City of Atlanta. This would reduce the cost of the City's share considerably from amounts shown here.

(a) Also $575,000 additional in estimated credits from Public Improvements by other Departments to serve the area.

(b) Could carry out in 3 yrs. as a Non-Assisted U.R. Project under the Georgia Redevelopment Law only, with $600,000 borrowed money. Includes interest and $100,000 for Public Improvements.

(c) Also $100,000 in estimated credits from Public Improvements by other Depts. to serve the area.

(d) $200,000 annually for 5 yrs. (1963-7) for Non-Assisted Projects and for acquiring small areas and individual dilapidated properties under the Ga. Redevelopment Law only; and reselling the parcels for more appropriate and better environmental use.

PROGRESS IN URBAN RENEWAL PROJECTS

Rehabilitation:

	June 30, 1961 to Sept. 30, 1962	July, 1959 to Sept.30, 1962
Properties Inspected for Rehabilitation	556	1304
(No. dwelling units involved)	(759)	(2086)
No. units complied	277	583
No. units in progress of rehabilitation		903
No. units demolished as result of rehabilitation efforts		3
Spent by property owners in improvements	$402,000.00	$765,000.00

Redevelopment:

July, 1959 - Sept., 1962
(Extracted from Report to Urban Renewal Committee Sept. 30, 1962)

Project		Acquisition	Demolition
R- 9	(Butler)	91.8%	67.2%
R-10	(Rawson-Washington)	93.5	69.1
R-11	(University	88.5	52.2
R-21	(Rockdale	57.1	35.9
R-22	(Thomasville)	100.0	81.4
R-59	(Georgia State)	0	0
	Total	83.0%	60.0%

Project	Sold	To Sell	Receipts	Families Moved	Families To Relocate
R- 9	31.7 Acres	54.4 Acres	$670,000	780	71
R-10	0.	104.3	0	408	67
R-11	9.1	103.2	356,000	561	252
R-21	0.	200.6	0	185	86
R-22	42.	149.4	281,850	261	15
R-59	0.	4	0
Total	83.6 Acres	615.9 Acres	$1,308,000	2195 (81.3%)	491 (18.7%)

Constructed: 100 FHA 221 Homes
76 Units of apartments

Under Construction: 50 FHA 221 homes
23-story apartment bldg. (200 Units)
8-story motel (300 rooms)
1000 pupil Elementary School (75% complete)
College dormitory (85% complete)

On Planning Board: 520 unit garden apartment development

1

TAX COMPARISON FIGURES

URBAN RENEWAL PROJECT AREAS

*(Figures submitted by Atlanta Housing Authority, January 21, 1959)
#(Central Atlanta Association Figures)

ITEM		BUTLER	RAWS.-WASH.	UNIVERSITY	ROCKDALE	THOMASVILLE	TOTAL
* Present Annual Taxes
(City)		$64,660	$35,203	$44,288	$11,425	$18,026	$173,602
(County)		32,329	17,601	22,144	5,712	9,013	86,799
	Total	96,989	52,804	66,432	17,137	27,039	260,401
* Estimated redeveloped value of taxable properties		$66,696,273	$24,279,345	$11,435,595	$15,945,900	$9,595,080	$127,952,193
Estimated Future Taxes
(City)		549,930	199,697	93,914	131,968	78,808	1,054,317
(County)		274,965	99,697	46,957	65,484	39,404	536,507
	Total	824,895	299,394	140,871	197,452	118,212	1,580,824
Annual tax gain	(City)	485,270	164,494	49,626	120,543	60,782	880,715
	(County)	242,636	82,096	24,813	59,772	30,391	439,708
	Total	$727,906	$246,590	$74,439	$180,315	$91,173	$1,320,423

NOTE: Method of tax computation - City: 70% of assessed property evalutation at full rate of 29.25 mills
County: 50% of assessed property evaluation at full rate of 20.75 mills

#Examples:
21 story Phoenix Corporation Apartment	(land, 2.2 acres - $200,000) (improvements - $3,000,000)	tax before (City & County)	$1,884
		tax after	$42,950
		tax increase	41,066
302 unit Holiday Inn Motel	(land - 3.8 acres - $429,000) (improvements - $3,000,000)	tax before (City & County)	$4,408
		tax after	$48,298
		tax increase	43,890

Prepared by Department of Urban Renewal, 13th Floor, City Hall, Atlanta 3, Georgia

Status of Sale of Parcels in Urban Renewal Projects

March 20, 1963

* Project	Parcel	Acreage	Price Rec'd	Value of New Development	Nature of New Development	Anticipated Tax Return
R-9	A-2	2.19	$200,000	$3,286,000	21 story apt.	$54,380
R-9	A-3	3.85	429,000	3,000,000	300 rm. Motel	53,490
R-9	A-6	.60	78,000	400,000	4 story off.	7,456
R-9	A-7	.27	30,000		bldg. & parking	468
R-9	B-1-9	22.20	450,000	4,000,000	520 unit apts.	71,320
R-9	C-5a,6	2.51	48,150	2,100,000	210 unit P.H. for elderly (C)	none
R-9	C-5	4.17	125,000	250,000	Public Park	none
R-9	C-23a	.19	6,702	See A-6,7	Parking facility	100
R-9	C-25,26	3.47	70,000	342,000	76 unit apts.	6,427
R-9	C-28	1.37	78,100	375,000	20 unit store bldg.	7,066
R-9	D-4,5	4.47	650,000	4,000,000	400 rm. Motel	72,540
R-10	B-10a	.407	17,719	30,000	Off. & Whse.	744
R-11	1,2,3	7.56	295,100	640,100	Public school	none
R-11	4	3.479	65,000	582,000	97 unit apt.	10,093
	41	.06	4,250	18,500	commer. bldg.	350
	58	.183	2,450	8,500	model residence	170
	9a,b	1.42	56,800	564,000	college dormitory	none
	18	7.8	312,000	912,000	college building	none
R-22	Sect.I	30.30	180,136	819,864	100 Residences(s.f.)	12,320
	Sect.II	12.50	101,250	450,000	50 residences(s.f.)	6,150
Totals		108.999	$3,199,757	$21,327,964		$303,074

R-9 Butler Street Project
R-10 Rawson-Washington Project
R-11 University Center Project
R-22 Thomasville Project

4

Butler St. Project Pays Tax Dividend

CONST. By BARBARA MILZ 8-31-62

Tax income for Atlanta and Fulton County will be up $106,817 a year after completion of four projects now under way in the Butler Street Urban Renewal area, Earl Metzger, director of redevelopment, said Thursday.

Metzger said that while the entire 227-acre Butler project area returned only $96,989 a year in city and county taxes before renewal was begun in 1959, improvements on the first four parcels of land alone will result in a $106,817 increase in tax returns.

In the urban renewal program, the Atlanta Housing Authority, as agent for the city, buys sub-standard property in the designated project areas, develops the land with streets and utility systems, then re-sells the land to private enterprise for development.

9 PER CENT MORE

Metzger said the 31 acres already sold or under sales contract in the Butler Street Urban renewal project have brought in $1,219,000, a figure 9 per cent over the expected sales price.

More than a third of the land that will be sold has already been sold or is under sales contract, he said.

In the Thomasville project in Southeast Atlanta, 100 new housing units are occupied or are now ready for occupancy. This area is being developed for individual housing. When the project started, 431 families lived in this neighborhood, mostly in grossly substandard housing.

SERVE 800 FAMILIES

When the project is completed, the area will serve nearly 800 families in new, privately owned housing.

Metzger said the Housing Authority now owns, or has in condemnation proceedings, all of the 266 acres in the Thomasville project.

About one-fifth of the land to be sold in the area is already under sales contracts. These contracts are worth $180,136.

Improvements in the two tracts already developed in the Thomasville project will increase city and county tax returns by $9,415, Metzger said, an increase of one-third.

Metzger said an additional 15 lots for private individual residential building will be offered for bids within the next 15 days in the Thomasville area.

In the 332-acre Rawson-Washington project immediately south of Atlanta's business area, 94 per cent of the property has been acquired or is in condemnation. None of this property has as yet been sold, but 15 industrial tracts on the east side of McDaniel Street are now being advertised for bids.

Construction of new street patterns and installation of utilities is expected to start this fall in the 147-acre Rockdale Urban Renewal Project. The Housing authority now has purchased, or has in condemnation proceedings, more than half of the land to be acquired in the project. Sales of land in this area will start next spring, Metzger said.

This now undeveloped area held 460 families before the project was started. After development, the land will hold 1,666 families.

In the University Center project, 350 acres in the Atlanta University section, the emphasis is on rehabilitation. Work is underway on a new school building in the renewal area.

Metzger said that homeowners working in the project have made expenditures totaling more than $500,000 in bringing their private homes up to Atlanta housing standards.

5

Eugene Patterson

You Won't Pay This $44,000

CONST. 3-21-61

The Atlanta citizen is making a tax break for himself. He is not cutting back on services to do it. Instead he is making a better town while doing it.

He is beginning to see the payoff in urban renewal.

Up to now he has heard about it. Now he can see it.

First, urban renewal clears slums.

Second, it sells the cleared land for better buildings yielding higher taxes.

Third, these higher taxes will help keep the bite off the citizen's own pocketbook.

* * *

Now the citizens can see the plans turning into the payoff.

Take the first renewed area as an example—3.8 acres between Cain and Ellis Streets. Blighted buildings came down. Bids were received. The winning bid for the land came from a group that will build a 302-unit Holiday Inn, six stories tall.

It is estimated that the annual property tax on this property will be $48,000.

Before renewal the property produced just $4,000 in taxes.

That is the break that will keep the bite off the Atlanta taxpayer's little house and lot. When the Holiday Inn people drop a new $44,000 into the city kitty it is bound to spare you some tax pressure on your own purse.

Five areas are presently getting the urban renewal works. Sy Gordy estimates the local tax derived from these five areas was only $260,000 before.

Thus the estimated tax take of $48,000 from the very first lot sold in just one of the five areas already amounts to 20 per cent of the total tax take produced by the whole five areas when they were abandoned to blight.

As more of this land is sold for higher-tax uses, the tax base of Atlanta will obviously broaden enormously. And the growing city will have a place to look for tax revenue besides the small home-owner's hip pocket.

The gross cost of the five urban renewal projects—$40 million—sounded like a lot of money and was. Sale of the cleared land to people like Holiday Inn will get back $15 million of it, making the net cost $25 million, still quite a bankroll.

* * *

But $17 million of that $25 million comes from the federal government, leaving the local government share at only $8 million, with the bulk of that going into schools, streets, sewers and parks to serve the expanding city.

So any taxpayer who hasn't put pencil to paper yet and figured out what urban renewal means to his pocketbook is missing one of life's little pleasures here in the tax season.

And the real beauty is that he is getting something more than tax savings. He is building a better town and creating a better life for slum-dwellers while making a tax break for himself. This is what urban renewal is all about. This is why growth beats retreat as an economic policy. And because Atlanta citizens can see the rewards and surmount all the difficulties of detail and dislocation to achieve them, this city is going places.

URBAN RENEWAL DEPARTMENT

City of Atlanta

November 7, 1962

HOUSING CODE ENFORCEMENT

Some Accomplishments Thru September 30, 1962

(Other than in Urban Renewal Projects)

Housing Code improvement cases made on 4,034 properties, involving 9,337 units.

" " " " complied 2,562 " , " 5,777 " .

Improvements have averaged $1,000 per unit (conservatively estimated).

On the 5,777 units complied, this amounts to $5,777,000.00 in new improvements over a three year period.

In addition, during the same period, dilapidated structures have been demolished under the Housing Code on 433 properties, and new construction has already gone up or is now being built on many of those sites. The estimated value of this new construction amounts to $5,604,908.00. This represents roughly $100,000.00 annually in new taxes, at current rate of assessments, over that which was being derived previously from these same sites with the dilapidated structures on them.

Also, it is estimated that additional improvements, equal to at least 50% of the above figures, has resulted through the indirect influence of the Housing Code, through voluntary efforts of property owners, but without cases actually having been made under the Housing Code against such properties.

In addition to this, 2,887 F.H.A. Insured 221 homes for displaced families of medium income have been built and sold by private enterprise in Atlanta, at an average price of at least $10,000.00 each. All of these homes have been built on land which was previously undeveloped. Even with homestead exemption on every one of these houses, this still represents $217,000.00 annually in tax returns to the City and County, whereas the taxes paid previously on the undeveloped land amounted to only approximately $7,000.00.

The above are only some of the tangible benefits brought about as a result of the City-wide efforts of Urban Renewal, and does not take into consideration the social and environmental benefits which have resulted from these efforts or from improvements being made in Urban Renewal Project areas.

Malcolm D. Jones

Malcolm D. Jones
Director

7

ACHIEVEMENTS . . . PROBLEMS

JOURNAL 2-5-63

Slum Fight Story---the Numbers And the Human Considerations

By PAT WATTERS

IN A sketchy and impressionistic way, this is a presentation on current slum-fighting efforts of the Atlanta Urban Renewal Department.

The situation: In the worst Atlanta slum, Buttermilk Bottoms, 1,200 to 1,600 "dwelling units" where 6,000 human beings live are estimated to be substandard. This is in terms of a bare-minimum housing code, requiring such niceties as hot water, bathing facilities, windows.

(A one-room cave in a typical tenement in the area rents to a couple for $8 a week, according to the occupant, a Negro man who opens the door to a housing inspector without ever asking who he is or why he is looking around. The room has two slits, about one foot high, two feet wide, for windows. They are chinked with cloth against the cold. A radiant gas heater burns. The air is close. The sink is stopped up. Cooking is on a hot plate. Couldn't they find a better place to live? The man shakes his head, indicating either that he can't or he doesn't know or that it doesn't matter.)

LIMITED MANPOWER

Rationale: Buttermilk Bottoms is the worst of eleven remaining slums slated for urban renewal clearance on a map in the office of Oliver Ownby, chief housing inspector of the Urban Renewal Department. It is general policy that these areas are not subject to intensive inspection. The feeling is that if you got them up to standard, you still wouldn't have much, and that it is better to use limited inspection manpower on bordering and borderline slum areas and over the city generally to prevent more slums from developing.

If money were available, it would take until 1970 to get the eleven worst areas cleared out. This and the areas already cleared, and with success of slum-prevention inspections, would make Atlanta virtually slumless. But money is not now available. The bond issue proposal for urban renewal, if approved, would not take care of all of Buttermilk Bottoms.

Mr. Ownby said he felt the only way his job can get lasting results is for the property owners to come to understand why they should want to end slums, not to have to be forced into it.

Meanwhile, there are 6,000 human beings in there, and thousands in the other ten areas.

The work: Last year, 1,691 initial inspections were made by Mr. Ownby's staff. Another 11,290 re-inspections were made. There were 530 minor deficiency cases. There were 1,306 major repairs ordered involving 3,140 units. There were 1,181 compliances in this category affecting 2,681 units. There were 385 orders for demolitions affecting 835 units, and 227 compliances affecting 508 units. Families displaced were 508. There were 185 court cases, 184 of which were won.

You can ride around areas where this work has been going on and see its results. A house among a block of shacks, or a block among an area of shabbiness or whole areas in a rundown section will have shining roofs and fresh paint and an air of wholesomeness. Cleared areas where houses were ordered destroyed are refilled with new, basically decent apartment houses.

(You can also see a big, wooden house, broken into apartments which rent for $30 a month, in a state of general decay, with inadequate patchings, and an under-the-house, unbelievable jumble of filth and scattered junk—old tables, boards, floor furnaces, beds, trunks, rabbit pens—a breeding ground for rats and fires. It has been two years since the owner was notified to bring the place up to standards.)

TWENTY NEEDED

Problems: There are nine inspectors, including the chief. He is not in the field constantly, nor is one man who handles court cases. This leaves seven men to cover the city. Twenty would be more nearly what is needed. They work in a scatter-gun pattern which means a lot of initial inspections, but not enough time for the necessary follow-through actions that would convince recalcitrant slum profiteers that delay in obeying orders is fruitless. It takes an average of six reinspections to get compliance of defects found in the initial inspections. Follow-up caseloads continue to increase.

A hitch in the law is the provision that an owner must be allowed a chance to fix a place not up to standards. In some cases, deterioration is so great that demolition is the only answer. A cut-off point for degree of deterioration beyond which repairs wouldn't be allowed is needed.

8

A REPORT

To The Citizens of Atlanta

On

URBAN RENEWAL

During

1961

URBAN RENEWAL DEPARTMENT
CITY OF ATLANTA
BY
MALCOLM D. JONES, DIRECTOR

PUBLISHED BY CITIZENS ADVISORY COMMITTEE
FOR URBAN RENEWAL
J. ARCH AVARY, JR., CHAIRMAN

9

CITY OF ATLANTA

Ivan Allen, Jr., Mayor

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Sam Massell, Jr., President

FIRST WARD: James E. Jackson; Robert S. Dennis
SECOND WARD: E. A. Gilliam; R. E. Lee Field
THIRD WARD: Wm. T. Knight; James E. Vickers
FOURTH WARD: Douglas Wood; Charles Leftwich
FIFTH WARD: John A. White; G. Everett Millican
SIXTH WARD: Richard C. Freeman; Cecil Turner
SEVENTH WARD: Jack Summers; Milton G. Farris
EIGHTH WARD: Rodney M. Cook; Douglas L. Fowlkes

URBAN RENEWAL COMMITTEE

G. Everett Millican, Chairman
John A. White, Vice Chairman
A. E. Gilliam Rodney M. Cook

BETTER HOUSING COMMISSION

B. A. Martin, Chairman
C. Talmadge Hardeman Dr. Sidney L. Davis
Sam I. Cooper R. A. Thompson

URBAN RENEWAL DEPARTMENT

Malcolm D. Jones, Director
Joseph A. Rabun, Assistant Director
Willis L. Buckner, Rehabilitation Specialist
Oliver M. Ownby, Environmental Improvement Div.
James A. Smith, Relocation Housing Div.

HOUSING AUTHORITY

John O. Chiles, Chairman
Dr. Allen D. Albert, Jr., Vice Chairman Edwin L. Sterne
Frank G. Etheridge Charles E. Thwaite, Jr.
M. B. Satterfield, Executive Director
Earl H. Metzger, Director of Redevelopment

CITIZENS ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR URBAN RENEWAL

J. Arch Avary, Chairman
W. L. Ramsey, Executive Secretary

URBAN RENEWAL DEPARTMENT

City of Atlanta

REPORT FOR 1961

I. PURPOSE, FUNCTIONS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

The primary purpose of this report is to bring to the citizens of Atlanta a better concept of Urban Renewal, why we have it, how it works, who is responsible for it, what has been accomplished to date, principal needs for the future and suggestions for accomplishing them.

The Urban Renewal Department performs four major functions, the first and foremost of which is prescribed in ordinance establishing the Department, adopted July 1, 1957 which states, "The functions of this department shall be to study the Urban Renewal requirements of the City of Atlanta, to determine ways and means for their accomplishment and to provide and facilitate timely coordination and orderly development of Urban Renewal plans, projects and other related activities throughout the city . . . and to make recommendations for facilitating progress on Urban Renewal in the City of Atlanta. . ."

In carrying out this function the Urban Renewal Department serves as the staff of the Urban Renewal Committee of the Board of Aldermen and performs the principal coordinating activities on Urban Renewal matters with other Departments and Agencies. This work is performed by the Director, Assistant Director, Rehabilitation Specialist and Secretary.

The second function assigned this Department, as of July 1, 1959, is enforcement of the Housing and Slum Clearance Code of the City of Atlanta. For this purpose the Department is now authorized a Chief Inspector, 8 Field Inspectors and 2 Clerks.

The third function is the city-wide responsibility for providing relocation housing assistance for families displaced by Governmental action, including expressway acquisition, and for issuance of certificates of eligibility to displaced families for purchase of FHA insured mortgage homes under the 221 Program. A relocation Housing Officer and Secretary perform this function.

The fourth and most recently assigned function, since August 1, 1960, is responsibility for enforcement of the City Ordinance requiring that demolitions be accomplished within a prescribed time limit after issuance of demolition permit and that resulting debris, litter and rubble be removed from the premises. This function is performed by the Environmental Improvement Division, in addition to Housing Code enforcement.

The Urban Renewal Department, with advice and assistance of other Departments, especially the Planning Department, initiates and makes recommendations to the Urban Renewal Committee of the Board of Aldermen for new Urban Renewal Projects, reviews Urban Renewal Plans for the Urban Renewal Committee and when appropriate initiates changes in boundaries of existing Projects.

Survey, planning and execution of the City's current Urban Renewal Projects, after selection, designation and adoption of the Projects by the City, has been delegated by Ordinance to the Housing Authority of the City of Atlanta, as the City's Agent.

However, the establishment of broad policies for operation of the entire Urban Renewal program and responsibility for insuring that they are carried out is a duty and function of the City (the Mayor and Board of Aldermen) executed through its Urban Renewal Committee. This responsibility should not and cannot be delegated.

II. SUMMARY—EXISTING URBAN RENEWAL PROJECTS:

Atlanta's five Urban Renewal Projects now comprise 1303 acres, originally contained 2,971 substandard residential structures to be demolished, 1500 dwellings to be rehabilitated, will require 4,545 families to move and after redevelopment will house 7,598 families in safe, decent and sanitary standard housing (a gain of 969 families) above the number that were in the areas originally. The net project cost of the first five projects will be roughly $27,000,000, of which the local share is $9,000,000, with $18,000,000 being borne by the Federal Government.

Of the local share, all but $1,500,000 in cash, the total 1957 Urban Renewal Bond funds, is being provided by non-cash grants in aid by other departments for capital improvements which will serve the areas. $4,500,000 of this amount is being provided by the Board of Education in the form of school construction.

Taxes (city and county) derived from the areas before the projects started was $160,000 annually; after redevelopment is complete the value of newly constructed taxable property in the areas is conservatively estimated to be $125,000,000, producing in real estate taxes alone $1,600,000 annually, an increase of ten fold.

The first three (center of town) projects were adopted in February, 1956, and the two outlying projects, for relocation purposes, were adopted in August, 1957. Final plans for Butler, Rawson-Washington and Thomasville Projects were approved July, 1959, and for University and Rockdale June, 1960. Execution is considered to have started in Butler, Rawson-Washington and Thomasville Projects January 1, 1960, and in University and Rockdale January 1, 1961. The redevelopment phase is five years for all projects.

By year end 1961, some 2400 substandard properties had been acquired by the Housing Authority at an expenditure of $17,000,000. 70% of all parcels to be acquired, have been purchased or are under condemnation; all property in the Thomasville Project had been acquired or was in the process of condemnation; over 1,000 substandard structures had been demolished and their occupants rehoused in standard dwellings; 431 dwelling units in the Urban Renewal Projects had been brought up to standards required by the Housing Code and 673 additional units were in the process of being rehabilitated. Six parcels, consisting of 69.43 acres, or 7.5% of the Urban Renewal tracts, have already been sold for redevelopment valued at $12,068,350. This includes a $3,250,000, 21 story, luxury apartment building; a 1,000 pupil elementary school, an 8 story Holiday Motel; 596 medium priced rental apartment units; and 100 units of single family 221 sales housing.

III. PRINCIPAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE URBAN RENEWAL DEPARTMENT:

Housing Code Enforcement:

In order to make the Housing Code felt throughout the entire city, the Environmental Improvement Division has devoted its efforts during 1961 primarily to the worst property in the block or neighborhood basis. However, in addition to city-wide coverage, conservation areas in salvagable, residential neighborhoods have now been selected for concentrated effort in 1962 on a house-by-house basis. This should result in substantial increased production during 1962.

A Summary of Housing Code Enforcement Activities Follows:

As of December 31, 1961

		Initiated	Completed	Sept.-Dec.
/6. Major Repairs:	Cases	695	82	'59
		793	544	1960
		1509	1046	1961
	Units	3628	1307	1959
		3063	2270	1961
/4. Demolitions:	Cases	111	51	1960
		326	205	1961
	Units	271	216	1960
		712	407	1961
/3. Minor Deficiencies: (Usually clean up of premises)		201	130	1959
		306	329	1960
		974	410	1961
/2. Properties Inspected in Conservation Areas			747
/2. Cases referred to other Departments			121	1960
			207	1961
/2. Demolition Permits complied			387
/2. Court cases for non-compliance with Demolition Permits			(9)
/3. Cases considered by Better Housing Commission			(137)	1960
			(325)	1961
Units Placarded (with approval of B.H.C.)			(242)	1960
			(675)	1961
Families required to move—for demolitions			(192)	1960
Families required to move for other reasons			(465)	1961
			(7)
/6. Court Cases for Housing Code violations (all won)			36	1960
			47	1961

*NOTES:

Where no dates are indicated, figures pertain to 1961 operations only.
Figures in ( ) also included under other items.
/6. Requires average of 6 inspections each
/4. Requires average of 4 inspections each.
/3. Requires average of 3 inspections each.
/2. Requires average of 2 inspections each.
At year end, Inspectors were carrying an average work load of approximately 225 uncompleted cases each.

The above was accomplished with only 4 Inspectors in 1959 and 1960; in 1961 with 6-1/3 Inspectors; 8 Inspectors are now authorized.

The Better Housing Commission has considered 462 slow moving and difficult cases in an effort to resolve them without court action; and has authorized the placarding of 917 dwelling units.

Relocation Housing:

During 1961, 620 certificates of eligibility (23 to Whites and 597 to Negroes) were issued by the Relocation Housing Division to displaced families for the purchase of FHA insured mortgage homes built by private enterprise. A total of 3,210 certificates (306 to Whites and 2904 to Negroes) have been issued under this program to date. Since this program started in 1958, building permits have been issued for construction within the City of Atlanta for 2,889 single family, 221 houses (1072 for Whites and 1817 for Negroes). All but 100 of these have been completed and all but 137 of the completed houses have been sold and occupied. This program alone represents $29,000,000 in new construction in Atlanta.

The Relocation Housing office of this Department has relocated 58 displaced families in private rentals and referred 340 families to Public Housing.

Fight Blight:

During April, 1961, the Urban Renewal Department, with the assistance of other Departments and agencies, promoted and spear-headed a very successful city-wide FIGHT BLIGHT campaign. This was closely tied in with and supported by the Women's Chamber of Commerce in connection with its annual Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up Campaign.

Exhibits:

During the week of August 21-26, 1961, this Department participated with other City Departments in providing displays at Lenox Square for the "Salute to Atlanta." The Department also had a very substantial and informative Urban Renewal display at the Southeastern Fair.

Recertification of Workable Program:

The Department prepared, with assistance of material furnished by other Departments and Agencies, Atlanta's annual report for Recertification of Progress in Community Improvement (Workable Program). The principal comments by the Federal Government in its Recertification of the Workable Program (to January 1, 1963) were:

(1) That progress in Housing Code enforcement is good, but the City badly needs additional Inspectors and suggestion was made that building permit fees might be increased to finance the cost of the Housing Code enforcement service; and

(2) That activities of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Urban Renewal be more comprehensive and positive in the role of actually accomplishing community improvements.

Apartment Improvement:

Inspection and upgrading major medium rental apartment developments has been undertaken by the Rehabilitation Specialist of the Department.

Revision of Housing Code:

A comprehensive revision of the Housing Code is currently being undertaken, designed to clarify and strengthen certain provisions of the Code, based on our 2½ years actual experience in Code Enforcement.

IV. OTHER MAJOR URBAN RENEWAL ~~REP~~ORTS AND RELATED PROJECTS:
EFF

Buttermilk Bottoms:

The 160 acre Buttermilk Bottoms tract has, since November, 1960, been designated and adopted by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen as a future Urban Renewal Project. This area has long been considered by many as Atlanta's future Number 1 Urban Renewal Project.

West End:

A General Neighborhood Renewal Plan study is underway in a 650 acre area of the "West End": to be completed in June, 1962. It is anticipated that a $1,500,000 Urban Renewal Project will develop in at least 10% of the area being studied.

Transportation Plaza:

A Feasibility Study for future Urban Renewal Projects is being made by the Planning Department in the 500 acre tract known as "Transportation Plaza," which includes the area between Whitehall-Spring Streets and Northside Drive, from McDaniel Street to North Avenue.

Georgia State College:

An Urban Renewal Project for expansion of Georgia State College along Decatur Street, between Central Avenue and Piedmont Avenue, is already definitely underway, with the entire local share of the cost of the project being borne by Georgia State College and the State Board of Regents.

Howard School:

Application has been prepared for submittal to the Federal Government for a small Urban Project sponsored by the School Department primarily for expansion of Howard High School. The Board of Education has committed itself to defray all but $17,500 of the cost of the local share of this project.

East Atlanta:

An application is being prepared by the Housing Authority for a 110 acre Urban Renewal Project in East Atlanta in the Mayson Avenue-Hardee Street area. About half of this project is contemplated for rehabilitation. There is also sufficient vacant land in this project to provide location within the project for construction of additional public housing units required, before any demolition takes place within the project area.

Bond Issue:

Since 1958 the Urban Renewal Department has been working consistently for adoption of a Long Range Program for future Urban Renewal Projects, has developed such a proposal for consideration by the Urban Renewal Committee and is prepared to present and support the proposal before the Bond Commission. This proposal is for six year program, 1962-7, and, in addition to the projects listed above, includes five other badly needed projects. Two of these are proposed as "companion" projects to complement others. The local share of this proposed six year program amounts to $8,000,000. This includes a $1,000,000 revolving fund for non-Federal-assisted projects. This amount is not excessive, when compared with the needs of the City, and is in keeping with the financial effort being made in Urban Renewal by other cities of comparable size.

Relocation Housing:

Other developments in progress, not a direct part of but closely related to Urban Renewal, are the 650 unit Field Road Public Housing Project for Negroes and 250 units of high-rise Public Housing for Elderly (Whites) now underway on Ashby Street, just South of the Joel Chandler Harris Public Housing Project. Also commitment has been made in the Eastern sector of the Butler Street Urban Renewal Project for 200 units of high-rise Public Housing for the Elderly (Negroes).

V. CITIZENS PARTICIPATION:

The highlight of citizen participation during 1961 was the enthusiastic and effective part played by neighborhood groups, business associations, trade organizations, clubs and individual citizens in Atlanta's first FIGHT BLIGHT Campaign. The Citizens Advisory Committee for Urban Renewal was particularly helpful in a clerical, financial and advisory capacity. Throughout the year the Acting Director of the Citizens Advisory Committee published and distributed to its membership a very informative weekly newsletter. The Citizens Advisory Committee also provided for publication of the 1960 Report of the Urban Renewal Department, and has offered to publish this report. It has also been very active through the courtesy of the Trust Company of Georgia in arranging informative talks and tours on Urban Renewal for various citizen groups.

The Chamber of Commerce has listed progress in Urban Renewal as one of its seven major objectives during 1962. The first edition of "Atlanta" (January, 1962, edition), a publication sponsored by the "Forward Atlanta" movement of the Chamber of Commerce, contained as its primary feature an excellent article on Urban Renewal.

The Central Atlanta Association and the newly organized Uptown Association have both strongly endorsed and adopted policy supporting Urban Renewal.

The League of Women Voters published during 1961 a special edition of its "FACTS" pamphlet devoted exclusively to Urban Renewal. Both this organization and the Voters Guild prominently featured Urban Renewal in their educational campaigns for voters during the 1961 Primary and General Election. All local candidates for re-election during the 1961 Mayor and Board of Aldermen campaign endorsed and promised support for Urban Renewal.

The local press, radio and television have consistently supported and assisted the Urban Renewal Program.

VI. SPECIAL NEEDS FOR THE FUTURE:

(a) According to the 1960 census, there are 40,000 dwelling units within the City of Atlanta that are dilapidated or deteriorating. These represent areas of the City six times as extensive as our current Urban Renewal Projects. It takes little imagination to see the need for Housing Code Enforcement and Urban Renewal clearance projects in these areas.

(b) A Long Range Program for future Urban Renewal Projects, with some degree of acceptance for future development, is essential to planning areas for Housing Code Enforcement, taking full advantage of capital improvements by other Departments for Urban Renewal credit purposes and for controlling, or at least influencing, interim developments in various critical areas of the City.

(c) Adequate provision for financing such a program on a continuing basis is a must, if Urban Renewal is to serve the purpose intended in Atlanta, and which it is capable of doing, if given adequate financial support. The City simply cannot afford to fail to take advantage of the opportunity now offered, through the Urban Renewal Program, to rid itself of its extensive festering slums.

(d) Future substantial Urban Renewal Projects cannot be undertaken, however, without simultaneously providing for additional Public Housing to accommodate those displaced families whose income is too low to buy or rent standard dwelling units in the open market.

(e) The adoption by the City of Minimum Standards for existing commercial and industrial properties, similar to those now in the Housing Code for residential structures, is essential if we are to eliminate slums and upgrade neighborhoods.

(f) Violations of the Housing Code are so numerous and extensive, it is doubtful that material progress can be made in corrective measures until the Courts adopt the policy of fining offenders on first notice and summons for Housing Code violations, in much the same manner as is now followed in Traffic Court for traffic violations.

(g) The Sanitary, Health and Fire Departments have been and can continue to contribute tremendously to Environmental Improvement throughout the City by assisting in enforcing clean up of premises and removal of accumulations of trash and litter from occupied properties and vacant lots. This will, at the same time, improve sanitary and health conditions and reduce fire hazards.

(h) Improvement of apartment zoning regulations would greatly assist, from an Environmental Improvement standpoint, prevention of future slums, through new construction .

(i) Greater restrictions and controls on operators of junk yards and salvage dumps throughout the City is very much needed. A requirement for screening existing establishments in this category with a woven redwood fence, similar to that now required for new establishments would be a tremendous benefit to the City in its Environmental Improvement effort.

(j) Thorough rehabilitation through Housing Code enforcement is the backbone of the City-wide Urban Renewal effort. Increased emphasis now on this phase, with additional Housing Code Inspectors, is far cheaper and more practical for the City than clearance and redevelopment later, except in those areas which are already so badly deteriorated that it is not economically feasible to rehabilitate them.

(k) The need urgently exists for some appropriate incentives, probably tax concessions, to encourage private enterprise to redevelop, at no cost to the City, slum areas in accordance with plans and appropriate controls established and approved by the City.

VII. IN APPRECIATION:

The Urban Renewal Department is especially appreciative of assistance and cooperation rendered during 1961 in the overall Urban Renewal effort by the following on various and special occasions, for which space herein does not permit detailed recognition.

Various Departments of the City of Atlanta (especially the Planning and Construction Departments):

Housing Authority of the City of Atlanta
Board of Education
Atlanta-Fulton County Joint Planning Board
State Highway Department
Fulton County Health Department
Federal Agencies
Citizens Advisory Committee for Urban Renewal
Municipal Court
Better Housing Commission
Atlanta Chamber of Commerce
Women's Chamber of Commerce
Central Atlanta Association
Uptown Association
Atlanta Real Estate Board
Fulton County Grand Juries
Grand Jurors Association
Voters Guild
League of Women Voters
Atlanta Urban League
Atlanta newspapers and local radio and television stations
Trust Company of Georgia
And host of organizations, clubs and individual friends and supporters

The Urban Renewal Department especially wishes to acknowledge the valuable services and consistent support given this Department and the Urban Renewal Program by two former members of the Urban Renewal Committee, Alderman Jesse Draper and W. A. "Bill" Sims, who chose not to stand for re-election in the 1961 political campaign.

Uptowning -----

UPTOWN ASSOCIATION of ATLANTA

"Planning for Progress..."

NUMBER 53 JUNE 11, 1963

872-0124 Room 914 615 Peachtree St., Atlanta 8, Ga.

"Shot-Guns"

"Too bad to keep — too good to tear down"

New slums are being built faster than the old are cleared.

Construction of "shotgun" apartments crowded lengthwise onto long, narrow lots, and void of vital amenities of open space, play areas, adequate parking, and pleasant design, threatens to choke this great City with an impenetrable mass of new slums which are "too bad to leave, and too good (expensive) to tear down."

Such apartments will deteriorate ---- rapidly.

The problem originates quite innocently when someone decides to erect "14 units" on a long, narrow lot, present site of an old, deteriorating, single-family home.

The argument: "wouldn't it be a real improvement to tear down that horrible old house and replace it with a fine, new, modern apartment?"

The foot is in the door of that block.

The first "shotgun" is not too bad --- maybe inconspicuous or even superficially pleasant looking --- nestled innocently among its single-family neighbors.

But, then two things happen:

1. Adjacent property owners can't stand the invasion of privacy and overcrowding, and
2. They are approached with offers from opportunists who see their dilemma.

Thus the cancer starts its spread.

After all, if the first person could erect "14 units", why shouldn't the next, ... and the next, ... and the next?

Soon the block rivals wartime army encampments.

The first "dear young couples" find the situation intolerable. ..... fenders are scraped in crowded driveways .... bedroom secrets become public through thin walls .... quality of tenants gets progressively worse.

Slums are on the way.

FOR WHOM DOES THE BELL TOLL?

It tolls for the innocent taxpayer who must unknowingly subsidize this folly.

In failing to provide adequate parking, open space, play areas, and decent planning, these "shotguns" impose themselves heavily not only on the immediate neighborhood, but on the entire City as well.

Doomed to overcrowding and deterioration, these new slums will demand disproportionate police and fire protection. They will be problem centers.

THE BELL TOLLS for downtown property owners and businessmen who would be hurt by such Mediocrity.

IT TOLLS FOR A GREAT CITY.

TOWARD ACTION:

What can be done?

The City Planning Department is working on changes in the Zoning Ordinance, designed to remedy this situation.

Basically, these changes require that adequate open space be provided, that parking be sufficient, and that other basic amenities be provided. Assembly of large parcels for planned, substantial development, is encouraged by these changes. Harmful effects on neighbors are minimized by these changes.

MAY THESE REVISIONS BE ENACTED QUICKLY, AND WITHOUT "GRANDFATHER CLAUSES" WHICH WOULD ENCOURAGE LAST-MINUTE BUILDERS TO GET IN UNDER THE WIRE.

And then, it is hoped that Administrators of the Ordinance, the Planning and Zoning Board, the Board of Adjustments, and the public will work earnestly to tighten the belt against this problem which could seriously and permanently hurt Atlanta.

ATLANTA FORWARD ---- THROUGH SOUND DEVELOPMENT.

Uptowning-----

#1 #2 #3 #4

The "line-up"---

---note originality of design as seen from street.

Note the 12' canyon. Has excellent view into next-door apartment.

Main access to basement parking through unpaved alleys.

Dent-conscious tenants----

----park off of narrow, inadequate driveway.

Inspiring front-door view---

Uptowning - - - -

"No visitors allowed"

Sometimes the skill and ingenuity needed to meet zoning requirements are surpassed only by that of tenants trying to make inadequate facilities work.

Parking lot for new, 8-unit apartment - - -

Combination parking lot, playground, landscaping, and garbage dump.

Mouth-watering 20 units - - -

Another one-note drive

Here's hoping that appropriate action will be forthcoming so that we may grow BIGGER & BETTER — NOT BIGGER & WORSE —

Bob Bivens

Eugene Patterson

A Judgment To Be Made

As the owner of some Buttermilk Bottom slum houses talked rapidly of his blamelessness in the Chestnut Way floods, the mind reached beyond the squalor of backstreet Atlanta to Latin America—and further still. Dr. Milton Eisenhower has just written a book about Latin America.

In "The Wine Is Bitter" he describes his first missions down there in the early 1950s. His brother, the President, had asked him to shape a new policy for Latin America. Thinking then was "solely in terms of orthodox economic aid." But what he saw emerge was "a surging, swelling, revolutionary demand, not just for aid, but for rapid social revolution in country after country."

* * *

The Latin America Dr. Eisenhower visited is across the Caribbean Sea. Buttermilk Bottom is within walking distance of this office, and the old, the poor and the blind there had mud in their shanties again. The landlord was talking, but so was Dr. Eisenhower. Latin America, he wrote fervently, is on the edge of revolution, and North and South Americans must recognize the alternatives.

"The real alternatives are between justice and injustice, freedom and enslavement, poverty and plenty—between peaceful revolution leading to progress and violent revolution leading to tyranny."

There was no threat of violent revolution down in Buttermilk Bottom, of course. The Negroes in the wet, ruined shacks were too few, too weak, or too old for that. For the second time in two months there was just mud on the floor, wet baby clothes, ruined food, stagnant water and swarming flies, and an outraged reporter like The Constitution's Barbara Milz to tell us what the barefoot mother of eight children said: "I don't know what we're going to do."

The slum owner was still talking rapidly. No, he didn't really think some of those propped-up shacks of his were fit to live in. Yes, he had sought an injunction against the urban renewal people when they wanted to tear them down. No, he didn't believe the poor people who were paying him as little as $27.50 a month rent could afford to live anywhere else, so he felt he was performing some sort of service by renting such shacks. Yes, he was making $9,000 a year off those rentals.

He pictured himself as filling a necessary need by renting houses where eight or nine people live in a room, because it was the only place they could afford to live unless public housing were to be built for them.

* * *

But many rental property owners oppose public housing as socialism and demand that the whole thing be left to private enterprise. So why didn't the slum owner get his money out of the Buttermilk Bottom slum stuff—cooperate with urban renewal if necessary—and put it into better private enterprise housing at a price those people could afford?

You can't do that, he said. Private enterprise can't build decent places for such poor people to live at prices they can afford. Oh?

Get public housing, was his out. But private enterprise fights public housing. So he goes on making money renting slums not fit to live in. And the city goes on telling why it can't stop the flooding of the shacks. And the barefoot mother says she doesn't know what she's going to do.

The first thing Americans ought to do, if they are serious about their reverence for the American system, is to set some minimum standards as to what kind of life the system is going to yield its poor. Dr. Eisenhower said it for the hemisphere. Atlantans have a local decision to make, if we believe our speeches.

City Relocating 156 From Flooded Area

By JIM BENTLEY

About 30 families in flood-plagued Buttermilk Bottoms will be moved to new homes within a few days, city officials said Wednesday.

A total of 156 persons will be relocated from the flood-threatened area of Chestnut Way and Butler Street NE, officials said. Of these, 78 will be moved to 17 units in city-owned urban renewal projects for temporary residency.

It was also disclosed Wednesday that efforts are underway to obtain funds for an $800,000 sewer from Piedmont Park to just south of Baker.

It was the lack of adequate sewer lines in Buttermilk Bottoms which led to flooded homes, mud-covered clothing spoiled foodstuffs and dangerous sanitary conditions after heavy rains of past months.

Announcement of the city's decision to take action on the matter was made Wednesday at a meeting of Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., city department heads and aldermen.

In addition, plans were made to fight spreading slum conditions in nearby neighborhoods by placarding vacant buildings which are unfit for habitation and possibly cutting off utilities.

Alderman Rodney Cook said some of the 78 persons who are not being moved into city projects will be able to find other housing on their own, and the city will continue its search for additional units.

The cost of moving all 156 persons, and the costs of repair work on the 17 urban renewal units, will be paid by the Protestant Welfare and Social Service, Cook said.

City Engineer Ray Nixon said work on the sewer can begin as soon as arrangements are made to borrow $450,000. Aldermanic approval would be needed to borrow the funds.

Celestine Sibley

An Open Letter to Mayor Allen And the Chamber of Commerce

Gentlemen: This is an appeal from one who loves Atlanta to you who work almost full time to keep it worthy of love. Please drive down and take a look at Chestnut Avenue, NE. Yourselves. Now. Don't call the health department or the welfare department or the city sanitarians or the urban renewal people. As you love Atlanta and care whether it is a decent city, go yourselves and take a look at a horrid little pocket of human suffering on the front of our municipal shirt.

You can't miss Chestnut Avenue. Just go Piedmont to Baker and turn left at Butler. From there on your nose will guide you. You'll smell mud, well flavored with city sewage, stagnant water standing in old basements, the fine aroma of old flooring soaked with human excrement and scrubbed with lye, mouldy mattresses drying in the sun, old quilts covered with mildew, crumbling plaster, rotting sills and spoiled food.

Just another slum, you might say. But this slum is a special one. It is a city-created slum. The houses on little Chestnut Avenue and its neighbor, Chestnut Way, aren't anything the Chamber of Commerce would point to with pride, it's true.

They are tenements. But 20-odd Negro families lived in them with reasonable comfort and decency until three months ago when an overloaded sewer in the area of the new expressway suddenly shot a Mississippi River type flood into the area. That was May.

It happened again last week. Within ten minutes families saw water pour into their yards, rise over their thresholds and climb half-way up the walls of their houses, overturning refrigerators and tables, floating their food and their clothes out the door.

These are poor people, Mr. Mayor and gentlemen. But many of them pay $30 or $40 a month for their hovels and try to keep them clean.

The day I visited there had been a mass hosing down of floors and clothes washing. Everywhere I saw little garden patches and flower boxes—evidence of caring about a home.

Nobody reimburses them for their losses. The landlord blames the city. The city . . . what does the city say? That it can't be helped? I can't believe that, not of Atlanta. It's not the Atlanta way to wait for an epidemic of typhoid to break out before the health department moves in, is it?

I hope it is not the Atlanta way to wait until some child or old and ill person is drowned by flood waters before the city either corrects the faulty sewer system or condemns the area and evacuates its residents to a safer place.

Barbara Milz was my guide to Chestnut Avenue. She and Zenas Sears of WAOK have made trip after trip down there and they know it well. They can show you but I doubt if you'll need help in finding it. It's within full view of all the beautiful big buildings which make our skyline such a heart-lifting sight.

Please go and see.

Celestine Sibley.

THE LOWER DEPTHS

The 'Other America' Is Our Great Failure

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Philadelphia.

FOR ANY fairly prosperous white American, who is also proud of his country, on-the-spot reporting of the civil rights crisis in a big Northern city like this one is an almost unbearably painful experience.

If anything, the situation of the Negroes here in Philadelphia is rather better than in most of the great Northern cities. But go into Philadelphia's Negro slums, with their countless blocks of half-ruinous row houses, in which it is not uncommon to find 20 or 30 people living in six filthy little rooms, with a single, unspeakable common toilet.

You find squalid, teacher-short high schools from which more than three-quarters of the children drop out before completing the course. You are led to one 12-block area where 80 per cent of the young were found to be jobless by a recent survey.

"Things are better," people tell you. But when you ask how much better, you get such an answer as I got from one of the leaders of the Philadelphia Ministers Conference, Rev. Amos Brackeen.

JOBS

"You can't imagine what it means to my people," he said very simply, "to see the gas meter being read or a few cases of soft-drinks being delivered by men of their own race. Those are jobs involving money, receipts, paper work. They weren't jobs for Negroes before just the other day."

The nine Americans in 10 who belong to the affluent America should be sentenced by law to spend one day a week in that other America that you find in the slums of North Philadelphia.

See the situation at first hand, furthermore, and you will learn the bitter truth that although discrimination is being worn away by daily pressure, the underlying problem is still growing more difficult rather than more easy.

Already the earnings of Negro women are estimated to exceed the earnings of Negro men by as much as 80 per cent.

Every building that installs automatic elevators abolishes four or eight or ten Negro jobs. Every industrial process improved to eliminate rough, strong-backed work eliminates 30 or 40 or 50 Negro jobs.

And in Negro ghettos, educational deprivation has always gone hand-in-hand with economic deprivation; so those who lose their jobs as common laborers are never able to find jobs as skilled workers.

This is not just a Negro problem, either. In the other America of economic and educational deprivation the national statistics show that more than half the inhabitants are white men and women and children in depressed areas or unlucky cities or impoverished rural regions.

The time has come — indeed, the time came long ago — for a massive national effort to help all the inhabitants of this other America to escape into normal American society.

ESSENTIAL

For the Negro people, the end of racial discrimination is the most essential part of that effort. For all the inhabitants of the other America, huge investments are also needed, in education above all, but also in job-retraining programs.

Even then, the problem will not be solved for the Negro people unless their leaders quickly begin to recognize an additional duty besides the duty to be militant against discrimination. Resignation, hopelessness, the feeling that "it's no use learning to do jobs that aren't for Negroes," have played and still continue to play as large a role in Negro educational deprivation as the shocking badness of so many segregated schools.

Only the Negro leaders can combat these ingrained attitudes of their own people.

As for the rest of us, our task is to insure that the doors open wide and open fast; and if we fail, we should be derelict in our duties to our country and our God.—(c1963.)

. . . .

I. Exploratory Theme:

Based on present facts, will Atlanta's future growth, both economically and as a responsible vital body politic, be essentially healthy or malignant?

Specific Question:

What are the present dynamics in the reactions between Atlanta's sulms and suburbs, and between the business community and low socio-economic strata?

The focus of the series should be to constructively present the facts concerning the delimma facing modern American cities as the rate of urbanization accelerates. The primary focus should not be on exposing personalities.

II. Present Basic Facts:

A. There are many thousand of slum dwelling units surrounding the five present and projected urban renewal projects in which by policy there is no systematic enforcement of the Atlanta Housing Code.

Research of Implications:

1. These units provide a goldmine of low tax, high income investment for real-estate companies (see Ed Hughes' article in The Atlanta Journal, Spring, 1959).

2. These same areas are of the highest social disorganization in the city. What do they cost the city in manpower and money through police protection, welfare, courts and penal costs, school drop-outs, etc.?

3. Rapid deterioration of the adjoining neighborhoods is taking place daily under present policy.

4. What effect does the race question have on this picture? What is the ratio of Negro to White real-estate land use and population density? What effect does this have on the strength of the Negro block vote at the ward and precinct level? What effect does the land-use pattern and population density have on the present strategy of Negro real-estate - the Empire Realty Board, etc.?

And present times there!

5. What significance do the facts of 1 - 4 above have on the future of central Atlanta (or the present city limits) as a business - commerce - cultural center?

B. The present ineffectiveness of the official Housing Code and its enforcement, given the integrity and competency of Mr. Owenby and his staff of inspectors.

Research of Implications:

1. Number of dwelling units actually brought up to standards relative to the number of initial inspections made over a 4 year period, for instance. → And when these are all left.

2. Is there a lack of centralized authority and coordination at the City Hall which contributes to the ineffectiveness of enforcement?

3. Are there different philosophies, strategies, and official categories used by the different departments at City Hall which make present coordination of enforcement impossible?

4. What type and quality of communication is there between City Urban Renewal and the people of the city through the Aldermanic Urban Renewal Committee of which Rodney Cook is the present Chairman.

5. Is there a break-down of enforcement of the Housing Code at the point of proceedings in the courts.

6. Is there one over-all and coordinated community plan for Atlanta which would set the Housing Code and its enforcement in concrete perspective and provide a rationale for operating enforcement.

7. What are the various relations between the Metropolitan Planning Commission and the City Planning Department, and why are there these two bodies dealing with much the same material? Does the Citizen's Advisory Board of the Metropolitan Planning Commission carry out its proper function as a corrective and guide on the basis of all interests in Metropolitan Atlanta.

III. If A and B of II above provide a general picture of incompetency and unhealthiness, then research is warrented of the division of urban renewal in Atlanta from the 1950's to date as well as its future projections.

Research of Implications:

1. What were the rationale and criteria used for selecting the five initial Urban Renewal projects? Who made the decisions?

2. How was relocation handled, and how has it affected the present picture (II)?

3. Who has made money off of Atlanta Urban Renewal in the last ten years? And how is the Presidential Federal Housing Order affecting present and future Urban Renewal plans?

4. If there is no over-all plan, why not? What of neighborhood conservation? Is there, or will there be, a community re-development plan? Is the newly-approved bi-racial real-estate committee effective without such a plan? And without the plan, what function does this committee actually perform for the city? in light of present structure

5. If 1 - 4 above fit into a fairly disturbing picture, then the question of the effectiveness and competency of City Hall is raised. - So - what is "the role of City Government" in the urbanizing South.

what is role of top community leadership also?

6. Does Atlanta Business (the power structure) take advantage of City Hall for itsown needs in such specific ways that both the structure and the function of Atlanta's City government are seriously weakened.

7. What is needed at the level of City Government to assure a growing, responsible, and healthy Atlanta community for the future?

Possible comparisons of structure and function of city governments of New Haven, Connecticut, or Denver, Colorado, with Atlanta.

And relationship to County, and State govt. — Atlanta is in state in pop & more so in tax return.

BOOKS

Our Invisible Poor

IN his significantly titled "The Affluent Society" (1958) Professor J. K. Galbraith states that poverty in this country is no longer "a massive affliction [but] more nearly an afterthought." Dr. Galbraith is a humane critic of the American capitalist system, and he is generously indignant about the continued existence of even this non-massive and afterthoughtish poverty. But the interesting thing about his pronouncement, aside from the fact that it is inaccurate, is that it was generally accepted as obvious. For a long time now, almost everybody has assumed that, because of the New Deal's social legislation and—more important—the prosperity we have enjoyed since 1940, mass poverty no longer exists in this country.

Dr. Galbraith states that our poor have dwindled to two hard-core categories. One is the "insular poverty" of those who live in the rural South or in depressed areas like West Virginia. The other category is "case poverty," which he says is "commonly and properly related to [such] characteristics of the individuals so afflicted [as] mental deficiency, bad health, inability to adapt to the discipline of modern economic life, excessive procreation, alcohol, insufficient education." He reasons that such poverty must be due to individual defects, since "nearly everyone else has mastered his environment; this proves that it is not intractable." Without pressing the similarity of this concept to the "Social Darwinism" whose fallacies Dr. Galbraith easily disposes of elsewhere in his book, one may observe that most of these characteristics are as much the result of poverty as its cause.

Dr. Galbraith's error is understandable, and common. Last April the newspapers reported some exhilarating statistics in a Department of Commerce study: the average family income increased from $2,340 in 1929 to $7,020 in 1961. (These figures are calculated in current dollars, as are all the others I shall cite.) But the papers did not report the fine type, so to speak, which showed that almost all the recent gain was made by families with incomes of over $7,500, and that the rate at which poverty is being eliminated has slowed down alarmingly since 1953. Only the specialists and the statisticians read the fine type, which is why illusions continue to exist about American poverty.

Now Michael Harrington, an alumnus of the Catholic Worker and the Fund for the Republic who is at present a contributing editor of Dissent and the chief editor of the Socialist Party biweekly, New America, has written "The Other America: Poverty in the United States" (Macmillan). In the admirably short space of under two hundred pages, he outlines the problem, describes in imaginative detail what it means to be poor in this country today, summarizes the findings of recent studies by economists and sociologists, and analyzes the reasons for the persistence of mass poverty in the midst of general prosperity. It is an excellent book—and a most important one.

My only serious criticism is that Mr. Harrington has popularized the treatment a bit too much. Not in the writing, which is on a decent level, but in a certain vagueness. There are no index, no bibliography, no reference footnotes. In our overspecialized culture, books like this tend to fall into two categories: Popular (no scholarly "apparatus") and Academic (too much). I favor something intermediate—why should the academics have all the footnotes? The lack of references means that the book is of limited use to future researchers and writers. A pity, since the author has brought together a great range of material.

I must also object that Mr. Harrington's treatment of statistics is more than a little impressionistic. His appendix, which he calls a coming to grips with the professional material, doesn't live up to its billing. "If my interpretation is bleak and grim," he writes, "and even if it overstates the case slightly, that is intentional. My moral point of departure is a sense of outrage. . . . In such a discussion it is inevitable that one gets mixed up with dry, graceless, technical matters. That should not conceal the crucial fact that these numbers represent people and that any tendency toward understatement is an intellectual way of acquiescing in suffering." But a fact is a fact, and Mr. Harrington confuses the issue when he writes that "these numbers represent people." They do—and one virtue of his book is that he never forgets it—but in dealing with statistics, this truism must be firmly repressed lest one begin to think from the heart rather than from the head, as he seems to do when he charges those statisticians who "understate" the numbers of the poor with having found "an intellectual way of acquiescing in suffering." This is moral bullying, and it reminds me, toutes proportions gardées, of the habitual confusion in Communist thinking between facts and political inferences from them. "A sense of outrage"

"Well, well, well! Mr. Big!"

BUSINESS OR PLEASURE

we'll make your Chicago visit a better one

A big promise? Perhaps, for lesser establishments. ■ But, the Hotels Ambassador have a world-wide reputation to maintain as hosts to the famous and the fashionable. ■ The reputation is solidly established by superb hospitality, unique elegance, every facility your necessity or whim may demand. ■ For the executive, there is a wide choice of private meeting rooms. For the pleasure-bent visitor there is The Pump Room, The Buttery, The Beau Nash Club where food is an art, service unequaled. ■ Our rooms, suites and penthouses for living gratify the most sensitive tastes. Air-conditioning, radio and television, of course. ■ If your interest is an executive meeting or social gathering we will delight you with the infinite possibilities of The Guildhall, The Four Georges, The Sarah Siddons Walk. ■ Distinguish your Chicago visit by staying with us. You will do so again.

Hosts to the famous and the fashionable

HOTELS Ambassador

1300 North State Parkway • Chicago 10, Illinois
Area Code 312—SUperior 7-7200, TWX 222-0807
NEW YORK CITY—PLaza 2-5660 or CIrcle 7-2700
LOS ANGELES—DUnkirk 8-1151
SAN FRANCISCO—EX 7-2717

is proper for a "moral point of departure," but statistics are the appropriate factual point of departure, as in the writings of Marx and Engels on the agony of the nineteenth-century English working class—writings that are by no means lacking in a sense of moral outrage, either.

These objections, however, do not affect Mr. Harrington's two main contentions: that mass poverty still exists in the United States, and that it is disappearing more slowly than is commonly thought. Two recent dry, graceless, and technical reports bear him out. One is that Commerce Department study, already mentioned. More important is "Poverty and Deprivation in the U.S.," a bulky pamphlet issued by the Conference on Economic Progress, in Washington, whose national committee includes Thurman Arnold, Leon H. Keyserling (said to be the principal author of the pamphlet), and Walter P. Reuther.

IN the last year we seem to have suddenly awakened, rubbing our eyes like Rip van Winkle, to the fact that mass poverty persists, and that it is one of our two gravest social problems. (The other is related: While only eleven per cent of our population is non-white, twenty-five per cent of our poor are.) Two other current books confirm Mr. Harrington's thesis: "Wealth and Power in America" (Praeger), by Dr. Gabriel Kolko, a social historian who has recently been at Harvard and the University of Melbourne, Australia, and "Income and Welfare in the United States" (McGraw-Hill), compiled by an imposing battery of four socio-economists headed by Dr. James N. Morgan, who rejoices in the title of Program Director of the Survey Research Center of the Institute for Social Research at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Kolko's book resembles Mr. Harrington's in several ways: It is short, it is based on earlier studies, and it is liberally inclined. It is less readable, because it is written in an academic jargon that is merely a vehicle for the clinching Statistic. Although it is impossible to write seriously about poverty without a copious use of statistics—as this review will demonstrate—it is possible to bring thought and feeling to bear on such raw material. Mr. Harrington does this more successfully than Dr. Kolko, whose prose is afflicted not only with academic blight but also with creeping ideology. Dr. Kolko leans so far to the socialist side that he sometimes falls on his nose, as when he clinches the inequality of wealth in the Unit-think Italian

drink Italian speak Italian

say

BOLLA

For Italy's Finest Wines

All available in bottle or mandolin flask

64 pg. booklet on imported wines, yours for the asking.
Write: Fontana-Hollywood Corp.,
468 Greenwich St., NYC ✡ Sole U. S. Importers

SERGIO FRANCHI

Italy's Brilliant New Tenor!

EMPIRE ROOM
EL 5-3000
JAN. 7–FEB. 2
Nightly at 9:15 & 12

The Waldorf-Astoria indies house

On the exotic Florida Keys
DUCK KEY, FLORIDA

Enjoy Florida's warmest winter climate and our luxurious, charming atmosphere. For reservation information write E. A. Stephens, Duck Key, Florida

INTRODUCING OUR OWN T-35 OXFORD SHIRT IN A NEWLY DEVELOPED DACRON-AND-COTTON

The end of the day evidences this handsome shirt, looking as fresh as it did when starting out. The miracle discovery is T-35 Dacron* polyester, blending with cotton for phenomenal wrinkle-resistance—only one of its virtues. Just as important are its durability and wash and wear superiority. Lighter, more supple and very comfortable, this advanced shirting by Burlington is cut according to S.F.A's own specifications on our University Shop model, with single-needle construction and flap pocket. In 14-32 to 16½-35 sizes; white or blue, 8.50. University Shop, Sixth Floor. *DuPont's T. M.

THE UNIVERSITY SHOPS
SAKS FIFTH AVENUE

ed States with a statistic: "In 1959, 23% of those earning less than $1,000 [a year] owned a car, compared to 95% of those earning more than $10,000." The real point is just the opposite, as any citizen of Iran, Ghana, Yemen, or the U.S.S.R. would appreciate—not that the rich have cars but that almost a quarter of the extremely poor do. Similarly, although Dr. Kolko has two chapters on poverty that confirm Mr. Harrington's argument, his main point is a different and more vulnerable one: "The basic distribution of income and wealth in the United States is essentially the same now as it was in 1939, or even 1910." This is a half fact. The rich are almost as rich as ever and the poor are even poorer, in the percentage of the national income they receive. Yet, as will become apparent later, there have been major changes in the distribution of wealth, and there has been a general improvement in living standards, so that the poor are much fewer today than they were in 1939. "Most low-income groups live substantially better today," Dr. Kolko admits. "But even though their real wages have mounted, their percentage of the national income has not changed." That in the last half century the rich have kept their riches and the poor their poverty is indeed a scandal. But it is theoretically possible, assuming enough general increase in wealth, that the relatively poor might by now have achieved a decent standard of living, no matter how inferior to that of the rich. As the books under consideration show, however, this theoretical possibility has not been realized.

Inequality of wealth is not necessarily a major social problem per se. Poverty is. The late French philosopher Charles Péguy remarks, in his classic essay on poverty, "The duty of tearing the destitute from their destitution and the duty of distributing goods equitably are not of the same order. The first is an urgent duty, the second is a duty of convenience. . . . When all men are provided with the necessities . . . what do we care about the distribution of luxury?" What indeed? Envy and emulation are the motives—and not very good ones—for the equalization of wealth. The problem of poverty goes much deeper.

"INCOME AND WELFARE IN THE UNITED STATES" differs from the other works reviewed here in length (531 big pages) and in being the result of original research; 2,800 families were interviewed "in depth." I must confess that, aside from a few interesting bits of data, I got almost nothing out of it. I

9th WINTER
antiques SHOW

Buys of a lifetime at every price. The most respected dealers in the U.S. Fascinating rooms to give you ideas. Restaurant. ADMISSION $2.00

Jan. 18 through 24

Hours: 1 PM-11 PM
Sunday: 2 PM-7 PM
Closing Day: 1 PM-7 PM

SEVENTH REGIMENT ARMORY
Telephone: REgent 7-2500
Park Avenue at 67th St.
A benefit for
EAST SIDE HOUSE Settlement

RESORT FUN UNDER THE FT. LAUDERDALE SUN! 600' PRIVATE OCEAN BEACH, 2 POOLS! DELIGHTFUL CUISINE, ENTERTAINMENT, COCKTAIL LOUNGE, TENNIS, GOLF!

Lago Mar
HOTEL & APARTMENTS
• AIR-CONDITIONED ROOMS, SUITES, APARTMENTS
• CLOSEST TO RACING, AIRPORTS, ATTRACTIONS
See your travel agent or write for brochure
LAGO MAR HOTEL AND APARTMENTS
FT. LAUDERDALE, FLA. • PHONE JA 3-6511
Under direction of Sidney Banks

UNIQUE SURROUNDINGS OF INTIMACY and COMFORT

AUTHENTIC HUNGARIAN CUISINE

gypsy music with cimbalom

Chardas
Restaurant
307 East 79th Street • RH 4-9382
Diners' Club • Amer. Express • FREE Parking • Closed Mon.

ladybug, ladybug

Somehow, nothing improves the day like a Ladybug. The weather looks better. You look good too. Striking. You feel competent, on-top, unshakable. Expecting the best. It's almost like being in love. Junior sizes. Write for your nearest shopkeeper. About $7.

Ladybug®

1407 Broadway, New York 18

ladybug, ladybug

The ingenuous shirt. Ladybug, beyond a shadow of a doubt. To prove it, here are the bugs themselves, scarlet among tailored rows of flowers. Under them, the timeless flyaway chant. Cotton broadcloth. Small, medium, large. At your Ladybug shopkeeper. About $7.

Ladybug®

1407 Broadway, New York 18

assume the authors think poverty is still an important social problem, else why would they have gone to all this labor, but I'm not at all sure what their general conclusions are; maybe there aren't supposed to be any, in the best tradition of American scholarship. Their book is one of those behemoths of collective research financed by a foundation (in this case, largely by Ford) that daunt the stoutest-hearted lay reader (in this case, me). Based on "a multi-stage area probability sample that gives equal chance of selection to all non-institutional dwelling units in the conterminous United States [and that] was clustered geographically at each stage and stratified with interlaced controls," it is a specimen of what Charles Lamb called biblia abiblia—things that have the outward appearance of books but are not books, since they cannot be read. Methodologically, it employs something called the "multivariate analysis," which is explained in Appendix E. Typographically, Appendix E looks like language, but it turns out to be strewn with booby traps, all doubtless well known in the trade, like "dummy variables," "F ratios," "regression coefficients," "beta coefficients" (and "partial beta coefficients"), and two kinds of "standard deviations"—"of explanatory variable A" and "of the dependent variable."

My experience with such works may be summarized as follows: (alpha) the coefficient of comprehensibility decreases in direct ratio to the increase in length, or the longer the incomprehensibler, a notion that is illustrated here by the fact that Dr. Kolko's short work is more understandable than Dr. Morgan et al.'s long one; (beta) the standard deviation from truism is inversely related to the magnitude of the generalization, or the bigger the statement the more obvious. (Beta) is illustrated by the authors' five general proposals for action ("Implications for Public Policy"). The second of these is: "Fuller employment and the elimination of discrimination based on prejudice would contribute greatly to the independence of non-white persons, women, teenagers, and some of the aged." That is, if Negroes and the rest had jobs and were not discriminated against, they would be better off—a point that doesn't need to be argued or, for that matter, stated. The authors have achieved such a mastery of truism that they sometimes achieve the same monumental effect even in non-magnitudinous statements, as: "Table 28-1 shows that the proportion of parents who indicated that their children will attend pri-

The Westbury is a way of life!

For overnight visits or an extended stay in New York, seasoned travelers return to The Westbury. Here, your every whim or need is anticipated and catered to—luxurious rooms, suites, superb cuisine, flawless service. Company Suites, magnificently furnished, from 1 to 6 rooms, also available on lease or monthly rental.

Home of the famous POLO BAR and new MAYFAIR DINING ROOM reservations or information: Mr. C. L. O'Connor, Mgr.

THE Westbury

Madison Ave. at 69th St. N. Y. C.
LE 5-2000 · Teletype: NY 1-138

DINING IN THE OLD TRADITION

The wonderful warmth of a blazing fire... the mellow quality of a rare vintage ... the subtle flavour of continental cuisine...

THE ELMS

AN INN SINCE 1799

MAIN ST., RIDGEFIELD, CONN.

ROVER

OVERSEAS DELIVERY

LUXURY SEDANS LAND-ROVER

THE ROVER MOTOR COMPANY OF NORTH AMERICA LIMITED

405 LEXINGTON AVE., NEW YORK 17, N.Y., U.S.A.

YUKON 6-0220

vate colleges is approximately twice as large for those with incomes over $10,000 as for those with incomes under $3,000." Could be.

WHAT is "poverty"? It is a historically relative concept, first of all. "There are new definitions [in America] of what man can achieve, of what a human standard of life should be," Mr. Harrington writes. "Those who suffer levels of life well below those that are possible, even though they live better than medieval knights or Asian peasants, are poor. . . . Poverty should be defined in terms of those who are denied the minimal levels of health, housing, food, and education that our present stage of scientific knowledge specifies as necessary for life as it is now lived in the United States." His dividing line follows that proposed in recent studies by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics: $4,000 a year for a family of four and $2,000 for an individual living alone. (All kinds of income are included, such as food grown and consumed on farms.) This is the cutoff line generally drawn today.

Mr. Harrington estimates that between forty and fifty million Americans, or about a fourth of the population, are now living in poverty. Not just below the level of comfortable living, but real poverty, in the old-fashioned sense of the word—that they are hard put to it to get the mere necessities, beginning with enough to eat. This is difficult to believe in the United States of 1963, but one has to make the effort, and it is now being made. The extent of our poverty has suddenly become visible. The same thing has happened in England, where working-class gains as a result of the Labour Party's post-1945 welfare state blinded almost everybody to the continued existence of mass poverty. It was not until Professor Richard M. Titmuss, of the London School of Economics, published a series of articles in the New Statesman last fall, based on his new book, "Income Distribution and Social Change" (Allen & Unwin), that even the liberal public in England became aware that the problem still persists on a scale that is "statistically significant," as the economists put it.

Statistics on poverty are even trickier than most. For example, age and geography make a difference. There is a distinction, which cannot be rendered arithmetically, between poverty and low income. A childless young couple with $3,000 a year is not poor in the way an elderly couple might be with the same income. The young couple's statistical

PREMIERE IN PUERTO RICO

An invitation to people who like gracious diversion in charming, spacious surroundings...who appreciate the extraordinary in service, cuisine and facilities.

americana
OCEANFRONT-SAN JUAN
Neal Lang, V. P. and Managing Director

Color brochure on request...See Your Travel Agent or call:
New York: JU 6-6105 • Chicago: DE 2-1237 • Miami: UN 5-7511
Washington, D. C.: RE 7-1000

A LOEW'S HOTEL • PRESTON ROBERT TISCH, PRESIDENT

Your good taste is apparent...

when you order Great Western Champagne. This is the one that has been awarded six European medals for excellence! No wonder it has held an honored place on the wine lists of America's fine clubs, hotels and restaurants for 102 years.

Great Western
NEW YORK STATE CHAMPAGNE

PLEASANT VALLEY WINE COMPANY, HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y.

The John Meyer suitlet, than which there is nothing more widely welcome. Four-gore skirt, effortless cardigan jacket, both in a firm-textured Dacron polyester and cotton; Heather Pink, Heather Olive, or Frost Blue. The jacket is lined with a pattern of demure and tiny apples in echoing colors. Sizes 6-16. About $25 at fine stores or write:

JOHN MEYER OF NORWICH

NORWICH, CONNECTICUT

In New York: 1407 Broadway

poverty may be a temporary inconvenience; if the husband is a graduate student or a skilled worker, there are prospects of later affluence or at least comfort. But the old couple can look forward only to diminishing earnings and increasing medical expenses. So also geographically: A family of four in a small town with $4,000 a year may be better off than a like family in a city—lower rent, no bus fares to get to work, fewer occasions (or temptations) to spend money. Even more so with a rural family. Although allowance is made for the value of the vegetables they may raise to feed themselves, it is impossible to calculate how much money they don't spend on clothes, say, or furniture, because they don't have to keep up with the Joneses. Lurking in the crevices of a city, like piranha fish in a Brazilian stream, are numerous tempting opportunities for expenditure, small but voracious, which can strip a budget to its bones in a surprisingly short time. The subtlety and complexity of poverty statistics may be discovered by a look at Dr. Kolko's statement that in 1959 "23% of those earning less than $1,000 owned a car." Does this include college students, or are they included in their families' statistics? If the first is true, then Dr. Kolko's figure loses much of its meaning. If the second is, then it is almost too meaningful, since it says that one-fourth of those earning less than twenty dollars a week are able to afford a car. Which it is, deponent sayeth not.

It is not, therefore, surprising to find that there is some disagreement about just how many millions of Americans are poor. The point is that all these recent studies agree that American poverty is still a mass phenomenon. One of the lowest estimates appears in the University of Michigan's "Income and Welfare," which states, "Poor families comprise one-fifth of the nation's families." The authors do not develop this large and crucial statement, or even give sources for it, despite their meticulous pedantry in all unimportant matters. So one can only murmur that the other experts put the number of poor much higher. (Though even a fifth is still over 35,000,000 people.) The lowness of the Michigan estimate is especially puzzling since its cutoff figure for poverty is $4,330, which is slightly higher than the commonly accepted one. The tendentious Dr. Kolko is also unconvincing, in the opposite direction. "Since 1947," he writes, "one-half of the nation's families and unattached individuals have had an income too small to provide them with a maintenance standard of living," which he sets at

SEABOARD

FIRST TO FLORIDA THIS WINTER!

- in convenient, all-weather rail service...
- in choice of morning or afternoon departures of the SILVER STAR and SILVER METEOR from New York to BOTH coasts of Florida...
- in luxurious lounge equipment and excellent cuisine...
- in personalized service including REGISTERED NURSES and Passenger Service Agents.

IMPROVED SCHEDULES NOW IN EFFECT

For deluxe Pullman and coach reservations: Circle 5-7380 Seaboard Ticket Office 12 W. 51st St. New York 20.

SEABOARD RAILROAD

THE ROUTE OF COURTEOUS SERVICE

it costs no more to enjoy the finest

RONEY PLAZA

HOTEL & SUN CLUB

On the Ocean, Miami Beach

- Luxurious rooms, superb cuisine
- Golf on our own oceanfront course
- 4 tennis courts
- Resort world's largest beach
- Olympic pool with cabanas
- Beautiful tropic gardens

For full information, see your travel agent . . . or call

MU 8-0110

JeReviens PARFUMS WORTH PARIS

FOR A PACKET OF SCENTED BLOTTING PAPER WRITE TO: WORTH, DEPT. B. 5 EAST 57TH ST., N. Y. C.

...but what does it cost?

Golden days of golf on two courses (with Sam Snead as pro)...
• tennis on all-weather courts, and swimming in pool or surf...
• the Cabana Club with bountiful buffet and mile-long ocean beach...
• high-goal polo every Sunday...
• skeet, archery, and fighting game fish in the Gulf Stream...
• all topped off by impeccable service, haute cuisine, and glittering nights of entertainment!

What does it all cost? Less than you would think. Rates start as low as $20 per person, double occupancy, full American Plan with three gourmet meals (slightly higher in February and March). See your Travel Agent or write to R. N. Leggett, Executive Manager.

Boca Raton
HOTEL and CLUB
BOCA RATON • FLORIDA

Nat'l Rep: Robert F. Warner, Inc.
New York • Chicago • Washington • Boston • Toronto

$4,500 a year for a family. He does give a table, with a long supporting footnote that failed to make clear to me how he could have possibly decided that 90,000,000 Americans are now living on less than $4,500 a year; I suspect some confusion between a "maintenance" and a "minimum-comfort" budget.

More persuasive estimates appear in the Conference on Economic Progress pamphlet, "Poverty and Deprivation." Using the $4,000 cutoff, the authors conclude that 38,000,000 persons are now living in poverty, which is slightly less than Mr. Harrington's lowest estimate. One reason may be that the pamphlet discriminates, as most studies don't, between "multiple-person families" and "unattached individuals," rating the latter as poor only if they have less than $2,000 a year. But there is more to it than that, including a few things I don't feel competent to judge. Income statistics are never compiled on exactly the same bases and there are all kinds of refinements, which vary from one study to another. Thus the Commerce Department's April report estimates there are 17,500,000 families and "unattached individuals" with incomes of less than $4,000. How many of the latter are there? "Poverty and Deprivation" puts the number of single persons with under $2,000 at 4,000,000. Let us say that in the 17,500,000 under $4,000 there are 6,500,000 single persons—the proportion of unattached individuals tends to go down as income rises. This homemade estimate gives us 11,000,000 families with incomes of under $4,000. Figuring the average American family at three and a half persons—which it is—this makes 38,500,000 individuals in families, or a grand total, if we add in the 4,000,000 "unattached individuals" with under $2,000 a year, of 42,500,000 Americans now living in poverty, which is close to a fourth of the total population.

The reason Dr. Galbraith was able to see poverty as no longer "a massive affliction" is that he used a cutoff of $1,000, which even in 1949, when it was adopted in a Congressional study, was probably too low (the C.I.O. argued for $2,000) and in 1958, when "The Affluent Society" appeared, was simply fantastic.

THE model postwar budgets drawn up in 1951 by the Bureau of Labor Statistics to "maintain a level of adequate living" give a concrete idea of what poverty means in this country—or would mean if poor families lived within their income and spent it wisely, which they don't. Dr. Kolko summarizes the kind of living these budgets provide:

> Three members of the family see a movie once every three weeks, and one member sees a movie once every two weeks. There is no telephone in the house, but the family makes three pay calls a week. They buy one book a year and write one letter a week.
>
> The father buys one heavy wool suit every two years and a light wool suit every three years; the wife, one suit every ten years or one skirt every five years. Every three or four years, depending on the distance and time involved, the family takes a vacation outside their own city. In 1950, the family spent a total of $80 to $90 on all types of home furnishings, electrical appliances, and laundry equipment. . . . The family eats cheaper cuts of meat several times a week, but has more expensive cuts on holidays. The entire family consumes a total of two five-cent ice cream cones, one five-cent candy bar, two bottles of soda, and one bottle of beer a week. The family owes no money, but has no savings except for a small insurance policy.

One other item is included in the B.L.S. "maintenance" budget: a new car every twelve to eighteen years.

This is an ideal picture, drawn up by social workers, of how a poor family should spend its money. But the poor are much less provident—installment debts take up a lot of their cash, and only a statistician could expect an actual live woman, however poor, to buy new clothes at intervals of five or ten years. Also, one suspects that a lot more movies are seen and ice-cream cones and bottles of beer are consumed than in the Spartan ideal. But these necessary luxuries are had only at the cost of displacing other items—necessary necessities, so to speak—in the B.L.S. budget.

THE Conference on Economic Progress's "Poverty and Deprivation" deals not only with the poor but also with another large section of the "underprivileged," which is an American euphemism almost as good as "senior citizen;" namely, the 37,000,000 persons whose family income is between $4,000 and $5,999 and the 2,000,000 singles who have from $2,000 to $2,999. The authors define "deprivation" as "above poverty but short of minimum requirements for a modestly comfortable level of living." They claim that 77,000,000 Americans, or almost half the population, live in poverty or deprivation. One recalls the furor Roosevelt aroused with his "one-third of a nation—ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished." But the political climate was different then.

The distinction between a family income of $3,500 ("poverty") and Nassau Bahamas

THREE PRIVATE OCEAN BEACHES

MAIN CLUB • POOL
SOCIAL AND ENTERTAINMENT CENTER

A world unto itself . . . set amid luxuriant gardens. Magnificent beaches, private island, pool, and diversions of every sort. Enjoy the same high standards you appreciate at The Plaza in New York; The Mayflower, Washington; and The Carlton Tower, London.

ACCOMMODATIONS IN LOVELY GEORGIAN HOUSES

HCA
HOTEL CORPORATION OF AMERICA
A. M. Sonnabend, President

Balmoral Club
CABLE BEACH, NASSAU

Consult your travel agent . . . or Instant Reservation Service in any HCA Hotel — in New York, Hotel Roosevelt, MUrray Hill 6-9200 — in Boston, Hotel Kenmore, KEnmore 6-2700 — in Washington, The Mayflower, District 7-3000 or Leonard P. Brickett, 32 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey, WAlnut 4-5084.

$4,500 ("deprivation") is not vivid to those who run things—the 31 per cent whose incomes are between $7,500 and $14,999 and the 7 per cent of the topmost top dogs, who get $15,000 or more. These two minorities, sizable enough to feel they are the nation, have been as unaware of the continued existence of mass poverty as this reviewer was until he read Mr. Harrington's book. They are businessmen, congressmen, judges, government officials, politicians, lawyers, doctors, engineers, scientists, editors, journalists, and administrators in colleges, churches, and foundations. Since their education, income, and social status are superior, they, if anybody, might be expected to accept responsibility for what the Constitution calls "the general welfare." They have not done so in the case of the poor. And they have a good excuse. It is becoming harder and harder simply to see the one-fourth of our fellow-citizens who live below the poverty line.

The poor are increasingly slipping out of the very experience and consciousness of the nation [Mr. Harrington writes]. If the middle class never did like ugliness and poverty, it was at least aware of them. "Across the tracks" was not a very long way to go. . . . Now the American city has been transformed. The poor still inhabit the miserable housing in the central area, but they are increasingly isolated from contact with, or sight of, anybody else. . . . Living out in the suburbs, it is easy to assume that ours is, indeed, an affluent society. . . .

Clothes make the poor invisible too: America has the best-dressed poverty the world has ever known. . . . It is much easier in the United States to be decently dressed than it is to be decently housed, fed, or doctored. . . .

Many of the poor are the wrong age to be seen. A good number of them are sixty-five years of age or better; an even larger number are under eighteen. . . .

And finally, the poor are politically invisible. . . . They are without lobbies of their own; they put forward no legislative program. As a group, they are atomized. They have no face; they have no voice. . . . Only the social agencies have a really direct involvement with the other America, and they are without any great political power. . . .

Forty to fifty million people are becoming increasingly invisible.

These invisible people fall mostly into the following categories, some of them overlapping: poor farmers, who operate 40 per cent of the farms and get 7 per cent of the farm cash income; migratory farm workers; unskilled, unorganized workers in offices, hotels, restaurants, hospitals, laundries, and other service jobs; inhabitants of areas where poverty is either endemic ("peculiar to a people or district"), as in the rural South, or epidemic ("prevalent among a community at a special time and produced by it's unique...

the soft, lightweight, flat-knit nylon, full fashioned sweater by

DANSKIN

$5.95, in new Spring colors, at BLOOMINGDALE'S (Misses Dept. 441, Teen Dept. 467) and other fine stores everywhere.

A 3 Hour Drive From Most Points
3 Minutes To The Slopes

Stratton Mountain Inn

At The Base of Stratton Mountain, Vermont

- 70 Guest Rooms
- Dining Room
- Recreation Room
- Bunk Rooms
- Cocktail Lounge
- Meeting Rooms
- Entertainment
- Ping Pong-Ice Skating

Within a 9-mile radius of Bromley and Magic Mountain. For information or Reservations, Write for Brochure or Call Charles Holbrook.
Open year round
Ideal for business meetings

Stratton Mountain Inn
Stratton, Vermont (Area Code 802) VAlley 4-5571

Luxury in the New York manner

Cheerful, air-conditioned rooms and suites . . . heart of Rockefeller Center area . . . adjacent to everything of interest in New York.

Two notable restaurants

Hotel Dorset
Just off Fifth Avenue
30 West 54th Street
A Bing & Bing hotel

GOLF ALL WINTER

New 18 Holes · Motorized Carts
New Clubhouse

There's no such thing as a golf widow at beautiful Castle Harbour. Our 180 semi-tropical resort acres encompass all the diversion, sport and entertainment Bermuda is famous for. Come now! We're only two hours near New York. Rates apply until April 1.

GOLFER'S SPECIAL

7 DAYS (6 nights) $111
4 DAYS (3 nights) $58.50
per person, double
Complete breakfasts and dinners all green fees

HONEYMOON SPECIAL

8 DAYS (7 nights) $200 per couple
Includes complete breakfasts and dinners
FREE: champagne on arrival · breakfast in room first day · one day's golf · tennis · rum swizzle party · all gratuities · This low rate available to all twosomes!

The Air-Conditioned
Castle Harbour
HOTEL, YACHT, GOLF AND BEACH CLUB in fashionable Tucker's Town, Bermuda
JOHN C. FISCHBECK II, PRES. & GEN. MGR.
See your travel agent or HOTEL COUNSELLORS, INC.
60 E. 42nd St., N. Y. 17, New York • TN 7-1450
Offices also in Boston and Chicago

some special causes"), as in West Virginia, where the special cause was the closing of coal mines and steel plants; Negroes and Puerto Ricans, who are a fourth of the total poor; the alcoholic derelicts in the big-city skid rows; the hillbillies from Kentucky, Tennessee, and Oklahoma who have migrated to Midwestern cities in search of better jobs. And, finally, almost half our "senior citizens."

THE only pages in "Poverty and Deprivation" that can be read are the statistical tables. The rest is a jungle of inchoate data that seems deliberately to eschew, like other collective research projects, such human qualities as reason (the reader has to do most of the work of ordering the material) and feeling (if Mr. Harrington sometimes has too much, it is a venial sin compared to the bleakness of this prose). My hypothesis is that "Poverty and Deprivation" was composed on that TX-0 "electronic brain" at M.I.T. This would account both for the vitality of the tables and for the deadness of the text.

And what shall one say about the University of Michigan's "Income and Welfare in the United States"? Even its tables are not readable. And its text makes "Poverty and Deprivation" look like the Federalist Papers. On the first page, the authors unloose a generalization of stupefying generality: "The United States has arrived at the point where poverty could be abolished easily and simply by a stroke of the pen. [Where have we heard that before?] To raise every individual and family in the nation now below a subsistence income to the subsistence level would cost about $10 billion a year. This is less than 2 per cent of the gross national product. It is less than 10 per cent of tax revenues. [They mean, but forgot to say so, federal taxes, since if state and local taxes were added, the total would be much higher than $100 billion.] It is about one-fifth of the cost of national defense." (They might have added that it is slightly more than three times the $3 billion Americans spend on their dogs and cats and canaries every year.) This got big headlines in the press, as must have been expected: " 'STROKE OF PEN' COULD ELIMINATE POVERTY IN U.S., 4 SCIENTISTS SAY." But the authors, having dropped the $10 billion figure on the first page, never explain its meaning—is it a seedbed operation or a permanent dole? They are not clear even on how they arrived at it. At their own estimate of 35,000,000 poor, $10 billion would work out to slightly less than $300 per person. This

The Grace Rainey Rogers Auditorium

THE METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART

LECTURES ON ART AND MUSIC
SPRING SEMESTER

ART FOR THE TRAVELER
Mon. Eves. at 6:00 • Jan. 21-Mar. 25
10 Sessions: $15.00

TRADITION AND CHANGE IN CLASSICAL and MODERN ART
Mon. Eves. at 8:30 • Jan. 21-Mar. 25
10 Sessions: $15.00

TEN MASTER COMPOSERS
Tues. Eves. at 8:30 • Jan. 22-Mar. 26
10 Sessions: $15.00

ITALIAN MASTERS OF THE RENAISSANCE
Wed. Eves. at 8:30 • Jan. 23-Mar. 27
10 Sessions: $15.00

SINCE 1900: DIRECTIONS IN THE ART OF OUR TIME
Thursday Mornings at 11:00 • Jan. 24-Mar. 28
10 Sessions: $15.00

THE GREAT PAINTERS OF SPAIN
Thursday Eves. at 8:30 • Jan. 24-Feb. 21
5 Sessions: $8.00

SPECIAL ADVANCED COURSE: FUNDAMENTAL PROBLEMS OF ART HISTORY AND CONNOISSEURSHIP
Thursday Afternoons at 3:00 • Feb. 14-Apr. 18
10 Sessions: $60.00

Address mail orders and requests for free brochure describing these courses to: Auditorium Office, Metropolitan Museum of Art, Fifth Avenue at 82nd Street, N.Y. 28 or call TR 9-5512. Please make check payable to Metropolitan Museum of Art.

FROM NORWAY

NESTED TEAK TABLES
Natural finish Bangkok Teak, removable legs. Complete nest lifts as one unit.
21" by 15½" by 20" High..... $28.50 PER SET
26¼" by 15½" by 21" High..... $31.50 PER SET
Check or money order — Freight Collect the Skandia co., inc.
IMPORTERS
934 HIGH RIDGE RD.
STAMFORD, CONN.

ALL THAT IS NEW ORLEANS!

Commander's Palace SINCE 1880
FRENCH AND CREOLE CUISINE
Washington at Coliseum Sts., New Orleans, La.

City Line & Schuylkill Expressway/Philadelphia
Marriott MOTOR HOTEL

IRISH COFFEE

the drink with synergistic action

What scientists call synergistic action means that each of the ingredients—Jameson Whiskey, whipped cream and coffee — becomes more delicious in this delightful combination than any one of them enjoyed alone! Simpler synergism: a jigger of Jameson in your usual coffee.

JOHN JAMESON

BLENDED IRISH WHISKEY • 86 PROOF

IMPORTED BY W. A. TAYLOR & COMPANY, N.Y., N.Y. SOLE DISTRIBUTORS IN U.S.A.

seems too little to abolish poverty "easily and simply by a stroke of the pen."

There are other vaguenesses: "A careful analysis of the characteristics of families whose incomes are inadequate reveals that they should earn considerably more than they do on the basis of their education and other characteristics. The multivariate analysis . . . indicates that heads of poor families should average $2,204 in earnings. In fact heads of poor families earned an average of only $932 in 1959." I have already confessed my inability to understand the multivariate analysis, but the compilers seem to be saying that according to the variables in their study (race, age, sex, education, physical disabilities, and locale), heads of poor families should now be making twice as much as they are. And why don't they? "The discrepancy may arise from psychological dependency, lack of motivation, lack of intelligence, and a variety of other factors that were not studied." One wonders why they were not studied—and what those "other factors" were, exactly. Also, whether such a discrepancy—the earnings the researchers expected to find were actually less than half those they did find—may not indicate some ghastly flaw in that "multivariate analysis." There is, of course, no suggestion in the book that Dr. Morgan and his team are in any way worried.

THE most obvious citizens of the Other America are those whose skins are the wrong color. The folk slogans are realistic: "Last to be hired, first to be fired" and "If you're black, stay back." There has been some progress. In 1939, the non-white worker's wage averaged 41.4 per cent of the white worker's; by 1958 it had climbed to 58 per cent. A famous victory, but the non-whites still average only slightly more than half as much as the whites. Even this modest gain was due not to any Rooseveltian or Trumanian social reform but merely to the fact that for some years there was a war on and workers were in demand, whether black, white, or violet. By 1947, the non-whites had achieved most of their advance—to 54 per cent of white earnings, which means they have gained, in the last fifteen years, just 4 per cent.

The least obvious poverty affects our "senior citizens"—those over sixty-five. Mr. Harrington estimates that half of them—8,000,000—live in poverty, and he thinks they are even more atomized and politically helpless than the rest of the Other America. He estimates that one-fourth of the "unrelated indi-

THIS YEAR make it JAMAICA in this year's Jamaica resort

THE LUXURIOUS NEW Runaway BAY HOTEL & COUNTRY CLUB

Jamaica, W. I. • Cable: RUNAWAYBAYOTEL

It's the hotel of the year on this enchanted isle. Guests who were here for the opening have already arranged for another stay.

Here's why:

• 18-hole championship golf course alongside • rooms graciously furnished, each with sea-view terrace • wide sandy beach • Olympic-size salt-water pool • championship tennis courts • delicious Continental and American cuisine • entertainment, dancing, cocktail lounges, games, water sports – you name it • everything brand new – immaculate!

In short, the Runaway Bay combines the graciousness of yesteryear with today's ideas of luxury and convenience • Coming?

Write for FREE golf course layout and descriptive rate folder

CALL YOUR TRAVEL AGENT

Represented by Robert Reid Associates, Inc.
New York
1270 6th Ave.,
PLaza 7-2444
Offices in Chicago, Los Angeles, Miami, Toronto

PAYSON RÉ
his piano and orchestra
THE ARTURO ARTUROS TRIO
Dinner & Supper Dancing
RAY HARTLEY • DINNER MUSIC
THE COLUMNS
SAVOY HILTON • FIFTH & 58th • EL 5-2600

The EMPRESS
Authentic
CHINESE CUISINE
Free Parking after 6:30
710 THIRD AVE. (bet. 44-45 Sts.) YU 6-5995
Diners & Am. Express

O. HENRY'S
STEAK HOUSE
4th Street and 6th Avenue
GREENWICH VILLAGE, CH 2-2000

Shirt smash . . . natural linen topper, collared and cinched to perfection . . . in the sun-kissed pastels you want most. Natural, lemon, pale blue or pale pink. 10 to 16. Altman separates, main floor, MU 9-7000, Fifth Avenue and suburban stores. 12.00

Jamaica's Traditional Favourite

Casa Blanca

Montego Bay, Jamaica, W. I.

A Casa Blanca holiday gives you the best of everything in Jamaica . . . a superb location on famed Doctor's Cave Beach, lovely, air-conditioned guest rooms, extraordinarily fine cuisine and facilities for all sports.

P. J. Burns, Manager

SEE YOUR TRAVEL AGENT

or our International Representatives

ROBERT F. WARNER, INC.
630 Fifth Ave., New York
JU 6-4500 • Also in Boston
Washington • Chicago
Miami • Toronto • London

viduals" among them, or a million persons, have less than $580 a year, which is about what is allotted for food alone in the Department of Agriculture's minimum-subsistence budget. (The average American family now spends only 20 per cent of its income for food—an indication of the remarkable prosperity we are all enjoying, except for one-quarter of us.) One can imagine, or perhaps one can't, what it would be like to live on $580 a year, or $11 a week. It is only fair to note that most of our senior citizens do better: The average per-capita income of those over sixty-five is now estimated to be slightly over $20 a week. That is, about $1,000 a year.

The aged poor have two sources of income besides their earnings or savings. One is contributions by relatives. A 1961 White House Conference Report put this at 10 per cent of income, which works out to $8 a week for an income of $4,000—and the 8,000,000 aged poor all have less than that. The other is Social Security, whose benefits in 1959 averaged $18 a week. Even this modest sum is more than any of the under-$4,000 got, since payments are proportionate to earnings and the poor, of course, earned less than the rest. A quarter of them, and those in general the neediest, are not covered by Social Security. The last resort is relief, and Mr. Harrington describes most vividly the humiliations the poor often have to put up with to get that.

The problem of the aged poor is aggravated by the fact that, unlike the Italians or the English, we seem to have little respect for or interest in our "senior citizens," beyond giving them that honorific title, and we don't include them in family life. If we can afford it, we are likely to send them to nursing homes—"a storage-bin philosophy," a Senate report calls it—and if we can't, which is the case with the poor, they must make do with the resources noted above. The Michigan study has a depressing chapter on "The Economics of Living with Relatives." Nearly two-thirds of the heads of families queried were opposed to having their aged parents live with their children. "The old do not understand the young, and the young do not understand the old or the young," observed one respondent, who must have had a sense of humor. Other replies were "Old people are pretty hard to get along with" and "The parents and the children try to boss each other and when they live with you there's always fighting." The minority in favor gave practical reasons, like "It's a good thing to have them with you so you can see after them" and "The old BOISSIERE SWEET VERMOUTH imported from France, so light, with only a subtle hint of sweetness. Try a Manhattan made with Boissière Sweet Vermouth today for refreshing and delightful change, or enjoy its tawny, glowing flavor on-the-rocks. For the superbly dry Martini, it's Boissière Dry Vermouth, the original white, crisp Vermouth imported from Chambéry, France.

BOISSIERE

IMPORTED BY DENNIS & HUPPERT, N.Y.

HOUSEHUNTING? In an Unfamiliar City? Tell us all your family's requirements and we'll find exactly your house—in any of 200 cities, 2000 suburbs. We work solely for you, the buyer. No charge. Ask David Putnam for details.

HOMERICA INC.

New York
52 Vanderbilt Ave.
OR 9-5435

Los Angeles
3460 Wilshire Blvd.
DU 7-3111

For the entertainment of your most valued customer or cherished friend

Florentine Room

in the ITALIAN VILLAGE

71 W. Monroe, Chicago DE 2-7005

Luncheon – Cocktails – Dinner

MODERN MASTERS IN WATERCOLOR Thru Jan. 29

AVERY • BURCHFIELD • CHEN CHI
EVERGOOD • GROPPER • GROSZ • KLINE
MARIN • MARSH • PARKER • RATTNER
RIVERS • M. SOYER • R. SOYER • TAM
TWORKOV • WEBER • YUNKERS • others

ahda ARTZT GALLERY

142 WEST 57 ST.

TERRY MIDDY The international Middy with easy, flattering ways on beach or boat deck. Our new edition goes to cover-up length, flaunts a wide-open collar and big wood buttons to mark the neck and shirt-tail vents at either side. In white terry with natural buttons. Small (8-10), Medium (12-14), Large (16-18). $7.95 Add 35¢ each for shipping. Send for color catalog.

THE TOG SHOP LESTER SQUARE AMERICUS, GA.

YOU'LL LIKE NEW YORK'S

Beekman Tower Hotel

. . . because of the personal way it caters to your needs. You'll appreciate its smart mid-town location too, atop exclusive Beekman Hill overlooking the United Nations, East River and practically everything else you'll want to see and do in New York.

Air-conditioned rooms and suites with a view . . . two popular-priced restaurants and internationally famous Top O' the Tower Cocktail Lounge. Moderate single, double and group rates.

BEEKMAN TOWER HOTEL
First Ave. at 49th St., New York 17
(3 Mitchell Place)

Send color brochure and driving map showing how to avoid New York City traffic.

Name_____
Address_____
City_____ Zone____ State_____ N-1-19

folks might get a pension or something, so they could help you out." Hardly anyone expressed any particular respect for the old, or a feeling that their experience might enrich family life. The most depressing finding was "People most able to provide support for relatives are most opposed to it. Older people with some college education are eleven to one against it." The most favorable toward including older people in the home were Negroes, and even they were mostly against it.

The whole problem of poverty and the aged is especially serious today because Americans are living longer. In the first half of this century, life expectancy increased 17.6 years for men and 20.3 years for women. And between 1950 and 1960 the over-sixty-five group increased twice as fast as the population as a whole.

The worst part of being old and poor in this country is the loneliness. Mr. Harrington notes that we have not only racial ghettos but geriatric ones, in the cheap rooming-house districts of large cities. He gives one peculiarly disturbing statistic: "One-third of the aged in the United States, some 5,000,000 or more human beings, have no phone in their place of residence. They are literally cut off from the rest of America."

ERNEST HEMINGWAY's celebrated deflation of Scott Fitzgerald's romantic notion that the rich are "different" somehow—"Yes, they have money"—doesn't apply to the poor. They are different in more important ways than their lack of money, as Mr. Harrington demonstrates:

Emotional upset is one of the main forms of the vicious circle of impoverishment. The structure of the society is hostile to these people. The poor tend to become pessimistic and depressed; they seek immediate gratification instead of saving; they act out.

Once this mood, this unarticulated philosophy becomes a fact, society can change, the recession can end, and yet there is no motive for movement. The depression has become internalized. The middle class looks upon this process and sees "lazy" people who "just don't want to get ahead." People who are much too sensitive to demand of cripples that they run races ask of the poor that they get up and act just like everyone else in the society.

The poor are not like everyone else. . . . They think and feel differently; they look upon a different America than the middle class looks upon.

The poor are also different in a physical sense: they are much less healthy. According to "Poverty and Deprivation," the proportion of those "disabled or limited in their major activity by chronic ill health" rises sharply as in-

Revillon

Announces with pleasure their

ANNUAL JANUARY FUR SALE

11 West 57th St., New York

PIANIST TONY GORODY ENTERTAINS FROM 9 P. M.

Pre-Theatre Dinner Nightly $6
FOUNTAIN ROOM
HAMPSHIRE BAR
Haute Cuisine

Hampshire House
150 Central Park South • Circle 6-7700

STRAPARAMA®
The authority on Fine leather watchstraps. Made exclusively for us in Switzerland. All widths and lengths; all colors. Attached in one minute; for men and women. 2.50 to 10.00.
Have you looked at your watchstrap lately?
TIME MART • 425 MADISON AVE.
Bet. 48 & 49 Sts. New York 17, N. Y.

CAMILO EGAS
COMMEMORATIVE EXHIBITION
THRU JAN. 26 Wkdays: noon-8 pm Sats: 10-5
THE NEW SCHOOL 66 West 12 St.

Come relax where the welcome is warm and the weather is wonderful—an ocean away from care!

These happy islands have never been easier to reach, never more fun to visit — just 4½ hours by jet or 4½ days by ship from the West Coast. Group fares and special packaged tours stretch your travel budget, let you stay longer and enjoy more of all our Islands — Kauai, Oahu, Maui, Hawaii. And make your trip soon — the vacation fun is even brighter than the travel savings.

See Your Travel Agent or Write
HAWAII VISITORS BUREAU
2051 Kalakaua Ave., Dept. A-7 Honolulu, Hawaii
Offices in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles

come sinks. In reasonably well-off families ($7,000 and up), 4.3 per cent are so disabled; in reasonably poor families ($2,000 to $3,999), the proportion doubles, to 8 per cent; and in unreasonably poor families (under $2,000), it doubles again, to 16.5 per cent. An obvious cause, among others, for the very poor being four times as much disabled by "chronic ill health" as the well-to-do is that they have much less money to spend for medical care—in fact, almost nothing. This weighs with special heaviness on the aged poor. During the fifties, Mr. Harrington notes, "all costs on the Consumer Price Index went up by 12 per cent. But medical costs, that terrible staple of the aged, went up by 36 per cent, hospitalization rose by 65 per cent, and group hospitalization costs (Blue Cross premiums) were up by 83 per cent."

This last figure is particularly interesting, since Blue Cross and such plans are the A.M.A.'s alternative to socialized medicine, or, rather, to the timid fumblings toward it that even our most liberal politicians have dared to propose. Such figures throw an unpleasant light on the Senate's rejection of Medicare. The defeat was all the more bitter because, in the usual effort to appease the conservatives (with the usual lack of success—only five Republicans and only four Southern Democrats voted pro), the bill was watered down in advance. Not until he had spent $90 of his own money—which is 10 per cent of the annual income of some 3,000,000 aged poor—would a patient have been eligible. And the original program included only people already covered by Social Security or Railroad Retirement pensions and excluded the neediest of all—the 2,500,000 aged poor who are left out of both these systems. These untouchables were finally included in order to placate five liberal Republican senators, led by Javits of New York. They did vote for Medicare, but they were the only Republicans who did.

Mental as well as physical illness is much greater among the poor, even though our complacent cliché is that nervous breakdowns are a prerogative of the rich because the poor "can't afford" them. (They can't, but they have them anyway.) This bit of middle-class folklore should be laid to rest by a study made in New Haven: "Social Class and Mental Illness," by August B. Hollingshead and Frederick C. Redlich (Wiley). They found that the rate of "treated psychiatric illness" is about the same from the rich down through decently paid workers—an average of 573 per 100,000. But in the bottom fifth it shoots up to 1,659 per 100,000. There is an even more striking difference in the kind of mental illness. Of those in the four top income groups who had undergone psychiatric treatment, 65 per cent had been treated for neurotic problems and 35 per cent for psychotic disturbances. In the bottom fifth, the treated illnesses were almost all psychotic (90 per cent). This shows there is something to the notion that the poor "can't afford" nervous breakdowns—the milder kind, that is—since the reason the proportion of treated neuroses among the poor is only 10 per cent is that a neurotic can keep going, after a fashion. But the argument cuts deeper the other way. The poor go to a psychiatrist (or, more commonly, are committed to a mental institution) only when they are completely unable to function because of psychotic symptoms. Therefore, even that nearly threefold increase in mental disorders among the poor is probably an underestimate.

The poor are different, then, both physically and psychologically. During the fifties, a team of psychiatrists from Cornell studied "Midtown," a residential area in this city that contained 170,000 people, of all social classes. The area was 99 per cent white, so the findings may be presumed to understate the problem of poverty. The description of the poor—the "low social economic status individual"—is blunt: "[They are] rigid, suspicious, and have a fatalistic outlook on life. They do not plan ahead. . . . They are prone to depression, have feelings of futility, lack of belongingness, friendliness, and a lack of trust in others." Only a Dr. Pangloss would expect anything else. As Mr. Harrington points out, such characteristics are "a realistic adaptation to a socially perverse situation."

As for the isolation that is the lot of the American poor, that is a point on which Mr. Harrington is very good:

> America has a self-image of itself as a nation of joiners and doers. There are social clubs, charities, community drives, and the like. [One might add organizations like the Elks and Masons, Rotary and Kiwanis, cultural groups like our women's clubs, also alumni associations and professional organizations.] And yet this entire structure is a phenomenon of the middle class. Some time ago, a study in Franklin, Indiana [this vagueness of reference is all too typical of "The Other America"], reported that the percentage of people in the bottom class who were without affiliations of any kind was eight times as great as the percentage in the high-income class.

Paradoxically, one of the factors that intensifies the social isolation of the poor

ORDERS NOW BY MAIL
FOR NEW YORK'S
2 GIANT HIT MUSICALS!

PRICES: Evgs. Mon. thru Sat.: Orch. Divans (First 12 Rows) $9.90; Orch. $9.20; Mezz. $8.35; Balc. $6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 3.85. Wed. Mat.: Orch. Divans (First 12 Rows) $5.75; Orch. $4.80; Mezz. $4.80; Balc. $4.00, 3.50, 3.00, 2.50. Sat. Mat.: Orch. Divans (First 12 Rows) $6.25; Orch. $5.25; Mezz. $5.00; Balc. $4.00, 3.50, 3.00. Please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope with order, and suggest several alternate dates.

LUNT-FONTANNE THEA. 205 W. 46 St., N.Y.C.

PULITZER PRIZE 1962

The FRANK LOESSER and ABE BURROWS MUSICAL

Book by ABE BURROWS, JACK WEINSTOCK and WILLIE GILBERT
Based on "HOW TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS WITHOUT REALLY TRYING" by SHEPHERD MEAD
Music and Lyrics by FRANK LOESSER
ROBERT MORSE starring RUDY VALLEE
Musical Staging by BOB FOSSE
Directed by ABE BURROWS

PRICES: Evgs. Orch. Divans $9.60; Orch. $8.80; Mezz. $7.50, 6.90; Balc. $5.75, 4.60, 4.05, 3.45. Mat. Wed.: Orch. Divans $5.00; Orch. $4.80; Mezz. $4.05; Balc. $3.45, 2.90. Mat. Sat.: Orch. Divans $5.75; Orch. $5.40; Mezz. $4.60; Balc. $4.05, 3.45. Please enclose self-addressed, stamped env. with order, suggest several alternate dates.

46TH STREET THEA 226 W. 46 St., N.Y.C.

NATIONAL COMPANY
Opens Cleveland, Feb. 4

DISTINCTIVE DINING
The Murray Hill
RESTAURANT • COCKTAIL BAR
Park Ave. at 42nd St.—S.W. Cor.

is that America thinks of itself as a nation without social classes. As a result, there are few social or civic organizations that are separated on the basis of income and class. The "working-class culture" that sociologists have described in a country like England does not exist here.... The poor person who might want to join an organization is afraid. Because he or she will have less education, less money, less competence to articulate ideas than anyone else in the group, they stay away.

One reason our society is a comparatively violent one is that the French and Italian and British poor have a communal life and culture that the American poor lack. As one reads "The Other America," one wonders why there is not even more violence than there is.

THE richest city of all, New York, has been steadily growing poorer, if one looks beyond Park Avenue and Wall Street. Of its 2,080,000 families, just under half (49 per cent) had incomes in 1959 of less than $6,000; for the city's non-white families, the percentage was 71. And a fourth of all New York families in 1959 were below the poverty line of $4,000. These percentages are at present slightly higher than the national average—an ominous reversal of the city's earlier position. In 1932, the average national weekly wage was only 67 per cent of the New York City average. In 1960, it was 108 per cent. The city's manufacturing workers in 1946 earned $11 more a week than the national average; in 1960 they earned $6.55 a week less. The two chief reasons are probably the postwar influx of Puerto Ricans and the exodus to the suburbs of the well-to-do. But whatever the reasons, the city seems to be turning into an economically backward area, like Arkansas or New Hampshire. Even the bankers—the "non-supervisory" ones, that is—are modestly paid: 54 per cent of the males and 78 per cent of the females make less than $80 a week. All these statistics come from John O'Rourke, president of Joint Council 16, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, which has 168,000 members in the area. Mr. O'Rourke has been campaigning to persuade Mayor Wagner to raise the city's minimum hourly wage to $1.50. (The Mayor has gone as far as $1.25.) The New York teamsters are motivated by enlightened self-interest: the more other wages stagnate, the harder it will be to maintain their own comparatively high level of pay. They complain especially about the low wages in the highly organized garment trade, to which Mr. Dubinsky's International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union replies that if it

NOW thru JAN. 27
MARCEL MARCEAU
in The New Program
UNANIMOUSLY ACCLAIMED IN LONDON
"Brilliant one-man evening. Very funny, and a great treat." —PUNCH
"Marcel Marceau's art does not merely survive repeated visits, it repays them." —The London Times
Seats at Box Office or by Mail
Popular Prices: $4.35, 3.45, 2.75, 1.95.
Eves. Incl. Sun. 8:30. Mats. Sat. & Sun. 2:30. No Mon. Perfs. Make check or money order payable N. Y. Cty Center. Enclose self-addressed stamped envelope. Circle 6-8989
N.Y. CITY CENTER, 131 W. 55 ST.

"RICHARD RODGERS IS A MAGICIAN! ENCHANTED MUSIC...IMAGINATIVE, CHARMING." —Taubman, Times

NO STRINGS

"O, WHAT A BEAUTIFUL EVENING! THE ONE SHOW YOU MUST SEE!" —Walter Winchell

Eves.: Orch. $9.20; Mezz. $7.50; Balc. $6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 3.85. Wed. Mat.: Orch. $5.25; Mezz. $4.80; Balc. $4.30, 3.80, 3.00. Sat. Mat.: Orch. $5.75; Mezz. $4.80; Balc. $4.30, 3.80, 3.00. Tax Included. Please list alternate dates and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BROADHURST THEA., 44 St. W. of B'way
Original Cast Album Exclusively on Capitol Records

TENNESSEE WILLIAMS HAS WRITTEN ANOTHER BIG HIT

THE MILK TRAIN DOESN'T STOP HERE ANYMORE

A NEW PLAY BY TENNESSEE WILLIAMS

MAIL ORDERS FILLED

PRICES: Mon. thru Thurs. Evgs. Orch. $6.90; Balc. $5.75, 4.80, 4.05, 3.60, 2.90. Fri. and Sat. Evgs. Orch. $7.50; Balc. $6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 4.05, 3.60. Wed. Mat. Orch. $4.80; Balc. $4.05, 3.60, 2.90, 2.30. Sat. Mat. Orch. $5.40; Balc. $4.80, 4.05, 3.60, 2.90. Enclose self-addressed envelope.

MOROSCO THEATRE 217 W. 45th St. N.Y.C. Cir 6-6230

"HILARIOUS!" —John Crosby, Her. Trib.

3RD SMASH YEAR!

OFF BROADWAY
THE PREMISE

Tues., Wed., Thurs. 8:30; Fri. 8:00 & 10:30; Sat. 7:30 & 10:30; Sun. 3:00 & 8:30
154 BLEECKER ST. Reservations: LF 3-5020

"A BRILLIANT TOUR-DE-FORCE." —WATTS, POST

ANTHONY NEWLEY in STOP THE WORLD - I WANT TO GET OFF with ANNA QUAYLE
a New-Style Musical

MAIL ORDERS: Evgs.: $8.60, 6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 3.60, 2.90. Wed. Mats.: $4.80, 4.30, 3.60, 2.50. Sat. Mats.: $5.40, 4.80, 3.60, 2.90.
SHUBERT THEATRE, 225 W. 44 ST., N. Y. C.

"WEAVES AN ENCHANTING SPELL." —TAUBMAN, TIMES

DAVID MERRICK presents
ANTHONY QUINN MARGARET LEIGHTON
in

WARNER LEROY'S production of TCHIN-TCHIN
by SIDNEY MICHAELS
based on the play by FRANCOIS BILLETDOUX
Directed by PETER GLENVILLE
MAIL ORDERS: Mon. thru Thurs. Evgs.: $6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 3.60, 2.50. Fri. & Sat. Evgs.: $7.50, 6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 3.60. Wed. Mats.: $4.80, 4.30, 3.60, 2.50. Sat. Mats.: $5.40, 4.80, 4.30, 3.60, 2.50.
PLYMOUTH THEATRE, 236 W. 45 St., N. Y. C.

HOWARD TAUBMAN in
The New York Times
"LET US BE GRATEFUL FOR 'TIGER TIGER BURNING BRIGHT'"
JOHN CHAPMAN in DAILY NEWS
"TAUT, ARRESTING DRAMA WITH A WALLOP."
CLAUDIA McNEIL IN TIGER TIGER BURNING BRIGHT
BOOTH THEATRE
222 W. 45 St., N. Y. 36, Circle 6-5969
Eves. 8:30. Matinees WED. 2 P.M. & SAT. 2:30

"'LORD PENGO' IS A JOY!" —Glover, Assoc. Press
CHARLES BOYER in
THE NEW COMEDY
LORD Pengo
also starring
AGNES MOOREHEAD
MAIL ORDERS FILLED PROMPTLY Evenings, Mon. thru Thurs.; $6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 4.30, 3.60. Fri. and Sat. Evgs.; $7.50, 6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 4.30, 3.60. Wed. Matinee: $4.80, 4.30, 3.60, 2.90, 2.30. Sat. Mat.: $5.40, 4.80, 3.60, 2.90, 2.30 (Tax Included). Please enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.
ROYALE THEATRE 242 W. 45 ST. N. Y. 36

presses for higher wages the manufacturers will simply move to low-wage, non-union areas, mostly in the South, as the New England textile manufacturers did many years ago—a riposte that is as realistic as it is uncheering. However, Mr. O'Rourke has an enterprising research staff, plenty of persistence, and a sharp tongue. "New Yorkers," he says, "are accustomed to thinking of themselves as pacesetters in an allegedly affluent society [but] at the rate we are going, we will soon qualify for the title 'Sweatshop Capital of the Nation.' "

THE main reason the American poor have become invisible is that since 1936 their numbers have been reduced by two-thirds. Astounding as it may seem, the fact is that President Roosevelt's "one-third of a nation" was a considerable understatement; over two-thirds of us then lived below the poverty line, as is shown by the tables that follow. But today the poor are a minority, and minorities can be ignored if they are so heterogeneous that they cannot be organized. When the poor were a majority, they simply could not be overlooked. Poverty is also hard to see today because the middle class ($6,000 to $14,999) has vastly increased—from 13 per cent of all families in 1936 to a near-majority (47 per cent) today. That mass poverty can persist despite this rise to affluence is hard to believe, or see, especially if one is among those who have risen.

Two tables in "Poverty and Deprivation" summarize what has been happening in the last thirty years. They cover only multiple-person families; all figures are converted to 1960 dollars; and the income is before taxes. I have omitted, for clarity, all fractions.

The first table is the percentage of families with a given income:

	1935-6	1947	1953	1960
Under $ 4,000	68%	37%	28%	23%
$4,000 to $ 5,999	17	29	28	23
$6,000 to $ 7,499	6	12	17	16
$7,500 to $14,999	7	17	23	31
Over $15,000	2	4	5	7

The second table is the share each group had in the family income of the nation:

	1935-6	1947	1953	1960
Under $ 4,000	35%	16%	11%	7%
$4,000 to $ 5,999	21	24	21	15
$6,000 to $ 7,499	10	14	17	14
$7,500 to $14,999	16	28	33	40
Over $15,000	18	18	19	24

Several interesting conclusions can be drawn from these tables:

(1) The New Deal didn't do anything about poverty: The under-$4,000 families in 1936 were 68 per cent of PINTER IS A HIT!

"ORIGINAL AND REMARKABLE."
"Dramatic imagination." "Harold Pinter writes for the stage . . . with lean, vivid virtuosity." "He brilliantly employs every effect the theatre has to offer." Howard Taubman, N. Y. Times

"EXCEPTIONALLY INTRIGUING"
"Handsomely mounted, perfectly staged and uniformly well-acted."
Walter Kerr, N. Y. Herald Tribune

"BRILLIANCE, ORIGINALITY AND WILD HUMOR"
The New Yorker Magazine

the PINTER plays
THE DUMBWAITER & THE COLLECTION
TWO NEW PLAYS BY HAROLD PINTER
Mail Orders Now. Tues., Wed., Thurs., Sun. Mat. & Eve.: $4.50, 3.50, 2.50. Fri. Eve. 8:40, Sat. at 7 & 10: $4.90, 3.90, 2.90. Eves. at 8:40, Sun. Mat. 3:00. Box Office Opens Daily at 10:00 A.M. Please enclose stamped self-addressed envelope. Checks payable to Cherry Lane Theatre.
CHERRY LANE THEATRE 40 Commerce St., Reservations YU 9-2020

JEAN KERR'S Irresistible Comedy
in New York
YOU'LL LOVE
MARY, MARY
HELEN HAYES Theatre, 210 W. 46 St.

in Chicago
YOU'LL LOVE
MARY, MARY
BLACKSTONE Theatre, 60 E. Balbo

"Bracing and cheerful..... staged with unpretentious freshness." Taubman—N. Y. Times a new musical by John Jennings
Riverwind
ACTORS PLAYHOUSE
100 7th Ave South
OR 5-1036

JEROME ROBBINS' PRODUCTION
HERMIONE GINGOLD in OH DAD, POOR DAD,
MAMMA'S HUNG YOU IN THE CLOSET AND I'M FEELIN' SO SAD" with Barbara Harris.
PHOENIX THEA. 334 E. 74 ST. UN 1-2288

☞ BRILLIANT ☜

"Side-Splitting! Brilliant as Brilliant Gets."
—Walter Kerr, New York Herald Tribune

☆ROARING☆

"Roaring with Joyous Irreverence!"
—Howard Taubman, New York Times

○FUNNIEST○

"'BEYOND THE FRINGE' is the funniest show in America."
—Newsweek

NEVER HAVE SO MANY LAUGHED SO HARD AT SO FEW

Hear The Original Broadway Cast

Capitol RECORDS

©CAPITOL RECORDS INC.

(S) W-1792 Now at the John Golden Theater

JOSEPH COTTEN
in CALCULATED RISK

"A lively thriller".
—Taubman, N. Y. Times

MAIL ORDERS FILLED
PRICES: Mon. thru Thurs. Evgs.: Orch. $6.90; Mezz. $5.75, 4.80; Balc. $4.05, 3.60, 2.90. Fri. and Sat. Evgs.: Orch. $7.50; Mezz. $6.90, 5.75; Balc. $4.80, 4.05, 3.60. Wed. Mat.: Orch. $4.80; Mezz. $4.30; Balc. $3.60, 2.90, 2.30. Sat. Mat. & Hol. Mats. Feb. 12 & 22: Orch. $5.40; Mezz. $4.80, 4.30; Balc. $3.60, 2.90, 2.30. Enclose stamped self-addressed envelope.

AMBASSADOR THEATRE
215 West 49 Street, New York City

"BURLESQUE IS BACK... stripped for laughter"
—Journal-American
"Good-humored"
—The New Yorker
"HILARIOUS"—N. Y. Times

ANN CORIO
THIS WAS BURLESQUE
MIDNITE SHOW SAT.

Eves, Tues, Wed, Thurs & Sun, 8:30, $3.95, 3.45, 3.25, 2.50, 2.00; Fri, Sat, 8:30 & Sat Midnight, $4.95, 4.45, 3.50, 2.50; Mats, Sat & Sun, 2:30, $3.50, 3.00, 2.50, 2.00, 1.50; Wed Mat, $2.00, 1.00.
Arrange your Theatre Parties NOW!

CASINO EAST THEA. 2nd Ave. at 12th St. YU 2-6611 the total population, which was slightly more than the 1929 figure of 65 per cent.

(2) The war economy (hot and cold) did do something about poverty: Between 1936 and 1960 the proportion of all families who were poor was reduced from 68 per cent to 23 per cent.

(3) If the percentage of under-$4,000 families decreased by two-thirds between 1936 and 1960, their share of the national income dropped a great deal more—from 35 per cent to 7 per cent.

(4) The well-to-do ($7,500 to $14,999) have enormously increased, from 7 per cent of all families in 1936 to 31 per cent today. The rich ($15,000 and over) have also multiplied—from 2 to 7 per cent. But it should be noted that the very rich, according to another new study, "The Share of Top Wealth-Holders in National Wealth, 1922-1956," by Robert J. Lampman (Princeton), have experienced a decline. He finds that the top 1 per cent of wealth-holders owned 38 per cent of the national wealth in 1929 and own only 28 per cent today. (Though let's not get sentimental over that "only.") Thus, pace Dr. Kolko, there has in fact been a redistribution of wealth—in favor of the well-to-do and the rich at the expense of the poor and the very rich.

(5) The reduction of poverty has slowed down. In the six years 1947-53, the number of poor families declined 9 per cent, but in the following seven years only 5 per cent. The economic stasis that set in with Eisenhower and that still persists under Kennedy was responsible. (This stagnation, however, did not affect the over-$7,500 families, who increased from 28 per cent to 38 per cent between 1953 and 1960.) In the New York Times Magazine for last November 11th, Herman P. Miller, of the Bureau of the Census, wrote, "During the forties, the lower-paid occupations made the greatest relative gains in average income. Laborers and service workers . . . had increases of about 180% . . . and professional and managerial workers, the highest paid workers of all, had the lowest relative gains—96%." But in the last decade the trend has been reversed; laborers and service workers have gained 39% while professional-managerial workers have gained 68%. This is because in the wartime forties the unskilled were in great demand, while now they are being replaced by machines. Automation is today the same kind of menace to the unskilled—that is, the poor—that the enclosure movement was to the British agricultural population centuries

They All Cheered!
"You'll find yourself overwhelmed with laughter."
—Taubman, Times

ZERO MOSTEL
A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM
A NEW MUSICAL COMEDY with
JACK GILFORD DAVID BURNS RUTH KOBART also RAYMOND WALBURN and JOHN CARRADINE

ORIGINAL CAST ALBUM
Capitol RECORDS

Directed by GEORGE ABBOTT

Evenings Monday thru Thurs.: Orch. $8.60; Mezz. $7.50; Balc. $6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 3.60. Fri. & Sat. Evgs.: Orch. $9.40; Mezz. $8.60; Balc. $6.90, 5.75, 4.80, 3.60. Wed. Mat.: Orch, $4.80; Mezz. $4.30; Balc. $3.60, 3.00, 2.50. Sat. Mat.: Orch. $5.40; Mezz. $4.80; Balc. $4.30, 3.60, 3.00.

ALVIN THEATRE 250 W. 52 St., N.Y.C. Cir. 5-5226

THE COMEDY TREAT OF THE SEASON
Direct From A Year On Broadway

TOM EWELL
in Take Her, She's Mine

Directed by GEORGE ABBOTT
CLEVELAND, Jan. 21-26, Hanna Theatre
LOUISVILLE, Jan. 28-30, Brown Theatre
COLUMBUS, Jan. 31-Feb. 2, Hartman Thea.
CINCINNATI, Feb. 4-Feb. 9, Shubert Theatre

"UP TO ITS EARS IN LAUGHTER,"
Kerr, Her. Trib.

PAUL FORD MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN ORSON BEAN in NEVER TOO LATE
DIRECTED BY GEORGE ABBOTT

PRICES: Mon. thru Thurs. Evgs.: $6.90, 5.75, 4.60, 3.45, 2.90. Fri. & Sat. Evgs.: $7.50, 6.90, 5.75, 4.60, 3.60, 2.90. Wed. Matinee: $4.80, 4.05, 3.45, 2.90, 2.30. Sat. Matinee: $5.40, 4.80, 4.30, 3.60, 3.45, 2.90. Enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope with order.

PLAYHOUSE THEA. 137 W. 48 St., N.Y.C.

Nightly exc. Sun.
COUNT BASIE & HIS ORCH.
JOE WILLIAMS
NIPSEY RUSSELL
OPENING JANUARY 21st
ELLA FITZGERALD

BASIN STREET East
48th St. east of Lexington Ave. • PL 2-4444

FREE 2nd PORTION
FREE HORS D'OEUVRES
FREE CELEBRATION CAKE
FREE PARKING for Dinner Guests,
5:30 P.M. to 6 A.M. daily or All Day Sunday
Hippodrome Garage
43rd St. & 6th Ave.

43rd St., East of B'way
JU 2-3200
Rosoff's
RESTAURANT
Times Square
Theatre Landmark
SINCE 1899

FUN
IN THE LAND
OF THE MIDNIGHT
SUN!

A Scandinavian Festival Weekend February 8, 9, 10

Skoal—to a wonderful time, feasting on Viking food, dancing beneath Northern Lights, enjoying fabulous floor shows. Music hall, movies, fashion show and import shops. Bring your native costume, if you wish, and let yourself go into the gaiety and customs of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland.

$55-$60 per person double, $65 single—includes everything—Room, Meals, Favors, Entertainment. MAKE EARLY RESERVATIONS.

HOTEL
Dennis
ATLANTIC CITY, NEW JERSEY
On the Boardwalk at Michigan Ave.
Telephone (Area Code 609)
344-8111

Nude 1960 ...57½" x 45"

PICASSO

This and other important recent Picasso oils at

KOOTZ GALLERY

655 Madison Ave., N.Y. TE 2-7676

ago. "The facts show that our 'social revolution' ended nearly twenty years ago," Mr. Miller concludes, "yet important segments of the American public, many of them highly placed Government officials and prominent educators, think and act as though it were a continuing process."

"A REDUCTION of about 19% [in the under-$6,000 families] in more than thirty years, or at a rate of about 0.7% per year, is no ground for complacency," the authors of "Poverty and Deprivation" justly observe. There is even less ground for complacency in the recent figures on extreme poverty. The authors estimate the number of families in 1929 with incomes of under $2,000 (in current dollars) at 7,500,000. By 1947 there were less than 4,000,000, not because of any philanthropic effort by their more prosperous fellow-citizens but entirely because of those first glorious years of a war economy. Six years later, in 1953, when the economy had begun to slow down, there were still 3,300,000 of these families with incomes of less than $2,000, and seven years later, in 1960, "there had been no further reduction." Thus in the last fifteen years the bottom dogs have remained on the bottom, sharing hardly at all in the advances that the income groups above them have made in an ascending scale that is exquisitely adjusted, by the automatic workings of capitalism, so that it is inversely proportionate to need.

There are, finally, the bottomest bottom dogs; i.e., families with incomes of under $1,000. I apologize for the italics, but some facts insist on them. According to "Poverty and Deprivation," the numbers of these families "appear to have risen slightly" of late (1953-60), from 800,000 to about 1,000,000. It is only fair, and patriotic, to add that according to the Commerce Department study, about 10,000,000 of our families and unattached individuals now enjoy incomes of $10,000 a year and up. So while some 3,500,000 Americans are in under-$1,000 families, ten times as many are in over-$10,000 families. Not bad at all—in a way.

THE post-1940 decrease in poverty was not due to the policies or actions of those who are not poor, those in positions of power and responsibility. The war economy needed workers, wages went up, and the poor became less poor. When economic stasis set in, the rate of decrease in poverty slowed down proportionately, and it is still slow. Kennedy's efforts to "get the coun-

ANNUAL SALE at LLOYDS

Furniture & Decorations Through February 2

Once during the year (we couldn't afford it more often) . . . we offer some of the most exciting buys in New York for every room in your home . . . town or country.

Step in and look around . . . take your time . . . you'll find just the pieces you're looking for.

- Fine reproduction furniture
- Decorative accessories
- Treasured antique furniture
- Estate pieces
- Prized objets d'art

Merchandise illustrated in our catalogue is not included in the sale

LLOYDS

116 EAST 60th ST., N. Y. 22, N. Y., PL 9-7313

DOING MEXICO?

NO HOTEL ROOM WAS EVER LIKE THIS

(And you can take the kids, too)

Sightseeing, resting, or planning a long stay in Mexico? Live it up! RENT your own luxurious villa complete with servants* (*included in rental price) private swimming pool, garden view, for less than the price of a hotel room. Choice houses available in Acapulco, Taxco, Cuernavaca, Mexico City, or you name it. For one week or a year. From $50 per week up. Call or write:

RENTA HACIENDA

2 Tudor City Place, New York, N. Y. Mu 7-2458.

Joan Crawford with Host John C. Bruno

Bruno's

PEN and PENCIL

"It is without a doubt that the Pen and Pencil serves the best steak in the country." As quoted from ex-Esquire editor Frederic A. Birmingham's new book.

205 E. 45th St. • MU 2-8660

JAPANESE RESTAURANT
SAITO
TEMPURA BAR • TATAMI ROOM
Luncheon • Cocktails • Dinner
70 W. 55th ST. Closed Sun. JU 2-7809

Grapetree Bay
IN ST. CROIX
"What's it really like?"
It's a resort that has gone out of its way not to be "typical." Leisure to your measure is the order of the day at this 400-acre estate on the easternmost tip of St. Croix in the Virgin Islands. Accommodations are in 32 beautiful villas overlooking the beach and Caribbean; food is superb. Write for our new color brochure with full particulars. John Burgess, Mgr. Or see your travel agent.
Grapetree Bay
HOTEL AND COTTAGES
St. Croix, Virgin Islands, USA
Int'l. Representatives
ROBERT F. WARNER, INC.
New York/Boston/Washington
Chicago/Miami/Toronto/London
A Treadway Inn

We're Still Creating Dutch Masterpieces
UNIQUE DUTCH & JAVANESE MENU
Holland House
DINNER • LUNCHEON • COCKTAILS
10 Rockefeller Plaza at 48th St. reservations: CIrcle 6-5800

try moving again" have been unsuccessful, possibly because he has, despite the suggestions of many of his economic advisers, not yet advocated the one big step that might push the economy off dead center: a massive increase in government spending. This would be politically courageous, perhaps even dangerous, because of the superstitious fear of "deficit spending" and an "unbalanced" federal budget. American folklore insists that a government's budget must be arranged like a private family's. Walter Lippmann wrote, after the collapse of the stock market last spring:

> There is mounting evidence that those economists were right who told the Administration last winter that it was making the mistake of trying to balance the budget too soon. It will be said that the budget is not balanced: it shows a deficit in fiscal 1962 of $7 billion. . . . But . . . the budget that matters is the Department of Commerce's income and product accounts budget. Nobody looks at it except the economists [but] while the Administrative budget is necessary for administration and is like a man's checkbook, the income budget tells the real story. . . .
>
> [It] shows that at the end of 1962 the outgo and ingo accounts will be virtually in balance, with a deficit of only about half a billion dollars. Thus, in reality, the Kennedy administration is no longer stimulating the economy, and the economy is stagnating for lack of stimulation. We have one of the lowest rates of growth among the advanced industrial nations of the world.

One shouldn't be hard on the President. Franklin Roosevelt, a more daring and experimental politician, at least in his domestic policy, listened to the American disciples of J. M. Keynes in the early New Deal years and unbalanced his budgets, with splendid results. But by 1936 he had lost his nerve. He cut back government spending and there ensued the 1937 recession, from which the economy recovered only when war orders began to make up for the deficiency in domestic buying power. "Poverty and Deprivation" estimates that between 1953 and 1961 the annual growth rate of our economy was "only 2.5 per cent per annum contrasted with an estimated 4.2 per cent required to maintain utilization of manpower and other productive resources." The poor, who always experience the worst the first, understand quite personally the meaning of that dry statistic, as they understand Kipling's "The toad beneath the harrow knows/Exactly where each tooth-point goes." They are also most intimately acquainted with another set of statistics: the steady postwar rise in the unemployment rate, from 3.1 per cent in 1949 to 4.3 per cent in 1954 to 5.1 per cent in 1958 to over 7 per cent in 1961. (The Tory Gov-

VALTAT

"FEMME"
by Louis Valtat (1869-1952)
Oil: 24x18 Inches
Painted 1898
HIRSCHL & ADLER Galleries inc.
21 East 67th St., N.Y. 21 LE 5-8810

METROPOLE
CAFE
7th AVE. at 48th ST. • CI 5-0088
THE NATION'S NO. 1 JAZZ SPOT
Woody Herman and his big band

RESTAURANT
VOISIN
575 Park Ave. at 63rd St., N. Y.
LUNCHEON & DINNER
Open Sunday • TE 8-6490

Oriented gourmets prefer...
EAST HORIZON
116 EAST 57TH STREET
NEW YORK 22 • PLAZA 3-2610

1963 WARNING
from The Wall Street Journal

During the next three months, you will need to keep up to the minute on news affecting your future and the future of your business.

Because the reports in The Wall Street Journal come to you DAILY, you get the fastest possible warning of any new trend that may affect your business and personal income. You get the facts in time to protect your interests or to seize quickly a new profit-making opportunity.

To assure speedy delivery to you anywhere in the United States, The Journal is printed daily in eight cities from coast to coast. You are promptly and reliably informed on every major new development regarding Prices, Taxes, Consumer Buying, Government Spending, Inventories, Financing, Production Trends, Commodities, Securities, Marketing and New Legislation.

The Wall Street Journal has the largest staff of writers on business and finance. It costs $24 a year, but in order to acquaint you with The Journal, we make this offer: You can get a Trial Subscription for three months for $7. Just send this ad with check for $7. Or tell us to bill you. Address: The Wall Street Journal, 44 Broad St., New York 4, N. Y. NY 1-19

JONAH JONES quartet

FAMOUS FOR ROAST BEEF • STEAKS • BARBECUED RIBS

EMBERS

DINNER From 5:30 P.M. • OPEN TO 4 A.M.

161 E. 54th • NYC • PL 9-3228

GIVE...OR ENJOY AT HOME

FAMOUS STEAKS

served by America's luxury restaurants

You can't buy them in any market. Pfaelzer's U.S. Prime filet mignon is served in America's finest restaurants, hotels and clubs. Tender and flavorful . . . aged to mellow perfection. Quick-frozen; perfect arrival is guaranteed! Railway Express Prepaid to Continental U.S.A.

Box of 16 filet mignons 6 oz. ea., 1¼" thick $33

Write for free gift booklet.

pfaelzer Brothers (pronounced FELZER)

Dept. YA Chicago 9, Illinois YArds 7-7100

ernment is worried because British unemployment is now at its highest point for the last three years. This point is 2.1 per cent, which is less than our lowest rate in the last fifteen years.)

Some of the post-1940 gains of the poor have been their own doing. "Moonlighting"—or holding two or more jobs at once—was practiced by about 3 per cent of the employed in 1950; today this percentage has almost doubled. Far more important is what might be called "wife-flitting": Between 1940 and 1957, the percentage of wives with jobs outside the home doubled, from 15 per cent to 30 per cent. The head of the United States Children's Bureau, Mrs. Katherine B. Oettinger, announced last summer, not at all triumphantly, that there are now two-thirds more working mothers than there were ten years ago and that these mothers have about 15,000,000 children under eighteen—of whom 4,000,000 are under six. This kind of economic enterprise ought to impress Senator Goldwater and the ideologues of the National Review, whose reaction to the poor, when they think about such an uninspiring subject, is "Why don't they do something about it?" The poor have done something about it and the family pay check is bigger and the statistics on poverty look better. But the effects on family life and on those 4,000,000 pre-school children is something else. Mrs. Oettinger quoted a roadside sign, "IRONING, DAY CARE AND WORMS FOR FISHING BAIT," and mentioned a baby-sitter who pacified her charge with sleeping pills and another who met the problem of a cold apartment by putting the baby in the oven. "The situation has become a 'national disgrace,' with many unfortunate conditions that do not come to public attention until a crisis arises," the Times summed up her conclusion. This crisis has finally penetrated to public attention. The President recently signed a law that might be called Day-care. It provides $5,000,000 for such facilities this fiscal year, which works out to $1.25 for each of the 4,000,000 under-six children with working mothers. Next year, the program will provide all of $2.50 per child. This is a free, democratic society's notion of an adequate response. Almost a century ago, Bismarck instituted in Germany state-financed social benefits far beyond anything we have yet ventured. Granted that he did it merely to take the play away from the Social Democratic Party founded by Marx and Engels. Still, one imagines that Count Bismarck must be amused—in the circle of Hell re-

*IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

"All this... and a gift, too!"

What more could we offer you? Extra conveniences in every one of our 200 rooms . . . a bathroom scale, a terry-cloth robe, oversize towels, large-size soap, and, of course, perfectly appointed rooms . . . plus a gift pack of toiletries! At the Manger Hay-Adams you enjoy a new peak in hotel hospitality. It's one of the world's finest hotels!

Completely Air Conditioned

Manger Hotels

HOTEL Manger Hay-Adams

Across from the White House

16th AT H STREET, N.W. • WASHINGTON, D.C.

WINES OF HUNGARY

A wide selection of luscious golden Tokays, delightful white and robust red table wines are available at your favorite package store and restaurant.

SOLE IMPORTERS
VINTAGE WINES, INC.
625 WEST 54th ST., N.Y. 19
Circle 5-0100

BOCA GRANDE
(Gasparilla Island)

A true tropical island. Fabulous fishing. White sand beach, fabulous shells. Coconut and sea grape trees. Available home sites. Traditional living for over half century for the discerning.

SUNSET REALTY CORP., Dept. F, BOCA GRANDE, FLORIDA
Highway 41 to 771 or 773
Midway between Sarasota and Fort Myers
Causeway to Boca Grande
(New York Office—30 East 40th Street)

EL 5-4774

ZABALA'S La Zambra
14 EAST 60 ST.
Flamenco Guitar & Piano nitely
Luncheon-Cocktails-Dinner-Supper fold-away crush-proof pop-on

*PACK-IT pretty as all get-out
$5

Ship'n Shore®

*REG. APPL. FOR

THERE ARE THREE REASONS WHY YOU WILL ENJOY ST. CROIX

They are — absolutely perfect weather — its sincerely friendly people — and the greatest variety of beautiful and interesting scenery of any island in the entire Caribbean.

Estate Carlton offers everything for a complete happy holiday — free golf on our own 9 hole golf course — large fresh water swimming pool — tennis — our own soft sandy Caribbean beach — 89 acres of tropical beauty.

Write for free copy 24 page booklet in full color describing our beautiful island of St. Croix.

Estate Carlton
Hotel and Golf Club
St. Croix
U. S. Virgin Islands

LE VALOIS
45 EAST 58th ST. • MUrray Hill 8-7630
LUNCHEON
COCKTAILS
DINNER

Also Superb Private Facilities (Parties of 40 or Less) served for reactionaries—by that $2.50 a child.

It's not that Public Opinion doesn't become Aroused every now and then. But the arousement never leads to much. It was aroused twenty-four years ago when John Steinbeck published "The Grapes of Wrath," but Mr. Harrington reports that things in the Imperial Valley are still much the same: low wages, bad housing, no effective union. Public Opinion is too public—that is, too general; of its very nature, it can have no sustained interest in California agriculture. The only groups with such a continuing interest are the workers and the farmers who hire them. Once Public Opinion ceased to be Aroused, the battle was again between the two antagonists with a real, personal stake in the outcome, and there was no question about which was stronger. So with the rural poor in general. In the late fifties, the average annual wage for white male American farm workers was slightly over $1,000; women, children, Negroes, and Mexicans got less. One recalls Edward R. Murrow's celebrated television program about these people, "Harvest of Shame." Once more everybody was shocked, but the harvest is still shameful. One also recalls that Mr. Murrow, after President Kennedy had appointed him head of the United States Information Agency, tried to persuade the B.B.C. not to show "Harvest of Shame." His argument was that it would give an undesirable "image" of America to foreign audiences.

THERE is a monotony about the injustices suffered by the poor that perhaps accounts for the lack of interest the rest of society shows in them. Everything seems to go wrong with them. They never win. It's just boring.

Public housing turns out not to be for them. The 1949 Housing Act authorized 810,000 new units of low-cost housing in the following four years. Twelve years later, in 1961, the A.F.L.-C.I.O. proposed 400,000 units to complete the lagging 1949 program. The Kennedy administration ventured to recommend 100,000 to Congress. Thus, instead of 810,000 low-cost units by 1953, the poor will get, if they are lucky, 500,000 by 1963. And they are more likely to be injured than helped by slum clearance, since the new projects usually have higher rents than the displaced slum-dwellers can afford. (There has been no dearth of government-financed middle-income housing since 1949.) These refugees from the bulldozers for the most part simply emigrate to other slums. They also become invisitrue Italian sparkle!

Taste Italy's most famous sparkling wine—pale gold, fresh, vividly fragrant.

ASTI Gancia
ITALIAN SPARKLING WINE
©1962 The Jos. Garneau Co., New York, N. Y.

NEW YORK
in the splendid 70's, just off Fifth Avenue

THE VOLNEY
23 East 74th Street • BUtterfield 8-7500
Frank C. Bromber, Vice Pres., Executive Director

FAMOUS FOR PRIME STEAKS, SUPERB ROAST BEEF AND AUTOGRAPHED LOBSTER. CAESAR OR TOSSED SALAD INCLUDED WITHOUT CHARGE WITH MORE THAN 30 ENTREES.
LUNCHEON - DINNER - SUPPER. OPEN FROM 11:30 A.M.-1 A.M. DINERS' CLUB.
NEW YORK—49 E. 49th St.—PL 1-1960
MIAMI BEACH—21st St. Off Collins Ave.—JE 8-0523
CHANDLER'S

"Serving Chinese Food as you like it."
BILL CHAN'S
GOLD COIN
994 2nd Ave. at 53rd St. • PL 8-1251

THE INTERNATIONALLY RENOWNED

Embassy Club

CONTINUOUS DANCING

GUNNAR HANSEN
His Magic Violin and his Orchestra
*
QUINTERO and his Continental Band
*
Dinner from 6:30
Dancing from 8:30

RESERVATIONS: "Eddie"
PLaza 5-1000
Closed Mondays

Sheraton-East
PARK AVE. at 51 STREET
HAROLD P. BOCK
VICE PRES. AND GEN. MGR.

KITCHEN CRAMP?

"Julian Hess Can Make It A Showplace"

New Special Service! In answer to hundreds of inquiries . . . Julian Hess, Inc., recognized kitchen authorities, will design your kitchen through the mail. For just a small fee of $100, you will get a plan and perspective drawing. Write for further details.

JULIAN HESS, INC. Engineered Kitchens®
Manhattan Showroom:
514 W. 181 St., N. Y. 33, N. Y.
TEL: WAdsworth 8-6300 (Code #212)

NEW things are happening at OLD
Cavanagh's
260 WEST 23RD ST. NEW YORK
WHERE ELEGANCE IN DINING IS A TRADITION
SINCE 1876

ble; Mr. Harrington notes that half of them are recorded as "address unknown." Several years ago, Charles Abrams, who was New York State Rent Administrator under Harriman and who is now president of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing, summed up what he had learned in two decades in public housing: "Once social reforms have won tonal appeal in the public mind, their slogans and goal-symbols may degenerate into tools of the dominant class for beleaguering the minority and often for defeating the very aims which the original sponsors had intended for their reforms." Mr. Abrams was probably thinking, in part, of the Title I adventures of Robert Moses in dealing with New York housing. There is a Moses or two in every American city, determined to lead us away from the promised land.

And this is not the end of tribulation. The poor, who can least afford to lose pay because of ill health, lose the most. A National Health Survey, made a few years ago, found that workers earning under $2,000 a year had twice as many "restricted-activity days" as those earning over $4,000.

The poor are even fatter than the rich. (The cartoonists will have to revise their clichés.) "Obesity is seven times more frequent among women of the lowest socio-economic level than it is among those of the highest level," state Drs. Moore, Stunkard, and Srole in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. (The proportion is almost the same for men.) They also found that overweight associated with poverty is related to mental disease. Fatness used to be a sign of wealth, as it still is in some parts of Africa, but in more advanced societies it is now a stigma of poverty, since it means too many cheap carbohydrates and too little exercise—which has changed from a necessity for the poor into a luxury for the rich, as may be confirmed by a glance at the models in any fashion magazine.

Although they are the most in need of hospital insurance, the poor have the least, since they can't afford the premiums; only 40 per cent of poor families have it, as against 63 per cent of all families. (It should be noted, however, that the poor who are war veterans can get free treatment, at government expense, in Veterans Administration Hospitals.)

The poor actually pay more taxes, in proportion to their income, than the rich. A recent study by the Tax Foundation estimates that 28 per cent of incomes

(MOVING)

Peter, Paul and Mary
(MOVING)

Peter, Paul and Mary, Part Two.
The second installment of an important new musical expression.
MILTON OKUN — MUSICAL DIRECTOR

!!!

the first name in sound
Warner Bros. Records
Burbank, California

SECRET
HARBOUR

Secret Harbour is a small, quality development of large home sites in the Eastern part of St. Thomas, U. S. Virgin Islands. Waterfront property, and all sites have a view of sea and islands. Exclusively deeded to all Secret Harbour home owners is the privilege of using the beautiful palm shaded sand beach on the property. One of the prettiest beaches in St. Thomas. Paved roads. Do not delay. This is a small development. From $14,500 and up. Brokers protected. Airmail or Cable.

SECRET HARBOUR
P. O. Box 358 St. Thomas, Virgin Islands

The Aristocrat of Sea Food Restaurants

Sea-Fare
1033 First Ave. at 57th St
44 W. 8th St. Greenwich Village
Diners' Club American Exp.

EVERETT McNEAR
Paintings Jan 12-26
JACQUES SELIGMANN 5 E. 57

under $2,000 goes for taxes, as against 24 per cent of the incomes of families earning five to seven times as much. Sales and other excise taxes are largely responsible for this curious statistic. It is true that such taxes fall impartially on all, like the blessed rain from heaven, but it is a form of egalitarianism that perhaps only Senator Goldwater can fully appreciate.

The final irony is that the Welfare State, which Roosevelt erected and which Eisenhower, no matter how strongly he felt about it, didn't attempt to pull down, is not for the poor, either. Agricultural workers are not covered by Social Security, nor are many of the desperately poor among the aged, such as "unrelated individuals" with incomes of less than $1,000, of whom only 37 per cent are covered, which is just half the percentage of coverage among the aged in general. Of the Welfare State, Mr. Harrington says, "Its creation had been stimulated by mass impoverishment and misery, yet it helped the poor least of all. Laws like unemployment compensation, the Wagner Act, the various farm programs, all these were designed for the middle third in the cities, for the organized workers, and for the . . . big market farmers. . . . [It] benefits those least who need help most." The industrial workers, led by John L. Lewis, mobilized enough political force to put through Section 7(a) of the National Industrial Recovery Act, which, with the Wagner Act, made the C.I.O. possible. The big farmers put enough pressure on Henry Wallace, Roosevelt's first Secretary of Agriculture—who talked a good fight for liberal principles but was a Hamlet when it came to action—to establish the two basic propositions of Welfare State agriculture: subsidies that now cost $3 billion a year and that chiefly benefit the big farmers; and the exclusion of sharecroppers, tenant farmers, and migratory workers from the protection of minimum-wage and Social Security laws.

No doubt the Kennedy administration would like to do more for the poor than it has, but it is hampered by the cabal of Republicans and Southern Democrats in Congress. The 1961 revision of the Fair Labor Standards Act, which raised the national minimum wage to the not exorbitant figure of $1.15 an hour, was a slight improvement over the previous act. For instance, it increased coverage of retail-trade workers from 3 per cent to 33 per cent. (But one-fourth of the retail workers still excluded earn less than $1 an hour.) There was also a considerable amount of shadowboxing involved: Of the

A most delightful resort

Carefree informality a world of sun and fun filled leisure. Superb beach and sparkling swimming pool. Luxury rooms and private cottages all have terraces, air conditioning and uncluttered views. Every water and land sport is close at hand, the cuisine is a gourmet's delight. Gracious service from a dedicated staff. Original Jamaican entertainment and many interesting sight-seeing trips in which to participate.

Golden Head
BEACH HOTEL AND COTTAGES
Oracabessa, near Ocho Rios
Jamaica, W. I.
Don Bardowell,
General Manager
SEE YOUR TRAVEL AGENT
or our International Representatives
Robert F. Warner, Inc.
New York • Boston • Washington
Chicago • Miami • Toronto • London

53rd ANNUAL NATIONAL MOTOR BOAT SHOW JAN. 12-20
HOURS: Sats.—10:30 to 10:30; Suns.—1:00 to 7:00; Weekdays—12 noon to 10:30
For all boatmen and aspiring boatmen . . . here's your chance to see everything that's new in "The Wonderful World of BOATS!"—the industry's most outstanding showcase for 1963 boats and motors, new and exciting nautical gear and gadgets. Don't miss it . . . bring the whole family.
ADMISSION: $2.00—children 75¢ tax inclusive the wonderful world of BOATS!
'63
NEW YORK COLISEUM
COLUMBUS CIRCLE

Your choice of today's foremost portrait painters and sculptors
PORTRAITS, INC.
PORTRAIT CENTER OF AMERICA
136 EAST 57th STREET NEW YORK

The finest name in entertaining...
Carlton House
RITZ CUISINE AT THE FAMOUS RITZ BAR AND THE ELEGANT RITZ RESTAURANT
Private Suites for Social functions
Madison Ave. at 61st St.
For reservations call TE 8-3000
OPERATED by RITZ-CARLTON HOTEL CO. INC.

From the author of THE LEOPARD

Introduction by E. M. FORSTER

"A book filled with small but beautiful gems, and anybody who loved 'The Leopard' will find it delightful."—N.Y. Times Book Review. 16 photographs. $3.95

Dissonant Voices In Soviet Literature

Edited by PATRICIA BLAKE and MAX HAYWARD

"A distraught, touching and significant book."
—ARTHUR SCHLESINGER, JR. $5.95

For opera lovers:
"This may be the best one-volume general history in print."
—FRANK MERKLING,
Editor, Opera News

The World of Opera

The Story of its Development and the Lore of Its Performance

By WALLACE BROCKWAY and HERBERT WEINSTOCK

16 pages of photographs. Two indexes. $10

Now at your bookstore PANTHEON
Watch for The Tin Drum, coming in March.

3,600,000 workers newly covered, only 663,000 were making less than $1 an hour. And there was the exclusion of a particularly ill-paid group of workers. Nobody had anything against the laundry workers personally. It was just that they were weak, unorganized, and politically expendable. To appease the conservatives in Congress, whose votes were needed to get the revision through, they were therefore expended. The result is that of the 500,000 workers in the laundry, dry-cleaning, and dyeing industries, just 17,000 are now protected by the Fair Labor Standards Act.

In short, one reaches the unstartling conclusion that rewards in class societies, including Communist ones, are according to power rather than need. A recent illustration is the campaign of an obscure organization called Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. to get a bill through Congress for pensions of about $25 a week. It was formed by older men who think other veterans' organizations (such as the American Legion, which claims 2,500,000 members to their 200,000) are dominated by the relatively young. It asks for pensions for veterans of the First World War with incomes of under $2,400 (if single) or $3,600 (if married)—that is, only for poor veterans. The editorials have been violent: "STOP THIS VETERANS' GRAB," implored the Herald Tribune; "WORLD WAR I PENSION GRAB," echoed the Saturday Evening Post. Their objection was, in part, that many of the beneficiaries would not be bona-fide poor, since pensions, annuities, and Social Security benefits were excluded from the maximum income needed to qualify. Considering that the average Social Security payment is about $1,000 a year, this would not put any potential beneficiary into the rich or even the comfortably-off class, even if one assumes another $1,000, which is surely too high, from annuities and pensions. It's all very confusing. The one clear aspect is that the minuscule Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. came very near to bringing it off. Although their bill was opposed by both the White House and by the chairman of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs, two hundred and one members of the House signed a petition to bring the measure to a vote, only eighteen less than needed "to accomplish this unusual parliamentary strategy," as the Times put it. These congressmen were motivated by politics rather than charity, one may assume. Many were up for reëlection last November, and the two hundred thousand Veterans of World War I had two advantages over the

James Purdy

"We can rejoice again in the possession of this new work by one of America's best writers" — Saturday Review.

Children is All

Ten stories and two plays

"A sublime work of pity and tenderness . . . could only have been written by a great writer" — Edith Sitwell, New York Herald Tribune.

At your bookstore, $4.25

NEW DIRECTIONS

A HARPER NOVEL OF SUSPENSE

Death is a fellow traveler on

GIDEON'S RIDE

By J. J. MARRIC

Commander Gideon grapples with murder on a London bus! "Maintains the same high quality that was to be found in the prize-winning Gideon's Fire." — HILLARY WAUGH. $3.50

HARPIGNIES

First American One-man Show of Drawings

SCHWEITZER 958 MADISON AVE.

RESTAURANT FRANCAIS

Le Chanteclair

LUNCHEON • COCKTAILS • DINNER

Your hosts: Rene and Maurice Dreyfus

18 EAST 49th STREET • PL 5-7731

Open SAT. 5-10:30 P.M.—Closed SUNDAY

For the finest Polynesian and Cantonese food, plus superb Continental cuisine and exotic drinks, visit New York's only

TRADER VIC'S

ENTRANCE 7 EAST 58th STREET

Open daily including Sunday
Luncheon, Cocktails, Dinner, Supper

THE SAVOY HILTON

For reservations call:
ELdorado 5-2600

SUBSCRIPTION BLANK

THE NEW YORKER
25 WEST 43RD STREET
NEW YORK CITY 36, N. Y.

Please enter my subscription to your magazine for

☐ 1 YEAR; ☐ 2 YEARS

My remittance is enclosed.

U. S. and Possessions
1 year—$7.00; 2 years—$12.00

Canada, Latin America and Spain
1 year— 8.00; 2 years— 14.00

Other Foreign
1 year—10.00; 2 years— 18.00

Subscribers ordering a change of address are requested to notify us at least four weeks in advance and to give us their old address as well as the new. Please include postal zone numbers for both addresses.

NAME

ADDRESS

(Please include postal zone number)

fifty million poor: They were organized, and they had a patriotic appeal only a wink away from the demagogic. Their "unusual parliamentary strategy" failed by eighteen votes in the Congress. But there will be another Congress.

IT seems likely that mass poverty will continue in this country for a long time. The more it is reduced, the harder it is to keep on reducing it. The poor, having dwindled from two-thirds of the population in 1936 to one-quarter today, no longer are a significant political force, as is shown by the Senate's rejection of Medicare and by the Democrats' dropping it as an issue in the elections last year. Also, as poverty decreases, those left behind tend more and more to be the ones who have for so long accepted poverty as their destiny that they need outside help to climb out of it. This new minority mass poverty, so much more isolated and hopeless than the old majority poverty, shows signs of becoming chronic. "The permanence of low incomes is inferred from a variety of findings," write the authors of the Michigan survey. "In many poor families the head has never earned enough to cover the family's present needs." They give a vignette of what the statistics mean in human terms:

For most families, however, the problem of chronic poverty is serious. One such family is headed by a thirty-two-year-old man who is employed as a dishwasher. Though he works steadily and more than full time, he earned slightly over $2,000 in 1959. His wife earned $300 more, but their combined incomes are not enough to support themselves and their three children. Although the head of the family is only thirty-two, he feels that he has no chance of advancement partly because he finished only seven grades of school.... The possibility of such families leaving the ranks of the poor is not high.

Children born into poor families today have less chance of "improving themselves" than the children of the pre-1940 poor. Rags to riches is now more likely to be rags to rags. "Indeed," the Michigan surveyors conclude, "it appears that a number of the heads of poor families have moved into less skilled jobs than their fathers had." Over a third of the children of the poor, according to the survey, don't go beyond the eighth grade and "will probably perpetuate the poverty of their parents." There are a great many of these children. In an important study of poverty, made for a Congressional committee in 1959, Dr. Robert J. Lampman estimated that eleven million of the poor were under eighteen. "A considerable number of younger persons are starting life in a condition of 'inherited

An egret flies out of a Cretan lemon grove to become the herald of adventure in....

THE MOON-SPINNERS

MARY STEWART

The bestselling author of The Ivy Tree, Nine Coaches Waiting, and other great novels of suspense returns to the Aegean where forces ageless as mankind set in motion a story that is right up to her high standard in its enviable blend of chills and romance.

At all bookstores, $4.50

MILL-MORROW

5 MINUTES TO NEW 18 HOLE
LONGBOAT KEY
GOLF COURSE

Club-like setting. Bathing. Safe private beach. Tennis. Superb food.

Only $5.00 greens fees for our guests

Lido Biltmore
CLUB HOTEL

For rates, reservations and color folder, see your travel agent or N.Y. Reservation Office, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, Tel. LT 1-3462

FLOYD ALFORD, JR., PRES. & GEN. MGR.

LIDO BEACH • SARASOTA • FLORIDA

BEN JOHNSON
Thru Feb. 9
KORNBLEE GALLERY
1018 MADISON AVE.

Chateau Madrid presents nightly
LOS CHAVALES de ESPANA
LUNCH • DINNER • SUPPER
42 W. 58 • PL 3-3773

poverty,'" he observed. To which Mr. Harrington adds, "The character of poverty has changed, and it has become more deadly for the young. It is no longer associated with immigrant groups with high aspirations; it is now identified with those whose social existence makes it more and more difficult to break out into the larger society." Even when children from poor families show intellectual promise, there is nothing in the values of their friends or families to encourage them to make use of it. Dr. Kolko, citing impressive sources, states that of the top 16 per cent of high-school students—those scoring 120 and over in I.Q. tests—only half go on to college. The explanation for this amazing—and alarming—situation is as much cultural as economic. The children of the poor now tend to lack what the sociologists call "motivation." At least one foundation is working on the problem of why so many bright children from poor families don't ever try to go beyond high school.

Mr. Raymond M. Hilliard, at present director of the Cook County (i.e., Chicago) Department of Public Aid and formerly Commissioner of Welfare for New York City, recently directed a "representative-sample" investigation, which showed that more than half of the 225,000 able-bodied Cook County residents who were on relief were "functionally illiterate." One reason Cook County has to spend $16,500,000 a month on relief is "the lack of basic educational skills of relief recipients which are essential to compete in our modern society." An interesting footnote, apropos of recent happenings at "Ole Miss," is that the illiteracy rate of the relief recipients who were educated in Chicago is 33 per cent, while among those who were educated in Mississippi and later moved to Chicago it is 77 per cent.

The problem of educating the poor has changed since 1900. Then it was the language and cultural difficulties of immigrants from foreign countries; now it is the subtler but more intractable problems of internal migration from backward regions, mostly in the South. The old immigrants wanted to Better Themselves and to Get Ahead. The new migrants are less ambitious, and they come into a less ambitious atmosphere. "When they arrive in the city," wrote Christopher Jencks in an excellent two-part survey, "Slums and Schools," in the New Republic last fall, "they join others equally unprepared for urban life in the slums—a milieu which is in many ways utterly dissociated from the rest of America. Often this milieu is self-perpetuating. I have been unable to

The splendid years, the tragic and comic years, when history finally caught up with Europe's first families . . .

Habsburg, Hohenzollern, Romanov, and Ottoman . . . For the first two decades of the 20th century these four continental powers waged a rearguard action against history — and lost. Edmond Taylor tells the story in brilliant detail — illuminating the glittering, opulent façade and the dry rot within — in a new addition to the Mainstream of the Modern World Series, edited by John Gunther.

THE FALL OF THE DYNASTIES

The Collapse of the Old Order, 1905-1922
by EDMOND TAYLOR

A BOOK-OF-THE-MONTH CLUB SELECTION
$6.50 at all booksellers

DOUBLEDAY

Seventy-seven new poems by

Carl Sandburg
HONEY AND SALT

"Another splendid achievement in the career of a superbly gifted author . . . A magnificent tribute to the rich and enduring vitality of a poetic genius."
— Chicago Tribune

$4.75 at all bookstores

HARCOURT, BRACE & WORLD

William A. Smith

Good Night, NOISE!

sleep with FLENTS* Anti-Noise EAR STOPPLES

Comfortable, easy to use. Recommended by doctors. Used by thousands for over 36 years.

Trial box 1 pr. 40¢ ppd.

SHUT OUT DISTURBING LIGHT!

use FLENTS* LIGHT SHIELD

Nap anytime! Soft padding for snug fit. Black Satin. $1.50 ppd.

At Drug or Dept. stores — or send check or M.O. to:
FLENTS PRODUCTS CO., Inc., Dept. N
103 Park Avenue, New York 17, N. Y. *TM

ANNUAL SALE

10% to 40% Off on a selected group of samples. Our own oiled walnut furniture. Our own teak imports from Denmark. Special group of couches and lounge chairs. Now at all four Workbench stores.

the workbench

46 Greenwich Ave., New York 11 • AL 5-1270
241 East 51 Street, New York 22 • PL 3-1173
1713 Chestnut Street, Phila., Pa. • LO 3-9393
52A Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass. • TR 6-9754

JAMAICA

SHERATON-KINGSTON HOTEL

Sportsman's paradise in lively Kingston! ■ Great golf ■ Deep-sea fishing in marlin-rich waters ■ Balconied guest rooms ■ Garden swimming pool ■ Confirmed room-and-rate reservations. Call your Travel Agent, your nearest Sheraton Hotel, or Reservation Office ■ Single rooms from $13.50.

Write for details: Sheraton Dept. CAB, 470 Atlantic Avenue, Boston 10, Mass.

68 SHERATON HOTELS IN 47 CITIES

THE BRAND NEW PETIT LAROUSSE 1962

The latest edition of the world-famous Petit Larousse—hard cover, 1814 pages, 70,000 articles, 5130 illustrations—can be yours now for only $1.00 with membership in The French Book Guild. As a member, you'll be offered the newest French books each month—at amazingly low cost. Mail coupon to:

FRENCH BOOK GUILD, 1860 B'way, N. Y. 23, N. Y.
Please send me information regarding membership in The French Book Guild.
Name_____
Address_____
City_____ Zone____ State____ N-1

EUROPE BY CAR

PLEASE WRITE FOR 32 PAGE FULL COLOR 'EUROPE BY CAR' CATALOGUE. NO CHARGE. SAVINGS ON CAR RENTAL AND PURCHASE

VOLKSWAGEN HILLMAN
MERCEDES JAGUAR
CITROEN PEUGEOT
RENAULT MG, ETC.

EUROPE BY CAR
630 Fifth Avenue, N. Y., N. Y. LT 1-3040
CAR (S)_____
Name_____
Address_____
City_____ State____ NE-2

find any statistics on how many of these migrants' children and grandchildren have become middle-class, but it is probably not too inaccurate to estimate that about 30,000,000 people live in urban slums, and that about half are second-generation residents." The immigrants of 1890-1910 also arrived in a milieu that was "in many ways utterly dissociated from the rest of America," yet they had a vision—a rather materialistic one, but still a vision—of what life in America could be if they worked hard enough; and they did work, and they did aspire to something more than they had; and they did get out of the slums. The disturbing thing about the poor today is that so many of them seem to lack any such vision. Mr. Jencks remarks:

> While the economy is changing in a way which makes the eventual liquidation of the slums at least conceivable, young people are not seizing the opportunities this change presents. Too many are dropping out of school before graduation (more than half in many slums); too few are going to college. . . . As a result there are serious shortages of teachers, nurses, doctors, technicians, and scientifically trained executives, but 4,500,000 unemployables.

"POVERTY is the parent of revolution and crime," Aristotle wrote. This is now a half truth—the last half. Our poor are alienated; they don't consider themselves part of society. But precisely because they don't they are not politically dangerous. It is people with "a stake in the country" who make revolutions. The best—though by no means the only—reason for worrying about the Other America is that its existence should make us feel uncomfortable.

The federal government is the only purposeful force—I assume wars are not purposeful—that can reduce the numbers of the poor and make their lives more bearable. The authors of "Poverty and Deprivation" take a dim view of the Kennedy administration's efforts to date:

> The Federal Budget is the most important single instrument available to us as a free people to induce satisfactory economic performance, and to reduce poverty and deprivation. . . .
>
> Projected Federal outlays in the fiscal 1963 Budget are too small. The items in this Budget covering programs directly related to human improvement and the reduction of mass poverty and deprivation allocate far too small a portion of our total national production to these great purposes.

The effect of government policy on poverty has two quite distinct aspects. One is the indirect effect of the stimulation of the economy by federal spending. Such stimulation—though by war-

"The stuff of life is in the pages of this book, and I recommend it to discerning lovers of fiction."—VICTOR HASS, Chicago Tribune

John O'Hara's

THE CAPE COD LIGHTER

A COLLECTION OF 23 NEW STORIES

Some of these stories originally appeared in The New Yorker. $5.95, now at your bookstore

RANDOM HOUSE

Golfers over 40!

Play better, score lower, get a copy of

PAUL RUNYAN'S BOOK FOR SENIOR GOLFERS

By PAUL RUNYAN, 1961-62 World's Senior Champion; 1961-62 Senior P.G.A. Champion. Recommended by Bobby Jones, Gene Littler, Mickey Wright, Horton Smith and Phil Rodgers.

Illustrated $4.50

DODD, MEAD

at THE ALAN GALLERY:

MARCEL DUCHAMP
FRANCIS PICABIA
KURT SCHWITTERS

766 MADISON at 66th

SINGING SPREE NIGHTLY ★ SHOW TUNES ★ OPERA
Superb Italian Cuisine
Steaks & Chops
Closed Sundays

BIANCHI AND MARGHERITA

186 W. 4th St. • Bet. 6th & 7th Aves.
CH 2-2756 • OR 5-9852 time demands rather than government policy—has in the past produced a prosperity that did cut down American poverty by almost two-thirds. But I am inclined to agree with Dr. Galbraith that it would not have a comparable effect on present-day poverty:

> It is assumed that with increasing output poverty must disappear [he writes]. Increased output eliminated the general poverty of all who worked. Accordingly it must, sooner or later, eliminate the special poverty that still remains. . . . Yet just as the arithmetic of modern politics makes it tempting to overlook the very poor, so the supposition that increasing output will remedy their case has made it easy to do so too.

He underestimates the massiveness of American poverty, but he is right when he says there is now a hard core of the specially disadvantaged—because of age, race, environment, physical or mental defects, etc.—that would not be significantly reduced by general prosperity. (Although I think the majority of our present poor would benefit, if only by a reduction in the present high rate of unemployment.)

To do something about this hard core, a second line of government policy would be required; namely, direct intervention to help the poor. We have had this since the New Deal, but it has always been grudging and miserly, and we have never accepted the principle that every citizen should be provided, at state expense, with a reasonable minimum standard of living regardless of any other considerations. It should not depend on earnings, as does Social Security, which continues the inequalities and inequities and so tends to keep the poor forever poor. Nor should it exclude millions of our poorest citizens because they lack the political pressure to force their way into the Welfare State. The governmental obligation to provide, out of taxes, such a minimum living standard for all who need it should be taken as much for granted as free public schools have always been in our history.

It may be objected that the economy cannot bear the cost, and certainly costs must be calculated. But the point is not the calculation but the principle. Statistics—and especially statistical forecasts—can be pushed one way or the other. Who can determine in advance to what extent the extra expense of giving our 40,000,000 poor enough income to rise above the poverty line would be offset by the lift to the economy from their increased purchasing power? We really don't know. Nor did we know what the budgetary effects would be when we established the prin-

*He Needs Help

The walls of Demetrios' house in the slums of Athens are cracked. Icy winds blow right on his face while he sleeps. His blanket is threadbare. He eats one meal a day—bread dipped in oil.

Demetrios' mother has tuberculosis and is hospitalized. His father, a rag man, earns $13 a month. Demetrios does not pray for a blanket or more food. He prays to grow up quickly so that he can help his parents.

XPEIAZETAI BOHΘEIA*

Through Save the Children Federation, you or your group can bring hope and help to a child like Demetrios. You will receive the photograph and story of the child you help and immediately begin a warm person-to-person relationship through an exchange of letters.

Your sponsorship may also enable the child's family and community to initiate self-help plans and provide small grants or loans to help put them into effect. Please fill in the coupon below so that a needy child in Greece, Korea, Lebanon, France, Italy, Finland, West Germany or Austria can look at the world with hope again.

Save the Children Federation is registered with the U. S. State Department Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Aid and is a member of the International Union for Child Welfare.

Serving Children for 30 Years
SAVE THE CHILDREN FEDERATION
Norwalk, Connecticut

I wish to contribute $150.00 annually to help a ☐ girl ☐ boy in _____ or where the need is greatest ☐. (countries listed above)
Enclosed is my first payment: $12.50 a month ☐ $37.50 a quarter ☐ $75 semi-annually ☐ $150 annually ☐
I cannot sponsor a child; enclosed is contribution of $_____

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ Zone _____ State _____
Contributions are income tax deductible. NY 1-19-3

Elia Kazan's smash hit America America is now playing to capacity crowds at your neighborhood bookseller's.

Positively no latecomers seated after the end of the first chapter.

America America ("a marvelous story" – James Baldwin), by stage and screen director Elia Kazan. America America is being made into a major Warner Brothers film. $4.95 at your bookseller or from the personal publishing house of Stein and Day, 7 East 48th Street, N. Y. 17.

Nine of New York's great restaurants are named

SHRINKAGE

Henry James once said, "America is too large for any human convenience." Of course, that was before jet planes carried passengers from coast to coast in five hours, before one could sit in Boston and dial a friend in Los Angeles for a long-distance telephone chat, and before radio and television sped information and entertainment across the country and even around the world.

Not that James would have cared for such things. He preferred the more stately pace of life in Europe. But if he had been an investor, he might have appreciated the scientific marvels that make possible the handling of orders to buy and sell most stocks —from the placing of the order to the reporting of the execution —in a matter of minutes, regardless of where the buyer and seller are. Perhaps even James would have wondered at the electric and electronic miracles that are worked every day in the brokerage business as a matter of routine.

The financial community today is, in fact, a combination of the traditional and the modern, of long-established custom and newly developed facilities, and of contrasting points of view that James would have found fascinating if he had subjected it to his scrutiny.

And as for the inconvenient largeness of America, nous avons changé tout cela.

MEMBERS N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE AND OTHER PRINCIPAL STOCK AND COMMODITY EXCHANGES

MERRILL LYNCH, PIERCE, FENNER & SMITH INC

70 PINE STREET, NEW YORK 5, NEW YORK

ciple of free public education. The rationale then was that all citizens should have an equal chance of competing for a better status. The rationale now is different: that every citizen has a right to become or remain part of our society because if this right is denied, as it is in the case of at least one-fourth of our citizens, it impoverishes us all. Since 1932, "the government"—local, state, and federal—has recognized a responsibility to provide its citizens with a subsistence living. Apples will never again be sold on the street by jobless accountants, it seems safe to predict, nor will any serious political leader ever again suggest that share-the-work and local charity can solve the problem of unemployment. "Nobody starves" in this country any more, but, like every social statistic, this is a tricky business. Nobody starves, but who can measure the starvation, not to be calculated by daily intake of proteins and calories, that reduces life for many of our poor to a long vestibule to death? Nobody starves, but every fourth citizen rubs along on a standard of living that is below what Mr. Harrington defines as "the minimal levels of health, housing, food, and education that our present stage of scientific knowledge specifies as necessary for life as it is now lived in the United States." Nobody starves, but a fourth of us are excluded from the common social existence. Not to be able to afford a movie or a glass of beer is a kind of starvation—if everybody else can.

The problem is obvious: the persistence of mass poverty in a prosperous country. The solution is also obvious: to provide, out of taxes, the kind of subsidies that have always been given to the public schools (not to mention the police and fire departments and the post office)—subsidies that would raise incomes above the poverty level, so that every citizen could feel he is indeed such. "Civis Romanus sum!" cried St. Paul when he was threatened with flogging—and he was not flogged. Until our poor can be proud to say "Civis Americanus sum!," until the act of justice that would make this possible has been performed by the three-quarters of Americans who are not poor—until then the shame of the Other America will continue.

—DWIGHT MACDONALD

•

JAKARTA—(AP)—Indonesia's growing air force has been found near a Judean hill from close to Jerusalem.—Houston Post.

And finders is keepers!

January 13-26, 1963

CRESPI | ORBAN
GULEY | WETTINGFELD

CRESPI GALLERY
1153 Madison Ave. (85 St.)

FANNY'S
WORLD FAMOUS RESTAURANT
Spaghetti • Southern Fried Chicken • Prime Steaks and Fanny's salad dressing.
Hours 5 to 10 pm daily (OPEN EVERY DAY) 1601 Simpson St.
Sunday 12 noon to 10 pm Phone GR 5-8686 Evanston, Ill.

File w/teacher firing material

llege

Richard Saunders

: To interest young people New York Heart Association m that has placed 24 high school students in hospital research laboratories for the summer. Here a medical scientist works with one of the youngsters on coronary research.

laremont, ew cam- was Pit- n so free hat it is g revolu- es in the t many the fore- ation or osely re- la Har- wn-Pem- has al- vill found lege.

uess how cross the the origi- Moreover, for the ollege to original l daring icine to- of fine l motives of edu- record- fair test. who were titutions oday — unt Holyoke. This fact and a similar turnover among the faculty leadership will make it virtually certain that the original proposals will be brought up to date.

Finding Jobs For Negro Teachers

The stepped-up pace of school desegregation in the South under Federal pressure has focused attention on the problem of integrating teachers as well as pupils.

Civil rights leaders have charged that Negro teachers are being dismissed wholesale as their pupils are shifted into formerly all-white schools. They have also charged that threats to dismiss Negro teachers are being used to dissuade Negro pupils from transferring to white schools under voluntary programs.

White school administrators, who have apparently forgotten their earlier hotly defended fictitious claim of "separate-but-equal" education, maintain that many of the displaced Negro teachers are not as competent as their white counterparts because they come from culturally deprived homes, inferior public schools and second-rate teachers colleges.

Estimates of the number of Negro teachers who will be "desegregated" out of jobs this fall range from 350 "documented" by the National Education Association to 5,000.

The latter figure was cited by the New York City Board of Education last week when it proposed a plan to seek out some 500 displaced teachers, to bring them to the city for retraining and then to place them in the public schools.

School officials in New York said that they would enlist the aid of local colleges and universities in devising programs that would enable the teachers to meet the city's rigorous licensing requirements and pass the necessary qualifying examinations. They added that they would seek more than $4 million in Federal and private funds to sustain the teachers and their families while they are being retrained.

The New York planners were undeterred by the disappointing results of their efforts over the last few years to recruit more Negro teachers for the system. These efforts had been spurred by the demands of civil rights groups and have been adopted as official Board of Education policy.

The proposed program will be modeled in part on one that has been in operation for the last year at Yeshiva University, in cooperation with the Urban League and supported by grants from the Federal Government under the Manpower Development and Training Act. This program, which has just been extended for 18 months, has enrolled about 100 persons who meet state licensing requirements but have either failed the city's examinations or have been afraid to take them. In groups of 25 they take a nine-week course that emphasizes improvement in reading speed and comprehension as well as oral and written communication.

Program Noted

President Johnson, in an address last month to the N.E.A. convention in New York, took note of the Urban League-Yeshiva program when he described the steps that he had taken to assure fair treatment of teachers displaced by integration.

Other steps he mentioned were instructions to the Commissioner of Education to guard against any pattern of racial discrimination against teachers in desegregation plans submitted to him for review, the providing of funds available under The Civil Rights Act for teachers institutes to upgrade teachers in newly integrated districts and the providing of reemployment assistance through the U.S. Employment Service for teachers in districts where integration will reduce the number needed. The President said that he would also submit to Congress a bill to provide fellowships for elementary and secondary school teachers so they can "replenish knowledge and improve abilities."

The President also commended the N.E.A. for its pledge to raise $1 million to assist Negro teachers who lost their jobs because of racial discrimination in the South. The association plans to support court actions by teachers who feel they have been illegally dismissed, to provide counseling centers for teachers who need additional training, and to assist in placement elsewhere of other teachers.

ROBERT H. TERTE

T I O N

GTEA EXECUTIVE SECRETARIES

ALABAMA

Mr. Joe L. Reed
Executive Secretary
Alabama State Teachers Association
853 Thurman Street
Montgomery, Alabama 36104
AC 205 263-7998

ARKANSAS

Mr. T. E. Patterson, Ex. Secretary
Arkansas Teachers Association
924 Ringo Street
Little Rock, Ark.
AC 501 FR 5-5868

FLORIDA

Mr. Alvie Antonio Benton
Executive Secretary
Florida State Teachers Association
P. O. Box 2215
Tallahassee, Fla.
AC-205 224-6157

LOUISIANA

Mr. J. K. Haynes
Executive Secretary
Louisiana Education Association
1335 N. Blvd.
Baton Rouge, Louisiana
AC-504 DI 5-1306

MISSISSIPPI

Mr. L. S. Alexander
Executive Secretary
Mississippi Teachers Association
1328 Lynch Street
Jackson, Mississippi
AC-601 FL-4-5351

NORTH CAROLINA

Mr. E. B. Palmer
Executive Secretary
North Carolina Teachers Association
125 E. Hargett Street
Raleigh, North Carolina
AC-919 TE-2-3959 TE-3-8053

SOUTH CAROLINA

Mr. W. E. Solomon
Executive Secretary
Palmetto Education Association
1719 Taylor Street
Columbia, S. C.
AC-803 AL-2-9383

TENNESSEE

Mr. G. W. Brooks
Executive Secretary
Tennessee Education Congress
Burt High School
Clarksville, Tennessee

TEXAS

Dr. Vernon McDaniel
Executive Secretary
Teachers State Association of Texas
1191 Navasota Street
Austin, Texas
AC-512 GR-2-5493

VIRGINIA

Dr. J. Rupert Picott
Executive Secretary
Virginia Teachers Association
Clay Street at Fourth
Richmond, Virginia
AC-703 MI-3-1954

Of Course, GEORGIA

Mr. H. E. Tate
Executive Secretary
Georgia Teachers & Education Assn.
201 Ashby Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30314
JA-2-7512

XERO COPY XERO COPY XERO COPY XERO COPY

PW

File Urban affairs

PUBLIC POLICY AND RACIAL MINORITIES

[Comments and suggested approaches for a memorandum seeking to "isolate and describe the larger, the more basic, the more pressing, the more common issues that confront state and local policy makers," and to develop recommendations for public policy for state and local governments.]

The INTRODUCTION to the memorandum might include comments on the following items:

A. Constitutional rights to political and legal equality and economic and social opportunity must be fully realized forthwith. The urgency of the matter cannot be overstated: democracy in the United States in the last half of the 20th century cannot survive unless overt and covert racial discrimination is purged from American society. The economics of racism presents an immediate political challenge: those racial minorities which presently bear the brunt of the economic consequences of a racist society both in urban and rural areas are the very people most seriously threatened by technological advances in factories and on farms. Unemployment, and the consequent threat to a meaningful life within an ostensibly democratic society threatens — especially in urban areas — the creation of political as well as racial dissidence of serious proportions. (The very success of mass communications in recent years -- especially the television -- calls attention dramatically to the disparity between the lives of the affluent white majority of "haves" and the lives of the impoverished Negro minority of "have-nots", a disparity which cannot fail to be noticed by those deprived by the political system which constantly implores its citizens, regardless of race, to give thanks for the benefits of living in "the greatest country the world has ever known."

B. The future of the federal system as a basic value and as a viable political undertaking in American politics may well depend upon the response of state and local governments to this principal domestic problem -- the treatment and assimilation of minority groups, especially, although not exclusively, racial minorities. The record of state and local governments in the South in the field of political rights, education, law enforcement, employment opportunities, public accomodations and medical care, for example, provides little ground for optimism. "Federalism" as a political principle (usually paraded under the banner of "states' rights") has been the chief device by which Southern state and local governments not only have impeded the assimilation of Negroes into Southern society, but also have sanctioned, and in some instances abetted and encouraged, violence and the intimidation of Negroes. The use of the doctrine of "federalism" to deny political rights and economic and social opportunities to American citizens is an obvious and fundamental violation of the letter and the spirit of the American Constitution -- and of the intention of its authors.

XERO COPY XERO COPY XERO COPY XERO COPY

Nonetheless, there are some indications that the problems of minority assimilation into American -- and especially into Southern -- society will be more effectively handled, over the long run, by state and local rather than by national agencies assuming principal responsibility for detail direction and enforcement. (The operative phrases here are "effectively handled" and "over the long run"; there would be no necessity to prepare a memorandum of this sort had state and local governments not abdicated their own clearly defined political responsibility, thereby provoking the national government into accepting the primary responsibility for the equal protection of the rights and opportunities of all citizens.) In point of fact, of course, unless the assimilation of Negroes into all phases of Southern life is responsibly accepted and successfully met on the state and local level, the problem will remain insoluble by definition -- with the consequent peril of political turmoil, violence, and the increase of anarchy. The fundamental issue here, obviously, is the "inward commitment" of, in the first instance, state and local political authorities to accept the primary responsibility for initiating and implementing programs for equal treatment and assimilation of racial minorities.

Could this be done in the United States? Point out that Federal units of Government

(Something might be said here about "regional arrangements " -- following some of the leads of Howard Odum -- as one way in which moribund federalism might be rejuvinated in the South to offer a more dynamic as well as a more relevant approach to problems which ignore and defy state and local boundaries. Here also, however, the precedent offers little ground for optimism. Nevertheless, one possibility would be a regional agency, initiated and supported financially by state governments, to serve as a clearing house ~~for~~ of information, trends, etc., bearing on the problems of minority assimilation.)

At all events, the alternative to responsible state and local activity in this area is manifest: a gradual but inexorable erosion of the "federal principle," initially in the areas of human rights and opportunities, then inevitably into every area of political action — de facto, if not also de jure.

C. It is abundantly clear that public policy on the state and local level cannot be restricted merely to ending discrimination and compulsory segregation, but must move forthrightly to bring about actual integration of all sectors of public life. The natural reluctance of any majority to share wittingly its political and social well-being with a minority (especially a racial minority), the inertia of low-level administrators and bureaucrats to initiate or innovate plans or programs which alter precedent, and the patent failure of the "de-segregated" society (in this sense legal prohibition of discrimination and segregation) to provide a continuous guarantee and pattern of political rights and "the pursuit of happiness" through the economic well-being of minorities, demand that public policy on the state and local level must directly and without equivocation seek to integrate all areas of public life in America.

D. Sociologists (e. g., Arnold Rose) have often observed that the social system which has blocked integration in theSouth is being changed by social and economic forces which affect the whole of American society. Rose himself gives "greatest emphasis to forces involving social power, both economic and political, sometimes wielded deliberately but more often impersonally in the form of great trends affecting the whole society," viz., "continuing industrialization and technological advance, the high level of mobility among the American people" and to a lesser extent "the organization and political education of minority groups, an increased American awareness of world opinion, consistent support from other branches of the federal government and the Northern state governments, and the propaganda and educational efforts for more equal implementation of civil rights" (ANNALS, January 1965). These "great trends affecting the whole of society," especially the economic and political ones, point to what are possibly the most basic and most common problems faced by policy makers in meeting the task of assimilating racial minorities. It is here, therefore, that the greatest urgency and opportunity for the policymaker lie; consequently, public policy in the first instance ought to be directly related to the problems implicit in these "great trends affecting the whole of society."

There is a measure of agreement that this ought to be the case: For example, Killian and Grigg in their examination of the Racial Crisis in America (1964) observe (p. 130): "It is true that tokenism is 'too little and too late.' But it is also true that token desegregation will be the dominant pattern until the cultural deficit of the Negro masses is reduced or the majority of Negroes reject integration as a goal, as the Black Muslims would have it. . . The spatial distribution of the Negro population, the cultural deprivation of the Negro masses, and the social organization of the Negro community make it clear that, in the present circumstances, not many Negroes can benefit directly from the Supreme Court's decisions. Only a minority of 'qualified,' highly motivated individuals will be willing and able to take advantage of the opportunities provided by the new legal principle. Over and over again it has been demonstrated that plans for 'voluntary desegration' either result in token desegration or, if more than a token number of Negro volunteers appear, in the eventual 'resegregation' of the institution or neighboorhood" (italics added).

And: David S. Coltrane, Chairman of the North Carolina Good Neighbor Council granted (in December 1963) that integration of public facilities is important, and that "it is also important to be called 'Sir' rather than 'boy.' But more basic than any of these are education and employment. The great mass of Negroes are more concerned where they work than where they eat; winning the right to eat at a desegregated lunch counter is small consolation to men who cannot afford the cost of the meal." At that same conference, G. H. Esser, Jr., executive director of the North Carolina Fund noted that half the families in North Carolina exist on less than $1,000 a year, and that surging mechanization in the factory and the farm makes the plight of uneducated, unskilled workers even more desperate: "Unless we face the challenge that is on us and if we don't decide to do something about it immediately, we're going to wind up by 1970 with more unemployables than a democratic nation can afford to have."

These basic and common problems facing policymakers are closely related, one to the others. Recommendations for public policy in these areas would seem to involve inevitably an attempt to coordinate problems and policy at least on the state level, suggesting the establishment of commissions on human rights -- a question that will be deferred for later discussion.

XERO COPY XERO COPY XERO COPY XERO COPY

I. EDUCATION

A. Prerequisite to meeting the problem of education is the immediate integration of the public school system, possibly by a statewide plan permitting final responsibility to be borne by the relevant state agency. It also seems clear that the problem of de facto segregation raised by the concept of "neighborhood schools" must be faced and solved immediately. An emergency program is undoubtedly in order in each (Southern) state to bring the school systems abreast of other systems inthe nation. Public school systems also have the responsibility for supplementing the education of those who have suffered under a segregated school system. Any number of means ought to be employed: extra sessions; summer sessions, etc. The enthusiasm of Negro pupils to improve their educational status will go a long way to making this program successful.

B. An overt program is required to educate the white majority ((pupils and parents)about basic constitutional rights, and that economic opportunity and well-being without regard to race is, as far as their immediate situation is concerned, the essential feature of the American system of democracy.

C. Trade, and retraining, schools must be established to:

1. reach those presently disinherited economically and socially by the segregated years;

2. relate those school systems dislocated by integration;

3. gurantee technical preparation in an integrated atmosphere for skills needed for wholesome and permanent employment in an integrated society in the last half of the twentieth century (i. e., electronics; computor operation, etc.).

D. A graduated and integrated program of adult education is essential and urgently needed to aid the victims of inadequate and/or segregated school systems.

E. Higher Education:

1. Through special sessions, tutorials, institutes, and other means, colleges and universities must for a long time to come accept a major share of the responsibility to overcome the educational deficit of inadequate and segregated school systems so that equality of educational opportunity will be guaranteed by this effort. Colleges and universities -- public and private -- cannot evade their responsibility by piously accepting "all properly qualified applicants without regard to race or creed." To do so is to continue the essentially segregated system of higher education throughout the nation, and to engage as well in a mammoth fraud that no one has the time to afford.

2. The future and the role of public and private Negro colleges in the context of an open society must be examined. (See "Future of the Negro College" ?? Report)

3. Professional schools — especially in medicine and law — and graduate schools — especially the various and emerging sciences — must seek out potential Negro students and by specific training programs, loans, etc., to encourage their enrollment.

4. An immediate and substantial program of retraining Negro public school and college teachers is inorder. (This might be related to #2,above)

F. Farm Training (Possibly coordinated with federal government) (See SRC #23, "A Study of Negro Farmers in South Carolina" and SRC report by M. Hayes Mizell, "Federal Programs to Promote Employment and Development in Rural Communities.")

II. EMPLOYMENT

(See SRC The Federal Executive and Civil Rights (Jaunary 1961); D/ H. Pollitt, "Racial Discrimination in Employment: Proposals for Corrective Action," January 1963)

1. Equal employment opportunities in all state and local agencies of government, and on every level, and in organizations having state contracts, could provide the most important leadership and example for the private sector of the economy.

2. The various sorts of segregation devices in the state operated (and federally financed) employment agencies should be eliminated by specific and detailed directions.

((3. State Fair Employment laws and Commissions))

4. An established relationship between state employment services and trade schools, colleages and universities should be provided by specific directives.

((5. Private employment agencies; campus interviewers))

III. LAW: ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT

1. Discrimination in employment in state and local police forces and courts must be abolished.

2. Continuous instruction should be maintained, at all levels of law enforcement agencies, of basic civil rights of all citizens. This program should be used to try to change the outlook of law enforcement officers on racial minorities and the place of minority communities to the total community.

3. A bi-racial citizens' panel on various levels (state, county, city) should be established to hear, investigate and act upon charges of police brutality insult, molestation, etc. Officers with a pattern of racially prejudicial outlook should be denied promotion; racial prejudice manifested in overt action should automatically terminate employment.

4. Prison reforms should be undertaken, leading to an integrated and therefore more approximating a humane penal system -- a particularly acute problem for Negroes.

5. The likely possibility that capital punishment is a form of racial vengeance or intimidation should be investigated.

((IV. PUBLIC ACCOMODATIONS AND HOUSING

(Inquire into any significant areas left uncovered by 1964 Civil Rights Act, which should be the responsibility of States, or more effectively handled by the States)))

((V. VOTER REGISTRATION AND PARTICIPATION

(Inquire into impediments to registration and voting -- racial and otherwise; Universal registration?; vote by mail; registration and Sunday elections, etc.)))

VI. MEDICAL AND HOSPITAL SERVICES.

1. State agencies to investigate and enforce discrimination in hospital and medical services are needed -- supplementing 1964 Act. (See Federal Executive, pp. 30-31; Executive Support, pp. 41-42.)

2. Negroes should be encouraged by early training, loans, and other means to enter the various medical professions. Medical schools should be directed to qualify Negroes to enter their programs.

3. All discrimination in organizations of the medical professions should be eliminated.

((VII. FARM EMPLOYMENT, TRAINING, AND OWNERSHIP.

(See I, F, above, p. 7.)))

VIII. STATE COMMISSIONS ON HUMAN RIGHTS

The experience of the existing commissions on the problems of the assimilation of minority groups should be examined. Should these commissions be staffed with full-time "commissioners" having responsibility for setting

CROSS REFERENCE

For correspondence and information on SRC's Urban Planning Project under Moreland Smith,

SEE:

Personnel: Smith, Moreland.

White Man Dies In Negro Fight At New Orleans

New Orleans (AP) — A fist fight between a group of young whites and Negroes at a bus stop in New Orleans Saturday resulted in the fatal stabbing of one of the white men.

Frederick Riehm, 21, of New Orleans died in a hospital a short time after being stabbed in the chest.

Three white teen-agers said they drove past a bus stop where six young Negroes were standing when one of the Negroes threw a rock through the car's rear window.

They told police they got out of the car and approached the Negroes when the fight started shortly after midnight. They said they retreated to their car before Riehm told them he had been stabbed.

Police said they searched the bus stop area, but could find no trace of the six Negroes.

Houston Chron 5/13/67

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 FORSYTH STREET, N. W. ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303
JAckson 2-8764

LESLIE W. DUNBAR,
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

A Council to attain the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South

September 24, 1965

MEMO TO: LWD

FROM : SA

For New South, any time at all, we might publish a rundown on deaths related to civil rights. Barbara Patterson has been keeping a log of them.

We might add a squib on how each was killed.

See Tobbie Simon's letter

JOHN H. WHEELER, PRESIDENT
MARION A. WRIGHT, VICE-PRESIDENT
JOSEPHINE WILKINS, VICE-PRESIDENT
RUFUS E. CLEMENT, VICE-PRESIDENT
STEPHEN J. WRIGHT, VICE-PRESIDENT
RAYMOND M. WHEELER, CHAIRMAN, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
JOSEPH HAAS, COUNSEL
LESLIE W. DUNBAR, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 FORSYTH STREET, N. W. ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303
JAckson 2-8764

A Council to attain the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South

November 2, 1965

Clerk of County Court
County of St. Johns
St. Augustine, Florida

Dear Sir:

We are completing a report on some selected homicide cases at the request of several Atlanta-based news bureaus, and need your help in supplying information on the outcome of legal procedures in the following case that occurred in your county.

The victim -- killed October 18, 1963, in St. Augustine, Florida, was William Kinard. Can you supply us with the names of persons charged with the crime and the status of the cases? If there have been convictions, please tell us on what charge and the length of the sentence.

Since we have only a few days in which to complete this report, we would appreciate an immediate reply. You may wish to answer the inquiry at the bottom of this letter. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

Dear Sir:

Cases in this office are indexed in the names of defendants and not under name of victim. If you have names of defendants on which you wish information, please furnish same and I shall be pleased to forward information as to status of case. Otherwise, I suggest that you write Honorable Dan R. Warren, State Attorney, DeLand, Florida

Oliver Lawton

Oliver Lawton
Clerk Circuit Court

Nov. 15, 1965

November 2, 1965

Clerk of County Court
County of Madison
Huntsville, Alabama

Dear Sir:

We are completing a report on some selected homicide cases at the request of several Atlanta-based news bureaus, and need your yelp in supplying information on the outcome of legal procedures in the following case that occured in your county.

The victim was C. H. Baldwin, killed April 22, 1956 at Huntsville, Alabama. The defendant -- Doc Hill -- was convicted. Can you tell us if the case was appealed of if he has begun to serve or has served the sentence?

Since we have only a few days in which to complete this report, we would appreciate an immediate reply. You may wish to answer the inquiry at the bottom of this letter. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

No answer in so he serving

November 2, 1965

Clerk of County Court
County of Yazoo
Yazoo City, Mississippi

Dear Sir:

We are completing a report on some selected homicide cases at the request of several Atlanta-based news bureaus, and need your help in supplying information on the outcome of legal procedures in the following case that occurred in your county.

The victim -- Charles Brown -- was killed June 25, 1957, near Yazoo City, Miss. The defendant -- Raiford Walton, was charged with the slaying. Can you tell us if Walton was convicted or acquitted? On what charge was he tried? What was his sentence, if any?

Since we have only a few days in which to complete this report, we would appreciate an immediate reply. You may wish to answer the inquiry at the bottom of this letter. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

No answer

November 2, 1965

Clerk of County Court
County of Covington
Andalusia, Alabama

Dear Sir:

We are completing a report on some selected homicide cases at the request of several Atlanta-based news bureaus, and need your help in supplying information on the outcome of legal procedures in the following case that occurred in your county.

The victim -- Mrs. Bessie McDowell -- killed June 14, 1956, at Andalusia, Alabama. The defendants, Claude Inglo, and his son, Bobby Ray, were indicted. Can you tell us if they have stood trial? Were they convicted or acquitted? Of what charge? And if convicted, what were their sentences?

Since we have only a few days in which to complete this report, we would appreciate an immediate reply. You may wish to answer the inquiry at the bottom of this letter. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

No answer
Call?

November 2, 1965

Clerk of County Courts
County of Alcorn
Corinth, Mississippi

Dear Sir:

We are completing a report on some selected homicide cases at the request of several Atlanta-based news bureaus, and need your help in supplying information on the outcome of legal procedures in the following case that occurred in your county.

The victim -- William Roy Prather, was killed November 1, 1959 -- at Corinth, Mississippi. One defendant -- Darnell Glidewell -- was indicted on a manslaughter charge. Please supply us with the name of the other defendant. Also tell us the charge on which each was convicted or acquitted, and the sentence, if any.

Since we have only a few days in which to complete this report, we would appreciate an immediate reply. You may wish to answer the inquiry at the bottom of this letter. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

File
Gen: Violence

November 2, 1965

Clerk of County Court
County of Barbour
Eufaula, Alabama

Dear Sir:

We are completing a report on some selected homicide cases at the request of several Atlanta-based news bureaus, and we need your help in supplying information on the outcome of legal procedures in the following case that occurred in your county.

The victim was Richard King, killed January 6, 1956 at Eufaula, Alabama. The defendant, O. B. Mann, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Can you tell us if the conviction was appealed or if the defendant has begun serving the sentence?

Since we have only a few days in which to complete this report, we would appreciate an immediate reply. You may wish to answer the inquiry at the bottom of this letter. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

Rec'd

Related death

November 2, 1965

Clerk of County Court
County of Ouachita
Monroe, Louisiana

Dear Sir:

We are completing a report on some selected homicide cases at the request of several Atlanta-based news bureaus, and need your help in supplying information on the outcome of legal procedures in the following case that occurred in your county.

The victims were Albert and David Pitts, Ernest McPharland, and Marshall A. Johns, killed July 23, 1960, at Monroe, La. The defendant -- Robert Fuller, was charged with manslaughter. Can you tell us on what charge he was tried, whether he was convicted or acquitted, and what the sentence (if any) was?

Since we have only a few days in which to complete this report, we would appreciate an immediate reply. You may wish to answer the inquiry at the bottom of this letter. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

Read Nov. 8, 1965
File
Gen. Violence

OFFICE OF
BILL SHAW
DISTRICT CLERK COUNTY COURTHOUSE
DALLAS, TEXAS 75202

November 4, 1965

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Re: Billy Wayne Wallace, killed
August 9, 1964

Dear Sir:

Our records show that Melvin Joe Hicks was indicted on October 26, 1964, for the murder of Billy Wayne Wallace. This is Case No. E-8093-JK, styled The State of Texas vs. Melvin Joe Hicks, and is still pending in Criminal District Court No. 4 of Dallas County, Texas. The offense is Murder.

Leonard McPherson was no-billed by the Grand Jury on the same charge on October 26, 1964.

If we can be of any further service to you, we will be glad to hear from you.

Sincerely yours,

Bill Shaw

BILL SHAW
Clerk of the District Courts
Dallas County, Texas

BS/mam

November 11, 1965

Mr. Henry Lee Moon
Director, Public Relations
National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
20 West 40th Street
New York, New York 10018

Dear Mr. Moon:

The information you are seeking on the ninety-three civil rights related deaths is incomplete at this time, and is scheduled for late November publication. While we are able to, at this time, give you a list of the victims in these cases, we are still in the process of up-dating legal activities, which in some cases are still pending.

As you know, the matter is rather sensitive and must be handled carefully and cross-checked. This is why we have moved so slowly.

As soon as the article is off the press, you will get copies in accordance with your need.

Sincerely,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

TWENTY WEST FORTIETH STREET • NEW YORK, N. Y. 10018 • BRyant 9-1400

November 4, 1965

Southern Regional Council
5 Forsythe Street, N. W.
Atlanta 3, Georgia

Gentlemen:

We would greatly appreciate your sending us as many copies as you can spare of your recently published report documenting 93 deaths attributable to race of civil rights activities between May, 1957 and September, 1965.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

Henry Lee Moon

Henry Lee Moon
Director, Public Relations

HLM:cj

JOHN H. WHEELER, PRESIDENT
MARION A. WRIGHT, VICE-PRESIDENT
JOSEPHINE WILKINS, VICE-PRESIDENT
RUFUS E. CLEMENT, VICE-PRESIDENT
STEPHEN J. WRIGHT, VICE-PRESIDENT
RAYMOND M. WHEELER, CHAIRMAN, EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
JOSEPH HAAS, COUNSEL
LESLIE W. DUNBAR, EXECUTIVE DIRESTOR

Ck ret'd - wrong address

Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 FORSYTH STREET, N. W. ATLANTA, GEORGIA 30303
JAckson 2-8764

A Council to attain the ideals and practices of equal opportunity for all peoples in the South

November 12, 1965

Clerk of County Court
County of Smith
Taylorsville, Mississippi

Dear Sir:

We are completing a report on some selected homicide cases at the request of several Atlanta-based news bureaus, and we need your help in supplying information on the outcome of legal procedures in the following case that occurred in your county.

The victim -- Cpl. Roman Duckworth, Jr., -- was shot by a policeman on April 9, 1962, in Taylorsville, Mississippi. We would highly appreciate your sending us the name of the policeman who was accused of the slaying.

Since we have only a few days in which to complete this report, we would appreciate an immediate reply. You may wish to answer the inquiry at the bottom of this letter. A self-addressed envelope is enclosed for your convenience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SA:nm
Enclosure

LAW OFFICES

TOBIAS SIMON

INGRAHAM BUILDING ANNEX
223 SOUTHEAST FIRST STREET
MIAMI 32, FLORIDA
TELEPHONE FRANKLIN 7-4627

PLEASE REPLY NUMBER

November 16, 1965

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Five Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Adams:

Following the death of William Kinard, a number of people were arrested, but charges were dropped against all persons except the following four persons, who, with their charges, are as follows:

Name	Charge
Goldie Eubanks, Sr.	Accessory after the facts
Harold Jenkins	Murder in the second degree
Richard Alvin Eubanks	Murder in the second degree
Carl Wilson Ginn	Murder in the second degree

On behalf of the defendants, we moved for a change of venue on the grounds that because of the racial tensions in St. Augustine Negroes charged with the killing of a white man (and possibly a Klansmen) could not receive a fair trial. When this was denied, we sought removal of the cause to the Federal Court under the appropriate Federal Statute (28.U.S.C.A.1443). Admittedly, the possibilities are not strong, see Rachel v State of Ga. and Peacock v City of Greenwood, Miss.

It came as no surprise that the United States District Court in Jacksonville (McRae) remanded the cases to the State Court. We have taken an appeal to the Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit and a Federal stay of State proceedings has been entered pending determination of the appeal.

At this point, we are still in the process of preparing the record. Briefs should be written within 60 to 90 days.

I trust this information is satisfactory to you.

Very truly yours,

Tobias Simon

TOBIAS SIMON

TS:ev

NEW SOUTH

NOVEMBER 1965

VIOLENCE

ABOUT THIS ISSUE

Margaret Long, whose "Strictly Subjective" usually appears in this space, has been on vacation.

NEW SOUTH

Published by
SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL
5 Forsyth Street, N.W., Atlanta 3, Georgia
Vol. 20 • November 1965 • No. 11

CONTENTS

The Fire That Time 3

Self Respect in the Alley . . 9

Am I My Brother's Keeper? . 11

Some Race Related Deaths in the United States . . . 12

OFFICERS

John H. Wheeler . . . . . President
Marion A. Wright . . Vice President
Josephine Wilkins . . Vice President
Rufus E. Clement . . Vice President
Stephen J. Wright . . Vice President
Paul Anthony . . . . Exec. Director
Margaret Long . . . . . Editor

New South is published 11 times a year. Subscription cost is $2.50 a year. Single copies are 25 cents each, or less in quantity.

AT A TIME WHEN many are optimistic and self-congratulatory about the very genuine progress that is being made in southern race relations, this issue of New South is concerned with the terrible.

As long as the conditions which have created lawlessness exist, race relations progress—and indeed, all social progress in the true sense—is periled. This is not alarmist sentiment.

What, we asked ourselves, was the warning of Watts to the South? And what out of the South's travail can be known that might help prevent further Watts-type riots in the nation?

Out of the latter question rose consideration of that other tradition of lawlessness, unchecked killing and terrorism against Negroes and white civil rights workers in the South. And that leads to the potential of jungle lawlessness of armed bands of white terrorists facing armed defense units of Negroes in the Black Belt.

The conditions which have created white racist murderousness and the conditions which set off a ghetto riot of rampaging destruction are probably not at their essence greatly different. They are the conditions with which the poverty program and other efforts are battling. Law enforcement, lacking and thereby encouraging the white racist lawlessness, and inept or oppressive and thereby contributing to the riot lawlessness, is a basic problem.

Much that civilization means is involved in the difficult dictum that somehow we must see lawlessness, even murder, in the individual human being with compassion. But this dictum does not apply to a society. The only answer to murderousness in society is that it be scotched, or else, there is no civilization. We continue to struggle. It is late into the evening of our day of grace.

The Fire That Time

By Samuel Adams
Director of Research, Southern Regional Council

THE FIERCE HOT FIRES annealing and tempering the South's racism always have held the danger that they could burn out of control.

In 1959, James Baldwin, in "Nobody Knows My Name: A Letter From the South," wrote: "When a race riot occurs in Atlanta, it will not spread merely to Birmingham, for example . . . The trouble will spread to every metropolitan center in the nation which has a significant Negro population . . . It is because the nation, the entire nation, has spent a hundred years avoiding the question of the place of the black man in it."

Since Baldwin wrote that, of course, the nation has almost obsessively considered the question, and has made a great effort to find an honorable answer. Much of the reason for this is that instead of a race riot spreading out of the South, there came the nonviolent movement, spreading across the region relentlessly and prodding both the conscience and the pragmatism of America.

Nevertheless, with a good portion of the substantive goals of the nonviolent movement now written into federal legislation, Negro discontent and anger is, if not larger, more volatile, more outer-directed than back when Baldwin talked of a riot in terms of when it comes, not if. Ironically, it is in the North and the Far West that the riots have occurred, and a plausible question is whether they will spread to the South.

The lessons from the rioting that has occurred outside the South make it clear that violence is not due solely to race troubles. In Los Angeles, there were elements of a class war; the hopeless class rose in arms against the controlling class. The warring provided an opportunity for the have-nots to take much of what they needed and an abundance of what they did not need without getting caught. But racism was a factor, too.

While only small sparks like a traffic arrest were needed to ignite the blaze in the Watts ghetto of Los Angeles, backlogs of injustice and discontent were main ingredients. The fire this time found combustion in such facts as:

Only five of the 205 policemen hired to serve Watts are Negro, despite the fact that Watts is 98 per cent Negro.

The Watts ghetto (part of the North Compton-Watts-Avalon-Florence area where 277,960 people live) has Negroes living on top of each other with 27.2 people per acre compared with the Los Angeles County average of 7.4.

Two-thirds of the adults in Watts have less than a high school education and one in every eight is illiterate.

Parents of nearly 30 per cent of the youths under 18 are divorced, and the school drop-out rate in Watts is more than two times the city as a whole. Almost two-thirds of those who enter seventh grade will drop out before finishing.

Watts harbors 400 parolees from the California Youth Authority, and the area's incidence of crime in one three-month period, according to police, was above 1,000, including 87 robberies.

The County Welfare Planning Council reported that 87 per cent of the houses in the Watts-Willowbrook area were built before 1939, and 17 to 22 per cent are deteriorated or dilapidated.

Watts is the home of many refugees from Mississippi and elsewhere in the South who came to California looking for hope they did not find and jobs for which they were not trained.

Squabbling Los Angeles officials refused to plan a federally-supported anti-poverty program until after the riot and reacted negatively to involving poor people in any war against poverty.

The adult unemployment rate is 34 per cent, and 66 per cent of the total population is on some sort of welfare.

On joblessness and hopelessness turn the main problems. A better job was the dream of thousands of Negroes who migrated to Los Angeles and found themselves trapped, jobless in Watts. Many obviously agree with the Watts resident who, when asked about Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s, "I Have a Dream," said: "Hell, we don't need no damn dreams; WE WANT JOBS."

Many of the jobless came from southern farms where they at least could eke out a living from the land. How many of those from Mississippi now find themselves unable to earn enough to send money back home to pay the $250 school fee that the state is, in an anti-desegregation move, requiring of school children who do not live with their natural parents or legal guardians? Some of the southern fugitives living in Watts simply get liquored up and forget the past and present troubles.

Generally, those moving from the South to such areas as Watts fall into three classes: The talented 7 per cent of the Negro population who went in search of jobs not then open to them in the South, a mass of unskilled Negroes who went to join relatives or friends who had moved, and more than a few who were forced to leave on orders of lawmen or others or who abandoned their families in the face of economic problems that seemed hopeless. If they are different from the Negroes who remained in the South, perhaps the difference lies in their lower propensity for accommodation.

But that difference might itself be a state of mind acquired from their new setting and the surface "freedom" of the northern and western states. This is illustrated by the action of a former Mississippi sharecropper who accepted with a respectful, "Yas, Suh," all the indignities dealt him back home, but after moving North poked a white man in the nose for letting slip a racial slur.

In the rest of the nation, in the South, would not surveys of the areas in cities where Negroes are jammed together, isolated, show much the same patterns that bred disaster in Watts?

For the jobless who've turned to stealing, policemen are the enemy. For those living by their wits or eking out existences through vice, the law is the enemy. He who wants in most ghettos and Negro slums has only to look and learn that "Whitey" owns the area; whites own most of the businesses and much of the real estate.

If you gamble, it's likely to be a white policeman breaking up your crap or skin game, or insisting on a slice of lottery profits. Nobody likes being arrested. And when the arresting officer is contemptuous and mean, Negroes in the South and throughout the nation equate him with images of the Bull Connors and Jim Clarks of Alabama and of Sheriff Lawrence Rainey and Deputy Cecil Price of Philadelphia, Mississippi.

The civil rights movement enables southern Negroes to act out their antagonisms in nonviolent protests. Locally these were met with sometimes meaningful and sometimes meaningless concessions, the latter like the patting or kissing a baby where it hurts. (The naming of a biracial committee in St. Augustine, Florida, for example, has had no meaning to that city's poor race relations.)

The summer torches outside the South were lit where there was little or no organized civil rights movement. They were sparked by persons who have gained ostensibly nothing from recent civil rights breakthroughs.

Those who believe that Negro religion, alone, could cause the South to escape violent uprisings like those of the North and West seem to ignore the fact that there are hundreds of churches in Harlem and in Watts. But there also was discontent and rioting.

One cannot overemphasize the violence that slum living breeds into an individual's personality. The slum dweller generally settles his battles by physical power. He often directs his violence to other powerless people in the slums, and sometimes against whites who go to the slums on illicit missions. Occasionally he arises up against police whom he believes are constantly nettling him. There is no evidence that the southern slum dweller is appreciably different from the northern one in these respects.

The danger is greatest when hope goes. Discontent is most explosive when pent up and where local power-controllers deny its existence. Incidents which could serve as triggering devices occur frequently sometimes in cities which are considered quite liberal. Here are some little known examples:

ITEM: The day after the September 20, 1965, Parent-Teacher Association meeting at Atlanta's desegregated Southwest High School, about 50 white teenagers threatened to drag a Negro boy from a bus because of heated words he and a white youth had exchanged the preceding day. The Negro calmly remained on the bus as the irate boys called him a "nigger," and a "yellow-bellied coward" for refusing to get off the bus and face them. Another Negro boy on the bus challenged the white boys crowding around the vehicle to meet them in recently integrated Peyton Forest. That did it. The whites tried to storm the crowded school bus. The driver pulled away amid catcalls and warnings that "the nigger better not come back to school tomorrow."

ITEM: Opposing Negro gangs in the sedate retirement city of St. Petersburg, Florida, in 1964 joined together against a common enemy after white toughs roughed up two Negro girls who sought service at a desegregated drive-in restaurant adjacent to a Negro slum community. Confrontations of whites and Negroes in mobs ranging up to about 600 threatened to erupt into open battle before the local police chief sought Negro help to forestall it. Although there were isolated instances of violence—rock throwing by Negroes at passing cars and some shooting into Negro homes—the control of Negro retaliation by pulling the involved gangs into organized activity turned the tide.

Those who wanted to meet the threat of violence with violence were not persons engaged in any organized civil rights activity. They had collected an arsenal of guns and were awaiting the word of their gang chief when a woman civil rights leader infiltrated their ranks and gained their respect. When the smoke cleared, the chief of police expressed his appreciation in a letter to her.

On October 2 at a statewide meeting sponsored by the Alabama Council on Human Relations to discuss voter registration, the meet-violence-with-violence attitude was described by some civil rights organization workers in attendance. They spoke bitterly in the wake of the acquittal of Deputy Sheriff Thomas Coleman, accused of slaying the Rev. Jonathan Daniels, a white Episcopal seminarian who had been aiding desegregation efforts.

After the main session of the meeting was over, at an informal discussion, with consultants from the federal government listening, the Negro civil rights workers were candid:

"Men are beaten time after time; nobody cares," said one, "but whenever somebody says 'riot,' the nation becomes concerned. We can feel something growing up under our feet. You hear 'get Whitey' in bars. Groups like this (interracial meeting) are needed because, very seriously, there's going to be more brutalizing and more killing." He made it clear he hoped violence from either race could be averted.

"How am I going to tell a lady to go down and register and get shot in the head? How do you protest? Get shot?" a young woman asked the U. S. Government consultants invited to the meeting. Several times, disillusionment with demonstrations was expressed; however, a civil rights worker who suggested demonstrations for more effective enforcement of the voter rights law was applauded. The discussion underscored how remarkable an achievement non-violence has been in the Negro revolution, and how much courage and sacrifice it has taken.

Part of the background there and of the current swell of Negro anger is the knowledge that in nearly a century, courts—while giving stiff sentences to Negroes for petty thefts—very seldom have convicted a white man on a murder charge in the South for slaying a Negro.

In parts of the South, this lawlessness of terrorism has given rise to something quite different from the spectre of unorganized, incoherent violence of protest that stalks the city slums and ghettos. One of the potentials for violence in the South rests with a desperate segment of Negroes who are disillusioned over the powerlessness of federal, state, and local government to halt white terrorist violence against Negroes and, in recent years, their white sympathizers, and who are determined to protect themselves, taking the law by default in their own hands. Deacons for Defense and Justice in Louisiana and other armed self-defense units in other parts of the Black Belt are an ominous sign of the unwillingness of some Negroes to endure any longer terrorism unbridled by effective law enforcement.

There are many southern seeds of racial violence which could germinate summers more violent than those of 1963, 1964, and 1965. So far in the South, the violence has been almost entirely one-sided. Even in an explosion like that of Watts, the violence was against property rather than human life. (Of the 34 persons killed there, 27 were rioters or bystanders; only one of the other seven deaths has been attributed to rioters, and this one was accidental.) The action in Watts was for the most part spontaneous and not premeditated, whereas many of the civil rights killings appear to have been premeditated assassinations.

The sort of self-defense violence exemplified by the Deacons appeals more to those who have given up on all other means of satisfying primary, universal needs—the need for food, clothing, and shelter, and for social interaction with others who care. All

They Hated Policemen, Disliked School Teachers

MY KNOWLEDGE of the St. Petersburg gangs involved my wife, Elenora, who infiltrated their ranks the night after 600 people squared off spoiling for a fight. Police Chief Harold Smith asked for her help in reversing the trend toward violence. She was chosen because she successfully had led desegregation drives to open up theatres and public accomodations and had been leader of one of the community's most successful voter registration campaigns.

She was able to gain their confidence. A 16-year-old school dropout showed her a cache of crude guns. After a lot of wrangling, we got a promise from two key leaders to call off that night's action and give us a chance to get two teenage girls they felt were innocent released from jail. A mass meeting was announced for that weekend, and nightly meetings were held with the gang throughout the period of tension.

At the meetings the boys were able to act out their antagonisms. They hated policemen, disliked school teachers, and were suspicious of us until we began to prove a genuine interest in their welfare. Other St. Petersburg leaders joined us and were of inestimable help.

The younger boys worshiped their gang leaders. They tried to dress and walk like them. Criteria for leadership included abilities to frustrate police, to talk back to the meanest cop, to be slick, to steal and get away by outrunning or out-smarting the law, and to talk the special gang lingo.

In redirecting their activities, never did we talk in high platitudes. We discussed jobs denied them, teachers who misunderstood them, police who refused to come when they called to complain about whites shooting up their homes, a socio-economic system which ignored or mistreated them. We later were able to begin interpreting and suggesting positive things they might do to help themselves to better lives.

—SAMUEL ADAMS.

other needs are related, the power to vote and influence political decision-making on one level being only one of the methods of achieving primary goals.

To placate the discontent that leads to rioting means knowing the answer to a question often raised in the wake of rioting by southern whites: "What do they want?" The replies from the slums are simply, "We are cramped," "We are hungry," "We are cut off," "We are ignored."

The answers were reemphasized in late October by a 91-year-old invalid Negro in Green County, Georgia. A bright Sunday morning sun filtered light through the roof of her shack; a flickering fire glowed in the fireplace. The woman was curled under five layers of cover. "I am cold, and the hard winter ain't come yet," she said. "When it rains, I get wet. They collect the rent but won't do nothing for this old house . . . The paper (cardboard ceiling on inside walls) stays damp when there's rain or snow. One day I pulled a piece off and the backside was covered with ice."

What the old lady didn't say was that she was lonely and that it seemed that few people really cared about her. She hadn't received a welfare check for several months. She poses no danger as a potential rioter. However, many resentful ones who have seen and shared this kind of suffering do pose such a threat.

The reply to the question of what do they want by the modern civil rights movement is much the same as it was in 1906, when the men of the Niagara Movement made their pilgrimage to the Harper's Ferry shrine. There, they repudiated Booker T. Washington's "future of the humble way" and in an historic "Address to the Country" demanded:

"First, we want full manhood suffrage and we want it now. Second we want discrimination in public accommodations to cease. Third, we proclaim the right of freemen to walk, talk and be with them that wish to be with us. Fourth, we want the laws enforced against the rich as well as the poor, against capitalist as well as laborer, against white as well as black. Fifth, we want our children educated."

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 and the Civil Rights Act of 1964, though of tremendous importance, obviously haven't automatically stemmed the tide of Negro resentment. In one sense, it is as though the recent advances have stripped away many of the barriers that kept America from seeing the real place in which it had put the Negro; and more importantly, perhaps, that kept the Negro himself from seeing in full what has been and still is being done to him.

The Amsterdam News stated editorially recently: "The news that the Mayor of Bogalusa, Louisiana, is ready to 'negotiate' with Negro leaders in his community does more than anything else to illustrate the cleavage in black and white relations in the United States. Negotiate. Negotiate for what? For the right to be considered an American? Herein is revealed the cold sore of America. Here in all its glaring inequities shows this country's Achilles Heel. Americans, because they are black, must 'negotiate' for their rights to be Americans, equal under the sun. And the really sad picture to arise out of the Bogalusa mayor's agreement to 'negotiate' with the Negroes is the fact that many people will consider this progress."

The new laws, offers of city officials to negotiate and other concessions forced by the civil rights movement are too often, still, thought of as favors granted to Negroes. Consequently, when there are riots people wonder why. Donald S. Harrington, white minister of the Community Church of New York, answers in his church bulletin:

"When you're passed by continually, disregarded, treated as invisible, why wouldn't you riot if only to call attention to yourself? A New York Herald Tribune letter writer states that in 1863 there were terrible riots in New York by poverty striken Irish. These riots were triggered by the Conscription Act which permitted well-to-do citizens to hire substitutes for the Union Army, while requiring poor men to fight and die. Poverty, miserable housing and racial prejudice were at the root of the seething discontent of the Irish residents of New York's slums."

The irony is that discontent becomes more intense once the inertia is removed and some progress is attained. It is something like a hungry lion who suddenly awakes to the smell of food but finds himself chained and blind. The new manifestations of Negro anger are in part an expression of frustration from disqualifications of the slum dweller as he attempts to take advantage of new opportunities.

Negro leaders Whitney Young, Jr.,

(Continued on page 10)

Self Respect in the Alley

By Bill Beardslee

THE GHETTO in Atlanta: You walk with a policeman on his beat. A woman comes down the street swearing at the teenagers who, she says, tried to rape her. Maybe they did, but she must be locked up anyway, because she is drunk and unable to take care of herself. He walks fast on the beat, breaking up trouble before it starts, breaking up groups of people. He comes down hard and quickly on people who are drunk and swearing, backing up his words with the threat of arrest. The alleys often are between empty houses with broken windows, and the path between the houses on the hill is between two high walls of grass. He talks about the trouble spots that these places are and about how the city should tear the houses down. He tries to give the people a break and does not like to lock them up. Two men come racing down the street, one chasing the other. The lead man trips and falls on the sidewalk, and the other, seeing the policeman, turns and walks away very quickly. It was a fight about a woman, and one of the men had a knife. The other: "I knocked him down once and I'll knock him down again. I am mad. There ain't no harm in saying 'hey' to a man's girl friend. I wish he'd come and I would knock him down again. I started to run when someone shouted that he had a blade." He keeps shaking his fist and breaking into the conversation. The man with the knife is long gone, and there is nothing else to do but let this one go.

The policeman spends a lot of time in the stores, passing the time of day with the shopkeepers, who are friendly. He has to keep moving and anticipating all the night.

* * *

"You've only got one time to die." The men in overalls and dirty shirts, the corner loungers, are inconspicuous downtown as they watch the police and the Klan prepare for the civil rights marchers. The Klan is ready to forcibly block the path of the march. Fortunately, the marchers take another route. The loungers return to the ghetto, taking home their weapons.

* * *

I see a young boy in the evenings who can't seem to be quiet in a group. When I am alone with him, he talks and talks about the fights he has been in, the kids he has beaten up. He says he can beat grown men three times his size. Two of his older brothers have been killed in fights, one with a shotgun, one with a knife. He has four younger siblings. His mother keeps discipline in her house with a switch, because that's the only way to do it. And yet, she is a wonderful person, warm and friendly, very hard working. She reads, and she takes sewing in night school. We talk in the evenings when I pick the boy up or bring him home. She doesn't like to gossip and she can see that many others are in a worse situation than she is. She tells me about the funeral of a friend and how sad it was.

Mr. Beardslee, a student at Haverford College, worked in the Southern Regional Council Research Department during the summer, and spent much of his free time working with residents of Vine City, a low-income Negro area in Atlanta, on various of their civic projects.

* * *

There is no barrier against violence here—at least not the way there is in most communities.

The man in the ghetto is pushed to the wall; he has very little that he can take pride in. He, like anyone else, must be able to respect himself. No other thing to fall back on, he fights when he is challenged. His willingness to fight is the reflection of the desperate need to respect himself. The ghetto leaves this as the only way for many men.

That is why the key to Los Angeles is in the terror that we feel, and not in the world of complex causes and solutions, necessary as it may sometimes be to think that way. There is a desperate cry, an appeal, that has to be heard. Human beings calling for self-respect. I do not mean that the pillaging and killing gave the rioters self-respect. I mean that what drove them on was the fact that they felt they could get self-respect in no other way. Blind fury, hopelessness, and utter contempt for others were expressed in the rioting.

The only way to meet terror is to understand that the people in the ghettoes are human beings, who must be able to respect themselves. A love corresponding and answering the terror, balancing it, is the only way to approach. That is precisely what was absent in L. A. and what is absent in many other ghettoes. One must first learn deeply and honestly to respect the people in the ghetto, and only then begin to plan a program, or to talk about causes.

The Fire That Time

(Continued from page 8)

executive director of the National Urban League, and Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., both have called for special effort on behalf of Negroes to remedy the economic and employment problems compounded by centuries of under-education and under-employment. Such special effort, supported by government and private agencies and businesses, would be like a sort of domestic Marshall Plan and would be promoted not as preferential treatment but as payments on a debt to a people whose slave forebears without pay helped to build America's wealth.

An important first step must be reforms in the South's system of dual justice. The reforms are urgently needed to impede white lawlessness against Negroes, a prerequisite to real enforcement of legislation intended to improve the welfare and insure the constitutional rights of minorities, including those of the slums.

Some positive work for coping with the problems of slums and ghettos, North and South, already has been started. Among the approaches are a variety of programs instituted under the Johnson administration's War on Poverty, and the community work of private agencies. Starting point for many of these programs has been concern with the structure of the family and the social disintegration of the slum community.

In seeing and wrestling with problems of humanity in the ghetto, the anti-poverty work helps to dissipate violent resentments bred by basic needs for psychological and physical security. The movement toward goals, when seen and clearly understood by de-

(Continued on back cover)

Am I My Brother's Keeper?

By Helen Howard

AM I MY BROTHER'S keeper? I have to be. The poor people, who live just above the welfare and relief, have to live by that old saying, "I can see farther over the mountain than the man who is standing atop of it." We know and see the problems, because we have to live so close to them. We know that we have a sense of responsibility, and we (some of us) have tried to instill some of the ambitions we could not realize into our children. Some of us feel that the entire situation is just hopeless, and it would be easier to just forget the whole thing, and live each day as it comes.

Am I my brother's keeper? I have to be. Have you ever tried to send two children to college? At the same time? Well, I have, and most of the time I prayed during the day as I worked, and cried and prayed at night when I went to bed.

Am I my brother's keeper? I have to be. We (the poor) know what the "nitty-gritty" poor is like. The "nitty-gritty" poor is the hopeless and bleakness we have to face night and day. You, the so-called middle class, and the rich, cannot begin to know how much harder we have to work, and still not accomplish a thing. How much braver we are, to withstand the hardships that are forced upon us. Did you know that the suicide rates among us, the poor people, are far less than those of the middle class or rich people? Sure we fight, curse, cut, shoot and kill each other, but this is just another way for us to try to release some of the pressures of our everyday living.

Am I my brother's keeper? I have to be. When we apply for aid from the relief or the welfare, we get turned down. Why? Because we make too much money, so they say, or our husbands haven't been gone three months, or we haven't starved to death or been put outdoors yet. When we try to better ourselves, and apply for government jobs like the E.O.A., we get turned down because of our "poor credit ratings," or "our previous jail records." They expect us to have lived a spotless life, but how can we, living in places like these? We have to rob Peter to pay Paul, then we get undesirable credit ratings. We have to steal sometimes to keep the family from starving to death. We make the same mistakes other people make, but ours are held against us. You, who have never had to experience this, cannot begin to imagine what this hell is really like. You, middle class or rich people, can't know how hard it is to have to accept this fate; you can't imagine what we people who are just above the welfare and relief have to do just to try to meet some (not all) of our daily obligations. We try to make it, honestly we do; it's not a case of being "lazy" or not wanting things for ourselves, no matter what you have heard or what you may think. We do have dreams. We do have ambitions.

Am I my brother's keeper? I have

(Continued on back cover)

Mrs. Howard is a resident of Vine City in Atlanta, a low income Negro section. She is a housewife, and sometimes does domestic work.

Some Race Related Deaths in the United States

(1955-1965)

These are cases involving violent death between the races in the South. The list is of course not complete; it is not restricted to cases involving civil rights. It is compiled from newspaper accounts, and in some instances, where cooperation could be obtained, reports from officials.

1965

Freddie Lee Thomas (N) 9-3-65	Near Greenwood, Miss. Body found on highway. Thomas' half brother claimed victim was slain to deter voter registration efforts. Coroner's inquest ruled hit-and-run accident. No arrests.
Thad Christian (N) 8-28-65	Near Anniston, Ala. Allegedly shot by white man while fishing. Suspect charged with murder in arrest warrant.
Perry Smau (N) 8-27-65	Greensboro, Ala. The 87-year-old victim had voiced opposition to demonstrations. He was beaten and tongue cut out. Civil Rights groups denied complicity. Two Negro suspects in custody, one indicted on murder charge. Victim was robbed of $26.
Arthur James Hill (N) 8-20-65	Villa Rica, Ga. Shot during argument with whites. One white suspect held for grand jury action on voluntary manslaughter charge.
Jonathan M. Daniels (W) 8-20-65	Hayneville, Ala. Episcopal seminarian slain after release from jail for civil rights demonstration. White man, member of prominent family, accused of shootings that killed Daniels and wounded a Catholic priest.
8-22-65	Suspect Tom L. Coleman, arraigned for murder and assault with intent to kill; jailed for 11 hours, released on bonds of $10,000 and $2,500. Grand jury brought indictment for manslaughter, and assault and battery. Defendant acquitted of manslaughter charge.
Johnny Queen (N) 8-8-65	Fayette, Miss. White off-duty constable named in the pistol slaying, which was not connected with any arrest.
Andrew Whatley Jr. (W) 7-29-65	Americus, Ga. Shot from passing car during racial disturbance. Two Negro men indicted by grand jury as murder suspects.
Robert Wilder (N) 7-18-65	Ruston, La. White policeman accused in pistol slaying. Coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide.
Willie Brewster (N) 7-15-65	Anniston, Ala. Shot while driving home from work. Three white men indicted by grand jury on murder charges. Shooting climaxed a week of anti-Negro rallies by National States Rights Party. One of the men, Hubert Damon Strange, was convicted of second degree murder and given a ten (10) year prison sentence. All-white jury. The other two, Johnny Ira DeFries and Lewis Blevins, still face murder charges.
James Waymers (N) 7-10-65	Allendale, S. C. White man charged with murder in shotgun slaying. Area was scene of recent civil rights demonstrations. Accused acquitted Oct. 21, 1965, after entering a plea of self-defense.
O'Neal Moore (N) 6-2-65	Bogalusa, La. Victim was one of city's first two Negro deputy sheriffs and was shot by a white man while walking beat in Negro community. Suspect charged with murder, released on bail.
Frederick L. Humphrey (W) 3-26-65	Hattiesburg, Miss. Shot after the victim, a constable, stopped car of Negro suspect during racial unrest. Murder charge pending.
Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo (W) 3-25-65	Shot on Hwy. 80 between Selma and Montgomery, Ala. Detroit housewife returning to Montgomery to transport civil rights marchers. Three klansmen charged with murder.
10-2-65	Collie Leroy Wilkins tried for murder. Jury hung. Mistrial declared.
10-19-65	In a second trial Wilkins acquitted. Charges still pending against other two suspects, William O. Eaton and Eugene Thomas. All three received 10 year sentences for conspiracy to violate Federal civil rights statute. Bond set at $10,000. The three will appeal. All-white jury.
Rev. James Reeb (W) 3-12-65	Selma, Ala. Four white men accused in bludgeon death of white civil rights sympathizer; three indicted on murder charges. Three defendants acquitted.
Jimmie Lee Jackson (N) 2-18-65	Marion, Ala. Slain by white state trooper as victim, according to witnesses, tried to shield his mother from beating during demonstration. No arrest. Grand jury cleared trooper, identified only by surname.

Ollie W. Shelby (N) 1-22-65	Jackson, Miss. White sheriff's deputy accused of shooting 18-year-old Negro in prison. Coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide.
1964
Frank Morris (N) 12-10-64	Ferriday, La. Died of burns suffered when his shoe repair shop was fired by arsonists in area of racial unrest. No arrests.
Frank Andrews (N) 11-28-64	Lisman, Ala. Choctaw County. Shot in back by white sheriff's deputy. County solicitor said victim was attacking another deputy. No arrests.
Charles Sammie Marrow, Jr. (N) 10-29-64	Chattanooga, Tenn. Shot in back by a white man reportedly "to protect an attractive white waitress in a downtown restaurant." Acquitted in criminal court.
Hubert Orsby (N) 9-9-64	Near Pickens, Miss. Body of 14-year-old youth found in Big Black River wearing CORE T-shirt. Coroner's jury ruled death by accidental drowning.
James Andrew Miller (N) 8-30-64	Jackson, Ga. Shot by white man during racial flare-up. Victim had been beaten by whites a few days prior to shooting. Coroner's jury ruled slaying a case of self-defense. Shooting suspect cleared.
Billy Wayne Wallace (W) 8-9-64	Dallas, Tex. Shot during racial row in city park. Two Negroes arrested. One indicted for murder with court action pending; the other suspect was no-billed by the grand jury on same charge.
Charles E. Moore (N) 7-12-64 Henry Hezekiah Dee (N)	Meadville, Miss., near Tullulah, La. Both bodies mutilated. Recovered from Mississippi River. Had been missing since May 2, 1964. Charges against two white men dismissed without prejudice Jan. 12, 1965. Prosecution said lacked enough evidence.
Lemuel Penn (N) 7-11-64	Near Colbert, Ga. Victim was Washington, D. C., educator. Shot by whites while returning from Army reserve duty at Fort Benning, Ga. Four Klansmen arrested; three indicted for murder; two tried and acquitted. Federal indictments against six white men charging conspiracy to deprive Penn of civil rights dismissed in district court, appealed to U. S. Supreme Court.
James E. Chaney (N) 6-21-64 Andrew Goodman (W) Michael H. Schwerner (W)	Philadelphia, Miss. Three civil rights workers slain after their release from jail. 21 white men arrested, charges dismissed by U. S. Commissioner. Federal grand jury later indicted 18 white men on felony and misdemeanor charges of conspiring to violate the victims' civil rights. Federal judge voided felony charges against 17. Misdemeanor charges pending. Justice Department is appealing the rulings. Trial of the 18th suspect pending in federal court in Atlanta.
Mrs. Johnnie Mae Chappell (N) 3-23-64	Jacksonville, Fla. Shot while walking along street during racial unrest. Young white man sentenced to 10 years in the shooting.
Louis Allen (N) 2-1-64	Liberty, Miss. Civil rights worker slain some time after testifying against a white man charged with killing another Negro. No arrests.
1963
William Kinard (W) 10-18-63	St. Augustine, Fla. Victim slain as he and two other whites drove with shotgun through Negro area. Two Negroes arrested on murder charges. Court action pending.
E. B. Bryant (W) 10-18-63	Jackson, Miss. White gas station attendant slain after squirting water from hose on Negro drinking from "white" fountain. Negro suspect charged with murder, sentenced to life imprisonment.
Virgil Ware (N) 9-15-63	Birmingham, Ala. Thirteen-year-old youth killed by two white teen-agers while riding his bicycle in suburban area following downtown church bombing. Defendants received probated seven-month sentences and a stern lecture on second-degree manslaughter charges.
Johnny Robinson (N) 9-15-63	Birmingham, Ala. Killed by police after church bombing and rioting. No arrests.
Denise McNair (N), age 11, 9-15-63 Addie Mae Collins (N) age 14 Cynthia Wesley (N), age 14 Carol Robertson (N), age 14	Birmingham, Ala. Killed while attending Sunday School by exploding bomb at church where civil rights rallies were held. No arrests.
John L. Coley (N) 9-4-63	Birmingham, Ala. Suffered fatal wounds from shotgun pellets during rioting after a race bombing. No arrests.
Andrew Lee Anderson (N) 7-17-63	Near Marion, Ark. Slain by group of white citizens and sheriff's deputies after white woman said he had molested her 8-year-old daughter. Coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide. No arrests.

Medgar W. Evers (N) 6-12-63	Jackson, Miss. Shot in back as he arrived home from civil rights rally. He was field secretary for NAACP. White man tried twice, but hung juries brought mistrials. Accused Byron de le Beckwith now free.
Frank G. Link (W) 6-7-63	Lexington, N. C. Killed during rioting. Three Negroes convicted—one sentenced to serve four to seven years for second-degree murder, and two sentenced to six-month terms on charges of engaging in a riot.
William L. Moore (W) 4-23-63	Near Attalla, Ala. Mailman from Baltimore, Md., making one-man protest march across Alabama slain by bullet. Grand jury failed to indict white suspect.
1962
Paul Guihard (W) 10-30-62 Ray Gunter (W)	Oxford, Miss. Guihard (news reporter from France) and Gunter (local TV repairman) slain during white rioting over admission of James Meredith to University of Mississippi. No arrests.
Leroy Parks (W) 9-6-62	Dallas, Ga. Victim was among masked nightriders calling on a Negro woman who was charged in the slaying. Coroner's jury ruled shooting justifiable homicide. Suspect moved North after release from jail.
Cpl. Roman Ducksworth Jr. (N) 4-9-62	Taylorsville, Miss. Shot by white policeman when the Negro refused to move to rear of interstate bus. No arrests.
1961
Eli Brumfield (N) 10-31-61	McComb, Miss. Shot by policeman during racial unrest. No arrests.
Herbert Lee (N) 9-25-61	Liberty, Miss. Civil rights worker shot by a white state legislator. Coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide.
Frank Coleman Dumas (W) 6-1-61	Shot to death in his home. Preston Cobb, Jr., 15 year old Negro, found guilty of murder Aug. 16, 1961, and sentenced to die. Case retried, ending in sentence to life imprisonment. Motion for new trial pending.
1960
William Nance (N) 8-27-60	Near Winchester, Tenn. Body found in Lakeview Lake with slugs from three different guns and weighted with large rock. No arrests.
Albert Pitts (N) 7-23-60 David Pitts (N) Ernest McPharland (N) Marshall A. Johns (N)	Monroe, La. White employer arrested, then released in the shooting of five of his employees; four died. Victims accused of making threats. Records of Dist. Court, Parish of Ouachita, Monroe, La., reveal that no bill of indictment or information was ever filed.
Mrs. Mattie Greene (N) 5-20-60	Ringgold, Ga. Died under falling debris when her home was dynamited. No arrests.
1959
William Roy Prather (N) 11-1-59	Corinth, Miss. The 15-year-old boy was killed in anti-Negro "Halloween prank." Eight white youths charged with the slaying, six of whom were turned over to juvenile court. One indicted on manslaughter charge.
Tommy Dwight (N) 6-13-59	Dalton, Ga. Four white men fired supposedly over the heads of a group of Negroes intending to "scare" them, but four fatal buckshots hit the 11-year-old victim. The four were indicted on charges of involuntary manslaughter. Charges reduced to misdemeanor and three of the men sentenced to serve one year. One of these permitted to serve the year outside jail.
Jonas Causey (N) 5-10-59	Clarksdale, Miss. NAACP requested investigation and action against 15 policemen accused of the slaying. No arrests.
Mack Charles Parker (N) 4-25-59	Poplarville, Miss. Abducted from unguarded jail cell and shot to death. No arrests.
1958
James Henry Ellison (N) 9-20-58	Chattanooga, Tenn. Shot from a passing car occupied by two white couples. No arrests.
Ernest Hunter (N) 9-13-58	St. Mary's, Ga. Slain while in jail. White policeman accused of shooting reported that he and victim engaged in a struggle. No arrests.
Joe Franklin Jeter Sr. (N) 9-13-58	Atlanta, Ga. Shot by white policeman who said victim was resisting arrest. Grand jury returned "no bills" on three charges.

Richard Lillard (N) 7-26-58	Nashville, Tenn. Died after a beating in local workhouse by three white guards. They were indicted on murder charges on Aug. 15, 1958. Each was acquitted on Jan. 16, 1959.
Woodrow Wilson Daniels (N) 7-1-58	Water Valley, Miss. Died of brain injury nine days after beating. White sheriff acquited of manslaughter charge.
Willie Countryman (N) 5-25-58	Dawson, Ga. Shot in his backyard by white policeman. Federal grand jury failed to indict the policeman, who had been accused in another death one month earlier.
John Larry Bolden (N) 5-3-58	Chattanooga, Tenn. The 15-year-old boy was shot by white policeman. No court action.
James Brazier (N) 4-25-58	Dawson, Ga. Victim died a few days after beating at hands of white policemen. Federal grand jury refused to indict four accused officers.
George Love (N) 1-8-58	Ruleville, Miss. Killed by 25-man posse. No arrests.
1957
Willie V. Dunigan (N) 11-18-57	Lomax, Ala. Shot by sheriff's deputies outside his home. Deputies were looking for person(s) who earlier wounded another deputy. No arrests.
Charles Brown (N) 6-25-57	Near Yazoo City, Miss. White man charged with shooting the victim, a young airman, who was visiting at the home of the suspect's sister.
James Hollis (N) 2-3-57	Griffin, Ga. The 17-year-old boy was slain and a white housewife wounded by husband who found them together partially clothed in his home. A grand jury failed to indict the husband.
1956
Mrs. Maybelle Mahone (N) 12-5-56	Near Molena, Ga. Shot by white man for "sassing" him. The 71-year-old suspect was first given a life sentence on a murder charge, Aug 1, 1957, but was found "not guilty for reasons of insanity" the following March 21, 1958.
Mrs. Bessie McDowell (N) 6-14-56	Andalusia, Ala. Killed by white father and son, who were indicted on first and second degree murder counts.
Rev. C. H. Baldwin (N) 4-22-56	Near Huntsville, Ala. Victim struck by heavy rock. White man convicted of second-degree manslaughter, sentenced to 12 months at hard labor.
Dr. Thomas H. Brewer (N) 2-18-56	Columbus, Ga. Prominent physician and NAACP leader shot by white man. Grand jury refused to indict.
Milton Russell (N) 1-21-56	Belzoni, Miss. Burned to death in his home. Whites suspected of foul play. No arrests.
Richard King (N) 1-6-56	Eufaula, Ala. White man given life sentence for pistol slaying. He was later paroled, violated his parole and "might be back in prison," according to Barbour County's court clerk.
Edward Duckworth (N) 1-56	Raleigh, Miss. White man reportedly admitted the shooting but claimed self defense. Suspect died of heart ailment while awaiting grand jury action.
1955
James E. Evanston (N) 12-24-55	Near Drew, Miss. Body of school principal found in Long Lake with neck broken and no water in lungs to indicate drowning. Negro press called it civil rights slaying. Death officially ruled suicide.
Clinton Melton (N) 12-3-55	Glendora, Miss. White suspect was indicted on a murder charge and later acquitted.
John Earl Reese (N) 10-22-55	Near Longview, Tex. The 16-year-old boy died of injuries from shotgun blast into cafe from a moving car. Two whites indicted for murder, one given a five year suspended sentence.
Emmett Till (N) 8-28-55	LeFlore County, Miss. The 14-year-old boy from Chicago was slain after "smart-alec" talk to a Mississippi white woman. Body found in a river, beaten and shot. Two white men indicted for murder and acquitted.
Lamar Smith (N) 8-17-55	Brookhaven, Miss. Victim was shot down on lawn of county courthouse in broad daylight. A grand jury failed to indict three accused white men.
Rev. George W. Lee (N) 5-7-55	Belzoni, Miss. Killed by a shotgun blast from a car carrying several whites. No arrests.

My Brother's Keeper

(Continued from page 11)

to be. You wonder who sells the liquor, and who writes the numbers? We do! The poor people who can't find jobs that pay enough to feed us, we, the poor people, who have ambitions and refuse to be pushed down any farther than we already are, we, the poor people, who have ambitions for our children, and are trying every way we know how, even by "Hook or crook" to make it. Many of our Negro doctors, lawyers, nurses, school teachers, and professional people have become what they are because their parents did all these things to make the world a better place for them and possibly for their children.

When I was a little girl, I used to sit and watch the stars at night, and I would wonder what the future held for me. Nothing, I guess. But I am trying to make the future hold much, much more for my children.

Am I my brother's keeper? I have to be. Middle class and rich people take things for granted, things that we would call heaven, your nice painted walls for instance, while we, as I heard a little boy say, "Lay down in bed at night, look through the ceiling and see shooting stars." You have your nice wall to wall carpets, while we have our little 9 by 12 linoleums, that will not cover half of the floor, and will wear out before long because of the awful floors that they cover.

Am I my brother's keeper? I have to be. I see all these things going on around me, things like selling liquor, writing numbers, boys gambling on the street corners, and transient houses. No . . . I don't and I won't call the police to these people, because the people who are doing these things are the people with ambitions, the people who are making a better life for themselves, and their family. These are the people who will be able to send their children to colleges, who will be able to pay their bills, buy their homes and move to a higher economical, as well as social status. These are the people who want to and will get a little respect. This is why I am, Why I have to be my brother's keeper.

The Fire That Time

(Continued from page 10)

prived people, tends to keep the community from violent revolts. The bottom segments of society must be moved along if the middle and upper portions are not to trip up in their sprint toward the American dream.

The greatest danger to progress lies in the prevalent thinking that the problems of racial justice may now be forgotten because certain laws were passed. Racial discrimination and the inequities and poverty facing slum dwellers must be kept in the center of the attention of America. The mere avoidance of violent revolts is the most base of reasons why we must act to solve these problems.

Some Race Related Deaths in the United States

(1955-1965)

These are cases involving violent death between the races in the South. The list is of course not complete; it is not restricted to cases involving civil rights. It is compiled from newspaper accounts, and in some instances, where cooperation could be obtained, reports from officials.

1965

Freddie Lee Thomas (N) 9-3-65	Near Greenwood, Miss. Body found on highway. Thomas' half brother claimed victim was slain to deter voter registration efforts. Coroner's inquest ruled hit-and-run accident. No arrests.
Thad Christian (N) 8-28-65	Near Anniston, Ala. Allegedly shot by white man while fishing. Suspect charged with murder in arrest warrant.
Perry Smau (N) 8-27-65	Greensboro, Ala. The 87-year-old victim had voiced opposition to demonstrations. He was beaten and tongue cut out. Civil Rights groups denied complicity. Two Negro suspects in custody, one indicted on murder charge. Victim was robbed of $26.
Arthur James Hill (N) 8-20-65	Villa Rica, Ga. Shot during argument with whites. One white suspect held for grand jury action on voluntary manslaughter charge.
Jonathan M. Daniels (W) 8-20-65	Hayneville, Ala. Episcopal seminarian slain after release from jail for civil rights demonstration. White man, member of prominent family, accused of shootings that killed Daniels and wounded a Catholic priest.
8-22-65	Suspect Tom L. Coleman, arraigned for murder and assault with intent to kill; jailed for 11 hours, released on bonds of $10,000 and $2,500. Grand jury brought indictment for manslaughter, and assault and battery. Defendant acquitted of manslaughter charge.
Johnny Queen (N) 8-8-65	Fayette, Miss. White off-duty constable named in the pistol slaying, which was not connected with any arrest.
Andrew Whatley Jr. (W) 7-29-65	Americus, Ga. Shot from passing car during racial disturbance. Two Negro men indicted by grand jury as murder suspects.
Robert Wilder (N) 7-18-65	Ruston, La. White policeman accused in pistol slaying. Coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide.
Willie Brewster (N) 7-15-65	Anniston, Ala. Shot while driving home from work. Three white men indicted by grand jury on murder charges. Shooting climaxed a week of anti-Negro rallies by National States Rights Party. One of the men, Hubert Damon Strange, was convicted of second degree murder and given a ten (10) year prison sentence. All-white jury. The other two, Johnny Ira DeFries and Lewis Blevins, still face murder charges.
James Waymers (N) 7-10-65	Allendale, S. C. White man charged with murder in shotgun slaying. Area was scene of recent civil rights demonstrations. Accused acquitted Oct. 21, 1965, after entering a plea of self-defense.
O'Neal Moore (N) 6-2-65	Bogalusa, La. Victim was one of city's first two Negro deputy sheriffs and was shot by a white man while walking beat in Negro community. Suspect charged with murder, released on bail.
Frederick L. Humphrey (W) 3-26-65	Hattiesburg, Miss. Shot after the victim, a constable, stopped car of Negro suspect during racial unrest. Murder charge pending.
Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo (W) 3-25-65	Shot on Hwy. 80 between Selma and Montgomery, Ala. Detroit housewife returning to Montgomery to transport civil rights marchers. Three klansmen charged with murder.
10-2-65	Collie Leroy Wilkins tried for murder. Jury hung. Mistrial declared.
10-19-65	In a second trial Wilkins acquitted. Charges still pending against other two suspects, William O. Eaton and Eugene Thomas. All three received 10 year sentences for conspiracy to violate Federal civil rights statute. Bond set at $10,000. The three will appeal. All-white jury.
Rev. James Reeb (W) 3-12-65	Selma, Ala. Four white men accused in bludgeon death of white civil rights sympathizer; three indicted on murder charges. Three defendants acquitted.
Jimmie Lee Jackson (N) 2-18-65	Marion, Ala. Slain by white state trooper as victim, according to witnesses, tried to shield his mother from beating during demonstration. No arrest. Grand jury cleared trooper, identified only by surname.

Ollie W. Shelby (N) 1-22-65	Jackson, Miss. White sheriff's deputy accused of shooting 18-year-old Negro in prison. Coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide.
1964
Frank Morris (N) 12-10-64	Ferriday, La. Died of burns suffered when his shoe repair shop was fired by arsonists in area of racial unrest. No arrests.
Frank Andrews (N) 11-28-64	Lisman, Ala. Choctaw County. Shot in back by white sheriff's deputy. County solicitor said victim was attacking another deputy. No arrests.
Charles Sammie Marrow, Jr. (N) 10-29-64	Chattanooga, Tenn. Shot in back by a white man reportedly "to protect an attractive white waitress in a downtown restaurant." Acquitted in criminal court.
Hubert Orsby (N) 9-9-64	Near Pickens, Miss. Body of 14-year-old youth found in Big Black River wearing CORE T-shirt. Coroner's jury ruled death by accidental drowning.
James Andrew Miller (N) 8-30-64	Jackson, Ga. Shot by white man during racial flare-up. Victim had been beaten by whites a few days prior to shooting. Coroner's jury ruled slaying a case of self-defense. Shooting suspect cleared.
Billy Wayne Wallace (W) 8-9-64	Dallas, Tex. Shot during racial row in city park. Two Negroes arrested. One indicted for murder with court action pending; the other suspect was no-billed by the grand jury on same charge.
Charles E. Moore (N) 7-12-64 Henry Hezekiah Dee (N)	Meadville, Miss., near Tullulah, La. Both bodies mutilated. Recovered from Mississippi River. Had been missing since May 2, 1964. Charges against two white men dismissed without prejudice Jan. 12, 1965. Prosecution said lacked enough evidence.
Lemuel Penn (N) 7-11-64	Near Colbert, Ga. Victim was Washington, D. C., educator. Shot by whites while returning from Army reserve duty at Fort Benning, Ga. Four Klansmen arrested; three indicted for murder; two tried and acquitted. Federal indictments against six white men charging conspiracy to deprive Penn of civil rights dismissed in district court, appealed to U. S. Supreme Court.
James E. Chaney (N) 6-21-64 Andrew Goodman (W) Michael H. Schwerner (W)	Philadelphia, Miss. Three civil rights workers slain after their release from jail. 21 white men arrested, charges dismissed by U. S. Commissioner. Federal grand jury later indicted 18 white men on felony and misdemeanor charges of conspiring to violate the victims' civil rights. Federal judge voided felony charges against 17. Misdemeanor charges pending. Justice Department is appealing the rulings. Trial of the 18th suspect pending in federal court in Atlanta.
Mrs. Johnnie Mae Chappell (N) 3-23-64	Jacksonville, Fla. Shot while walking along street during racial unrest. Young white man sentenced to 10 years in the shooting.
Louis Allen (N) 2-1-64	Liberty, Miss. Civil rights worker slain some time after testifying against a white man charged with killing another Negro. No arrests.
1963
William Kinard (W) 10-18-63	St. Augustine, Fla. Victim slain as he and two other whites drove with shotgun through Negro area. Two Negroes arrested on murder charges. Court action pending.
E. B. Bryant (W) 10-18-63	Jackson, Miss. White gas station attendant slain after squirting water from hose on Negro drinking from "white" fountain. Negro suspect charged with murder, sentenced to life imprisonment.
Virgil Ware (N) 9-15-63	Birmingham, Ala. Thirteen-year-old youth killed by two white teen-agers while riding his bicycle in suburban area following downtown church bombing. Defendants received probated seven-month sentences and a stern lecture on second-degree manslaughter charges.
Johnny Robinson (N) 9-15-63	Birmingham, Ala. Killed by police after church bombing and rioting. No arrests.
Denise McNair (N), age 11, 9-15-63 Addie Mae Collins (N) age 14 Cynthia Wesley (N), age 14 Carol Robertson (N), age 14	Birmingham, Ala. Killed while attending Sunday School by exploding bomb at church where civil rights rallies were held. No arrests.
John L. Coley (N) 9-4-63	Birmingham, Ala. Suffered fatal wounds from shotgun pellets during rioting after a race bombing. No arrests.
Andrew Lee Anderson (N) 7-17-63	Near Marion, Ark. Slain by group of white citizens and sheriff's deputies after white woman said he had molested her 8-year-old daughter. Coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide. No arrests.

Medgar W. Evers (N) 6-12-63	Jackson, Miss. Shot in back as he arrived home from civil rights rally. He was field secretary for NAACP. White man tried twice, but hung juries brought mistrials. Accused Byron de le Beckwith now free.
Frank G. Link (W) 6-7-63	Lexington, N. C. Killed during rioting. Three Negroes convicted—one sentenced to serve four to seven years for second-degree murder, and two sentenced to six-month terms on charges of engaging in a riot.
William L. Moore (W) 4-23-63	Near Attalla, Ala. Mailman from Baltimore, Md., making one-man protest march across Alabama slain by bullet. Grand jury failed to indict white suspect.
1962
Paul Guihard (W) 10-30-62 Ray Gunter (W)	Oxford, Miss. Guihard (news reporter from France) and Gunter (local TV repairman) slain during white rioting over admission of James Meredith to University of Mississippi. No arrests.
Leroy Parks (W) 9-6-62	Dallas, Ga. Victim was among masked nightriders calling on a Negro woman who was charged in the slaying. Coroner's jury ruled shooting justifiable homicide. Suspect moved North after release from jail.
Cpl. Roman Ducksworth Jr. (N) 4-9-62	Taylorsville, Miss. Shot by white policeman when the Negro refused to move to rear of interstate bus. No arrests.
1961
Eli Brumfield (N) 10-31-61	McComb, Miss. Shot by policeman during racial unrest. No arrests.
Herbert Lee (N) 9-25-61	Liberty, Miss. Civil rights worker shot by a white state legislator. Coroner's jury ruled justifiable homicide.
Frank Coleman Dumas (W) 6-1-61	Shot to death in his home. Preston Cobb, Jr., 15 year old Negro, found guilty of murder Aug. 16, 1961, and sentenced to die. Case retried, ending in sentence to life imprisonment. Motion for new trial pending.
1960
William Nance (N) 8-27-60	Near Winchester, Tenn. Body found in Lakeview Lake with slugs from three different guns and weighted with large rock. No arrests.
Albert Pitts (N) 7-23-60 David Pitts (N) Ernest McPharland (N) Marshall A. Johns (N)	Monroe, La. White employer arrested, then released in the shooting of five of his employees; four died. Victims accused of making threats. Records of Dist. Court, Parish of Ouachita, Monroe, La., reveal that no bill of indictment or information was ever filed.
Mrs. Mattie Greene (N) 5-20-60	Ringgold, Ga. Died under falling debris when her home was dynamited. No arrests.
1959
William Roy Prather (N) 11-1-59	Corinth, Miss. The 15-year-old boy was killed in anti-Negro "Halloween prank." Eight white youths charged with the slaying, six of whom were turned over to juvenile court. One indicted on manslaughter charge.
Tommy Dwight (N) 6-13-59	Dalton, Ga. Four white men fired supposedly over the heads of a group of Negroes intending to "scare" them, but four fatal buckshots hit the 11-year-old victim. The four were indicted on charges of involuntary manslaughter. Charges reduced to misdemeanor and three of the men sentenced to serve one year. One of these permitted to serve the year outside jail.
Jonas Causey (N) 5-10-59	Clarksdale, Miss. NAACP requested investigation and action against 15 policemen accused of the slaying. No arrests.
Mack Charles Parker (N) 4-25-59	Poplarville, Miss. Abducted from unguarded jail cell and shot to death. No arrests.
1958
James Henry Ellison (N) 9-20-58	Chattanooga, Tenn. Shot from a passing car occupied by two white couples. No arrests.
Ernest Hunter (N) 9-13-58	St. Mary's, Ga. Slain while in jail. White policeman accused of shooting reported that he and victim engaged in a struggle. No arrests.
Joe Franklin Jeter Sr. (N) 9-13-58	Atlanta, Ga. Shot by white policeman who said victim was resisting arrest. Grand jury returned "no bills" on three charges.

Richard Lillard (N) 7-26-58	Nashville, Tenn. Died after a beating in local workhouse by three white guards. They were indicted on murder charges on Aug. 15, 1958. Each was acquitted on Jan. 16, 1959.
Woodrow Wilson Daniels (N) 7-1-58	Water Valley, Miss. Died of brain injury nine days after beating. White sheriff acquited of manslaughter charge.
Willie Countryman (N) 5-25-58	Dawson, Ga. Shot in his backyard by white policeman. Federal grand jury failed to indict the policeman, who had been accused in another death one month earlier.
John Larry Bolden (N) 5-3-58	Chattanooga, Tenn. The 15-year-old boy was shot by white policeman. No court action.
James Brazier (N) 4-25-58	Dawson, Ga. Victim died a few days after beating at hands of white policemen. Federal grand jury refused to indict four accused officers.
George Love (N) 1-8-58	Ruleville, Miss. Killed by 25-man posse. No arrests.
1957
Willie V. Dunigan (N) 11-18-57	Lomax, Ala. Shot by sheriff's deputies outside his home. Deputies were looking for person(s) who earlier wounded another deputy. No arrests.
Charles Brown (N) 6-25-57	Near Yazoo City, Miss. White man charged with shooting the victim, a young airman, who was visiting at the home of the suspect's sister.
James Hollis (N) 2-3-57	Griffin, Ga. The 17-year-old boy was slain and a white housewife wounded by husband who found them together partially clothed in his home. A grand jury failed to indict the husband.
1956
Mrs. Maybelle Mahone (N) 12-5-56	Near Molena, Ga. Shot by white man for "sassing" him. The 71-year-old suspect was first given a life sentence on a murder charge, Aug 1, 1957, but was found "not guilty for reasons of insanity" the following March 21, 1958.
Mrs. Bessie McDowell (N) 6-14-56	Andalusia, Ala. Killed by white father and son, who were indicted on first and second degree murder counts.
Rev. C. H. Baldwin (N) 4-22-56	Near Huntsville, Ala. Victim struck by heavy rock. White man convicted of second-degree manslaughter, sentenced to 12 months at hard labor.
Dr. Thomas H. Brewer (N) 2-18-56	Columbus, Ga. Prominent physician and NAACP leader shot by white man. Grand jury refused to indict.
Milton Russell (N) 1-21-56	Belzoni, Miss. Burned to death in his home. Whites suspected of foul play. No arrests.
Richard King (N) 1-6-56	Eufaula, Ala. White man given life sentence for pistol slaying. He was later paroled, violated his parole and "might be back in prison," according to Barbour County's court clerk.
Edward Duckworth (N) 1-56	Raleigh, Miss. White man reportedly admitted the shooting but claimed self defense. Suspect died of heart ailment while awaiting grand jury action.
1955
James E. Evanston (N) 12-24-55	Near Drew, Miss. Body of school principal found in Long Lake with neck broken and no water in lungs to indicate drowning. Negro press called it civil rights slaying. Death officially ruled suicide.
Clinton Melton (N) 12-3-55	Glendora, Miss. White suspect was indicted on a murder charge and later acquitted.
John Earl Reese (N) 10-22-55	Near Longview, Tex. The 16-year-old boy died of injuries from shotgun blast into cafe from a moving car. Two whites indicted for murder, one given a five year suspended sentence.
Emmett Till (N) 8-28-55	LeFlore County, Miss. The 14-year-old boy from Chicago was slain after "smart-alec" talk to a Mississippi white woman. Body found in a river, beaten and shot. Two white men indicted for murder and acquitted.
Lamar Smith (N) 8-17-55	Brookhaven, Miss. Victim was shot down on lawn of county courthouse in broad daylight. A grand jury failed to indict three accused white men.
Rev. George W. Lee (N) 5-7-55	Belzoni, Miss. Killed by a shotgun blast from a car carrying several whites. No arrests.

ADDITIONAL RACE RELATED DEATHS IN THE U. S.

(1965-1967)

1965

Frederick Riehm (W) 5/22/65
New Orleans, Louisiana. New York Times 5/23/65. The young man was fatally stabbed during a fight with Negroes at a bus stop.

Moses E. Jackson (N) 6/8/65
Deland, Florida. Miami Herald 2/3/66. Two white men, Charles A. Cirack and Richard V. White, were found guilty of first degree murder. The jury recommended mercy for White, but not for Cirack. "It was the first time in Volusia County history thataa white man was found guilty of the first degree murder of a Negro," Circuit Clerk Jess Mathas said.

John David Farer (W) 10/16/65
Knoxville, Tennessee. Chattanooga Times 5/18/66. Two Negro youths were sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder. Leonard Dickerson and Melvin Lockett admitted stabbing Farer "because he was the first white person they saw after watching a white boy slash a Negro boy in a street fight."

1966

David Colston (N)
Camden, Alabama. Atlanta Constitution 1/24/66. The young Negro man planned to attend what was described as a political meeting by an SCLC field secretary and what the local sheriff thought to be a funeral at Antioch Baptist Church. As he tried to turn off the highway into the church parking lot, his car was struck from the rear by another vehicle driven by a white man. The white pulled a pistol and shot the Negro in the head, leaving his body lying on Highway 41. The white man turned himself in to the sheriff, who said that by the time he got to town, several Negroes, "upset by the killing," had begun to gather around the body. The sheriff reported that the white man was "real upset."

Ralph M. Wilson (W) 3/26/66
Louisburg, North Carolina. Raleigh News and Observer (no date). A white Charlotte grill operator was cleared of a murder charge in Wilson's slaying. In a statement to police just after the incident, Mullis testified he had taken an order for food from Nathaniel Everett, a Negro, when Wilson came in and told Everett to get out. Wilson then vaulted the counter and attacked Mullis. Mullis drew a pistol and shot Wilson in the chest.

Ben Chester White (N)
Natchez, Mississippi. New York Times 7/8/66. The 65-year-old Negro was killed in June. Three alleged Ku Klux Klansmen were charged with the murder.

Willie Junior Self (W)
Athens, Georgia. Atlanta Constitution 7/12/66. The 44-year-old white man was killed during a rock-throwing incident in a predominantly Negro section of the city. A young Negro man was charged with the murder.

George Burnett (N)
Atlanta, Georgia. Atlanta Constitution 7/18/66. The Negro policeman was shot by a young white man who muttered that he was "tired of nigger police running over everybody." (The above is testimony of Burnett's partner.)

Clarence Triggs (N) 8/1/66.
Bogalusa, Louisiana. New York Times 8/2/66. "The police charged two white men today with the weekend murder of Clarence Triggs, a Negro." (Body was found 7/30.)

James Arthur McCaulley (N) 8/13/66.
Nashville, Tennessee. Atlanta Daily World 8/16/66. Nashville police were searching for a white man in connection with the slaying. McCaulley was sitting in a local bar when the white man walked over, put a pistol under the Negro's chin, and said, "This is the way it's done," and shot him.

Sylvester Patterson (N) 8/14/66.
Charlotte, North Carolina. Raleigh News and Observer 8/15/66. Police charged a white man with murder in the shooting, which occurred in a predominantly Negro area.

Herbert Vorner (N)
Atlanta, Georgia. Atlanta Constitution 9/12/66. The youth, 16, was shot by whites from a passing car. Constitution 2/9/67: All-white jury found white man, William Haywood James, guilty of murder -- sentenced him to life imprisonment.

Reba Delphenia Yancey (N) 11/22/66.
Portsmouth, Virginia. A white man was charged with murdering the 12-year-old girl -- "latest in a long series of apparently aimless shootings in a middle-class Negro section of Portsmouth."

James Earl Motley (N)
Montgomery, Alabama. New York Times 12/3/66. "A state autopsy report made public today confirmed that James Earl Motley, a 27-year-old Negro who was taken dead from a Wetumpka, Alabama, jail November 20, died of severe head injuries. "Negro friends of the man have said that he had been beaten by a white deputy sheriff and state troopers a few hours earlier."

1967

Charlie McCastle (N)
Greenville, Alabama. Southern Courier 1/14-15/67. Charlie McCastle was shot to death last Saturday (1/7) by Edmond Carter, a white landowner, who was later arrested and charged with second-degree murder. Carter fired at McCastle and companions from his (Carter's) home while they were walking nearby. Later Carter "approached the group of hunters, said McCastle (cousin of the dead man) he 'told Charlie to throw down his gun. Charlie said he wasn't throwing down anything.' The witness said Carter shot once, and a bullet struck Charlie McCastle in the right temple. 'Charlie fired one shot and stumbled backward,' said C. B. McCastle, Jr. According to the witness, Carter shot again, and a bullet hit the victim 'dead center of the forehead.'"

Anthony Shelton (N)
Bessemer, Alabama. Southern Courier 1/28-29/67. Anthony Shelton, Negro, from Detroit, was shot to death (1/19) by an Alabama state trooper when he was arrested for drunk driving. "According to the Shelton family, witnesses to the incicent said Anthony Shelton lay on the ground, bleeding, for an hour before an ambulance took him to Memorial Hospital in Bessemer."

Robert Lacey (N)
Birmingham, Alabama. Southern Courier 2/4-5/67. "Holy Jesus, They Kill My Child for a Dog." "Robert Lacey, the father of six children, was shot to death last week by a Jefferson County sheriff's deputy while members of his family watched in horror. "Lacey had been charged with failing to take his dog to a veterinarian." . . . "Please don't shoot again, I said (wife) and my little girl came running to see what was happening to her daddy, laying there, bleeding, and I said again, 'Please don't,' and that's when they shot him through the head."

James E. Small (N)
Birmingham, Alabama. Birmingham News 2/17/67. James E. Small, 18-year-old Negro, was shot and killed by police when he failed to obey orders to halt. Police said "a window had been forced open and confronted Small running out a door."

Griffin, Georgia. Atlanta Constitution 2/14/67. "Five Negro brothers have been charged with the murder in the shooting death of a white man during a wild pre-dawn gun battle on a dirt road near here, Sheriff Dwayne Gilbert said Monday. "The brothers, held in jail on murder warrants, met four white men for a showdown in the early hours of Saturday after a truck stop argument, the sheriff said."

William Cranmore (W)
Prattville, Alabama. New York Times 2/18/67. "A Negro man was charged here today with the murder of a white man during a dispute on Tuesday over an automobile mortgage. "Another Negro who had been charged with the same murder died yesterday as a result of being shot by a policeman during his arrest."

James Huffman, Negro, "had been arrested in a VA hospital in Montgomery on a murder charge in connection with the fatal shooting of William Cranmore, 43, a white automobile dealer in Prattville. "Mr. Huffman, who was himself shot during the argument with Mr. Cranmore, was placed in the hospital unit of the state prison at Montgomery.

"Earlier, the sheriff had charged Charles Raspberry, 42, with the murder of Mr. Cranmore. Mr. Raspberry died at the veterans hopsital yesterday after lingering in critical condition with a bullet wound suffered while in the Prattville police station." He was shot once in the back.

Wharlest Jackson (N)
Natchez, Mississippi. New York Times 2/28/67. Wharlest Jackson, treasurer of the local NAACP, was killed 2/27 when an explosion shattered his truck.

Louis Kuba (W)
Houston, Texas, New York Times, 5/18/67. The victim, a rookie policeman, was among regular policemen and sheriff's deputies who, according to the New York Times, "fired rifles and carbines into [a freshman dormitory on the campus of predominantly Negro Texas Southern University]. Students had fired on police after a rock throwing incident, according to Houston police.

Elton Brayboy (N)
Columbia, South Carolina. The State (Columbia, South Carolina), 7/6/67. An inquest jury charged a white policeman with murder, ruling that he "did shoot and kill Elton Brayboy in a willful and felonious manner." Brayboy was shot five times; twice after he fell to the floor.

Fred Hodges (N)
Knoxville, Tennessee, Chattanooga Times, 7/11/67. The 18-year-old youth died of stab wounds received in a scuffle with whites outside an amusement park. One of the whites was charged with murder.

Mike Erdey (W) 8/19/67.
Livingston, Louisiana, New Orleans Times-Picayune 6/18/68. A white man was charged with murder in the shooting, which followed an argument over a civil rights march that passed through the parish.

McDaniel McCoy (N)
Smithfield, North Carolina, Raleigh News and Observer 9/9/67. Two white men were charged with murder. A deputy sheriff testified that the two men beat McCoy, then, "after stopping for a pint of white whisky near the Johnston-Harnett County line . . . drove to a ridge and . . . threw the Negro over the bridge into the creek."

Robert E. Townsend (N)
Okolona, Mississippi, Delta Democrat Times, 10/3/67. A white Okolona policeman was freed by a three-man justice of the peace tribunal. He was charged with murder in the pistol slaying of Townsend, who was handcuffed at the time of the shooting.

John A. Langdon (N)
Selma, Alabama, Alabama Journal, 11/8/67. Three white men were charged with first degree murder in the rifle slaying. The men had driven through Selma in a truck firing into Negroes' homes. Langdon was discovered near one of the homes.

Mary Margaret Talley (W)
Roanoke, Virginia, Richmond News Leader, 11/20/67. A 17-year-old Negro youth was charged with murder in the shooting death. The 13-year-old victim was walking home from a cheerleaders rally. Moments before the shooting, according to police, a group of white youths nearby had been beaten and robbed by a broup of young Negroes. The child apparently was struck by a stray bullet.

Archie Lee Wooden (N)
Snow Hill, Alabt

Archie Lee Wooden (N)
Snow Hill, Alabama, Southern Courier, 6/7/68. The 18-year-old youth was found in a ditch near Snow Hill. He bled to death from a small wound in his side, caused, according to the Wilcox County sheriff, by his falling "on a stake." Wooden's mother asked "if the body was down in the ravine, why was there blood up by the road near the telephone pole?" According to the Courier, "friends said Wooden knew a white girl in town, but they would not elaborate."

A. C. Huggins (N)
Monticello, Florida, Atlanta Constitution, 2/28/68. The 18-year-old Huggins died when white men opened fire with an automatic rifle on a car in which he was riding. According to the sheriff, "It wasn't provoked, . . There was no racial problem involved."

Larry Wainwright (N)
El Dorado, Arkansas, Arkansas Gazette, 3/4/68. The prosecuting attorney charged that a 17-year-old white youth, "obsessed with the idea of killing Negroes," had shot Wainwright, 19, from a moving automible after "boasting that he was going to throw a Negro off the Ouachita River Bridge." Warning that failure to convict would "show the futility of the courts," the prosecutor said, "Your verdict will determine the conscience of the community." The all-white jury found the accused NOT GUILTY.

A. J. Boruss (W)
Knoxville Tennessee, New York Times, 3/10/68. Boruss' body was found near the charred remains of his taxicab in a field near Knoxville College. Negro students on the predominantly Negro college campus had earlier protested what they felt to be excessive police response to a minor complaint.

Martin Luther King, Jr. (N)
Memphis, Tennessee, New York Times, 4/5/68. The victim, a minister and philosopher of nonviolence, was shot on the eve of a demonstration in support of striking garbage workers.

Rudolph Hargett (N)
Jacksonville, Florida, Miami Herald, 4/13/68. A young white man was charged with first degree murder. The 18-year-old Hargett, home on leave from the Air Force, was sitting on a bicycle talking to a group of Negroes when he was shot between the eyes with a weapon fired from a slow-moving automobile.

Winston Tracy (N)
Salisbury, North Carolina, Charlotte Observer, 5/11/68.
A white man was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment. The man saw Tracy, who was 14 years old, scuffling with his son. The man fired one shot and Tracy fell to the street, and according to one witness, the man then walked up to him and shot him in the head as the youngster pleaded for his life.

Kathy Ainsworth (W)
Meridian, Mississippi, Birmingham News, 7/1/68. The victim, who accompanied an "underground fighter" member of the Ku Klux Klan when he attempted to "place a box of dynamite beside the home of a prominent Jewish businessman," died in a hail of machine gun bullets fired by Meridian police. The episode was described by police officers as "the wildest gun fight in recent Mississippi history."

Curtis Ingram (N)
Little Rock, Arkansas, Arkansas Gazette, 7/25/68. A white prison trustee was found guilty of involuntary manslaughter (defined in Arkansas law as "accidental killing of a person without intent), in the slaying of fellow-prisoner Ingram. Ingram was beatm to death.

Robert Davis (N)
Cayce, South Carolina, Charlotte Observer 9/1/68. Two whites were charged with murder in the pistol slaying. Davis was standing at a restaurant lunch counter when the two whites, who were seated at a nearby table, opened fire. He was shot in the back.

Luther L. Cole (N)
Savannah, Georgia, Atlanta Daily World, 9/4/68. A white motel manager was held for the grand jury. Cole, a marine corporal, requested a room. The manager told him there was only one vacancy left. Cole replied that "One of these days the NAACP is going to fix people like you." The manager shot Cole, later telling police that Cole had cursed him.

E. C. DeLoach (N)
Pritchard, Alabama, New Orleans Times-Picayne, 9/22/68. The body with an eight-inch slash across the stomach was found hanging head-down from the roof of an abandoned school in the "Negro section" of Pritchard. "As far as we know, there are no racial overtones," said the mayor. According to the Associated Press, Prichard "has been the scene of a number of protest demonstrations and meetings by whites because of court-ordered integration."

Sammy Lee Malone (N)
Metcalfe, Mississippi, Delta Democrat-Times, 9/27/68. According to the Delta-Democrat Times: "After a smoke bomb was set off in (a white-owned general store), the owner ordered the boys out. The four leftrbut later walked by the front of the store on their way home. [The son of the defendant store-owner] cursed them and told them to come across the road into his yard 'so I can beat some of that black off of you.' "One of Malone's companions replied" 'If I come over there, the police can arrest me. If you want me, come and get me.' "The four waited while the white youth went behind the store and returned with a dob on a chain. "The youth, his wife, his sister, and his dog then lined up facing Maone [and Malone's three companions]. More cursing occurred. "At this point [the storeowner] walked from the store, hands in pockets, and joined the group across the road. "Which one of you is the bad son-of-a bitch out here?" he asked, then he reached into his pocket, pulled out a pistol and shot Malone."

Malone was 15-years-old.

NEGRO VOTER REGISTRATION FOR SELECTIVE YEARS AND VOTING AGE POPULATIONS

Southern Regional Council, Inc
Voter Education Project
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

STATE	1952		1956		1960		Spring 1966		1950 CENSUS	1960 CENSUS
	# Registered	%VAP Reg.	# Registered	%VAP Reg.	# Registered	% VAP Reg.	# Reg.	% VAP Reg.	NEGRO VAP	NEGRO VAP
ALABAMA	25,224	21.9 ~~9.5~~	53,366	10.3 ~~20.1~~	73,272	15.2	235,572	48.9	516,275 ~~265,458~~	481,320
ARKANSAS	61,413	26.4	69,677	30.0	72,604	37.6	104,000	54.0	232,191	192,672
FLORIDA	120,900	32.9	148,703	40.5	163,128	34.7	288,069	60.2	366,797	470,306
GEORGIA	144,835	23.3	163,389	26.2	180,000	29.3	256,346	41.8	622,703	612,910
LOUISIANA	120,000	24.9	161,410	33.5	156,938	30.4	228,073	42.3	481,284	514,589
MISSISSIPPI	20,000	4.0	20,000	4.0	22,000	5.2	125,000	29.6	497,354	422,256
N. CAROLINA	100,000	18.2	135,000	24.5	172,166	31.3	269,328	48.9	549,741	550,929
S. CAROLINA	80,000	20,5	99,890	25.6	58,122	15.7	186,752	50.3	390,024	371,104
TENNESSEE	85,000	26.6	90,000	28.2	185,000	58.9	225,000	71.7	318,790	313,873
TEXAS	181,916	31.2	214,000	36.7	226,818	34.9	400,000	61.6	582,944	649,412
VIRGINIA	69,326	16.4	82,603	19.5	100,100	23.8	185,000	44.0	422,670	421,051
TOTAL	1,008,614	21.3	1,238,038	26.2	1,410,148	28.2	2,503,140	50.1	4,729,956	5,000,376

Clarence A. Bacote
James E. Conyers
Atlanta University

TABLE I

The 15 precincts have a total of 34,069 Negro registrants. This is 50.18 per cent of 67,895 Negro registrants in Fulton County as of July 25, 1966

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS OF THE NEGRO VOTE FOR GOVERNOR IN THE FULTON COUNTY DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1966

(Based on 15 [redacted] Selected Negro Precincts)

Ward and Precincts	Negro Registrants	White Registrants	Total Registrants	Total and Per cent of Votes Cast for Governor: Arnall	%	Byrd	%	Carter	%	Gray	%	Maddox	%	O'Kelly	%	Totals	% *
1C	2758	111	2869	910	87.9	58	5.6	52	5.0	8	0.8	6	0.6	1	0.1	1035	36.1
3A	1512	33	1545	692	93.0	24	3.2	19	2.6	4	0.5	4	0.5	1	0.1	744	48.2
3B	1663	23	1686	807	92.5	35	4.0	21	2.4	6	0.7	0	0.0	3	0.3	872	51 51.7
3E	3023	51	3074	1324	91.5	61	4.2	47	3.2	10	0.7	1	0.07	4	0.3	1447	47.1
3H	2190	42	2232	1072	93.1	23	2.0	45	3.9	9	0.8	2	0.2	0	0.0	1151	51.6
3K	1339	32	1371	483	89.8	25	4.6	22	4.1	6	1.1	2	0.4	0	0.0	538	39.2
3N	2596	28	2624	919	89.2	43	4.2	55	5.3	8	0.8	2	0.2	3	0.3	1030	39.3
3P	1134	23	1157	555	92.5	14	2.3	27	4.5	0	0.0	3	0.5	1	0.2	600	51.9
3S	3110	44	3154	1168	91.3	36	2.8	61	4.8	6	0.5	3	0.2	5	0.4	1279	40.6
3T	1106	14	1120	486	91.9	16	3.0	19	3.6	7	1.3	1	0.2	0	0.0	529	47.2
4I	2900	26	2926	1012	85.4	33	2.8	129	10.9	8	0.7	3	0.2	0	0.0	1185	40. 40.5
6I	2568	28	2596	875	93.1	18	1.9	36	3.8	7	0.7	1	0.1	3	0.3	940	36.2
6J	2128	50	2178	882	94.6	18	1.9	27	2.9	2	0.2	2	0.2	1	0.1	932	42.8
7A	3160	51	3211	1340	93.1	30	2.1	57	4.0	9	0.6	2	0.1	2	0.1	1440	44.8
7N	2882	44	2926	1314	92.7	32	2.3	61	4.3	6	0.4	3	0.2	1	0.1	1417	48.4
Total	34,069	600	34,669	13,839	91.4	466	3.07	678	4.48	96	0.6	35	0.2	25	0.2	15139	43.7

*This per cent represents the actual votes cast as a per cent of total registrants in the [redacted] Precinct.

TABLE II

STATISTICAL ANALYSIS OF THE NEGRO VOTE FOR LT. GOVERNOR AND COUNTY COMMISSIONER IN THE FULTON COUNTY DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1966

(Based on 15 Randomly Selected Negro Precincts)

Ward and Precincts	Negro Registrants	White Registrants	Total Registrants	TOTAL VOTES CAST FOR LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR								TOTAL VOTES CAST FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER
				Bedgood	%	Geer	%	Smith	%	Totals	%	Brooks	%	Brown	%	Carpenter	%	Peavey	%	Smith	%	Totals	%*
1C	2758	111	2869	19	2.4	158	20.3	601	77.3	777	27.1	208	30.1	345	50.0	28	4.1	10	1.4	99	14.3	690	24.1
3A	1512	33	1545	21	3.7	86	15.1	463	81.2	570	36.9	320	45.8	257	36.8	32	4.6	37	5.3	52	7.4	698	45.2
3B	1663	23	1686	13	1.8	90	12.4	625	85.8	728	43.2	208	36.1	264	45.8	29	5.0	12	2.1	63	10.9	576	34.2
3E	3023	51	3074	32	3.0	216	20.5	805	76.4	1053	34.3	175	42.5	143	34.7	23	5.6	10	2.4	61	14.8	412	13.4
3H	2190	42	2232	35	3.7	134	14.0	789	82.4	958	42.9	235	27.7	457	53.9	35	4.1	18	2.1	103	12.1	848	38.0
3K	1339	32	1371	13	3.4	84	21.8	289	74.9	386	28.2	116	22.4	168	32.4	101	19.5	62	11.9	72	13.9	519	37.9
3N	2596	28	2624	7	0.8	94	10.6	784	88.6	885	33.7	139	48.3	70	24.3	17	5.9	21	7.3	41	14.2	288	11.0
3P	1134	23	1157	11	2.2	72	14.1	427	83.7	510	44.1	85	38.5	92	41.6	11	5.0	10	4.5	23	10.4	221	19.1
3S	3110	44	3154	29	3.0	191	19.7	751	77.3	971	30.8	457	34.7	556	42.2	66	5.0	34	2.6	204	15.5	1317	41.8
3T	1106	14	1120	6	1.6	76	19.9	300	78.5	382	34.1	271	35.6	309	40.6	54	7.1	35	4.6	92	12.1	761	67.9
4I	2900	26	2926	26	2.8	151	16.0	766	81.2	943	32.2	127	25.3	156	31.1	54	10.8	40	8.0	145	28.9	502	17.2
6I	2568	28	2596	26	3.8	203	29.9	449	66.2	678	26.1	166	39.2	163	38.5	28	6.6	14	3.3	52	12.3	423	16.3
6J	2128	50	2178	17	2.3	110	14.8	614	82.9	741	34.0	121	38.1	136	42.8	10	3.1	11	3.5	40	12.6	318	14.6
7A	3160	51	3211	29	2.5	245	21.0	891	76.5	1165	36.3	259	57.3	128	28.3	23	5.1	10	2.2	32	7.1	452	14.1
8N	2882	44	2926	46	3.8	199	16.6	956	79.6	1201	41.0	175	15.3	747	65.4	60	5.3	41	3.6	119	10.4	1142	39.0
Total	34,069	600	34,669	332	2.8	2,109	17.7	9,510	79.6	11,948	34.5	3,062	33.4	3,991	43.5	571	6.2	365	4.0	1,198	13.1	9,167	26.4

*This per cent represents the actual votes cast as a per cent of total registrants in the Ward and Precinct.

SOME NOTES ON THE FULTON COUNTY DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY ELECTION,
SEPTEMBER 14, 1966

Data for this analysis is based on the official count as reported by the Fulton County Democratic Executive Committee on September 19, 1966 (Atlanta Journal, September 19, 1966, p. 32)

1. In Fulton County, as of July 25, 1966, there were 233,932 registered voters; 166,037 (71%) were white and 67,895 (29%) were Negro. When we consider that there are now over 220,000 Negroes in Fulton County, we suspect that Negroes are grossly under registered. An age breakdown of Negro voters indicate that a very crucial, strategic, but under registered group is the young Negro male.

2. The Governor's Race: The total vote cast in the Governor's race in Fulton County was 102,988, which is 44 per cent of total registered voters. We estimate that 72,722 or 43.8 per cent of the white registered voters, and 30,266 or 44.7 per cent of the Negro registered voters participated in this bracket.

   a. Arnall's Vote in Fulton County was 46,630 or 45.3 per cent of all votes cast for governor. We estimate that 27,678 of this total, or 59.4 per cent, came from Negro votes, while only 18,952, or 40.6 per cent came from whites. We further estimate that Arnall received 91.4 per cent of the Negro vote and 26 per cent of the white vote.

   b. Carter's Vote in Fulton County was 23,159 or 22.5 per cent of votes cast in this bracket. Of this total, we estimate that 1,326, or about 5.8 per cent of his votes came from Negro voters. Of the Negroes who voted in the Governor's race, we estimate that only about 4.5 per cent voted for Carter. On the other hand, Carter received 21,815 or 28.06 per cent of the white vote which represented 94.2 per cent of his total.

   c. Maddox Vote in Fulton County totaled 19,505, or 19 per cent of the vote cast. We doubt very seriously whether many of the 70 or more votes cast for him in predominantly Negro precincts actually came from Negroes, since a few whites are located in these areas also. We feel rather confident in estimating that less than two-tenths of one per cent of the Negroes who voted in the governor's race voted for Maddox. An interesting note about Maddox vote in Fulton County is that he received more white votes (19,435) or 26.7 per cent than Arnall (18,952) or 26 per cent.

   d. Gray's Vote in Fulton County was 9,188 or 9.04 per cent of the total. We estimate that about 192, or 2 per cent, came from Negro voters. But as in the case of Maddox above, we believe that this estimate could well be over that of the actual number of Negroes who voted for Gray. On the other hand, we estimate that he received 9,100 or 11.5 per cent of the white vote.

   e. Byrd's Vote in Fulton County was 3,295. Of this total, we estimate about 932, or 28 per cent, came from Negro voters. The per cent of Negroes who voted for Byrd was about 3.7 per cent of all Negroes who voted in the Governor's race. The 2,363 white votes he received represented about 3 per cent of the white who voted in the Governor's race.

   f. O'Kelley's Vote in Fulton County was 1,211, of which we believe less than 50 came from Negro voters.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor's Race: The total vote cast for this office in Fulton County was 94,617, or 40.4 per cent of the registered voters. This means that 8,371 more people voted in the governor's race than the Lt. Governor's. Of citizens voting for Lt. Governor, we estimate that 70,715, or 42.6 per cent of the white registered voters participated. On the other hand, we estimate that 23,902, or 35.2 per cent of the total Negro registered voters in Fulton County voted in this race. This means that 6,364, or 9.5 per cent fewer Negroes voted for Lt. Governor's than for Governor!

a. Smith's Vote in Fulton County was 59,034 or 62.4 per cent of all votes cast for this office. We estimate that Smith received 19,020 Negro votes. This represents nearly 80 per cent of all Negroes voting in this race and about 32.2 per cent of his total vote. There were 40,014 or 56.6 per cent of the whites voting for Smith .

b. Geer's Vote in Fulton County was 29,939 or 31.6 per cent of the total cast for this office. We estimate that Geer received 4,218, or about 14 per cent of his vote came from Negroes, and that about 17 per cent of Negroes who voted cast their ballots for Geer.

c. Bedgood's Vote in Fulton County was 5,644 or 6 per cent of the total. In addition to receiving far fewer votes than the other two candidates for office of Lt. Governor, Bedgood received fewer votes from Negroes as a per cent of his total vote than the other two candidates. We estimate that Bedgood received about 664 votes from Negroes, which is about 13 per cent of his total vote. We suggest that less than 3 per cent of the Negroes voting in this election voted for Bedgood.

A RUSH REPORT OF THE DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY RUN-OFF ELECTION OF FULTON COUNTY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1966. BY PROFESSORS CLARENCE A. BACOTE AND JAMES E. CONYERS. ATLANTA UNIVERSITY

The total registration in Fulton County as of July 25, 1966 was 233,932, of which 166,037, or 71 per cent, were whites, and 67,895, or 29 per cent were Negroes. This analysis is based on the election returns from the 15 predominantly Negro precincts listed in the table. These precincts have 50.18 per cent, or one - half of the total Negro registration in Fulton County. The number ~~of votes~~ a vote cast in these precincts was multiplied by 2 in order to determine the total Negro vote received by each candidate in the County.

1. The Governor's Race- the total vote cast in the run-off between Arnall and Maddox was 123,523. This figure represents 52.8 per cent of the total registered voters in Fulton County - of this total about 79,573 (which represents 47.9 per cent of white registered voters) were whites, and approximately 44,000 (which represents 64.8 per cent of Negro registered voters) were Negroes. ~~In contrast to the election of September 28 run-off election.~~

   A. Total Votes Cast for Arnall in Fulton County was 80,278, or 64.9 per cent of all votes cast for the office of governor. We estimate that 36,452, or about 45.4 per cent of this total, came from white votes, whereas 43,826, or about 54.6 per cent, came from Negroes. But whereas Arnall received practically 100 per cent of the Negro vote, he only ~~garned~~ got 45.8 per cent of the white vote.

   B. Total Votes Cast for Maddox in Fulton County was 43,295. This is 35.1 per cent of all votes cast for this office. We estimate that 100 per cent of this vote came from whites. Again, as in the September 14 race, Maddox got more white votes in Fulton County than Arnall. It was the Negro vote that made Arnall carry Fulton County.

2. Lt. Governor's Race - the total vote cast in this run-off election was 120,059. This figure represents 51.3 per cent of all registered voters in Fulton County. In this race, 79,231 white (which is 47.7 per cent of the total white registrants), and 40,828 Negroes (which is 60.1 per cent of Negro registrants) voted.

   A. Total Votes Cast for Geer in Fulton County was 32,359 (27 per cent of the total votes) of which we estimate that 29,437, or 91 per cent, came from white votes, and about 2922, or 9 per cent, from Negro votes. The Negro vote here probably is an overestimate by at least 1.0 per cent. Geer received approximately 7.1 per cent of the Negro vote.

   B. Total Votes Cast for Smith in Fulton County was 87,700, or 73 per cent of all votes cast in this bracket. We estimate that 49,794 or 56.8 per cent of his total came from white votes, leaving 37,906 or about 43.2 per cent, coming from Negroes. This means that Smith got about 62.8 per cent of the white vote, and 93 per cent of the Negro vote.

3. The Felton-Turner Race for the Ga. House of Representatives (at large). The total vote cast in this run-off election was 98,590, which represents 42.0 per cent of the total registered voters in Fulton County. We estimate that about 71,318 whites voted in this election, which is about 43.0 per cent of registered white voters in Fulton County. The Negro vote in this election is estimated to be about 27,272, or approximately 40.0 per cent of the Negro registered voters in Fulton County.

   A. Felton's total vote was 49,268, or 49.97 per cent of the total votes cast in this election. Of this total, we estimate that about 39,460, or about 80.0 per cent came from whites, whereas about 9,800, or 20.0 per cent came from Negroes. Mr. Felton received about 55.0 per cent of the total white votes cast in this election.

B. Turner's total vote was 49,322, or 50.03 per cent of the total votes cast in this election. Of this total, we estimate that about 31,858, or about 65.0 per cent came from whites, while 17,464, or about 35.0 came from Negroes. Mr. Turner received about 45.0 per cent of total white votes cast in this election, and about 65.0 per cent of the total Negro votes cast in this election. We might add that this legislative race is the only race under analysis which has shown some variability in the voting patterns of the Negroes. We suspect that this was due to a lack of consistent or unamious endorsement by Negro leaders, as well as a lack of any clear cut objection to the candidates Mr. Turner and Mr. Felton.

VOTER REGISTRATION IN THE SOUTH

SUMMER, 1967

STATE	WHITE VAP*	NEGRO VAP*	WHITE REGISTERED	% WHITE VAP REGISTERED	NEGRO REGISTERED	% NEGRO VAP REGISTERED
ALABAMA	1,353,058	481,320	1,211,000	89.5	255,000	53.1
ARKANSAS	850,643	192,626	616,000	72.4	121,000	62.8
FLORIDA	2,617,438	470,261	2,169,000	82.8	304,000	64.6
GEORGIA	1,797,062	612,910	1,450,000	80.6	334,000	54.5
LOUISIANA	1,289,216	514,589	1,130,000	87.6	273,000	53.2
MISSISSIPPI	748,266	422,256	641,000	85.7	199,000	45.1
N. CAROLINA	2,005,955	550,929	1,603,000	79.9	277,000	50.3
S. CAROLINA	895,147	371,104	730,000	81.6	189,000	50.8
TENNESSEE	1,779,018	313,873	1,434,000	80.6	225,000	71.7
TEXAS	4,884,765	649,512	2,600,000	53.2	400,000	61.6
VIRGINIA	1,876,167	436,720	1,190,000	63.4	243,000	55.6
TOTAL	20,096,735	5,016,100	14,774,000	73.5	2,820,000	56.2

*VAP= Voting age population

1968 PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION RESULTS

BY PERCENTAGE

State	Nixon	Humphrey	Wallace
Alabama	14.2	19.7	66.1
Arkansas	30.8	30.3	38.9
Florida	39.6	31.5	28.9
Georgia	30.2	26.9	42.9
Louisiana	23.3	28.5	48.2
Mississippi	13.9	22.9	63.2
North Carolina	39.5	29.2	31.3
South Carolina	38.9	29.4	31.7
Tennessee	37.7	28.3	34.0
Texas	38.0	39.3	22.7
Virginia	43.3	32.8	23.9

EXPLANATION AND DIGEST
of the
1966 KENTUCKY CIVIL RIGHTS ACT covering EMPLOYMENT
and
PUBLIC ACCOMMODATIONS

ENACTED JANUARY 27, 1966

EFFECTIVE JULY 1, 1966

INDEX

INTRODUCTION 1

Purpose of the Act 2

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY 2

Coverage 2

Equal Treatment Based on Individual Merit 3

Reasonable Provisions for Exemptions 3

PUBLIC ACCOMMODATIONS PROVISIONS 3

IMPLEMENTATION AND ENFORCEMENT 4

Persuasion the Key to Compliance 4

Advantages of Commission Procedures 5

Protection of Employer's and Complainant's Rights 6

Avoidance of Record Keeping Burdens 7

Procedures for Subpoenas 7

LOCAL HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSIONS 8

MISCELLANEOUS 8

INTRODUCTION

Among the first considerations of the 1966 Kentucky General Assembly was a civil rights Act, with coverage in the areas of public accommodations and employment. This Act had the support of the Governor of Kentucky, the bi-partisan support of legislators around the State, the editorial support of leading Kentucky newspapers, and the support of individuals and groups recognizing the moral necessity for state civil rights legislation. This digest is written to help individual citizens become acquainted with the major facets of the civil rights Act.

The Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 emphasizes that its enforcement should be through state agencies which function under state laws compatible with the federal statute. When the state assumes its responsibility for the protection of the rights of its citizens, federal enforcement of the Civil Rights Act becomes unnecessary.

The Kentucky Civil Rights Act will meet the requirements of the Federal Law and will provide more sensitive, more efficient, and less remote enforcement procedures than the federal law. This act uses as a model the Uniform State Civil Rights Act which is being drafted by a special committee of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. This group is composed of outstanding judges, lawyers, and law professors from all sections of the United States including the South.

While the heart of the bill is contained in the three articles covering public accommodations, fair employment practices, and enforcement; there are seven articles in the bill as follows:

1. Declaration of Purpose; Construction; Severability
2. General Definitions
3. Discrimination in Employment
4. Discrimination in Public Accommodations
5. Enforcement; Judicial Review
6. Miscellaneous
7. Local Human Rights Commissions

Purpose of the Act

The purpose of this Act is to safeguard all individuals within the state from discrimination because of race, color, religion, and national origin in connection with employment and public accommodations. Discrimination is a matter of state concern because it involves an individual's personal dignity and freedom from humiliation. Such discrimination deprives the state of the full productive capacities of individuals, foments strife and unrest, menaces the democratic institutions of the state, and damages the interests, rights, and privileges of all persons within the state.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

Equal access to employment opportunities is the greatest need of minority persons today. Persons who are unemployed or under-utilized because of their race, color, religion, or national origin do not have the opportunity to contribute their full productive capacities toward a better life for themselves, their families, and for the whole society. Discrimination in employment practices is a continuing problem in Kentucky and is a problem which a Kentucky fair employment practices law can help remedy. Certainly, the continuation of Kentucky's business and industrial growth without racial friction is one reason for passage of the Act.

Coverage

Employment discrimination is covered by article three of the Act. Basically Sections 302 through 306 state that race, color, religion, and national origin are not lawful criteria for making employment decisions. Like the Federal Law, employers, employment agencies, and labor organizations will be covered by the Act. Employers hiring 8 or more employees within the State in each of twenty or more weeks in the calendar year will be covered. Thus, 80% of Kentucky's employees and 22% of employers will be covered.

The smaller employees of the state will not be covered by the Act. Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 will cover employers hiring 25 or more employees, to be fully effective in 1968. This would exclude most of Kentucky's employers (93%) and a very large percentage of Kentucky employees (40%). Kentucky should act to protect as many employees from discrimination as possible.

Equal Treatment Based on Individual Merit

It is made clear in the Act that an employer can use seniority and merit systems and can make employment decisions on the basis of professionally developed ability tests. One section makes its doubly clear that nothing in the Act requires preferential treatment for any person or group; all that is required is equality of treatment based on individual merit.

Reasonable Provisions for Exemptions

Religious institutions, including church related or supported educational institutions, will be able to exercise a religious preference in choosing their employees where religion is a reasonable occupational qualification. However, race, color, and national origin will not be considered valid qualifications in these cases.

Similar provisions allow the exercise of preferences based on religion or national origin for an employer, employment agency, or labor organization where such qualifications are reasonably necessary to the normal operation of the enterprise.

PUBLIC ACCOMMODATIONS PROVISIONS

The Kentucky Act will apply generally to places of public accommodation which serve the public. Its clear coverage will be fair to proprietors because it will apply equally to all businesses. This Uniform rule will help to eliminate anxiety and avoid incidents.

With certain exceptions it will cover places of public accommodation, including ". . . any place, store or other establishment, either licensed or unlicensed which supplies goods or services to the general public or which is supported directly or indirectly by government funds."

In Title II of the Federal Act of 1964, services, places of active amusement and recreational facilities such as bowling alleys, skating rinks, and driving ranges are not all covered. Under the state Act, these loopholes will be eliminated.

Experience with state public accommodations laws has shown that it is best to word coverage provisions in general terms. Earlier laws contained detailed lists of the kinds of covered establishments. No list can possibly name all of the changing forms of enterprise created by American business ingenuity. As a result, the detailed coverage sections have required frequent amendments.

Chapter Four of the Kentucky Act covers discrimination in places of public accommodation. The places which are required not to discriminate are defined in Section 402 (a). Exceptions are made in Section 402 (a) for barber shops, beauty shops, owner occupied tourist homes of 5 rooms or less, and bona fide private clubs (where policies are actually determined by members and admission is limited to members and their guests). These exemptions are provided in the light of practical, political conditions in Kentucky today and are similar to those in the Federal Act.

IMPLEMENTATION AND EMFORCEMENT

Persuasion the Key to Compliance

The legislation will emphasize efforts at persuasion and conciliation by the Commission on Human Rights. Only where these methods failed will the Commission be required to hold hearings. The whole enforcement procedure in Article 5 is based on the best available methods followed by other state agencies. Many of the procedures are taken from the Model State Administrative Procedure Act.

The duties and obligations of the Commission are spelled out in detail in Section 502. The procedure for complaint, investigation, and conciliation is covered in Section 503. Section 502 (a) states who may file a complaint and sets a limit of six months within which a complaint must be filed. Employment complaints have an even shorter time limit of 90 days.

Upon receiving a complaint, the Commission will conduct a preliminary investigation to determine if there is probable cause to believe that an unlawful discrimination has occurred. If probable cause is found, the Commission must proceed to encourage complaince by conference, conciliation, and persuasion.

Experience has shown that conciliation activities effectively settle nearly all cases. If these efforts fail, the Commission would serve a complaint upon the respondent (Section 504), hold a hearing, and subpoena witnesses and documents. All hearings are to be conducted in accordance with strict procedures specified by the Act.

Advantages of Commission Procedures

Based on experience in other states most of the Commission's work will continue to be devoted to educational efforts to encourage voluntary compliance. The Commission would facilitate smooth change by sharing with employers and proprietors the wide-spread experience of other Kentucky businessmen who have successfully desegregated. When complaints are filed, the preliminary investigations under the Act can help screen out baseless charges and protect businessmen from harassment, and from unjustified legal defenses. When the complaint is justified, a mandatory conference, conciliation and persuasion procedure must be followed. The conciliation efforts are strictly confidential, and the vast majority of complaints are settled at this stage without publicity.

Kentuckians who are familiar with problems throughout the State make up the Commission. They have been working for five years to encourage voluntary equal treatment and have built up a large body of experience in these matters. Four Commission members, including the Chairman, are to be appointed by the Governor in 1966, and the bill provides new language to insure bi-partisan representation of employers, proprietors, trade unions, religious groups, human rights groups, and the general public.

Protection of Employer's and Complainant's Rights

A member of the Commission who filed a complaint or who endeavored to eliminate the alleged discrimination will be barred from participating in a hearing or subsequent deliberation in that case (Section 504 b). This separation between the investigative and hearing functions of the Commission will assure the fairness of the procedure. After hearing, the Commission could issue a cease and desist order upon a finding that the law had been violated. The final orders of the Commission could be reviewed and enforced in the local circuit courts.

If, on the other hand, the Commission staff determines after investigation that there was no probable cause, then the complaint will be dismissed (Section 503 b and c). The complainant has a right to appeal this decision to the full Commission and to appeal a decision of the Commission to the courts. Safeguards to protect the rights of employers and complainants from arbitrary action by the Commission at any stage of the process are included in Section 507. The availability of judicial review is an integral part of the process and is available to any party who feels that he has been aggrieved by a decision of the Commission.

Avoidance of Record Keeping Burdens

To avoid undue burdens on persons subject to the Act, Section 508 (e) provides that necessary information keeping will conform to similar records and reports already required by federal law and government contract regulations. For the purpose of uniformity and in the interest of multi-state employers, the state could adopt the regulations of the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission on this matter. A public hearing must precede adoption of such regulations. Under Section 508 (d) an employer who believed the provisions would result in "undue hardship" could ask the Commission for relief or bring an action in circuit court.

Procedures for Subpoenas

The Act provides subpoena procedures for the Commission in Section 502 (i) and upon application to parties to a Commission hearing in Section 509. Subpoenas are necessary to enable all parties to present their evidence. All the normal judicial safeguards surround this process. Careful limits on relevancy are written into the Act. Before a court would enforce a subpoena the Commission would have to prove that the witnesses or documents sought pertain to possible unlawful discriminatory practices. Thus, general fishing expeditions can not be made. In Kentucky, other state commissions which exercise similar functions, (such as the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, the Board of Agriculture, and the Department of Health), can issue subpoenas and they have proven necessary.

Article 6 makes retaliation and conspiracy to retaliate against anyone exercising rights guaranteed by this Act an unlawful practice punishable by a fine and/or imprisonment. The Act as a whole provides for civil remedies and this sanction is only for situations where a person is not otherwise covered.

LOCAL HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSIONS

All levels of government have an obligation to protect their citizens from the evils of discrimination. The Civil Rights Act of 1964 and this Act provide for local implementation of non-discrimination policies where local agencies have sufficient enforcement power and staff for good faith implementation.

Enabling legislation for the highly desirable local efforts to eliminate discrimination is provided in Article 7. It will supplement the Act passed by the General Assembly in 1962 to encourage establishment of local human rights commissions and permit local governing bodies to give them additional duties. Counties will be authorized to create commissions and cities and counties could then legally cooperate to eliminate discriminatory practices. Cities and counties could pass ordinances which will be enforceable in circuit courts of the state. Before the Act, a city could only use criminal sanctions in police courts.

MISCELLANEOUS

The Act contains several features which experience in other states has shown to be significant. The employment section applies to "the State, any of its political or civil subdivisions or agencies;" (Section 201). Discriminatory advertising is prohibited in employment, (Section 306) and in public accommodations (Section 403). Commission members can initiate complaints under the provisions of Section 502 (h) and 503 (a). The Commission can provide by regulation for the posting of notices regarding coverage of the Act, Section 502 (n). Efforts to weaken the Act by requiring a trial de novo, and a showing of "intentional" discrimination were not successful.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY

Edward T. Breathitt, Governor

COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS

Chairman
The Very Reverend Robert W. Estill
Louisville

MEMBERS

William F. Billingsley,
South Fort Mitchell
Mrs. Dann C. Byck,
Louisville
Robert M. Coleman,
Hopkinsville
Thomas Francis,
Henderson, Kentucky
Mrs. Paul L. Kraus,
Bardstown

Paul Oberst,
Lexington
Mrs. Warren P. Rash,
Middlesboro
Frank L. Stanley, Sr.,
Louisville
Charles T. Steele,
Louisville
David O. Welch,
Ashland

STAFF

Galen Martin, Executive Director

James C. Hickey,
Assistant Director
Pierre W. Jackson,
Assistant Director

Archie E. Allen,
Field Representative
Henry C. Tribble,
Field Representative

The 1960 General Assembly created the Commission and directed it, among its other powers and duties, to recommend ways of eliminating injustices occasioned by discrimination. On the basis of its five years of efforts to eliminate discrimination by voluntary methods, the Commission recommended the enactment of a public accommodations and employment law. This digest seeks to explain that law.

COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS
COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY
172 Capitol Annex Building
Frankfort, Kentucky

BULK RATE
U. S. POSTAGE
2 7/8¢ PAID
Frankfort, Ky.
Permit No. 177

BEREA COLLEGE • BEREA • KENTUCKY 40403
Department of Philosophy & Religion

March 21, 1966

Rec'd 3/23/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sam:

Enclosed is my memorandum on public policy and racial minorities.

I make the following suggestions, for what they are worth, in order of importance.

a) Because I am not a professional in the areas of public policy, civil rights, and state and local government, I strongly urge that you submit this memorandum (or relevant portions to the relevant people) to such professionals when you and the other specialists, in research and elsewhere, at SRC finish with it. Facts, and interpretations of those facts, are especially important to be checked out. I would be especially pleased if the Research staff at SRC would fill in specific details, such as statistics, charts, etc., which it seems to me would enhance the argument.

b) In that regard, it seems to me that the most important part of this memorandum is the fact that it is an effort to try to see the problem of minority assimilation in the South, complex as it is, in a total context and to direct a series of coordinated public policy proposals to that total context. The chief virtue in the memorandum, therefore, is to call attention to the integral and interrelated character of the problems of minority assimilation, and to tentatively, at least, suggest an integral and interrelated public policy to meet these problems. Hence, the professionals and specialists should not be too detailed in their specific recommendations, and not too picayunish in their objections to the synoptic character of the memorandum, which inevitably means generalization and lack of balance.

c) I have not submitted drafts to such professionals or specialists, but I have talked with a couple of them about the project and the recommendations as a whole, and they support the argument I have tried to summarize in paragraph b) above. I have let several people who have been involved in problems of integration in the South for a number of years as protagonists (white and Negro) see drafts, and I have incorporated a number of their suggestions in the memorandum.

d) I am not pleased at the precision with which I have stated the recommended policies at a number of places, but I feel sure this is due to the fact that I am not a professional, and welcome all efforts at improving the precision of the memorandum. The same is true for my lack of detailed knowledge and information about state government and public administration. No amount of time and study by me can overcome this handicap, which is a further reason for submission to additional specialists inside and outside SRC.

e) Related to this is my lack of enthusiasm with the phrase "minority assimilation." I hope you will feel free to employ alternatives.

f) The description on the title page is taken from Les Dunbar's letter describing the project to me.

I hope things are well with you.

Sincerely,

Jim

James Y. Holloway

Enclosures: Holloway's Report
Form for noting date selection
"Explanation + Digest of the 1966 Kentucky Civil Rights Act Covering Employment + Public Accommodations" mailed separately 4/1/66

March 31, 1966

Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director
The Field Foundation
250 Park Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Les:

We have received Jim Holloway's manuscript on state public policy and racial minorities, a subject of vital interest and importance to you and to us here. If you can find time to write your reactions and critical insights on any part of the subject -- whether covered or not covered in the report -- we would be happy.

Les, I hope you will do this within the next two weeks because we wish to schedule a work conference in the near future to further develop recommendations for the kind of program covered in Mr. Holloway's report. Your comments will be helpful.

We also look forward to having you attend the work conference to help us fashion program and policy guidelines that will have great value to the region. Needless to say should you attend it would be at our expense. In this connection, please number on the enclosed form in order of your preference, dates on which you might come to Atlanta for this purpose.

An immediate answer on the dates you are available will be helpful. Meanwhile, please keep as many of these as you can open until we have had a chance to determine the time most convenient to those we are inviting.

Sincerely,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js
Enclosures- 2.

COPY

PLEASE CHECK AND RETURN:

Sunday, May 1	_____	Thursday, May 5	_____
Monday, May 2	_____	Friday, May 6	_____
Tuesday, May 3	_____	Saturday, May 7	_____
Wednesday, May 4	_____	Other preferred date	_____

Attached letter also sent to the following:

	Acknowledgments
Mr. Donald Strong University of Alabama Tuscaloosa, Alabama	4/5/66
Mr. Elliott H. Levitas Attorney at Law Fulton Federal Bldg. Atlanta, Georgia	_____
Mr. Frank Smith, Director Tennessee Valley Authority Knoxville, Tennessee	4/4/66
Mr. Edward E. Haddock 1133 West Franklin St. Richmond 20, Virginia	_____
Dr. Samuel DuBois Cook 736 Beckwith Street, SW Atlanta, Georgia	5/2/66
Les	5/2/66

Rec'd 4/4/66

PLEASE CHECK AND RETURN:

Sunday, May 1		Thursday, May 5	✓
Monday, May 2	✓	Friday, May 6
Tuesday, May 3	✓	Saturday, May 7
Wednesday, May 4		Other preferred date

Frank Smith

Frank E. Smith
Tennessee Valley Authority
405 New Sprankle Building
Knoxville, Tennessee 37902

Rec'd 4/3/64

PLEASE CHECK AND RETURN:

Sunday, May 1		Thursday, May 5	2
Monday, May 2	out	Friday, May 6	1
Tuesday, May 3		Saturday, May 7
Wednesday, May 4	3	Other preferred date

Donald J. Strong
U. of Ala

THE FIELD FOUNDATION, INC.
250 PARK AVENUE
NEW YORK 17

April 28, 1966

Rec'd 5/2/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams, Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Sam:

I finally got around to reading the memo you sent me March 16 about Atlanta housing. I am returning it with some flyspecks. I don't know just how NCDH will be using it, but it seems to me a very promising beginning. What I am missing in it particularly is fulfillment of the promise made when on page three you speak of "field trips to hard-core poverty pockets". Why could not there be in the report some indication of what was found?

I assume Paul has given you my message about the Holloway report. I do not see why you have to wait on me. As I said to Paul, I have reluctantly decided both in regard to this matter and some other things as well, it would be irresponsible of me to commit myself to anything for mid-June.

All good wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

ATLANTA UNIVERSITY
ATLANTA 14, GEORGIA

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

April 30, 1966

Rec'd 5/2/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sam:

Please forgive my long delay in responding to your letter concerning Mr. Holloway's manuscript. Perhaps you will understand that, in spite of my sabbatical leave, I seem to be running more than ever.

I am quite impressed by the report and its emphasis--initiative and positive action.

I think, though, that the author is a bit weak on the matter of housing. A strong "open occupancy" law is, I am convinced, an urgent necessity.

All good wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Sam

Samuel DuBois Cook

MEMBER UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND FOUNDED 1944

PLEASE CHECK AND RETURN:

Sunday, May 1	_____	Thursday, May 5	1
Monday, May 2	_____	Friday, May 6	2
Tuesday, May 3	_____	Saturday, May 7	3
Wednesday, May 4	_____	Other preferred date	_____

May 4, 1966

Dr. James Y. Holloway
Berea College
Berea, Kentucky

Dear Jim:

We are sending letters to some key persons inviting them to attend a conference here to develop further our state governmental policies study. We also would like to have you attend.

Present plans are to hold the working sessions in the offices of Southern Regional Council, 5 Forsyth Street, Atlanta, Georgia. Needless to say, the Council will pay the transportation and per diem expenses of conferees. The conference will begin at 10 a. m. and will end in time for those who wish to take an evening flight home to do so.

For persons who plan to stay in Atlanta overnight or over the weekend of June 17, it is advisable to make early hotel reservations because the city might be crowded with baseball fans. The Atlanta Braves will be beginning a weekend of home games at that time against Pittsburgh.

Please return the enclosed self-addressed card so we may know of your plans.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

Enclosure - 1.

May 4, 1966

Mr. John Ehle
104 Cascade Avenue
Winston-Salem, North Carolina

Dear Mr. Ehle:

The Southern Regional Council, Inc., is calling upon a few of the nation's best political minds to help develop a blueprint which might prove beneficial to state and local government administrators seeking to effect progressive state policies and programs. You are among a dozen leading politicians and political scientists we would like to have attend a working conference for this purpose. The one-day session will be Friday, June 17, 1966. Please mark your calendar if you will be available.

The document resulting from the conference will be a dequel to the Federal Executive, an earlier SRC report found to be extremely useful to federal policy-makers during the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. The current study and report will deal specifically with policies and programs for the assimilation of racial minorities into the mainstream of American life.

Present plans are to hold the working sessions in the offices of Southern Regional Council, 5 Forsyth Street, Atlanta, Georgia. Needless to say, the Council will pay the transportation and per diem expenses of conferees. The conference will begin at 10 a. m. and will end in time for those who wish to take an evening flight home to do so.

For persons who plan to stay in Atlanta overnight or over the weekend of June 17, it is advisable to make early hotel reservations because the city might be crowded with baseball fans. The Atlanta Braves will be beginning a weekend of home games at that time against Pittsburgh.

As background for the conference, Dr. James Y. Holloway of Berea (Kentucky) College, has prepared a 60-page working paper, the result of several months of research. We will send you a copy of the paper as soon as we learn whether you are available for the conference. If you have a prior commitment but are willing to review the papers and react independently, we will send you a copy.

Please return the enclosed self-addressed card so we may know of your plans.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

Enclosure - 1.

Similar letters sent to the names on attached list.

LIST OF INVITEES TO JUNE 17, 1966 WORKING CONFERENCE:

Mr. Donald Strong
University of Alabama
Tuscaloosa, Alabama _____

Mr. Elliott H. Levitas
Attorney at Law
Fulton Federal Bldg.
Atlanta, Georgia _____

Mr. Edward Haddock
1133 W. Franklin St.
Richmond 20, Va. _____

Mr. Frank Smith, Dir.
Tennessee Valley Auth.
Knoxville, Tenn. _____

Dr. James Y. Holloway
Berea College
Berea, Kentucky _____

Mr. John Ehle
104 C scade Avenue
Winston-Salem, NC _____

Dr. Paul Gaston
Professor of History
U. of Virginia
Charlottesville, Va. _____

Mr. McNeill Smith
Attorney at Law
700 Jefferson St. Bldg.
Greensboro, N. C. _____

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Exe. Vice Pres.
Potomac Institute
1501 18th St., NW
Washington, D. C. _____

The Hon. Horace Ward
859½ Hunter St., NW
Atlanta, Georgia _____

Dr. Samuel DuBois Cook
736 Beckwith St., SW
Atlanta, Ga. _____

Mr. Randolph T. Blackwell
SCLC
334 Auburn Avenue, NE
Atlanta, Ga. _____

Mr. James Youngdahl
~~The Power Bldg.~~
711 W. 3rd St.
Little Rock, Arkansas 72201 _____

Mr. Russell Sugarman
Attorney at Law
588 Vance Avenue
Memphis, Tennessee _____

Mr. Baxton Bryant
Tennessee CHR
1106 19th Avenue So.
Nashville, Tennessee _____

Mr. Gordon Henderson
Adm. Asst. to Gov. of Arizona
State Capitol
Phoenix, Arizona _____

The Hon. Herman Goldner
Mayor of St. Petersburg
Florida; chairman of Conference of Mayors _____

Mr. Joel Fleishman
Yale University
2015 Yale Station
New Haven, Conn.
06520 _____

Mr. Donald Baldwin
Exe. Editor
St. Petersburg Times
& Evening Independent
St. Petersburg, Fla. _____

Mr. Ralph McGill
Publisher
The Atl. Const.
10 Forsyth St., NW
Atlanta, Ga. 30303 _____

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Can attend _____

Can't attend _____

Will review paper _____

TOTAL _____

BEREA COLLEGE • BEREA • KENTUCKY • 40403

JAMES Y. HOLLOWAY
BOX 936 COLLEGE STATION

May 11, 1966

Rec'd 5/13/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Sam:

I have delayed a response to your letter of May 4 letting me know the date of a conference you have scheduled on state governmental policies in order to look at the situation here. The fact is, that is a particularly bad time at the College because it is the first week of the abbreviated summer session which involves both extended daily sessions and Saturday classes.

Hence, I do not believe that I will be able to make it, but if the possibility develops, I shall let you know.

Sincerely,

James Y. Holloway

cc. Mr. Paul Anthony

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY
KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE 37902

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

May 13, 1966

Rec'd 5/16/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Sam:

I am sorry I am going to be out most of the month of June and will not be available for the meeting on June 17. I hope to send you some comments about Dr. Holloway's paper within a few days. I have some reservations about some of his premises.

Cordially,

Frank Smith

Frank E. Smith

Keep Freedom in Your Future With U.S. Savings Bonds

NOTE: Mr. Esser was written upon the recommendation of Mr. John Ehle, who will be unable to attend the conference.
js

May 13, 1966

Mr. George Esser
P. O. Box 687
Durham, North Carolina

Dear Mr. Esser:

The Southern Regional Council, Inc., is calling upon a few of the nation's best political minds to help develop a blueprint which might prove beneficial to state and local government administrators seeking to effect progressive state policies and programs. You have been recommended to us, and we would like for you go attend a working conference for this purpose. The one-day session will be Friday, June 17, 1966. Please mark you calendar if you will be available.

The document resulting from the conference will be a sequel to the Federal Executive, an earlier SRC report found to be extremely heeful to federal policy-makers during the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. The current study and report will deal specifically with policies and programs for the assimilation of racial minorities into the mainstream of American life.

Present plans are to hold the working sessions in the office of Southern Regional Council, 5 Forsyth Street, Atlanta, Georgia. Needless to say, the Council will pay the transportation and per diem expenses of conferees. The conference will begin at 10 a. m. and will end in time for those who wish to take an evening flight home to do so.

For persons who plan to stay in Atlanta overnight or over the weekend of June 17, it is advisable to make early hotel reservations because the city might be crowded with baseball fans. The Atlanta Braves will be beginning a weekend of home games at that time against Pittsburgh.

As background for the conference, Dr. James Y. Holloway of Berea (Kentucky) College, has prepared a 60-page working paper, the result of several months of research. We will send you a copy of the paper as soon as we learn whether you are available for the conference. If you have a prior commitment but are willing to review the papers and react independently, we will send you a copy.

Please return the enclosed self-addressed card so we may know of your plans.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

Enclosure - 1.

May 20, 1966

Mr. McNeill Smith
Attorney at Law
700 Jefferson Street Bldg.
Greensboro, North Carolina

Dear Mr. Smith:

Thank you for the response to our letter of May 4. We are happy that you will be able to join us for the working conference on June 17, and hope that nothing will come up that will make it necessary to change your plans.

The working paper is being forwarded to you under separate cover, and you should be in receipt of it very soon.

As per your request, I have reserved a single room for you at the Dinkler Motor Hotel located at 98 Forsyth Street, N. W. They expect your late arrival on the night of the 16th.

Looking forward to seeing you at the conference, I remain,

Very truly yours,

(Mrs.) Janet C. Shortt
Secretary to Mr. Adams

jcs

NORTH CAROLINA FUND OPPORTUNITY

GEORGE H. ESSER, JR.
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

THE NORTH CAROLINA FUND
POST OFFICE BOX 687 DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA 27702 PHONE 682-5785

May 23, 1966

Rec'd 5/25/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Adams:

I very much regret that I am going to be out of the country at the time of your conference on June 17 on state and local government. This is a subject of deep interest to me, and I would be very pleased to review the working paper and send you my reactions soon after my return.

Sincerely yours,

George H. Esser, Jr.
(ARW)

George H. Esser, Jr.
Executive Director

GHEJr:jcm

Similar letters also sent to: George Esser, Russell Sugarman, Donald Baldwin, Ralph McGill.

Elliott Levitas, Horace Ward will be called by SA.

May 24, 1966

Mr. Donald Strong
University of Alabama
Tuscaloosa, Alabama

Dear Mr. Strong:

We have sent you the background paper on public policy and minorities which we hope you will have time to reflect on prior to attending our working conference June 17, 1966, in Atlanta. Because we have not received any contrary indication from you, we are assuming you will be able to attend and have listed you as a tentative conferee. The list of those expected either to attend or to review the background paper independently is attached.

For those who will be visiting our office for the first time, the following information is provided.

Airport limousines which come to the Dinkler Hotel in downtown Atlanta will bring you within two blocks of our office. We occupy the fifth floor of 5 Forsyth Street, N. W., across from the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

Persons driving will find inside parking across the street from the office. The railroad stations and bus stations also are within close proximity to the office.

The telephone number of SRC (522-8764) will be useful to anyone needing additional help.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js
Enclosure - 1.

Similar letters also sent to: George Esser, Russell Sugarman, Donald Baldwin, Ralph McGill.

Elliott Levitas, Horace Ward will be called by SA.

May 24, 1966

Mr. Harold C. Fleming
Executive Vice President
Potomac Institute
1501 18th Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Fleming:

We have sent you the background paper on public policy and minorities which we hope you will have time to reflect on prior to attending our working conference June 17, 1966, in Atlanta. Because we have not received any contrary indication from you, we are assuming you will be able to attend and have listed you as a tentative conferee. The list of those expected either to attend or to review the background paper independently is attached.

If you desire us to purchase your round trip ticket on this end, please advise us of the time you wish to leave and the time you would like to return.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js
Enclosure - 1.

May 24, 1966

MEMORANDUM

TO: THE STAFF

FROM: SAMUEL L. ADAMS

On June 17, 1966, Southern Regional Council, Inc., will be host to a Working Conference on Public Policy and Minorities. The day-long event will be in our conference room and about fifteen (15) guestsparticipants are expected.

Since all of SRC's programs relate to this subject, all project and department directors probably will want to attend. Certainly, all are invited. Some persons will be asked to assume special responsibilities. Janet Shortt will ask some smiling, outgoing ladies to work with her as hostesses.

The schedule will be:

9:00 a. m. to 10:00 a. m. - Social hour for early arrivals in Director's office.

(1st Session)

10:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon - Summary review and discussing of background paper. - Jack Fleishman

12:00 to 1:00 p. m. - lunch in office

1:00 p. m. to 4:00 p. m. - Analysis, changes, and development of policy statement.

4:00 p. m. to 4:15 p. m. - Break.

4:15 to 5:30 p. m. - Tying loose ends, discussion of methods of projecting and effecting program.

5:30 p. m. - Social hour.

SLA:js

St. Petersburg Times
AND
Evening Independent
ST. PETERSBURG, FLORIDA

DONALD K. BALDWIN
Executive Editor

May 26, 1966

Rec'd 5/27/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Adams:

I will be on vacation in June and therfore will be unable to attend your working conference.

We are delighted to see that you had won the Fellowship to Wisconsin. I will take care of extending your leave of absence.

Sincerely,

Don

Donald K. Baldwin

THE POTOMAC INSTITUTE, INC.
1501 Eighteenth Street, N.W. • Washington, D.C. 20036 • 332-5566

May 31, 1966

Rec'd 6/3/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Adams:

I am sorry that my more than usual involvements here have delayed my responding sooner to your invitation to attend the working conference on public policy on June 17.

As matters now stand, it does appear that I can attend, and I will read the background paper at the earliest opportunity.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Vice President

HCF:EMA

STEPHEN R. CURRIER, President
LLOYD K. GARRISON, Treasurer
JOHN G. SIMON, Secretary
PHILIP G. HAMMER, Director
BURKE MARSHALL, Director
ANDREW E. NORMAN, Director
HAROLD C. FLEMING, Executive Vice President
ARTHUR J. LEVIN, Staff Director

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA
COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES
UNIVERSITY, ALABAMA

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

Rec'd 6/3/66

June 1, 1966

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Adams:

I doubt that I shall receive this year's Southern Regional Council's award for prompt and gracious handling of my correspondence. Nonetheless, you are correct in assuming that I will attend. Please be assured that I appreciate the invitation.

I find myself generally in agreement with your well-written background paper, although I have the greatest difficulty imagining the Alabama Legislature concurring in many of the recommendations. However, I suppose that conflicts like this can be brought out in our discussions.

Very truly yours,

Donald S. Strong

Donald S. Strong
Professor

DSS/dp

Airmail

EDWARD E. HADDOCK, M. D.
1133 WEST FRANKLIN STREET
RICHMOND 20, VIRGINIA

June 6, 1966

Rec'd 6/8/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Dr. Adams:

I have just learned that I will be involved in connection with my daughter's graduation from college on Friday, June 17, the day I had promised to attend your conference in Atlanta. Please accept my regrets.

I am returning the printed matter you so thoughtfully forwarded to me in this connection.

My best wishes to you and your colleagues for a successful conference.

Sincerely yours,

Ed Haddock

Edward E. Haddock, M.D.

Encl.

EEH/ca

Note: Mr. Haddock had ret'd card earlier saying he could attend.

June 7, 1966

Dr. Paul M. Gaston
Corcoran Department of History
B-20 Cabell Hall
University of Virginia
Charlottesville, Virginia

Dear Dr. Gaston:

Thank you for your letter of June 6.

As per your request, I have reserved a single room for you at the Dinkler Motor Hotel, 98 Forsyth Street, N. W., located within two blocks of our office. They expect you to arrive on the evening of the 16th.

Looking forward to seeing you at the conference, I remain,

Very truly yours,

(Mrs.) Janet C. Shortt
Secretary to Mr. Adams

jcs

Janet — pls do SH

Corcoran Department of History
B-20 Cabell Hall
University of Virginia
Charlottesville

524-2461

6 June 66

Dear Sam:

I would greatly appreciate it if you would have your secretary reserve a single room for me at a hotel near SRC for the nights of June 16 and 17 — and have her drop me a note confirming the reservation.

I look forward to seeing you on the 17th

Yrs

Paul

PAUL M. GASTON

June 9, 1966

MEMORANDUM

To: Paul Anthony

FROM: Samuel L. Adams

Paul, shall we write a letter to Mr. Bryant advising him that his name was erroneously included among those we want to attend the conference, or shall I telephone him and explain?

js

June 10, 1966

Mr. Baxton Bryant, Director
Tennessee Council on Human Relations
1106 19th Avenue South
Nashville, Tennessee

Dear Mr. Bryant:

In the mad rush to get out the background paper on State Public Policies and Minorities and to set up a conference for several outside guests, we goofed by including you on the wrong list. The conference next week is intended purely for persons not connected with SRC or the state councils and whom we otherwise would not be able to talk to. Since we will be able to talk to you on your visits here as a state director, it would clearly be a waste of money to bring you here for the conference.

We do want the thinking of you and other members of our corps of state directors, as well as key members of the board. We intend for you to have a copy of the background paper to stimulate thinking in this area, and we expect to discuss the matter with you later. And, if time permits, we would appreciate written as well as oral responses from those who have received copies of the paper.

I am sorry we goofed, and I am sorry we are unable to justify the expense of bringing you here next week.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

St. Petersburg, Florida The Sunshine City—P. O. Box 2842

From the Office of the Mayor

June 10, 1966

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Adams:

I sincerely regret that the pressure of business will make it impossible for me to attend the working conference being held in Atlanta Friday, June 17.

I leave tomorrow for Dallas and will not return until late Wednesday night. I find that it will not be possible for me to catch up with the many matters that will be pending in the one day.

I appreciate the invitation to participate and am sorry it is not possible at this time.

Sincerely,

Herman W. Goldner

Herman W. Goldner
Mayor

HWG/jb

OK! Sam

June 13, 1966

MEMORANDUM 3:45 p. m.

TO: Ed Lewis

RE: Conference on State Public Policies and Minorities Luncheon

The official count on persons who will be in attendance for the conference and/or luncheon is 38. Since there is almost always too much food left over, 35 would be a good count to give the restaurateur.

Since the conference will last from 9 a. m. to after 5 p. m., a hot meal is preferred, although a "mixed" one would be acceptable -- with cookies provided for the afternoon break.

There will be extra coffee needed. Some extra should be bought beforehand so that Cordelia can have it made in the morning for early arrivals and the "Get Acquainted Hour" that is scheduled.

As of now, Mr. Hamburger has not returned the call made to him this morning. His telephone answering service number is 233-4155.

JSHORT

6/14/66
Note: Informed by E L this morning everything taken care of.
P.

6/13/66

Mr. Youngdahl:

As per your request, reservations have been made for you at the Dinkler Motor Hotel, 98 Forsyth Street, N. W., located within two blocks of our office.

They expect your late arrival on the night of the 16th.

Looking forward to meeting you at the conference, I remain

Very truly yours,

(Mrs.) Janet C. Shortt
Secretary to Mr. Adams

jcs

PS: You have single accommodations.

6/13/66

Mr. Pearce:

Mr. Adams asked me to send you the enclosed. It should serve to bring you up-to-date on the conference to be held in the SRC office June 17.

I hope that you have received your copy of the working paper by now. We mailed it to you on Friday.

Looking forward to meeting you, I remain,

Very truly yours,

(Mrs.) Janet C. Shortt
Secretary to Mr. Adams

jcs

Encl: Letter sent to individuals about conference.

June 14, 1966

Mr. James Y. Holloway
Berea College
Berea, Kentucky 40403

Dear Jim:

This letter comes on the last minute hope that you will be able to come to the conference on Friday, June 17. As you can see on the enclosed schedule, we have included you as one of the discussion leaders in case you can make it.

Also enclosed is a list of persons expected to attend.

If we can help you in any way with reservations, etc., don't hesitate to call.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

Encls. - 2.

June 14, 1966

Mr. Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director
The Field Foundation
250 Park Avenue
New York, New York

Dear Les:

I sure do hope you will be able to attend our working conference Friday, June 17, 1966. Harold Fleming will be among our guests.

If you do come and can spare the time, I'd like you as my guest for an evening of baseball, both to show off our Atlanta Stadium and to say thanks to you for having brought me to SRC. It has been a good experience.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

Same ltr sent to:

Harold Fleming, Gordon Henderson, James M. Holloway,
John Ed Pearce, Donald Strong, Russell Sugarman

June 14, 1966

Mr. Joel L. Fleishman
Yale University
2115 Yale Station
New Haven, Connecticut 06520

Dear Mr. Fleishman:

This letter comes as a last minute reminder of the June 17, 1966 Working conference on Public Policy and Minorities, which you are expected to attend.

We are enclosing a list of the conferees and a schedule of activities.

If we may help you in any way with reservations, etc., don't hesitate to call.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

Encls: 2

THE FIELD FOUNDATION
250 PARK AVENUE
NEW YORK 17

June 15, 1966

Rec'd 6/17/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Sam:

I have your letter of June 14 and I don't believe that there is any chance that I can be down Friday. I told Paul on the phone the other day, however, that I would some time get some written comments to you about the memo. I am terribly sorry about this, but I have just run out of gas.

I'll hold you to that Braves invitation another time.

Sincerely yours,

Leslie W. Dunbar
Executive Director

LWD/je

June 16, 1966

Mr. Elliott H. Levitas
807 Fulton Federal Bldg.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Levitas:

We welcome your attendance at the June 17 conference should you, at the last minute, discover you have the time.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

ELLIOTT H. LEVITAS
DISTRICT 118, POST 4
1352 JODY LA., N.E.
ATLANTA, GA. 30329

Reply to:
807 Fulton Fed. Bldg.
Atlanta, Ga. 30303

MEMBER COMMITTEES:

BANKS & BANKING
EDUCATION
JUDICIARY
SUB-COMMITTEES
(EDUCATION)
COMMON SCHOOLS
(JUDICIARY)
GENERAL LAW & PROCEDURE

House of Representatives

House Chamber
Atlanta

June 15, 1966

Rec'd 6/15/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council
Five Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Mr. Adams:

I appreciate the reminder of the June 17th conference, and I hasten to respond.

Much to my regret, I do not think I am going to be able to participate. I am scheduled to leave town tomorrow afternoon and am not due back until Sunday morning.

In reviewing the materials enclosed with your letter, I readily see what a significant and interesting meeting I shall be missing. If my out-of-town affairs are altered so that I can be in Atlanta, I trust that you will permit me to attend at the last minute.

Very truly yours,

Elliott H. Levitas

EHL:mc

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL

WORKING CONFERENCE

STATE PUBLIC POLICIES AND MINORITIES

June 17, 1966

Atlanta, Georgia

File

SCHEDULE

9:00 a. m. to 10:00 a. m. - "Get Acquainted Hour" -- Coffee for early arrivals in the office of the Director.

FIRST SESSION

10:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon - Opening statement, summary, and discussion of background paper.

Presiding - Samuel L. Adams, Director of Research
Southern Regional Council

Greetings - Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council

Summary of Background Paper - Joel L. Fleishman,
Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut

Discussion Leaders - James Y. Holloway, Berea College,
Berea, Kentucky; Samuel D. Cook, Atlanta
University, Atlanta, Georgia.

LUNCH - 12:00 noon to 1:00 p. m.

SECOND SESSION

1:00 p. m. to 4:00 p. m. - Analysis, changes, and development of policy statement.

Discussion Leaders - Pat Watters, Director of Information,
Southern Regional Council; Leslie W. Dunbar,
Executive Director, the Field Foundation,
New York, New York.

BREAK - 4:00 p. m. to 4:15 p. m.

THIRD SESSION

4:15 to 5:30 p. m. - Tying loose ends, discussion of methods of projecting and effecting program.

Discussion Leaders - Robert E. Anderson, Managing Editor,
SRC Publications; John Ed Pearce, Editorial
Writer, Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal.

5:30 p. m. - Social Hour

This is an informal working conference. Discussion leaders have been named for each session. Their function will be to prod and start, rather than to dominate the discussion.

Office file copy

STATE PUBLIC POLICIES AND MINORITIES WORKING CONFERENCE

June 17, 1966

BRIEF RESUMES ON CONFEREES

Blackwell, Randolph T. - Attorney; Program Director for Southern Christian Leadership Conference; former Field Director, Voter Education Project; Atlanta, Georgia.

Cook, Samuel DuBois - Professor of Political Science, Atlanta University; former consultant, Voter Education Project; Atlanta, Georgia.

Dunbar, Leslie W. - Executive Director, the Field Foundation; former Executive Director of Southern Regional Council, Inc.; New York, New York.

Fleishman, Joel L. - Director of the Southern Teaching Program; Director of Yale University High School; New Haven, Connecticut.

Fleming, Harold - Executive Vice President, Potomac Institute; former Executive Director of Southern Regional Council, Inc.; Washington, D. C.

Gaston, Paul - Professor of History, University of Virginia; Charlottesville, Virginia.

Henderson, Gordon - Administrative Assistant to the Governor of Arizona; former professor of Political Science at Millsaps College in Jackson, Mississippi; Phoenix, Arizona.

Holloway, James Y. - Professor of Philosophy and Religion, Berea College; Berea, Kentucky.

Levitas, Elliott H. - Attorney, Georgia State Representative, Decatur, Georgia.

Pearce, John Ed - Editorial writer, Louisville Courier-Journal; Louisville, Kentucky.

Smith, McNeill - Attorney; board member, Southern Regional Council, Inc.; Greensboro, North Carolina.

Strong, Donald - Professor of Political Science, University of Alabama; Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

Sugarman, Russell - Attorney; Memphis, Tennessee.

Ward, Horace - Attorney and Georgia State Representative; noted for unsuccessful attempt to desegregate the University of Georgia in 1950; Atlanta, Georgia.

Youngdahl, James - Attorney; board member, Southern Regional Council, Inc.; Little Rock, Arkansas.

Southern Regional Council Participants:

Mr. Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Mr. Samuel L. Adams, Director of Research
Mr. Robert E. Anderson, Jr., Managing Editor, SRC Publications
Mr. Vernon E. Jordan, Jr., Director, Voter Education Project
Mr. Pat Watters, Director of Information

SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL

WORKING CONFERENCE

STATE PUBLIC POLICIES AND MINORITIES

June 17, 1966

Atlanta, Georgia

SCHEDULE

9:00 a. m. to 10:00 a. m. - "Get Acquainted Hour" -- Coffee for early arrivals in the office of the Director.

FIRST SESSION

10:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon - Opening statement, summary, and discussion of background paper.

Presiding - Samuel L. Adams, Director of Research
Southern Regional Council

Greetings - Paul Anthony, Executive Director
Southern Regional Council

Summary of Background Paper - Joel L. Fleishman,
Yale University, New Haven, Connecticut

Discussion Leaders - James Y. Holloway, Berea College,
Berea, Kentucky; Samuel D. Cook, Atlanta
University, Atlanta, Georgia.

LUNCH - 12:00 noon to 1:00 p. m.

SECOND SESSION

1:00 p. m. to 4:00 p. m. - Analysis, changes, and development of policy statement.

Discussion Leaders - Pat Watters, Director of Information,
Southern Regional Council; Leslie W. Dunbar,
Executive Director, the Field Foundation,
New York, New York.

BREAK - 4:00 p. m. to 4:15 p. m.

THIRD SESSION

4:15 to 5:30 p. m. - Tying loose ends, discussion of methods of projecting and effecting program.

Discussion Leaders - Robert E. Anderson, Managing Editor,
SRC Publications; John Ed Pearce, Editorial
Writer, Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal.

5:30 p. m. - Social Hour

This is an informal working conference. Discussion leaders have been named for each session. Their function will be to prod and start, rather than to dominate the discussion.

R. B. SUGARMON, JR.
ATTORNEY AT LAW
588 VANCE AVENUE
MEMPHIS, TENN. 38103
PHONE 525-8333

June 17, 1966

Recpt date wrk

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sir:

In reply to your letter of June 14, 1966, I wish to advise you I will be unable to anticipate in the subject conference.

The subject matter seems interesting to me but, unfortunately, I do not think it advisable that I take an over night trip because I have a cast on my right leg, which makes it difficult for me to do any of the usual things that one normally does without assistance. For that reason I should not be in Atlanta.

Sincerely yours,

R. B. Sugarmon, Jr. (ybg)
R. B. SUGARMON, JR.

RBG:ybg

Same ltr. also sent to:

Samuel DuBois Cook, Elliott H. Levitas, and Horace Ward, local attendees.

Also to James Youngdahl, Paul Gaston, and McNeill Smith, whose reservations have already been made earlier.

June 14, 1966

Mr. Randolph T. Blackwell
S C L E
334 Auburn Avenue, N. E.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Blackwell:

This letter comes as a last minute reminder of the June 17, 1966, working conference on Public Policy and Minorities which you are expected to attend.

We are enclosing a list of the conferees and a schedule of activities.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

Enclosures - 2.

Note: Speech was not given to js for filing. SA says it was probably marked for research.

June 21, 1966

Mr. Frank E. Smith
Director
Tennessee Valley Authority
Knoxville, Tennessee (ORIGINAL RE-TYPED)

Dear Mr. Smith:

It was a good speech. Thanks for sending it to us for our files.

We were very sorry you were unable to attend our June 17, 1966, conference on public policies and minorities.

Best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

June 22, 1966

Mr. James E. Youngdahl
Attorney at Law
711 West Third Street
Little Rock, Arkansas 72201

Dear Mr. Youngdahl:

Thank you for your letter received here today, and for sharing your time, experience, and good thinking at our June 17 conference on public policy and minorities. We look forward to sharing with you the results of our study. Meanwhile, if new pertinent and related thoughts occur to you, please write us so they may be included.

Your expense account with attachments have been turned over to Mrs. Alexander, and you should be receiving a check from her shortly. Your way of handling the matter is more than satisfactory and proves you a gentleman in every respect; it is a pleasure and honor to know you.

Best regards.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

McMATH, LEATHERMAN, WOODS & YOUNGDAHL
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW
711 WEST THIRD STREET
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS 72201

SIDNEY S. McMATH
LELAND F. LEATHERMAN
HENRY WOODS
JAMES E. YOUNGDAHL

JOHN P. SIZEMORE
SILAS H. BREWER, JR.

AREA CODE 501
FRANKLIN 6-3021

June 20, 1966

OK
Rec'd 6/22/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Adams:

I want to again express my appreciation for the chance to participate in the conference on state public policy and minorities last Friday. I look forward to seeing the final draft of the paper.

I am enclosing the information on my expenses. The total is what I actually spent, but it is higher than what I might have spent had I economized. Therefore, I am enclosing a check for $30 as a contribution to the Southern Regional Council which should more than make up that difference. I hope this way of handling it is satisfactory with you.

Sincerely,

James E. Youngdahl
B.L.W.

James E. Youngdahl

JEY:blm ENC.

Given to Pla
6/22/66

opeiul05aflcio

Vouchers attached to original

ok

CONFERENCE ON STATE PUBLIC POLICIES AND MINORITIES

EXPENSE ACCOUNT

Held June 17, 1966, at Southern Regional Council, Inc.

Atlanta, Georgia

Submitted: June 20, 1966

TRAVEL (Type of Transportation)

Delta airlines

$ 83.16

(Auto @ .08 per mile)

TAXICABS, LIMOUSINES, ETC.

Atlanta limo, taxi, LR parkinh $ 7.50

HOTEL (Dates & places)

Atlanta, night of June 16

$ 9.79

OTHER EXPENSES (Itemize)

Telephone, meals, tips

$ 12.50

TOTAL -- $ 112.95

Signed: James E. Youngdahl

Mr. James Youngdahl

Address ~~The Tower Building~~

711 W. Third Street

City & State Little Rock, Arkansas

PLEASE ATTACH VOUCHERS SUPPORTING EXPENSES.

No. 4605

81-25
820

JAMES E. OR PATRICIA L. YOUNGDAHL
37 Lamont Drive
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS

DATE JUNE 20 1966

PAY TO THE ORDER OF SOUTHERN REGIONAL COUNCIL $30.00 DOLLARS

THIRTY & NO/100

THE COMMERCIAL NATIONAL BANK OF LITTLE ROCK
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS

FOR CONTRIBUTION

James E. Youngdahl

⑆0820⑈0025⑆

Same ltr also sent to: Paul Gaston, Gordon Henderson, Jamey Holloway, John Ed Pierce, McNeill Smith, Donald Strong, Horace Ward, and James Youngblood.

June 22, 1966

Dr. Samuel DuBois Cook
736 Beckwith Street, S. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30314

Dear Dr. Cook:

Thank you for sharing your time, experience, and good thinking at our June 17 conference on public policy and minorities. We look forward to sharing with you the results of our study.

Meanwhile, if new pertinent and related thoughts occur to you, please write us so they may be included.

Best regards.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

SA: FYI

MEMORANDUM 6/27/66

TO: RHA

FROM: JS

RHA:

After checking the names of persons who attended the June 17 conference, I found that all of the out of town participants have returned their vouchers. There were seven from out of town; the other two I mentioned were Atlantans -- that's why the figure nine stuck in my mind.

js

THOSE IN ATTENDANCE:

Samuel DuBois Cook, Paul Gaston, Gordon Henderson, James Y. Holloway, John Ed Pearce, McNeill Smith, Donald Strong, Horace Ward, James Youngdahl.

From staff: Samuel Adams, Paul Anthony, Pat Watters, Robert Anderson, Marvin Wall, Vernon Jordan (briefly).

OFFICE OF
THE GOVERNOR OF ARIZONA
SAMUEL P. GODDARD

THE CAPITOL
Phoenix

EXECUTIVE STAFF

June 27, 1966

Rec'd 6/29/66

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council
5 Forsyth Street
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Sam:

Many thanks for asking me to attend the discussion-meeting on public policy and minorities. I believe it was one of the best things for my morale that has happened in a long time, and I know I got out of it much more than I put in to it.

Last week-end while I was still in Jackson I sent you a bill for about two hundred and thirty eight dollars as I recall, being air fare plus certain expenses for food and lodging amounting to twenty dollars approx. I got so much out of the meeting I wish I could offer to pay the whole thing and say to you just forget about my expenses. I do believe in what the SRC is doing; I have believed in it for a long time. Therefore I hope you will acdept the enclosed check for twenty dollars. I know you can put it to good use.

Sincerely,

Gordon

Gordon G. Henderson
Special Assistant

p.s. See over.

I have had a good many thoughts about the whole subject of last week's meeting since I left Atlanta. Some - a few - of these thoughts I would like to share with you. Do you have some notion of a rewrite schedule? I'd like to know what it is so that I may have my ideas to you before your first deadline, whatever it is, comes up.

VALLEY NATIONAL BANK

295

June 21 1966

CAPITOL OFFICE
PHOENIX, ARIZONA

91-130
1221

PAY TO THE ORDER OF Southern Regional Council, Inc. $20 xx/100

twenty and xx/100 DOLLARS

MR. OR MRS. GORDON G. HENDERSON
32 EAST KEIM DRIVE
PHOENIX, ARIZONA 85012

Gordon G Henderson

⑆1221⑈0130⑆ 556⑈4147⑈

Check turned over to LK for processing
GH

June 27, 1966

Mr. Joel L. Fleishman
Directoe
Yale Summer High School
2115 Yale Station
New Haven, Connecticut 06520

Dear Mr. Fleishman:

Thank you for your letter received here June 24. Paul told me of the accident that caused you to miss your flight to Atlanta for our conference. I do appreciate your interest and the sincere effort you made on our behalf.

I had so wanted to meet and talk with you. Perhaps I will get the opportunity soon. Also, we are still very much interested in having your reaction in writing to the background paper, as I mentioned earlier. Could we get this at the earliest possible date?

With warmest regards.

Very truly yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

Rec'd 6/24/66

YALE SUMMER HIGH SCHOOL

An Upward Bound Program — Supported by the Office of Economic Opportunity and by the National Science Foundation

2115 Yale Station New Haven, Connecticut 06520

JOEL L. FLEISHMAN, Director Area code 203, 787-3131—Ext. 2962

June 21, 1966

Dr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N.W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Dr. Adams:

I hope Paul managed to convey to you both the fact that I would not appear and some sense of my anguish resulting from that change. That's the first time I've missed a plane, and will certainly teach me a lesson about traveling.

Let there be no question in your mind about my overwhelming desire to join the discussion. The topic alone was interesting enough; the opportunity to meet the other participants was golden both personally and with respect to two other projects on which I am now working.

As I told Paul on the telephone I surely hope you will understand my absence as one of those unavoidable accidents and clearly not any hint of disinterest. I trust you will call on me when appropriate in the future.

I look forward to seeing you soon.

With good wishes,

Sincerely,

Joel

Joel L. Fleishman

JLF:mfc
cc: Mr. Paul Anthony

Same ltr also sent to: Leslie Dunbar, Harold Fleming, Herman Goldner, [redacted] Frank E. Smith.

[redacted]

June 22, 1966

Mr. Joel Fleishman
Yale University
2115 Yale Station
New Haven, Connecticut 06520

Dear Mr. Fleishman:

We are sorry you were not available for our June 17, 1966, conference on public policies and minorities, but we deeply appreciate your having tried to spring yourself loose from your many pressing activities.

If you find time to react in writing to the background paper, we would like to hear from you before completing our study.

Best regards.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research

SLA:js

THE POTOMAC INSTITUTE, INC.
1501 Eighteenth Street, N.W. • Washington, D.C. 20036 • 332-5566

Rec'd 7/15/66

July 13, 1966

Mr. Samuel L. Adams
Director of Research
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Mr. Adams:

Thanks for your understanding letter inviting my post-conference comments on "Public Policy and Minorities." I am most sorry that I couldn't be there for the discussion, but as Paul will have explained I was hopelessly trapped in the Washington maze.

I have read the paper with interest and, for the most part, found it a useful basis for discussion of the issues. For whatever they are worth, here are a few observations:

1. The paper might well have emphasized more explicitly the state-city relationship. One of the biggest factors in the withering away of state influence has been the failure of the states to supply leadership, funds, and priority for the problems of the growing urban areas. Both federal and local officials tend to look with impatience and distrust upon the states, and to prefer a direct relationship. This is not surprising, since the states have tended to be indifferent and often hostile to the interests of the urban areas. Legislative reapportionment promises some improvement, but it may be coming too slowly and too late. In any case, the vitality of state governments is going to depend heavily on their success in becoming relevant to urban needs and an integral link in the federal-local chain.

2. With particular respect to minority groups, the states are inviting their own demise in federal-local relationships. For example, it is quite clear that many problems of Negroes in the central cities can be solved only by metropolitan area-wide planning and development. The racial problems of the cities simply cannot be solved within the context of the core city alone while the suburbs continue as bastions of

STEPHEN R. CURRIER, President
LLOYD K. GARRISON, Treasurer
JOHN G. SIMON, Secretary
PHILIP G. HAMMER, Director
BURKE MARSHALL, Director
ANDREW E. NORMAN, Director
HAROLD C. FLEMING, Executive Vice-President
ARTHUR J. LEVIN, Staff Director

white middle-class exclusiveness. Yet the power to require the multiplicity of local jurisdictions to plan and work together for adequate and integrated schools, housing, and so on, on a metropolitan basis, is constitutionally vested in the states. And, of course, the states have shown almost no inclination to use that power affirmatively. (Some would be more inclined to use it negatively.) If these circumstances persist, I believe that the federal government will necessarily have to fill the power vacuum by conditioning a wide variety of federal grants on metropolitan-wide cooperation. That trend is already evident in a small way.

3. While the draft paper was fine for discussion purposes, the published report will be more effective with state officials and other decision-makers if it is more pragmatic in tone. The arguments of urgency and morality should be made at the beginning, forcefully and succinctly, and the remainder of the document should deal with specific recommendations discussed in very practical terms. And, obviously, a tight plan of organization, with generous use of subheads, will make it more useable.

Again, my regrets that I couldn't take part in the discussion. If there is a subsequent draft, I will be glad to be among those willing to review and comment on it.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Fleming

Harold C. Fleming
Executive Vice President

HCF:EMA

BEREA COLLEGE • BEREA • KENTUCKY • 40403

JAMES Y. HOLLOWAY
BOX 936 COLLEGE STATION

October 4, 1966

MARVIN WALL
(Gener copy 10/10/66) jo

Mr. Pat Watters
Director of Information
Southern Regional Council, Inc.
5 Forsyth Street, N. W.
Atlanta, Georgia 30303

Dear Pat:

Thanks for your note of August 29, and for the information on the "phenomenon." I want to talk with you some more about that.

Weltner agreed to do the article for us on his bill, and it is no doubt due to Vernon's help, so please thank him for me. I think we are about to get that issue lined up. In that connection, however, I hope that it was a mis-dictate, or mis-type in your August 29 note, about getting the article from you to us by the end of November; I hope you meant the end of October. But, at any event, please let me know how the end of October would fit your schedule. (Weltner has promised for mid-October, even after a recent trip to Atlanta!) XX

I hope the Maddox-event will somehow get interpreted into your piece. If you think it significant enough, wait till the general elections, but I don't see any more significance to a Maddox-Callaway election than a Wallace-Martin one -- or do you? But the point I'd especially like to get you to dwell on is the fact that the laws are now on the books, etc., so now where do those go now who believe that that would "cure" our sickness in the South?

Would it be possible for you to send me some figures on the Maddox-Arnall run-off -- any kind you might have. Would also like some on the general elections in Alabama and Georgia, but in the meantime I'd sure like to see any figures -- and analysis -- you have. This may be more in Marvin Wall's dept., but would appreciate it if you'd send him a note on this.

Have no fresh news on the Church Peace Mission conference in November, but have written Peachey (also about Bob Coles).

Will see that you get a copy of the journal -- it is now in the bindery. I think Will's piece is an important one. Thanks again for your help, and hope to see you soon.

Cordially,

J.

P. S. Do you by any chance have a complete text of SNCC's "memo"? I note that the NYTIMES thing is only an excerpt.

XX I dictated this before Weltner's announcement. This may alter things, so if you folk hear anything would appreciate your passing it along.

August 29, 1966

Mr. James Holloway
Berea College
Berea, Kentucky

Dear Jim:

I am still kicking myself for messing you up like I did. All I can do is what I did the other day -- tax your Christian charity.

Enclosed are some key stories on the black power thing. I think as pertinent a thought on it as I've heard is one by Les Dunbar -- that if there is anything new at all in the slogan, it is racism.

I am pleased you want me to write something for the next issue, and will have the copy in by the end of November.

Vernon Jordan has promised to vouch for you with Charles Weltner. It might be good to mention Vernon's name when you write him.

I hope you will let me know the details about that peace meeting here.

Yours truly,

Pat Watters
Director of Information

PW:js
Encls.

PUBLIC POLICY AND MINORITIES

The purpose of this memorandum is to isolate and describe the larger, and the more basic, pressing, and common issues that confront state policy-makers about minority assimilation and to develop recommendations for public policy for state governments.

SYNOPSIS OF CONTENTS

The "racial crisis" is merely the most striking symptom of a complex malady in American society which must be recognized in public policy recommendations for the assimilation of racial and other minorities.

An honest call by political authorities for full rights and opportunities is a necessary first step. The discrepancy between full rights and opportunities and the present status of minorities is widening, thus creating an even more serious and complex problem.

The federal system poses a threat and a promise to minority assimilation. An alternative and parallel arrangement might be found in "regionalism."

Initiative and positive action must, on the administrative as well as on the policy level, supersede the negativism of legal prohibitions against segregation, and must be related to and in part supported by a maximum participation at the local and neighborhood level.

The areas of greatest and most immediate concern to policy-makers dealing with minority assimilation are education, employment, housing, law enforcement, medical services, farm opportunities.

An important requirement for public policy-makers is the recognition of "the limits of public policy" in the area of minority assimilation.

The nature and the magnitude of the problem of minority assimilation requires an over-all, exhaustive, and coordinated program of state resources. This might be done at four levels:

1. A State Civil Rights Act;
2. A series of other, related, public policy recommendations, plus
3. An invigorated administration and bureaucracy led by a "Resources Office," and
4. Maximum participation of minorities themselves in these policies and programs.

A state Civil Rights Act should:

1. Serve as and therefore include an "earnest" from the state government to minorities;
2. Prohibit discrimination in employment on the basis of race, color, religion, or national origin, and in membership in professional, business, commercial, or labor organizations;

3. Eliminate discrimination in public accommodations by a very broad and general definition of "public accommodations," with a minimum of exclusions;
4. Direct enforcement to an agency of the "Resources Office" (a commission on human rights), with clearly specified procedures for initiation and receipt of complaints, on hearings, etc., with persuasion and education as the initial effort;
5. Provide for punishment of retaliation and threats of retaliation, and
6. Encourage civil rights efforts on county and local levels, including the creation of local commissions on human rights.

The enforcement, coordination, and direction and initiative of the program of minority assimilation should be vested in a "Resources Office" whose executive is responsible directly to the governor and legislator.

The specific public policy recommendations for areas suggested are:

1. Education

   a) Beginning with the immediate and total integration of the public school system. The problem of "neighborhood schools" and the integration of faculties must be faced.
   b) Upgrading of the total educational system is an essential factor in minority assimilation as are the problems of
   c) Adult and pre-school education;
   d) "Desegregation" and "integration" of textbooks;
   e) Education of the majority about equal rights in American democracy, and
   f) Trade and re-training school expansion;
   g) Higher education is the keystone and final test of the effectiveness of educational policy in minority assimilation.
      1) Deficiencies in preparation for higher education should be met in several ways;
      2) Public institutions have a responsibility in this regard as do

3) Private colleges and universities.
4) Studies of predominant Negro colleges within the state are necessary in order to plan for their future in both the long and short run.
5) Professional schools should be required to actively recruit students.
6) The continued training of Negro public school teachers, especially those discharged by integration, is essential, and provisions thereon must be made.

h) Public policy regarding education is a test of the integrity of the seriousness of programs to assimilate minorities: May the minority student exercise his option to a complete education without impairment because of race, color, religion, or national origin?

2. Employment

a) Covered in part by the State Civil Rights Act, should also be the concern of
b) The "Resources Office," by establishing relationships and liaisons between federal and local services and colleges, universities, the public school system, and trade schools, etc., and by
c) Attracting industry on an integrated basis.

3. Law: Enforcement and Administration

a) As a problem may find that the key problem is the political commitment of leaders at every level to educate employees and citizens about equal protection of the laws in American democracy.
b) Discrimination in the employment of law enforcing agencies and courts is essential.
c) Licensing of law enforcement officers is necessary.
d) Restrictions on minority law enforcement officers must be removed.
e) Instruction in civil rights, periodically, of all law enforcements is necessary.
f) Committees to deal with policy misconduct should be established.
g) Inquiries into the racial element in capital punishment is in order.

h) Prison reforms should pay heed to any racial problems.

4. Housing

a) The Resources Office should, with state planning commissions, plan for the elimination of ghettos.
b) Discrimination in housing projects might be handled through enforcing the guidelines on the contractors.
c) Rentals, on a non-discriminatory basis, by public housing authorities in established neighborhoods should be undertaken.

5. Voter Registration

a) Universal registration should be inaugurated.
b) Times for registration should be expanded.
c) Absentee voting should be made easier.
d) Election commissioners should heed racial overtones in irregularities.

6. Medical and Hospital Services

Should be guaranteed on a non-discriminatory basis through an agency of the Resources Office, paying particular attention to the practices in emergency situations. Discrimination in professional medical organizations should be prohibited. Negroes should be encouraged and prepared by special efforts to enter the medical professions.

7. Farm Employment, Training, and Ownership

The indictment of the United States Department of Agriculture by the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights in 1965 demonstrates the plight of farm workers in the South and the importance of federal-state cooperation. These problems should be met by loans, training, and re-training, and by the creation of a special agency of the Resources Office to coordinate these programs and services.

The choice before the South and the nation is whether or not this crucial test of the American system of democracy will be met democratically.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

Domestically, the political system of the United States is facing the most severe test of its capacities since the Civil War. That test is usually referred to as "the racial crisis." But it is now abundantly clear that the crisis of racial assimilation is merely the most striking symptom of a malady that touches every phase of American political, social, and economic life. The malady strikes at the heart of the system of American democracy in our time, because previously it has been possible to rationalize, by the western frontier, wars, and the challenge of external foes, the hiatus between our professions about democracy and our performance thereon. The demand for racial equality and opportunity has not only called attention to the plight of racial minorities, but has provided the enthusiasm and the excuse for the examination of the plight of what Michael Harrington has called "The Other America," a plight in which race has an integral, but neither exclusive nor necessarily essential part. Indeed, an increasing number of commentators are suggesting that the "racial" aspect of the problem is almost accidental -- that, essentially, the crux of the domestic political crisis centers around the extent to which this and the next generation will honor or pervert the tenets about the universality and equality of rights and opportunities that American democracy has so brashly proclaimed for 150 years. Thus, to cite only one example from (an essentially conservative source) THE SATURDAY REVIEW: Emile Capouya, in his review of the recent autobiography and biography of the late Malcolm X, observed:

> Right now, in this country, every man stands between the devil and the deep blue sea. The ideals we profess as a people have scarcely any other function than to color greed at home and violence abroad. We are in a moral and political crisis. Almost alone, Malcolm X knew it and declared it; his doctrine was cast in terms of race, but that was very nearly an accident. Those who responded to his intuition of what was happening to us understood him whether they were Negroes or whites. I think that any reader who is at all accessible to the message must be moved by his autobiography -- ingenuous, often mistaken about elementary facts, sometimes less than charitable, but mostly true and mostly very important.

It is necessary to make these observations at the outset so that the heart of the matter of this report will not be ignored by concentrating upon recommendations, techniques, procedures, and programs, etc. The recommendations, techniques, procedures, programs contained herein are, at best, a belated start on a chronic problem in the life of the South and nation. For that reason, a -- if not the -- fundamental purpose of this report is to call attention to the context of urgency and complexity of the problem about which we present a number of recommendations, general enough to be adaptable, but specific and relevant enough, we trust, to commence a reasonable and intelligent retreat from the dead-end journey down which the states of our region have been headed for over one hundred years.

The "crisis of confidence" that exists in this country about equality of legal, political, and economic rights and especially opportunities -- without regard to racial, social, or economic status -- while obviously more subtle and complex than the problem with which this report is concerned, is just as obviously related to it. Proposals directed toward public policy in the field of minority assimilation in the South will be little more than short term crisis-oriented palliatives unless those responsible for public policy recognize the relationship between these two sets of crises. Any attempt to otherwise assimilate cultural and economic and racial minorities will be ephemeral and seriously compound the sense of frustration and alienation already experienced by these minorities. And it is questionable just how far American society -- and southern society in particular -- can sustain and assimilate this frustration and this alienation without doing irreparable injury to that society. It is clear, therefore, that in the final analysis, success in meeting the problems of assimilating racial and cultural minorities will be determined by the willingness and the determination, in the first instance, of national and state political leaders to meet this broader crisis in American democracy.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

Possibly the most direct way to meet the crisis with which this report is chiefly concerned is to issue a call for honesty -- viz., to insist that the constitutional rights to political and legal equality and economic and social opportunity must be realized fully and forthwith by all citizens. To so insist is to openly admit that several minority groups (in the South) do not at present fully enjoy these rights and opportunities. Such an open admission at the statehouse level might well be the most important initial step in a program of minority assimilation. In all probability, some such step is the sine quo non, for two reasons: to convince minorities of the sincerity of the political establishment, and to convince state agencies of the determination to face the problems of minorities. Such an insistence would also direct attention to the fact that the discrepancy between full rights and opportunities and the present status of economic and racial minorities is widening, not closing. The crises in Mississippi and Alabama occurred after the passage of the Civil Rights Bill of 1964; the Watts street riots occurred after passage of the Voting Rights Bill of 1965, after Titles VI and VII of the Civil Rights Bill and the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 had had opportunity to remove the most obvious source of the riots -- hopelessness and meaninglessness.

The urgency of the widening discrepancy cannot be overstated and must not be overlooked. The discrepancy between the present situation of racial and economic minorities and the legal minimums prescribed by the Constitution of the United States is obvious, alarming, and unless alleviated, will become, in the affluent society, a fixed pattern that will continually ignite Watts streets and Selmas. Democracy as professed in the United States cannot survive the last half of the 20th century unless this overt racial and economic discrimination is purged from American society. The economics of racism presents an obvious consequence of this discrepancy and an immediate challenge to political entities on every level of government. Those racial minorities which presently bear the brunt of the economic consequences of a racist society both in urban and rural areas are the very people most seriously threatened by technological advances in factories and on the farms. Unemployment, living on welfare doles and charities -- and the consequent threat to a meaningful life within an ostensibly democratic society -- threatens, especially in urban areas, the creation of political as well as racial dissidence of serious proportions. The most recent figures released by the Department of Labor (January, 1966), show that twice as many non-whites are unemployed as whites. /These are figures for the entire nation and vary for each region, which we might include in a chart about southern states at this juncture./ What happened in Los Angeles in August, 1965, is a portent of things to come. Every qualified observer who has studied the causes of the present situation in Watts streets has predicted further trouble. The uneasiness in Chicago, East Harlem, Rochester, and in several areas of the South is well known.

The increasing "affluence" of the majority of American society and economy highlights the discrepancy between economic and political possession and opportunity for possession, and nowhere more obviously than in the programs of mass communications. The programming and the advertisements direct attention dramatically to the disparity between the lives of the white majority of established American "haves" and the lives of the impoverished Negro, dis-established "have-nots." This disparity cannot fail to be noticed by those deprived by the political and economic system which persistently implores its citizenry to loyalty and thanksgiving for the benefits of living in "the greatest country the world has ever known."

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

This report is concerned with public policy recommendations for state and local governments. Federalism, therefore, as a political method and a political value is a presupposition to the recommendations. And the fact is that the future of the federal system as a basic value and as a viable political undertaking in American politics may well depend upon the response of state and local governments to this principal domestic problem -- viz., the treatment and assimilation of minority groups. (The impact of technology -- especially in the bloated "defense" economy -- may well pose the most serious threat to federalism, but this falls for the most part outside the scope of this paper.) The record of state and local governments in the South in the field of political rights, education, law enforcement, employment opportunities, public accommodations and medical care, for example, provides little ground for hope that the federal system can succeed here and stave off national control. Further discouragement about the capacity of local political units to deal forthrightly with the problems of minority assimilation is found in the responses of the administrations of certain large cities (Chicago and Los Angeles the most notable examples) to the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964. When the very instrument designed to overcome minority deprivations is used by local political units (and local politicians) to increase their own power at the expense of the dispossessed, the despair and hopelessness that ignite riots and insurrections can be expected.

In the South, particularly, "Federalism" as a political principle is usually connected with the value of "states' rights." But this, in turn, has been the chief device by which southern state and local governments have not only impeded the assimilation of Negroes into southern society, but have also sanctioned, and in some instances abetted and encouraged, violence against and the intimidation of Negroes. To suggest that "states' rights" permits the thwarting of the republican form of government in the United States, to suggest that "Federalism" is the principle by which political rights and economic and social opportunities can be denied to American citizens is an obvious and fundamental violation of the letter and the spirit of the American Constitution and of the intention of the authors of the Constitution.

"Federalism," however, provides both threat and promise in the effort to effectively assimilate minorities. It can be, as it has been, used to thwart the legitimate legal and economic opportunities of minorities. It can, on the other hand, be a positive and healthy principle by which the national government may work effectively with local political sub-divisions to meet a problem that can be resolved, finally and effectively, only on the local level. What needs to be urged, however, is that there is no guarantee in the success of "Federalism," or the rejection thereof. The Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 recognizes and accepts the importance of effective cooperation between national and local governments. Early experiences in the administration of funds under Title II must be carefully studied (in the ensuing years) in order to learn the possibilities and the pitfalls. At the present time the more obvious errors are apparent (the Johnson administration's decision to channel funds through Mayor Daley in Chicago and, even after the Watts street riots, through Mayor Yorty in Los Angeles), and, unhappily may suggest the trend for future O.E.O. programs. Policy planners must study reports (including newspaper reports) on several experiences of the working relationships between national and local political units. Here is an instance where state and local officials might rescue the initiative from federal agencies.

The importance of "Federalism" to the effort of assimilating cultural minorities, and especially for this report on policy recommendations, is seen in the fact that one of the major recommendations of this report is the necessity of a neighborhood and individual participation by minorities in the decision-making process and administration of these programs themselves. There are sufficient indications that the problems of minority assimilation into America, and especially into southern society, will be more effectively handled and finally resolved on the local level. With the one-man one-vote decision of the United States Supreme Court, "local" political units are undergoing a profound change throughout the nation, and especially in the South. This change itself can, and ought to be used by national, state, and local political leaders to assimilate the previously politically and economically disfranchised who make up the very minorities which must be brought into all phases of American life. The Negro's central problem," writes Charles E. Silberman in CRISIS IN BLACK AND WHITE, "is to discover his identity or to create an identity for himself. What history suggests is that when the Negro solves his problem of identity, he will have gone a long way towards finding the means of relating himself to every other American group." Self-identity is not found apart from active participation in and determination of one's life and destiny. Welfarism and paternalism can no longer be used to delay the integration of minorities into the American system, even at the price of a radical change in the system.

The old ways of southern Stoic-type paternalism and northern welfare-paternalism, while perhaps not deliberately designed to keep the Negro from creating "an identity" for himself, had precisely that effect. The real beginning of a solution of minority assimilation will occur whenever minorities are permitted to design their own solutions to their own problems in precisely the same manner in which the majority groups in American social and economic establishment does. Federalism here can be a positive device to encourage and sustain just such a movement, for the problem of minority assimilation will not only be ultimately resolved but will be more effectively handled over the long run by local rather than national direction. Clearly, however, the operative phrase here is "effectively handled" and "over the long run." The necessity for such a memorandum as the present one demonstrates the fact that heretofore state and local governments have largely abdicated their own clearly defined political responsibility, and thereby invited the intervention of national government into guaranteeing equal protection of the rights and opportunities of all citizens.

And, in point of fact, unless the assimilation of Negroes into all phases of southern life is accepted and successfully met on state, county, city, and township level, the problem will remain, by definition, insoluble. The consequent peril of prolonging a solution to this problem is, of course, continued political turmoil, violence, and the increasing threat of anarchy and insurrection.

Needless to say, one of the fundamental issues involved in this discussion is "inward commitment." In the first instance, state and local political authorities must accept the primary responsibility for initiating and implementing programs for equal treatment and assimilation of racial minorities. Visible proof of the above mentioned "inward commitment" of state and local political authorities will be seen when these same authorities initiate and maintain as one of their chief political responsibilities leadership of their people to interest in and support of programs for minority assimilation. Such assimilation is a basic value and goal of political democracy. It will provide an acid test over the next several decades about the dedication of southern political units to the values of political democracy.

One possible alternative to the current moribund Federalism that has made a measure of achievement over the past three or four decades is "regional arrangments." The insights of Howard Odum, an important figure in the early history of the Southern Regional Council, might well be applied to the regional character of the South's racial as well as economic and social and political problems. Indeed, such regional arrangemnts might well rejuvinate Federalism and offer to the South a more dynamic as well as a more relevant approach to problems which so obviously defy state and local boundaries. The partial and potential successes, for example, of arrangements among the states of the Appalachian region in meeting the problems of strip coal mining, water pollution and deforestation offer a precedent and a promise. /The definition of "community action program" in Title II of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 would seem to permit such regional arrangements: cf. Section 202: "The term 'Community Action Program' means a program (1) which mobilizes and utilizes resources, public or private, of any urban or rural, or combined urban and rural, geographical area (referred to in this part as a "community"), including but not limited to a state, metropolitan area, county, city, town, multicity unit, or multicounty unity in an attack on poverty."/7 But a further source of strength can be found through regional arrangements among the states in overcoming local intransigence and prejudice as well as intrenched interest -- economic and social -- that is not presently available in arrangements between the federal government and state and local political authorities. The political traditions as well as the legal arrangements of this nation -- for good or ill -- have been geared toward local responsibility (and irresponsibility) in facing local problems. Perhaps a satisfactory and an important half-way house between localism and central initiative and control would be these regional arrangements.

The alternative to responsible state and local and regional activity in facing the problems of minority assimilation is clear: the "federal principle" (in this sense, state and local initiative and responsibility) in the areas of human rights and opportunities will continue to deteriorate at an even more rapid rate than has been the case during the past quarter decade. The pressure for and the urgency of the problems of minorities in this nation will not be thwarted by an appeal to an illegitimate Federalism. Indeed, if it is clear that if Federalism -- in the strictest legal sense -- becomes a barrier to the realization of minority rights, then Federalism will be swept away, de facto, if not not also de jure.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

The principal lesson that the past twenty-four months has provided is that public policy on either the national, or the state and local, level cannot be restricted merely to seeking an end to existing discrimination and compulsory segregation. Something far more positive than the mere legal prohibition against discrimination and segregation is obviously necessary. The President of the United States pays some homage to this truism, and in recent months has insisted that the most difficult and complex problem about minority rights that faces the federal government is transfering legal equality into human brotherhood. In the system of American democracy, however, this goal cannot be achieved -- and possibly even successfully initiated -- apart from full, active and committed participation on the state and local level. A principal concern and recommendation of this report consequently is that present commissions, boards, agencies, which by statute or administrative decision have been involved in problems of minority rights and opportunities, to receive or initiate and act upon complaints must move from this largely negative function to the more positive one of searching out the ways and means whereby minorities may be more effectively assimilated into southern society. Perhaps this task, more than any, points to the tentative and initial quality of this report: in the first place, most of the "complaint-centered" agencies in the South have scarcely had time to learn their function of receiving and acting upon complaints before these new demands are put upon them to become initiators and innovators rather than reactors. And some states have few, if any, of the complaint-centered agencies to eliminate discrimination. But surely it is not premature to suggest that these agencies be ready to move into a more positive role before they become victims of their own precedents and prejudices -- in much the way that complaint-centered agencies of the North have become -- and functionally unable to move from a negative to a positive role.

With that particular recommendation in mind, therefore, it is necessary to insist that state and local policy must move, forthrightly, to bring about an actual integration of all sectors of public life. The complexity of modern American society and economy is such that this integration and assimilation will not come about apart from a determined and dedicated drive by state and local governments to make it come about. And, as we shall continue to insist throughout this report, unless minorities are assimilated, the American system will undergo a change so radical as to deny the concepts of its founders.

There are a number of reasons that public policy must be geared into an active and positive role of assimilating minorities instead of a restrained, negative role of eliminating current discrimination and segregation. It is necessary that public policy-makers be aware of these reasons. In the first place, any political or economic or racial majority is fundamentally reluctant to wittingly or reasonably share its political and social and economic well-being with a minority. This is especially true in the case of a racial minority in a political tradition which offers few if any precedents for rationally sharing political and economic power. Especially in the South, the Voting Rights Bill of 1965 could provide a rational channel for the political adjustments necessary to bring about minority assimilation (even through the bill itself was not reasonably induced: one thinks of Mississippi in 1964, and Birmingham, and Selma, and Montgomery). Further, low-level administrators and bureaucrats are notorious for inertia, for an unwillingness to initiate or innovate plans or programs. Any alteration and innovation -- to begin at the most obvious level -- breaks the routine of the past, whether the past be five years or fifty years. Bureaucracies, regardless of their origins or aims, are by nature and profession conservative. The responsibility for breaking the stranglehold of conservatism in the area of minority assimilation resides with the elected officials in whom, finally, responsibility for policy planning and implementation will ultimately lie.

But perhaps the most compelling argument for the necessity of positive initiative in the area of public policy for minority assimilation is the patent and ominous failure of the "desegregated" society of the North to lead to a continuous and gradual elimination of the barriers to political rights and economic opportunities. Legal prohibition of discrimination and segregation has been a fact of life in most northern states for a century. Their commissions and agencies were structured to "receive and act upon complaints," in order to eliminate existing discrimination. But opportunities for assimilation into the predominate society of the North decreased, rather than increased, with the growth of the minority population in the North. No initiative was taken to avoid the development of new structures of discrimination. The vast ghettos of the North (and the intransigent and self-righteous insistence upon "neighborhood schools") are testimony to the failure of political legal arrangements geared merely to performing the largely negative function of eliminating existing discrimination and segregation. Small wonder that minorities see the law as the instrument whereby "segregation" is prohibited, but which in fact prohibits them -- in the name of "desegregation" -- from integrating into American society. Small wonder that minorities see law and legal arrangements as simply the instrument of the northern liberal to preserve both his ideology and his predominance in the social structure.

Public policy in the South, therefore, ought to learn from the northern failures. Public policy in the South must directly and without equivocation and with "inward commitment and outward determination" assimilate minorities into all areas of American society.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

What, then, are the areas that are of greatest and most immediate concern to public policy-makers on the state and local level determined to assimilate minorities into all segments of southern society? The fact is, there is little disagreement in the areas that demand the most immediate attention of public policy and minority assimilation. Racial and economic minorities, their leaders, and social scientists share some measure of agreement that education, employment, housing and law enforcement are chief problem areas. But the further fact is that, including such restricted -- politically, legally, socially, and economically -- efforts as the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Voting Rights Bill of 1965, and the Uniform State Civil Rights Act currently under consideration by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, no thoroughgoing approach to the problem of minority assimilations at present exists. The chief purpose of this study is to provide at least a first step in the direction of a synoptic or over-all approach to this problem. The first step in this task, therefore, is of fundamental importance: to isolate and direct attention to those areas in which it is generally agreed that public policy must center its energies and intelligence in seeking to assimilate minorities. We shall make suggestions for the direction public policy might take within these areas, but these suggestions must be deliberately general -- not only because of the difficulty in projecting suggestions for thirteen distinct political entities and economic areas, but also because of the importance attached to the conviction already discussed: that the most reliable, long-term solution to public policy minority assimilation will develop out of an honest and genuine dialogue between public policy-makers, executives, administrations, legislators, and state agencies on the one hand, and "residents of the areas and members of the groups served" (to use the language of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964).

Many sociologists have directed attention to the fact that the very social system in the South which blocked integration is being radically and fundamentally changed by social and economic forces affecting the whole of American society, forces having little to do with "the racial crisis." Arnold Rose, for example, believes in giving the "greatest emphasis to forces involving social power, both economic and political, sometimes wielded deliberately but more often impersonally in the form of great trends affecting the whole society," viz., "continuing industrialization and technological advance, the high level of mobility among the American people" and, to a lesser extent, "the organization and political education of minority groups, an increased American awareness of world opinion, consistent support from other branches of the federal government and the northern state governments, and the propaganda and educational efforts for more equal implementation of civil rights" (THE ANNALS, January, 1965).

The "great trends affecting the whole of society" (in Rose's phrasing), and more especially the economic and political ones, point to what are unquestionably the most basic and the most common problem areas which public policy-makers must face in meeting the tasks of assimilating minorities. In these areas -- the areas in which "the great trends affecting the whole of society" -- are both the urgency and opportunity for the policy-maker. A chief emphasis of this report is that in the first instance public policy must be directed to the minority problems implicit in these "great trends affecting the whole of society." These trends ought to be viewed not as harbingers of crisis but as seeds of opportunity in dealing with minority assimilation.

In their examination of the Racial Crisis in America (1964), Killian and Grigg make an often-repeated observation (p. 130): "It is true that tokenism is 'too little and too late.' But it is also true that token desegregation will be the dominant pattern until the cultural deficit of the Negro masses is reduced or the majority of Negroes reject integration as a goal, as the Black Muslims would have it . . . . The spatial distribution of the Negro population, the cultural deprivation of the Negro masses, and the social organization of the Negro community make it clear that, in the present circumstances, not many Negroes can benefit directly from the Supreme Court's decisions. Only a minority of 'qualified,' highly motivated individuals will be willing and able to take advantage of the opportunities provided by the new legal principle. Over and over again it has been demonstrated that plans for 'voluntary desegregation' either result in token desegregation or, if more than a token number of Negro volunteers appear, in the eventual 'resegregation' of the institution and neighborhood." ([illegible] .

The chairman of the North Carolina Good Neighbor Council, as far back as December, 1963, made much the same point, and it is as germane, and all the more urgent, two years later. He granted that the integration of public facilities was important, and that it was "also important to be called 'sir' rather than 'boy.' But more basic than any of these are education and employment. The great mass of Negroes are more concerned with where they work than with where they eat; winning the right to eat at a desegregated lunch counter is small consolation to men who cannot afford the cost of the meal." George H. Esser, Jr., the executive director of the North Carolina Fund, noted (at that same conference in December, 1963) that half the families in North Carolina exist on less than $1,000 a year, and that surging mechanization in the factory and the farm makes the plight of uneducated, unskilled workers even more desperate. "Unless we face the challenge that is on us and if we don't decide to do something about it immediately, we're going to wind up by 1970 with more unemployables than a democratic nation can afford to have."

Education and employment are, from the point of view of public policy, the crucial and interrelated factors that form the crux of the problem of minority assimilation. There will be no substantial solution to any of the other, perhaps equally frustrating but individually less basic, problems that form the heart of the problem of minority assimilation. Public policy recommendations must, inevitably, seek to coordinate the problems in and policy for these areas with related yet distinct problems in law enforcement and administration, voter registration and participation, medical and hospital services, farm employment, and training and ownership.

* *

The premise upon which this study is based is: Political, social, and economic disaster can be avoided only by a determined coordination of every resource of state government into an exhaustive effort to bring about the assimilation of minorities. But planning for this task will itself be doomed to failure unless the "limits of public policy" are recognized at the outset of the effort. The fact is that public policy recommendations, political activity, fresh judicial and administrative decisions are insufficient to meet the problems of minority assimilation. What is meant here is far more than the hackneyed expression of moribund conservatism that "morality cannot be legislated." Rather, the point is twofold: first, public policy recommendations must take into consideration the fact that without active acceptance by the majorities and full participation by the minorities, the division of minority and majorities, along currently existing lines, will continue indefinitely. Second, as the periodic attacks upon the problems of Appalachia have demonstrated over the past thirty years, programs which do not have a built-in awareness of their specific limitations are doomed to discouragement and sometimes abandonment because of early failures that could be only temporary.

The consequences of this are clear. Public policy must encourage and solicit the active support of both majorities and minorities, especially with a view to developing the relevant responses of the minorities to programs for their assimilation into areas providing for the maximum expression of options and opportunities. The coordinated program to eliminate minority injustices and inequality must be drafted with full recognition of the long-range, ongoing nature of the task it seeks to meet, and legislators, administrators, and the public at large must understand this aspect of the program and the policy. False optimism and early discouragements can only compound the existing problem by increasing the feeling of frustration and despair by minorities and of frustration and recklessness by the majority. A recognition of the "limits" of public policy, therefore, should assist the framing of a more viable and relevant series of public policy recommendations, by developing programs designed to encourage types of efforts which, by definition, are beyond the possibility of direct political influence.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

We envision, therefore, a coordination of all resources of state government into an exhaustive effort to assimilate minorities in the earliest yet most effective and permanent manner. There are four major aspects to this task from the point of view of public policy.

1) A State Civil Rights Act (patterned after the Kentucky Civil Rights Act and the Uniform State Civil Rights Act currently being drafted by a special committee of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws). Such an act is necessary for two principal reasons. First, it will serve as an earnest to those racial and economic minorities in the South who, for over one hundred years, have seen the political instrumentalities of their states used to keep them locked in a minority status. A great deal has been made about the fact that the pattern of state (and federal) government activities toward minorities has in the past generation shifted from outright hostility toward minorities and preserving the status quo of the existing power structure through the use of the machinery of government, to the use of that machinery as a neutral, an umpire, between majority and minorities. We contend, therefore, that the machinery of government must now be used positively and actively to assimilate minorities into the mainstream of southern life. A State Civil Rights Act would be a highly significant gesture of government to Negro minorities, indicating that their governments now intend to meet the obligations of providing equal rights and opportunities for all citizens. Similarly, a State Civil Rights Act would bind future state administrations to the goal of minority assimilation, and have a cleansing effect upon state politics.

About the 1966 Kentucky Civil Rights Act, Martin Luther King said: "The passage of this legislation comes as a joyous daybreak to end the long night of human captivity. We in SCLC, in conjunction with our affiliate organization, the Kentucky Christian Leadership Conference, will cooperate in every way to implement this all-important bill . . . [the bill contains] strong and enforceable public accommodations and fair employment legislation. This is a milestone for a southern state, and indeed, a great step forward in any state. The passage of this bill will serve as a great beacon light of hope for all men of goodwill and hopefully inspire other states to follow suit."

Secondly, there are some aspects of public policy and minority assimilation which are best covered in a Civil Rights Act, especially the declaration of intention to bind the machinery of the state's government toward equality, the elimination of discrimination in employment, public accommodations, possibly law enforcement, in the establishment of a state agency having principle responsibility for directing the coordinated program for minority assimilation, and for coordinating federal and state programs concerned with Civil Rights.

2) We envision a series of other public policy recommendations related in some cases to the State Civil Rights Act but which require specific and immediate attention because of their importance and urgency in the field of minority assimilation -- notably education and employment, law enforcement, medical and hospital services and farm employment.

3) We envision the need of public policy to address itself to bureaucracies dealing with the problems of minority assimilation. While this is a common problem in every phase of the coordinated program, it requires specific mention at this juncture. The importance suggests that a special study of bureaucracy might be undertaken by each state on various levels of administration. The problem is concerned not merely with the agencies and commissions concerned with problems of equal rights and opportunities being gradually shifted from complaint-centered to initiators of positive programs, but to what seems to be a built-in conservatism peculiar to American bureaucracies. Restrictions are already on record in the projects encouraging Community Actions Programs to exert external pressure upon state and federal bureaucracies. Some plans must be devised to enable the bureaucracies directly involved in minority assimilation to re-orient and reorganize themselves to meet the current challenges.

4) We envision that every phase of these public policy recommendations must have as its central task the effective and genuine participation of the minorities in programs designed to assimilate them into the mainstream of our society. This should be done in every plan and program (including the drafting of a Civil Rights Bill) and especially in giving advice and effectiveness to programs of education, employment, medical services, neighborhood activities, law enforcement and farm programs. This policy has become axiomatic with those who have identified themselves most closely with problems of racial and economic minorities. It has been regarded as an ever-present danger to a number of city and state political leaders and even local administrators employed by the Office of Economic Opportunity. The relation of the maximum participation of minorities to the issue of the "limits" of public policy in assimilating minorities ought to be obvious. Without such maximum participation, the area delineated by the "limiting" line of public policy will be narrower than it need be. Nathan Glazer recently made an important observation about the necessity for instrumentalities other than political ones to guarantee the success of any programs designed to meet the related evils of poverty and racism:

> And since the problem of poverty is so largely concentrated in our Negro population, I am convinced that much of the effort and manpower involved in overcoming it must come from the Negro community, even if funds that power it come from the federal government [and we may add, "state governments"]. It is axiomatic to me that Negro organizations -- whether they educate, train, advise, employ, organize, or whatnot -- can potentially do far, far more with Negro clients than can governmental organizations. It is in the stimulation of individual and group effort -- whether motivated by profit, charity, group pride, or the desire for individual fulfillment or salvation -- that I see the most productive courses we can follow to overcome poverty.

But the issue of minority participation in a democracy relates, in a very practical and very immediate way, to the majority. Saul Alinsky has eloquently reminded us that:

> From the beginning, it has been self-evident that the point of mortality of the democratic way of life has been in the people. This way of life cannot work unless most of the individuals work at it. The price is daily participation by the populace. One hundred and twenty-five years ago De Tocqueville gravely warned that unless individual citizens were regularly involved in the action of governing themselves, that self-government would pass from the scene. Citizen participation is the animating spirit and force in a society predicated upon voluntarism.

We are not here concerned with the ever-present numbers of people who profess the democratic faith, but basically yearn for the dark security of dependency where they can be spared the burdens of decisions, fearful of personal responsibilities. Reluctant to, or incapable of growing up, they desire a constant childhood with others caring for them. Those who can should be encouraged to grow; for the others, the fault lies not in the system but in themselves.

Here, we are desperately concerned with the vast mass of our people who, thwarted through lack of interest or opportunity, or both, regularly partake of the frequent duties and responsibilities of citizenship and are resigned to a destiny determined by others. Loss of identification as a citizen in a democracy is but a step from loss of identification as a person. The sense of not belonging produces a political and social numbness. If no one cares for you then you don't care for anyone. People react to this situation by not acting. The divorce of the people from the routine daily functions of citizenship become the heartbreak of democracy.

It is a grave situation when a people have reached a point of resignation of citizenship. Even when a resident of any great metropolis may have a desire to take a hand, he lacks the instrument by means of which he can translate his desire into active participation. And so the local citizen sinks further into apathy, anonymity, and depersonalization. The end is his complete dependence on public authority and a state of civic-schlerosis.

> From time to time there has been an enemy at our gates; this time the Soviets, east and west; all the time, however, there has been and is the enemy within us; that hidden, malignant inertia carrying more certain destruction to our life and future than that in any nuclear warhead. There can be no darker or more devastating tragedy than the death of man's faith in himself, in his power to direct his future.

What public policymakers face in the effort to assimilate minorities, therefore, is the possibility of a genuine renewal or an inevitable disintegration of the democratic way of life. The possibilities of public policy -- if the "limits" are recognized -- in renewing American democracy by assimilating minorities is the most important domestic political challenge of the second half of the twentieth century.

We shall concern ourselves first with an outline of broad but essential features of a civil rights bill before turning to a sketch of the agency which might direct and coordinate the principal efforts in minority assimilation, and conclude with some specific recommendations for public policy in particularly acute areas.

We have already called attention to the two principal factors which call for the enactment of a state Civil Rights Law. Attention should also be directed to the fact that the United States Civil Rights Act of 1964 acknowledged the desirability of implementing the public policy of the United States -- i.e., non-discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, or national origin -- at the state and local level. That act emphasized that its own enforcement could be through state agencies functioning under state laws which were compatible with the federal statute.

In this connection, a state Civil Rights Act would not only meet the requirements of federal law, but would provide more sensitive, more efficient, more relevant, more effective, and less remote enforcement procedures than the federal law. It should, thereby, provide a more viable approach to and enforcement of the civil rights of all citizens, and thus provide the bulwark for minority assimilation.

The general outline of a state Civil Rights Act which follows uses as its principal model the Kentucky modification of the model of the Uniform State Civil Rights Act. It is suggested that the final draft of the model of the Uniform State Civil Rights Act be consulted, when completed.

The first article declares the purpose of the act, the importance of the earnest the act provides to all, but especially to citizens of minority race or economic class. "To safeguard all individuals within the state from discrimination because of race, color, religion, and national origin in connection with employment and public accommodations; thereby to protect their interest in personal dignity and freedom from humiliation in places of public accommodation, to make available to the state their full productive capacities in employment, to secure the state against domestic strife and unrest which would menace its democratic institutions, to preserve the public safety, health, and general welfare, and to further the interests, rights, and privileges of individuals within the state."

The article covering definitions should include under "person" not only "one or more individuals, labor unions, joint apprentice committees, partnerships, associations, corporations, the state and its subdivisions," but also specify chambers of commerce, real estate dealers, organizations of professional and commercial persons, including medical associations, and teacher associations. The necessity for this specification is obvious; the reasons for it equally so, upon review of the consequences in medical practice, teaching, and business operations, of segregating these professional and commercial associations.

The article concerning Equal Employment Opportunity should have as its goal the elimination of employment discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, and national origin, for, as a minimum goal, 90% of a state's employees. This, rather than the percentage of employers covered, should be the determinative figure, although the percentage of employers covered should be the maximum, in line with the aims of the bill. Definitions within this article should specify professional and commercial organizations along with labor organizations.

"Employer" should mean a person who has five (5) or more employees with the state in each of fifteen (15) or more calendar weeks.

This article should make it unlawful for an employer to fail or refuse to hire any employee, to discriminate against an employee in wages, working conditions, and other privileges or to limit or segregate employees in any way which would deprive or adversely affect his status as an employee because of race, color, religion, or national origin. Employment agencies, public or private, should also be covered in this article in their referring for employment individuals who seek their services. Labor, professional, and commercial organizations should no longer, under this article, be permitted to limit membership, segregate, or classify membership, or cause employers or agencies with which they deal to discriminate against individuals on the basis of race, color, religion, or national origin. Employers and others, including individuals seeking employment, should be prohibited from publishing advertisements specifying race, color, religion, or national origin in matters concerning employment or employer-employee relationships. The obvious provisions for dealing with equal treatment based on individual merit, and for a "reasonable exercise" of religious preference to church-related educational institutions also should be included in this article.

The article covering Public Accommodations should draw on the experience of state laws, and the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964, on this subject. Clarity and uniformity are best achieved by making the coverage provisions as general as possible, and this clarity, in turn, eliminates both anxiety in the minds of owners and customers and the possibility of subterfuge. It should be made unlawful (in the words of the Kentucky act) "for a person to deny an individual the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, and accommodations of a place of public accommodation, resort or amusement" on the ground of race, color, religion, or national origin. Place of public accommodation, resort, or amusement would include "any place, store or other establishment, either licensed or unlicensed, which supplies goods or services to the general public or which solicits or accepts the patronage or trade of the general public or which is supported directly or indirectly by government funds." Exclusions should cover only private clubs, defined "not as a place of public accommodation if its policies are determined by its members and its facilities or services are available only to its members and their bona fide guests"; barber shops and beauty shops grossing less than $5,000 a year; rooming or boarding houses containing no more than four rooms for rent or hire, within a building occupied by the proprietor as his residence. Publications and advertisements indicating discriminatory practices or services should be prohibited in this article.

Enforcement of the act should be in the hands of an appropriate agency of the Resources Office, possibly incorporating within such office any existing Commission on Human Rights. Its initial, and chief, work would, hopefully, be educational, persuasive, and conciliatory. But the Commission should have the "power to receive, initiate, investigate, seek to conciliate, hold hearings on, and pass upon complaints alleging violations of" the state Civil Rights Act. The Commission would conduct preliminary investigations upon receipt of or initiation of complaints, determine if there is sufficient cause to believe that unlawful discrimination is being practiced. If so, it would proceed first to encourage compliance by conciliation and persuasion. If this fails, the commission would then serve a complaint upon the party charged with discrimination, hold a public hearing, subpoena both witnesses and documents, barring the commission member who filed or received and investigated and sought to conciliate the complaint. If the law is found to be violated, a cease and desist order should be issued, subject to review and enforcement in the state courts. Complaints are dismissed when staff investigation finds no probable cause, although the complainant can appeal this decision to the state courts. (Procedures found in the Model State Administrative Procedure Act should serve as a guide to protection of complainants, respondents, use of subpoenas and avoidance of general "fishing expeditions" in the conduct of hearings.)

Retaliation, and conspiracy to retaliate, against anyone exercising rights guaranteed by the State Civil Rights Act should be made an unlawful act punishable by fine and/or imprisonment.

Finally, the act should provide for the establishment of local commissions on human rights to encourage all levels of local government to protect citizens from discrimination, permitting counties to create such commissions, and cities and counties to cooperate with them in order to eliminate discrimination, and to pass ordinances enforceable in state courts.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

The commission whose duties are summarized in the Civil Rights Act to enforce the act and to receive, initiate, investigate, conciliate, hold hearings on and pass upon complaints alleging violations of the act should, we believe, be a part of a broader state agency or office whose chief responsibility would be to initiate and implement public policy dealing with minority assimilation, and to direct and coordinate the programs in existing agencies on the state and local level having to do with this problem. The details of such an agency, commission, or office should, of course, be determined by specific states, but the chief functions of such an agency are fairly clear. (We shall refer to this agency hereafter as the Resources Office.)

(We believe that the task of assimilating minorities is so urgent and so complex that a specially created, permanent office is required to effectively initiate and and direct the program.) Quite possibly the office should have several divisions, one being concerned with the enforcement of provisions of the Civil Rights Act, and the other to include all of the other activities of the minority assimilation program. The immensity of the task of minority assimilation is so great that piece-meal, ad hoc programs are doomed to failure. The office should be composed of those whose task it will be to continue to search out ways in which to implement, improve, speed minority assimilation, as well as implement the programs of initial legislative efforts. We suggest that the importance of this office be established in many ways: the appointment of a director whose prestige is assured by his designation as an officer of the state administration who is responsible directly to the governor and to the legislature.

One function that should be performed by this office is the collection and dissemination of information relative to problems of minority assimilation. It should be in possession of progress reports on such programs. It should be ready to distribute by a number of means information that would effectively counter the work of hate groups and racists, simply by puslishing straightforward and factual information. This office should also have responsibility for directing studies to be made of problems peculiar to minority assimilation in each state and, in cooperation with other states, in their regions. For example, the economic cost of unassimilated minorities should be an initial and integral part of the work of this agency and this study should be kept up to date. Other such studies which immediately come to mind would be possible effect of reapportionment; of urban decay; of rural migration; of birth control; of the relation of cultural deprivation and non-verbal "sub-cultures" and the possibilities of maximum educational attainment.

One of the reasons for urging an over-all and comprehensive program for minority assimilation is the fact that there has never existed, on either federal or state level, planning which takes seriously into account the problem with which we are here concerned. The over-all planning for this task should be done closely with state planning agencies (largely concerned with economic matters; indeed, no plan should be regarded as completed until it had gone through the office concerned with minority assimilation and relevant state agencies such as education and finance.)

Another activity of this office would be concerned with the establishment of a code -- possibly leading to legislation -- covering the mass media. Perhaps an agency in this office could administer such a code. In any event, some sort of code of fair practices is needed, especially in the coverage of news relating to "race relations," and also to matters of the sponsorship of certain types of "devotional" and/or "educational" programs by well-known economic-racial conservatives.

This office should also have responsibility for dealing with problems of state-local relationships and programs dealing with minority assimilation. Assuming that the Civil Rights Act was effectively drawn, the state responsibility should supersede local perogatives in cases of minority discrimination. Indeed, the office could well provide a clear delineation of authority from the federal Civil Rights Act, through state efforts (summarized in Article I of the state act), and to the local level. This would insure not only that the office serve as a clearing house of information, but would insure as well that minorities received the full resources -- legal, economic, and otherwise -- of the state, federal, and local governments in the abatement of their problems.

The office which we have described here will bear the principal governmental burden for the ongoing problem of assimilating minorities. It should be characterized by integrity and determination, for one of its chief tasks will be to create, and maintain, an atmosphere of openness and willingness throughout the state to complete the tasks facing all of the people of the state. The constitution of the office should be framed in such a way that it be free of political tug-of-war and campaign pot-shots. The executive should probably be appointed by the governor, with appropriate legislative approval, and a board of directors with over-lapping terms, whose appointments are determined by their insight into the urgency of the problem and ability to cope with it, plus experience in the state in various capacities, without regard to political affiliation. The constitution of the office should make it clear that the office is central in the state's administration, and that its tasks are second to none performed by the state.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

Education, with employment, are the two areas in which public policy recommendations are most likely to meet with success, and they are the areas which require the most immediate attention.

I. EDUCATION

A. The first step in meeting the problem of education faced by a determination to assimilate minorities is the immediate integration of the public school system, all grades, all phases. The gradualism and evasiveness, and in some instances fear, that have accompanied compliance with the 1954 Supreme Court decision suggests that an over-all state plan to integrate school systems immediately and completely is needed -- quite independent, therefore, of specific plans made by localities at the behest of the federal district courts. We believe that such a plan, and the implementation thereof, should be put into the Resources Office of the state agency just described rather than in the state department of education. Officials in the state department should share a responsible part of the planning to complete the integration of the school system. But final responsibility for the program, and for its implementation, should reside with the Resources Office.

Among the issues that must be faced in planning the end of minority isolation is the problem of de facto segregation in the concept of "neighborhood schools." This obvious subterfuge must be faced and solved in the plan to complete integration of the school system. Another issue that the plan should cover is the integration of public school faculties, which is essential in assimilation of minorities, and would provide in most cases a positive example of such assimilation. Similarly, provisions must be made for the integration of school administrations and school boards as well as of faculties and students. Possibly some form of a quota system should be used in the initial stages to insure that Negro teachers, administrators, and school board members are appointed.

B. Related to the integration of student bodies, faculties, administrations, and school boards is the fact that an emergency program is in order in each southern state that would bring the school system abreast of other systems in the nation. This involves, in the first instance, an up-grading of the teaching professions in public education by increased salaries and benefits, with the corresponding increase in requirements for teacher qualification and certification. These qualifications should be maintained through renewal of certificates upon continued work and study.

C. Public schools have a responsibility today to educate other than young people, and this task is one that touches one of the central problems of minorities -- adult illiteracy, and pre-school deficiencies. Public school systems must supplement the education of those who have suffered under a segregated system, and this means primarily adult general education programs, begun immediately and offered in the evening hours and, for those unemployed, daytime hours. The program should be tuition free, and textbooks provided without cost. Related to this is the problem (isolated by Martin Deutsch and others) of the permanent effect in the formative years of ages 1-5 of "non-verbal" and non-reading environments. (To meet this problem, public schools must commence "head-start" programs on a year-round basis, as early as four years old, introducing children to the rudiments of education, socialization, reflection.)

D. School text books ought to be "desegregated" and "integrated." This notorious problem in American education must be met immediately. The influence -- politically, economically, militarily, socially, culturally -- of minorities must become a part of the instruction of young people in the traditions of their democracy.

E. Related to a task already discussed for the Resources Office is the necessity of an overt program to educate the white majority of Southerners about the basic constitutional rights of all citizens. The legal egalitarianism of the Constitution must be made obvious. Furthermore, the white majority must be made to realize that economic opportunity and well being, along with political and social equality, is as far as their own immediate situation is concerned, the essential feature of the American system of democracy. This program can be carried out in several ways which relate it to the work of the Resources Office. Members of the Resources Office could prepare material for use by the governor in speaking on the urgency of the problem of minority assimilation.

F. Trade and retraining schools are in need of creation and/or expansion. Those who are presently disinherited economically and socially by the centuries of segregation have a right to be prepared by education and trade to be assimilated into this society. Those presently suffering the greatest hardship through lack of skills and training in the South are Negroes who have suffered under, at best, an inadequate educational system. Trade and retraining should not be restricted to young people. The public education system has a responsibility to prepare all citizens capable of earning a living for a trade.

Another function of trade and re-training schools would be to work particularly with those schools whose student bodies have been most severely dislocated by integration -- particularly those students in them who have been unwilling or unable to continue in an integrated school system.

This preparation in trade and technical schools should be carried out in an integrated atmosphere as part of the education of moving into integrated employment.

Finally, this preparation should be in skills that are relevant to the last half of the twentieth century, and not restricted to automobile mechanics and plumbing -- that is, in electronics, computor operations, etc.

G. There are a number of specific recommendations dealing with the field of higher education.

1. The fact is that equality in higher education is still a distant goal in the South (and through most of the nation) because of the continuance of the systematic exclusion of Negroes from adequate preparation for college and university work. Because of this, all segments of higher education have a special responsibility for instituting programs to overcome this educational deficit produced by inadequate and segregated school systems. A variety of means ought to be employed: special sessions, tutorials, institutes -- in every corner of the state -- should be undertaken, under the auspices of the institutions of higher education to prepare Negro students for higher education. Otherwise, claims about equality of education in both public and private institutions will continue to be fradulent, despite clauses about acceptance of "all properly qualified applicants without regard to race or creed."

2. Public institutions have a special responsibility to initiate programs designed to overcome the deficiencies of segregated school systems. Two procedures seem most obvious: first, the boards of control of state institutions of higher education should establish remedial and preparatory programs physically accessible to all citizens, designed to overcome past and present deficiences of public school education, and enable all students to have the opportunity to enter institutions of higher education. Such programs should be offered at convenient hours, in excess of regular programs of public education, designed specifically to prepare students for college work. Wherever possible, these programs should be conducted on the campuses of institutions of higher education, and instruction should be given or led by college faculty. Second, the Resource Office, in coordination with state departments of education and board of control of state institutions of higher learning, should institute a permanent program to encourage students of minority groups to plan their high school careers so that they will be able to exercise the option of choosing or rejecting higher education, rather than have circumstances make that decision for them.

3. Similarly, private colleges and universities should be encouraged to institute similar programs in their admission programs. Perhaps part of that encouragement might consist of matching funds from the state to prepare students in special summer and after-hour sessions to meet admission requirements. (Private colleges unwilling to participate in such programs should face re-examination of charter and/or tax-exempt status.)

4. A study patterned after the Teachers College, Columbia University, The Predominantly Negro Colleges and Universities in Transition (1965) should be prepared under the auspices of the Resources Office, with the cooperation of the state boards of education and board of control of state institutions of higher education. (Of particular interest should be the findings with regard to the phasing out of graduate, technical, medical, and law schools; on the possibility of using these facilities for compensatory education for young people and for the general education of adults -- both on an integrated basis; finally and most important, on measures necessary to strengthen the existing predominantly Negro colleges.) The guideline for this latter recommendation should be the realistic appraisal found in the Teachers College study by Earl J. McGrath: "Any reasonable estimate of the speed of desegregation suggests that these institutions for the foreseeable future are likely to provide the major source of educational opportunity for Negroes who continue their education beyond high school."

5. Professional schools must themselves assume the major burden of responsibility for actively seeking out potential Negro students in their particular fields. This is especially true in schools of medicine, law, and in graduate schools of the natural and physical sciences. These schools should have a permanent program designed to acquaint freshmen and sophomore college students with their disciplines, with requirements for entrance, and engage in specific training programs and institutes in summer and after-school hours preparing Negro students to meet entrance requirements. Professional schools (with certain exceptions) are notoriously conservative about such matters. Nevertheless, the degree of their public financial support today lays upon them the special responsibility to undertake such programs. Such financial support also provides a basis for a coordinated program of federal and state authorities to require that such professional schools undertake such programs as a condition for continued support.

6. An immediate and substantial program of continuing the education of Negro public school teachers is in order. This program should be geared to the problems of continued integration of public school systems. Negro (and white, for that matter) teachers who lose their positions because of integration should be fully supported financially for a minimum of two years to continue their education and to develop skills especially needed in their particular area or state.

Throughout this report, we have reiterated the crucial factor of education in minority assimilation. While it is clear that "education alone" will not eliminate the problem of minority assimilation, it is clear that it is the key that is in the power of public policy-makers.

The successful beginning, therefore, of public policy to assimilate minorities might be geared by its success in the very area of its greatest and, in the long run, its best hope: education. Furthermore, the success of this endeavor in education can be judged easily: by the degree and the ease to which minorities are able to pass from the first to the last stages in education, public and private, within the state, and the degree to which the public policy of a state has successfully eliminated all barriers to complete education based on minority status alone. In the culture and society and economy of the United States in the last half of the twentieth century, the importance of education cannot be overemphasized. Education is, perhaps, assuming the nature of a fetish in our country; if so, it is a fetish which has become the key to entrance into, and alteration of, the mainstream of American society. This situation is stated deliberately and provocatively in the report by Earl J. McGrath on Negro colleges. His statement makes it clear that if as we have agreed a state Civil Rights Act is necessary to convince minorities that state governments are now, after more than a century, serious about their plight, public policy regarding to education will be a test of the endurance and the integrity of that seriousness.

> Without . . . greatly magnified support much of the present heartening public concern about the inequalities the Negro has suffered in American society and efforts to eradicate them will regrettably be abortive. For as a number of economists, sociologists, and generally well-informed persons have observed, economic well-being, job opportunities, social status, and general public acceptance today depend on the amount and kind of education the individual has. This will be increasingly true, regardless of race.
>
> Opening the doors to higher education for the Negro is an indispensable step, indeed, the sine qua non in his personal and social advancement. The right to vote, the right to work, the right to live where he chooses, the right to move freely anywhere in American society -- these rights are all dear to the man who knows what freedom is and wants it. But the right to education is no less precious than these, and to a growing degree it is the single right without which a man cannot fully obtain the others. Negroes and all citizens who want to gain for them the full benefits and privileges of living in this society ought to pour their energies into efforts to expand the opportunities for higher education among Negroes and to improve its quality.

II. EMPLOYMENT

A. Article III of the state Civil Rights Act covers the basic elements of equal access to employment opportunities. It should be noted that the Resources Office has power not merely to receive, but also to initiate, violations of the act, which includes employers of more than five (5) persons, and labor organizations and private as well as public employment agencies. (The state Civil Rights Act would also empower the Resource Office to work with the United States Equal Employment Opportunity Commission created by Title VII of the 1965 Civil Rights Act.)

B. The Resources Office should be responsible for establishing and maintaining a relationship between federal, state, and private employment services and colleges, universities, trade schools, and high schools and locally based minority organizations (social, fraternal, political organizations). The purpose of this relationship would be to activate and encourage compliance with Article III (and Title VII) of the state (and federal) Civil Rights Acts; to make a special effort to acquaint Negro and other minorities of available employment opportunities; to report to the Resources Office opportunities for which qualified persons are not available so that steps might be taken to institute training programs for these openings; and otherwise relate the problems of employment and unemployment, training and the lack thereof, to the Resources Office.

C. The Resources Office should have the responsibility to guarantee that industry is attracted to the state on an integrated basis.

III. LAW: ADMINISTRATION AND ENFORCEMENT.

A. Possibly the key to long-term success in the area of law enforcement and administration is to couple policy recommendations with an ongoing commitment of state political leaders to educate their citizens in the meaning of "equal protection of the law." Political campaigns are a proper forum for such education; political leaders speaking to service clubs, etc., should direct speeches around such themes. State and local bar associations should be encouraged by the Resources Office to undertake projects dedicated to an elucidation of the significance of "equal protection of the law" to American democracy.

B. The most obvious place to begin a program designed to equitably enforce and administer the law is to eliminate discrimination in the employment of state and local police forces and in the courts of law. State and local enforcement agencies should undertake campaigns to equalize the distribution of employees by education and training.

C. Given the present status of law enforcement in the South, especially the rural South, some system of statewide licensing of law officers, to be renewed periodically, should be instituted. The revocation of such a license would prevent the individual from being an enforcement officer anywhere in the state.

D. All restrictive clauses on classes of officers -- especially those prohibiting a Negro officer from arresting white people -- should be eliminated.

E. A continuous system of instruction should be maintained at all levels of law enforcement about the basic civil rights of all citizens. Licenses should be granted only to those persons who had received such instruction and had satisfactorily passed an examination on the subject. This program should be the primary instrument to alter the attitude of law enforcement officers in areas strongly inclined to racial prejudice.

F. Committees on various levels empowered to hear, investigate, and act upon charges of police misconduct are necessary. The problem of the constitution of such a panel is well known. One possibility is a panel composed of citizens elected for this duty, the law enforcement officers, and members appointed from the local bar association.

G. An investigation should be launched leading to the publication of data on the question that capital punishment in the South is a form of racial intimidation, or vengeance.

H. Investigations should be made into specific problems of racial segregation in prison systems or within specific prisons. The movement toward a more humane effective prison system is a particularly important problem for Negroes in the South, and this work should be encouraged by periodic investigations from the Resources Office.

IV. HOUSING:

A. The Resources Office should be empowered by law to work with the state planning commission, and with local housing authorities, to eliminate existing ghettos, to prevent the creation of new ones, and to approve plans submitted by localities to the federal and state governments for urban renewal and resettlement.

B. Close supervision of public housing to avoid discrimination should be vested in the Resources Office. The proof of non-discrimination in new public housing would be actual residence of Negroes at completion. This can be done by having contractors accept the responsibility to recruit minorities in reasonable quantity as tenants. When recruitment lags, or fails, the contractor might be penalized by suspension of additional funds or cancellation of the existing contract.

C. Federal-state ventures into non-discriminatory housing should also consider renting existing housing and subletting it on a non-discriminatory basis.

(Note: Eugene Feingold and Robert J. Harris have in preparation a study of "cease and desist agencies" concerned with public housing, and their tentative conclusions argue against such agencies insofar as housing discrimination is concerned. Presumably their study, when completed, will suggest alternatives. I have embodied two of their tentative suggestions in #2 and #3 above.)

V. VOTER REGISTRATION AND PARTICIPATION.

A. Universal registration of all citizens eighteen years and older. Only those actually serving prison sentences should be barred from registration.

B. Provision for regularly scheduled evening and weekend registration should be made. Volunteer deputy registrars should be recruited in the event of shortages of funds on the local levels.

C. Provisions for absentee voting should be simplified and these ballots more widely used.

D. Election Commissions should be established having control over both primary and general elections. These commissions should also investigate abuses in registration procedure.

VI. MEDICAL AND HOSPITAL SERVICES.

A. A state agency, possibly from the Resources Office, should be empowered to investigate and enforce non-discrimination in all hospital and medical services. This should be coordinated with recent directives from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare seeking to eliminate remaining segregation in federally supported hospitals and medical services.

Particular attention should be paid to practices in emergency rooms, ambulance services, and receiving rooms where, in the past, discriminatory practices have been responsible for unwarranted embarrassments, suffering, and even death. Possible fine and imprisonment amendments to the state Civil Rights Act might be considered in the event of prolonged non-compliance.

B. Discrimination in organizations of the several medical professions should be prohibited by law. (Cf. state Civil Rights Act.)

C. Negroes should be encouraged by programs launched by the Resources Office, but supported by local organizations of physicians, hospital associates, nurses, etc., to enter the various medical professions. Information about type of pre-medical training, loans, special training outside regularly scheduled high school and university work, should be inaugurated in communities of minorities.

VII. FARM EMPLOYMENT, TRAINING, OWNERSHIP.

A. The Resources Office should assume the responsibility, in conjunction with but superior to the State Department of Agriculture, of problems of assimilation of minorities of farm populations, by the establishment of a special section devoted exclusively to the problems of farm employment, training and re-training, rural-to-urban area migration, and farm ownership. The first and most obvious task of this section would be to coordinate state problems in this area with the many relevant programs of the federal government.

B. The indictment of the United States Department of Agriculture by the U. S. Commission on Civil Rights in March, 1965 ("Equal Opportunity in Farm Programs") makes plain the fact that a large measure of the success of meeting the crisis of minority assimilation of farm population must be largely born by state activities. While the Civil Rights Commission statement is valid -- "few of the economic problems now burdening the rural South can be solved until basic changes are made in the federal programs designed to bring about solutions -- the chronic nature of the problem -- again as stated by the Commission -- demands the immediate attention of policy-makers in the state:

> For decades the general economic, social, and cultural position of the southern Negro farmer and rural resident in relation to his white neighbor has steadily worsened. Whether measured in terms of value of products sold, level of living, land and home ownership, or schooling, most of the 47 million Negroes living in southern rural areas are seriously disadvantaged when compared with rural white Southerners.
>
> Each census enumeration of population and agriculture has reflected the fact that the Negro farmers have not participated fully in the benefits of government programs and the progress of American agriculture. The continuing reliance of Negroes on cotton, tobacco, and peanuts in an economy where white farmers are rapidly diversifying to other farm enterprises has been shown in government reports issued every five years. Statistics have attested to the shrinking acreage farmed by Negroes. Every ten years the census has reported a widening gap in income, education and housing, between southern rural whites and Negroes.

Although small farmers, without regard to race, are rapidly decreasing in number and although economic pressures appear to be forcing a reduction in number and an increase in size of farms, there is unmistakable evidence that racial discrimination has served to accelerate the displacement and impoverishment of the Negro farmer.

For more than 100 years -- and particularly during the past 30 years -- the U. S. Department of Agriculture has administered federally financed programs designed to improve almost every aspect of the lives of low-income farm and rural families. Although other political, social, and economic factors have simultaneously operated to the disadvantage of the rural southern Negro, it should be a matter of national concern that the gap between Negro and white rural residents in the South has increased during the very period when the programs of the department were helping thousands of rural white families to achieve substantial gains in income, housing, and education. As the group most depressed economically, most deprived educationally, and most oppressed socially, Negroes have been consistently denied access to many services, provided with inferior services when served, and segregated in federally financed agricultural programs whose very task was to raise their standard of living.

The commission's analysis of four major U. S. Department of Agriculture programs has clearly indicated that the department has generally failed to assume responsibility for assuring equal opportunity and equal treatment to all those entitled to benefit from its programs. Instead, the prevailing practice has been to follow local patterns of racial segregation and discrimination in providing assistance paid for by federal funds. At the same time, the department has not developed adequate procedures for evaluating the degree to which its programs reach Negro as well as white rural residents.

One result of this failure of responsibility has been the perpetuation of a double standard for southern Negroes and whites affected by the department's programs. In the Cooperative Extension Service this has led to the creation of separate and unequal administrative structures providing inferior services to Negro farmers, youth, and homemakers. In the Farmers Home Administration, it has meant a different kind of service to the two races, with Negro farmers receiving for the most part subsistence loans with limited supervision, while white farmers received supervised loans for capital expenditures. In the Soil Conservation Service, the result has been little service at all to many Negro landowners in areas where no Negro staff members are employed.

As applied to staff, the double standard has taken various forms in the programs studies. These have included failure to recruit, employ, or upgrade Negroes, or to permit them to serve white farmers; isolation of Negroes in separate offices or at segregated meetings; and providing Negro staff members with inservice training of shorter duration and inferior content than that given white staff members. In state extention services Negro staff members have often been required to provide to Negro farmers technical services outside their area of training, while white farmers have received assistance from specialists in these areas.

The discriminatory record of the U. S. Department of Agriculture memely writes in large letters the activities of state departments of agriculture in the South. We believe that the most immediate, effective, and permanent resolution of the problems of minority farm populations will probably come about through federal-state-local cooperation, given the large stake -- financially, politically, and otherwise -- that the federal government has in the farm economy.

C. The most practical ways in which to meet the problem of minority farm populations are, first, by easing of availability of long term loans for land purchase and improvement, and short term loans for operating costs, diversification, and for meeting emergency expenses. Second, by making available, in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to farm owners, workers, youth, and homemakers in rural communities the educational services of the departments on state and federal levels, through 4-H clubs, and other such activities.

D. The Resources Office should assume the responsibility, in conjunction with but nevertheless superior to the state department of agriculture, of coordinating the problems associated with the assimilation of minorities of farm populations, chiefly by the establishment of a special section devoted exclusively to the problems of farm employment, training and re-training, rural-to-urban migration, and farm ownership. This section of the Resources Office would take responsibility for coordinating state problems, and programs, with the relevant agencies and programs of the federal government.

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

While the problem of the "inward commitment" of political leaders and policy-makers concerning the assimilation of minorities is obviously fundamental, and the magnitude of the task with which this report is concerned is transparent, neither of these factors should be permitted to impede the efforts to face these issues of crisis with determination, intelligence, and goodwill. The first and irrevocable step that must be taken, we believe, is an over-all and coordinate plan to exploit existing state programs, and to create new ones, to meet this crisis. In this, the South might even provide leadership to the federal government, which has so far been unable or unwilling to accept the necessity of a coordinated plan and program to deal with minority (racial and economic) assimilation.

The honest and effective and permanent assimilation of minorities, especially racial minorities in the South, into the mainstream of American life, hope, and opportunity is a matter about which this democracy has neither option, nor a great deal of time. The failure to bring about this assimilation immediately and democratically will toll the one failure this democracy cannot afford. The failure to do so, democratically, will be the irretrievable failure of the system of democracy in the United States of America.

And that is the choice which is clearly before us.

GEORGIA

FOR RELEASE: THURSDAY, JANUARY 5, 1967 AT 7:00 P. M.

(Text of remarks by Governor Carl E. Sanders at an appreciation dinner for the Governor's Commission for Efficiency and Improvement in Government held at the Dinkler Motor Hotel on Thursday, January 5, 1967 at 7:00 P. M.)

MR. MCDONOUGH, MR. AVERY, DISTINGUISHED MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNOR'S COMMISSION FOR EFFICIENCY AND IMPROVEMENT IN GOVERNMENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

This is one of the most pleasant tasks I have had since becoming Governor. The four years of this Administration in a very real sense started with the appointment of the Governor's Commission for Efficiency and Improvement in Government, and it is fitting that in our closing days we pay tribute to the magnificent accomplishments of these men.

Too often the appointment of a committee to study problems, no matter what kind of exalted name we give that committee, is nothing but a political tactic to give the impression of concern and progress while allowing the same old conditions to continue. I know that some people expected that the Efficiency Commission would turn out to be another of these groups that writes a report destined to be filed away in a dusty closet and forgotten.

But the objective record shows that the recommendations of this Commission have not been forgotten. Let us briefly review what they have accomplished.

First of all the Commission has to this date submitted ten reports on the operations of different agencies of Georgia's state government. With these ten reports have come eleven consultant reports and several interim or supplemental reports by the Commission. In addition, four more reports will be issued before the last day of this Administration.

I might point out that the final report will be an objective summary of the extent to which the Commission's recommendations have been implemented.

Even before seeing that report I can say to the Commission and to all of you here tonight that the work of these men has been a major force in the extensive remodeling and modernization of state government that has taken place in the last four years.

Some people have been skeptical about how much we have accomplished in putting the recommendations of the Commission into effect. Such people are simply uninformed and have not taken the trouble to examine the record.

The recommendations of the Efficiency Commission have not been revolutionary.

They have not called for a restructuring of all of state government.

They have not torn down everything that we have or demanded a new fresh start.

But this does not mean that these recommendations have been mild or weak. To the contrary, they have been both realistic and demanding.

The Commission avoided the easy method of giving dramatic and generalized advice that would grab momentary headlines.

Instead, it took on the herculean task of developing the exact and specific recommendations that would enable each department it studied to make direct progress toward modernization.

It is very easy for politicians -- and as a politician I can say this -- to gloss over broad and general recommendations with fine words, while ignoring their implementation. But when we are presented with a blueprint for specific action, and when that blueprint is imminently reasonable, there is no excuse for inaction.

And there has been plenty of action in the past four years. Department after department has been reorganized and has instituted modern business-like procedures to keep up with the demands of the times. Georgia's government has discovered that it cannot get along with adding machine procedures in the age of the computer.

To the entire Efficiency Commission and its staff the people of Georgia owe their thanks. As Governor of this State during the years in which this Commission has operated, it has been my privilege to get to know these outstanding men who have given such service. Each member has been active in the Commission's work and all members of the Commission have been regular in attendance at meetings. This is one blue ribbon commission where the members have taken an active, personal role. They have done so entirely at their own expense and have not even drawn travel expenses for their criss-crossing of the state.

You know who these men are, but I want to call each by name so that I can thank him in front of this distinguished audience for his contribution to the welfare of this state.

But first I would like to pay tribute to the late Robert J. Marshburn. Colonel Marshburn was an original member of the Commission and was named vice chairman. A native Georgian and graduate of the University of Georgia, he developed a successful business in Florida and after retirement came back to his home state where he devoted the last years of his life to the service of his fellow man. The character of this service is demonstrated by the fact that his neighbors in Banks County and the city of Homer elected him to the State Senate, without his knowledge, while he was on a trip out of the country. Col. Marshburn did not live to see the work of the Commission completed, but he made sure that it got a firm foundation and was off to a good start.

My good friend William R. Bowdoin has served as Chairman and the indelible mark he has put on the Commission is easy to see because it is known all over Georgia as the Bowdoin Commission. Bill Bowdoin is already Vice Chairman of the Board of the Trust Company of Georgia. And he has climbed to the top of the corporate ladder while also finding time to serve his state.

Before taking on this post Bill had served as Supervisor of Purchases in the Vandiver Administration and also conducted studies on streamlining governmental operations for that Administration. So he came into his chairmanship with considerable experience and brought his extensive knowledge of both state government and business operations to the Commission.

I can say without fear of contradiction that without Bill Bowdoin's inspired leadership and determination, the Efficiency Commission could not have accomplished half as much as it has.

Of course, he had considerable help from the other members of the Commission.

W. Clair Harris of Winder is a prominent industrialist who has served , and is serving, as president of a number of firms. He is President of the Bank of Barrow in Winder and is on the board of the First National Bank here in Atlanta. He at one time was president of the Associated Industries of Georgia and his considerable background in finance and business management has been invaluable.

Julian T. Hightower of Thomaston is a graduate of the Georgia Institute of Technology and has been a leader in the textile industry of Georgia. He became President and Treasurer of the Thomaston Mills in 1952 and has served as President of the Georgia Textile Manufacturers Association. His experience in this highly important Georgia industry has also been of great value to the Commission's work.

Alfred W. (Bill) Jones is one of those enviable people who has discovered the lure of the South and who came to Georgia from Dayton, Ohio many years ago. He is Chairman of the Board of the Sea Island Company which is a business connection many of us would like to have, especially during these bleak winter days in North Georgia. He is also President of the Talbott Corporation in Dayton, Vice-President of the Seaboard Construction Company in Brunswick and a director or officer in a dozen other Georgia and national companies.

I know that by now all of you are getting a good idea of the caliber of men we were able to persuade to serve on this Commission. From your own experience you know how hard it is to find time away from your business responsibilities, but these gentlemen did find the time, and they have done a truly outstanding job.

The next member of the Commission that I will name has one outstanding characteristic lacking in the other members, and that is a medical degree.

Dr John B. O'Neal, III of Elberton, Georgia, has been a great asset to the Commission because of his combination of medical knowledge and a deep interest in governmental affairs. He has served as Mayor of Elberton where he installed the city manager system and has been active in civic affairs of the State.

William P. Simmons of Macon is Chairman of the Board of the First National Bank and Trust Company there, as well as director of a number of other firms. He also serves as treasurer of the Bibb County Board of Education and knows from personal experience the problems of education. On a national level he has served on the Industry Advisory Committee of both the War Production Board and the Office of Price Administration.

Together these seven members of the Governor's Commission for Efficiency and Improvement in Government have focused public attention, and the interest of public officials, on the vital need to modernize every aspect of the administration of our State.

Of course, they have had an able staff, and I would certainly be remiss if I did not pay tribute to Dr. M. W. H. Collins, Bill Collins, Director of the Institute of Government at the University of Georgia, who served as Executive Director of the Commission. Bill is a graduate of the University of Georgia and Harvard University. He has an unparalleled knowledge of the details of administration in this state combined with the academic background needed to draw comparisons with what other states across the Nation are doing.

As Executive Director of the Commission he has worked wonders in overseeing the multitude of detail that is involved. He has been of invaluable assistance in all aspects of the work of the Commission.

Another young man should be mentioned also. This is Mr. William H. Islar, Jr., who served as General Counsel to the Commission and put many hours into its labors. He is certainly one of the most promising young attorneys in this state.

Finally, I am going to have to confine myself to a general statement of thanks to the many other individuals who made the work of this Commission a success. They are located in state government, in private industry and in our institutions of education. Without their full-fledged cooperation, advice, suggestions, and criticisms, the Commission could not have performed its tasks.

I would like to point out again that the crucial element in modern government is qualified people within that government. All of the forms and procedures and machines and computers we have are worthless if we cannot attract able, intelligent and dedicated citizens into government service.

I firmly believe that one of the most important contributions of the Efficiency Commission has been the work it has done in the area of personnel administration, and the many ways in which state government employment has been made more attractive through its activities.

The life of the Governor's Commission for Efficiency and Improvement expires with the end of this Administration sometime next week. But I firmly believe that the inspiration of the Efficiency Commission will continue to motivate the actions of state government for many years to come.

Yet we all know that without constant pressure, progress tends to lag, and innovations begin to stop.

Out public officials are too often so close to the crises of the moment that they do not have the time to take a longer and broader view of their responsibilities.

For these reasons, I believe that we need in the next Administration and the next and the next another independent citizens group. These outstanding citizens should be charged with the responsibility to look at out State government with a critical and experienced eye. Such a group would help any chief executive solve the many problems that he faces.

I urge my successor and his successors to establish such a blue-ribbon commission.

Certainly, any such Commission could have no better preceptor and model than the Commission whose members we honor tonight.

To them, and to the State of Georgia, I say that they deserve much of the credit for any good that has been done by the Sanders Administration, while upon the heads of myself and the other politicians must lie the blame for those things that were not possible to accomplish.

I thank the members of the Efficiency Commission for the great work they have done our State. And as Chief Executive of Georgia, I wish now to present them with a small token of our appreciation for their services.

Thank you very much.

#

Executive Department
State of Georgia
201 State Capitol
Atlanta, Georgia 30334
Phone: 521-1776

MADDOX SOUNDS MODERATE NOTE

GEORGIA

Georgian Vows to Respect Authority of Washington

NYT 1/12/67

By GENE ROBERTS

Special to The New York Times

ATLANTA, Jan. 11—Gov. Lester G. Maddox surprised his segregationist friends and amazed his liberal opposition today by formally beginning his administration on a moderate note.

Although he built his political reputation by defying Federal desegregation laws, the 51-year-old Democrat said in his inaugural address that he would respect the authority of the national Government and would not give extremist groups a voice in the state Government.

He also assured the state that he would sponsor a constitutional referendum to insure that no Governor in the future was elected the way he was yesterday—by a vote of the legislature rather than by a vote of the people.

At another point in his speech, he praised the outgoing Governor, Carl Sanders, a moderate, and declared that "the people do not want any undue change in the direction or policy of their state government."

"It was a remarkable speech," said Eugene Patterson, editor of the liberal Atlanta Constitution. "The man was elected like a

Continued on Page 22, Column 3

THE GYPSY ROSE LEE SHOW—Now in color weekdays 8:30 a.m. Channel 7—advt.

MADDOX SOUNDS MODERATE NOTE

Continued From Page 1, Col. 8

demagogue, but he spoke like a Governor.

Mr. Maddox, his face red from a chilly wind, urged Georgians to unite with him in "building a greater and more prosperous Georgia with expanded horizons of education for all."

Not once during the 10-page speech eid he use the word "segregation."

He said he was convinced that the people of Georiga "do not want a single school closed, or the right of a child to be edcuated or a teacher to teach to be impaired."

"They do not want riots in the streets or breaches of the peace in public places or injstitutions," he went on, "and above all, they do not want any extremist organization or group to have any voice or any influence in any state programs.

"There is no necessity for any conflict to arise between Federal - state Authority," he said.

",We should—and we can — solve any disagreements under the framework of the constitution," he said, "respecting the authority of the national government and being ever mindful of protecting the rights of Georigia and Georgians."

"Law and order will be upheld in Georgia," he declared, "during the Maddox administration."

'Full Freedom'

He said that "there is room enough for every faith, every ideal and every shade of opinion —and room enough for full freedom to express them by the individual citizens as well as by the press and communications media."

Then he pledged a program of improvement for the state's school system and its penal and mental institutions.

"My friends," he declared, "you now have a Governor who knows what it is to be poor."

Mr. Maddox, who dropped out of high school in the 11th grade to help support his family, worked his way into the ownership of an Atlanta fried chicken restaurant, the Pickrick, then closed it rather than abide by the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Having lost two races for Mayor of Atlanta and one for Lieutenant Governor of Georgia. he was given no chance last year of winning the governorship.

But persistent campaigning and the backlash from Negro rioting in Atlanta and from the development of the "black power" movement helped him win the Democratic nomination for Governor.

And yesterday, although Mr. Maddox had trailed his Republican opponent, Howard H. Callaway by more than 3,000 votes, the overwhelmingly Democratic State Legislature voted 182 to 66 yesterday to make him Governor.

Under Georgia's Constitution, the Legislature chooses between the top two candidates in the event that neither receives a majority of the vote in the general election. A write-in campaign in November for formr Gov. Ellis Arnall siphoned away enough votes to prevent any candidate from receiving a majority.

Within minutes after Mr. Maddox left the flag-draped inaugural platform at the west wing of the State Capitol, politicians were asking, "What's happened to Lester?"

Former State Senator James Carter of Plains, one of five opponents Mr. Maddox defeated to capture the Democratic nomination, believes the new Governor is trying to develop a consensus behind his administration after failing to win a majority of the popular vote in the November general election.

"He needs and wants the approval and support of the people of Georgia, and knows that the type of speech he gave today is what would appeal to the majority of them," Mr. Carter said.

Businessmen Cited

Another political source said that Mills Lane, president of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, and several other moderate Atlanta businessmen had persuaded the Governor that four years of defiance would wreck the state's economy.

A state official noted that Mr. Maddox "hasn't even talked to Roy Harris in a week," but has consulted frequently with former Governor Sanders and his aides. Mr. Harris, a key Maddox supporter and a militant white supremacist, publishes an anti-Negro weekly, "The Augusta Courier."

Although they applauded his speech today, many Georgia liberals and moderates were not yet convinced that Mr. Maddox had changed permanently. They noted that two of the South's most militantly segregationist former governors — Ross Barnett of Mississippi and Marvin Griffin of Georgia—were seated on the inaugural platform with Governor Maddox.

A group of liberal college students carried a black coffin around the State Capitol shortly before the inaugural, with a sign that said "Here Lies the New South."

Segregationists at the inaugural address gave Mr. Maddox only sporadic applause today, but did not appear to be concerned over the possibility that Mr. Moddox might suddenly have become a moderate.

"He's my Governor," said State Representative James H. Floyd, a segregationist from Trion, after the speech was over.

Other segregationists joked that they saw something symbolic in the direction in which the inaugural cannon was pointing when it fired off a 19-gun salute for Governor Maddox.

The cannon was aimed toward City Hall and the offices of Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., a racial moderate, who declared after Mr. Maddox won the Democratic gubernatorial primary that it was a victory for "the rabble of prejudice, extremism, buffoonery and incompetency."

1/18/67

GEORGIA

Wildlife Board Tables Maddox Choice While Seeking Pro Director

Bagby Appointment Hits A Snag in Commission

By DUANE RINER

Gov. Lester Maddox's list of appointments ran into a snag Tuesday when a balky state Game and Fish Commission declined to go along with Maddox's choice for director and started combing the fields for a professional as recommended by the Bowdoin Commission.

Meanwhile, there was something for everybody in the Department of Corrections as Maddox announced at an afternoon news conference that his choice of former Albany Mayor Asa Kelley as director to succeed R. H. Burson had been accepted by the state Board of Corrections.

CONNER TRANSFER

Maddox also confirmed that Burson would replace Col. Lowell Conner as director of the Department of Public Safety and that Conner would transfer to the Department of Corrections as assistant director.

Conner, who has been the target of intermittent blasts from some coastal Georgia sheriffs who have resented his vigorous entry into their counties in clip joint cleanup operations, earlier was believed out in the cold with two years to go before completing his necessary 20 years for Peace Officers Association of Georgia retirement benefits.

A PARADE

Maddox's announcement followed a day in which Corrections Board members, Game and Fish commissioners and members of the seven-man Public Safety Board paraded in and out of his office to receive what normally is a routine revelation of the governor's choices for key positions. The choices in the past have been routinely rubber-stamped.

However, Maddox's selection of veteran former Rep. George Bagby of Dallas to succeed Game and Fish director Rosser Malone of Albany ran into a stumbling block as the commission held off on a decision, reportedly in order to contact professionals in wildlife management in accordance with the Bowdoin Commission's call for "a trained professional."

"One of the main things we're considering is the Bowdoin report," declared commission chairman Harley Langdale of Valdosta. "We're trying to follow good advice," Langdale commented as he left a lengthy closed-door meeting of eight

Continued on Page 12, Column 1

TO HEAD PATROL
H. R. Burson

GEORGIA

Maddox Must Face Up to Negro Hiring, Redwine Warns

AC 3/29/67

By The Associated Press

The former executive secretary of Gov. Lester Maddox said Tuesday night that Maddox must come to grips with the problem of hiring Negroes in state government before the summer.

Morgan R. Redwine of Athens, who resigned Friday, said Maddox doesn't want to "mess up his folk hero image with the rednecks" so he won't give jobs to Negroes in state government or make any other "reasonable concessions."

"The governor told me he'd be letting a million people down if he hired any Negroes," Redwine said in an interview with Bob Cohn, Capitol correspondent for the Augusta-Savannah newspapers. Redwine has advocated the hiring of Negroes in state positions such as the State Patrol.

He sees the problem of dealing with Negroes and reaching some middle ground as the toughest thing facing the governor in months ahead.

"He hasn't faced up to it yet, but I think he'll have to before this summer," Redwine said.

Maddox said the Redwine statements came as a "complete surprise" to him.

"I just don't understand it," the governor said. "I never made statements like that to anyone."

If Maddox can't satisfy moderate Negroes like Atlanta Sens. Leroy Johnson and Horace Ward and Rep. R. A. Dent of Augusta, Redwine warned, "he'll have to satisfy Julian Bond, Snick and CORE and that might be a little more difficult."

He referred to the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and the Congress of Racial Equality, militant civil rights groups, and to Rep. Bond, former publicity chairman of the SNCC.

Redwine said he believes if reasonable Negroes who now hold public office can't deliver for their people, the mantle will fall to the militant civil rights organizations and the battle will be fought in the streets.

The former executive secretary said he asked Negro leaders to give the administration six months to demonstrate its willingness to meet Negro problems head-on.

Redwine said he didn't think Maddox would do it "because he's got to satisfy the redneck element."

Redwine quoted Dent, the only Negro legislator who voted for Maddox when he was elected by the legislature, as asking the governor to appoint just one Negro to a state job in Augusta as a show of faith. Dent reportedly will personally appeal to Maddox Wednesday after having met with no success before.

The former secretary then listed his impressions of Maddox.

"He is concerned with furthering his folk hero image with excursions . . . sorties . . . into southeast Georgia.

"He shows an over-concern for his own image.

"He's willing to spend money and he's quick-minded.

"The governor will grab at things without seeking advice and make rash decisions.

"He wants everything that happens in state government to cross his desk and that's impossible . . . He's got to delegate some authority."

The two men closest to Maddox at this point, Redwine said, are Budget Director Wilson Wilkes and Senate President Pro Tem Julian Webb of Donalsonville.

"He doesn't consult anyone . . . he wants to make all the decisions by himself . . . but he'll pay more attention to Wilkes and Webb than anyone," Redwine said.

Maddox Protests Hire-Negro Push

AJ 3/30/67

By DAVID NORDAN

Gov. Lester Maddox said Thursday he does not intend to be "shoved around" by pressure groups pushing for more Negro employment in state government.

The governor served notice on the groups, primarily moderate Negro leaders, that "if they continue to push, I'm going to start to push back."

He said he has been under continuous and mounting pressure to place more Negroes in responsible places in state government and added that "the more the pressure increases, the more I'm likely to resist."

The chief executive appeared to be aroused by reported statements from some Negro leaders that they would give him 60 days to take some positive action.

"We already have them (Negroes) in state government, and we're going to have more if they'll leave me alone and let me do my job," he promised.

"THIS SORT of pressure can cause nothing but an unnecessary confrontation."

State Sen. Leroy Johnson of Atlanta, who became the first Negro to serve in a Southern legislature in 50 years when he was elected five years ago, had already promised a "confrontation" with the governor in the near future, stating that the governor's "true face would be revealed."

Another Negro spokesman, Rep. J. E. Grier of Atlanta, who is affiliated with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, threatened "to see that there are Negroes in state jobs even if it means going to the federal courts."

The pressure the governor spoke of has been applied gently, and mostly behind closed doors, since his election in January. Sen. Johnson and other Negro leaders paid numerous visits to Gov. Maddox, and reports were that no overt pressure was to be exerted for a six-month "trial period."

THE MATTER was brought to the surface this week, however, with the forced resignation of Gov. Maddox's executive secretary, Morgan (Bucky) Redwine.

The Negroes had considered Mr. Redwine as a friend and spokesman in the governor's office, and when he was "fired" some of the leaders said they had lost their "last hope" in the Maddox administration.

Mr. Redwine, who resigned after a group of minors were arrested for possessing beer and whisky while driving his car, left the capital Wednesday.

Before leaving, however, he contributed to the Negroes' fears by stating that the governor was "too concerned with keeping up his folk hero image with the rednecks to make any reasonable concessions to the Negroes."

The departing state official, the second highest in the administration, quoted the governor as having said that he "would be letting a million Georgians down if he hired Negroes." Gov. Maddox denied the statement emphatically and said he was "amazed" that Mr. Redwine attributed it to him.

Mr. Redwine said Gov. Maddox faces serious problems unless he hires Negroes for state jobs by this summer.

However, his replacement, ex-Rep. Tommy Irvin of Habersham County, scoffed at Mr. Redwine's role as spokesman for the Negro.

"He's a bigger segregationist than Lester Maddox," Mr. Irvin said.

2-13-64

School Defends Attack on Kennedy

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 13 (UPI) — The right of a University of Illinois classicist to attack the late President John F. Kennedy in a John Birch Society periodical was upheld Wednesday by a top school official.

Dr. Jack W. Peltason, dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences and acting provost of the university, said he considered the attack by Prof. Revilo P. Oliver "in bad taste and offensive."

But Peltason said his own reaction was "irrelevant."

The editor of the student newspaper, an Illinois congressman and the president of the university Board of Trustees all defended Oliver's right to make the attack on Kennedy, which appeared in the current issue of the John Birch Society magazine, American opinion.

OLIVER, a professor of the classics, a member of the Birch Society's national council and a frequent book reviewer for the Birch magazine, said in his article that Kennedy was assassinated because he fell behind in a Communist timetable for turning over the United States to the Russians.

Oliver said Kennedy's memory would be "cherished with distaste."

Howard W. Clement, president of the university's board of trustees, said he disagreed with Oliver "head on" but added that Oliver "has the right as a private citizen to express himself and is so guaranteed those rights by the statutes of the university."

REP. Melvin Price, D-Ill., said Oliver's ideas were "regrettable" but that as long as the professor's political views did not color his teaching, his job should not be in jeopardy.

Robert Ebert, editor of the Daily Illini, said Oliver's article was a "base and unwarranted attack" against Kennedy but said he saw "nothing wrong with his speaking out."

"Only a strong and free society could permit Prof. Oliver his own freedom," Ebert said in an editorial.

NEARLY four years ago, a University of Illinois biologist was fired after he wrote a letter to the student newspaper advocating premarital sexual relations for "mature" persons.

The biologist, Leo Koch, submitted his views in reply to a published letter from two male students objecting to what they claimed was widespread necking on campus.

Koch said he had not voiced his views in his classroom.

The American Association of University Professors censured the university for firing Koch, University President David D. Henry was twice hanged in effigy and a mass demonstration of students followed Koch's dismissal.

18 Teachers Quit, Protest Birchism

PLEASANTVILLE Iowa, March 5 (UPI)—More than half the schoolteachers in this small Corn Belt town had their resignations on file Thursday in an uproar over what subjects they could teach their students.

A six-member delegation of parents went to the Statehouse Wednesday to plead for help. They said the John Birch Society was "taking advantage of the situation."

The entire five-member faculty of one elementary school resigned Wednesday and joined 13 others in the system who handed in their notices in January.

School Supt. Fred C. Nus, who has been told by the school board that he will not be rehired, said part of the rhubarb involved the teaching of communism.

NUS SAID ONE teacher was told by school board members that he could teach about communism out of a text book but could not say anything except what was in the text.

On another occasion, he said, a junior high school teacher was reprimanded by a board member for discussing menstruation in a class of both boys and girls.

Two ministers supported the teacher and she was "completely exonerated," Nus said.

Domenic Grasso, a high school history teacher who submitted his resignation, said ultra-conservatism was making inroads among some of his students.

He said one of his students criticized President Johnson for "being on friendly terms" with United Auto Worker President Walter Reuther.

Another student, Grasso said, told him federal aid to public schools was communistic.

REV. WILLIAM MILLER, one of the ministers who supported the junior high school teacher, was attacked at a meeting of a group called "Iowans for Effective Citizenship" as a "rabble rouser" and one who "speaks the line."

The meeting took place in a local cafe which distributes pamphlets questioning the loyalty of Chief Justice Earl Warren and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and attacking the United Nations, urban renewal and the manager form of city government.

Rev. Miller told a school board meeting last month that he read the group's literature and "there's an amazing correlation between what I read and what I have seen and heard happen here in our schools."

"I am concerned and I wonder if perhaps this influence has penetrated our community and our schools here," he said.

The Iowa State Education Association last month praised the teachers who resigned for standing up for academic freedom and warned job applicants for Pleasantville school openings to do so at their own risk.

The teachers' resignations were effective at the end of the school year.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Birchers Back Anti-Rights Ads

By DREW PEARSON

Washington.

MOST LETTER writers who have been flooding Congress with mail against the civil rights bill don't know that their letters have been inspired by a Mississippi lobby and indirectly by the John Birch Society.

This small lobby, operating out of the Carroll Arms Hotel just across the street from the two Senate office buildings, has a small staff but plenty of money — a budget of over $260,000. It is also close to the John Birch Society. It has had remarkable impact on Northern thinking.

Officially, the lobby is called "Fundamental American Freedoms," and gets its money from the Mississippi Sovereignty Commission, which is a sort of quasi-official White Citizens Council supported by Mississippi state funds.

IN PAPERS

The letters which have been pouring in on Congress show that thousands of Northerners have paraphrased the astute arguments and false information about civil rights issued by this lobby.

At first the committee bought space in small rural newspapers to preach the idea that civil rights would increase federal control over agriculture. Though untrue, the committee had startling success in persuading small town editors to carry these planted stories. Next, the committee spent $63,000 on full-page ads in big city newspapers.

The two most effective operators for this lobby are John Synon, who is paid a salary, and Dr. Melchior F. R. Savarese, a local John Birch leader, who lends a hand without salary. Synon is on an annual retainer from the crack public relations firm of Selvage & Lee, which represents Portugal, Katanga, and various conservative Republican groups. Synon contributes anti-race articles to various newspapers.

On the evening of Feb. 23, a group of John Birch leaders met at the home of Dr. Savarese in Washington. A few of the doctor's affluent friends were also invited, and the doctor, a charming and persuasive talker, announced to them that he proposed running an ad in the Washington Post attacking the civil rights bill, but since the ad would not be effective if run under the name of the John Birch Society, he would get permission from the coordinating committee for Fundamental American Freedoms to use its name.

HUSTLE

Dr. Savarese urged his guests to get out and hustle for contributions to finance the ad. He told the donors to make out their checks to the coordinating committee but cautioned them not to send the money to the coordinating committee but direct to him, so the John Birch Society could have an accounting. In addition to the full-page ad in the Washington Post he suggested they raise enough money for a half page in the Washington Star.

The drive was successful. The full-page ad was published.

When this column asked Dr. Savarese point-blank whether the John Birch Society was buying ads under the name of the "Fundamental American Freedoms," he denied it.

—(c1964.)

RALPH McGILL

Birch

4-16-64

A Name Out of the Past

Horace Greeley, an editor of the Civil War period, is recalled chiefly for having said, "Go West, young man, go West," and for his continuous efforts to create and direct Abraham Lincoln's policies. Lincoln had no animus for him, but in August of 1864, worn out by Greeley's demands, told the cabinet: "Greeley is an old shoe . . . good for nothing now, whatever he had been . . . when a shoe gets old the stitches pull out—Greeley is like that . . . he is not truthful . . . the stitches all tear out. . . ." (Reported by Gideon Welles, of Hartford, for many years a distinguished public figure, editor and member of the Lincoln cabinet, in his published diary.)

After a Century

After a century the name appears again in a story from Brooklyn. The great-grandson of the Civil War editor made news as a spokesman for the John Birch Society. In his speech, Dr. Horace Greeley:

1. Said we are losing the Cold War "because our leaders either lack the guts to use their power or are plain traitors."

2. Suggested that Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy had planted a "tree of treason" in Panama.

3. Accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk and columnist Walter Lippmann of "cackling senilely over each surrender."

4. Condemned the "half-baked and semi-cannibal" nations of the underdeveloped area of the world.

5. Said schools now teach "sex" and prepare children for integration "instead of Armageddon."

At this point, the reporter said, Dr. Greeley referred to the Birch Society as an educational organization and said, "We make no wild and no unsubstantiated charges." Of those who attack the Birch Society, he said, most are "actually Communists and the rest Communist dupes." (The founder of the Birch Society, it may be remembered, declared President Eisenhower a Communist.) Dr. Greeley suggested that politicians supporting civil rights are helping "the ends of their Communist masters."

As for politics, Dr. Greeley suggested he favored Senator Goldwater over all others who would be president.

Great Puzzle

One of the greatest puzzles is the seeming irrational fear that possesses the ultra-right political wing in this country. In some persons encountered, it appears to be the product of some sort of neurosis.

There is no valid reason to fear the Communists will take over America. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has done, and is doing, an excellent job of surveillance, exposure and capture of subversive agents.

would be president.

Great Puzzle

One of the greatest puzzles is the seeming irrational fear that possesses the ultra-right political wing in this country. In some persons encountered, it appears to be the product of some sort of neurosis.

There is no valid reason to fear the Communists will take over America. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has done, and is doing, an excellent job of surveillance, exposure and capture of subversive agents.

It is recommended that we be informed and aware of Communist tactics, propaganda, and attempts to infiltrate legitimate organizations and causes. This is being done very well, indeed. One of the surprises has been that the massive and often spontaneously organized civil rights demonstrations have contained as few leftist or Communist personalities as they have. J. Edgar Hoover, the esteemed head of the FBI, has said that it is wrong to say the Negro drive for rights is a Communist movement. That the commies always seek to attach themselves to mass movements is, and has been, a part of Mr. Hoover's warning.

That any organization should regard our leaders as lacking guts or being traitors; that suggestions should be made that Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles were Communist tools, and that Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy planted a tree of treason in Panama or anywhere else, are examples not merely of unreasonable fears, but of something else much more serious—a lack of faith in this country's political leadership and its system of government.

7-13-64 The John Birchers Natl Observer

Mr. Welch's Society

The John Birch Society gained national attention again last week when Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania asked the Platform Committee of the Republican National Convention to denounce the society and other extremist organizations.

The Birch Society was founded in 1958 in an Indianapolis hotel, where Robert H. Welch, Jr., a retired candy maker, had called together 10 men to discuss a means of fighting communism. "In summary, gentlemen," he told the group, "we are losing a Cold War in which our freedom, our country, and our very existence are at stake." The society took its name from Army Capt. John Birch, a young fundamentalist Baptist preacher from Macon, Ga., who was killed by Communists in China in 1945. Mr. Welch refers to him as the first victim of World War III.

Most of the society's doctrine is explained in The Blue Book of the John Birch Society, a compilation of the addresses made by Mr. Welch at the Indianapolis meeting. To fight communism, the society believes, the following actions are necessary: Discontinuance of foreign aid, abolition of the Federal Reserve System, withdrawal from the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren, withdrawal of recognition from the Soviet Union, and repeal of social and welfare legislation.

The organization first began receiving national attention in early 1961, about three years after its founding. Many critics cited an article Mr. Welch had circulated privately among friends in which he called Presidents Roosevelt, Truman, and Eisenhower knowing instruments of the Communists. The article has never been adopted as the official view of the society.

The organization is autocratic; Mr. Welch has final authority over all society matters and can expel any member without appeal. The society's national council, composed of 27 educators and business and professional men from throughout the nation, can only advise him. He has said he will permit members to disagree with him so long as they do not act contradictory to his plans. His control of the society, in which he bears the title "Founder," was self-assumed.

Membership names and figures are confidential; Mr. Welch will not say how close he has come to his 1958 goal of 1,000,000 members. Dues are $24 for men and $12 for women annually, or $1,000 for life. The society publications are the Bulletin, containing a monthly agenda, and the American Opinion, edited by Mr. Welch. Home offices are in Belmont, Mass.

Byrnes' Challenge Is After the Fact

By EUGENE PATTERSON

San Francisco.

THE JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY had its finest hour at a Republican National Convention that refused to condemn it for what it is, an extremist rightwing group of very unpleasant implications.

Nelson Rockefeller had his finest hour when he rose to speak against it. The convention staged one of the ugliest political scenes of this generation when it answered Rockefeller with savage gales of boos.

America has seldom seen an outburst like this one. The storm broke with the hot flash of a summer lightning bolt—fierce, blinding, jolting. The convention had long smoldered in carefully disciplined silence. Once given voice, its passions spread and grew like the swift fever of some killing illness. Nobody checked it.

Eugene Patterson is editor of The Atlanta Constitution.

SOPHISTRY

Instead Wisconsin Rep. John Byrnes typified the slippery sophistry by which the Goldwater supporters tried to justify their skittish refusal to name the extremist group for what it is. Let the Birchers try without hindrance to infiltrate the GOP, he cried. "Infiltrate us. We'll meet you head-on."

The fact was, of course, that the Birchers already had infiltrated the party as it was represented here. Admitted members sat in delegate chairs on the convention floor supporting Goldwater. And the party under Goldwater had not met them head-on, but had met such delegates with its hand out.

Colorado Sen. Peter Dominick, another Goldwater man, outdid Byrnes in transparent evasion. "How do we know what is or is not an extremist?" He demanded and was defending an organization whose head had called President Eisenhower a "conscious, dedicated agent of the Communist conspiracy."

DUCKED

It became apparent quite early that the controllers of the Goldwater convention had no intention of offending the society by name, and that the convention and the galleries didn't want to. They even ducked George Romney's impassioned plea for the party to repudiate extremist groups without actually naming any.

Some of these delegates will honestly insist they so voted because they didn't think Birchism was the issue—that Scranton had raised the subject to create an issue unfavorable to Goldwater. That was true.

But no man could have seen, heard and felt what happened to Rockefeller, and to other anti-Birch speakers, in this hall—the spontaneity of it and the hot fervor of it—without recognizing the presence of an explosive hatred, and without feeling a chill of anxiety at the political values this convention found acceptable.

The fact that Scranton, Rockefeller and Romney were so brutalized for their bravery may turn out to have been the principal story of San Francisco.

The Goldwater convention did not only refuse to fight the John Birch Society, but accepted its delegates and then doubletalked to rationalize their infiltration.

It was an act of profound danger not only to the party but to the intellectual and political integrity of the country.

Birchism---America's Hard Right Rudder: I

8-6-64 - C

Far-Right Theme Loud, Militant, Drum-Like; An Analysis of the John Birch Society

By MARVIN WALL

The sign on a church lawn in Missouri caught the eye of the county leader of the John Birch Society and a colleague. Said the sign: "The Worst Sin Towards Our Fellow Creatures Is Not To Hate But To Be Indifferent To Them."

Obviously Communistic, said the Birch leader. About midnight, the two went to the church to tear the sign down.

Police observed them, however, and arrested them before they got to the sign. The Birch leader was put on probation for a year because he had a loaded revolver and some brass knuckles in his car.

But like most Birchers, the Missourian demonstrated, in the course of the incident, an almost uncanny ability to sniff out Reds.

"You would be surprised," he told the police, "to know how many policemen are Communists."

* * *

In Los Angeles, a radio station scheduled a week-long series of programs about the Birch Society which included readings by Hollywood personalities from the Society's Blue Book. An anonymous caller telephoned this threat:

"If you commies broadcast the Blue Book, we're going to bomb you out of business."

Actor Robert Ryan had taped his reading and had gone to Europe. His wife received a call saying that "something might happen" to Ryan if he took part in the readings. Mrs. Ryan hired two guards to protect her home.

Just a few days earlier, the homes of two San Fernando Valley ministers had been bombed while they participated, in the Westwood section of Los Angeles, in a panel discussion of right-wing movements.

With Far Right movements sweeping the country like wildfire, it is unsurprising that the fanaticism occasionally boils over. The theme of the movements is persistent, militant and high-tempered. Here's how the theme goes:

It is five minutes to midnight. America is being squeezed to death by communism.

How did the strongest country in the world get in this plight? There can be only one answer: America's leaders are selling her out.

Communists are everywhere — in schools, libraries, churches, the news media, labor unions and government.

We are being encircled from without, but the most ominous danger is from within.

If our leaders are not outright Communists, they must be dupes—and that is just about as bad. America is rotten to the core with communism. It's treason, and the traitors must be exposed and purged. Only the true "patriots" will save us.

But the time is short, and the remedies must be swift and sure.

The real Americans will join in. If some of the others get a bad time of it, they deserve it.

This is the Far Right "line." And nobody peddles it with more vigor—or success—than the Birchers.

* * *

Thus whipped into a "patriotic" fury, extremists sometimes hit below the belt.

In his now-famous speech to the Republican national convention, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller listed some of the extremist tactics: anonymous calls, threatening letters, hate literature, strong-arm methods, bomb threats, infiltration and take-over of established political organizations.

The extremists, said the New York governor, spread distrust, engender suspicion and encourage disunity.

"There is no place in this Republican party," Rockefeller added, "for those who infiltrate its ranks, distort its aims, and convert it into a cloak of apparent respectability for a dangerous extremism.

"And make no mistake about it—the hidden members of the John Birch Society and others like them are out to do just that."

But the Cow Palace, it long will be remembered, was in no mood to denounce extremism. The New York governor was booed to the rafters.

And 100 of those present as GOP delegates and alternates, said a Birch spokesman, were Birch Society members.

* * *

Birchers deny having any truck with out-of-bounds activities. They can point out—quite correctly—that some of their membership comes from what might be termed the "solid citizenry."

Birch chief Robert Welch maintains that Society members would never "engage in such childish and futile nonsense as anonymous phone calls."

But, adds J. Allen Broyles in "The John Birch Society: Anatomy of a Protest":

"The tragically illustrated fact remains that inflammatory charges such as the ones Welch and his followers have made . . . can, to the mentally unstable, serve as an incitement to violence—even though the inflammatory language was never intended to inflame but only to 'shock' and to 'alert' the 'apathetic.' "

Next: What is the Birch Society?

Birchism—America's Hard Right Rudder: III

8-8-64-c

$2 Million-a-Year Society Bombards U.S. With Rash Charges of Reds in High Places

By MARVIN WALL

A young Midwesterner, out of curiosity, attended a chapter meeting of the John Birch Society and was amazed by the absurdities tossed out by the Birchers. In a letter to The Kansas City Star, he listed several.

One Birch "fact": Fifty per cent of all adult Americans work for the federal government.

Another: There are 4,000 Communists in the U.S. State department.

Ridiculous as such assertions are, however, they can be more than matched by Birchism's higher echelons.

It was a member of the Birch Society's council who wrote in the society's monthly magazine, American Opinion, that President John F. Kennedy was assassinated because he was falling behind in the Communist timetable for the takeover of the United States.

And Birch chief Robert Welch owes a large share of his fame to the fact that it was he who once called President Dwight D. Eisenhower "a dedicated, conscious agent of the Communist conspiracy."

Birchers are out to "shock" and "alert" America, and the drumbeat of rash charges is part of the shock treatment.

* * *

It is tactics such as these that have caused Birchism's approach to be compared with the approaches of totalitarian systems—including that of Birchism's archenemy, communism.

J. Allen Broyles, a Methodist minister from Maine, recently wrote a small book on the John Birch Society as a product of his post-graduate work at Boston University.

He interviewed Birch officials who drew attention to the parallels between their approach and that of the Communists. First, a climate must be created in which people are disillusioned about existing social, political and economic conditions—in other words, fed up. Then a utopian dream must be supplied as a substitute to attract the disillusioned. The difference between the two approaches is the difference in the substitutes.

Many Americans, says Roger Burlingame in "The Sixth Column," have felt "that, except for the Communist Party U. S. A., the nearest thing to a Communist organization in America is the John Birch Society." Other Birch critics have charged that Birchism, by spreading doubt and suspicion about American leadership, actually assists communism.

* * *

Beneath the anti-Communist fervor, Birchism actually is a very special and very elaborate political, economic and social program.

Richard Dudman, in "Men of the Far Right," lists some of the items (in addition to the United Nations and fluoridation) that Birchers oppose: the graduated income tax, Social Security and all sorts of welfare measures, the Rural Electrification Administration, the Tennessee Valley Authority, urban renewal, federal aid to housing, and all programs "regimenting" farmers.

Broyles probably would add workmen's compensation, unemployment compensation and medical care for the aged.

With such a program, it's not surprising that the Birch Society attracts a fairly large number of well-to-do business and professional men with an acute distaste for taxes. Also attracted, it is worth mentioning, are retired military and naval officers.

Moreover, Birchism has a strong fundamentalist religious pull. Birch converts speak of being "born again." And Robert Welch has said:

"Our deepest motivation for turning back the Communists must be not that communism is politically a fraud and economically a mirage, but that it is morally wrong. . . ."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, Birchism's political hero, has expressed the conflict with communism in somewhat similar terms.

* * *

Birchers are repeatedly hit with charges of anti-Semitism, and society officials have issued strong denials. Nevertheless, several authors have found more than a trace of anti-Semitism in the Birch movement. And in discussing the race views of Birchers, Broyles reports the members he interviewed "were significantly more prejudiced than is our population as a whole."

In any event, one joke going around now describes the Birchers as "a Klansman with $50,000."

But Birchism now is a $2-million-a-year business and the time for joking, suggests the Kansas City letter-writer, has passed.

"The key to the Birchers' rising political power," the Midwesterner wrote, "lies in their organization and the complacency with which America views them.

"The Birchers may be extremists, some of their accusations may be nothing less than idiotic, but it would be folly for Americans not to recognize their complete dedication to the fallacies which they label as the truth."

(End of series. Monday: Gov. Rockefeller's statement on extremism.)

Gov. Rockefeller on Birchism and Extremism

8-10-64 C

'Hawkers of Hate, Fabricators of Fear... Have Nothing in Common with Americanism'

Last week The Constitution printed a three-part series on the John Birch Society —what it is, its program and its operations. Finally, for a view of the Birch Society as seen by a political candidate of whom the Birchers very much disapprove, here is the speech which Gov. Nelson Rockefeller delivered, amid considerable booing, at the Republican convention last month:

Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. . . . The time has come for the Republican party to face this issue realistically and take decisive action. It is essential that this convention repudiate here and now any doctrinaire, militant minority, whether Communist, Ku Klux Klan or Bircher, which would subvert this party to purposes alien to the very basic tenets which gave this party birth.

Precisely one year ago today I issued a statement wherein I warned that "The Republican party is in real danger of subversion by a radical, well financed and highly disciplined minority."

At that time I pointed out that the purposes of this minority were "wholly alien to the sound and honest conservatism that has firmly based the Republican party in the best of a century's traditions, wholly alien to the sound and honest Republican liberalism that has kept abreast of human needs in a changing world, wholly alien to the broad middle course that accommodates the mainstream of Republican principles."

During this year, I have criss-crossed this nation fighting for these principles, fighting to keep the Republican party the party of all the people—and warning of the extremist threat, its danger to the party and its danger to the nation.

The methods of these extremist elements I have experienced at first hand. Their tactics have ranged from cancellation by coercion of a speaking engagement before a college audience to outright threats of personal violence.

These things have no place in America, but I can personally testify to their existence. And so can countless others who have also experienced:

Anonymous midnight and early-morning telephone calls.

Unsigned threatening letters.

Smear and hate literature.

Strong arm and "goon" tactics.

Bomb threats and bombings.

Infiltration and take-over of established political organizations by Communist and Nazi methods.

These extremists feed on fear, hate and terror. They have no program for America, no program for the Republican party. They have no solutions for our problems of chronic unemployment, of education, of agriculture, of racial injustice or strife.

These extremists have no plan and no program to keep the peace and bring freedom to the world.

On the contrary, they spread distrust. They engender suspicion. They encourage disunity. And they operate from the dark shadows of secrecy.

They have called President Eisenhower "a dedicated, conscious agent of the Communist conspiracy."

They have labelled a great Republican Secretary of State, the late John Foster Dulles, "a Communist agent."

They have demanded that the United States get out of the United Nations and that the United Nations get out of the United States.

There is no place in this Republican party for such hawkers of hate, such purveyors of prejudice, such fabricators of fear, whether Communist, Ku Klux Klan or Bircher.

There is no place in this Republican party for those who would infiltrate its ranks, distort its aims, and convert it into a cloak of apparent respectability for a dangerous extremism.

And make no mistake about it—the hidden members of the John Birch Society and others like them are out to do just that!

These people have nothing in common with Republicanism.

These people have nothing in common with Americanism.

The Republican party must repudiate these people.

8-10-64

Eugene Patterson

What Is the Birch Society?

Marvin Wall wrote a series of articles on this page last week analyzing what the John Birch Society is—ostensibly an anti-Communist group. Today we are printing on this page Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's statement on what went wrong with it.

This Rockefeller statement is the speech he tried to deliver to the Republican National Convention in San Francisco. He tried, and was repeatedly drowned out by a storm of jeers and boos from delegates and galleries. So it is here now in quiet print for all who are inclined to ponder it.

* * *

The John Birch Society was the real issue in the Republican convention fight over extremism. The Scranton-Rockefeller-Romney forces meant Birchists when they tried to condemn extremists. The Goldwater forces knew it and refused to censure extremism; the nominee instead lauded it. Subsequent arguments that Barry Goldwater might have intended some entirely different context are not convincing when one considers that he was addressing a convention that had locked in combat on one principal kind of extremism—Birchism.

The Republican party is flirting with fire when it permits itself to be infiltrated by these people. If Goldwater does not publicly disentangle himself from such association, he will be wandering on a dangerous path.

Perhaps much of the general public simply notes in passing that the Birchists call themselves anti-Communists, and wonders what can be wrong with that.

As Mr. Wall, and Gov. Rockefeller, have now indicated in these pages, plenty can be wrong with their methods. McCarthyism should have taught us that. It could be you who gets pushed around. History shows the radical right can destroy liberties just as surely as the radical Communist left. Any radicalism, of the right or of the left, eventually decides its ends justify foul means —be they brainwashing, dialectical trickery, intimidation, demagoguery, character assassination or worse.

Radicalism of the right or of the left is the opposite of Americanism because it is bent on destroying the individual liberty of people to differ with its own ruthlessly imposed domga. It is a farce perpetrated on patriotism because it seeks, like communism, to undermine confidence in U.S. leadership.

This newspaper has steadily fought, and will go on fighting, against efforts in recent years to fasten such dogma onto the uncomprehending minds of children in Georgia schools.

* * *

But teachers alone cannot defend your children against this intellectual pollution in the name of "patriotism" when right-wing political power and money are brought to bear upon them alone. So grownups owe it to their young to go to the trouble of instructing themselves, and of comprehending the peril of lopsided political indoctrination in the name of American civics.

Trying to confiscate the word "conservatism," right-wing extremists led by the Birch Society have attempted since 1960 one of the most sustained campaigns of mental conditioning this nation has known. They have been rather effective, playing on prejudice, uncertainty or unease with a drumfire of quack quick cures.

The only defense against them in America—and it has always prevailed in the past—is the horse sense of individual free men who decline to be pressured or to have their minds manipulated. That first requires some independent thinking.

GRAY MATTER

Birchists Blast Series on U.N.

By DICK GRAY
Journal Television-Radio Editor

You may wonder what the noble John Birch Society—that self-styled group of superpatriots—has to do with television. Not much, really, but they're trying.

At the moment, the Birchists are waging an all-out letter-writing campaign in an attempt to suppress a forthcoming series about the United Nations.

Dick Gray

The public-spirited Xerox Corp. is backing the series to the tune of $4.5 million. The six 90-minute dramas, telling the story of U.N. activities, will be telecast in prime time, one a month, beginning in January.

Four of the shows will appear on ABC-TV, and two on NBC-TV. Xerox invited CBS-TV to take two of the programs, but CBS-TV refused to participate—living up to its growing reputation as the "fun and games network."

A NUMBER of top Hollywood stars reportedly are eager to appear in these dramas.

Producers and directors include some of Hollywood's best: Otto Preminger, Stanley Kubrick, Joseph L. Mankiewicz, Peter Glenville, Robert Rossen, Sam Siegel and Fred Zinneman.

Writing the scripts are such prominent names as Reginald Rose, Tad Mosel and Peter Stone. Composers Elmer Bernstein, Henry Mancini, Alex North, Andre Previn and Richard Rodgers are contributing music—without compensation.

So this series looks like one of the better things in the season ahead—which will be all too cluttered with innocuous situation comedies and other trivia.

SO WHERE do the befuddled Birchists enter the picture?

Well, the July issue of the John Birch Society Bulletin issued a call for a "flood of 50,000 to 100,000 letters of protest" on the series.

In a recent two-week period, Xerox received some 1,200 anti-U.N. letters, and the letters still are coming in.

The San Francisco Chronicle ran a front-page story on this Birch drive on July 31 [illegible] television can do without them very well.

TONIGHT'S TIPS: Rod Steiger stars in "A Slow Fade to Black" rerun on Bob Hope's "Chrysler Theatre" at 8:30 on WSB-TV. . . . Ann Blyth, Tab Hunter and Aldo Ray are guests on the rerun of "Who Killed Andy Zygmunt?" on "Burke's Law" at 8:30 on WAII-TV. . . . Sylvan Meyer will be host of a special one-hour "Preview of the Democratic Convention" at 9 on WGTV. Mr. Meyer will interview a number of Georgia delegates, including Gov. Sanders.

SATURDAY NIGHT, the top show looks like "The Woman's Touch in Politics," hosted by ABC's top news gal, Liza Howard. Time is 7:30 p.m. Miss Howard will interview such people as Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, Mrs. Humphrey and Mrs. Eugene McCarthy, wife of Humphrey's fellow senator from Minnesota.

Following Miss Howard's show, WAII-TV will broadcast "A Conversation With the First Lady" at 8 p.m., with Howard K. Smith interviewing Mrs. Johnson in the Oval Room of the White House.

WAKE RADIO will repeat "The Apathetic American," special documentary with Mike Wallace on the slaying of Kitty Genovese, Saturday afternoon at 3:30. It was first broadcast Monday, Aug. 10, late in the evening.

WAKE operations manager Buddy Moore says, "The mail and telephone response was greater than for any other program WAKE ever has presented." Thus the rebroadcast.

GINGER ROGERS, who currently is wowing Atlanta crowds in "Tovarich" at Theatre Under the Stars, just signed a contract with CBS-TV to be one of the stars of the new 90-minute colorcast of "Cinderella." Scheduled for next spring, the show also will feature Walter Pidgeon, Jo Van Fleet and 17-year-old Lesley Warren in the title role.

ture?

Well, the July issue of the John Birch Society Bulletin issued a call for a "flood of 50,000 to 100,000 letters of protest" on the series.

In a recent two-week period, Xerox received some 1,200 anti-U.N. letters, and the letters still are coming in.

The San Francisco Chronicle ran a front-page story on this Birch drive on July 31.

The Chronicle quoted John Rousselot, national director of public information for the Birchists, as stating:

"We hate to see a corporation of this country promote the U.N. when we know that it is an instrument of the Soviet Communist conspiracy."

FORTUNATELY, Xerox is not being intimidated—either by the flood of letters, many of them identical, or by the Birchists' brilliant logic about the United Nations. The shows will go on.

"Xerox, of course, will not be dissuaded from support of these programs," a spokesman said this week.

"Because we are aware that public, positive, unsolicited support of anything is always harder to come by than are the strident voices of the dissident, we have been gratified by the more than 200 favorable letters from the San Francisco area since July 31," he added.

The U.N. specials, by the way, will lack something—commercials for the sponsor's product. The only interruptions will be for brief corporate identification.

WHY IS XEROX going to all this trouble for one series? Because the firm feels that "what's good for the world is good for Xerox."

The company's president, Joseph C. Wilson, said: "It is part of our philosophy that the highest interest of a corporation is involved in the health of the earth's society."

Of course, I'm sure that the Xerox folks won't mind if the programs boost sales a little bit. But their prime aim is public service.

Such efforts in the television medium are very refreshing, and deserve high praise.

As for the Birchists, I think crowds in "Tovarich" at Theatre Under the Stars, just signed a contract with CBS-TV to be one of the stars of the new 90-minute colorcast of "Cinderella." Scheduled for next spring, the show also will feature Walter Pidgeon, Jo Van Fleet and 17-year-old Lesley Warren in the title role.

Close-Up

Birch Soc 9-2-64

A Different Way of Doing Things

A lady from Thomasville raises a point that takes on added pertinency now that the Democrats have nominated Sen. Hubert Humphrey for the vice presidency.

If the members of the John Birch Society are extremists on the right, she writes, the Americans for Democratic Action must be extremists on the left.

The supposition is understandable, since it has been promoted assiduously by spokesmen for the right, including Sen. Barry Goldwater. But the comparison is, I believe, faulty.

As Richard Dudman points out in "Men of the Far Right," the group on the right more nearly comparable to Americans for Democratic Action is Americans for Constitutional Action. In fact, Dudman reports, ACA was founded as "a deliberate counterfoil" for ADA. Both groups have as one of their major functions the rating of the voting records of individual members of Congress— one group on the basis of how conservative the senators and congressmen vote, and the other on the basis of how liberal.

Yet the spokesmen on the right always bracket the ADA with the John Birch Society rather than with the ACA. The practice is known as "moving everything up a notch." It serves to confuse the issue of extremism (and Sen. Goldwater has been doing a pretty good job of it since July).

"A more accurate comparison," Dudman says, "would make the Birch Society's opposite number the Communist party."

Aside from the deep and obvious political differences, the important distinction between the ADA and the Birch Society, it seems to me, is that of tactics.

So far as I know, the ADA does not regularly use tactics of slander and character assassination against important national figures. It has never, so far as I know, called an American president a Communist (or Fascist) agent.

I have never heard of the ADA harassing librarians or teachers, engaging in community telephone campaigns or disrupting public meetings. I have never heard of anybody in the ADA recommending "mean and dirty" tactics or totalitarian methods.

So far as I know, the ADA is not "monolithic" and is not, as is the Birch Society, "under completely authoritative control at all levels." Nor is it headed by a "hardboiled, dictatorial" boss.

So far as I can determine, there is only one similarity between the Birch Society and the ADA. Both declare themselves to be anti-Communist. Beyond that point, the similarities end.—MARVIN WALL.

Close-Up

9-9-64

The Robert Welch of Network TV

The kindly looking, grandfatherly fellow being interviewed on television Sunday evening was Robert H. W. Welch, known to Sen. Barry Goldwater as Bob Welch and to members of the John Birch Society as "Mr. Welch," the society's founder.

I happened to tune in the interview late, just as Welch was assuring the panel of questioners that it just wasn't so that the Birch Society indulges in such things as character assassination and vigilante tactics.

This was the Robert Welch of network television. I immediately thought about the Robert Welch of the Blue Book.

The Blue Book is the society's handbook. About two-thirds of the way through that document, Welch is explaining the ineffectiveness of various disjointed and uncoordinated anti-communist groups in the nation. To illustrate, Welch selects two "patriotic" groups, supposedly typical, to which he gives the names "XYZ Association" and the "Blank Committee." Says Welch:

"But what is the XYZ Association an arm of, or the Blank Committee? It's a lonesome boy standing on the beach with a big broom, trying to brush back the waves that are about to flood the whole shoreline of beautiful houses. There are other boys with brooms and shovels and buckets all up and down the beach, doing the same thing. What is not only needed, but is absolutely imperative, is for some hard-boiled, dictatorial and dynamic boss to come along and deliver himself approximately as follows:

" 'Hey, you guys, all of you, drop those pretty brooms. You fellows down there on the end, start running for empty bags. . . . You fellows in those next two groups, start filling those bags with sand. You men here, all of you, start lugging those bags of sand to put on this wall the Communists have busted up so badly. . . .

" 'You fellows over there, all of you, get the heaviest clubs you can find, spread yourselves out no more thinly than you have to along the whole length of this wall, and don't hesitate to break the heads of any saboteurs you find monkeying with it. Don't even hesitate to break the heads of those you find creeping towards the wall, if you are sure of their evil intentions, just as a warning to the rest of the dirty gang . . .' "

And who are the saboteurs and potential saboteurs in this little story? Anyone familiar with the Birchist thesis that Communist influences run from top to bottom in American society, and virtually across the board, can imagine.

So the Robert Welch of network television notwithstanding, it can be readily understood why Birchers have become, as charged, associated across the country with abusive telephone calls, harassment of teachers and librarians and other tactics that have shocked and alarmed one political party and a sizable part of another.—MARVIN WALL.

National Leaders Band Against Birch Fronts

9-22-64

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (UPI)—A committee of 80 national leaders including former cabinet members, governors, union chiefs, educators and scientists, have banded together to "expose and correct" the activities of 12 John Birch Society "front" organizations, it was announced Tuesday.

The organization of the Council for Civil Responsibility was announced by its chairman, Dr. Arthur Larson, former director of the U.S. Information Agency. Larson said the council will begin a series of daily radio programs to "correct the principal errors currently propagated" by "radical reactionary organizations."

AMONG members of the council is Ralph McGill, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution.

Larson said the council was formed under the sponsorship of the public affairs institute, a nonprofit educational organization in Washington, D.C., because of growing concern about the effects of the John Birch Society and related "extremist" groups on "standards of public discussion and responsible behavior in the nation."

Larson said the council's broadcasts will be devoted to presenting first-hand experiences of persons throughout the nation who have suffered personally as a result of the alleged harassing activities of extremists. He said they would expose "spying, nocturnal phone calls, economic and social pressures, stonings and even bombings" as methods used by ultra-rightists.

THE "EXTREMIST" organizations named by the council are linked to the Birch society "through top officers or principal financial supporters," the council said.

It listed them as Americans for Constitutional Action, America's Future, Christian Crusade, Christian Freedom Foundation, Church League of America, Citizens Foreign Aid Committee, Conservative Society of America, Liberty Lobby, Manion Forum, National Economic Council, Dan Smoot Reports, and We, the People.

OTHER members of the council include Gen. J. Lawton Collins, former U.S. Army chief of staff; Marion B. Folsom, former secretary of health, education and welfare; David Lilienthal, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; James P. Mitchell, former secretary of labor; Robert B. Meyner, former governor of New Jersey; Harold Stassen, former governor of Minnesota; and Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

PINK BUILDING FOR ANTI-REDS

Birch Society Rolls Grow Amid Uproar

EDITOR'S NOTE: What's new in the John Birch Society? Focus of controversy in years past, the society has become an issue again in the debate over extremism. The following outlines its current views and goals.

By DON ROTHBERG AND DORIS KLEIN
Associated Press Writers

The current debate about extremism plainly has been no vice to the John Birch Society. It says its membership rolls and its treasury have grown fatter.

Unsuccessful efforts at the Republican National Convention to insert a plank in the GOP platform condemning extremism groups—and naming the John Birch Society among others—actually helped the society, said its public relations director, John K. Rousselot.

"Attendance at our meetings increased substantially," he said. "People heard so much about us they were curious. They wanted to find out the truth.

"Where we usually have 8 to 15 people at a meeting we had as many as 40. Most of our meetings are held in living rooms, and that's about as many as a living room can hold."

ROUSSELOT, 35, a former Republican congressman from California who became a $30,000-a-year spokesman for the Birch society last June, said it still was Birch policy not to reveal actual membership figures or names of members — not through any desire to work in secrecy, he says. "We just don't want our members to be bothered by solicitors."

But he says the society is still short of its goal of 1 million members, set by Robert Welch, who founded the organization in 1958.

It also is against Birch Society policy to endorse political candidates, Rousselot says, but in his private view the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater has given the society added purpose. "Sen. Goldwater," he says, "has espoused a conservative constitutional Position which many Americans can associate themselves with and which Birch members have found acceptable."

The Birch society was not acceptable to some at the San Francisco convention. Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, then fighting for the Republican nomination, led the battle to denounce the society by name. He referred to the society as "this weird presence in America," and said it was trying to take over the Republican party. He also said it represented an extremism "alien to our shores" and was seeking "the subversion of liberty."

Associated Press Photos

ROBERT WELCH, FOUNDER OF JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY
In Society's Headquarters in Belmont, Mass.

IN ANOTHER speech at the convention, Rep. Abner W. Sibal of Connecticut denounced Communists, the Ku Klux Klan and the Birch society, saying "these groups do not share in the traditions or beliefs of American democracy or of the Republican party."

The Platform Committee rejected Scranton's plea for a denunciation, and the convention went on to nominate Goldwater. The Senator has described Welch as "intemperate and unwise," and accused him of making "damaging, ridiculous and very stupid statements." As for members of the society, Goldwater said: "They are anti-Communist and I don't see how we can be against them." The society itself, he said, is on no subversive list.

Welch has been quoted as writing that he would "love to see him (Goldwater) president of the United States."

Birch membership, according to Rousselot, doubled in 1963 following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, whom it had previously criticized severely, and redoubled in the first seven months of this year.

Shortly after the assassination the society ran full page ads in papers across the country expressing its belief that President Kennedy's murder was a "definitely Communist-oriented program."

"We can contribute some of the growth to the assassination," Rousselot said.

The John Birch Society came into national prominence in 1961 when founder Welch, from his office in Belmont, Mass., a prosperous suburb of Boston, dispatched what he termed a private letter to some well placed friends. The "letter" ran to more than 100 printed pages and had a title, "The politician."

IN IT he expressed his belief "that Dwight Eisenhower is a dedicated conscious agent of the Communist conspiracy." He expressed a similar belief about the late John Foster Dulles, former secretary of state.

Rousselot says he is in basic agreement with Robert Welch in his general political philosophy but that he doesn't think Eisenhower is a Communist or that Dulles was. "I think Dulles," Rousselot says, "was a Socialist."

Rousselot says Welch's statement about President Eisenhower was "never a position taken by the society, it was never imposed on the council or the membership," but was merely a statement of Welch's personal opinion after studying Eisenhower's record in the anti-Communist cause. "And it was not a good record," Rousselot says.

In his public relations role for the Birch society and as publisher of its magazine, "American Opinion," Rousselot divides his time between society headquarters in Belmont and its Western regional headquarters in San Marino, Calif.

In San Marino, one of Los Angeles' wealthiest suburban communities, the Birch office is in a pink brick building with a flag above it and only a small sign on the door identifying it. Racks of books and pamphlets line one wall.

FAR MORE imposing is the two-story red brick building in Belmont where the Birch society occupies half the ground floor and the entire basement. Here its two publications, "American Opinion" and a monthly bulletin, are published and mailed, and the basement also serves as a shipping center for books approved by the society. The Belmont Post Office, visible from Welch's large corner office, lists the Birch Society as its biggest customer.

In one office in the Belmont building is a wall covered by a map of the United States with colored pins denoting location of its chapters—groups of 10 to 20 members—and of its coordinators, full time workers (for $500 to $700 a month) who solicit new members. Some states have more than one coordinator; California has 12.

The society also has a regional office in Houston, and plans to open offices in Washington and Chicago within the next few months.

RECENTLY, says Rousselot, the society's greatest membership advances have been in New Jersey, Alabama, Florida and upstate New York. California, especially Southern California, is its area of greatest strength. But even there it is not without opposition.

Harvey Schechter, regional director of civil rights for the Anti-Defamation League, said recently the Birch society has "suffered one political defeat after another since 1962" in California. Two society members were defeated in congressional races, one Birch candidate for the City Council in Glendale was beaten, and the society failed in a fight to oust three members of the Los Angeles school board who opposed their views, Schechter said:

An even broader contest will come in November, when 11 Birch members seek election in California, three of them running for Congress, two for state senator and six for state assemblyman.

Schechter estimated Birch membership in Southern California at 6,000 to 7,000, and said this was "35 per cent of its total membership." If that is correct, national membership would be about 20,000.

Rousselot says the society is also strong in Chicago and upstate Illinois, in Indiana, Ohio, Louisiana, Mississippi, Kentucky, Arizona, Washington state and Texas.

"We've had great trouble," says Rousselot, "in the East because of the Eastern newspapers — the New York Times,

JOHN H. ROUSSELOT
Ex-Republican Congressman

selot, "that the U.N. is an agent of the Communist conspiracy."

The society encourages its members to write protest letters. The Xerox Corp. said it received 9,000 letters recently objecting to its sponsorship of television programs about the United Nations. The company said it would continue the sponsorship, and noted that several persons had written more than one letter.

Lately the society has been engaged in a "support your local police" campaign, issuing stickers and bumper strips. Reason for this campaign, he says, if because "all those elements that are working to centralize power in the federal government for the Communist takeover . . . they're trying to undermine the authority of the local police."

The society also is against civilian review boards, supported by some civil rights groups. According to Rousselot, the society believes these are part of a Comunist conspiracy to undermine the local police.

"The civil rights movement," Rousselot says, "is clearly penetrated by Communists both in the North and the South." The society, he says, wants voluntary local action on civil rights.

"Who's to say what's more important, the Negro's civil rights or property rights guaranteed by the Constitution asks. "Property rights are a basic human right. You can't separate property rights from other rights."

ROUSSELOT says the current budget for carrying out Birch activities currently is $2 million annually. He says it is raised 30 per cent from dues: $24 a year for men, $12 a year for women (Rousselot says there are slightly more women than men in the society, and that they work harder); 30 per cent from sales of "American Opinion" and outside contributions; 30 per cent from members in additional contributions, and 10 per cent from lectures by society staff members.

Much of the John Birch Society organization is unclear. For instance, Rousselot says the society uses "ad hoc committees" to push specific causes without being openly identified with the society. He contends this sort of tactic has been used throughout American history. Welch himself called them "front organizations."

Rousselot says about half the membership is made up of Republicans, half Democrats. He says about 90 per cent are Protestant, 10 per cent Catholic, but that there is a sprinkling of Jews. He also says 3 to 4 per cent of the membership is Negro.

"The society is, as it has been from the beginning," he asserts, "an educational organization. We do not permit political discussions in our meetings, or soliciting for political parties.

"We want our members to learn the facts about the Communist conspiracy and go out and work in their communities."

this was "35 per cent of its total membership." If that is correct, national membership would be about 20,000.

Rousselot says the society is also strong in Chicago and upstate Illinois, in Indiana, Ohio, Louisiana, Mississippi, Kentucky, Arizona, Washington state and Texas.

"We've had great trouble," says Rousselot, "in the East because of the Eastern newspapers — the New York Times, the Washington Post and the Boston papers."

Rousselot says these and other newspapers misrepresent the society.

"We don't consider ourselves an extremist organization," he says. "We don't believe in any means to an end. Our methods are within the framework of legality, human dencency and American propriety and are morally correct."

SINCE THE SOCIETY was formed, says Rousselot, "we haven't changed our basic principles and beliefs one iota. Robert Welch and the members of the society's council have proven to be right in their general theses and stands."

Rousselot says the society currently is engaged in a project to counter what he considers misrepresentation in the press.

Under direction of Dr. Francis X. Gannon, head of its research department, the society is putting out two pamphlets titled "Correction, Please!" and "A Review of the News."

Rousselot says a continuing project is its movement to impeach Chief Justice Earl Warren. Actually, says Rousselot, "we know Earl Warren won't be impeached by the Senate. What we want is a trial there as provided by the Constitution that will result in re-establishing where the legislative authority resides — in the Congress, not in the courts." This aim, Rousselot says, has been "greatly misunderstood and misinterpreted."

ANOTHER Birch program of long standing is to get the United States out of the United Nations. "We feel," says Rous-

Civic Leaders Form Anti-Birch Council

By MARTIN GANSBERG

More than 100 civic, educational, religious and business leaders joined forces yesterday in a move to tell "the truth about the John Birch Society and related radical reactionary groups."

The leaders, representing both major political parties and all sections of the country, announced formation of a National Council for Civic Responsibility aimed at exposing "impropriety of methods and falsity of substance" of the Birch Society and 12 organizations that are reportedly linked to the society by members or finances.

At a news conference at the Overseas Press Club, 54 West 40th Street, Arthur Larson, director of the World Rule by Law Center at Duke University and a former consultant to Presi-

Continued on Page 39, Column 2

10-7-64 D

Huntley-Brinkley Sued By John Birch Society

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The John Birch Society Tuesday brought two libel suits against the Huntley-Brinkley newscasting team and their employer, the National Broadcasting Company, asking $8 million in damages.

The suit complained that the two newscasters slandered and libeled the John Birch Society by broadcasting a report May 20 that the FBI "had arrested certain parties who engaged in selling feloniously acquired arms and ammunition to the John Birch Society."

One suit was filed on behalf of the society's president, ex-candymaker Robert Welch, and two members, Laurence E. Bunker of Boston and McDonald Hays of Amarillo, Tex.

The other was filed on behalf of the society itself.

The suits asked for $2 million in damages apiece for Welch and the two members, $1 million actual damages for the society, and $1 million punitive damages for the society. The suits were all filed in U.S. District Court.

The lawyer who filed the suits, Russell Baker, said that beside the arms-selling charge, the well - known broadcasting team, Chet Huntley and David Brinkley, made "many other statements of like import, all false."

Baker said he thought the Birch Society case could get a fair trial in Fort Worth.

"More than likely the broadcast went out all over the United States and we could have sued almost anywhere," he said.

10-15-64 C

Birchers Taking Over GOP In Chatham, Democrat Says

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Chatham County Democratic campaign chairman Anton Solms Jr. charged Wednesday that John Birch groups in this county have "pretty well taken over control" of the Chatham Republican Party.

In a strongly worded statement charging that "extremism in its worst form" is being exerted here by the Republicans, Solms declared, "It is becoming known every day that action of the local opposition (the GOP) consists of known John Birch members." He charged that their tactics are to "mislead the general public by the use of the big lie technique."

Solms also charged that the planning of heckling and display of Goldwater signs at a rally here last Thursday for Mrs. Lyndon Johnson was plotted in the headquarters of the Chatham Republican Party. He said the signs were seen in the windows of the GOP headquarters and also at a rally for cowboy TV star Clint Walker who appeared here in behalf of Barry Goldwater.

Solms also said that on "the day before Mrs. Johnson's visit, statements were made by known Republicans to members of the Democratic Party that they had a reception committee planned for Mrs. Johnson."

The appearance of Mrs. Johnson in a downtown square produced many political signs which called Chatham County "Goldwater Territory" and told Mrs. Johnson to "Go Home." There was heckling while she and her daughter, Luci Baines Johnson, spoke.

Solms accused the local Republican Party of selling and distributing two books, "A Texan Looks at Lyndon" and "None Dare Call It Treason," in face of a frown on the books by the Republican National Committee.

Solms said the tactics of the Republicans in employing "extreme tactics" made him wonder about the future of the moral standards here.

Solms is a high ranking Georgia Democrat. He serves on the University System of Georgia Board of Regents and is one of former Gov. Ernest Vandiver's closest political allies.

Business as Usual

LONDON (AP) — It will be business as usual Britain's election day. Offices, stock exchanges and commodity markets will be open.

Atl Journal 10-24-64

Dulles and a Book

ONE OF the most noteworthy aspects of the presidential campaign has been the extraordinarily extensive distribution of off-brand books that purport to give scandalous "inside stories."

Members of the John Birch Society have been very active in this work.

This week in Atlanta, a man whose credentials in such matters can hardly be questioned put one of these widely read books into perspective. The speaker was Allen W. Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency, a respected American who has been privy to security information of all kinds—including some under wraps in the Soviet Union.

He was asked about the book "None Dare Call It Treason," by John Stormer, which has as its main message the idea that Communists are well on their way to taking over the United States.

"I do not know of any serious Communist infiltration in the government . . . ," Mr. Dulles said. "I think that is one of our lesser worries."

This scare book, which has been used on behalf of the Goldwater candidacy, now has been thoroughly analyzed. In the Congressional Record of Sept. 10, a report by the National Committee for Civic Responsibility describes the book as "at best, an incredibly poor job of research and documentation, and, at worst, a deliberate hoax and a fraud."

The committee, composed of prominent citizens of both parties and headed by a savings and loan executive who also is an official of the American Legion, notes that the book's 818 references supposedly substantiating its message give it the appearance of a well-documented study.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," the committee concludes.

Many times when the book quotes a source a simple look at the original discloses that the meaning has been reversed, the committee says.

This book is the kind of clever propaganda that has deceived and worried millions of Americans at a time when they should have been informed instead of frightened.

Close-Up Goldwater 10-27-64 C

'The Government Doesn't Like You!'

"The federal government doesn't like you," begins a recruitment card of the John Birch Society.

Not many people look upon the federal government as quite that antagonistic, but neither do many exactly feel they could cuddle up in its lap.

There is a genuine uneasiness about big government, just as there is about big business. If the uneasiness didn't exist, the Goldwaterites would not have made so much mileage with their scare talk about octopus-government and bureaucratic plots to subvert America.

But I believe it is not so much the size of government that intimidates people. Nor is it so much a physical remoteness. What worries them is its seeming inaccessibility, its aloofness, its impersonality.

John Q. Voter lacks the expert information that goes into making decisions on such complicated matters as nuclear defense strategy or tax policy. (Similarly, John Q. Worker often ends up a cog-in-the-wheel in a giant corporation, where he doesn't understand how business decisions are made.)

John Q. generally reacts in one of two ways: He becomes apathetic and resigns himself to letting others make decisions for him, or he wants to turn back the clock and make our institutions smaller and therefore more comprehensible.

In one sense, the latter reaction is healthier than apathy, but it is also unrealistic. We can't undo the speed of transportation and communication; we can't expunge our scientific knowledge; we can't dismantle our efficient means of production.

The tragedy of this presidential campaign is that so many people have swallowed Sen. Goldwater's impossible remedy for the malady of estrangement from their own government.

What is a realistic remedy? I recently raised that question before a group of young Unitarians. The group discussion that followed was most useful.

If I can state a consensus, it was this: A realistic approach involves starting from where we are—with institutions that exist. These must be humanized. Citizens must be given a better chance to learn about them, and more opportunity to participate in making decisions and executing them.

Neighborhood meetings to decide who should have his finger on the nuclear trigger may sound a little far-fetched, but at least those who participate would make more intelligent voters. Or at least, if they wouldn't, Tom Jefferson and all those guys were wrong.

BRUCE GALPHIN.

10-27-64

Birchers Going All-Out for GOP In Coastal Georgia

By JACK NELSON

Members of the John Birch Society, which the Democratic platform blasted as an extremist group, are among the most zealous Republican campaign workers in coastal Georgia.

Dr. Whitman Fraser, Hinesville city councilman, heads both the Liberty County GOP committee and the county's Birch chapter. He says, "We have in this area some John Birch members who are excellent campaign workers."

In Chatham County, where the Democrats charged the Birch Society has taken over the Republican organization, Alex Armond, county GOP chairman, retorted: "I strongly think that some members of the executive committee may be members of the John Birch Society, but we may also have members who belong to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and it may be there are members of the Americans for Democratic Action who are members of the Chatham Democratic Committee."

HEARD VIEWS

In Richmond County, Leroy H. Simpkins Jr., a Republican candidate for the Georgia House, told of attending a recent Augusta meeting to hear the views of Scott Stanley, editor of American Opinion, the voice of the Birch society's chief, Robert Welch.

"He was excellent," Simpkins said, "as competent a speaker as I've ever heard. He wasn't waving a sheet or spitting fire or anything."

Simpkins said Stanley "talked about the Cuban missile situation and had documentation that looked right interesting."

The meeting was sponsored by Georgians for Freedom, an organization headed by R. A. Williams, a tire company executive and John Birch Society member.

DON'T KNOW

Williams said Birch members in Richmond County "are marvelous people. If the people knew who they were they would be surprised at their caliber." But the people don't know who most of them are because it is a secret society.

Three nurses were in the waiting room of the modern offices of Dr. Whitman Fraser and Dr. Frank Robbins when a reporter visited Hinesville to interview Dr. Fraser. All three quickly voiced their support for ulous for the Democrats to charge the Birch Society with taking over the Republican Party in Chatham County. "Outstanding leaders were participating in the John Birch Society before it became the thing to do to support the Republican Party," he said.

"It was a natural move for society members to become active in the party. Any citizen concerned about his country is potentially a good political action man."

Dr. Fraser said that while the society itself does not endorse candidates, "we have Birch members who are doing a good job and are very valuable to the Republican Party. The people involved are lay leaders—people concerned about their country and religious principles. They range from professional people to tradesmen."

But the people don't know who most of them are because it is a secret society.

Three nurses were in the waiting room of the modern offices of Dr. Whitman Fraser and Dr. Frank Robbins when a reporter visited Hinesville to interview Dr. Fraser. All three quickly voiced their support for Goldwater.

One of them, the wife of Dr. Robbins, volunteered that the hospital plan for the elderly is "socialized medicine" and added, "There's no use going to school for 14 years and letting them take out appendix for $25."

"FRANK WILL QUIT . . ."

Mrs. Robbins said, "The federal government already controls everything. If that's not communism, I don't know what is. Frank will quit practicing medicine if they pass the plan in Congress."

In the waiting room the physicians had for their patients two copies of the ultra-conservative Dan Smoot Report, one on "Communism in the Civil Rights Movement" and the other an attack on Walter Reuther and other labor leaders.

Dr. Fraser told the reporter that in addition to heading the local Birch chapter, he is a "section leader" who helps organize new chapters.

"I have traveled as far as 125 miles to help formulate a chapter," he said. "A good percentage of the counties in this area have chapters."

Dr. Fraser said it was ridic-

Probe of 'Heretical Birchers' Leads to Policemen's Firing

11-8-64

SANTA ANA, Calif., Nov. 7 (UPI). A Santa Ana police captain and a lieutenant have been fired in the course of an investigation of a group of dissident policemen—most of them identified as heretical members of the John Birch Society.

Police Chief Edward J. Allen said he dismissed Capt. Fred Hopper and Lt. Loran Norton, both 36 and veterans of the 130-man force, because they "were involved in a power play and an attempt to circumvent my power."

Allen described Norton as "an advertised speaker for the John Birch Society." Allen said Hopper is not a society member.

Allen, who became chief in 1955, said he had no quarrel with the Birch Society—"no one can be more anti-Communist than I."

CITY MANAGER Carl J. Thornton announced Thursday that an investigation of 10 to 20 officers was under way. The officers are accused of distributing anonymous pamphlets questioning the honesty and morality of Chief Allen.

Thornton said his information "clearly indicates that the majority of the personnel implicated in this disruptive activity are members of the local chapter of the John Birch Society."

Thornton said the Birch Society has a policy of support for local law enforcement and that, "It is my belief that these individuals have used — or rather misused—the cloak of membership in the John Birch Society for purposes entirely opposite to the national policy of that organization."

JOHN ROUSSELOT, national public relations director for the Birch Society, Friday said he thought the society was being used "as a scapegoat for some internal problem in the Santa Ana Police Department."

"We don't have any program to harass the chief of Santa Ana, or any police department anywhere," Rousselot said.

Rousselot said there are probably 20 to 30 members of the Santa Ana Police Department who belong to several John Birch Society chapters.

"If in our investigation we find our members have acted improperly, we will take appropriate means," he said. "Their membership will be terminated."

The Independent, a newspaper in nearby Long Beach, interviewed an unnamed spokesman for the police officers under investigation. He was quoted as saying that the police chief was "dictatorial, abusive and unreasonable with his men."

"THOSE OF US in the group can't take any more of his treatment and we have banded together in mutual defense," the spokesman said.

Santa Ana, about 30 miles southeast of Los Angeles, is the seat of Orange County, a conservative stronghold which elected a Birch Society member, John G. Schmitz, to the State Senate Tuesday. President Johnson received 58 per cent of the popular vote in California, but Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater got 56 per cent in Orange County.

Prisoners Revolt In British Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Nov. 7 (UPI)—Hundreds of prisoners staged a noisy demonstration at the Georgetown prison in protest against alleged bad conditions.

Riot police carrying guns moved into the prison compound and quelled the demonstration after three hours with tear gas bombs thrown among prisoners in cells.

Close-Up 11-14-64-C

It's Time for That Investigation

A friend in St. Petersburg, Fla., sends word of what the Birchers have been doing down that way. According to a clipping from The St. Petersburg Times, the Birchers there have distributed a pamphlet calling on "patriots" and their children to buy weapons and arm themselves.

The St. Petersburg pamphlet gave a rather detailed list of firearms recommended for both adults and children. For younger children, for example, semi-automatic .22 rifles were suggested.

"For each gun," the pamphlet continued, "stockpile at least 300 rounds of ammunition, plus 200 rounds or more to practice with.

"To purchase extra ammunition now is the best investment you can make. The price of military surplus has jumped 600 per cent in the last 10 years."

The story about the pamplet ran in The Times late last month.

The pamphlet was, of course, promptly disavowed by Birch headquarters in Massachusetts. But when one views the Birch movement and the Radical Rightist movement as a whole, such disavowals are only partly reassuring.

From Houston, Tex., comes word that Birch Society chapters are being organized in senior and junior high schools. A John Birch organizer said meetings would be kept secret and be run exactly as those of adult chapters.

"It's a big status symbol," said a Houston teenager, "to be a member of the John Birch junior group."

From here and there across the country comes news of Birch Society members being elected to state legislatures and other public offices.

The whole business is reminiscent of the old Klan movement which about 40 years ago got control of entire states.

It is remarkable that a movement which openly uses Communist and totalitarian tactics has been so completely spared, so far, from official investigation. President Johnson, in the recent campaign, promised such an investigation. The sooner it is undertaken the better, for it should have been done long ago.—MARVIN WALL.

Philadelphia Police Warned Of Birch Link

11-15-64

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14 (AP). Philadelphia Mayor James Tate says policemen who join the John Birch Society can expect assignment only to "limited duty."

Tate made the statement at a news conference Friday while discussing some John Birch Society groups—he called them "cells" — operating within the Philadelphia Police Department.

Tate said 14 of 15 policemen, whom he declined to name, were members and were attempting to recruit others.

"This was the way the Nazis got started in Germany, and the way the Communists operated in the 1930s and 1940s," Tate said.

"Membership of police in the Birch Society, drastically limits their capability as police officers and in law enforcement activities," Tate said. "They are not in tune with law enforcement problems. They are against certain groups in the big cities. The police department, above any other in the city, should be above reproach."

THE MAYOR SAID the possibility of suspension or dismissal of Birch members "is now being reviewed by the law department," and he added, "Even if they were not suspened they would be given limited duties."

Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary explained that "limited duties" generally refers to clerical posts which are usually filled by policemen injured or incapaciated in the line of duty.

Reds Fighting Birch Police, Official Says

11-17-64

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17 (AP)—The John Birch Society acknowledges it is interested in enrolling policemen but says this "is no different than our interest in getting doctors, farmers and anyone else in American life to join the society."

Former congressman John H. Rousselot, the society's public relations director and official spokesman, said that while his organization has no special interest in recruiting police there are those with a special interest in keeping Birch members out of police work.

"We're finding this an interesting pattern around the country," Rousselot told a reporter. "We find that in Communist publications around the country — San Francisco and New York—pressure is being brought to bear on local police departments to keep members of the John Birch Society out of the departments." He did not name the publications.

TWO REPORTS of Birch Society membership in police departments have attracted attention in recent weeks. The first came early this month from nearby Santa Ana, in politically conservative Orange County.

The city manager there said 10 to 20 dissident policemen, many of them Birch members, were harassing the police chief, trying to undermine his authority. But the city manager said he thought their society membership was coincidental and felt confident the society itself would not be a party to the activities of which the officers were accused.

MORE RECENTLY, in Philadelphia, Mayor James H. J. Tate said some policemen there were organizing Birch Society cells. He said society membership limits "the capabilities of the police officers involved; they can't be useful in their assignments."

Tate said: "This is the way the Nazi party began and this is the way the Communist party operated in the '40s."

Rousselot made his remarks here after returning from Philadelphia, where he held a news conference to answer the mayor.

Rousselot told newsmen there that Tate's statements were "absolutely false," that the mayor was trying to get publicity and had not bothered to find out about the society.

"There is absolutely nothing wrong with police being members of the John Birch Society," Rousselot said. "Membership would not interfere with a policeman's performance of his duty . . .

We have growing numbers of police and personnel in sheriff's departments throughout the country. Police membership is a private matter. They can better educate themselves to the threat of communism."

11-19-64

Birch Police Not Known, Chiefs in 40 Cities Assert

NEW YORK (AP) — Police chiefs in more than 40 major cities surveyed by The Associated Press say they know of no John Birch Society members in their departments.

However, many said they had no way of determining who was a Birch member and some said the matter was private. Few chiefs reported being aware of any recruiting drive by the ultra-conservative society, but some told of getting society literature.

Philadelphia and Santa Ana, Calif., officials had previously acknowledged knowing of Birch members on their police forces, a total of more than two dozen.

Spokesmen for the society, however, claim many more than that, without giving figures.

Houston's assistant police chief, George Beber, said he knew of no officers who have joined the organization. The society's Houston area coordinator, Philip Blair Jones, said there were a number of Houston police officers in the organization.

One unnamed Houston police officer said he and others on the force had received Birch literature almost a year ago.

But, he said: "If anyone joined the society they are keeping it very quiet. I haven't heard of any officer who is a member."

Hugh Fine of San Jose, the society's San Francisco Bay area coordinator, said: "A fair portion of the members of the society in communities around the bay are law enforcement officers."

Thomas Cahill, San Francisco's police chief, said he is convinced there are no Birch members in his department.

"We avoid any association that would place us in a position where we could not be completely impartial," he said.

In Philadelphia, where Mayor James H. J. Tate said he plans to take action against 15 policemen who are Birch members, the American Civil Liberties Union urged him to refrain.

A policeman's membership in the society should be ignored, the Civil Liberties Union said, unless it is proved that the society had influenced his execution of duties.

In New York, Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy ordered a study made to determine whether membership in the society would conflict with regulations.

Deputy Commissioner Walter Arm said there were "no indications at this time" that any of the city's 26,000 policemen were Birch members.

The first public knowledge of Birch members on police forces came two weeks ago in Santa Ana, county seat of politically conservative Orange County, 30 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

Santa Ana's city manager, Carl J. Thornton, said an investigation had disclosed more than two dozen dissident policemen, many of them Birch members. He said they were harassing Police Chief Edward J. Allen and trying to undermine his authority.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

AN APPEAL TO ALL THE FACTIONS

BORGOMANERO, Italy, Nov. 18 (UPI)—A plank in a local party's campaign platform for Sunday's municipal elections: "The undersigned pledge to enlarge the cemetery so citizens will be more comfortable."

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

ROOF REPAIRS
Residential—Industrial
TIP-TOP ROOFERS
"WHEN YOU HEAR DRIP DROP CALL TIP-TOP"
TR. 3-2891 1984 Buford Hiway

HAPPINESS FOR WOMEN Women's happiness depends on proper functioning of their delicately adjusted bodies. Functional disorders may cause scanty or irregular menses. When this happens, just ask your druggist for a small pleasant tablet called Humphreys "11", a true homeopathic preparation. No prescription needed.

WANT ADS PAY OFF

11-20-64 - 8

Birchers Face Union Charge Of Infiltration

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20 (AP)—Members of the John Birch Society are infiltrating California unions in what appears to be a secret conspiracy to gain control, says a top union official.

Thomas L. Pitts, executive secretary of the state AFL-CIO, said Thursday:

"Within the past few months, local unions of the AFL-CIO International Association of Fire Fighters in California have been beset by these divisive forces to such an extent as to suggest existence of a clandestine conspiracy by extremist forces to gain control of key community agencies.

"Harassment activities in the fire fighters union included an abortive attempt by a few Birchite members of one local to create dissension by dispatching a letter to other locals containing false and malicious charges against the AFL-CIO political arm, the Council on Political Education.

"The charges were so patently false they made little stir. But the Birchers are becoming more adept every day at mingling half truths and false innuendoes to create fear and distrust in organizations they seek to commandeer or immobilize."

Pitts did not identify the local involved.

Pitts said right-wing extremist groups are attempting to infiltrate other unions "in the guise of fighting communism in Alameda, Contra Costa, Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego counties."

12-9-64 9

Birch Society Claims Record Membership Gain

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9 (AP)—The John Birch Society has enrolled more new members and established more new chapters in November than in any other month in its history, a spokesman reported.

John H. Rousselot, the society's director of public relations, told a news conference that it was not the society's policy to disclose membership figures, but added:

"California led the nation in new chapters and members."

He said many law enforcement officers have joined the society, but added, "the society makes no concerted effort to recruit members of police departments."

ROOF REPA
Residential—
TIP-TO "WHEN Y
TR

12-10-64 Journal

Birch Society Ban Bounces; UNICEF Card Sales Soar

MONTEREY, Calif., Dec. 10 (UPI) — A John Birch Society effort to block the sale of United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) Christmas cards on the Monterey peninsula appeared Thursday to have boomeranged.

Holman's department store in Pacific Grove resumed sales of the United Nations group's cards and calendars Wednesday. The store had halted sales of the materials Tuesday following a meeting with Dan King III, local section leader for the Birch Society.

But manager Vernon Hurd said there had been a misunderstanding on the part of the volunteers. "The store has always had an open door policy for everyone and I am sorry there has been a misunderstanding on this score.

". . . WE ALSO invite Dan King to sit at a table and pass out his literature if he so wishes."

King did not accept. Instead, he assailed what he considered a capitulation by Holman's.

"This is just another case of surrendering to the Communist-controlled United Nations," King said.

Bank of America branches at nearby Pacific Grove and Carmel, which also ejected UNICEF cards and calendar volunteer salesmen Tuesday, continued to close their doors to them Wednesday.

J. STANLEY NELSON, the manager of the Pacific Grove branch, said "it is the bank's policy to refuse any request to display advertising material not associated with bank activities."

Eleven pickets appeared at the bank Tuesday and three appeared briefly Wednesday. But Mrs. H. Paul Riebe of Carmel, wife of a retired rear admiral and director of the card sale, said there would be no more picketing.

UNICEF helps provide food and medical care for needy children in more than 100 countries.

THE ATTACK by the Birch Society appeared to spur sales of the UNICEF cards on the Monterey peninsula and apparently throughout northern California.

Mrs. Riebe reported booming sales and attributed it to "the general protest against King's kind of objection."

Scores of northern California businessmen offered floor space

12-10-64 Journal

Birch Society Ban Bounces; UNICEF Card Sales Soar

MONTEREY, Calif., Dec. 10 (UPI) — A John Birch Society effort to block the sale of United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) Christmas cards on the Monterey peninsula appeared Thursday to have boomeranged.

Holman's department store in Pacific Grove resumed sales of the United Nations group's cards and calendars Wednesday. The store had halted sales of the materials Tuesday following a meeting with Dan King III, local section leader for the Birch Society.

But manager Vernon Hurd said there had been a misunderstanding on the part of the volunteers. "The store has always had an open door policy for everyone and I am sorry there has been a misunderstanding on this score.

". . . WE ALSO invite Dan King to sit at a table and pass out his literature if he so wishes."

King did not accept. Instead, he assailed what he considered a capitulation by Holman's.

"This is just another case of surrendering to the Communist-controlled United Nations," King said.

Bank of America branches at nearby Pacific Grove and Carmel, which also ejected UNICEF cards and calendar volunteer salesmen Tuesday, continued to close their doors to them Wednesday.

J. STANLEY NELSON, the manager of the Pacific Grove branch, said "it is the bank's policy to refuse any request to display advertising material not associated with bank activities."

Eleven pickets appeared at the bank Tuesday and three appeared briefly Wednesday. But Mrs. H. Paul Riebe of Carmel, wife of a retired rear admiral and director of the card sale, said there would be no more picketing.

UNICEF helps provide food and medical care for needy children in more than 100 countries.

THE ATTACK by the Birch Society appeared to spur sales of the UNICEF cards on the Monterey peninsula and apparently throughout northern California.

Mrs. Riebe reported booming sales and attributed it to "the general protest against King's kind of objection."

Scores of northern California businessmen offered floor space for UNICEF sales and state Sen. Fred S. Farr of Carmel donated his mobile legislative office for UNICEF use this Saturday.

Stores as far away as San Francisco, 90 miles to the north, reported an increase in sales of UNICEF materials.

Gallup Poll

Birchites Get Low Acclaim

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J.—The GOP convention in San Francisco added to the public's awareness of the John Birch Society, but it didn't add to its stature.

The number of people who have heard of this controversial right-wing organization has almost doubled over the last 2½ years. After the society had been in the headlines only a few weeks, in April 1961, 37 per cent of those interviewed said they had heard or read about it. Ten months later the figure had jumped to 53 per cent. Now, in the latest post-GOP convention survey, almost seven persons in ten (68 per cent) are aware of the organization. Translated in terms of numbers, this would represent approximately 75 million adults.

All persons in the survey were asked if they had heard or read about the John Birch Society. Those who replied in the affirmative were then asked for their opinion of the organization.

As the following table shows, unfavorable opinions are now appreciably greater than in February 1962, while favorable opinions have remained at about the same low level:

OPINION OF JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY?
(Among those aware)

	April 1961	Feb. 1962	TODAY
Favorable	9%	8%	8%
Unfavorable	44	43	59
No opinion	47	49	33

Those who hold unfavorable attitudes toward the Birch Society tend to view it in various ways—from a dangerous "Fascist" organization to a collection of "crackpots" and "publicity-seekers."

Those who favor the society argue that any group which actively opposes communism serves a useful purpose.

Here is a sample of comments on both sides:

Favorable: "They're trying to tell the people the truth about communism . . . I think it can be a force for the good . . . I am a member of it and it is a fine society trying to help the country . . . some good men belong to it—it's a bit radical but there must be some truth to it . . ."

Unfavorable: "They're trying to sell patriotism by unpatriotic means . . . they're extremists of the worst kind . . . they are too much behind the scenes—I like an organization which is out in the open . . . I think they are doing the very thing the Communists want—destroying faith in our leaders . . ."

Republicans are slightly more favorably disposed toward the John Birch Society than are Democrats. In terms of region of the country, the Far West is the most receptive to the organization, but here, too, opinion is overwhelmingly on the unfavorable side.

Copyright, 1964,
American Institute of Public Opinion

SUNDAY

AUGUST
S	M	T	W	T	F	S
						1
2	3	4	5	6	7	8
9	10	11	12	13	14	15
16	17	18	19	20	21	22
23	24	25	26	27	28	29
30	31

30

AUG. 1964

Reich

probably between 20,000 & 30,000

members in all 50 states

$24 for one $12 for two income 1963: $1 million

News Briefs

The Atlanta Chapter
AMERICAN ASSOCIATION for the UNITED NATIONS

ROOM 361 • 1401 PEACHTREE STREET, N.E. • ATLANTA 9, GEORGIA • 876-4800

New Name: UNITED NATIONS ASSOCIATION OF THE U S A ., INC.

Those of us who believe in the ideals for which the UN was founded, have watched with hope and reassurance in recent weeks as the Security Council has dealt with the Vietnam and Cyprus crises. Lest we expect too much and abdicate our responsibilities, remember that the UN cannot be expected to regularly perform miracles.

Recently it was announced that the Xerox Corporation has allocated $4,000,000 for a series of 6 90-minute dramatic "special" programs anout the UN. To be shown during the 1964-65 season, the series is designed to illustrate for the American public the UN's economic and social activities.

The creative people involved are giving their services free so that the entire amount can be given to production costs and network time charges. Xerox will dispense with the usual product commercials, confining its message to institutional identification. For years, UN supporters have said that, if only some real money could be put into television programs on the UN, there could be an effective and dramatic means of fostering a strong and affirmative public opinion in support of the UN

The John Birch Society, ever alert and disciplined, has "suggested" to its followers that the Xerox Corporation be taken to task for this expenditure for education on the UN. 100,000 letters have been called for by the John Birch Society.

If ever there was a time, now is the time for UNA members to express to the Xerox Corporation, Rochester, N. Y., deep appreciation and gratitude for their pioneer action in the field of tlelvision. Write a letter yourself. Urge each UNA member to write. Talk with organization leaders in your area and urge them to write. Get the letters going as soon as possible and see that they are original letters, not "form letters".

Check with your ABC and NBC TV station managers to learn when the programs will be carried. Assure them of your cooperation and notify others of the program schedule. Please do not lay this matter aside, but write your letter within the next few days so that the fullest possible impact can be felt by Xerox from this area.

Many of us felt proud to read in a recent UN dispatch about the 4th birthday of Turkish quads who survived because of UNICEF. Weighing a total of 11 lbs. at birth, the babies would have died but for incubators furnished by UNICEF. This event alone was worth the 17¢ UN's cost added to my tax bill in 1960. How about you?

Atlanta's Dr RUFUS CLEMENT will be our speaker at our August meeting to be held at 11:00 o'clock A.M., on August 28th, at the Central YWCA. Dr. Clement recently headed the American delegation to the inauguration of the government of the new nation of Malawe. We are fortunate to have the resources of such a highly regarded American.

Leah Janus has already begun her work as Chairman of our chapter's committee for UN Day observance. On one doubts that she will do her usual excellent job. In fact, you may be terribly surprised at the calibre of speaker she's getting for our UN Week dinner. SHE NEEDS ALL SORTS OF HELP. If you have any time, show her your appreciation by contacting Mrs. Janus and offering help.

Recently, Mrs. Fred Patterson held a meeting at her home of state leaders, who are interested in forming chapters of UNA in their communities. She never ceases to give completely of her resources in the service of what she believes to be uplifting.

Stanley S. Jones, who won the state contest for high school students regarding the UN, has recently returned from the tour which he received for winning. A few days after returning from the UN he appeared on WSB to tell of his experiences on Ruth Kent's show. His enthusiasm was delightful.

Miss Kent's support of the UN concept is complete. Mrs. Fred Patterson and Your president also were guests or her program Today in Georgia, recently.

Rosa Lee Zeis
Secretary

Grady L. Randolph
President.

HOUSING

AC 5/21/66

DeKalb Realtors Praise Open Housing, Rap Bill

The president of the DeKalb Board of Realtors said Friday that his organization thought the objective of open-occupancy housing was "praiseworthy," but that President Lyndon B. Johnson's fair housing bill wasn't the way to achieve it.

William J. Strickland said racial prejudice in housing can be abolished only by "understanding and education fostered voluntarily by churches, schools and all men of good will.

"It cannot be achieved by the federal government with all its vast power, wiping out freedom of choice and contract under the guise of providing a new right for minority groups," Strickland said.

The DeKalb realtor charged that the Johnson administration bill would empower the government "to force an owner to sell or rent his property to a person not of his choice—all under the facade of banning bias."

But, Strickland said, "this would not accomplish abolition of bias—it would just strip from property owners their traditional right to choose whom they may sell or rent to."

He said voluntary efforts to provide equal opportunity in housing "are under way quietly in many communities," citing a report of the California Real Estate Association that "99 per cent of the 286,406 listings of 170 real estate boards for the first 11 months of 1965 contained no racial restrictions."

Strickland said he had sent his remarks to Senators Richard Russell and Herman Talmadge and to 4th District Rep. James A. Mackay.

NCDH

TRENDS IN HOUSING

NATIONAL COMMITTEE AGAINST DISCRIMINATION IN HOUSING
323 LEXINGTON AVENUE, NEW YORK, N. Y. 10016 • (212) 685-8911
VOLUME X, NUMBER 9 DECEMBER 1968 $2 A YEAR

Total Effort Urged to End Ghetto System

Next Issue

Denver's "Realtor of the Year" tells how actual experience under a sweeping fair housing statute led Colorado realtors to shift from vehement opposition to support of the law "in spirit as well as letter."

L.A. Meeting Says Urban Crisis Demands Space-Age Solutions

The NCDH Regional Conference for the West Coast, held in Los Angeles November 18-20, was attended by some 300 delegates from 77 cities and towns located in 23 states. Conferees were broadly representative of local fair housing, civic, and civil rights organizations; government agencies; and business, religious, and labor interests. The vast majority came from the Western states.

"Urban Crisis and the Ghetto System – A Program for Grassroots Action" was the theme of this first of five regional meetings planned by NCDH for the coming year as a follow-up to the historic 1966 White House Conference "To Fulfill These Rights." At that time, 2600 national leaders were charged by President Johnson with developing specific programs to be undertaken by government and the private sector to open the way for Negro Americans and other minorities "to move beyond opportunity to achievement."

The housing proposals adopted at the White House meeting were based on four essential goals:

- An absolutely open market, with affirmative merchandising of housing in all areas to families of all racial groups.
- Expansion and dispersion of the supply of moderate- and low-cost housing throughout all metropolitan areas.
- Development and maintenance of racially-inclusive new towns and suburban communities throughout the nation.
- Revitalization of the existing ghetto areas and their redevelopment into desirable, racially-integrated communities.

In convening the West Coast conference, NCDH launched the first nationwide effort by a public-interest agency to stimulate citizens' pressure for implementation of these White House proposals. The Los Angeles program, described as a "shirtsleeve working conference," was planned with the

Continued on page 4

This is the first of two articles dealing with the significant subject matter covered at the NCDH West Coast Regional Conference. The story in this issue reports on the plenary sessions. Major points developed in the six workshops, each of which concentrated on a particular program area, and highlights from the working papers used at the workshop sessions, will be reported in January.

Case Tests 1866 US Law

NCDH Brief Holds Century-old Statute Covers All Housing

A long-held contention by many of the country's legal experts that the United States has on its statute books a national fair housing law which has been valid, although unused, for 100 years is now being tested by an unprecedented lawsuit which is wending its way through the Federal Courts.

The historic case, which the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing has entered as a friend of the court, was initiated in the US District Court in St. Louis (Mo.), and is now before the Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit. The amicus brief, filed on behalf of NCDH by Sol Rabkin, chairman of its Legal Committee, and Joseph B. Robison, its General Counsel, argues that the Civil Rights Act of 1866, now embodied in Section 1982 of Title 42 of the US Code, prohibits discrimination based on race in the sale or rental of real property.

"The Same Right"

Section 1982 of Title 42 of the US Code reads as follows: "All citizens of the United States shall have the same right, in every State and Territory, as is enjoyed by white citizens thereof to inherit,

Continued on page 2

ACTRESS MYRNA LOY, chairman of the NCDH Advisory Council, joins other officials of the National Committee at the Los Angeles Press Club for a news conference which preceded the opening of the West Coast regional meeting. Pictured with Miss Loy, left to right, are Jack E. Wood, Jr., and Edward Rutledge, executive heads of NCDH; George R. Metcalf, president; and board member Clive Graham. The entire conference had wide press, radio and TV coverage. Miss Loy, a "working chairman" who was present throughout the West Coast meeting, spoke briefly at the opening session.

All West Coast conference pictures: Trends, Michael Howden

HOUSING

Rights Group Says Government Helps To Build Ghettos

2/9/67

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 — A national civil rights group charged today that the Federal Government had helped to build the nation's Negro ghettos and that its new programs, specifically the model cities program may serve only to perpetuate those ghettos.

This indictment, one of the most serious ever brought by a civil rights group against the Johnson Administration, was contained in a 32-page booklet released at a news conference here today by the officers of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing.

In a brief analysis of past housing programs, the committee said that the Government's first major contribution to the ghettoization of cities was its willingness to subsidize, through mortgage insurance by the Federal Housing Administration, the construction of the predominantly white suburbs that mushroomed after World War II.

It then went on to charge that present programs had reinforced the ghetto process. Among the major charges were these:

¶The Department of Housing and Urban Development "continues to approve" public housing projects in areas that "guarantee all-Negro occupancy."

¶The housing agency "has taken no meaningful action to desegregate existing public housing projects."

¶Urban renewal programs continue to "violate" Negroes' rights "by forcing their continuous upheaval and relocation in racially segregated areas to accommodate local community prejudices."

The committee's executive director, Edward Rutledge, said that the President's new model cities program, which is designed to upgrade slum neighborhoods, was simply another "ghetto building program" that would lock Negroes into the central cities "for another generation."

The charges brought an eight-page response from Robert C. Weaver, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Mr. Weaver said he shared the committee's concern, but he called its appraisal of the Johnson Administration's position "inaccurate and unfair."

Burma Releases 116 More

U.S. URBAN AGENCY ACTS TO CURB BIAS

HOUSING

Campaign Follows Charges by Civil Rights Group

2/16/67

By ROBERT B. SEMPLE Jr.

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—The Department of Housing and Urban Development, long a target for civil rights groups, is undertaking a campaign against racial discrimination in some of its major housing programs. The campaign involves important changes in present policies.

In a confidential memorandum circulated throughout the department in mid-January, Secretary Robert C. Weaver told the operating heads of his agency either to implement the Administration's non-discrimination regulations or to furnish, by mid-January, a detailed explanation why they cannot carry them out.

The memorandum has not been made public and the details are still a matter of departmental secrecy. But authoritative sources in the department said its substance was contained in Mr. Weaver's reply last week to charges by a civil rights group that he had failed to act against housing discrimination and thus accelerated the growth of downtown Negro ghettos.

The rights group, a New York-based organization called

The New York Times

Robert C. Weaver

the National Committee against Discrimination in Housing, charged, among other things, that the housing agency:

The New York Times

Robert C. Weaver

the National Committee against Discrimination in Housing, charged, among other things, that the housing agency:

¶Continued to deal with suburban developers who discriminated against Negroes, despite the executive order of 1962 banning discrimination in Federally insured housing;

¶Took the attitude that it could act only on "complaints" from Negroes, rather than initiating investigations of discrimination on its own;

¶Condoned and encouraged, through its policy of selecting tenants an almost completely segregated system of public housing.

It was perhaps the strongest attack ever leveled against the Administration by a civil rights group, and was in many ways a personal attack on Mr. Weaver, himself a Negro.

In his response, which contained the major points of the confidential departmental memo of last month, Mr. Weaver said he shared the concern of the rights group.

Cites New Policies

But he said that several "policies and procedures" had been devised for a more effective attack on discrimination in the agency's programs. Of these, two were of major importance.

The first deals with federally insured housing projects, covered by the executive order of 1962. Mr. Weaver said that the agency's inspection division had been instructed to make "sample compliance inspections" of such projects and to initiate investigations where there are reasons to believe that discrimination is being exercised."

Moreover, he declared that, whenever discrimination has been shown in a project, the developer "will have to show that he has developed and implemented an affirmative open occupancy program before he can be reinstated" in the federal mortgage insurance program.

The second major policy shift involved a sharp modification of the agency's "free choice" rule governing tenant selection in public housing.

The old rule had meant, in practice, that a white applicant could turn down vacancies in predominantly Negro projects while waiting for vacancies in white projects. The new rule will restrict the applicant's choices to a maximum of three; if he does not find the project he wants, he will either have to take what is available or be bumped to the bottom of the waiting list.

Housing agency officials insist that the new steps the first major changes in departmental antidiscrimination policies in several years, were in the works long before the National Committee against discrimination in Housing opened its attack. But they acknowledged that the attack forced the release of the substances of Mr. Weaver's confidential memorandum.

Mr. Weaver's reply was first described as a "complete whitewash" by officials of the rights group. After a further assessment, they said, it went about "one-quarter" of the way towards meeting their objections, but added that they would not be satisfied until the Secretary greatly strengthened the departmental machinery for carrying out his plans.

Strong White Opposition Hits Housing Bias Laws

By HAL COOPER AC 4/14/67

NEW YORK (AP)—State and city statutes aimed at racial discrimination in housing—a major cause of Negro unrest—faced strong white opposition from coast to coast Thursday.

Proposed open housing laws already have been beaten back this year in some localities, and an Associated Press survey showed that similar proposals elsewhere are in for a rough trip.

In some areas where antidiscrimination measures have been adopted, opponents are resorting to referendums to knock them out.

The City Commission of Jackson, Mich., passed an ordinance last fall making it illegal to discriminate in the sale or rental of housing on the basis of religion, race, color or national origin. In a referendum last Tuesday, voters voided the measure by a count, of 5,826 to 2,886.

In Louisville, Ky., the defeat of an open housing ordinance at a meeting of the board of aldermen Tuesday brought a threat of marches, picketing and sit-ins during Kentucky Derby week next month.

Negro comedian Dick Gregory, who had led demonstrators in favor of the ordinance, declared: "I don't think horses should have more dignity than human beings."

Last month the Maryland general assembly enacted an anti-

Continued on Page 13, Column 1

Whites Hit Bias Laws On Housing

Continued from Page 1

discrimination law which applies to housing completed after June 1. A group of opponents styling themselves as defenders of states' rights said they would petition for a referendum.

In the state of Washington a similar measure has been passed by the legislature and signed by the governor. The Seattle Advisory Homeowners Committee, which opposes it, is seeking the required 50,011 signatures of registered voters on petitions to force a referendum.

Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania had difficulty finding legislators of his own party to sponsor a bill prohibiting discrimination in housing other than owner-occupied dwellings or rooms sublet by lease. The bill finally was introduced but prospects for passage appeared to be poor.

A Nebraska legislative committee killed an open housing bill which would have applied only to Omaha, the state's biggest city. Public hearings have been called on two other measures which would have wider application.

The Iowa state Senate passed and sent to the House this week an antidiscrimination bill which would require anybody filing a complaint to post a $500 bond. Civil rights leaders denounced this provision as "a price tag on justice."

The New Mexico state legislature has turned down two different open housing bills, one introduced in the Senate and the other in the House.

Illinois has been warned that unless a statewide open housing law is enacted, it may lose a $375-million atom smasher plant which the Atomic Energy Commission plans to build at Weston, near Chicago.

Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the commission, said Congress might refuse to appropriate the necessary funds unless the state general assembly comes up soon with a satisfactory antidiscrimination law.

An Illinois Senate committee has opened hearings on half a dozen proposed measures, but their fate is uncertain.

Advertisement

Housing Bill Held Integration Spur

By BILL JORDAN

The president of the Urban Land Institute said Monday that the 1968 urban housing bill will spur integration of new housing developments.

Hunter Moss of Miami, Institute president, said at a press conference at the Regency Hyatt House that developers have wanted to move toward integration but have held back because of the fear of being the first to do so. Now, he said, the bill gives the developers the chance to move all together.

He added that he did not see the open housing bill setting off a mass exodus from the cities.

The press conference kicked off four days of Urban Land Institute meetings and presentations on "Problem: Rising Land Costs, Solution: Higher Densities?"

EXPECTS REVERSAL

The Miami land developer said that sooner or later people will get tired of the traffic and say, "I've had enough. It's time to move back to the city." Thus, he said, "the trend will be reversed."

On public housing, he said the suburbanites don't want it but it will inevitably come to the suburbs. "If you put your public housing downtown, you're going to re-create your slums," he said.

Questioned after the meeting as to the size of developments of low-rent housing to be located outside the inner city, he said he was in favor of a small number of units in a group. He said that in the Miami area, developments with as few as 12 units are built.

He said the smaller number of units enables the surrounding community to absorb the renters "without people pointing a finger and saying, 'there are your slummers'."

Atlanta recently began proceedings to place 800 units of low-rent housing on East Lake Golf Course.

LOCAL PROBLEMS

Moss said local government regulation was part of the answer to the charge that we are "wasting our land." He said that part of the waste is brought about when individuals hold land for a bigger gain when the rest of the area is being developed. Government services have to by-pass the property, increasing the cost and wasting the land, he said. The property should be rezoned to a higher tax status to force the owner to sell, he added.

The Washington, D.C.-based Urban Land Institute, a non-profit, non-lobbying organization, will hear presentations and discussion on "Land Planning for Low - Rise Development. Garden Apartments and Town Houses" Tuesday. Wednesday the topic will be "High - Rise Development, Apartments, Co-ops, Condominiums," and Thursday "The Pros and Cons of Cluster Housing—a Debate."

The Mortgage Bankers Association of America began meetings Monday evening at the Hilton Inn with the topic, "Urban Development Finance." The meetings will continue with an analysis of a sample case study of a project developed under the rent supplement program. The Tuesday afternoon session will consist of presentations on "Financing the Project."

Lapenza Named President of Atlanta & WP

Chester R. Lapenza has been elected president and general manager of the Atlanta & West Point Railroad Co. and the Western Railway of Alabama, and appointed general manager of the Atlanta-based Georgia Railroad effective June 1.

Lapenza succeeds Donald D. Strench, who has been appointed general manager of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co., Louisville, Ky.

Lapenza has been general manager of the Clinchfield Railroad Co., Erwin, Tenn.

Lapenza entered railroad service in the engineering department of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad at Savannah in 1944. He became general manager of the Clinchfield Railroad in 1964.

HOUSING

Only A Beginning - - - -

But a very significant one

Metropolitan Atlanta Conference on Equal Opportunity in Housing

Atlanta, Georgia May 29, 1968

HOUSING

A Century of No Progress?

GEORGE R. METCALF

IN JANUARY, 1866, less than a month after the states had ratified the Thirteenth Amendment abolishing slavery, Senator John B. Henderson of Missouri introduced Senate Bill 61. This bill declared, "All citizens of the United States shall have the same right, in every State and Territory, as is enjoyed by white citizens thereof to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property." Anyone judged guilty of violating its provisions was subject to a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both.

Arguments raised for and against the bill have a most contemporary ring. Then as now, the issue of Federal powers versus states' rights was sharply contested. Senator Lyman Trumbull of Illinois, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, argued, "The bill draws to the Federal government no power whatever if the States will perform their constitutional duties." President Andrew Johnson, vetoing the bill in March, 1866, said that it would "establish, for the security of the colored race, safeguards which go infinitely beyond any that the General Government has ever provided for the white race. In fact, the distinction of race and color is, by the bill, made to operate in favor of the colored and against the white race. . . ." Nevertheless, Congress passed it over Johnson's veto and it went into effect as the Civil Rights Act of 1866.

That law, rarely applied since its passage (it was last invoked in 1903), now has been resurrected as the cornerstone of a major open-housing case up for review by the Supreme Court this term. If the court agrees to hear Jones v. Mayer and decides in favor of the plaintiff, Joseph Jones of St. Louis, the Federal government will become the guarantor of the right to open housing, a field until now largely relegated to states and communities. And a milestone in our body of civil-rights law will be marked by legislation that has been on the books for 101 years.

Taking the Fourteenth

The reason why the Federal government has left this problem to state and local jurisdiction, except in the cases of Federally owned or financed housing, lies in the post-Reconstruction interpretations of the Fourteenth Amendment, which Congress passed some two months after the 1866 Civil Rights Law. This amendment enjoins that "No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

On its face, this proposal represented an effort to keep the states from passing Jim Crow laws. Once Reconstruction was ended and Southern influence returned to Congress, the Fourteenth Amendment's emphasis on state responsibility easily lent itself to interpretation by the judiciary as limiting the power of the Federal government to matters involving state action. This interpretation was enunciated in the 1883 Civil Rights Cases by Supreme Court Justice Joseph P. Bradley, who declared: "It is State action of a particular character that is prohibited. Individual invasion of individual rights is not the subject matter of the amendment.... Until some State law has been passed, or some State action through its officers or agents has been taken . . . no legislation of the United States under said amendment, nor any proceeding under such legislation, can be called into activity. . . . The wrongful act of an individual, unsupported by any [state] authority, is simply a private wrong, or a crime of that individual."

This interpretation not only invalidated an act of 1875 aimed at establishing the right to equal public accommodations (the decision at stake), but it also rendered meaningless the Civil Rights Act of 1866. And to give the states even freer rein, thirteen years later in Plessy v. Ferguson the court laid down the concept of "separate but equal" facilities as fulfilling the requirement of the Fourteenth Amendment. Thereafter the Southern states passed a long list of Jim Crow laws, and discrimination in the North went largely unchallenged.

The stress of civil-rights court action in recent decades has been on reasserting the Federal responsibility abdicated after Reconstruction. With the NAACP playing a leading role, the Jim Crow laws, the separate-but-equal doctrine, and the primacy of the states have been struck down in case after case. But open housing, one of the areas most bitterly defended by the foes of civil rights, has been slow to yield to the legal arguments of Federal primacy.

THE CASE that may make the breakthrough in this Supreme Court term had its origins in June, 1965, when a young St. Louis couple, Joseph and Barbara Jones, were attracted by an advertisement for a home that could be built for $28,195 in Paddock Woods, a suburban development outside the city limits. At the time both were employees of the Veterans Administration in East St. Louis. Barbara, a graduate of the University of Denver, was a professional social worker. Joseph, who had moved to St. Louis from Mississippi, had served in the U.S. Army in Germany and attended business school before going to work for the Veterans Administration. The house was within their means and was just what they wanted. But when they made an application to the Paddock Woods agent, they were told that it was not the "policy" of the Alfred H. Mayer Company, the subdivision developer, "to sell houses and lots to Negroes." And Joseph was a Negro.

The Joneses sought out Samuel H. Liberman II, a St. Louis lawyer active in civil-rights causes. For purposes of litigation, Liberman realized, the circumstances could not have been improved. There were no extraneous issues to affect the outcome. Paddock Woods was outside the jurisdiction of the city's fair-housing ordinance. The house was to have been built with conventional financing—no G.I. or Veterans Administration loans to invoke a question of Federal legal responsibility. Here was a pure test of the government's obligation to protect Negro citizens in their right to buy real property wherever they chose to live.

Liberman filed suit on the Joneses' behalf in U.S. District Court on September 2, 1965, seeking $50 actual damages and $10,000 punitive damages. He charged a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment and the 1866 Civil Rights Act. The District Court was unimpressed by Liberman's argument. It dismissed the case after stating that there was no evidence of "state action" that could trigger the Fourteenth Amendment. Lacking this, the court declared that the 1866 law did not apply, since it read the law as subject to the "state action" limitation of the Fourteenth Amendment.

By this time the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing (NCDH) had heard of the case. When the decision was carried to the U.S. Court of Appeals, Eighth District, the NCDH received permission to file a brief as a friend of the court. The committee's attorneys, Sol Rabkin and Joseph B. Robison, argued that the time had come for the court to recognize that the intent of the 1866 Act, as of the Thirteenth Amendment from which it grew, was clearly for the Federal power to guarantee individual liberties against private invasion. The judicially imposed requirement of "state action" thus was inapplicable to the Act of 1866. This requirement also was crumbling in the case of the Fourteenth Amendment, they argued, and was therefore no longer a prerequisite for invoking Federal power. And even if the need for "state action" to trigger the Fourteenth Amendment power were admitted, there was enough evidence of such action to call for a ruling in favor of the Joneses. Wasn't the defendant Mayer required to be licensed by the state as a real-estate dealer? What was that but "state action"? Didn't all property transactions have to be recorded in the Office of the Recorder of Deeds? Didn't that constitute state involvement?

The list was virtually endless, but the argument at this level was destined to fail. In affirming the decision of the District Court, the Court of Appeals stated that while it found the NCDH arguments weighty, it was without power to accept them. It declared that it was for the Supreme Court "to take the lead in expanding Constitutional precepts."

Taking this observation as a suggestion, NCDH is currently supporting a petition before the Supreme Court to seek final judgment on Jones v. Mayer. The Justice Department has become an additional backer of the petition, although the Federal government made it clear that in supporting the Joneses it seeks only to prevent the exclusion of Negroes from entire communities, like Paddock Woods, not the "single isolated refusal to sell to a Negro when comparable housing in the same area is readily available to him." If the court reversed the decisions against the Joneses, the 1866 Civil Rights Act would make open housing the law of the land.

Letter and Spirit

This reversal would usher in a new era for the courts, but whether the simple judicial act would overturn discrimination in the marketplace is quite another matter. A Federal agency to enforce compliance would be needed. And the experience of the states that already have open-housing laws demonstrates that the laws are no better than the willingness of public officials to enforce them.

In New York, where the open-housing law is among the most comprehensive in the country, a long string of complaints has grown over the ineffectiveness of the enforcement agency, the State Commission for Human Rights. The commission's official attitude has been to emphasize conciliation rather than compliance in order to forestall a popular outcry against governmental "tyranny." It has ignored administrative tools supplied by the state legislature. In 1965, for example, the legislature gave the commission authority to initiate investigations of cases of suspected discrimination. Previously, it had had to rely on individual complaints; landlords, real-estate agents, financial institutions, and builders could discriminate to their hearts' content if no one raised a voice in protest. But for two years, the proffered authority to investigate went unused; presumably, members of the commission were afraid of political retaliation.

Only recently has the commission shown signs that it will begin using the law. "We can no longer sit back and wait for individual complaints to be filed before we take action," its new chairman, Robert J. Mangum, said last month. The New York Times hailed his statement as "a major change in the attitude and operations of the agency toward combating racial discrimination." It remains to be seen what actions will follow the words.

At the latest count, twenty-two of the states have adopted open-housing statutes of varying degrees of coverage and effectiveness. Yet for the most part, Negro citizens in those states are still unable to buy or rent where they please. Because of reluctance to enforce the law, the gatekeepers of the white community—the banker, the broker, the builder—are still able to keep up the barriers without punishment. Initially, a favorable ruling by the Supreme Court in Jones v. Mayer undoubtedly would meet with as much resistance as the state laws or its own 1954 school-desegregation ruling. But like that ruling, it would be a first, essential step.

AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE

C+2 HOUSING

HOMES AND COMMUNITY

AMERICAN FRIENDS SERVICE COMMITTEE
COMMUNITY RELATIONS PROGRAM
Rm. 501, 41 [illegible] Georgia 30303

The Urban Coalition Action Council
HOUSING

National Action Conference on Equal Housing Opportunities program

HUD
DEPAR OF HOUSING AN DEVELOPMEN
ington, D.C. 20410
U. S. DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

Richmond Area Economic Development Summary For 1963

A Banner Year In Economic Development

New milestones in economic development were reached in the Richmond area this year on all fronts according to records of the Chamber's Industrial and Trade Bureau. More than 1,000,000 square feet (approximately 20 football fields) of new industrial plant capacity have been placed here this year. The 1963 industrial and commercial developments tabulated here includes more than 35 new developments in manufacturing, including 11 new industries, to continue the ever spreading diversity of Richmond's industry.

More than 400,000 sq. ft. of new distribution warehouse activity were recorded in the files of the Industrial and Trade Bureau. Public merchandise storage and distribution organizations are also in the expansions reflected here. The area experienced continued growth of headquarters and branch office activities.

The apartment building boom led in the residential construction tabulation with more than $25,000,000 spent. This capital outlay is represented by both high-rise and garden type apartments.

Hospital facilities being constructed will cost well over $10,000,000. Other fields of commercial expansion including finance, hotels-motels and retail trades are reflected in this tabulation, but the list of 126 developments is by no means all inclusive. Developments announced in previous Bulletins are omitted.

The major indicators of economic activity below also record a year of economic growth.

			Net Increase
	1963	1962	Amount	%
Total Employment	181,200	177,400	3,800	2.1
Average Weekly Earnings, Mfg.	$ 88.47	$ 86.10	$ 2.37	2.8
Business Establishments - No.	16,012	15,789	123	1.4
Volume of Trade (000)	$13,738,727	$12,382,764	$1,707,063	10.9
Commercial Construction	$29,389,295	$27,934,031	$1,455,264	5.2

Note: Data shown are for 12 months ending November 30.
Number of business establishments measured by commercial electric meters. Volume of trade measured by bank debits.

From News-Leader of May 26, '65

City Council members are taking a"once burnt twice cautious approach to the pending annexation suit against Chesterfield county. Still strong in the memories of the councilmen is the recent Henrico annexation case in which a three judge p anel awarded the city a 17-sq.mi. chunk of Henrico county. The price tag specified by the court was so high, however, that the city refused the court's award and turned attention instead toward Chesterfield, where a 51-sq.mi. chunk of county land has been marked for annexation.

News Leader 6/9/65 -

U Richmond board of trustees drops racial bars in September, 1965 -

Prior to this, since Feb 1965, N's in evening program.

Unconfirmed reports say N's applied to UR, were denied admission

Many private Va. schools dropping ROTC.

MEMORANDUM ON HOUSING, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

In common with many of the large metropolitan centers in the nation, the population of Richmond has grown tremendously during the past two decades. New developments in the suburban areas as well as construction of many modern apartment houses within the City proper have provided a wide choice in styles and prices from which to select living quarters.

Cost figures quoted in this memorandum naturally cannot be guaranteed because they have been selected at random from quotations seen in the classified section of our daily newspapers. Single bedroom, unfurnished rentals start around $65 per month on an annual lease basis. For modern, economical accommodations, the middle range would be about $85 per month. With two bedrooms, rentals start at approximately $75 per month, and with three bedrooms correspondingly higher. Furnished quarters are from $10 to $50 higher, depending on the season and and various other factors which are inclined to affect the rates one way or another.

At the present time, there is a wide selection of homes available for purchase in Richmond. Builders are prepared to erect housing in three to four months time. Attractive two-bedroom homes are available for as low as $8,500. Some three bedroom homes are advertised at approximately $9,300 and upward.

Furnished efficiency apartments sometimes are available as low as $75 per month but the supply is limited and vacancies are infrequent. Several new high-rise apartment buildings have recently been constructed.

For those desiring deluxe quarters, there are several areas restricted to the more expensive type of home or apartment.

Real estate firms belonging to the Richmond Chamber of Commerce generally act as brokers in the selling or leasing of homes or apartments. A partial list of these real estate firms is available from this office.

We suggest that people interested in living quarters in the Richmond area refer to the classified advertising section of one or both of the two daily newspapers: Richmond Times-Dispatch - morning and Sunday; Richmond News Leader - evening, daily only, 110 North Fourth Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219.

We generally recommend that newcomers to Richmond stop at one of our hotels or tourist courts until they have had an opportunity to personally acquaint themselves with the several sections of the City and to examine at first hand the alternative facilities which are available and suitable to their needs.

# # #

Richmond Chamber of Commerce
616 East Franklin Street
Richmond, Virginia 23219

5/65:400

RICHMOND

area facts in figures

1965

RICHMOND
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

616 East Franklin Street
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA 23219
Telephone 649-0373

THE RICHMOND AREA TODAY

POPULATION

1965

Standard Metropolitan Area	486,800
Richmond City	220,100
Henrico	140,900
Chesterfield	93,500
Hanover	32,300

HOUSING UNITS

1965

Metropolitan	150,300
Corporate	72,450

PERSONAL INCOME

1965

Total	$1,379,500,000
Per Family	9,409
Per Capita	2,834

RETAIL TRADE

1965

Establishments	3,247
Sales Estimate	$ 746,705,000

EMPLOYMENT

Jan. 1965

Total Non-Agricultural Wage & Salary Employment	192,900
Manufacturing	48,400
Wholesale Trade	13,800
Retail Trade	30,300
Services	24,600
Local & State Government	25,100
Federal Government	7,300
Construction	12,800
Finance, Real Estate	7,300
Insurance	7,600
Transportation, Utilities, Communications	15,500

EMPLOYMENT IN MANUFACTURING

Tobacco	10,300
Chemicals & Allied Products	8,700
Food & Kindred Products	5,100
Printing & Publishing Industries	4,200
Paper & Allied Products	3,700
Apparel & Textile Products	3,700
Lumber & Wood except Furniture	2,200
Fabricated Metal Products	1,900
Other	8,600

PHYSICAL FACTS

Corporate land area	39.9 square miles
Mean annual temperature	58.0 degrees F
Mean July temperature	78.1 degrees F
Mean January temperature	38.7 degrees F
Maximum elevation above sea level	312 feet
Precipitation annually	44.21 inches
Wind—Average velocity	7.7 miles per hour
Normal degree days	3914

UTILITIES

Minimum daily flow in James River—gals.	225,000,000
City water plants
Rated capacity daily—gals.	88,000,000
Peak demand daily—gals.	47,000,000
Sewage treatment plant
Rated capacity daily—gals.	70,000,000
Peak demand daily—gals.	30,000,000
Electric consumption (000 KWH)	1,780,000
Gas consumption (000 cu. ft.)	8,137,000

PUBLIC SCHOOLS

1965

Enrollment	97,219
Day School	94,460
Night School	2,759
Teachers	4,637
Day School	4,487
Night School	150
Value School Property	$ 112,147,286

RICHMOND'S ECONOMIC GROWTH

Year	Metropolitan Population (Number)	Corporate Population (Number)	Non Agricultural Employment (Number)	Personal Income ($000,000)	Retail Sales ($000,000)	Wholesale Trade ($000,000)	Value Added By Manufacture ($000,000)	Cigarette Production (000,000)	Bank Deposits ($000)	Bank Debits ($000,000)	Savings & Loan Deposits ($000)	Construction Total ($000)	Construction Residential ($000)	Construction New Dwelling Units (Number)	Telephones Home (Number)	Telephones Business (Number)	Electric Customers Business (Number)	Automobile Registrations (Number)	Year
1950	328,050	230,310	138,500	551	331	718	302	104,303	550,107	6,151	23,723	54,532	29,977	4,418	71,125	34,185	13,227	68,764	1950
1951	335,900	229,000	143,600	639	388	751	328	108,687	583,535	6,972	25,850	53,744	32,656	3,798	75,613	35,916	13,443	74,555	1951
1952	344,600	228,050	146,400	672	402	785	331	110,665	613,352	7,274	31,751	40,713	25,450	2,924	78,833	37,818	13,715	80,574	1952
1953	353,800	227,050	147,900	689	414	819	338	107,646	603,654	7,658	37,320	42,944	26,351	3,220	82,869	39,025	13,866	87,321	1953
1954	361,700	225,950	145,700	715	424	852	344	107,423	656,063	7,530	50,524	69,474	35,972	3,989	85,461	40,552	14,516	93,329	1954
1955	369,500	224,850	149,700	740	445	932	378	110,122	663,756	8,284	58,510	69,702	42,225	4,620	90,613	42,593	14,230	99,825	1955
1956	377,400	223,700	157,000	804	471	1,012	396	111,353	692,913	8,806	67,039	73,118	32,227	3,157	96,746	45,266	14,465	105,800	1956
1957	385,400	222,700	160,100	849	496	1,092	428	104,648	710,134	9,466	78,338	72,442	39,258	3,561	101,988	47,376	14,730	111,600	1957
1958	393,200	221,750	159,500	903	524	1,172	451	106,992	745,848	9,961	93,456	76,927	40,994	3,585	108,370	49,866	14,950	118,500	1958
1959	401,100	220,850	163,700	930	553	1,275	495	113,678	767,766	11,314	108,158	84,504	43,337	3,881	112,581	51,953	15,247	121,074	1959
1960	408,494	219,958	166,500	969	571	1,397	515	113,797	789,951	11,620	128,684	65,455	32,519	2,810	117,607	54,249	15,395	122,361	1960
1961	418,400	219,500	167,900	1,017	580	1,442	526	115,229	878,069	11,905	149,453	86,314	36,747	3,882	123,906	56,024	15,393	127,121	1961
1962	425,865	218,391	174,200	1,087	644	1,491	544	112,110	961,953	12,420	171,284	77,635	32,371	3,374	128,593	58,189	15,850	134,269	1962
1963	436,100	221,758	184,600	1,158	665	1,592	559	116,722	1,029,768	14,011	191,246	96,587	46,350	5,873	132,935	60,888	16,028	139,236	1963
* 1964	475,100	221,100	195,200	1,314	711	1,665	585	114,099	1,214,716	16,400	205,334	83,752	41,515	4,460	140,335	64,341	16,258	158,600	1964 *

* AREA DEFINITION

The site of the City of Richmond is at the head of navigation on the James River. This is on the "fall line" where the Coastal Plain ends and the Piedmont begins. Henrico County surrounds the City north of the river and Chesterfield County surrounds it on the south side.

The three units of government comprised the official standard metropolitan statistical area until October 1963 when the area as designated by the federal government was enlarged to include Hanover County because the spread of urbanization is now reaching there. Data on the newly defined metropolitan area begins with 1964.

South of Richmond are the three independent cities of Petersburg, Colonial Heights, and Hopewell. They are not officially within the metropolitan area but are contiguous to it. The three cities and their suburbs have a combined population that exceeds 110,000.

GOVERNMENTS

	Richmond	Henrico	Chesterfield	Hanover
Assessed Valuation ($000)	1,141,565	306,735	229,567	40,937
Real Estate ($000)	912,967	237,489	166,346	33,463
Personal Property ($000)	160,976	67,563	37,485	7,474
Mfg. Machinery ($000)	67,622	1,683	25,736	*
Net Bonded Debt ($000)	70,205	35,004	26,627	2,252
Supervisors or Councilmen	9	4	6	3
Bond Rating	AAA	AA	A	A
Personnel
General Government	4,575	632	200	50
Police Force	487	96	46	6
Fire Force Paid	410	78	0	0
Volunteer	0	220	600	100

Local Property taxes: One jurisdiction only. City not in a county.

Real estate rate per $100	$1.88	$2.45	$2.80	$3.10
Assessment ratio (%)	90	40	32	30
Personal property rate	$2.20	$3.20	$3.20	$3.10
Machinery & tools rate	$1.00	$2.00	$ .55	$3.10

Richmond, Virginia

STATE CAPITAL, located at the top of the south and in the heart of the east; midway on the shortest, quickest, most economical route serving the Atlantic seaboard. Area population increasing 10,000 per year, total to be 600,000 by 1980.

BALANCED ECONOMY with no one field of business dominating, occupations spread like the national average for metropolitan areas. Low unemployment, fine labor record, net inward migration.

TRANSPORTATION GATEWAY, 5 railroads, 4 air lines, 2 major bus systems, 50 motor carriers, 3 Interstate Highways, and navigable James River.

FINANCIAL CENTER, headquarters of the 5th Federal Reserve District, bank deposits over $1 billion; home offiice of 34 insurance companies.

HEADQUARTERS CITY for the upper South in communications, utilities, government, commerce.

TRADE CENTER of the South Atlantic with 770 wholesale distributors and over $1.5 billion sales; a retail shopping area of 40 counties and 10 cities. Travel attractions draw up to 100,000 convention delegates and numberless tourists annually.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT in forefront among Southern metropolitan areas with 492 plants and more than 44,000 employed, ranked as a major manufacturing area. "Tobacco Capital of the World" with operations of many major tobacco companies. Cigarettes made in Richmond each year, if placed end to end, would reach to the moon and back 11 times, or encircle the earth 200 times. Area has largest nylon plant in the world and is leading producer of synthetic fibers. One of the largest centers for packaging including aluminum, cellophane, bags, paper and paperboard, cartons, containers and printing. Major plants in chemicals, pharmaceuticals, veterinary medicines, paints, fertilizers, food, metals, men's clothing; output of hassocks exceeds any other city.

RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Working for economic development in the city of Richmond and Henrico, Chesterfield and Hanover counties.

MANUFACTURER'S AGENTS IN RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

Abbott, P. C. & Company	15 E. Franklin Street	Plumbing Supplies
Adams, Floyd E.	3122 W. Clay Street	Heating Equipment
Baer, Herbert J.	304 East Main Street	Electric Manufacturers
Bagley, John J.	706 Dawn Street	Building Materials
Baumiller, Wm. M. Jr.	109 So. Boulevard, Apt. 6	Novelties
Berkness Control & Equip. Corp.	308 West Cary Street	Power Plant Equipment
Bivins & Caldwell, Inc.	1219 High Point Avenue	Electronic Test Equip.
Breeden & Collier Company	6700 West Broad Street	Air Conditioning Equip.
Buchanan, Donald B.	Richmond Federal Bldg.	Steel & Metal Prod.
Buildings Equip. & Supply Corp.	813 West Broad Street	Janitors' Supplies
Campbell & Woods Agency	8108 Bowers Lane	Electrical Equip.
Cease, R. B.	3813 Noble Avenue	Road Bldg. Supplies
Chadwick, N. R. Company	3 South 12th Street	Pens
Challenger Sales Corp.	5407 Patterson Avenue	Vinyls, Plastics, Carpets
Chet Adams Company	5405 Patterson Avenue	Heating Equipment
Christian Company, The	506 Travelers Building	Chemicals
Cody, Dave Associates, Inc.	1805 Roseneath Road	Auto Parts
Coffield, F. G., Inc.	3318 West Cary Street	Service Station Equip.
Crews, Lewis J.	1725 Arlington Road	Electrical Equip.
deWitt, Cornelius	4501 Archer Avenue	Hardware
Dickerson, Curtis E.	Southern Bank Bldg.	Leather & Plastics
Duffee, James E. Company	P. O. Box 5055	Industrial Supplies
Eastern Distributing Corp.	2219 Chamberlayne Ave.	Foundry Equipment
Eichel & Company	Insurance Building	Plumbing Supplies
Electronex Associates	2904 W. Clay Street	Elec. & Ind. Products
Epperson, Wm. E.	1103 East Main Street	Electrical Supplies
Equipment Sales Co., Inc.	Seaboard Building	Plumbing Supplies
Fishburne, Robert W.	1725 Arlington Road	Electrical Supplies
Fox, Rowland H.	801 Canal Street	Marine Products
Frazier Textiles	1 North 6th Street	Textiles
General Warehousers, Inc.	1109 Oak Street	Automotive Parts
Goode, W. B. Co., Inc.	2915 W. Leigh Street	Gas Pumps & Equip.
Goodloe, Samuel P.	3600 W. Broad Street	Railway Supplies
Hackett, Robert T.	3101 E. Main Street	Electrical Equip.
Harris, Joseph A.	603 E. Franklin St.	Building Materials
Harris, Thomas P., Jr.	P. O. Box 9195	Electrical Equip.
Hawkins-Hamilton Co., Inc.	American Building	Power Plant Equip.
Henderson Sales Company	8632 Chippenham Rd.	Building Materials
Highsmith, James L. & Co.	5500-A Lakeside Ave.	Electronics
Howell, Frank Co., Inc.	605 West Cary Street	Power Plant Equip.
Jewett, Dave	513 Marilea Road	Valves, Instruments
Joyce, Joseph L. & Assoc.	3318 W. Cary Street	Plastics & Chinaware
Lambert,Karl C.	622 Jackson Ave.	Automotive
Lea, Richard J. & Co.	4802 Forest Hill Ave.	Weather Strips

Lee, L. M., Jr.	Richmond Federal Bldg.	Industrial Adhesives
Lovelace, R. S. Co.	3002 Idlewood Avenue	Heating Equipment
Marchant Industrial Sales Co.	P. O. Box 9534	Electrical Equipment
Martin Sales Agency	2409 Larkwood Road	Mkt. & Drug Prod. (Non-Foods)
Moore, Thomas W.	300 W. Broad Street	Furniture
Myers, Milo	109 Wilkinson Road	Pumps
Noel, Hugh R. Co., Inc.	531 Brook Road	Industrial Equipment
O'Neill Pump & Engineering Co.	601 E. Franklin St.	Pumps
Overhead Door Co. of Va., Inc.	4400 Williamsburg Ave.	Doors
Pelouze Sales Company	200 N. 4th Street	Mechanical Equip.
Pendleton, Hugh C.	4004 Cary Street Road	Hosiery
Powers Regulator Co., The	2205 Tazewell	Heating Appliances
Prillaman, L. A.	2610 Penrose Drive	Heating & Air Cond.
Reynolds Office Systems	601 Westover Hills Blvd.	Office Equipment
Ridge, John H.	608 Richmond Fed. Bldg.	Ind. Parts & Machinery
Roanoke Engineering Sales Co.	P. O. Box 897	Metal Bldg. Specialties
Rogerson, P. H. Company	113 So. 3rd Street	Power Plant Equipment
Rumsey Electric Company	2910 W. Moore Street	Electrical Products
Schoenfeld, J. P. Company	Bon Air, Va.	Plumbing & Heating Sup.
Schraudt, George E., Jr.	202 E. Cary Street	Lighting Equipment
Sharove, Samuel H.	16 Malvern Avenue	Building Supplies
Shaw, John C.	513 W. Broad Street	Fire Fighting Equip.
Shelor, Fred L., Jr.	109 Longstreet Avenue	Lighting Equipment
Shepherd, Allan T. Company	205 E. Canal Street	Industrial Equipment
Shultz & James, Inc.	9 East Cary Street	Mechanical Equipment
Snead, Edloe B. Company	3122 W. Clay Street	Food Products
Southern Associates, Inc.	111 W. Grace St.	Food & Non-Food Products
Stovall, W. H. & Co., Inc.	303 S. 2nd Street	Building Materials
Sullivan, W. E., Jr.	6211-A West Broad St.	Electrical Materials
Summerell, H. M. Company	3414 W. Broad Street	Mechanical Equipment
Sweeney, T. W.	913 Pepper Avenue	China
Taylor Brothers	6 South 5th Street	Industrial Supplies
Taylor, Lipscomb & Appel, Inc.	318 West Cary Street	Heating Equipment
Thalhimer, Fred A.	4518 W. Grace Street	Textiles & Novelties
Todman, Fred G. & Co.	Hull & 21st Streets	Restaurant & Hotel Sup.
Turner, Frank A.	7105 Hermitage Road	Heating Equipment
Tyson, Flavius M.	3917 W. Franklin Street	Hardware
Urick, Eugene L.	1220 Bellevue Avenue	Automotive Parts
Va. Equip. & Supply Co., Inc.	2910 W. Clay Street	Pumps
Weaver, C. Arthur Co., Inc.	2612 W. Cary Street	Power Trans. Equip.
Weiss, Frederic J. Company	1505 Hilliard Road	Pumps, Mech. Equip.
Welton Company, The	107 East Cary Street	Bldg. Pro. & Specialties
Williamson & Wilmer, Inc.	Mutual Building	Power Plant Equipment

THE RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

616 EAST FRANKLIN STREET
RICHMOND 19, VIRGINIA

RESEARCH BULLETIN

115

Profile of Virginia's Urban Corridor

URBAN CORRIDOR FACTS

Land area - sq. miles		6,847
% of Virginia		17%
Population Distribution
	Urban	80%
	Rural	20%
Population	1950	1,397,000
	1960	2,077,000
	1970	2,750,000
	1975	3,000,000
Personal Income	1950	$2.2 Billion
	1958	$4.1 Billion
Per Capita Income	1958	$2,126
Value Added By Manufactures	1958	$843 Million
Wholesale Trade	"	$2.1 Billion
Retail Trade	"	$2.1 Billion
Service Trade	"	$317 Million

There is taking place in Virginia a dynamic pattern of urbanization in a belt that stretches from Northern Virginia through Richmond and swings to the Coast. Dr. Lorin A. Thompson, Director of the Bureau of Population and Economic Research, University of Virginia has outlined this area and called it the "Urban Corridor". This Bulletin presents an economic profile of this fascinating concept.

Three fourths of Virginia's urban population lives in the Urban Corridor. Per capita income and educational attainment are higher than the national averages. The Urban Corridor includes barely 17% of the State's land area but has 52% of her total population. The population figure of more than 2,000,000 at the last census included a 48% increase in a decade and put Virginia's Urban Corridor up front as one of the fastest growing sections of the country. The population already exceeds that of a number of states. Only Florida and four far western states have experienced a faster rate of growth.

If population growth continues at recent rates, and there is every indication that it will, the average annual increase for this decade will be 70,000 persons per year and the total increase will be 700,000. The 2,000,000 population count in 1960 will rise to 3,000,000 by 1975. This phenomenal development beginning to take form as Virginia's Urban Corridor is creating vast opportunities for expansion of markets, industrial development, and advances in the standard of living and culture in Virginia.

The Urban Corridor has a substantial share of the economic activity of the State, 62% of the personal income, 40% of the industrial output, 65% of the wholesale trade, 57% of the retail trade, and 67% of the service trade. And Richmond, the State's leading industrial, distribution, and headquarters center, has the greatest concentration of economic development in the Urban Corridor. Approximately one half of the manufacturing output and one half of the wholesale trade volume of the Corridor come from Richmond, while one fourth of the retail and service trade receipts take place in metropolitan Richmond.

The north-south axis of the Urban Corridor is Interstate 95 and the east-west axis is Interstate 64. These highways which will have so important a part in shaping future development intersect at Richmond. All transportation facilities are highly developed. Richmond occupies the pivotal position in the Corridor; the location being equi-distant from the population complexes at each end and at the point where population distribution is in balance for both directions.

The following statistical profile on the Urban Corridor is designed to show the great importance of the area in the present economy of the State. Much of what happens in the future for Virginia depends on the assets and resources of the Urban Corridor. At present, 80% of the population in the Corridor is classified as urban and 20% is classified as rural. Although the Corridor seems destined to become fully urbanized in the long range, there is plenty of room now in this band of expanding population clusters for all kinds of economic growth and development. Great potentials are there and virtually every requirement can be met somewhere in the Urban Corridor, particularly in the Richmond area.

Virginia's Urban Corridor - A Statistical Profile

Political Subdivision	Population	Personal Income (000)	Manufacturing Employees	Manufacturing Value Added (000)	Wholesale Trade (000)	Retail Trade (000)	Service Trade (000)
Alexandria	91,023	$ 225,709	2,125	$ 17,131	$ 81,399	$135,987	$19,566
Arlington	163,401	492,316	1,199	9,181	213,676	242,406	43,084
Fairfax	275,002	419,501	637	6,053	14,370	114,661	52,609
Falls Church	10,192	34,183	121	1,184	3,050	53,651	3,786
Loudoun	24,549	44,254	152	withheld	9,123	22,714	3,122
Clark	7,942	13,021	672	3,353	withheld	6,566	833
Fauquier	24,066	48,280	159	840	13,176	19,435	1,847
Prince William	50,164	53,654	314	2,684	3,866	32,390	2,152
Stafford	16,876	14,393	219	770	756	5,249	1,113
Fredericksburg	13,639	24,984	1,406	5,927	24,766	39,900	3,122
Spotsylvania	13,819	21,870	2,865	withheld	11,230	3,229	387
Caroline	12,725	13,515	438	1,623	2,627	8,420	1,467
Hanover	27,550	39,192	985	3,741	3,664	17,838	1,663
Henrico	117,339	214,435	1,598	10,701	43,466	52,186	4,423
Richmond City	219,958	601,186	30,982	337,303	1,119,456	448,035	69,294
Chesterfield	71,197	134,898	5,329	62,909	9,514	28,891	2,559
Colonial Heights	9,587	22,375	171	1,210	1,086	7,245	978
Petersburg	36,750	67,852	5,197	70,570	38,017	55,233	5,819
Dinwiddie	22,183	20,202	288	842	712	8,947	2,858
Prince George	20,270	37,498	159	711	withheld	4,852	2,814
Hopewell	17,895	133,142	3,714	64,676	withheld	19,443	1,365
New Kent	4,504	5,146	104	357	2,091	2,685	207
Charles City	5,492	4,850	15	78	withheld	888	withheld
James City	11,539	18,124	145	946	410	3,497	831
Williamsburg	6,832	10,947	89	374	2,262	16,141	650
York	21,583	38,296	510	*	2,484	8,171	6,726
Newport News	113,662	208,860	15,346	125,977SMSA	59,171	134,186	11,312
Hampton	89,258	46,317	1,254	*	17,465	69,076	6,446
Norfolk	305,872	633,664	9,744	91,261	440,184	364,090	44,974
Portsmouth	114,773	161,526	1,987	16,216	40,243	102,444	9,086
South Norfolk	22,035	39,152	1,195	9,157	69,974	20,079	1,085
Norfolk County	51,612	149,110	1,756	14,985	18,622	24,679	3,241
Princess Anne	76,124	119,838	174	1,135	6,793	28,192	3,193
Virginia Beach	8,091	14,474	30	162	2,697	23,940	6,400
Total Urban Corridor	2,077,504	$4,126,764	91,079	$ 843,196	$2,256,350	$2,125,346	$317,012
Total Virginia	3,966,949	$6,660,000	251,909	$2,122,652	$3,488,917	$3,721,290	$471,529
Urban Corridor % of State	52%	62%	36%	40%	65%	57%	67%
Richmond SMSA Total	408,494	$ 950,519	37,909	$ 410,913	$1,172,436	$ 529,112	$ 76,276
% of Urban Corridor	20%	23%	41%	49%	52%	25%	24%

Sources: Population, U.S. Census, 1960
Personal Income, 1958, Bureau of Population & Economic Research, Un. of Va., 1958
Manufacturing, Wholesale Trade, Retail Trade, Service Trade, U.S. Census 1958

THE RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

616 EAST FRANKLIN STREET
RICHMOND 19, VIRGINIA

RESEARCH BULLETIN 120

LOCATION

RICHMOND VIRGINIA

strategically located in the heart of the east

Richmond, Capital of Virginia, is located at the Top of the South and in the Heart of the East. Specifically, the location is midway north and south in the Eastern part of the country, 105 miles south of Washington. The map attached suggests some interesting observations on Richmond's location.

Within a 500 mile radius are Boston, Detroit, Indianapolis, Atlanta and half the nation's markets. The same radius from the southern city of Richmond includes much of the concentration of population and economic development between Montreal and Windsor, Canada. Boston and Atlanta are about equidistant from Richmond, 474 and 470 miles respectively.

New York is hardly over an hour away by air and will be within 5½ hours driving time on the new interstate highway. And Richmond is closer than New York to Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee and all points South and West from those cities.

Richmond is catching the attention of firms who want to be located favorably for serving both the North and the growing South. Richmond is now, and will continue to be on the shortest, quickest, most economical route between Florida and New York or New England. The Interstate 95 mileage from New York to Jacksonville is 950 miles. Richmond's proximity to intermediate points along the mainstream, such as Savannah, Baltimore and Philadelphia, will not be eclipsed by points on other highway improvements.

Interstate 85 is a second quick direct route into the South from Richmond to other leading centers like Charlotte and Atlanta. Interstate 64 is the direct east-west route through Richmond extending from the ocean to St. Louis.

Five railroads, four airlines and two national bus systems provide the Richmond area fast, convenient, competitively priced transportation anywhere in the World.

For a more localized picture, the Richmond area is located centrally in Virginia on the "fall line" where the Coastal Plain and Piedmont meet. The site is the head of navigation on the James River. The location is also pivotal to the Urban Corridor of Virginia, the territory that extends from Northern Virginia through the Richmond area and on to the Coast. The Corridor is one of the fastest growing sections of the country and Richmond is the leading business center in it.

DISTANCES FROM RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

TO	HIGHWAY	RAIL	AIR
Albany, N.Y.	471	477	403
Atlanta, Ga.	529	542	470
Baltimore, Md.	145	156	129
Boston, Mass.	544	573	474
Buffalo, N.Y.	471	550	376
Charleston, S.C.	418	393	357
Charleston, W.Va.	306	365	236
Charlotte, N.C.	274	282	248
Chattanooga, Tenn.	547	569	472
Chicago, Ill.	792	826	620
Cincinnati, Ohio	505	568	399
Cleveland, Ohio	458	547	356
Columbia, S.C.	364	360	317
Columbus, Ohio	460	543	344
Detroit, Mich.	618	706	445
Erie, Pa.	477	562	346
Harrisburg, Pa.	219	241	190
Indianapolis, Ind.	613	678	496
Jacksonville, Fla.	648	621	553
Knoxville, Tenn.	433	458	376
Louisville, Ky.	575	639	458
Macon, Georgia	573	568	477
Nashville, Tenn.	628	717	526
New York, N.Y.	329	346	289
Philadelphia, Pa.	241	253	207
Pittsburgh, Pa.	312	416	243
Raleigh, N.C.	157	157	139
St. Louis, Mo.	839	907	699
Savannah, Ga.	506	483	430
Scranton, Pa.	359	376	283
Syracuse, N.Y.	478	510	386
Tampa, Fla.	838	810	722
Toledo, Ohio	561	651	432
Washington, D. C.	105	116	97
Wilmington, N.C.	252	244	229

APPROXIMATE LAND MILES FROM RICHMOND TO VIRGINIA PLACES

Alexandria	103	Hampton	85	Portsmouth	96
Bristol	315	Harrisonburg	125	Radford	206
Buena Vista	137	Hopewell	23	Roanoke	165
Charlottesville	70	Lynchburg	115	Staunton	107
Clifton Forge	175	Martinsville	182	Suffolk	83
Colonial Heights	20	Newport News	80	Waynesboro	94
Danville	152	Norfolk	97	Williamsburg	51
Fredericksburg	56	Petersburg	23	Winchester	141

RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

STATE DIVISION OF INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING

THE RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

616 EAST FRANKLIN STREET
RICHMOND 19, VIRGINIA

RESEARCH BULLETIN 126

Industrial Development in Virginia's Urban Corridor

Metropolitan areas in the Urban Corridor of Virginia comprise only a tiny fraction of the total land area of the State but they have attracted one third of the total new capital expenditures by manufacturers since 1958. Metropolitan Richmond's participation in this industrial development has been significant and has bolstered the favorable trend the State as a whole has enjoyed. Statistics and charts on the new investments for the six year period dating from the 1958 Census of Manufactures through 1963 are in this bulletin.

The total expenditures for new plant and equipment in Virginia was just under one billion dollars. Urban Corridor metropolitan areas received $319,323,000 or 32.4% of the total. Expenditures in the Richmond area amounted to $220,103,000. The Richmond area figure represents 69% of the total for the Urban Corridor metros and is more than one-fifth (22.3%) of all new capital expenditures placed in the entire State.

New plants and expansions announced in the metropolitan areas of the Urban Corridor were located as follows:

Richmond Metropolitan Area	101
Norfolk-Portsmouth Metropolitan Area	58
Northern Virginia Area	40
Newport News-Hampton Area	21

The new employment potential for the Richmond area created by the new investment in facilities is estimated to be 13,000 jobs in manufacturing. Obsolescence factors and automation have held the overall rate of increase in manufacturing employment below that indicated by the new investments. Nevertheless, current employment in manufacturing in the Richmond area is 47,100 (as of September 1964) compared with 41,896 in 1958 and 36,250 in 1954.

The Urban Corridor of Virginia has been emerging as an urbanized belt stretching from Northern Virginia through Richmond and eastward to the coast. Economic expansion of all kinds in the four metropolitan areas within the Urban Corridor has been the impetus for the growth of the entire section. This has been a major factor in Virginia's transition from a predominately rural economy to a relatively urban economy.

Each metropolitan area in the corridor is somewhat different in its underlying economy and in the avenues of opportunity open for further urban development. Each is seeking further industrial development and has agencies at work which are adapted to its particular situation. Industrial development, though vitally important, is but a part of the total development of urban areas. The future of the urban corridor metropolitan areas lies just as well in the development of other foundations to their economies including the services, research and development organizations, educational institutions, distribution activities, and headquarters operations.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURES FOR NEW PLANT AND EQUIPMENT BY MANUFACTURERS
URBAN CORRIDOR METROPOLITAN AREAS
1958 - 1963
(000 omitted)

AREAS	1958	1959	1960	1961	1962	1963	CUMULATIVE TOTALS
Northern Va.	$ 2,180	$ 2,500	$ 2,500	$ 2,730	$ 2,650	$ 2,700	$ 15,260
Richmond	22,207	28,300	33,166	53,537	38,360	44,533	220,103
Newport News & Hampton	7,981	5,804	5,570	10,122	8,398	5,300	43,175
Norfolk & Portsmouth	6,346	8,436	6,065	5,021	6,080	8,884	40,832
TOTAL - Urban Corridor Metros.	$ 38,714	$ 45,040	$ 47,301	$ 71,410	$ 55,488	$ 61,417	$319,370
Virginia	$141,641	$117,600	$151,126	$178,922	$182,908	$212,959	$985,156
Richmond as % of State	15.7%	24.0%	21.9%	29.9%	21.0%	21.0%	22.3%
Richmond as % of Urban Corridor	57.4%	62.8%	70.11%	75.0%	69.0%	72.6%	69.0%
Urban Corridor as % of State	27.33%	38.3%	31.3%	40.0%	30.3%	28.8%	32.4%

Data Sources: U. S. Census of Manufactures, 1958; U. S. Annual Survey of Manufactures 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962; Virginia Department of Labor 1963 Survey of Manufactures. Data for Northern Virginia are computed as proportions of the Washington Metropolitan area based on the 1954 and 1958 Censuses of Manufactures and the 1963 data for Newport News-Hampton is also an estimate.

ANNUAL NEW CAPITAL INVESTMENTS BY MANUFACTURERS IN URBAN CORRIDOR METROPOLITAN AREAS FROM 1958 TO 1963

Total Capital Expenditures in New Plant and Equipment by Manufacturers in Urban Corridor Communities 1958—1963

THE RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

616 EAST FRANKLIN STREET
RICHMOND 19, VIRGINIA

RESEARCH BULLETIN 124

TAXES - STATE AND LOCAL

Modernization of state and local tax structures has resulted from deliberate efforts to encourage expansion of the economy, to assure an equitable tax system, and to meet the essential needs of the State. The 1964 General Assembly advanced further the cumulative accomplishments of study and action that have been going on for several sessions to keep Virginia abreast of the times.

The State does not levy a license tax on manufacturers, and localities that do not presently levy such a tax cannot impose one in the future. Manufacturers who may expand or locate anywhere within the Richmond metropolitan area are assured that no local gross receipts tax will be imposed upon them.

Inventories of manufacturers are taxed as business capital by the State and are not subject to local taxation. The State legislature has adopted a schedule of reductions in the rate as an indication of its intention to remain competitive.

There has been no serious attempt made to increase the corporate income tax. A modern three factor formula has been adopted to attract plants of multi-state corporations.

Significant reductions in the State license tax on distribution have been enacted with further reductions scheduled to take effect so that the former rate of 25¢ per $100 purchases will have been scaled down successively to 5¢ per $100 purchases by January 1, 1968. The application of the legislation to localities in the Richmond metropolitan area in effect provides that the local rates levied by Richmond, Chesterfield and Henrico are the ceilings for taxing wholesale distribution within those jurisdictions and such rates cannot be increased. The license tax on distribution is levied in lieu of inventory taxes by the local governments that comprise the greater Richmond area.

State Taxes on Corporations

Corporation Organization and Qualification Fees	Based on maximum authorized capital stock. Domestic: 20¢ per $1,000. Minimum $10; Maximum $600. Foreign: From $30 for $50,000 capital stock or less to $5,000 in excess of $90,000,000.
Domestic Corporations Franchise Tax	Based on maximum authorized capital stock. $10 on $25,000 or less to $15,100 on $300,000,000 and capital stock plus $10 per $1,000,000 in excess.
Annual Registration	Based on maximum authorized capital stock. $5 on $15,000 or less to $25 on over $300,000.
Direct Corporate Income Tax	Based on net income apportioned to business operation in the State as determined by three factors: sales, payrolls, property. Rate 5%.
General Property Taxes	At the rates of the locality. No State taxes.
Unemployment Compensation	Assessed against employers of 4 or more persons. The basic rate is 2.7% of payrolls but may be as low as 0.1% under experience ratings.

Other State Taxes for Manufacturing Activities

Business Capital Tax	Capital defined as (1) inventories (2) excess of accounts receivable over accounts payable (3) all other taxable personal property except money on hand and on deposit, real estate and machinery and tools used in manufacturing. Items taxed as capital by the State are not subject to local taxation. The rate is 65¢ on each $100 of the actual value. (Effective Jan. 1, 1967, this tax will be reduced to 60¢. Effective Jan. 1, 1969, this tax will be reduced to 55¢, and Jan. 1, 1971, and thereafter, the rate will be 50¢ per $100.)
Manufacturers' License	None.

Other State Taxes for Distribution Activities

Wholesale Merchants' License Tax: (includes distribution warehouses)	Gross purchases to $10,000: $50; over $10,000: $50 plus 13¢ (reduced to 10¢ effective Jan. 1, 1966 and further reduced to 5¢ Jan. 1, 1968) for each additional $100 on purchases.
Retail Merchants' License Tax	Sales over $2,000: $20 plus 20¢ for each additional $100 of sales.

Business, Professional and Occupational License Taxes

State and local license requirements exist for specific privileges other than manufacturing.

Principal State Taxes Applying to Individuals

Personal Income Taxes

Net income after exemptions and deductions is taxed as follows:

Up to	$3,000	2%,
next	$2,000	3%,
income in excess of	$5,000	5%.

A taxpayer filing a joint return is allowed $1,000 exemption for himself and $1,000 for his spouse, and $200 for each dependent. The tax form and deductions permitted have similarities with the federal return.

Sales Tax

None.

Local Taxes

A location in the Richmond Metropolitan Area would be in either Henrico County or Hanover County or Chesterfield County or the independent City of Richmond. Counties and cities in Virginia are entirely separate geographical and political units; they do not overlap, thus a person or business can be subject to only one local taxing authority.

Property Taxes

	Richmond	Henrico	Chesterfield	Hanover
Real Estate Rate per $100	$1.88	$2.45	$2.80	$3.10
Assessment Ratio	90%	40%	32%	25%
Personal Property Rate	$2.20	$3.20	$3.20	$3.10
Machinery & Tools Rate	$1.00	$2.00	$ .55	$3.10

License Taxes

Manufacturers	None. Cannot be levied.
Wholesale Distribution	Cannot be increased.
Richmond	$30 plus 25¢ on every $100 of purchases.
Henrico	$25 plus 20¢ per $100 in excess of $10,000 purchases.
Chesterfield	$25 plus 10¢ on every $100 of purchases.
Retail Distribution
Richmond	$30 plus 38¢ per $100 gross receipts.
Henrico	$20 plus 20¢ per $100 gross receipts.
Chesterfield	$10 plus 20¢ per $100 gross receipts in excess of $30,000.

THE RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

616 EAST FRANKLIN STREET
RICHMOND 19, VIRGINIA

RESEARCH BULLETIN 127

INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL DEVELOPMENTS - 1964

More than 1,000,000 square feet of new industrial plant capacity have been placed here this year. This is the second straight year that the Richmond area has topped the million square foot mark in new plant space. The 1964 tabulation of area developments in manufacturing shows 30 new and expanded industries.

New distribution warehouse activity continued at the record breaking level of 1963 with more than 400,000 square feet of distribution facilities added. Public merchandise storage and distribution organizations are also in the total tabulation of expansions. The area experienced continued growth of headquarters and branch office activities.

The office building boom, with more than $20,000,000 committed, led in the construction field. Other fields of commercial expansion including hospitals, hotels-motels and retail trades are reflected in the compilation, but the list of 100 developments is by no means all inclusive. Developments announced in previous bulletins are omitted.

The major indicators of economic activity below also record a year of economic growth.

	1964	1963	Net Increase Amount	Net Increase %
Average Non-Agricultural Employment	188,000	182,000	6,000	3.3
Average Weekly Earnings - Mfg.	$90.68	$88.47	$2.21	2.5
Business Establishments - No.	16,270	16,012	258	1.6
Volume of Trade (000)	$16,030,257	$13,738,727	$2,291,530	16.7
Industrial Power Used (1,000 KWH)	384,788	338,239	46,549	11.4

Note: Data shown are for 12 months ending November 30. Number of business establishments measured by commercial electric meters. Volume of trade measured by bank debits.

Industrial and Commercial Developments - 1964 *

MANUFACTURING

1. Union Bag-Camp Paper Corp. is constructing a 250,000 sq. ft. plant on a 20-acre site on Cofer Road. The $2,000,000 plant will be used for the manufacture of paper bags and processed papers. The company has a 200,000 sq. ft. plant at 13th and Canal Streets.

2. Reynolds Metals Co. has expanded its Experimental Aluminum Sheet Plant at Bellwood. The expansion, costing approximately $1,000,000, doubled present sheet plant space which uses a new process that involves the rolling of aluminum particles smaller than rice grains into aluminum sheet instead of the traditional process of rolling large ingots.

3. The American Tobacco Co. is constructing a new research facility at Bermuda Hundred that is expected to cost several million dollars. The company's present research facilities are located on Jefferson Davis Highway.

4. Albemarle Paper Manufacturing Co. is spending $430,000 to improve and modernize its Hollywood paper mill and to build an addition to its research and development laboratory here.

5. Allied Chemical Corp. is constructing a $6 million research and technical center on a 75-acre site in Walthall Industrial Park just off the Richmond-Petersburg Turnpike.

6. Friedman-Marks Clothing Co. recently put into operation its fifth manufacturing plant in the Richmond area. This 35,000 sq. ft. plant will process and cut material for the other four plants. The company sells its suits and coats in all states and in 21 other countries.

7. Larus & Brother Co., Inc. has purchased 50 acres in Chesterfield County and is building tobacco storage warehouses to replace existing warehouses in Shockoe Valley. The 87 year-old company plans to build a manufacturing plant and other facilities on the property also.

8. V-C Chemical Co. is building a $750,000 research facility on a 72-acre site in Hanover County on Interstate Route 95. The center will conduct the company's research and development work in phosphate chemistry. V-C was recently merged with Socony Mobile Oil Co., Inc. and is one of four operating divisions of Mobile Chemical Company.

9. Richmond Newspapers, Inc. is constructing a two-story addition to its existing mechanical building providing space for new presses that will increase the newspapers' press capacity by more than fifty percent. Also under construction is a four-story building at Grace and Fourth Streets adjoining the present office structure. The expansion will double the newspaper's office space. These additions are part of a $6,000,000 expansion program that includes a parking deck recently completed at Third and Cary Streets.

10. Richmond Food Stores, Inc. is constructing a 12,000 sq. ft. milk and milk products processing plant. The $500,000 facility will be adjacent to the company's Hermitage Road distribution center.

11. Reynolds Metals Co. has doubled space housing its Metallurgical Research Division at 201 South Fourth Street with the acquisition of a three-story building adjoining its present facilities at Fifth and Canal Streets.

12. Colonial Plastics, Inc., manufacturer of vinyl curtains, has begun operations in its new plant at 1501 Jennie Scher Road.

13. Sadler Materials Corporation, a new firm manufacturing sand and gravel, has begun operations with a new $650,000 facility on Route 5.

14. Dataflow, Inc., Div. of Acme Visible Records, Inc., recently expanded its manufacturing facility at 2100 Deepwater Terminal Road at a cost of $100,000.

15. Richmond Engineering Co., Inc. has increased its manufacturing space by 32,000 sq. ft. in the Hospital Street plant. The company also purchased a 70,000 sq. ft. building across the street at 711 Hospital Street to be used as additional office and manufacturing space. The purchase price was $250,000.

16. Inta-Rota is constructing a 25,000 sq. ft. expansion of its manufacturing facilities at Byrd Airport. Another addition of 5,600 sq. ft. was just completed. The new addition is the fifth major expansion of Inta-Rota in the past eight years and brings the firm's total plant space to nearly 100,000 sq. ft.

17. A. H. Robins Co., Inc., manufacturer of pharmaceuticals, expanded its facilities through the purchase of Instituto Medico Technico Sanicol, S. A., one of the largest manufacturers of pharmaceuticals, cosmetics and insecticides in South America.

18. Tidewater Crushed Stone Co. has expanded its Deepwater Terminal Road facilities with over a half million dollar capital investment.

19. Virginia Garment Co., manufacturer of boys' & men's headwear, is the first industry to develop a plant site in the 17th Street Redevelopment Area. The company, a former 17th St. manufacturer, expects to spend approximately $270,000 for plant and equipment.

20. Dietz Press, Inc. expanded its East Cary Street facility with a 2,500 sq. ft. addition to house new press facilities.

21. Creative Screen Print, Inc., a new silk screen printing company is operating in a 4,000 sq. ft. facility on Belleville Street.

22. Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. of Richmond, Inc. has opened a new $150,000 bottling plant on Castlewood Road.

23. Everett Waddey Co., Inc. has acquired Garrett and Massie, Inc., another Richmond printing company. The plant, located at 1901 Roane St., is a modern 24,000 sq. ft. structure and will be operated as a wholly owned subsidiary.

24. The Seven Up Bottling Co. has doubled production capacity at its Summit Avenue plant by installing a new bottle cleaner - the largest tank washer of its kind.

25. Capitol Foundry, Inc., a new firm, has begun operations at 7 North 25th Street. The company manufactures manhole covers.

26. Bristol Steel & Iron Works, Inc. purchased the structural steel operations of Richmond Steel Co., Inc. at 4th & Gordon Streets and will operate the firm as the Richmond Division of Bristol Steel.

27. E. R. Carpenter & Co. is constructing a $150,000 addition to its manufacturing facility on Jefferson Davis Highway. This is the second expansion the urethane foam manufacturer has made since opening its new 200,000 sq. ft. plant in 1962.

28. West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. has purchased the former Randolph Paper Box Co. building at 15th and Dinwiddie Streets. The 30,000 sq. ft. building will be used as storage space for finished goods.

29. Royal Crown Bottlers of Richmond, Inc. is constructing a $500,000 bottling plant at Commerce and Ruffin Roads. Automatic case packers will be installed in the 33,000 sq. ft. facility.

DISTRIBUTION

30. Bryant Heating and Air Conditioning Corp. has begun construction of a new office and storage building at Belleville and Moore Streets in Scotts Addition. The 20,000 sq. ft. facility is expected to cost approximately $170,000.

31. Eastern Steel Fasteners, Inc. has moved into its 48,000 sq. ft. Canal Street building recently purchased from Southern States Cooperative. The firm was previously located at 115 North 19th Street.

32. General Motors parts division distribution center at Byrd Field recently expanded its facilities there by 19,800 sq. ft. With the added space, the warehouse will stock a total of 12,800 different General Motors automotive parts and accessories to serve more than 300 dealers in Virginia and North Carolina.

33. Universal Leaf Tobacco Co. recently completed a two-story addition to its offices at 201 South Third Street. The $140,000 addition will have approximately 4,000 feet of office space.

34. Armesco, Inc., a newly formed aluminum products distribution company, recently purchased the former Cardwell Machine Company building for $100,000. Armesco will distribute metal architectural products throughout the Middle Atlantic States.

35. Georgia-Pacific Corp. is constructing a 45,000 sq. ft. warehouse and office facility at Dabney and Bethlehem Roads in Bryan Park Industrial Park. The tilt concrete panel constructed building is expected to cost $300,000.

36. Tidewater Supply Co., Inc., distributor of industrial equipment, supplies and machinery, is constructing a 26,000 sq. ft. building on Gordon Ave. The one-story structure will cost approximately $225,000.

37. Cooper-Trent, Inc. has completed a two-story addition to its one-story building on Chamberlayne Avenue to more than double the company's space.

38. Virginia Paper Company will soon move into its new 50,000 sq. ft. warehouse and office which is being constructed at Tomlynn and Jacque Streets in Bryan Park Industrial Park. The new $350,000 facility will replace the company's Virginia Street building.

39. Hajoca Corporation, wholesale distributors of plumbing, heating and industrial supplies, is constructing a one-story office and warehouse building covering approximately 40,000 sq. ft. A separate 6,000 sq. ft. building will be built for pipe storage. The new Bryan Park Industrial Park facility will represent an investment of more than $350,000.

40. Richmond Power Equipment Company has moved from its Roseneath Road location to a newly constructed office and warehouse at 1902 No. Hamilton Street. The $180,000 facility has 16,000 sq. ft. of office and warehouse space.

41. Best Products Co., Inc., a catalog wholesaler, is expanding its warehouse and showroom with an additional 12,000 sq. ft. This is the fourth expansion in four years for the West Marshall Street firm.

42. Finer Food Sales Co., Inc., a processed food contractor has moved into new and expanded quarters at 1700 Altamont Avenue in Scotts Addition.

43. Weyerhauser Company Wood Products Division, moved into the Richmond area and is located in a 12,000 sq. ft. distribution warehouse at 7th & Perry Streets.

44. Fuels Oils, Inc. constructed 3 additional storage tanks at their Deepwater Terminal Road Station. The new addition will cost approximately $120,000.

45. Cary Hall Machinery Co., Inc., a construction machinery firm, has moved into new and larger facilities at 1506 Webster Street. The new quarters have 15,000 sq. ft. of space including offices, warehouse and shop.

46. Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply Co., an area distributor of protective equipment for telephone and electric companies, is constructing a 15,000 sq. ft. warehouse and sales office on Tomlynn Street in Bryan Park Industrial Park.

47. Hill Refrigeration Corp. has moved into remodeled office and warehouse space at 2201 East Cary Street.

48. Graphico, Inc., a wholesale firm that sells printer's supplies and equipment and offset presses, has moved into the first floor space of the former Hill Refrigeration Building at 2000 E. Franklin Street.

49. Southern Offset Suppliers, which manufactures lithographic plates and negatives, is moving from Main Street and will occupy the second floor of the building at 2000 E. Franklin Street.

50. Original Parts Warehouse, Inc., a subsidiary of B. T. Crump Co., Inc. has been created to distribute Chrysler auto parts. The new company is located at 19 So. 13th Street.

51. Frito-Lay, Inc. has moved into new and expanded quarters at 1827 No. Hamilton Street.

52. N. B. Cochrane Co., a distributor of air and hydraulic equipment, has a Richmond location at 5910 W. Broad Street.

53. Defense General Supply Center has recently taken over supply management functions involving 30,000 items and an estimated $23,000,000 inventory at the Bellwood installation.

INSTITUTIONAL

54. The Salvation Army is constructing a Men's Social Service Center at Rhoadmiller Street and Hermitage Road. The project will cost about $470,000.

55. Central Virginia Educational Television Corp. began operations in their $165,000 facility on Robious Road.

56. The Christian Children's Fund, Inc. is constructing a new headquarters building at Third and Cary Streets. The $500,000 building is scheduled for completion in June 1965.

57. Retreat For The Sick Hospital has begun a two-phase building program by adding two floors, renovating the existing building and increasing its patient capacity. The first phase, expected to cost $700,000, will increase the bed space from 105 to 120.

58. The Young Men's Christian Association is constructing a $750,000 branch facility on a 16 acre tract on Patterson Ave. in the far West End.

59. Richmond Area Association For Mentally Retarded Children will soon occupy a new $66,000 pre-school center on Moss Side Avenue. The Center is to be paid for by the four Richmond Area Civitan Clubs which help retarded children as a part of an international Civitan project.

60. Stuart Circle Hospital is constructing a 6-story wing which will cost approximately $200,000.

61. Foreign Mission Board of Southern Baptist Convention has expanded its headquarters office building at 3800 Monument Avenue with a 2-story, $130,000 addition.

62. American Legion State Headquarters building at 1805 Chantilly Street was recently dedicated. The $75,000 building will serve as administrative headquarters for 250 posts in Virginia.

63. Richmond Professional Institute recently purchased the 12-story Monroe Terrace building. The newly acquired structure will be used as a girl's dormitory.

64. University of Richmond continued its expansion program with the construction of a new $475,000 men's dormitory.

SERVICES

65. Advertising Associates is constructing a new headquarters building at 209 West Canal Street. The Colonial styled $100,000 brick structure will more than double the present firm's space.

66. Daniel Construction Company is nearing completion of its headquarters building at 3805 Cutshaw Avenue. The five-story building is the tallest prestressed concrete structure in the State.

67. Smith's Storage and Moving Company will soon move into its new $250,000 warehouse on Deepwater Terminal Road. The facility is designed to accommodate palletized storage and handling of furniture - the first in the Richmond area.

68. Roadway Express, Inc. is constructing a new terminal building at the intersection of Jefferson Davis Highway and Bellwood Road. The company's present terminal is at 2401 Commerce Road.

69. American Red Ball Transit Co., Inc. has moved into recently completed Scott Warehouse on MacTavish Avenue in Scotts Addition.

70. The Rathskeller, a new German rathskeller restaurant, is opening soon in newly renovated basement quarters at 112 No. Fifth Street. The new restaurant is costing about $100,000.

71. The Insurance Company of North America has become a major tenant in an office building under construction on Willow Lawn Drive.

72. Virginia Hospital Service Association (Blue Cross) will build on a recently purchased piece of property at Staples Mill and Thalbro Roads in the West End.

73. Overnite Transportation Company has moved into its new $200,000 terminal building next door to the company's home office building at 1100 Commerce Road.

74. Transportation Operating Service, Inc. has purchased a building at 2702 Deepwater Terminal Road. The truck rebuilding firm, formerly located on Dabney Road, remodeled and expanded the newly acquired building for a total investment of approximately $175,000.

75. D. H. Overmeyer Warehouse Co., a national warehousing firm with executive offices in New York, has begun construction of a million-dollar distribution center and warehousing complex at 2500 Jefferson Davis Highway. The center will consist of two separate buildings, each containing 80,000 sq. ft. of space.

76. The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Va. continued its area expansion program with a capital outlay of $175,000 for buildings.

77. Texaco Experiment, Inc. has under construction an areospace materials research laboratory. The $175,000 facility is being constructed at Texaco's Deepwater Terminal Road research complex.

78. Jarrell Truck Plaza recently opened a 15 acre truckers' center including garage, service center, restaurant and a 32-unit truckers' motel. The new facility is located on Interstate 95 north of the City.

79. Bristow Lines is nearing completion of its new truck terminal facility at 2401 Commerce Road.

RETAIL

80. Thalhimer Brothers, Inc., a major department store, expanded its Westmoreland Street store by 30,000 sq. ft. This is the fourth expansion at this location in the past four years. The company also opened another 40,000 sq. ft. branch store in Circle Shopping Center. Thalhimers is also constructing a 10,000 sq. ft. building on Westmoreland Street to house its industrial sales division.

81. Dominion Chevrolet Company will move into new quarters now being constructed in the 6500 block of West Broad Street.

82. Commonwealth Ford is building a million-dollar sales and service facility on Belt Boulevard near Southside Plaza and will move from the present West Broad Street location.

83. Universal Motor Company recently completed a major expansion and renovation program that cost approximately $150,000. The showroom was extended 30 feet along Broad Street.

84. Hawthorne Corporation, a local Volkswagen dealer here, has begun an expansion project which will double its sales and service capacity. The expansion represents a $300,000 investment.

OFFICE BUILDINGS

85. The Mutual Building, one of Richmond's oldest high-rise office buildings, is undergoing an extensive interior and exterior renovation program.

86. The 700 Building, a 23-story, 6½ million-dollar office building, is now under construction at 7th and Main Streets.

87. Fidelity Building, a 23-story office building is under construction at 9th and Main Streets. The building will cost approximately $7,000,000 and the main tenant will be Fidelity Bankers Life Insurance Company.

88. Plaza 201, a five-story office building is under construction at 201 East Cary Street. The structure which was designed for commercial service facilities will cost $1,400,000.

89. Second and Cary Streets Corpation Building, a two-story office building, is being constructed on East Cary Street. The initial tenants are two leading engineering firms. The building is expected to cost approximately $175,000.

90. Virginia Plaza, an office building being constructed in the Willow Lawn area, will complete a 1.5 million dollar complex including the Maryland Building and the INA Building.

91. The Marse Building is being constructed in the Willow Lawn area. The 14,000 sq. ft. building will cost $300,000.

92. The Baronian Building, a general office building, is under construction at 1809 Staples Mill Road near Willow Lawn. The 3-story structure will cost approximately $250,000.

MULTIPLE HOUSING

93. Holiday Inn opened its third area motel in the 2300 block West Broad Street. The two-million dollar six-floor structure has 200 rooms.

94. Lawndale Apartments and Lawndale Medical Center is under construction in the East End of Richmond at Miller's Lane just north of Williamsburg Road. Cost for the entire project is estimated at $500,000.

95. Highland Park Apartments, a 200-unit garden-type apartment project is being constructed in the 2100 block of First Avenue.

96. Yorkshire Apartments, a 124-unit garden-type apartment complex, has been constructed on Staples Mill Road.

97. Bellevue Apartments has been constructed on MacArthur Avenue at a cost of $250,000.

98. Hamlet Apartments opened a 194-unit development on Staples Mill Road. The townhouse-type project cost $3,000,000.

99. River Towers, the fifth area high-rise apartment building is being constructed on the south side of the James River on Riverside Drive near Lee Bridge. The $3,000,000 structure will have 220 units.

100. Deerwood Apartments is under construction in the Sleepy Hollow area near Collegiate School. The two-level townhouse type buildings will have a total of 300 units.

* Note: This Bulletin is not all inclusive for the year 1964 because many new facilities opened this year were announced in previous bulletins. This bulletin includes only the developments being reported for the first time.

THE RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

616 EAST FRANKLIN STREET
RICHMOND 19, VIRGINIA

RESEARCH BULLETIN 128

COMMUNITY WAGE SURVEY - 1964

This bulletin summarizes a November 1964 survey of wages conducted by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in the Richmond Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area. The survey was limited to establishments with 50 or more employees. Data were collected from 131 firms employing about 53,000 workers. The job descriptions are included in the appendix to the final bulletin.

The Bureau Occupational Wage Survey bulletin covering the November 1964 survey presents wage and salary data for selected occupations on an all-industry basis, and separate information covering the manufacturing, non-manufacturing, and public utility industry divisions. It also presents detailed distributions of workers by earnings intervals. The citation is as follows:

Occupational Wage Survey, Richmond, Virginia
Bulletin No. 1430-19, U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics

TABLE 1: AVERAGE STRAIGHT-TIME WEEKLY EARNINGS FOR SELECTED OFFICE, PROFESSIONAL, AND TECHNICAL OCCUPATIONS, RICHMOND, VA., NOVEMBER 1964

Occupation and sex	Number of Workers	Average weekly earnings[1]		Middle range[2]
		Mean	Median
Office occupations
Men
Clerks:
Accounting, class A	131	$119.00	$116.50	$102.50- $139.00
Accounting, class B	98	97.00	95.00	82.00- 112.50
Order	80	88.50	85.00	80.00- 92.00
Office boys.	93	64.50	59.00	53.50- 72.00
Tabulating-machine operators:
Class A	36	100.00	98.50	92.00- 106.00
Class C	54	72.50	71.00	64.50- 85.00

TABLE 1: AVERAGE STRAIGHT-TIME WEEKLY EARNINGS FOR SELECTED OFFICE, PROFESSIONAL, AND TECHNICAL OCCUPATIONS, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA NOVEMBER 1964-Cont.

Occupation and sex	Number of Workers	Average weekly earnings[1]		Middle range[2]
		Mean	Median
Office occupations
Women
Billers, machine:
Billing machine	32	$ 65.00	$ 61.50	$ 58.00- $ 72.00
Bookkeeping machine	94	67.50	64.00	59.00- 70.00
Bookkeeping-machine operators:
Class A	90	77.50	76.00	67.00- 89.50
Class B	164	67.00	67.00	60.00- 76.00
Clerks:
Accounting, class A	318	89.50	91.50	85.00- 94.50
Accounting, class B	461	74.50	72.00	65.00- 83.50
File, class A	58	77.00	76.50	67.50- 85.50
File, class B	206	65.00	62.50	56.50- 70.00
File, class C	160	56.00	56.50	53.00- 59.00
Order	51	76.00	77.50	63.50- 86.00
Payroll	141	83.50	81.00	71.50- 95.00
Comptometer operators.	159	71.00	70.00	64.50- 78.00
Duplicating-machine operators (Mimeograph or Ditto)	28	71.50	72.00	65.50- 81.00
Keypunch operators:
Class A	125	81.50	79.50	72.50- 86.50
Class B	303	70.00	67.00	60.00- 74.50
Office girls	62	55.50	55.50	51.50- 58.50
Secretaries	975	92.00	90.50	81.00- 102.50
Stenographers:
General	621	78.50	75.50	67.50- 84.50
Senior	222	87.50	85.00	73.00- 99.50
Switchboard operators.	148	70.50	68.50	60.50- 82.00
Switchboard operator-receptionists	127	70.50	69.50	63.50- 78.00
Tabulating-machine operators:
Class B	83	85.00	86.00	79.50- 89.00
Class C	48	69.50	72.50	64.00- 77.50
Transcribing-machine operators, General	66	69.50	66.00	61.50- 75.50
Typists:
Class A	248	73.00	72.00	67.50- 77.50
Class B	572	62.00	61.00	57.00- 66.50

[1] Earnings are for a regular workweek for which the employee receives his straight-time weekly salary, exclusive of any premium pay.

The mean for each job is computed by dividing the total earnings by the number of employees. The median designates position, that is, half of the employees surveyed receive more than the rate shown and half receive less than the rate shown.

[2] The middle range is defined by two rates of pay; a fourth of the workers earn less than the lower of these rates and a fourth earn more than the higher rate.

TABLE 2. AVERAGE STRAIGHT-TIME HOURLY EARNINGS FOR SELECTED PLANT OCCUPATIONS, RICHMOND, VA., NOVEMBER 1964

Occupation and sex	Number of Workers	Average straight-time hourly earnings[1]		Middle range[2]
		Mean	Median
Maintenance and powerplant occupations
Carpenters, maintenance	92	$2.94	$3.06	$2.76- $3.25
Electricians, maintenance	226	3.18	3.31	3.07- 3.36
Engineers, stationary	67	2.70	2.75	2.48- 3.02
Firemen, stationary boiler. . . .	74	1.96	1.89	1.73- 2.45
Helpers, maintenance trades . . .	138	2.44	2.64	2.19- 2.68
Machinists, maintenance.	260	3.09	3.21	3.01- 3.28
Mechanics, automotive (maintenance).	257	2.55	2.48	2.24- 3.06
Mechanics, maintenance.	502	3.02	3.09	2.76- 3.34
Millwrights.	180	3.19	3.25	3.05- 3.35
Oilers.	84	2.18	2.30	1.93- 2.36
Painters, maintenance.	91	2.95	3.22	2.67- 3.26
Pipefitters, maintenance.	124	3.26	3.33	3.08- 3.36
Sheet-metal workers, maintenance.	57	3.22	3.30	3.07- 3.35
Custodial and material movement occupations
Elevator operators, passenger (women).	30	.88	.72	.62- 1.24
Guards and watchmen	239	2.00	2.04	1.48- 2.38
Janitors, porters, and cleaners (men).	975	1.57	1.53	1.26- 1.92
Janitors, porters, and cleaners (women).	224	1.36	1.29	1.20- 1.50
Laborers, material handling . . .	1,295	1.77	1.68	1.42- 2.16
Order fillers	388	1.90	1.85	1.59- 2.19
Packers, shipping	163	1.61	1.56	1.50- 1.66
Receiving clerks.	94	2.21	2.32	1.80- 2.74
Shipping clerks	81	2.24	2.32	2.04- 2.40
Shipping and receiving clerks . .	45	2.33	2.28	2.08- 2.71
Truckdrivers.	1,138	2.00	1.97	1.55- 2.47
Light (under 1½ tons).	156	1.96	1.91	1.45- 2.54
Medium (1½ to and including 4 tons)	547	1.98	2.12	1.42- 2.45
Heavy (over 4 tons, trailer type).	183	2.58	2.48	2.16- 3.15
Truckers, power (forklift). . . .	369	1.94	1.87	1.74- 2.25

See footnotes on p. 2

THE RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

616 EAST FRANKLIN STREET
RICHMOND 19, VIRGINIA

RESEARCH BULLETIN 131

MANUFACTURES—AREA STATISTICS

1963 CENSUS OF MANUFACTURES

Industry group	1963									1958
	Establishments, number		All employees		Production workers			Value added by manufacture	Capital expenditures, new[1]	All employees, number	Value added by manufacture
	Total	With 20 or more employees	Number	Payroll ($1,000)	Number	Man-hours (1,000)	Wages ($1,000)	($1,000)	($1,000)		($1,000)
	RICHMOND, VIRGINIA (Consists of Richmond City and Chesterfield, Hanover, and Henrico Counties, Va.)
All industries, total[2]	550	222	45,955	256,973	31,406	62,443	146,910	572,259	47,658	42,999	454,651
Food and kindred products	55	36	4,471	21,634	2,629	5,319	11,739	44,471	1,419	5,278	40,412
Meat products	10	5	979	5,327	755	1,469	3,780	7,516	(Z)	(D)	(D)
Dairies	8	5	723	2,757	186	428	777	6,775	(Z)	1,012	7,814
Bakery products	14	12	1,827	9,140	1,238	2,514	5,775	17,961	642	2,044	15,491
Miscellaneous foods and kindred products	10	4	375	1,925	135	269	304	3,748	(Z)	486	3,583
Tobacco manufactures	13	11	8,442	41,844	7,141	13,582	32,778	216,801	6,269	9,116	202,236
Apparel and related products	26	18	3,355	12,667	2,960	5,653	9,635	20,574	707	(D)	(D)
Fabricated textiles, n.e.c.	14	8	1,295	5,299	1,045	2,044	3,412	9,032	535	1,059	6,304
Lumber and wood products	88	15	1,752	5,691	1,410	2,763	4,190	9,782	740	1,961	7,648
Sawmills and planing mills	58	6	713	2,001	604	1,148	1,682	4,135	(Z)	913	3,231
Millwork and related products	12	6	826	3,077	624	1,267	2,010	4,366	(Z)	825	3,346
Furniture and fixtures	34	10	1,089	5,269	858	1,799	3,480	10,893	(Z)	1,005	6,607
Household furniture	14	5	779	3,531	643	1,343	2,564	8,921	(Z)	824	5,277
Paper and allied products	23	21	3,505	17,916	2,966	6,402	13,669	33,737	1,545	3,400	26,517
Paper and paperboard products	10	9	1,125	5,324	958	1,997	3,918	9,395	(Z)	1,269	7,896
Paperboard containers and boxes	9	8	1,280	6,749	1,087	2,328	5,079	12,490	530	1,070	9,548
Printing and publishing	118	29	3,849	19,517	2,809	5,517	13,113	32,417	2,166	3,645	24,506
Commercial printing	74	18	1,807	9,258	1,372	2,728	6,483	13,930	1,534	1,775	10,847
Chemicals and allied products	39	13	8,055	58,903	5,013	10,129	30,997	130,567	28,464	5,513	79,019
Stone, clay and glass products	26	15	1,046	5,764	852	1,786	4,376	11,284	821	929	9,095
Concrete and plaster products	20	12	859	4,959	681	1,430	3,722	9,483	704	751	7,745
Fabricated metal products	42	22	2,350	12,023	1,793	3,462	7,737	17,942	1,104	1,784	10,384
Structural metal products	29	17	1,379	6,971	1,010	1,884	4,110	9,731	(Z)	1,433	8,637
Machinery, except electrical	31	8	823	4,773	562	1,141	2,796	7,652	1,282	743	4,756
Special industry machinery	6	5	574	3,402	360	728	1,755	5,320	(D)	570	3,576
Miscellaneous manufacturing	17	6	450	1,943	368	723	1,283	4,016	(Z)	491	3,154
Administrative and auxiliary[3]	-	-	4,158	33,986	-	-	-	-	-	4,105	-

- Represents zero. (D) Withheld to avoid disclosing figures for individual companies. n.e.c. Not elsewhere classified. (Z) Less than $500 thousand.

NEW CAPITAL EXPENDITURES BY MANUFACTURING FIRMS FOR PLANT AND EQUIPMENT - TOTALS

Year	Richmond Area	Remainder of State	Total Virginia	Richmond % of State
1954	$20,968,000	$ 88,919,000	$109,887,000	19
1958	22,296,000	119,345,000	141,641,000	16
1959	28,300,000	89,300,000	117,600,000	24
1960	33,166,000	117,960,000	151,126,000	22
1961	52,922,000	117,608,000	170,530,000	31
1962	38,360,000	144,548,000	182,908,000	21
1963	47,658,000	179,365,000	227,023,000	21

Source: Census and Annual Surveys of U. S. Bureau of Census

Richmond Industries And Products

INDUSTRIAL & TRADE BUREAU

RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

RICHMOND INDUSTRIES AND PRODUCTS

KEY TO EMPLOYMENT

The letter appearing at the left opposite each listing indicates the approximate number of employees engaged:

A	less than 25	E	500 through 999
B	25 through 99	F	1000 through 2499
C	100 through 249	G	2500 and over
D	250 through 499	X	Data unavailable

FOOD AND KINDRED PRODUCTS

SLAUGHTERING AND MEAT PACKING

C	Armour & Co.	307 N. 17th St.	Sausage; Smoked Meat
A	B. Brauer & Sons	1301 Hermitage Rd.	Meat Packing
C	Holzgrefe and Plageman, Inc.	Glen Allen	Poultry
E	Hygrade Food Products Corp.	1501 W. Overbrook Rd.	Meat Products
B	Joseph McSweeney & Sons	Dineen St. & SAL RR	Sausage; Cured Meat
B	George H. Meyer Sons	1601 Overbrook Rd.	Meat Products
B	Producers Co-operative Exch., Inc.	1114 E. Cary	Poultry
B	Richmond Abattoir, Inc.	1225 Hermitage Rd.	Slaughtering
B	Swift & Company	109 Ambler St.	Sausage
B	E. M. Todd Co., Inc.	1128 Hermitage Rd.	Hams & Bacon

ICE CREAM, CREAMERY, & DAIRY PRODUCTS

A	Arnett Ice Cream Co.	2711 Willard Road	Ice Cream
B	Awalt's Ice Cream	1905 Semmes Ave.	Ice Cream
A	Clover Room Ice Cream	4118 W. Broad St.	Ice Cream
C	Curles Neck Dairy	1600 Roseneath Rd.	Milk Products
C	High's Ice Cream Co., Inc.	1400 Sherwood	Ice Cream
B	Eskimo Pie Corp.	530 E. Main St.	Ice Cream
A	Instantwhip, Richmond, Inc.	3428 Maury St.	Dessert Topping
B	Pet Dairy Products Co., Inc.	3001 Cutshaw Ave.	Ice Cream
D	Richmond Dairy Co.	314 N. Jefferson St.	Milk Products
C	Sealtest Southern Dairies	3031 Norfolk St.	Ice Cream
A	Swift & Co., Ice Cream Plant	208 Menole Ave.	Ice Cream
C	Virginia Dairy Co., Inc.	1810 W. Main St.	Milk Products

FLOUR, MEAL & FEEDS

A	Beattie Brothers	Ellerson	Corn Meal
B	Cooperative Mills, Inc.	1st & Hull Sts.	Feed Mill
B	Producers Co-operative Exch., Inc.	7th & Byrd Sts.	Feed
B	Ralston Purina Co.	2101 Westmoreland	Feed

BAKERY PRODUCTS

C	American Bakeries Co.	120 W. Marshall St.	Bakery Products
B	Mrs. Chamberlain's Pies	612 Hull St.	Bread & Cakes
D	Continental Baking Co., Inc.	10 S. Jefferson St.	Cakes & Bread
B	Davis Bakery	3611 Hull St.	Bakery Products
A	Dot's Pastry Shop	3136 W. Cary St.	Cakes & Pastries
D	General Baking Co.	1400 High Point Ave.	Bread, Cakes, Rolls

A	Griffin Baking Co., Inc.	612 Hull	Bakery Products
D	The Great A. & P. Tea Co.	1700 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Bakery Products
B	Krispy Kreme Doughnut Co.	4910 W. Broad St.	Doughnuts
A	Lance, Inc.	1004 N. Thompson	Crackers
A	Mixing Bowl	4120 W. Broad St.	Bakery Products
D	Nolde Brothers, Inc.	2520 E. Broad St.	Bread, Cakes, Pies
B	Quality Bake Shoppe	2923 North Ave.	Bakery Products
B	Richmond Pie Co.	326 W. 7th St.	Bakery Products
A	Rolling Pin Bakery	2732 W. Broad St.	Bakery Products
A	Southern Pie Shop	5204 Brook Rd.	Pies, Pastries
E	Southern Biscuit Co., Inc.	Terminal Place	Cakes, Crackers
	ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES
B	Dixie Wine Co.	1600 Valley Rd.	Bottle Wine
B	Home Brewing Co., Inc.	1125 W. Clay St.	Beer
A	Southland Wine Co.	421 N. 17th St.	Bottle Wine
	CARBONATED BEVERAGES
A	Canada Dry Bottling Co. of Richmond	1600 Valley Rd.	Carbonated Beverages
C	Coca-Cola Bottling Co.	3123 W. Broad St.	Carbonated Beverages
B	Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. of Richmond, Inc.	4210 Castlewood Rd.	Carbonated Beverages
C	Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., of Richmond, Inc.	1628 W. Main St.	Carbonated Beverages
A	Royal Crown Bottlers of Richmond, Inc.	Ruffin & Commerce Rds.	Carbonated Beverages
B	Seven-Up Bottling Co., Inc.	1800 Summit Ave.	Carbonated Beverages
A	Tidewater Beverage Corp.	3 S. Granby St.	Carbonated Beverages
	FOODS (Not elsewhere classified)
A	A. W. Baker's Son	107 W. Broad St.	Food Preparations
A	Dean Foods Co.	1400 Commerce Road	Processed edible oils
A	Ewarts Frozen Foods, Inc.	1717 E. Clay	Food Processing
A	Fearnow Bros .Cannery	Ellerson, Va.	Brunswick Stew
B	Hoffman's Homemade Lunches	1422 E. Commerce Rd.	Food Preparations
B	Frito-Lay, Inc.	1827 N. Hamilton	Potato Chips
B	Richmond Brokerage Co., Inc.	5405 Patterson Ave.	Sugar
A	Rappahannock Seafood Co.	2004 Dabney Rd.	Seafood Packaging
A	Richmond Potato Processing Co.	4516 S 13 1/2 St.	Food Preparations
B	Richmond Refining Co.	1601 Brown	Grease & Tallow
A	Virginia Food Products Co., Inc.	5 So. Belvidere	Food Preparations
	EXTRACTS
A	American Laboratories, Inc.	2000 W. Broad	Flavoring Extracts
A	M. F. Neal & Co., Inc.	1900 E. Franklin St.	Tobacco Flavoring, Ground Spices
C	The C. F. Sauer Co.. Inc.	2000 W. Broad St.	Flavoring Extracts Spices, Mayonnaise
A	Southern Extract Co.	4901 W. Leigh St.	Flavoring Extracts
	COFFEE, SPICES; ROASTING AND GRINDING
B	Old Mansion, Inc.	330 S. 10th St.	Roasted Coffee, Tea, Ground Spices

CANDY

A	Clark Gum Co.	Bells & Commerce Rds	Chewing Gum
B	R. H. Hardesty Co.	1509 Belleville St.	Candy

ICE (Artificial)

A	Hermitage Ice & Storage	1128 Hermitage Rd.	Ice
B	Merchants Ice & Cold Storage	220 S. 6th St.	Ice
B	Richmond Cold Storage, Inc.	18th at Clay St.	Ice
B	Richmond Ice Co., Inc.	700 N. Harrison St.	Ice

TEXTILES

CLOTHING & FURNISHINGS

B	Cavalier Hat Co.	2020 W. Broad St.	Hats
A	Charles Hazel Handbag Co.	12 N. 3rd St.	Handbags, Purses
E	Crawford Mfg. Co., Inc.	3rd & Decatur Sts.	Overalls
A	Creery, Ltd.	1203 E. Main St.	Men's Custom Shirts
F	Friedman-Marks Clothing Co.	1400 W. Marshall St.	Men's Suits, Overcoats
C	Jefferson Mfg. Co.	1515 Cham'layne Ave.	Men's & Boys' Dress Sl'ks
A	Joel Manufacturing Co.	23rd & Everett	Caps
B	Lady Byrd Hat Co., Inc.	601 W. Cary St.	Women's Hats
A	Lounge-Wear, Inc.	4903 W. Leigh St.	Robes & Pajamas
D	M & B Headwear Co., Inc.	2323 E. Main	Hats—Men's & Boys'
B	Richmond Headwear Co., Inc.	1726 Arlington Road	Hats—Men's & Boys'
A	Virginia Garment Co.	510 N. 17th St.	Caps

BAGS & BURLAP

B	Lincoln Bag Co.	2042 Westmoreland St.	Plastic Bags
B	Millhiser Bag Co., Inc.	600 State St.	Cotton Bags
B	Millhiser Plastics, Inc.	600 State St.	Polyethylene Bags
C	Morgan Bros. Bag Co., Inc.	Belleville & Moore Sts.	Cotton & Burlap Bags
B	Richmond Dixie Bag Co.	Dabney Rd.	Burlap Bags
X	Standard Bag & Burlap Co., Inc.	1317 E. Cary St.	Burlap Bags

HASSOCKS & SEAT COVERS

E	Crawford Manufacturing Co.	3rd & Decatur Sts.	Hassocks, Seat Covers
C	Babcock-Phillips Corp.	Commerce Rd.	Hassocks
D	B. T. Crump Co., Inc.	Staples Mill Road	Automotive Sewn Products & Hassocks

MATTRESSES & BOX SPRINGS

A	Blackburn Mattress & Box Spring Company	313 W. Main St.	Mattresses, Box Springs
B	Eastern Sleep Products Co.	1322 W. Broad St.	Bedding Equipment
B	Standard Bedding Co.	2505 Semmes Ave.	Mattresses, Box Springs
B	Zaban Mattress & Box Spring Co.	1 E. Cary St.	Mattresses, Box Springs

FIBERS

G	E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co.	Ampthill, Jefferson Davis Hwy.	Nylon

TEXTILES (Not elsewhere classified)

B	Paris Shade Shoppe, Inc.	2026 Cham'layne Ave.	Shade Cloth, Pulls, Cleaners
B	Sherritt Flag Co., Inc.	1731 Kelly Road	Flags

CHEMICAL PRODUCTS

A	Acme Scientific Co., Inc.	11 S. 15th St.	Animal Medicine
B	Air Reduction Sales Co.	Bickerstaff Rd.	Oxygen & Acetylene Gas
A	Alcatraz Co., Inc.	1900 Ellen Rd.	Asphalt Paints, Cements
B	Alliance Fertilizer Corp.	Ellerson, Va.	Fertilizer
A	American Brands Company	1812 Ellen Rd.	Bleach & Bluing
B	Asphalt Paving Service, Inc.	Darbytown Rd. & C. & O. Underpass	Asphalt Paving Mixtures
B	Atlantic Varnish & Paint Co.	3000 N. Bouevard	Varnish, Lacquers
B	Bone Dry Fertilizer Co.	16th & Brown Sts.	Fertilizer, Lime
A	Bradley & Boswell	Ellerson, Va.	Fertilizer
A	Capital Chemical Co. of Richmond, Inc.	204 N. 14th St.	Insecticides
A	Chemical Industries, Inc.	2425 Grenoble Ave.	Household Chemicals
A	Colonial Chemical Corp.	4509 Williamsburg Ave.	Dyes
B	E. R. Carpenter Co.	2400 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Urethane Foam
A	Deep Rock Refining Co.	712 Albany Ave.	Petroleum Products
A	Douglas Chemical Co.	Staples Mill Rd.	Paints
F	E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co.	Ampthill, Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Cellophane, Nylon, Polyethylene, HT-1
A	Elars Products, Inc.	3301 Rosedale Ave.	Toilet Goods
A	Ethical Specialties, Inc.	604 N. Belmont	Pharmaceuticals
A	J. M. Fry Co.	704 Dawn	Printing Ink
A	General Printing Ink Co.	1715 Summit Ave.	Printing Ink
A	Haag, Inc.	1509 E. Main St.	Pharmaceuticals
B	Charles C. Haskell & Co.	9 S. Harvie St.	Pharmaceuticals
A	Haskell Chemical Co.	6101 Staples Mill Rd.	Chemicals — Lacquers
A	Interchemical Corp., Printing Ink Div.	3435 W. Leigh St.	Printing Ink
B	Nylonu, Inc.	1812 Ellen Rd.	Nylon Detergents
A	Plastoid Products of Virginia	2107 Loumor Ave.	Plastic Compounds
B	Polk Miller Products Corp.	2007 N. Hamilton St.	Dog Medicine & Food
B	Wm. Poythress & Co., Inc.	16 N. 22nd St.	Pharmaceuticals
B	Richmond Belt Dressing Mfg. Co.	1829 Louisa St.	Belt Dressing
C	Richmond Guano Co., Inc.	9 S. 5th St.	Fertilizer
B	Richmond Refining Co.	1601 Brown St.	Grease & Tallow
C	A. H. Robins Company	1407 Cummings Dr.	Pharmaceuticals
A	Rox Industries, Inc.	Ellerson	Ind. & Household Chemicals
B	Sampson Paint Mfg. Co., Inc.	301 Hull St.	Paints
A	Sinclair & Valentine Co.	1408 Gordon Ave.	Printing Ink
A	Southern Adhesives Corp.	Castlewood Rd.	Industrial Adhesives
B	Valentine Co., Inc.	3414 W. Leigh	Pharmaceuticals
B	VanPelt and Brown, Inc.	1322 E. Main St.	Pharmaceuticals
B	V. C. Chemical Co.	401 E. Main St.	Sulfuric Acid & Fertilizer
A	Virginia Carolina Paint Co.	715 Hull St.	Paints
A	L .M. Walsh Paint Products	Lewis Rd.	Paints
B	West Chemical Products, Inc.	2020 Tomlynn St.	Disinfectants

LEATHER AND ITS PRODUCTS

B	American Lace Leather Co., Inc.	21st & Perry Sts.	Lace Leather
D	B. T. Crump Co., Inc.	Staples Mill Rd.	Harness & Saddlery
A	Jerry Brothers Belting Co.	1908 E. Main St.	Belting
A	Thomas G. Powell	411 W. Broad St.	Orthopedic Shoes, Artificial Limbs

METALS, MACHINERY, TRANSPORTATION EQUIPMENT

STRUCTURAL & ORNAMENTAL IRON & STEEL WORK

A	Bowker & Roden, Inc.	Westwood & Hamilton	Reinforcing Steel
B	Bristol Steel Co.	4th & Gordon Sts.	Structural Steel
B	Cruickshanks Iron Works Co.	Dineen & SAL	Structural Steel
A	Greendale Ornamental Iron Co.	8605 Oakview Ave.	Ornamental Iron
B	Liphart Steel Co.. Inc.	Westwood Ave.	Structural Steel
C	Richmond Steel Co., Inc.	18th & E. Byrd St.	Structural Steel, Barges
C	Bethlehem Steel Co.	3122 W. Cary St.	Reinforcing Bars

PRIMARY METALS

A	A. B. C. Foundry	Hopewell Rd.	Castings
A	Atlantic Steel Fabricators, Inc.	2307 LaCross Ave.	Plate Fabrication
B	Cameron Hydronic Products	6th & Dinwiddie Sts.	Heating Equipment
A	Capitol Foundry, Inc.	7 N. 25th St.	Cast'gs & Fndry Prods.
A	O. K. Foundry Co.	1005 E. Commerce Rd.	Iron & Brass Castings
F	Reynolds Metals Co.	Kingsland Rd.	Aluminum Extrusion
C	Richmond Foundry & Mfg. Co.	Hermitage Rd.	Iron & Brass Specialties
D	Southern Industries, Inc.	6th & Dinwiddie Sts.	Stoves & Ranges
B	Tredegar Co.	Castlewood Rd.	Foundry Products
C	Hyman Viener & Sons	5300 Hatcher St.	Refining Metals

MACHINERY & MACHINE REPAIRS

C	American Machine & Foundry Co. World Tobacco Group	10 S. 3rd St.	Tobacco Machinery
B	Apex Machine Mfg. Co., Inc.	216 S. 5th St.	Design & Build Machines
A	Atlantic Machine Co.	1215 High Point Ave.	General Repairs
A	Auto-Case Machinery Co., Inc.	8609 Oakview Ave.	Automatic Machinery
A	Auto Electric Parts Co.	1639 W. Broad St.	Auto Electric Equip.
B	Cardwell Machine Co., Inc.	Cardwell & Castlewood Rds.	Tobacco & Peanut Machines
B	Collier Bros. Machine Works	1010 Holly Springs Rd.	Machine Repairs
A	Commercial Metal Industries, Inc.	2403 E. Franklin St.	Metal Fabrication
B	Electric Motor & Repair Co.	311 E. Cary St.	Electrical Equipment
B	Electrical Equip. Co.	13 W. Main St.	Electrical Equipment
B	General Electric Service Whs.	1403 Ingram Ave.	Diesel-Elect. Service
B	Hauni Richmond, Inc.	1728 Roadmiller St.	Tobacco Machinery
B	Houck & Greene, Div. of Tredegar Co.	Castlewood Road	Steel Fabricator
C	Inta-Rota Machine Co., Inc.	Byrd Airport	Industrial Machines
A	Bryce D. Jewett Mach. Mfg. Co.	29th & Maury	Misc. Mach.
A	Kramer Bros.	500 Albany Ave.	Welding
A	Kramer Machines & Welding	18 W. 7th St.	Steel Fabricators
A	E. McLauchlan & Sons	209 N. 20th St.	Industrial Boilers
B	Molins Machine Co., Inc.	1716 Summit Ave.	Cigarette Machinery
B	Montague-Betts Co., Inc.	3820 Augusta	Steel Fabricator
A	Peatross Manufacturing Co.	1007 Overbrook Rd.	Rebuild Auto Parts
A	Printing Plates, Inc.	1500 Brook Rd.	Printing Machinery
A	Progressive Engineering Corp.	2010 E. Main St.	Machine Construction
B	Richmond Auto Parts, Inc.	1207 N. Boulevard	General Machine Shop
A	Richmond Carbide Grinding Co., Inc.	1716 Summit	Machinists & Wear-Resistant Material
A	Richmond Fabricated Steel Co.	908 W. Broad	Steel Fabricators
A	Richmond Welding & Machine Co.	1510 E. Cary St.	Steel Fabricating

A	Roy's Electric Motor Service	3201 Norfolk St.	Machinery Repairs
A	S & W Steel Co., Inc.	1011 N. Lombardy St.	Steel Fabricators
A	Service Machine & Welding Co.	2020 E. Franklin St.	Machinery
A	J. H. Shortt & Co.	3201 Lanvale Ave.	Machinery Repairs
A	Stewart Machine & Welding Service	1712 Ellen Road	Sheet Metal
B	Strickland Machine Co., Inc.	2330 E. Main St.	Machine Shop & Foundry
B	Sydnor Pump & Well Co.	1305 Brook Road	Welding, Sheet Metal
B	Tobacco Machinery Corp.	815 Dinwiddie St.	Industrial Machinery
B	American Mach. & Foundry Co.	2115 Laburnum Ave.	Bakery Machinery
A	Union Machine Co.	600 E. Byrd St.	Machinery Repairs
A	V-Belt Engineering Co.	3100 Aspen Ave.	Tobbaco Mach. & Equip.
A	Virginia Machine Works, Inc.	2404 E. Main St.	Machinery Repairs
A	Williams Automotive Mfg., Inc.	2402 N. Lombardy	Rebuild Auto Parts
A	Welding Service Co.	Hilliard Rd.	Welding & Steel Fabricating
A	West End Machine & Welding Co.	Staples Mill & Tally Rds.	Welding
B	West Engineering Co.	Vawter Ave.	Machine Repairs

METAL GOODS

B	Alsco-Virginia Corp.	2230 Westmoreland	Aluminum Windows
A	Aluma-Coverall Corp.	2371 Staples Mill Road	Aluminum Awnings
A	Aluminum Mfg. Corp of Va.	School & Aspen Sts.	Alum. Curtain-Wall
A	Aluminum Storm Window & Door Corp.	751 N. 2nd St.	Metal Awnings, Doors
A	Amercian Venitian Blind Co.	1601 Summit Ave.	Aluminum & Steel Blinds
A	Beautyguard Mfg. Co. of Rd. Inc.	N. Lombardy & Admiral	Alum. Building Prods.
A	Bender Venitian Blinds	422 W. Broad St.	Venetian Blinds
D	Binswanger & Co., Inc.	3300 W. Leigh	Window Units, Sash, Doors
B	Reuben Burton, Inc.	N. Dineen St. & SAL RR	Sheet Metal
A	Chandler Shade Manfg. Co.	106 Cowardin	Venetian Blinds
B	Capital City Iron Works	2804 Walmsley Blvd.	Tanks, Boiler Repairs
A	Capitol Awning Co.	405 Brook Road	Metal Awnings, Tents
A	Capitol Storm Door & Window Co.	208 E. Brookland Park Blvd.	Metal Awnings
B	Cole-Kelly Equipment Co.	1700 Commerce Rd.	Fuel Oil Tanks
A	Colonial Plating Shop	9 So. 1st Street	Metal Plating
A	Commonwealth Plating Co.	1427 W. Main St.	Metal Plating
B	Dixie Dinettes, Inc.	2001 Dabney Rd.	Furniture
A	Edmonds Awning Mfg. Co.	319 W. Broad St.	Metal Awnings
A	General Sheet Metal Works	2204 Dock St.	Sheet Metal
A	Glacier Metal Co.	Hull & 21st Sts.	Babbitt Metal
B	Hankins & Johann, Inc.	Staples Mill Rd.	Metal Windows
A	Hudson Venetian Blind Service	2000 Twilight Ave.	Venetian Blinds
B	Industrial Sheet Metal Works	1502 Valley Rd.	Sheet Metal
A	Landrum & Hammack	1710 E. Broad St.	Sheet Metal
A	Mann Shade Co., Inc.	5909 W. Broad St.	Venetian Blinds
B	Manson-Utley, Inc.	200 N. 21st St.	Windows & Doors
A	N. W. Martin & Bros., Inc.	17th & Byrd Sts.	Sheet Metal
A	C. B. Norvell Awning Co.	3108 N. Blvd.	Awnings
C	Old Dominion Iron & Steel Corp.	Belle Isle	Heaters
B	Paris Shade Shoppe, Inc.	2026 Cham'layne Ave.	Venetian Blinds

F	Reynolds Metals Co.	Chesterfield County	Aluminum Extrusion Foil Products
D	Richmond Engineering Co.	7th & Hospital Sts.	Steel Plate Products
B	Richmond Galvanizing Co.	920 E. Laburnum Ave.	Metal Plating
A	Richmond Metal Products Corp.	2825 E. Main St.	Kitchen Cabinets
A	Richmond Plating Co.	1802 E. Broad St.	Metal Plating
A	Richmond Pressed Metal Works	506-512 Maury St.	Metal Stampings
A	Richmond Re-Conditioning Co.	110 S. Jefferson St.	Retinners
A	Schrader Machine & Welding, Inc.	310 N. Gilmer	Sheet Metal
A	Service Steel Erectors Co.	116 S. Winfree	Steel Erectors
A	Sheet Metal, Inc.	7605 Compton Rd.	Sheet Metal
A	Southern Venetian Blind Co.	1601 Summit Ave.	Venetian Blinds
C	Steel Service, Inc.	500 Valley Road	Steel Products
A	Sydnor Sheet Metal Works	1811 E. Main St.	Store Fixtures
A	Union Steel Erectors	3406 Deerwood Road	Steel Erectors
C	Valley Plating Co.	920 E. Laburnum	Chrome Plating
A	Virginia Iron & Metal Co.	2807 Staples Mill Rd.	Babbitt Metal & Brass
B	Wheeling Corrugating Co.	1600 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Corrugated Metal Pipe
A	Joseph Yurachek Wire Works	1610 Summit Ave.	Wire Designs
A	Win-Dor, Inc.	2044 Westmoreland	Windows & Doors
	TRANSPORTATION EQUIPMENT
C	Baker Equipment Eng. Co., Inc.	Summit Ave. & Norfolk St.	Trailer & Truck Bodies
A	Brown-Clark Equip. Co., Inc.	Dabney Rd.	Truck Bodies
B	Cole-Kelly Equipment Co.	1700 Commerce Rd.	Truck Bodies
B	Fruehauf Trailer Co.	3210 W. Marshall St.	Trailer Bodies
B	A. Meyer Sons, Inc.	120 S. 8th St.	Truck Bodies
B	Smith-Moore Body Co., Inc.	Lombardy & Brook Rd.	Auto & Truck Bodies

STONE, CLAY & GLASS PRODUCTS

B	Boscobel Granite Corp.	Portland Place	Crushed Stone
D	Binswanger & Co., Inc.	Leigh & Roseneath	Glass
B	Daniels Brick & Tile Co., Inc.	Commerce Rd.	Brick & Tile
C	General Shale Products Corp.	Lumkin Ave.	Clay Products
A	Hendricks Tile Co.	5000 Castlewood Rd.	Roofing Tiles
B	Luck Corporation	3600 Douglasdale Rd.	Crushed Stone
B	Redford Brick Co.	12th & Maury Sts.	Brick
A	Sadler Materials Corp.	Varina	Sand & Gravel
A	Southern Pottery	2201 Lumkin Ave.	Flower Pots
A	Tidewater Crushed Stone Co.	P. O. Box 2-R	Crushed Stone & Asphalt
B	West Sand & Gravel Co., Inc.	2801 Rady St.	Sand & Gravel
	CONCRETE PRODUCTS
B	Baughan Bros. Co.	E. Rich. Rd. & So. Rwy.	Concrete Products
A	Blackwell's Well & Concrete Co.	Stop 8½, Nine Mile Rd.	Concrete Products
A	Brandon Silo Corporation	Bells Rd. & ACL RR	Concrete Products
A	Capital Concrete Corp.	Darbytown Rd.	Concrete Products
A	Carter Sand & Gravel Co., Inc.	401 Evergreen Rd.	Concrete Septic Tanks
B	Commonwealth Sand & Gravel	Darbytown Road	Ready Mixed Products
B	Concrete Building Units Co.	Darbytown Road	Cinder Blocks
C	Concrete Pipe & Products Co.	Belt Blvd. & Ptrsbg. Pike	Concrete Pipes, Tanks
B	Concrete Structures, Inc.	Darbytown Rd.	Concrete Products

B	Economy Cast Stone Co.	15 E. Franklin St.	Cast Stone Products
A	Wilbert Holland Vault Service	Kingsland Road	Concrete Products
B	Flintkote Co., Insulrock Div.	Lewis Road	Insulated Building Blocks
A	Lyttle & Barnes Sanitation Co.	2210 Belt Blvd.	Concrete Septic Tanks
A	Richmond Block, Inc.	Ellen Rd. & Rosedale	Cinder Blocks
A	Richmond Ready-Mix Corp.	2801 Rady St.	Concrete Products
B	Solite Corp.	2508 Chamberlayne	Building Aggregates
E	Southern Materials Co., Inc.	3011 Dock St.	Ready Mixed Concrete
B	Superior Building Units, Inc.	1207 School St.	Concrete Products
A	Va. Cast Stone Co.	1136 Hermitage Rd.	Stone & Slate Tiles

MONUMENTS AND OTHER STONE PRODUCTS

A	J. Henry Brown & Son	219 W. Main St.	Monuments
A	Empire Granite Corp.	504 St. Christophers	Bldg. & Monument Granite
A	Empire Monumental Works	328 S. Cherry St.	Monuments
A	A. P. Grappone & Sons	1104 S. Randolph St.	Monuments
A	Henwood & Wilson	413 S. Cherry St.	Monuments & Cut Stone
B	Sunnyside Granite Co., Inc.	Portland Place & Douglasdale Rd.	Crushed Stone
A	J. M. Taylor & Son	1613 Oakwood Ave.	Monuments

GLASS PRODUCTS

D	Binswanger & Co., Inc.	3300 W. Leigh St.	Mirrors, Sash & Store Fronts
B	Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.	302 S. 7th St.	Plate Glass & Store Fts.
B	Richmond Glass Shop, Inc.	814 W. Broad St.	Plate Glass & Store Fts.
B	Sash, Door & Glass Shop	6th & Stockton Sts.	Plate Glass & Store Fts.

TOBACCO PRODUCTS

F	American Tobacco Co., (Va. Br.)	26th & Cary Sts.	Cigarettes
E	American Tobacco Co., (Rd. Br.)	21st & Grace Sts.	Smoking, Chewing Tob.
D	Larus & Brother Co., Inc.	22nd & Cary Sts.	Smoking Tobacco
F	Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.	101 S. 6th St.	Little Cigars & Cigar'tes
D	Consolidated Cigar	23rd & Cary Sts.	Cigars, Cheroots
F	Philip Morris, Inc.	20th & Cary Sts.	Cigarettes & Pipe Tob.
B	Sutliff Tobacco Co., Inc.	600 Purdue Ave.	Pipe Tobacco
B	U. S. Filter Corp.	8401 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Cigarette & Pipe Filters
C	United States Tobacco Co., Inc.	1100 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Pipe Tobacco, Cigarettes

TOBACCO STEMMING & REDRYING

F	American Tobacco Co. (So. Richmond Leaf Dept.)	Petersburg Pike & Edwards Ave.	Redrying Tobacco
E	American Tobacco Co. (Richmond Leaf Dept.)	24th & Cary Sts.	Redrying Tobacco
C	Carrington & Michaux. Inc.	2200 Decatur St.	Redrying & Stemming
E	Export Leaf Tobacco Co.	800 Bowe St.	Redrying & Stemming
D	Larus & Brother Co., Inc.	22nd & Cary Sts.	Leaf Shipping
F	Philip Morris, Inc.	2325 Maury St.	Redrying & Stemming

WOOD PRODUCTS

FURNITURE & CASKETS

B	Acme Fixture Co., Inc.	Commerce Rd. & Dinwiddie	Store Fixtures

B	American Furniture & Fixture Co.	2823 E. Main St.	Store & Office Fixtures
B	Biggs Antique Co., Inc.	900 W. Marshall St.	Reproductions
A	Cavalier Cabinet Mfg. Co.	1912 E. Main St.	Cabinets
A	Circle Wood Working Corp.	923 N. Meadow St.	Wood Products
A	Colonial Fixture Co.	2217 Tazewell St.	Store Fixtures
E	David M. Lea & Co., Inc.	Hopkins Rd.	Boxes
B	Modern Wood Work, Inc.	600 E. Cary St.	Office Furniture
B	Rich-Line Mfg. Co.	2121 Hamilton St.	Institutional Furniture
A	Richmond Casket & Supply Co.	3004 Ferncliff Rd.	Caskets
A	Royal School Laboratories	Ashland	School Furniture
B	Spencer Casket Co., Inc.	1308 E. Main St.	Caskets

MILLWORK & OTHER WOOD PRODUCTS

B	H. Beckstoffer's Sons	1209 N. 28th St.	Lumber & Bldg. Supply
A	Bernhardt & Taylor	1807 Broad Rock Rd.	Wood Cabinets
A	Eastern Handle Corp.	3015 Falling Creek Ave.	Tool Handles & Baseball Bats
A	Evans Specialty Co., Inc.	14 E. 15th St.	Office Equipment
A	Hallsboro Manufacturing Co.	Hallsboro, Va.	Excelsior
A	Holland Planning Mill	Staples Mill Road	Millwork
B	James River Lumber Co., Inc.	Sandston	Bldg. Materials
A	Jones Planing Mill Corp.	Staples Mill Rd.	Millwork
C	Koppers Co., Inc.	Charles City Road	Railroad Ties & Creosote
A	John J. Liesfield, Jr.	Laurel, Va.	Planing Mill
D	Miller Manufacturing Co., Inc.	7th & Stockton Sts.	Millwork & Boxes
B	Rd. Republic Lumber Co., Inc.	923 N. Meadow	Bldg. Sup. & Millwork
C	Rich'd Cedar Works Mfg. Corp.	Fulton	General Woodenware
B	Richmond Lumber & Bldg. Supply	4th & Maury Sts.	Millwork
C	Ruffin & Payne, Inc.	1701 Fifth Ave.	Millwork
A	R. A. Siewers, Inc.	122 S. Belvidere St.	Millwork
A	Transit Lumber Co., Inc.	N. Blvd. & RF&P RR	Millwork
A	Va. Wood Preserving Corp.	Laurel, Virginia	Wood Preserving
A	Walton Lumber Co., Inc.	Staples Mill Road	Sizing Lumber

RUBBER PRODUCTS

A	Central Belt'g, Hose & Rubber Co.	103 S. Jefferson	Rubber Specialties
A	G. W. Herndon Co.	1528 High St.	Rubber Stamps
B	National Seal Works, Inc.	2015 W. Marshall St.	Rubber Stamps
B	Richmond Rubber Co., Inc.	618 Leigh St.	Rubber Products

PAPER AND PAPER PRODUCTS

PAPER PRODUCTS

B	Albemarle Container Co.	Commerce Rd. & Ingram Ave.	Boxes, Cartons
B	American Paper Co., Inc.	4100 Benton Ave.	Paper Bags
A	Boxes to Size, Inc.	1919 Bainbridge St.	Corrugated Boxes
B	Cauthorne Paper Co., Inc.	207 Hull St.	Converted Paper Prods.
C	Continental Can Co., Inc.	3200 Will'burg Ave.	Corrugated Containers
B	Dillard Paper Company	2100 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Paper Products
C	Dixie Container Corp.	2000 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Corrugated Paper Prods.
C	Duplex Envelope Co.	1339 W. Broad St.	Church Envelopes
B	Globe Envelope Co.	517 E. Cary St.	Church Envelopes
B	Hamilton Mfg. Corp.	1901 Ellen Road	Conv'ers, Waxed Paper

C	Hopper Paper Co., Inc.	8th & Everett Sts.	Paper Tablets
A	McDaniel Envelope Co., Inc.	3412 W. Leigh St.	Envelopes
D	Morgan Bros. Bag Co.	Belleville & Moore Sts.	Paper Bags
B	Pohlig Brothers, Inc.	2419 E. Franklin St.	Paper Boxes
B	Publishers Envelope Co.	Cummings Dr. & Hardy	Church Envelopes
C	Seaboard Bag Corp.	3408 W. Moore St.	Paper Bags
C	Seaboard Manufacturing Corp.	330 So. 4th St.	Paper Bags
B	Sonoco Products Co.	501 Stockton St.	Paper Tubes
B	Southern Special Prods. Corp.	3021 Vernon Rd.	Converted Specialties
C	Southern Standard Bag Co.	Lewis Road	Bags
D	Union Bag-Camp Paper Corp.	303 S. 13th St.	Paper Products
D	Union Envelope Co.	1609 Sherwood Ave.	Envelopes
X	United Church Envelope Co.. Inc.	3412 W. Leigh	Envelopes
B	United States Envelope Co.	1010 N. Meadow	Envelopes
D	Virginia Folding Box Co.	320 Hull St.	Paper Boxes
C	West Va. Pulp & Paper Co., H & D Div.	2300 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Shipping Containers
C	Wilson Paper Box Co.	2220 E. Main St.	Paper Boxes

PAPER MANUFACTURERS

E	Albemarle Paper Mfg. Co., Inc.	330 S. 4th St.	Paper
B	Consumer Bag & Pkg. Corp.	1500 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Paper Bags
B	Interstate Bag Co.	330 S. 4th St.	Shopping Bags
D	Federal Paper Board Co.	1850 Commerce Rd.	Paper Board
C	Halifax Paper Co.	330 S. 4th St.	Paper
D	Standard Paper Mfg. Co., Inc.	Canal & Hull St.	Paper

PRINTING, PUBLISHING, ENGRAVING

A	Acme Press	3093 Hull St.	Offset Printing
A	S. B. Adkins & Co.	1307 E. Cary St.	Binding & Job Printing
A	Art Guild Screen Process Co.	W. Marshall & Lake	Designs & Displays
C	The Baughman Co.	801 Randolph St.	Job Printing
B	Beacon Press, Inc.	408 N. 7th St.	Printing
A	Beverley & Hershey	2022 Sledd St.	Book & Job Printing
B	W. M. Brown & Son, Inc.	700 S. Belvidere	Book & Job Printing
A	Burruss Printing Co.	211 W. Grace St.	Commercial Printing
A	Capital Printing Co.	3333 W. Marshall St.	Commercial Printing
A	Cavalier Press	10 S. 14th St.	Printing
A	Childress Printing Co.	1732 Kelly Road	Printing
A	Coghill Composition	11 W. 8th St.	Typography
A	Colonial Printing & Stationery Co., Inc.	3014 W. Marshall	Printing
A	Color, Inc.	700 S. Belvidere	Photo Engravers
A	Commercial Printing Co., Inc.	2015 W. Marshall	Printing
A	Consolidated Printing Co.	2710 W. Cary St.	Printing
A	Creative Screen Print, Inc.	1702 Belleville St.	Designs
A	Donald Cooke Co.	1423 W. Main St.	Printing
A	Cornett Screen Printing, Inc.	2536 N. Lombardy St.	Displays
B	Cussons May & Co., Inc.	715 Bowe St.	Calendars & Printing
A	Dataflow, Inc., Div. Acme Visible Records, Inc.	2100 D'pw'r Term. Rd.	Business Forms
B	Deluxe Check Printers	3405 Commerce Rd.	Check Printing
B	Dietz Printing Co.	109 E. Cary St.	Printing, Publishing
A	Engravers, Inc.	408 N. 3rd St.	Printing & Engraving

A	Equity Press	608 E. Main St.	Printing
A	Exhibits, Inc.	521 W. 7th St.	Displays
B	Expert Letter Writing Co.	6 W. Cary St.	Duplicating
A	Fabry Reproduction & Supply Corp.	205 1/2 E. Franklin St.	Blue Printing
B	J. W. Ferguson & Sons	105 N. 14th St.	Printing
A	Fontaine Press	1310 Altamont Ave.	Printing
A	Foster Printing Co.	16 S. 2nd St.	Offset Printing
A	J. L. Foster Printing Co.	416 Brook Road	Printing
A	Benj. Franklin Printing Co.	3 Governor St.	Commercial Printing
B	Garrett & Massie, Inc.	1901 Roane	Printing & Publishing
A	Seth Gayle & Co.	1407 E. Grace St.	Label Printing
B	Turner Advertising Co.	1000 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Signs, Advtsg. Displays
A	Gordon & Hinton Photo Print Co.	104 E. Cary St.	Blue Printers
A	Graphic Arts Press, Inc.	1215 Summit Ave.	Commercial Printing
A	Gyllenband Engraving Co.	1407 Semmes Ave.	Engraving
A	John H. Harland Co.	2512 Vaco St.	Lithography
A	W. Eugene Harvey	224 S. 2nd St.	General Printing
A	The Hauke Press	6 E. Main St.	Job Printing
A	Frank E. Heppert Print Shop	207 N. Jefferson St.	Commercial Printing
A	G. W. Herndon Co.	1528 High St.	Job Printing
E	Hill Directory Co., Inc.	2910 W. Clay St.	City Directories
A	W. F. Hobart, Inc.	3104 W. Cary	Blue Prints
B	Inta-Rota Engraving	Byrd Airport	Engraving
D	L. H. Jenkins, Inc.	2201 W. Broad St.	Printing
A	John Knox Press	8 N. 6th St.	Publishing
A	Keel-Williams Corp.	9 S. 12th St.	Commercial Printing
A	Kustom Kraft Display Service	12 E. Marshall St.	Display
C	Lawyers Printing Co., Inc.	1013 E. Cary St.	Publishing
A	Leake Printing Co.	220 S. 4th St.	Job Printing
A	Lewis Printing Co.	900 W. Leigh	Book & Job Printing
A	The Liberty Press	1402 E. Main St.	Printing
A	Lipford Printing Co., Inc.	1200 E. Cary	Job Printing
A	Litho Plate Making Co.	1300 E. Main St.	Lithography
A	Litho Plate Service	1007-A E. Main St.	Lithography
A	Litho-Services, Inc.	2939 W. Marshall	Lithography
A	Meister & Smethie	1404 E. Main	Book Binders
A	Mercury Printing Co.	12 N. Rowland	Printing
B	Metropolitan Engraving & Electrotype Co., Inc.	1809 Roane St.	Photo Engravers
B	Mitchell & Hotchkiss	6-10 N. 8th St.	Printing & Binding
A	Mutual Stationary & Prtg. Co.	1201 W. Broad St.	Printing
B	National Seal Works	2015 W Marshall St.	Rubber Stamps & Stencils
A	Nuckols Printing Co.	1341 E. Broad St.	Printing
B	Old Dominion Press	1205 E. Cary St.	Book & Job Printing
A	G. H. Parent Co.	213 Thompson	Printing
A	Pilot Printing Co.	320 N. 18th St.	Printing
B	Presbyterian Outlook	512 E. Main St.	Publishing
A	Printing Plates, Inc.	1500 Brook Rd.	Lithography
A	Pizzini Poster & Printing Co.	211 W. 7th St.	Job Printing
A	Progressive Composition Co.	715 W. Grace St.	Type Setting
A	Quality Printing Co.	416 Brook Ave.	Printing
A	Quick Printing Co.	2602 1/2 Hull St.	Job Printing

A	Religious Herald	5101 Monument	Publishing
C	Reynolds Metals Co.	Kingsland Road	Printed Cartons, Wraps & Foil
A	Richmond Engraving Co., Inc.	206 N. 14th St.	Engraving
E	Richmond Newspapers, Inc.	110 N. 4th St.	Newspapers
A	Richmond Paper Ruling Co.	1404 E. Main St.	Book Binders
A	Royal Engraving Co.	15 N. 8th St.	Engraving
A	Satterwhite Printing Co.	1721 Summit Ave.	Printing
A	Screen Crafts	929 Myers St.	Screen Printing
A	R. R. Sharpless Co.	515 E. Main St.	Photo Prints
B	Robert Simpson Co.	711-A W. Broad St.	Printing
A	Southern Engraving Co.	13 E. Main St.	Engraving
B	Southern Planter Publishing Co.	223 Governor St.	Magazine Publishing
B	Southern Stamp & Stationery Co.	00 Broad St.	Rubber Stamps, Printing
A	Southside Press	305 W. 11th St.	Job Printing
A	Spencer Printing Co.	1903 Semmes Ave.	Printing
A	State Composition Co.	18 N. 14th St.	Composition & Make-up
A	Trade Compositors, Inc.	611 Home	Lithography
B	Trevvett Christian & Co.	2015 N. Laburnum	Job Printing
A	Typecraft. Inc.	206 S. Jefferson St.	Type
A	Virginia Engraving Co.	103 N. 4th St.	Photo Engraving
A	Virginia Municipal Review	11 E. Franklin St.	Publishing
B	Virginia Stationery Co., Inc.	2018 W. Broad	Prtg., Engvg., Binding
A	Virginia Stereotype Service	1903 Semmes Ave.	Stereotyping
A	Virginia Wire-O Binding Corp.	907 Catherine St.	Wire Binding
A	Visual Merchandising Service, Inc.	Midlothian, Va.	Displays
C	Everett Waddey Co., Inc.	1105 E. Main St.	Ptrg., Engrvg., Binding
A	Wagener Press, Inc.	1621 W. Cary St.	Job Printing
A	Walthall Printing Co.	109 S. 12th St.	Job Printing
A	Waterman Press	322 W. Brookland Park	Job Printing
A	West End Printing Co.	5703 Staples Mill Rd.	Printing
B	Whittet & Shepperson	11 N. 8th St.	Book & Job Printing
A	Wilkinson Printing Co.	8307 Washington Hwy.	Printing
C	The William Byrd Press	2901 Byrd Hill Rd.	Book & Printing
A	Williams Printing Co.	15 N. 14th St.	Photo-Graving

MISCELLANEOUS

A	American Optical Co.	Main & Foushee St.	Optical Goods
A	Ancarrow Marine, Inc.	3108 Brander Rd.	Boats
B	Atlantic Bitulithic Co.	1400 Roseneath Rd.	Asphalt Products
B	Bausch & Lomb	307 E. Franklin St.	Optical Goods
A	Central Oil Asphalt Co.	Shell Rd.	Asphalt Products
A	Colonial Drapery & Curtain Co.	1501 Jennie Scher Rd.	Vinyl Curtains
A	Filtramatics, Inc.	1415 Valley Rd.	Industrial Filters
A	Giannini Scientific Corp., Rich. Div.	Byrd Airport	Flight Instruments
C	Ideal Fishing Float Co., Inc.	2001 E. Franklin St.	Fishing Tackle & Other Equip.
A	J. E. Hanger, Inc., of Va.	11 S. 2nd St.	Artificial Limbs
A	Old Dominion Brush Co.	2422 E. Franklin St.	Brooms & Brushes
B	Phipps & Bird, Inc.	6th & Byrd Sts.	Laboratory Equip., Plastic Fabrication
A	Pioneer Plastics Co.	14 E. 15th St.	Molded Plastics
A	Plastic Products Co.	1822 E. Franklin St.	Light Control Curtains
A	Research Instrument Corp.	18 S. 12th St.	Research Instruments

B	Richmond Broom Co.	2201 E. Main St.	Brooms
B	Richmond Pen Company	3808 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Pen & Pencils
A	Smitherm Div. of Hupp Corp.	1713 Westwood	Research
D	Solaronics, Inc.	6th & Dinwiddie	Heating Units
A	Sunnyside Granite Co.	Jacque St.	Asphalt
B	Surgident Ltd.	Willisden Rd.	Dental Supplies
A	Texaco Experiment, Inc.	Deepwater Ter. Rd.	Research
C	Topcrafters of Va., Inc.	1000 Dinwiddie	Plastic Products
B	Talley Neon and Advertising Co.	1908 Cham'lyne Ave.	Signs & Advertising Displays
B	Trident Corp.	Rt. 10	Precision Plastic Parts
C	Tuckersharpe Pen Co., Inc.	3808 Jeff. Davis Hwy.	Pens & Pencils
A	Virginia Aerospace Prods Co.	3312 Rosedale Ave.	Air Cond. Equipment

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT
RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA 23219
JANUARY, 1965

RICHMOND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

SIC ITUR AD ASTRA

CITY OF RICHMOND
JULY 19TH
1782

FOUNDED 1867

From: Draft of the proposed program of the National Committe Against Discrimination in Housing (NYC).

During the years since WWII, segregated patterns have increased enournously in # extnnt. Two principal factors have contributed: the growth of the all-white suburbs, and the expansion of Negro ghettos within central cites. Between 1950 and 1960, nearly two-thirds of thenation's growth (population increase) took place in the suburgs; and this growth was almost entirely white. Meanwhile, Negro population in almost every major central city expanded dramatically. Unless powerful efforts are made to stem the tide of exclusijon from the suburbs and the growiong segregation within the city limits, the year 1980 will see several of America's largest cities with Negro majoriites. Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit, New Orleans, Philadelphia and St. Louis are leading prospects.

In this sitaation, urban planning and urban renewal programs are more often contributing to segregated residental patterns thatn they are to an open housing market. To often the allegation of " Negro clearance" is true. Very few localities have utilized planning ro urban renewal to open up the hosing supply to all racial groups. Controversies orver relaocation continue to rage. New federal programs to aid in the rehab. and repair of rundown dweellings, if operated inthe smae way, would also contirbute to consoldiating the racial ghetto. Alll these powerful tools of govt and rprivate enterprise should be utilized to open the housing amarket and eli minate the racial ghet to. The greatest and richest nation in the world can do no less in order to remove the cancer of racial stegregation from the growing metropolitan areas where nearly tow-thirds of its people now live.

Bromanother source: Today's middle-class households are moving outsidethe city limits into the newer delveloping suburbs and leaving the older centr al city to the current newcomers and other nonwhites, so that the tradition al cleavage between central city and cuburbs is currentling evelving a color overtone of cleavange between whtes and nonwhites.

In 1917, the Supreme Court of the United States, in Buchanan v. Warley, held racial zoning ordinances invalid; and in 1948, in Shelly v. Kraemer, held racial restrictive conenants judicially unenforceable.

Study of the 1960 censud data revaels some sig. facts about the market potential among Negro middle income families and also some appalling problems that they face in securing suitable housing they can afford. In 1959, some 1,160,000 nonwhite fams earned $5000 or more. Some 145,000 nonw fams made incomes from 10,000 to 15000 ; another 28,000 had incomes from 15000 to 25000, and 6000 had incomes of $25000 and over.
As incomes for both white and nonwhite fams rise, agreater proportion of nonwhites continue to live in deteriorating housing than wjote fa,s. mainly because betterhousing is not available to hem despite the fact that they can afford it. A smaller proportion of nonw than w fams occipy recently build housing, but as income rise no substantial change is evid enced in this ratio, mainly becsuse new housing is not generallly avail to nonws commensurate with existing maket (market) demand among them.

We find millions of Am fams, earning $7000 to $10000 a year, who have either substandard housing or hausing welll below the wuality that they typicall can afford, or hosuing that is much older than that of comparable whites.

In a very real sense, the already extensive and rising purchasing power among nonwhites provides an untapped housing market today which is growing in dimension and offers a virgin field for expanding profitable ~~fab~~ busines s. This is truly a new frontier of housing.

Oue national goal is a housing mraket in which all the Am people will have wider housing choices and THE NONWHITE FAMILY'S INCOME (HOUSING DOLLLAR) WILL HAVE THE SAME VALUE AS ANY OTHER FAMILY's.

In a (stable) community property values can prosper, ofr they will be freed of the pressures which come form bock-busting and fears leading to pancic selling.

OFFICERS Dr. Aubrey N. Brown, Jr., President Mr. W. R. Walker, First Vice-President Dr. C. G. Gordon Moss, Dr. E. B. Henderson, The Rt. Rev. William H. Marmion, Vice-Presidents
Dr. Horry Roberts, Secretary Dr. J. Rupert Picott, Treasurer

THE VIRGINIA COUNCIL ON HUMAN RELATIONS
A council that seeks — through fact-finding, discussion and action — to attain equal opportunity for all people in Virginia.
17 EAST CARY STREET RICHMOND 19, VIRGINIA 648-4445
Hesiip Lee, Executive Director
Henry L. Caravati, Director of Development

The incredible growth of urban communities all over America and the consequent development of the suburbs have resulted in industries formerly c##b## concentrated in the central city also moving to the suburbs. Almost without exception these suburbs are racially all white. Negroes may sometimes work in these plants, and sometimes do. However, they usually do not live in the surrounding community. Therefore, a realtionship between discrimination in housing and the field of employment is that the Negro worker must travel farther each day on hisjourney to and from work. Tjois This greater travel time means greater cost, greater possiblity #of### tardiness, greater accodemt ##o## ## risk, greater time away from his family, etc. Of equal or greater significance is the fact that## ## employment dscromination imposes an economic limitation on the Negro home seeker.

BECAUSE OF HOUSING DISCRIMANATION, the white child and the Negro chil go to separate schools; t-ey learn apart, they play apart. Because of this roather compleyte seg with all its consequences, the white child's image of the Negro child and the Negro child's image of the whicte child is ften a negabive one.

The unprincipled practices of many members of the r.e. industry in most communities have severely retarded the progreess of deseg houseng. They have promoted PANIC SELLING and the resulting rapid turnover of homes. We submit thatthis rapid turnover has beeen directly related to high pressure tactics such as CONSTANT SOLICITATION, AIMED AT HOME OWNERS WHO HAVE EXPRESSED NO INTEREST IN SELLING. Some real estate agents have used unethical arguments, rumors. and misrepresentation of facts as a means of precipitating prejuduce and promoting flight out of the desegregating enighborhood. Because of the desparage housing shortage existing among Negroes, real estate operatiors oare assured of a ready market.

One of the most difficult tasks is to help people to see beyond their stereoptypes. Often, when thinking of Negro occupancy, people think only of downtown slums, instead of nearby good neighborhoods. The real causes of slum donditions are the ages of the structures themselves, the lack of p proper maintenance by owners (usually absentee landlords) and overcrowding. These conditins will produce slums whether the occupants are white or N.

Davis McEntire in RACE AND RESIDENCE ... shows that a Negro"s housing dollar buys less than a white's. Negpoes frequently cannot obtain mortgages or have to pay higher caarrying charges. Often Negroes must spend a greater proportion of a smaller income for housing.

POPULATION AND HOUSING DATA

HENRICO COUNTY ENUMERATION DISTRICTS

This Research Report contains detailed statistics on population and housing in Henrico County by Enumeration Districts. These areas are smaller than Census Tracts and usually one Census Tract contains many Districts. There are 186 Enumeration Districts in Henrico County.

The publication of this data will give Richmond business and other interested groups detailed information on smaller areas throughout the County. This can be used in marketing analysis, business location, labor market studies, county and city planning, housing analysis, and many other ways.

The accompanying map shows the location of the Enumeration Districts and was prepared by the Richmond Regional Planning Commission. Their assistance was given with the knowledge that this report will greatly assist in the growth and development of not only Henrico County, but the entire Richmond Metropolitan Area.

The basic information is a part of the 1960 Census and was sent to the Research Committee by the U. S. Census Bureau.

Edwin B. Brooks, Jr.
Chairman, Research Committee

Harry J. Perrin, Jr.
Director, Research Services

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0010P	043 0010R	043 0010S	043 0011N	043 0011P	043 0012
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	191	171	120	286	138	481
Owner occupied	161	163	95	273	120	443
White	161	163	72	273	120	436
Nonwhite			23			7
Renter occupied	5	4	19	7	7	23
White	5	4	14	7	7	22
Nonwhite			5			1
Available vacant	13	1	6	4	2
For rent			2
For sale only	13	1	4	4	2
Other vacant	12	3		2		15
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	191	171	120	286	138	481
Sound	191	167	99	286	135	473
With all plumbing facilities	191	165	91	286	135	473
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water		2	8
Deteriorating		4	18		2	2
With all plumbing facilities		3	5		2	1
Lacking only hot water		1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water			13			1
Dilapidated			3		1	6
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			28			8
Sound			13			2
With all plumbing facilities			6			2
Lacking some or all facilities			7
Deteriorating			13			2
With all plumbing facilities			2			1
Lacking some or all facilities			11			1
Dilapidated			2			4
Number of Rooms
All housing units	191	171	120	286	138	481
1
2	1	1				1
3			7		1
4	2	3	19		2	3
5	33	14	11	64	14	8
6	19	39	62	60	29	86
7	103	67	18	107	74	315
8 or more	33	47	3	55	18	68
Median	6.9	6.9	5.9	6.7	6.8	7.0
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			28			8
1
2						1
3			3
4			13			2
5			4			3
6			6			1
7			2			1
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	166	167	114	280	136	466
1	1	6	7	3	1	4
2	23	28	33	43	20	36
3	52	33	18	55	35	101
4	45	45	29	100	34	150
5	29	44	15	52	28	95
6 or more	16	11	12	27	18	80
Median	3.7	3.9	3.4	3.9	3.9	4.1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			28			8
1			1
2			10			2
3			5			4
4			1			2
5			3
6 or more			8
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	166	167	114	280	136	466
0.50 or less	68	68	49	100	54	156
0.51 to 0.75	68	80	39	121	54	227
0.76 to 1.00	26	19	16	51	23	72
1.01 or more	4		10	8	5	11
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			28			8
0.50 or less			10			1
0.51 to 0.75			7			6
0.76 to 1.00			2			1
1.01 or more			9
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 003 043 0010P		043 003 043 0010R		043 003 043 0010S		043 003 043 0011N		043 003 043 0011P		043 003 043 0012
Total population	626		629		403		1089		540		1984
White	626		628		289		1088		540		1956
Negro			1		114		1				25
Other races											3
Total population	626		629		403		1089		540		1984
Pop. in households	626		629		403		1080		540		1984
Head of household	166		167		114		280		136		466
Head of prim. fam.	163		161		107		276		135		461
Primary individual	3		6		7		4		1		5
Wife of head	163		154		94		266		129		443
Child under 18	267		256		130		486		248		930
Other relative	26		45		65		49		25		128
Nonrelative	4		7				8		2		17
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.77		3.77		3.54		3.89		3.97		4.26
Nonwhite population			1		114		1				28
Pop. in households			1		114		1				28
Head of household					28						8
Head of prim. fam.					27						8
Primary individual					1
Wife of head					21		1				6
Child under 18					34						2
Other relative					31						6
Nonrelative			1								6
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household					4.07
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	318	308	300	329	202	201	552	537	258	282	983	1001
Under 1 year	10	10	2	6	7	2	14	11	5	11	33	26
1 year	21	6	3	9	4	8	12	12	12	10	32	47
2 years	13	13	6	6	8	6	21	17	8	3	36	34
3 years	17	11	6	5	7	5	22	16	11	10	32	44
4 years	8	13	13	3	3	2	18	12	10	11	29	32
5 years	10	8	12	4	1	7	22	15	12	14	39	45
6 years	10	9	10	11		5	19	23	8	11	34	28
7 years	5	10	8	10	5	5	19	15	4	11	22	20
8 years	12	5	10	12	7	5	14	14	6	10	36	26
9 years	9	11	8	14	3	3	20	13	4	7	32	20
10 years	4	6	12	12	4	2	14	11	5	6	21	19
11 years	3	3	11	9	5	2	12	15	11	10	29	20
12 years	5	7	6	10	2	6	17	12	2	6	22	30
13 years	6	8	9	3	1	2	15	8	5	2	24	20
14 years	3	3	4	6	4	3	9	6	4	3	18	15
15 years	4	3	5	3	4	2	6	5	3	2	16	13
16 years	1	1	2	3	4	1	5	7	4	2	17	17
17 years	2	3	4	5	4	4	7	7	4	2	13	9
18 years		3	1	3	2	2	2		2		6	8
19 years	2		1	2	1	3	2	6	1		2	5
20 years	3			4	2	1	1	1		1	5	4
21 years and over	170	170	167	189	124	127	281	300	137	150	485	518
Total population	318	308	300	329	202	201	552	537	258	282	983	1001
Under 5 years	69	53	30	29	29	21	87	60	46	45	162	183
5 to 9 years	46	43	48	51	10	25	94	82	34	53	163	139
10 to 14 years	21	23	42	40	10	15	67	52	27	27	114	104
15 to 19 years	9	10	13	16	15	12	22	25	14	6	54	57
20 to 24 years	13	17	3	10	10	10	8	9	2	6	24	39
25 to 29 years	29	26	8	13	7	17	15	27	8	18	67	87
30 to 34 years	46	58	30	51	23	22	69	70	28	46	103	115
35 to 39 years	44	35	34	32	20	16	60	76	49	23	119	114
40 to 44 years	20	16	34	28	11	11	57	46	18	24	81	53
45 to 49 years	13	8	26	21	9	8	33	27	12	8	39	35
50 to 54 years	3	6	12	10	8	10	11	11	7	7	25	18
55 to 59 years	3	4	7	7	6	12	13	15	3	3	15	18
60 to 64 years		2	4	6	9	8	4	14	4	4	7	14
65 to 69 years	2	4	3	5	7	6	3	6	1	5	1	11
70 to 74 years		2	3	5	7	4	6	3		1	6	6
75 to 79 years			1	3	3	4	1	5	3	2	3	8
80 to 84 years		1	2	2			1	1	2	4		2
85 years and over							1					2
18 years and over	175	182	169	198	129	133	286	316	140	151	498	535
Median age	25.2	26.5	31.0	30.5	31.7	30.1	23.8	30.4	28.8	26.1	19.9	22.8
Nonwhite population				1	56	58	1				10	18
Under 5 years					10	7					2	1
5 to 9 years					6	9
10 to 14 years					3	4
15 to 19 years					6	4						1
20 to 24 years					2	6					2	1
25 to 29 years				1	2	3						1
30 to 34 years					3	2					2	1
35 to 39 years					5	3						1
40 to 44 years					2	5
45 to 49 years					4	2						2
50 to 54 years					2	2					1	2
55 to 59 years					2	5		1				2
60 to 64 years					4	3					1	3
65 to 69 years					2	1						1
70 to 74 years					3	1					2
75 years and over						1						2
18 years and over				1	33	37		1			8	15
21 years and over				1	30	33		1			8	15
Median age					27.5	24.2
Total, 14 & over	185	192	184	215	145	143	313	341	155	160	562	590
Single	20	17	23	37	35	24	40	30	20	17	97	77
Married	164	163	156	157	102	102	271	277	131	131	457	467
Separated				1	5	4	1	3	1	1	2	9
Widowed	1	11	5	18	5	15	1	21	3	12	5	43
Divorced		1		3	3	2	1	8	1		3	3
Nonwhite, 14+				1	36	39		1			8	17
Single				1	11	9					1	2
Married					20	26		1			7	10
Separated					2	2						3
Widowed					2	4						5
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0017 A	043 0017 B	043 0018	043 0019	043 0020N	043 0020P
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	340	427	207	381	280	94
Owner-occupied	326	420	189	335	245	78
White	313	420	168	324	227	74
Nonwhite	13		21	11	18	4
Renter occupied	8	4	10	24	18	10
White	7	4	4	18	15	10
Nonwhite	1		6	6	3
Available vacant	3	3	6	11	12
For rent	2		1	1
For sale only	1	3	5	10	12
Other vacant	3		2	11	5	6
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	340	427	207	381	280	94
Sound	335	427	198	370	270	87
With all plumbing facilities	333	427	193	366	266	84
Lacking only hot water			1		1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	2		4	4	3	3
Deteriorating	4		8	6	7	1
With all plumbing facilities				3	3
Lacking only hot water	1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	3		8	3	4	1
Dilapidated	1		1	5	3	6
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	14		27	17	21	4
Sound	10		18	9	12	1
With all plumbing facilities	10		13	5	8	1
Lacking some or all facilities			5	4	4
Deteriorating	3		8	4	6
With all plumbing facilities				2	3
Lacking some or all facilities	3		8	2	3
Dilapidated	1		1	4	3	3
Number of Rooms
All housing units	340	427	207	381	280	94
1				1
2						1
3	1			4	4	2
4	6		6	6	10	9
5	47	24	11	6	17	33
6	92	123	36	30	130	31
7	113	151	54	182	100	18
8 or more	81	129	100	152	19
Median	6.7	6.9	7.4	7.3	6.3	5.6
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	14		27	17	21	4
1
2
3				3	3	1
4	1		6	3	7	2
5	4		3	3	2	1
6	3		10	3	5
7	2			5	1
8 or more	4		8		3
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	334	424	199	359	263	88
1	6	10	5	6	6	4
2	86	117	55	60	42	17
3	62	84	45	73	39	12
4	91	119	41	119	102	30
5	62	62	30	68	54	18
6 or more	27	32	23	33	20	7
Median	3.6	3.5	3.4	3.8	3.9	3.9
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	14		27	17	21	4
1	1		1
2	4		8	1	5	1
3	1		5	4	2
4	5		5	2	4	2
5	1		2	3	2
6 or more	2		6	7	8	1
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	334	424	199	359	263	88
0.50 or less	171	256	120	189	88	30
0.51 to 0.75	118	136	67	141	126	24
0.76 to 1.00	43	31	9	24	42	30
1.01 or more	2	1	3	5	7	4
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	14		27	17	21	4
0.50 or less	7		14	3	5	1
0.51 to 0.75	2		5	4	3
0.76 to 1.00	4		5	5	8	2
1.01 or more	1		3	5	5	1
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 003 043 0017 A	043 003 043 0017 B	043 003 043 0018	043 003 043 0019	043 003 043 0020N	043 003 043 0020P
Total population	1216	1485	709	1377	1026	327
White	1151	1471	597	1281	918	310
Negro	64	14	112	92	108	17
Other races	1			4
Total population	1216	1485	709	1377	1026	327
Pop. in households	1200	1485	709	1377	1026	327
Head of household	334	424	199	359	263	88
Head of prim. fam.	327	407	193	350	257	84
Primary individual	7	17	6	9	6	4
Wife of head	310	386	187	342	248	79
Child under 18	468	509	238	591	423	147
Other relative	83	133	68	75	86	12
Nonrelative	17	33	17	10	6	1
Pop. in group quarters	7
Inmate of institution
Other	7
Pop. per household	3.62	3.50	3.56	3.84	3.90	3.72
Nonwhite population	65	14	112	96	108	17
Pop. in households	58	14	112	96	108	17
Head of household	14		27	17	21	4
Head of prim. fam.	13		25	17	21	4
Primary individual	1		2
Wife of head	10		23	15	19	2
Child under 18	12	1	15	34	24	2
Other relative	12	1	32	24	40	8
Nonrelative	10	12	15	6	4	1
Pop. in group quarters	7
Inmate of institution
Other	7
Pop. per household	4.14		4.15	5.65	5.14

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	578	638	742	743	345	364	667	710	492	534	175	152
Under 1 year	10	9	11	6	4	1	24	16	11	17	8	7
1 year	10	12	8	5	4	6	16	22	15	16	10	8
2 years	11	7	16	8	6	3	24	26	17	27	7	6
3 years	5	18	9	15	7	4	24	23	22	17	11	7
4 years	16	14	11	17	10	9	19	25	27	16	8	8
5 years	10	15	11	11	4	9	23	21	22	25	11	6
6 years	15	15	18	16	5	6	18	15	13	12	9	8
7 years	11	12	10	19	7	7	19	25	7	15	6
8 years	18	13	22	16	3	3	23	20	13	10	5	4
9 years	11	22	18	12	12	8	12	20	14	12	4	1
10 years	22	12	23	20	4	9	11	21	10	9	2	2
11 years	23	6	25	15	9	11	16	16	8	10	4	2
12 years	13	23	18	17	8	4	12	8	4	8	2	1
13 years	19	21	27	18	7	9	22	15	10	10	1
14 years	9	8	12	14	8	11	8	15	5	13	2
15 years	11	14	8	10	5	8	10	12	6	15	1
16 years	6	14	16	14	11	9	2	3	5	1
17 years	12	12	13	19	6	9	8	10	3	3		1
18 years	5	3	8	10	5	2	6	2	3	3	2	1
19 years	4	2	7	3	2	1		4	1	3		1
20 years	2	6	5	4	1		3	1	4	2
21 years and over	335	378	446	479	212	235	367	390	272	290	82	89
Total population	578	638	742	743	345	364	667	710	492	534	175	152
Under 5 years	52	60	55	46	31	23	107	112	92	93	44	36
5 to 9 years	65	77	79	74	31	33	95	101	69	74	35	10
10 to 14 years	86	73	105	84	41	44	69	75	37	50	11	5
15 to 19 years	38	45	52	56	29	29	26	31	18	25	3	3
20 to 24 years	6	10	27	16	5	9	14	15	7	13	2	1
25 to 29 years	12	24	17	24	6	8	30	56	35	44	19	3
30 to 34 years	29	40	38	50	17	22	75	78	54	69	25	18
35 to 39 years	69	72	52	59	26	33	88	83	66	57	15	10
40 to 44 years	67	60	66	85	28	37	52	49	41	31	8	12
45 to 49 years	47	48	79	75	41	37	42	41	32	29	4	3
50 to 54 years	46	30	70	61	25	32	21	15	13	10	3	2
55 to 59 years	29	31	45	49	24	26	16	19	10	9	3	3
60 to 64 years	13	15	26	20	17	12	17	13	5	9		4
65 to 69 years	11	10	18	16	14	7	9	11	4	7	1
70 to 74 years	3	6	6	9	4	8	3	8	5	9	1	1
75 to 79 years	4	3	3	7		3	2	3	3	3	1
80 to 84 years	1	8	2	8		1			1	1
85 years and over			2	4	1		1	1		1
18 years and over	346	388	466	496	220	238	376	397	280	298	84	91
Median age	38.1	32.1	34.7	38.8	37.4	37.1	28.8	26.9	28.3	26.4	13.9	26.7
Nonwhite population	24	41	2	12	56	56	43	53	53	55	9	8
Under 5 years	2	1			7	3	5	8	9	7	1
5 to 9 years	1	4			3	2	6	6	2	4
10 to 14 years	4	3	1		2	4	6	6	5	11	4
15 to 19 years	2	6		2	5	1	3	6	5	5	1	2
20 to 24 years	1	6		4	1	3	2	1	3	1
25 to 29 years	3	8	1	1	2	4	3	4	1	2
30 to 34 years	1	6		1	4	1	1	2	4	7		1
35 to 39 years	1			1	3	5	4	6	2	2		1
40 to 44 years	1	4		1	3	6	4	3	4	3		2
45 to 49 years	1	8			4	6	2	1	4	3	1
50 to 54 years	2				3	2	3	2		1	2	1
55 to 59 years	2	1		1	6	9		3	5	3
60 to 64 years	1	1		1	4	3	3	2	1			1
65 to 69 years		3			7	3	1	3	3	5
70 to 74 years					1	2			3	1
75 years and over	2				1	2			2
18 years and over	16	28	1	12	40	46	24	30	33	30	3	7
21 years and over	14	24	1	8	38	46	23	27	29	28	3	6
Median age					41.7	44.2		22.5	31.9	22.5
Total, 14 & over	384	436	515	553	250	275	404	437	299	330	87	92
Single	58	74	105	92	52	54	51	50	35	42	6	4
Married	318	326	399	405	194	202	352	356	260	261	81	81
Separated	1	7	1	5	2	3	2	5	3	1	1	1
Widowed	3	28	8	49	3	14	1	17	3	22		3
Divorced	5	8	3	7	1	5		6	1	5		4
Nonwhite, 14+	18	33	1	12	45	48	26	34	37	36	4	8
Single	6	13		6	15	8	8	11	10	10	1	4
Married	12	18	1	4	26	32	18	20	25	25	3	2
Separated		1		2	2	3	1	3	1		1
Widowed		2		1	1	4		2	2	1		1
Divorced		4		1	1	4		1				1

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0021N	043 0021P	043 0021R	043 0021S	043 0021T	043 0021U
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	14	150	50	106	21	145
Owner occupied	11	132	46	101	13	141
White	9	132	46	101	13	141
Nonwhite	2
Renter occupied	2	3	2		4	3
White		3	1		4	1
Nonwhite	2		1			2
Available vacant	1	9	1	5	2	1
For rent			1
For sale only	1	9		5	2	1
Other vacant		6	1		2
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	14	150	50	106	21	145
Sound	9	150	50	105	20	144
With all plumbing facilities	9	150	50	105	19	142
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water					1	2
Deteriorating	1			1		1
With all plumbing facilities	1			1		1
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water
Dilapidated	4				1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4		1			2
Sound			1			2
With all plumbing facilities			1			1
Lacking some or all facilities						1
Deteriorating
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated	4
Number of Rooms
All housing units	14	150	50	106	21	145
1			1			3
2	1	1
3	1		1		1
4	4				3	1
5	2	3		2		3
6	3	17	7		2	14
7		55	19	21	3	26
8 or more	3	74	22	83	12	98
Median		7.5	7.3	7.5+		7.5+
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4		1			2
1			1			2
2	1
3	1
4	2
5
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	13	135	48	101	17	144
1		3			1	5
2	5	19	17	19	4	46
3	2	34	11	11	5	26
4	6	41	13	28	5	29
5		22	5	23	1	22
6 or more		16	2	20	1	16
Median		3.8		4.2		3.3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4		1			2
1
2	4		1			2
3
4
5
6 or more
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	13	135	48	101	17	144
0.50 or less	7	73	37	60	14	105
0.51 to 0.75	3	55	9	40	3	31
0.76 to 1.00	3	6	1	1		5
1.01 or more		1	1			3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4		1			2
0.50 or less	2
0.51 to 0.75	1
0.76 to 1.00	1
1.01 or more			1			2
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 003 043 0021N		043 003 043 0021P		043 003 043 0021R		043 003 043 0021S		043 003 043 0021T		043 003 043 0021U
Total population	40		526		157		427		57		512
White	32		523		151		404		54		482
Negro	8		3		6		23		3		30
Other races
Total population	40		526		157		427		57		512
Pop. in households	40		526		157		427		57		512
Head of household	13		135		48		101		17		144
Head of prim. fam.	13		132		48		101		16		135
Primary individual			3						1		9
Wife of head	9		128		46		98		15		125
Child under 18	12		222		47		174		20		154
Other relative	5		38		12		33		2		58
Nonrelative	1		3		4		21		3		31
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household			3.90		3.27		4.23		3.35		3.56
Nonwhite population	8		3		6		23		3		30
Pop. in households	8		3		6		23		3		30
Head of household	4				1						2
Head of prim. fam.	4				1						1
Primary individual											1
Wife of head	1				1						1
Child under 18
Other relative	3						4
Nonrelative			3		4		19		3		27
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	23	17	262	264	79	78	193	234	28	29	225	287
Under 1 year		2	5	4			5	1	1		2	4
1 year			3	5			2	2			2	5
2 years			6	7	3	1	5				1	3
3 years	1		5	5	1	1	1	2				4
4 years	1	1	6	9	2		4	1				4
5 years			6	7	3	2	3	4	1		5
6 years	1	1	7	9	2	1	3	4	1		2	4
7 years	1	1	3	9	3	1	4	5	2		4	2
8 years			7	8	1	1	7	3		2	5	10
9 years	1		13	5	2	1	4	6	1	1	2	9
10 years			9	3	1	1	6	7		3	10	6
11 years	1		8	8	1	2	7	8		1	2	7
12 years	1		7	5	1		5	9		1	7	8
13 years			12	8	1	2	5	13		1	4	5
14 years			7	1	4	2	6	9	1		7	7
15 years			4	3	1	1	5	13	1		5	5
16 years			5	9	1	3	1	8	2		4	7
17 years			7	3		1	6	4	1		3	6
18 years			2	1	2		6	1			1
19 years			1	2		1	1	3			4	3
20 years			1	1				5		1	3	4
21 years and over	16	12	138	152	50	57	107	126	17	19	152	184
Total population	23	17	262	264	79	78	193	234	28	29	225	287
Under 5 years	2	3	25	30	6	2	17	6	1		5	20
5 to 9 years	3	2	36	38	11	6	21	22	5	3	18	25
10 to 14 years	2		43	25	8	7	29	46	1	6	30	33
15 to 19 years			19	18	4	6	19	29	4		17	21
20 to 24 years			3	9	2	3	1	10		2	8	12
25 to 29 years	4	1	7	12		1	1	6			2	7
30 to 34 years		3	17	20	3	3	1	7		2	10	12
35 to 39 years	2	3	27	26	7	6	10	20	1		15	26
40 to 44 years	2	1	28	31	6	9	23	27	4	3	19	28
45 to 49 years	2	2	24	25	7	12	33	20	3	5	18	30
50 to 54 years	4		16	8	4	6	19	10	5	3	27	20
55 to 59 years			8	7	4	6	10	12	1	3	20	14
60 to 64 years	1	2	2	4	3	4	4	3	1	1	19	13
65 to 69 years	1		2	1		3	2		1		6	10
70 to 74 years			2	4	4	1	2	3	1	1	6	5
75 to 79 years			2	2		1	1	2			3	7
80 to 84 years				2		2		1				1
85 years and over			1	2				1			2	3
18 years and over	16	12	142	156	52	58	114	135	17	20	160	191
Median age			28.6	30.0	38.4	42.8	38.8	28.3			42.0	37.6
Nonwhite population	6	2		3	2	4	4	10		3	4	26
Under 5 years												1
5 to 9 years
10 to 14 years
15 to 19 years								2				1
20 to 24 years				1		1	1	5		1		4
25 to 29 years	1							2				2
30 to 34 years						1					2	2
35 to 39 years			1		1			1			1	4
40 to 44 years						1	1	2				2
45 to 49 years	2	1		1				2		1		4
50 to 54 years	2							2		1		2
55 to 59 years				1	1		1	2			1	2
60 to 64 years	1					1		1				1
65 to 69 years							1					1
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over	6	2		3	2	4	4	19		3	4	24
21 years and over	6	2		3	2	4	4	15		2	4	23
Median age
Total, 14 & over	16	12	165	172	58	65	132	169	22	20	179	216
Single	3		29	21	10	11	26	48	6	2	39	49
Married	10	10	132	136	47	47	103	106	15	17	133	140
Separated	1	1				1	1	2				2
Widowed	1	2	4	14	1	7	3	14		1	7	22
Divorced	2			1				1	1			5
Nonwhite, 14+	6	2		3	2	4	4	19		3	4	25
Single	3			1	1	2		9		1		8
Married	2	2		1	1	1	2	4		2	4	9
Separated	1	1					1	1
Widowed	1			1		1	2	7				6
Divorced												2

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0013	043 0014	043 0015N	043 0015P	043 0016 A	043 0016 B
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	377	430	196	130	649	268
Owner occupied	354	402	171	119	622	258
White	350	397	171	119	622	258
Nonwhite	4	5
Renter occupied	20	25	18	6	17	9
White	20	25	18	6	17	9
Nonwhite
Available vacant	3	3	4	2	6	1
For rent	1	1		1
For sale only	2	2	4	1	6	1
Other vacant			3	3	4
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	377	430	196	130	649	268
Sound	374	430	194	127	648	268
With all plumbing facilities	372	430	194	127	648	267
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	2					1
Deteriorating	3		2	2	1
With all plumbing facilities	2		2	2
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	1				1
Dilapidated				1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4	5
Sound	3	5
With all plumbing facilities	1	5
Lacking some or all facilities	2
Deteriorating	1
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities	1
Dilapidated
Number of Rooms
All housing units	377	430	196	130	649	268
1					1
2					1
3
4	22		3			1
5	17	155	84	33	78	48
6	281	215	55	40	216	123
7	51	48	29	36	225	60
8 or more	6	12	25	21	128	36
Median	6.0	5.8	5.7	6.3	6.6	6.2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4	5
1
2
3
4	1
5	1	1
6	1	4
7	1
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	374	427	189	125	639	267
1	7	3	4	7	15	7
2	64	94	34	22	132	69
3	100	96	50	40	165	62
4	132	130	61	28	168	82
5	52	79	28	20	105	30
6 or more	19	25	12	8	54	17
Median	3.6	3.7	3.6	3.3	3.5	3.4
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4	5
1
2
3	1	3
4		1
5	1
6 or more	2	1
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	374	427	189	125	639	267
0.50 or less	162	160	66	63	331	135
0.51 to 0.75	143	143	82	49	210	100
0.76 to 1.00	64	119	38	13	95	31
1.01 or more	5	5	3		3	1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4	5
0.50 or less	1	2
0.51 to 0.75		2
0.76 to 1.00	2	1
1.01 or more	1
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 003 043 0013		043 003 043 0014		043 003 043 0015N		043 003 043 0015P		043 003 043 0016 A		043 003 043 0016 B
Total population	1330		1554		680		432		2318		913
White	1318		1535		679		432		2314		912
Negro	21		19						4		1
Other races					1
Total population	1330		1554		680		432		2318		913
Pop. in households	1330		1554		680		432		2318		913
Head of household	374		427		189		125		639		267
Head of prim. fam.	367		420		185		117		620		259
Primary individual	7		7		4		8		19		8
Wife of head	351		400		170		109		587		247
Child under 18	560		643		269		168		908		339
Other relative	51		67		46		29		171		55
Nonrelative	3		17		6		1		13		5
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.58		3.64		3.60		3.46		3.63		3.42
Nonwhite population	21		19		1				4		1
Pop. in households	21		19		1				4		1
Head of household	4		5
Head of prim. fam.	4		5
Primary individual
Wife of head	2		5
Child under 18	3		3
Other relative	11								1
Nonrelative	1		6		1				3		1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	685	654	753	801	329	351	219	213	1124	1194	462	451
Under 1 year	26	17	27	33	12	5	5	3	17	16	6	4
1 year	34	20	30	27	13	8	3	8	15	30	9	7
2 years	27	21	23	28	12	10	4	8	23	23	11	7
3 years	34	24	31	38	9	6	8	3	31	15	8	6
4 years	35	29	25	25	11	11	8	3	32	33	11	10
5 years	24	18	31	29	11	9	4	12	35	19	10	9
6 years	15	23	23	21	10	17	4	2	25	36	20	8
7 years	30	10	20	25	12	10	5	8	35	35	11	12
8 years	18	6	18	21	7	11	5	1	35	27	9	12
9 years	9	14	17	25	7	8	5	2	28	35	12	12
10 years	11	14	13	10	10	6	3	3	25	31	12	8
11 years	12	8	15	6	8	17	9	4	26	26	10	12
12 years	4	9	15	9	3	4	6	2	27	20	10	7
13 years	13	9	13	12	3	6	5	2	33	24	18	9
14 years	5	2	10	4	1	2	4	6	23	27	12	11
15 years	7	6	6	11	3	6	1	2	21	21	10	4
16 years	4	8	8	6	4	5	8	5	16	19	4	6
17 years	4	2	7	8	2		4	3	15	19	8	10
18 years	1	4	2	6	2	3	3	3	13	9	3	2
19 years	1	3		3	2	1	3	2	5	9	4	3
20 years	2	2	3	2	3	1			2	4	3	4
21 years and over	369	391	416	456	184	210	122	131	642	716	261	288
Total population	685	654	753	801	329	351	219	213	1124	1194	462	451
Under 5 years	156	120	136	147	57	40	28	25	118	117	45	34
5 to 9 years	96	80	109	121	47	55	23	25	158	152	62	53
10 to 14 years	45	42	66	41	25	30	27	17	134	128	62	47
15 to 19 years	17	19	23	34	13	15	19	15	70	77	29	25
20 to 24 years	11	27	18	49	11	11	3	5	22	26	8	11
25 to 29 years	55	83	69	87	21	25	12	15	30	40	13	17
30 to 34 years	103	104	107	109	31	54	24	20	67	99	26	34
35 to 39 years	96	85	95	89	48	41	27	35	108	127	39	53
40 to 44 years	49	31	53	35	26	22	17	16	117	131	45	52
45 to 49 years	22	16	35	33	19	16	13	10	114	90	49	40
50 to 54 years	14	20	14	13	15	11	8	9	85	75	29	31
55 to 59 years	8	10	12	15	10	11	10	6	37	40	25	16
60 to 64 years	8	7	4	10	3	5	3	7	24	25	15	11
65 to 69 years	1	5	7	6	2	8	4	3	18	21	10	10
70 to 74 years	3	2	3	3	1	3	1	3	16	15	4	8
75 to 79 years	1	2	1	5		3		1	5	15	1	6
80 to 84 years		1	1	4		1		1		13
85 years and over									1	3		3
18 years and over	373	400	421	467	191	215	128	136	662	738	271	297
Median age	26.6	27.3	26.8	28.5	27.7	29.9	29.0	31.1	32.2	32.9	32.3	35.4
Nonwhite population	11	10	12	7		1			1	3		1
Under 5 years	1	1
5 to 9 years				1
10 to 14 years	1	1	2	1
15 to 19 years		1	5			1
20 to 24 years	2	1										1
25 to 29 years	1									1
30 to 34 years	1	1
35 to 39 years	1	1
40 to 44 years			2	2
45 to 49 years	1	1		2
50 to 54 years		1							1	2
55 to 59 years		1	1
60 to 64 years	1
65 to 69 years			2
70 to 74 years	1			1
75 years and over	1	1
18 years and over	9	7	5	5		1			1	3		1
21 years and over	8	7	5	5					1	3
Median age
Total, 14 & over	393	414	452	496	201	228	145	152	737	824	305	328
Single	36	31	46	47	22	20	28	26	124	146	50	49
Married	354	362	404	411	175	178	112	113	597	598	251	252
Separated	1	4	1	1		2
Widowed	3	17		23	4	22	2	9	13	71	3	23
Divorced		8	2	15	2	8	3	4	3	9	1	4
Nonwhite, 14+	9	8	10	5		1			1	3		1
Single	3	3	5			1				1		1
Married	4	3	5	5					1	1
Separated	1
Widowed	2	2
Divorced										1

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0059 B	043 0001 A	043 0001 B	043 0001 C	043 0001 D	043 0002
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	39	333	2	383	106	533
Owner occupied		308		160	92	439
White		308		160	92	439
Nonwhite
Renter occupied	37	20		219	12	88
White	37	20		219	12	88
Nonwhite
Available vacant	2	1		1		5
For rent	2					1
For sale only		1		1		4
Other vacant		4		3	2	1
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	39	333		383	106	533
Sound	39	333		383	106	530
With all plumbing facilities	39	333		383	106	530
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water
Deteriorating						2
With all plumbing facilities						2
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water
Dilapidated						1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
Sound
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Deteriorating
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated
Number of Rooms
All housing units	39	333		383	106	533
1		1
2
3		3		27		1
4	39	7		168	1	47
5		59		77	40	216
6		87		71	27	175
7		126		31	28	78
8 or more		50		9	10	16
Median		6.6		4.5	5.9	5.5
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	37	328		379	104	527
1		17		79	1	19
2	17	98		142	30	161
3	11	61		84	35	127
4	7	93		49	19	119
5	1	40		14	13	69
6 or more	1	19		11	6	32
Median		3.3		2.3	3.1	3.2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
1
2
3
4
5
6 or more
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	37	328		379	104	527
0.50 or less	17	175		239	54	242
0.51 to 0.75	11	109		95	31	164
0.76 to 1.00	7	43		40	18	111
1.01 or more	2	1		5	1	10
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
0.50 or less
0.51 to 0.75
0.76 to 1.00
1.01 or more
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 002 0727 043 0059 A	043 003 043 0001 A	043 003 043 0001 B	043 003 043 0001 C	043 003 043 0001 D	043 003 043 0002
Total population	108	1088	54	954	345	1744
White	108	1087	54	951	345	1739
Negro		1		3		5
Other races
Total population	108	1088	54	954	345	1744
Pop. in households	108	1088	3	954	345	1744
Head of household	37	328	2	379	104	527
Head of prim. fam.	37	307	1	288	103	500
Primary individual		21	1	91	1	27
Wife of head	36	288	1	253	96	479
Child under 18	32	368		197	121	618
Other relative	1	94		106	24	104
Nonrelative		10		19		16
Pop. in group quarters			51
Inmate of institution			51
Other
Pop. per household	2.86	3.32		2.52	3.32	3.31
Nonwhite population		1		3		5
Pop. in households		1		3		5
Head of household
Head of prim. fam.
Primary individual
Wife of head
Child under 18
Other relative
Nonrelative		1		3		5
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	58	48	512	576	18	36	442	512	173	172	846	898
Under 1 year	2	1	9	7			15	7	2	2	21	11
1 year	3	3	9	9			13	5	6	3	23	31
2 years	5	1	11	4			10	14	6	5	18	17
3 years	2	1	8	9			8	6	4	5	29	16
4 years	1	1	6	14			6	3	5	7	30	14
5 years		1	10	17			5	4	6	5	19	12
6 years	1		12	10			8	5	5	4	23	20
7 years	1		11	12			5	4	2	2	20	20
8 years			7	13			4	6	3	3	19	18
9 years	3		17	16			3	6	4	1	16	26
10 years			16	9			5	4	3	5	16	17
11 years	1		15	8			7	6	3	1	19	14
12 years		1	18	15			6	2	5	3	20	27
13 years	2	1	9	14			6	6	5	5	16	21
14 years			11	10			2	6	2	4	8	15
15 years			4	11			4	6	2	2	6	12
16 years			6	4			2	2	2	1	11	7
17 years		1	3	10			2	3		1	8	7
18 years		4	2	6			2	6	2		6	5
19 years	2	4		3			1	4	1		3	5
20 years	1	3	2	2			4	6		1		3
21 years and over	34	26	326	373	18	36	324	401	105	112	515	580
Total population	58	48	512	576	18	36	442	512	173	172	846	898
Under 5 years	13	7	43	43			52	35	23	22	121	89
5 to 9 years	5	1	57	68			25	25	20	15	97	96
10 to 14 years	3	2	69	56			26	24	18	18	79	94
15 to 19 years	2	9	15	34			11	21	7	4	34	36
20 to 24 years	14	9	14	13	1		19	49	4	6	25	49
25 to 29 years	6	4	20	19			47	45	9	13	57	72
30 to 34 years	4	6	30	53			45	47	11	15	85	96
35 to 39 years	4	6	56	64			40	38	22	20	82	95
40 to 44 years	3	1	45	48			35	29	18	16	91	70
45 to 49 years	1		48	46			29	41	13	14	46	46
50 to 54 years	1	3	43	33			31	40	7	7	47	48
55 to 59 years	1		23	29		1	30	51	7	7	35	37
60 to 64 years	1		16	25	1		18	18	6	7	14	15
65 to 69 years			20	23	1	2	18	15	2	6	13	17
70 to 74 years			8	8	1	6	7	21	4		12	21
75 to 79 years			5	10	4	13	5	5	1		5	13
80 to 84 years				4	4	10	3	3		1	3	4
85 years and over					6	4	1	5	1	1
18 years and over	37	37	330	384	18	36	331	417	108	113	524	593
Median age	22.1		35.7	35.2			34.6	36.3	32.5	32.7	30.6	30.7
Nonwhite population				1				3				5
Under 5 years
5 to 9 years
10 to 14 years
15 to 19 years												1
20 to 24 years				1
25 to 29 years								1				1
30 to 34 years								1
35 to 39 years								1				1
40 to 44 years												1
45 to 49 years
50 to 54 years
55 to 59 years												1
60 to 64 years
65 to 69 years
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over				1				3				4
21 years and over				1				3				4
Median age
Total, 14 & over	37	38	354	419	18	36	341	434	114	121	557	634
Single	1	1	48	66	1	3	54	100	13	14	57	87
Married	36	36	294	298	3	4	274	265	98	97	489	491
Separated			1		2	2	1	5	1		2	4
Widowed			8	44	13	28	10	55	3	8	8	46
Divorced		1	4	11	1	1	3	14		2	3	10
Nonwhite, 14+				1				3				5
Single				1				2				2
Married								1				1
Separated
Widowed
Divorced												2

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0003	043 0004	043 0005	043 0006	043 0007N	043 0007P
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	497	454	419	405	328	85
Owner occupied	419	182	56	284	271	80
White	419	182	56	283	264	80
Nonwhite				1	7
Renter occupied	72	265	347	110	50	3
White	72	263	347	109	48	3
Nonwhite		2		1	2
Available vacant	5	6	5	5	6	1
For rent	3	4	5		4
For sale only	2	2		5	2	1
Other vacant	1	1	11	6	1	1
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	497	454	419	405	328	85
Sound	494	453	419	399	317	85
With all plumbing facilities	492	451	419	399	316	85
Lacking only hot water		1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	2	1			1
Deteriorating	3			6	5
With all plumbing facilities	3			2	5
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water				4
Dilapidated		1			6
Housing units occupied by nonwhites		2		2	9
Sound		2		1	3
With all plumbing facilities		2		1	2
Lacking some or all facilities					1
Deteriorating				1
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities				1
Dilapidated					6
Number of Rooms
All housing units	497	454	419	405	328	85
1				1
2	1				1
3	3	1	32	6	2
4	78	24	306	39	3
5	173	287	73	298	259	5
6	164	65	4	24	15	73
7	61	51	4	34	45	7
8 or more	17	26		3	3
Median	5.5	5.2	4.1	5.0	5.1	6.0
Housing units occupied by nonwhites		2		2	9
1
2					1
3					1
4					3
5		2		1	3
6				1	1
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	491	447	403	394	321	83
1	26	18	30	8	5	1
2	164	103	176	79	46	14
3	113	113	107	105	89	25
4	119	123	66	117	100	22
5	50	59	18	60	49	16
6 or more	19	31	6	25	32	5
Median	3.0	3.4	2.5	3.5	3.7	3.6
Housing units occupied by nonwhites		2		2	9
1
2					4
3				1	3
4				1
5		1			1
6 or more		1			1
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	491	447	403	394	321	83
0.50 or less	250	152	189	98	63	39
0.51 to 0.75	138	135	123	115	103	23
0.76 to 1.00	85	141	82	160	130	20
1.01 or more	18	19	9	21	25	1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites		2		2	9
0.50 or less				1	3
0.51 to 0.75					3
0.76 to 1.00		1		1
1.01 or more		1			3
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 003 043 0003		043 003 043 0004		043 003 043 0005		043 003 043 0006		043 003 043 0007N		043 003 043 0007P
Total population	1550		1545		1098		1405		1212		303
White	1550		1532		1098		1397		1181		302
Negro			2				8		31		1
Other races			11
Total population	1550		1545		1098		1405		1212		303
Pop. in households	1545		1545		1098		1405		1212		303
Head of household	491		447		403		394		321		83
Head of prim. fam.	463		424		356		378		311		82
Primary individual	28		23		47		16		10		1
Wife of head	428		404		327		351		293		79
Child under 18	525		569		309		565		528		117
Other relative	98		107		33		76		57		21
Nonrelative	7		18		26		19		13		3
Pop. in group quarters	5
Inmate of institution
Other	5
Pop. per household	3.15		3.46		2.72		3.57		3.78		3.65
Nonwhite population			13				8		31		1
Pop. in households			13				8		31		1
Head of household			2				2		9
Head of prim. fam.			2				2		9
Primary individual
Wife of head			2				1		5
Child under 18			7				1		3
Other relative							3		13
Nonrelative			2				1		1		1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	747	803	762	783	536	562	699	706	602	610	151	152
Under 1 year	19	17	19	33	36	29	26	25	19	22	4	7
1 year	22	17	28	31	16	11	30	16	17	15	6	5
2 years	16	15	23	22	22	18	23	15	32	19	7	3
3 years	23	17	19	18	15	5	28	17	22	18	6	4
4 years	18	14	18	18	10	6	26	18	24	33	2	4
5 years	23	13	21	27	6	9	29	25	24	25	7	2
6 years	18	20	18	19	11	5	17	19	25	22	5	5
7 years	15	11	17	15	4	14	19	23	23	18	7	3
8 years	12	12	16	17	7	4	20	12	12	13	2	6
9 years	15	11	11	14	5	5	18	19	17	17	3	4
10 years	17	17	15	12	12	8	9	13	10	15	2	4
11 years	14	8	19	11	5	7	16	9	8	13	3	4
12 years	12	18	20	10	7	3	10	18	5	6	2	1
13 years	12	17	12	10	6	3	12	17	8	7	2	3
14 years	12	13	13	3	3	7	5	6	8	5	1	3
15 years	15	11	6	10	5	2	9	7	8	2	2	2
16 years	6	11	7	9	2	3	5	6	6	5	1
17 years	8	9	13	6	2	6	4	7	4	11
18 years	7	7	8	8	3	8	4	4	3	2		3
19 years		3	7	9	5	13	6	4	1	3
20 years	5	6	3	9	13	21	3	14	1	4	1	1
21 years and over	458	536	449	472	341	375	380	412	325	335	88	88
Total population	747	803	762	783	536	562	699	706	602	610	151	152
Under 5 years	98	80	107	122	99	69	133	91	114	107	25	23
5 to 9 years	83	67	83	92	33	37	103	98	101	95	24	20
10 to 14 years	67	73	79	46	33	28	52	63	39	46	10	15
15 to 19 years	36	41	41	42	17	32	28	28	22	23	3	5
20 to 24 years	25	42	49	71	114	156	37	73	22	34	8	6
25 to 29 years	44	45	79	69	112	95	80	92	52	71	10	9
30 to 34 years	63	69	63	64	44	44	74	74	87	91	20	27
35 to 39 years	51	66	57	60	31	20	80	75	73	60	16	19
40 to 44 years	80	84	42	55	15	23	36	29	44	29	15	8
45 to 49 years	50	63	41	39	11	19	26	25	22	16	11	6
50 to 54 years	45	58	50	39	9	12	18	15	10	14	1	6
55 to 59 years	39	42	24	28	7	11	11	18	7	4		3
60 to 64 years	32	30	12	20	4	6	8	8	3	5	2	2
65 to 69 years	16	17	22	17	3	3	10	7	1	4	5
70 to 74 years	10	14	5	6	2	3	2	5	2	8	1	1
75 to 79 years	5	8	2	7		1	1	2	2	3		1
80 to 84 years		7	4	3	1	1		2	1
85 years and over	3	1	2	3	1	2		1				1
18 years and over	470	552	467	498	362	417	393	434	330	344	89	92
Median age	31.6	33.9	26.4	26.3	23.6	23.7	24.5	25.0	25.3	25.0	27.8	28.9
Nonwhite population			5	8			3	5	20	11		1
Under 5 years			2	1						2
5 to 9 years				3				1	2
10 to 14 years			1
15 to 19 years										1
20 to 24 years				1			1	1	3	2
25 to 29 years			1	2
30 to 34 years				1					1	1		1
35 to 39 years									4
40 to 44 years			1						4	1
45 to 49 years								1	2	1
50 to 54 years							2		1	1
55 to 59 years
60 to 64 years								2	1	1
65 to 69 years
70 to 74 years									1	1
75 years and over									1
18 years and over			2	4			3	4	18	8		1
21 years and over			2	4			3	4	17	8		1
Median age
Total, 14 & over	511	598	506	526	374	435	416	460	356	367	93	97
Single	71	93	80	54	39	49	49	51	48	33	10	8
Married	430	441	413	415	331	345	356	369	298	301	79	82
Separated		10	4	7	1	8		6	2	4		2
Widowed	6	50	10	43	3	18	5	22	6	23	3	5
Divorced	4	12	3	14	1	23	6	18	4	10	1	2
Nonwhite, 14+			2	4			3	4	18	9		1
Single				1			1	1	6	2
Married			2	2			2	2	7	6
Separated
Widowed				1				1	3	1
Divorced									2			1

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0008N	043 0008P	043 0008R	043 0009 A	043 0009 B	043 0010N
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	50	147	130	624	159	193
Owner occupied	44	125	109	562	151	154
White	29	125	108	562	151	154
Nonwhite	15		1
Renter occupied	4	1	7	25	3	18
White	2	1	7	25	3	18
Nonwhite	2
Available vacant	1	19	10	31	2	11
For rent	1		3	2
For sale only		19	7	29	2	11
Other vacant	1	2	4	6	3	10
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	50	147	130	624	159	193
Sound	41	147	124	619	158	182
With all plumbing facilities	35	147	122	618	158	171
Lacking only hot water	1					4
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	5		2	1		7
Deteriorating	8		2	5	1	10
With all plumbing facilities	1		1	3	1	3
Lacking only hot water						2
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	7		1	2		5
Dilapidated	1		4			1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	17		1
Sound	10		1
With all plumbing facilities	5		1
Lacking some or all facilities	5
Deteriorating	6
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities	6
Dilapidated	1
Number of Rooms
All housing units	50	147	130	624	159	193
1	1
2	2		2			3
3	2		1	3	1	3
4	4	2	5	13	4	16
5	12	21	42	243	20	64
6	11	55	24	132	53	29
7	15	55	28	210	54	57
8 or more	3	14	28	23	27	21
Median	5.9	6.4	6.1	5.9	6.5	5.9
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	17		1
1	1
2	1
3	2
4	4
5	2
6	5
7	2		1
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	48	126	116	587	154	172
1	4	1		7	1	6
2	12	25	23	117	19	34
3	7	40	22	163	31	35
4	13	36	36	190	51	47
5	6	16	19	80	32	27
6 or more	6	8	16	30	20	23
Median		3.4	3.9	3.5	4.0	3.7
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	17		1
1	3
2	3
3	3
4	1		1
5	3
6 or more	4
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	48	126	116	587	154	172
0.50 or less	22	67	48	210	54	64
0.51 to 0.75	12	41	37	238	64	53
0.76 to 1.00	10	15	23	125	29	37
1.01 or more	4	3	8	14	7	18
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	17		1
0.50 or less	6
0.51 to 0.75	3		1
0.76 to 1.00	4
1.01 or more	4
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 003 043 0008N	043 003 043 0008P	043 003 043 0008R	043 003 043 0009 A	043 003 043 0009 B	043 003 043 0010N
Total population	175	444	451	2085	630	652
White	106	443	445	2085	629	652
Negro	69	1	6		1
Other races
Total population	175	444	451	2085	630	652
Pop. in households	175	444	451	2085	630	652
Head of household	48	126	116	587	154	172
Head of prim. fam.	44	125	116	577	153	165
Primary individual	4	1		10	1	7
Wife of head	40	122	110	558	148	158
Child under 18	50	166	182	849	286	241
Other relative	34	29	33	83	41	72
Nonrelative	1	1	10	8	1	9
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.65	3.52	3.89	3.55	4.09	3.79
Nonwhite population	69	1	6		1
Pop. in households	69	1	6		1
Head of household	17		1
Head of prim. fam.	14		1
Primary individual	3
Wife of head	12
Child under 18	17		1
Other relative	23		2
Nonrelative		1	2		1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	4.06

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	87	88	214	230	220	231	1054	1031	315	315	321	331
Under 1 year	1	1	4	4	4	3	43	26	7	9	9	4
1 year	1	4	9	2	2	8	55	42	7	6	7	14
2 years	3		7	6	3	7	50	42	8	5	9	10
3 years	1	2	5	10	5	9	45	45	9	8	10	6
4 years		2	4	8	6	7	40	24	14	11	15	8
5 years	1	3	6	8	6	3	32	33	8	9	11	7
6 years		3	4	8	7	7	37	36	13	9	9	9
7 years	2	2	3	5	9	5	20	18	17	9	5	11
8 years	3	1	7	5	5	6	18	25	9	11	11	10
9 years	2	1	3	9	13	3	21	13	12	7	8	9
10 years	1	1	4	4	6	4	22	14	8	11	10	7
11 years	4	2	4	2	4	9	20	18	9	11	9	10
12 years	1	3	10	5	6	7	19	15	11	6	4	8
13 years	2	2	2	2	3	4	13	18	4	11	5	6
14 years	1	2	4	2	5	3	4	9	6	3	4	4
15 years	1	1	3	4	3	8	4	12	3	3	3	1
16 years	1	4		1	2	1	4	8	4	4	4	1
17 years	4	1	3	4	2	1	9	5	3	8	3	3
18 years	1		2	1	3		4	1	4	4	2	7
19 years	2			3	1	2	5	5	5	1	2	1
20 years	1		1	2	1	1	3	3	2	2	1	2
21 years and over	54	53	129	135	124	133	586	619	152	167	180	193
Total population	87	88	214	230	220	231	1054	1031	315	315	321	331
Under 5 years	6	0	29	30	20	34	233	179	45	39	50	42
5 to 9 years	8	10	23	35	40	24	128	125	59	45	44	46
10 to 14 years	9	10	24	15	24	27	78	74	38	42	32	35
15 to 19 years	9	6	8	13	11	12	26	31	19	20	14	13
20 to 24 years	2	2	4	4	3	7	23	58	4	4	10	15
25 to 29 years	5	3	7	11	8	15	126	171	8	17	17	21
30 to 34 years	8	11	18	26	27	30	171	143	27	36	35	34
35 to 39 years	10	7	28	35	28	23	108	89	39	43	29	36
40 to 44 years	9	6	30	20	16	10	66	53	38	26	22	19
45 to 49 years	7	5	17	14	10	19	37	34	18	14	21	17
50 to 54 years	3	8	13	12	10	10	24	20	6	6	13	14
55 to 59 years	3	4	10	4	8	7	12	18	9	9	9	9
60 to 64 years	3	1	1	3	3	3	8	10	2	3	9	16
65 to 69 years	3	3		3	5	3	4	12	2	2	5	5
70 to 74 years	2	2	2		2		5	7	1	5	6	2
75 to 79 years				2	3	5	3	4		1	3	2
80 to 84 years				3	2	2	2	2		2	1	4
85 years and over		1						1		1	1	1
18 years and over	58	53	132	141	129	136	598	628	163	174	185	203
Median age	32.8	31.8	33.3	31.3	30.7	28.8	26.5	26.4	19.1	27.2	28.1	28.5
Nonwhite population	39	30		1	2	4				1
Under 5 years	3	4
5 to 9 years	4	2
10 to 14 years	5	4
15 to 19 years	5	3		1	1
20 to 24 years	2	1
25 to 29 years	3	2
30 to 34 years	1	2				1
35 to 39 years	6	3
40 to 44 years	2	3								1
45 to 49 years	3					1
50 to 54 years		3				1
55 to 59 years	1	1
60 to 64 years	1
65 to 69 years	3	2				1
70 to 74 years
75 years and over					1
18 years and over	25	17		1	1	4				1
21 years and over	21	17			1	4				1
Median age
Total, 14 & over	65	61	142	152	141	149	619	662	179	192	199	212
Single	17	0	16	19	19	20	41	47	26	25	29	23
Married	44	43	123	123	116	118	570	574	150	153	166	166
Separated	1	1			2	3	2	1		3		1
Widowed	2	8	2	9	4	9	3	36		11	3	17
Divorced	2	1	1	1	2	2	5	5	3	3	1	6
Nonwhite, 14+	27	22		1	2	4				1
Single	10	8		1	1	1
Married	14	14				2				1
Separated		1				2				1
Widowed	1	2			1	1
Divorced	2

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0029R	043 0029S	043 0029T	043 0030N	043 0030P	043 0030R
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	69	59	113	95	112	208
Owner occupied	52	49	96	68	83	164
White	48	48	94	64	83	163
Nonwhite	4	1	2	4		1
Renter occupied	13	8	12	21	25	32
White	12	8	12	21	23	31
Nonwhite	1				2	1
Available vacant	2	1	3	2		4
For rent			1	2
For sale only	2	1	2			4
Other vacant	2	1	2	4	4	8
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	69	59	113	95	112	208
Sound	68	59	112	72	81	137
With all plumbing facilities	62	58	109	67	81	131
Lacking only hot water	2
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	4	1	3	5		6
Deteriorating			1	15	17	56
With all plumbing facilities				9	14	45
Lacking only hot water					3	3
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water			1	6		8
Dilapidated	1			8	14	15
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	5	1	2	4	2	2
Sound	5	1	2	2		1
With all plumbing facilities	3	1		2
Lacking some or all facilities	2		2			1
Deteriorating				1		1
With all plumbing facilities				1
Lacking some or all facilities						1
Dilapidated				1	2
Number of Rooms
All housing units	69	59	113	95	112	208
1
2	2			2	1	4
3			1	9	1	4
4	16		8	20	10	73
5	26	7	97	28	32	48
6	20	51	4	19	46	37
7	1	1	2	10	17	21
8 or more	4		1	7	5	21
Median	5.1	5.9	5.0	5.1	5.8	5.0
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	5	1	2	4	2	2
1
2					1
3
4	2					2
5	1		1	4
6	2	1			1
7			1
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	65	57	108	89	108	196
1	3	1	1	6	4	7
2	22	8	22	30	30	36
3	14	11	29	14	18	34
4	12	15	28	22	27	56
5	9	12	17	13	19	37
6 or more	5	10	11	4	10	26
Median	3.0	4.1	3.6	3.1	3.6	3.9
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	5	1	2	4	2	2
1			1		1
2	3	1		1		1
3	1		1		1
4				1
5				1
6 or more	1			1		1
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	65	57	108	89	108	196
0.50 or less	32	19	25	42	44	52
0.51 to 0.75	15	14	29	20	27	62
0.76 to 1.00	12	22	41	17	35	55
1.01 or more	6	2	13	10	2	27
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	5	1	2	4	2	2
0.50 or less	4	1	2	1	2	1
0.51 to 0.75
0.76 to 1.00				2
1.01 or more	1			1		1
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0029R	043 001 043 0029S	043 001 043 0029T	043 001 043 0030N	043 001 043 0030P	043 001 043 0030R
Total population	219	236	398	287	385	770
White	202	234	394	269	381	757
Negro	17		4	18	4	13
Other races		2
Total population	219	236	398	287	385	770
Pop. in households	219	236	398	287	385	770
Head of household	65	57	108	89	108	196
Head of prim. fam.	61	55	107	81	103	187
Primary individual	4	2	1	8	5	9
Wife of head	55	53	100	72	96	176
Child under 18	59	105	168	92	128	315
Other relative	36	19	17	23	49	70
Nonrelative	4	2	5	11	4	13
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.37	4.14	3.69	3.22	3.56	3.93
Nonwhite population	17	2	4	18	4	13
Pop. in households	17	2	4	18	4	13
Head of household	5	1	2	4	2	2
Head of prim. fam.	5	1	1	4	1	2
Primary individual			1		1
Wife of head	4	1		3	1	2
Child under 18				5		6
Other relative	8		2	4	1	2
Nonrelative				2		1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	113	106	119	117	195	203	142	145	193	192	380	390
Under 1 year	1	1	1	4	9	9	2	3	3	4	4	8
1 year	3		2	4	7	6	4	4		2	10	4
2 years	5	1	4	5	10	7	4	4	5	3	6	15
3 years	2	8		4	7	9	4	4	4	6	9	3
4 years	5	4	3	3	7	6	1	3	5	3	10	9
5 years	2	2	6	4	6	5	2	3	2	4	16	10
6 years	6	1	5	6	8	5	3	1	7	3	7	10
7 years	1	2	7	4	5	8	3	3	4	4	7	6
8 years	3		7	2	3	4	3	3	6	6	6	12
9 years	1	1	1	2	5	5	2	4	4	1	10	9
10 years	2	1	5	5	1	5	1	4	6	3	12	9
11 years	2	2		7	5	4	3	4	4	4	14	12
12 years	1	2	3		4	4	1	2	10	2	12	13
13 years	2	1	2	2	1	1	3	1	5	5	13	11
14 years	2		1	2	1	1	2	1	1	1	8	8
15 years	2	1	1		2	2	3	1	1	3	9	6
16 years	1	1	1	2	1	2	2	2	5	1	8	8
17 years		1	2	1	2	3	4	3	4	1	9	10
18 years	1	4	1		1		1		3	3	3	8
19 years	1	1		1	2	1		1	2		1	11
20 years	1	1		1		1	3	1	2	3	1	2
21 years and over	69	78	67	58	108	115	91	93	110	130	205	206
Total population	113	106	119	117	195	203	142	145	193	192	380	390
Under 5 years	16	11	10	20	40	37	15	18	17	18	39	39
5 to 9 years	13	6	26	18	27	27	13	14	23	18	46	47
10 to 14 years	9	6	11	16	12	15	10	12	26	15	59	53
15 to 19 years	5	8	5	4	8	8	10	7	15	8	30	43
20 to 24 years	6	6	5	8		8	7	6	4	8	15	16
25 to 29 years	9	16	9	11	27	36	12	13	6	15	25	24
30 to 34 years	8	8	18	16	26	22	5	12	16	18	24	29
35 to 39 years	15	10	11	9	23	15	11	7	20	16	38	40
40 to 44 years	6	4	8	4	10	7	11	11	15	16	27	30
45 to 49 years	4	5	4	5	7	8	15	3	10	11	25	23
50 to 54 years	3	5	6	2	7	9	4	12	11	14	20	14
55 to 59 years	6	4	4	3	4		9	14	11	12	15	7
60 to 64 years	6	6				7	11	6	7	5	5	5
65 to 69 years	3	4			3	1	4	6	6	7	5	7
70 to 74 years	3	4		1		1	2	3		5	3	5
75 to 79 years	1	1	1		1	1	1	1	4	3	3	3
80 to 84 years		1				1	1		2	3		4
85 years and over		1	1				1				1	1
18 years and over	72	80	68	60	111	117	95	95	117	136	210	227
Median age	29.2	30.0	26.4	20.3	26.9	25.9	34.0	31.0	31.7	33.9	25.2	24.1
Nonwhite population	7	10	1	1		4	7	11	3	1	5	8
Under 5 years		1
5 to 9 years	1	1					1	2				2
10 to 14 years								2			2	1
15 to 19 years							1				1	3
20 to 24 years		1							1
25 to 29 years		1					1	1
30 to 34 years	1
35 to 39 years	1	1						2			1
40 to 44 years		1					1					1
45 to 49 years	1						2			1	1	1
50 to 54 years				1		2	1	2
55 to 59 years			1					2	2
60 to 64 years	1					1
65 to 69 years	2	2
70 to 74 years		2
75 years and over						1
18 years and over	6	8	1	1		4	5	7	3	1	3	4
21 years and over	6	8	1	1		4	5	7	3	1	2	2
Median age
Total, 14 & over	77	83	73	65	117	125	106	102	128	142	244	259
Single	16	10	12	7	12	12	20	11	26	21	53	51
Married	58	62	54	55	100	104	80	78	100	99	184	190
Separated		1		1		2	3	2	2	1		5
Widowed	1	8	4	3	2	7	4	12	1	16	5	17
Divorced	2	3	3		3	2	2	1	1	6	2	1
Nonwhite, 14+	6	8	1	1		4	6	8	3	1	3	5
Single	1					1	1	1	1		1	3
Married	5	5	1	1			5	6	2	1	1	2
Separated								1	1
Widowed		1				3		1			1
Divorced		2

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0031N	043 0031P	043 0031R	043 0031S	043 0031T	043 0032N
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	112	68	72	62	85	72
Owner occupied	103	64	54	47	57	59
White	103	64	35	47	5	57
Nonwhite			19		52	2
Renter occupied	8	4	13	12	22	11
White	8	4	8	12	1	10
Nonwhite			5		21	1
Available vacant				1	2
For rent				1	1
For sale only					1
Other vacant	1		5	2	4	2
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	112	68	72	62	85	72
Sound	102	67	61	57	45	70
With all plumbing facilities	102	67	58	56	36	69
Lacking only hot water				1		1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water			3		9
Deteriorating	5	1	7	1	14
With all plumbing facilities	3	1	3
Lacking only hot water			1	1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	2		3		14
Dilapidated	5		4	4	26	2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			24		73	3
Sound			17		35	3
With all plumbing facilities			14		27	3
Lacking some or all facilities			3		8
Deteriorating			4		12
With all plumbing facilities			1
Lacking some or all facilities			3		12
Dilapidated			3		26
Number of Rooms
All housing units	112	68	72	62	85	72
1			2		1
2			1		3	1
3	1	1	1	5	8	1
4	5	8	12	13	28	3
5	42	37	20	29	26	43
6	29	10	17	7	11	19
7	22	10	11	6	6	4
8 or more	13	2	8	2	2	1
Median	5.8	5.2	5.5	4.9	4.6	5.2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			24		73	3
1			2		1
2			1		2	1
3					8
4			7		25
5			6		21	2
6			3		9
7			2		5
8 or more			3		2
Median					4.5
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	111	68	67	59	79	70
1	1	3	7	2	9	6
2	28	21	17	15	19	11
3	30	14	17	11	19	22
4	31	18	8	17	12	14
5	13	9	11	9	4	10
6 or more	8	3	7	5	16	7
Median	3.4	3.2	3.1	3.6	3.1	3.3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			24		73	3
1			5		8
2			4		17	1
3			3		18	1
4			3		10
5			4		4
6 or more			5		16	1
Median					3.1
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	111	68	67	59	79	70
0.50 or less	56	30	33	15	29	22
0.51 to 0.75	27	20	14	23	18	20
0.76 to 1.00	24	15	14	18	16	23
1.01 or more	4	3	6	3	16	5
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			24		73	3
0.50 or less			8		26
0.51 to 0.75			5		16	1
0.76 to 1.00			7		15	1
1.01 or more			4		16	1
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0031N		043 001 043 0031P		043 001 043 0031R		043 001 043 0031S		043 001 043 0031T		043 001 043 0032N
Total population	384		223		228		209		288		261
White	384		223		137		209		16		250
Negro					91				272		11
Other races
Total population	384		223		228		209		288		261
Pop. in households	384		223		228		209		288		242
Head of household	111		68		67		59		79		70
Head of prim. fam.	109		65		60		57		70		64
Primary individual	2		3		7		2		9		6
Wife of head	103		63		51		48		58		60
Child under 18	146		72		69		75		96		95
Other relative	21		19		38		27		52		14
Nonrelative	3		1		3				3		3
Pop. in group quarters											19
Inmate of institution											18
Other											1
Pop. per household	3.46		3.28		3.40		3.54		3.65		3.46
Nonwhite population					91				272		11
Pop. in households					91				272		11
Head of household					24				73		3
Head of prim. fam.					19				65		3
Primary individual					5				8
Wife of head					14				53		2
Child under 18					27				92		4
Other relative					23				51		1
Nonrelative					3				3		1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household					3.79				3.73
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	207	177	110	113	108	120	106	103	148	140	124	137
Under 1 year	1	5	5	1		2	3	3	3	2	7	4
1 year	8	3	1			1	2		1	4	6	6
2 years	8	9	3	6	4	4	2	2	5	3	6	4
3 years	4	1	1	2	1	3	4	3	1		3	4
4 years	5	1	2	2			2	4	2	2	4	4
5 years	7	5	4	3	1		1	1	4	2	4
6 years	5	3	2	1	4	2	1	2	5	3	4	3
7 years	7	2	2	4	3	2	2	5	5	1	4	2
8 years	6	3		2	3	2	2	1	4	2	1	4
9 years	6	2	2	2	4	1	5	1	1	6	1	1
10 years	3	2	4	1	2	1	4	2	2	4	7	1
11 years	9	7	2	2	3	4	3	2	6	3		1
12 years	7	3	2	2	2	5	7	2	4	2	1	3
13 years	4	5		3	4	6	3	1	3	5	3	1
14 years	1	1	3	1		3		2	5	2	1	2
15 years	5	3	1	2	1		1		3	5	3	3
16 years	2	2	3	2	2	1	3	1	5	2		2
17 years	2	1	3		3	6	2		2	2	2	4
18 years	3	1	3		2	1	2		1	2		1
19 years		1		1	1	1		1			3
20 years				1			2			2		7
21 years and over	114	117	67	75	68	75	55	70	86	86	64	80
Total population	207	177	110	113	108	120	106	103	148	140	124	137
Under 5 years	26	19	12	11	5	10	13	12	12	11	26	22
5 to 9 years	31	15	10	12	15	7	11	10	19	14	14	10
10 to 14 years	24	18	11	9	11	19	17	9	20	16	12	8
15 to 19 years	12	8	10	5	9	9	8	2	11	11	8	10
20 to 24 years	4	5	2	4	2	3	3	8	6	8	2	14
25 to 29 years	16	17	8	9	6	1	8	3	5	6	11	17
30 to 34 years	23	27	6	8	9	7	3	8	9	13	15	12
35 to 39 years	24	22	8	10	9	15	8	14	12	6	9	12
40 to 44 years	12	10	10	5	10	10	9	8	12	10	5	5
45 to 49 years	11	15	6	12	5	12	4	6	9	16	8	9
50 to 54 years	11	7	5	8	10	9	9	7	11	7	5	5
55 to 59 years	4	3	11	6	9	5	4	3	5	6	1	4
60 to 64 years	5	4	3	6	2	8	4	4	3	4	3	3
65 to 69 years	2	3	4	2	3			6	7	6	3	2
70 to 74 years		3	3	2	2	4	4	3	4	2	2	1
75 to 79 years	1			3	1	1	1			2		1
80 to 84 years	1		1	1					2	2		2
85 years and over		1							1
18 years and over	117	119	70	77	71	77	59	71	87	90	67	88
Median age	27.0	31.2	31.7	34.1	33.3	36.3	25.6	34.7	30.6	31.5	25.0	26.3
Nonwhite population					43	48			140	132	5	6
Under 5 years						6			12	10
5 to 9 years					7	4			18	13	2
10 to 14 years					6	9			20	15	1	2
15 to 19 years					5	3			11	11
20 to 24 years						3			5	8
25 to 29 years					5	1			5	5		1
30 to 34 years					3	3			8	12
35 to 39 years					5	6			11	6
40 to 44 years					2	4			10	9		1
45 to 49 years					2	4			9	15	1	1
50 to 54 years					4	1			11	7
55 to 59 years					1				4	5
60 to 64 years						3			3	4
65 to 69 years					2				6	6	1	1
70 to 74 years					1				4	2
75 years and over						1			3	4
18 years and over					26	27			80	85	2	4
21 years and over					25	26			79	81	2	4
Median age									29.0	31.7
Total, 14 & over	127	126	80	82	77	87	65	74	102	101	73	99
Single	17	12	15	9	14	15	13	14	28	20	9	26
Married	106	107	63	64	60	57	50	50	64	65	62	65
Separated	1	2			2	1			2	4		2
Widowed	1	7	2	6	2	12	2	9	5	9	2	7
Divorced	3			3	1	3		1	5	7		1
Nonwhite, 14+					30	31			95	96	2	4
Single					7	8			26	20		1
Married					21	19			59	60	2	3
Separated					2	1			2	4		1
Widowed					2	4			5	9
Divorced									5	7

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0032P	043 0032R	043 0032S	043 0032T	043 0033N	043 0033P
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	88	67	77	28	168	86
Owner occupied	88	59	70	19	151	82
White	88	59	70	19	151	82
Nonwhite
Renter occupied		6	3	8	16	4
White		6	3	8	16	4
Nonwhite
Available vacant			3
For rent
For sale only			3
Other vacant		2	1	1	1
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	88	67	77	28	168	86
Sound	88	54	77	22	167	86
With all plumbing facilities	88	54	76	22	165	85
Lacking only hot water			1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water					2	1
Deteriorating		12		6	1
With all plumbing facilities		11		5
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water		1		1	1
Dilapidated		1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
Sound
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Deteriorating
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated
Number of Rooms
All housing units	88	67	77	28	168	86
1
2		1	1
3		1		1	4	2
4	1	12	1	4	3	2
5	72	29	20	7	139	79
6	11	9	32	8	13	2
7	2	9	10	4	5
8 or more	2	6	13	4	4	1
Median	5.1	5.2	6.0		5.1	5.0
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	88	65	73	27	167	86
1	3	4	5	3	6
2	18	19	13	11	42	14
3	26	16	15	4	38	28
4	19	12	27	5	49	23
5	15	8	8	3	22	15
6 or more	7	6	5	1	10	6
Median	3.4	3.1	3.6		3.4	3.5
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
1
2
3
4
5
6 or more
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	88	65	73	27	167	86
0.50 or less	25	28	33	16	51	14
0.51 to 0.75	27	19	27	8	41	28
0.76 to 1.00	31	16	13	1	67	38
1.01 or more	5	2		2	8	6
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
0.50 or less
0.51 to 0.75
0.76 to 1.00
1.01 or more
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0032P	043 001 043 0032R	043 001 043 0032S	043 001 043 0032T	043 001 043 0033N	043 001 043 0033P
Total population	313	216	255	80	570	319
White	313	216	255	80	570	319
Negro
Other races
Total population	313	216	255	80	570	319
Pop. in households	313	216	255	80	570	319
Head of household	88	65	73	27	167	86
Head of prim. fam.	85	59	67	24	161	85
Primary individual	3	6	6	3	6	1
Wife of head	82	58	65	23	157	80
Child under 18	124	66	92	23	225	132
Other relative	14	24	23	6	17	19
Nonrelative	5	3	2	1	4	2
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.56	3.32	3.49	2.96	3.41	3.71
Nonwhite population
Pop. in households
Head of household
Head of prim. fam.
Primary individual
Wife of head
Child under 18
Other relative
Nonrelative
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	163	150	111	105	131	124	40	40	314	256	161	158
Under 1 year	6	7			3	2		1	4	9	8	6
1 year	8	7	3		6	3	1		6	6	7	2
2 years	9	3	4	2	3	2	1	1	8	5	6	4
3 years	3	7	1		1	2	3	1	14	8	6	7
4 years	5	3		1	4	1			16	10	7	6
5 years	6	7		4	2	4	1		13	6	5	5
6 years	4	3	2	3	5	3		1	13	5	4	5
7 years	5	4	2	2	6	2	1	2	9	3	6	7
8 years	5	1	7	1		4			10	7	6	5
9 years	6	1	5		8	2		2	7	6	4	4
10 years	3	2	4	1	4	3		1	5	4	2	4
11 years	4	3	4	2		5	1		7	4	3	2
12 years	2	2		1	3	3			9	5		2
13 years	2	1	5	1		1	2	1	7	2	3
14 years	1		2	2	2	1			4	1
15 years			3	3	2	1		1	2	2	1	3
16 years	2	2		2	2	2	1		6		1	1
17 years	2	1	1	3		2	1	1	3		2	1
18 years	1		5	1	2	2	1				1
19 years		1			1	1	1			1	2
20 years		1							1	3
21 years and over	89	94	63	76	77	78	26	28	170	169	87	94
Total population	163	150	111	105	131	124	40	40	314	256	161	158
Under 5 years	31	27	8	3	17	10	5	3	48	38	34	25
5 to 9 years	26	16	16	10	21	15	2	5	52	27	25	26
10 to 14 years	12	8	15	7	9	13	3	2	32	16	8	8
15 to 19 years	5	4	9	9	7	8	4	2	11	3	7	5
20 to 24 years	4	10		2	1	1	2	2	8	13		4
25 to 29 years	16	25	3	6	6	8		2	20	30	12	25
30 to 34 years	30	22	3	6	17	20	2	3	46	44	27	27
35 to 39 years	11	10	8	13	19	16	6	4	47	38	25	15
40 to 44 years	8	7	13	14	12	12			19	18	9	3
45 to 49 years	7	6	11	10	8	6	3	6	14	9	2	5
50 to 54 years	3	6	7	7	4	1	5	4	5	5	6	6
55 to 59 years	5	2	7	6	2	2	2	1	2	2	1	4
60 to 64 years	3	1	6	3	2	1	3	3	4	4		1
65 to 69 years		4	2	5	2	6	2	2	3	4	2	2
70 to 74 years	2	2	2	3	1	3	1	1	1	3	1
75 to 79 years					2	2			2	1	2	1
80 to 84 years			1	1						1
85 years and over					1							1
18 years and over	90	96	68	77	80	81	28	28	171	173	90	94
Median age	26.1	27.0	35.9	38.7	31.3	31.8			26.5	30.1	27.7	27.2
Nonwhite population
Under 5 years
5 to 9 years
10 to 14 years
15 to 19 years
20 to 24 years
25 to 29 years
30 to 34 years
35 to 39 years
40 to 44 years
45 to 49 years
50 to 54 years
55 to 59 years
60 to 64 years
65 to 69 years
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over
21 years and over
Median age
Total, 14 & over	95	99	74	87	86	87	30	30	186	176	94	99
Single	8	6	12	15	15	12	6	2	22	7	9	5
Married	87	84	60	61	67	67	23	24	160	158	81	84
Separated	1				1			1	3	1		2
Widowed		7	2	6	3	7	1	3	3	7	4	5
Divorced		2		5	1	1		1	1	4		5
Nonwhite, 14+
Single
Married
Separated
Widowed
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 34

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0033RA	043 0033RB	043 0033RC	043 0033RD	043 0034 A	043 0034 B
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	234	472	233	151	548	163
Owner occupied	192	9	184	120	507	144
White	192	9	184	119	507	144
Nonwhite				1
Renter occupied	39	455	42	26	32	17
White	39	455	38	25	31	17
Nonwhite			4	1	1
Available vacant		3	1		7	2
For rent		3			2	1
For sale only			1		5	1
Other vacant	3	5	6	5	2
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	234	472	233	151	548	163
Sound	234	471	195	138	536	158
With all plumbing facilities	234	471	195	133	535	158
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water				5	1
Deteriorating		1	7	8	9	3
With all plumbing facilities		1	7	5	9	1
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water				3		2
Dilapidated			31	5	3	2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			4	2	1
Sound
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Deteriorating				1
With all plumbing facilities				1
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated			4	1	1
Number of Rooms
All housing units	234	472	233	151	548	163
1			2	1
2	2		2	8	1
3		1	2	8	9	2
4		465	17	29	41	5
5	2		51	67	277	32
6	60	2	69	27	156	92
7	164	4	64	7	47	23
8 or more	6		26	4	17	9
Median	6.8	4.0	6.1	4.9	5.3	6.0
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			4	2	1
1			1
2			2
3
4			1	2	1
5
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	231	464	226	146	539	161
1	3	32	8	18	18	6
2	36	170	58	53	104	38
3	40	142	44	37	134	43
4	71	99	59	20	165	47
5	46	17	24	10	74	17
6 or more	35	4	33	8	44	10
Median	4.0	2.7	3.6	2.6	3.6	3.3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			4	2	1
1
2			1
3			1	1
4				1	1
5
6 or more			2
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	231	464	226	146	539	161
0.50 or less	78	205	94	71	164	77
0.51 to 0.75	103	140	77	45	179	55
0.76 to 1.00	43	99	38	25	168	26
1.01 or more	7	20	17	5	28	3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			4	2	1
0.50 or less
0.51 to 0.75				1
0.76 to 1.00				1	1
1.01 or more			4
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0033RA	043 001 043 0033RB	043 001 043 0033RC	043 001 043 0033RD	043 001 043 0034 A	043 001 043 0034 B
Total population	940	1305	830	413	1944	548
White	938	1304	812	406	1940	547
Negro	5	1	18	7	4	1
Other races	1
Total population	940	1305	830	413	1944	548
Pop. in households	940	1305	830	413	1936	548
Head of household	231	464	226	146	539	161
Head of prim. fam.	222	421	215	127	521	154
Primary individual	9	43	11	19	18	7
Wife of head	209	388	205	114	493	144
Child under 18	416	393	303	103	706	190
Other relative	60	44	89	44	186	47
Nonrelative	24	16	7	4	12	6
Pop. in group quarters					8
Inmate of institution
Other					8
Pop. per household	4.07	2.81	3.67	2.83	3.59	3.40
Nonwhite population	6	1	18	7	4	1
Pop. in households	6	1	18	7	4	1
Head of household			4	2	1
Head of prim. fam.			4	2	1
Primary individual
Wife of head	1		4	2	1
Child under 18			10	2
Other relative				1	1
Nonrelative	5	1			1	1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	464	476	645	660	426	404	191	222	961	983	252	296
Under 1 year	11	14	51	48	7	3	1	2	23	20	3	9
1 year	19	21	31	37	7	6	3	7	30	30	2	7
2 years	16	17	32	28	12	4	1	7	27	34	5	7
3 years	24	15	17	17	12	7	1	3	36	22	6	5
4 years	14	16	21	8	9	7	2	1	37	20	11	9
5 years	12	11	19	8	9	8	4	3	20	28	3	6
6 years	12	17	4	7	9	12	4	2	18	26	11	9
7 years	14	22	13	8	18	7	4	2	28	25	2	6
8 years	10	8	6	5	7	10	2	2	21	18	5	10
9 years	17	8	2	5	15	3	1	3	19	23	6	7
10 years	12	10	5	3	18	5	6	1	20	20	5	1
11 years	9	14	2	5	14	8	4	4	25	13	6	3
12 years	6	5	3	1	7	8	4	6	17	28	5	7
13 years	12	11	3	2	6	11	3	5	17	22	4	6
14 years	8				7	14	1	6	5	13	5	6
15 years	6	6	4	1	4	6	6	2	19	10	2	6
16 years	6	7		2	8	10	4	2	10	10	2	2
17 years	4	7	2	9	12	4	1	3	8	6	4	3
18 years	2	5	2	10	7	8		3	6	12	4	3
19 years	1	5	5	24	3	7	2	3	7	6	3	1
20 years	4	1	15	30		3	1	5	5	3		3
21 years and over	245	254	408	402	235	253	136	150	563	594	158	180
Total population	464	476	645	660	426	404	191	222	961	983	252	296
Under 5 years	84	83	152	138	47	27	8	20	153	126	27	37
5 to 9 years	65	68	44	33	58	40	15	12	106	120	27	38
10 to 14 years	47	42	13	11	52	46	18	22	84	96	25	23
15 to 19 years	19	30	13	46	34	35	13	13	50	44	15	15
20 to 24 years	17	22	155	190	8	21	7	14	31	40	4	12
25 to 29 years	30	47	137	116	23	19	18	14	70	99	12	12
30 to 34 years	55	49	61	42	29	28	9	7	99	115	33	34
35 to 39 years	59	50	17	14	31	42	12	22	112	86	21	26
40 to 44 years	44	33	18	17	38	43	21	23	83	67	17	22
45 to 49 years	14	18	12	14	33	24	18	23	53	58	22	23
50 to 54 years	14	9	7	13	27	19	15	19	36	27	12	13
55 to 59 years	6	9	7	12	15	24	16	8	28	40	13	11
60 to 64 years	6	7	3	3	14	13	9	9	23	14	6	13
65 to 69 years	2	5	3	2	5	12	4	6	6	21	10	6
70 to 74 years		3		1	5	7	3	6	18	14	5	6
75 to 79 years	1	2	2	7	3	2	5	3	6	7	2	2
80 to 84 years		1	1		3	1		1	3	6	1	2
85 years and over	1			1	1	1				3		1
18 years and over	252	265	430	466	245	271	139	161	581	615	165	187
Median age	25.0	23.9	23.2	22.7	28.0	32.5	38.1	37.0	29.0	28.3	32.4	31.6
Nonwhite population		6		1	7	11	5	2	2	2	1
Under 5 years						3
5 to 9 years					1	1
10 to 14 years					1	2	2
15 to 19 years		3			1	1				1
20 to 24 years		1			1	3			1
25 to 29 years					1
30 to 34 years					1		1	1
35 to 39 years						1	1
40 to 44 years		1					1	1
45 to 49 years				1	1
50 to 54 years									1	1
55 to 59 years		1
60 to 64 years
65 to 69 years											1
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over		5		1	4	4	3	2	2	1	1
21 years and over		3		1	4	2	3	2	2	1	1
Median age
Total, 14 & over	276	285	436	478	276	305	151	174	623	654	178	204
Single	54	40	28	33	52	59	24	22	92	73	27	25
Married	215	217	397	404	217	217	119	121	513	526	147	149
Separated	1	1	3	6	3	2	1	6	2	7	1	2
Widowed	1	17	7	22	5	25	6	25	12	39	3	22
Divorced	6	11	4	19	2	4	2	6	6	16	1	8
Nonwhite, 14+		6		1	5	5	3	2	2	2	1
Single		4			1	1	1			1
Married		1			4	4	2	2	1	1	1
Separated											1
Widowed		1		1					1
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0035N	043 0035P	043 0036	043 0037	043 0038	043 0039N
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	87	338	392	407	546	106
Owner occupied	76	316	326	360	325	101
White	76	316	326	360	325	101
Nonwhite
Renter occupied	10	17	54	38	209	5
White	10	17	54	38	209	5
Nonwhite
Available vacant	1	4	9	8	5
For rent	1	1	5	2	4
For sale only		3	4	6	1
Other vacant		1	3	1	7
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	87	338	392	407	546	106
Sound	86	338	391	400	542	106
With all plumbing facilities	83	336	391	400	542	106
Lacking only hot water	2
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	1	2
Deteriorating			1	7	4
With all plumbing facilities			1	6	4
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water				1
Dilapidated	1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
Sound
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Deteriorating
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated
Number of Rooms
All housing units	87	338	392	407	546	106
1			1
2	1	2	3	2	1
3	1	6	5	6	47
4	5	6	49	17	192
5	54	97	230	218	122	81
6	20	116	69	89	90	15
7	4	91	32	51	67	9
8 or more	2	20	3	24	27	1
Median	5.2	6.0	5.1	5.3	4.8	5.2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	86	333	380	398	534	106
1	4	20	25	33	41	4
2	26	101	98	110	183	34
3	25	93	103	94	137	19
4	17	70	82	94	103	32
5	8	31	49	34	43	9
6 or more	6	18	23	33	27	8
Median	3.0	3.0	3.2	3.1	2.8	3.3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
1
2
3
4
5
6 or more
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	86	333	380	398	534	106
0.50 or less	39	182	140	174	242	44
0.51 to 0.75	20	97	126	124	188	22
0.76 to 1.00	23	52	99	87	88	35
1.01 or more	4	2	15	13	16	5
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
0.50 or less
0.51 to 0.75
0.76 to 1.00
1.01 or more
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0035N		043 001 043 0035P		043 001 043 0036		043 001 043 0037		043 001 043 0038		043 001 043 0039N
Total population	279		1051		1251		1300		1618		352
White	279		1049		1249		1297		1614		352
Negro			2		2		3		4
Other races
Total population	279		1051		1251		1300		1618		352
Pop. in households	279		1051		1251		1300		1618		352
Head of household	86		333		380		398		534		106
Head of prim. fam.	81		307		353		362		490		102
Primary individual	5		26		27		36		44		4
Wife of head	75		280		333		325		449		97
Child under 18	76		288		387		402		493		136
Other relative	36		127		136		160		133		13
Nonrelative	6		23		15		15		9
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.28		3.16		3.29		3.27		3.03		3.32
Nonwhite population			2		2		3		4
Pop. in households			2		2		3		4
Head of household
Head of prim. fam.
Primary individual
Wife of head									2
Child under 18									2
Other relative
Nonrelative			2		2		3
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	139	140	488	563	603	648	633	667	766	852	161	191
Under 1 year	3	3	4	9	13	13	9	13	23	25	4	5
1 year	4		2	7	12	7	10	15	16	23	5	4
2 years	2	3	11	7	12	11	15	11	17	17	4	6
3 years	1	4	7	6	10	13	10	11	16	19	2	5
4 years	1	3	5	10	8	9	12	7	10	10	4	5
5 years	4	3	10	9	15	11	12	10	18	13	5	5
6 years	1		2	8	13	15	13	11	10	11	7	5
7 years	3	3	5	7	12	15	19	8	11	13	5	4
8 years	2	3	6	5	10	10	10	6	18	13	4	7
9 years	3	2	9	6	12	11	11	9	13	12	4	5
10 years	1	5	9	8	14	7	9	17	8	13	4	8
11 years	2	2	11	8	13	14	15	16	10	17	3	5
12 years	3		16	11	12	12	17	15	16	25	2	2
13 years	3	1	18	14	12	13	15	13	11	12	3	4
14 years	4	1	11	5	10	12	10	7	10	12	2	1
15 years	1	2	3	10	9	9	11	8	12	8	1
16 years	3	2	15	8	4	9	16	9	12	16		4
17 years	5	1	10	8	7	8	10	10	12	13	1	3
18 years	4	2	5	4	3	5	11	6	10	9	1	1
19 years	2	1	4	4	5	4	5	6	14	9
20 years	1	1	4	3	8	11	4	9	2	13
21 years and over	86	98	321	406	377	429	389	450	497	549	100	112
Total population	139	140	488	563	603	648	633	667	766	852	161	191
Under 5 years	11	13	29	39	55	53	56	57	82	94	19	25
5 to 9 years	13	11	32	35	68	62	65	44	70	62	25	26
10 to 14 years	13	9	65	46	67	58	66	68	55	79	14	20
15 to 19 years	15	8	37	34	28	35	53	39	60	55	3	8
20 to 24 years	6	10	19	19	29	32	25	31	68	93		3
25 to 29 years	9	6	12	20	38	42	37	35	71	66	9	10
30 to 34 years	9	14	22	25	39	57	26	45	46	51	15	22
35 to 39 years	9	4	45	61	46	59	58	57	56	81	22	25
40 to 44 years	7	17	47	55	61	59	46	50	59	56	12	23
45 to 49 years	13	10	51	58	44	53	46	58	52	52	20	6
50 to 54 years	15	14	42	46	38	34	43	55	41	54	9	5
55 to 59 years	7	4	28	24	27	32	41	38	35	32	6	7
60 to 64 years	1	5	22	33	28	20	32	24	24	27	4	1
65 to 69 years	5	6	18	23	15	26	15	24	22	16	2	8
70 to 74 years	3	4	9	28	5	12	13	16	11	22	1	1
75 to 79 years		2	5	11	7	10	4	20	9	10		1
80 to 84 years	3	1	4	4	5	3	6	3	2	2
85 years and over		2	1	6	3	1	1	3	3
18 years and over	93	102	334	417	393	449	409	471	523	580	101	113
Median age	31.4	34.6	38.1	40.2	32.1	33.7	32.8	36.3	28.4	28.3	33.5	30.8
Nonwhite population				2		2		3		4
Under 5 years										2
5 to 9 years
10 to 14 years
15 to 19 years
20 to 24 years				1
25 to 29 years								1		1
30 to 34 years								1
35 to 39 years										1
40 to 44 years								1
45 to 49 years
50 to 54 years						1
55 to 59 years				1		1
60 to 64 years
65 to 69 years
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over				2		2		3		2
21 years and over				2		2		3		2
Median age
Total, 14 & over	106	108	373	448	429	487	456	505	569	629	105	121
Single	22	12	69	67	79	65	90	76	83	79	6	10
Married	80	81	291	292	343	357	346	352	470	470	98	99
Separated	1	1	1	1	2	6	2	4	1	9	1	2
Widowed	4	11	10	80	7	48	12	62	9	58	1	10
Divorced		4	3	9	4	17	8	15	7	22		2
Nonwhite, 14+				2		2		3		2
Single				1				3
Married				1						2
Separated
Widowed						2
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0039P	043 0039R	043 0040N	043 0040P	043 0040R	043 0041
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	240	74	133	252	9	347
Owner occupied	222	69	115	222	5	276
White	222	69	115	222	5	276
Nonwhite
Renter occupied	15	2	14	20	3	59
White	15	2	14	20	2	59
Nonwhite					1
Available vacant	2	1	1	9	1	5
For rent	1		1	2		3
For sale only	1	1		7	1	2
Other vacant	1	2	3	1		7
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	240	74	133	252	9	347
Sound	240	74	132	244	7	334
With all plumbing facilities	240	74	132	244	7	328
Lacking only hot water						4
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water						2
Deteriorating				7		13
With all plumbing facilities				7		12
Lacking only hot water						1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water
Dilapidated			1	1	2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites					1
Sound
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Deteriorating
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated					1
Number of Rooms
All housing units	240	74	133	252	9	347
1
2						4
3				3	1	11
4	3		8	16		25
5	38	6	46	116	1	145
6	171	27	47	81	2	108
7	24	30	22	31	2	39
8 or more	4	11	10	11	3	15
Median	6.0	6.6	5.8	5.5		5.4
Housing units occupied by nonwhites					1
1
2
3					1
4
5
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	237	71	129	242	8	335
1	4	3	14	7		24
2	44	20	42	75	2	122
3	44	16	22	56	1	74
4	77	18	26	60	3	54
5	39	11	12	27	1	36
6 or more	29	3	13	17	1	25
Median	3.8	3.3	2.9	3.2		2.8
Housing units occupied by nonwhites					1
1
2
3					1
4
5
6 or more
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	237	71	129	242	8	335
0.50 or less	79	41	69	115	4	175
0.51 to 0.75	88	27	36	65	1	89
0.76 to 1.00	64	3	21	57	3	60
1.01 or more	6		3	5		11
Housing units occupied by nonwhites					1
0.50 or less
0.51 to 0.75
0.76 to 1.00					1
1.01 or more
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0039P		043 001 043 0039R		043 001 043 0040N		043 001 043 0040P		043 001 043 0040R		043 001 043 0041
Total population	910		236		413		815		31		1044
White	910		236		412		814		28		1044
Negro					1		1		3
Other races
Total population	910		236		413		815		31		1044
Pop. in households	910		236		413		815		31		1044
Head of household	237		71		129		242		8		335
Head of prim. fam.	230		68		112		233		7		306
Primary individual	7		3		17		9		1		29
Wife of head	216		65		101		200		5		265
Child under 18	361		76		130		258		7		276
Other relative	84		23		46		103		10		157
Nonrelative	12		1		7		12		1		11
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.84		3.32		3.20		3.37				3.12
Nonwhite population					1		1		3
Pop. in households					1		1		3
Head of household									1
Head of prim. fam.									1
Primary individual
Wife of head									1
Child under 18
Other relative									1
Nonrelative					1		1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	452	458	114	122	179	234	396	419	15	16	491	553
Under 1 year	16	6		1		4	8	4			5	4
1 year	8	9		1	1	4	3	4		1	6	4
2 years	15	7	1	1	2	3	7	6			6	6
3 years	6	10	1	1	3	3	6	10			3	11
4 years	8	7	4			5	9	11			5	5
5 years	4	16	1		3	2	7	2		1	8	7
6 years	14	7	2		3	6	8	6	1	2	7	11
7 years	20	13	2	2	6	1	9	7		1	8	8
8 years	7	9	3	1	2	4	8	9			13	7
9 years	12	12		6	4	4	3	3	1	1	6	12
10 years	5	12	4	2	3	5	10	6			10	9
11 years	15	12	5	2	4	4	7	14			11	12
12 years	15	14	2	5	5	6	13	8			8	11
13 years	14	9	3	6	5	5	11	3		1	12	15
14 years	12	12	2	3	3	7	10	8	1		11	4
15 years	8	7	1	3	3	5	9	9			11	9
16 years	11	10	3	1	2	4	7	4			10	5
17 years	10	7	5	2	6	6	10	7			7	6
18 years	4	8	5	1	2	3	7	3			8	6
19 years	3	4	1	1		2	3	3			9	2
20 years	7	5	1	2	1		5	3			7	3
21 years and over	238	262	68	81	121	151	236	289	12	9	320	396
Total population	452	458	114	122	179	234	396	419	15	16	491	553
Under 5 years	53	39	6	4	6	19	33	35		1	25	30
5 to 9 years	57	57	8	9	18	17	35	27	2	5	42	45
10 to 14 years	61	59	16	18	20	27	51	39	1	1	52	51
15 to 19 years	36	36	15	8	13	20	36	26			45	28
20 to 24 years	18	20	1	3	5	2	18	17	2		18	18
25 to 29 years	22	19		2	6	7	25	22	2	1	17	25
30 to 34 years	28	37	1	4	4	12	14	16			21	27
35 to 39 years	43	58	12	13	18	23	18	34	1	2	38	51
40 to 44 years	37	46	17	21	22	22	39	45			43	55
45 to 49 years	46	30	15	8	16	20	43	49		3	48	45
50 to 54 years	18	22	12	11	16	20	31	26	2	2	32	46
55 to 59 years	16	15	2	6	14	14	17	17	3	1	33	43
60 to 64 years	7	7	5	6	10	12	16	15	1		27	30
65 to 69 years	7	4	3	1	4	10	5	15	1		20	16
70 to 74 years	3	3	1	4	2	3	10	11			13	19
75 to 79 years		3		2	2	1	3	16			14	15
80 to 84 years		5		2		2	2	6			3	8
85 years and over		2			1	3		3				2
18 years and over	252	270	75	85	124	156	251	298	12	9	344	407
Median age	25.2	29.7	39.2	40.0	39.9	37.8	30.0	39.0			38.4	40.1
Nonwhite population					1		1		2	1
Under 5 years
5 to 9 years
10 to 14 years
15 to 19 years
20 to 24 years
25 to 29 years							1	1
30 to 34 years
35 to 39 years
40 to 44 years
45 to 49 years										1
50 to 54 years
55 to 59 years									1
60 to 64 years
65 to 69 years						1
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over						1		1	2	1
21 years and over						1		1	2	1
Median age
Total, 14 & over	293	315	86	94	138	178	287	326	13	9	383	431
Single	61	59	18	18	24	39	65	51	4	1	86	57
Married	224	227	67	65	107	107	215	215	7	7	280	289
Separated		1	1		1	2	2				2	6
Widowed	4	23	1	11	4	27	4	46	2	1	11	57
Divorced	4	6			3	5	3	14			6	28
Nonwhite, 14+						1		1	2	1
Single								1	1
Married									1	1
Separated
Widowed						1
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0042 A	043 0042 B	043 0043N	043 0043P	043 0043R	043 0043S
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	366	1	127	64	132	89
Owner occupied	290		109	53	120	74
White	290		109	53	120	74
Nonwhite
Renter occupied	71		13	8	10	12
White	71		13	8	10	12
Nonwhite
Available vacant	4		3	3	1	1
For rent			1	1
For sale only	4		2	2	1	1
Other vacant	1		2		1	2
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	366		127	64	132	89
Sound	361		115	64	132	89
With all plumbing facilities	359		113	64	132	89
Lacking only hot water	2		2
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water
Deteriorating	3		9
With all plumbing facilities	3		9
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water
Dilapidated	2		3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
Sound
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Deteriorating
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated
Number of Rooms
All housing units	366		127	64	132	89
1					1
2	3		3	3		1
3	2		1	8	3	3
4	59		14	9	2	4
5	177		37	18	31	31
6	83		36	19	50	29
7	30		25	5	34	13
8 or more	12		11	2	11	8
Median	5.2		5.7	5.2	6.1	5.7
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	361		122	61	130	86
1	17		5	6	3	7
2	122		26	21	45	37
3	86		35	10	27	19
4	77		29	10	29	11
5	39		19	8	18	9
6 or more	20		8	6	8	3
Median	3.0		3.4	2.9	3.1	2.5
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
1
2
3
4
5
6 or more
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	361		122	61	130	86
0.50 or less	171		53	27	63	55
0.51 to 0.75	81		44	14	47	23
0.76 to 1.00	98		19	13	20	8
1.01 or more	11		6	7
Housing units occupied by nonwhites
0.50 or less
0.51 to 0.75
0.76 to 1.00
1.01 or more
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0042 A		043 001 043 0042 B		043 001 043 0043N		043 001 043 0043P		043 001 043 0043R		043 001 043 0043S
Total population	1155		130		430		194		432		245
White	1154		127		430		193		431		245
Negro	1		3				1		1
Other races
Total population	1155		130		430		194		432		245
Pop. in households	1149		2		430		194		432		245
Head of household	361		1		122		61		130		86
Head of prim. fam.	336		1		117		53		127		79
Primary individual	25				5		8		3		7
Wife of head	303		1		109		51		126		77
Child under 18	352				156		63		138		60
Other relative	113				41		14		35		21
Nonrelative	20				2		5		3		1
Pop. in group quarters	6		128
Inmate of institution			102
Other	6		26
Pop. per household	3.18				3.52		3.18		3.32		2.85
Nonwhite population	1		3				1		1
Pop. in households	1						1		1
Head of household
Head of prim. fam.
Primary individual
Wife of head
Child under 18
Other relative
Nonrelative	1						1		1
Pop. in group quarters			3
Inmate of institution
Other			3
Pop. per household
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	548	607	41	89	207	223	90	104	207	225	113	132
Under 1 year	13	9			2	2	3	3	2	1		2
1 year	11	17			4	4	5	2	5	6
2 years	15	14			3	5	2	4	4	3	2
3 years	8	9			4	7	2	2	4	3	2	1
4 years	12	10			7	3	1	3	5	3		3
5 years	13	15				6	1	5	4	8	2	1
6 years	8	7			5	7	2		7	2	3	2
7 years	12	13			3	7	2		4	6	3	2
8 years	12	8			2	3	4	2	2	7	3	2
9 years	8	9			6	3	1	4	8	1	2	1
10 years	9	11			3	4	2	3	1	5	4	1
11 years	11	9			2	10	1	3	5	5	1	5
12 years	8	12			6	5			9	2	2
13 years	12	8			13	6		2	3	6	1	3
14 years	12	9			6	5		1	2	1		4
15 years	4	6				2	1	3	3	3	2	5
16 years	5	9			3	3	1	1		4		1
17 years	6	15			4	2		1	3	2		1
18 years	1	3			5	7		3	1	2	1	2
19 years	7	5		1	3	2		1	1	1	1	1
20 years	2	7			2	2	1		1	2		1
21 years and over	359	402	41	88	124	128	61	61	133	152	84	94
Total population	548	607	41	89	207	223	90	104	207	225	113	132
Under 5 years	59	59			20	21	13	14	20	16	4	6
5 to 9 years	53	52			16	26	10	11	25	24	13	8
10 to 14 years	52	49			30	30	3	9	20	19	8	13
15 to 19 years	23	38		1	15	16	2	9	8	12	4	10
20 to 24 years	20	32	4	2	10	7	8	10	4	5	2	3
25 to 29 years	32	43	2		7	12	7	6	5	9	2
30 to 34 years	40	42	3	5	13	18	11	4	14	17	3	9
35 to 39 years	49	54	2	6	28	22	5	10	21	25	12	11
40 to 44 years	48	47	2	8	13	23	9	8	15	15	15	19
45 to 49 years	35	42	6	3	21	14	6	5	20	21	13	9
50 to 54 years	36	48	4	12	13	9	12	6	16	19	8	11
55 to 59 years	39	32	7	9	8	7	2	3	17	16	8	8
60 to 64 years	23	21		4	5	4		2	12	11	7	8
65 to 69 years	21	22	4	8	2	3		5	5	8	7	9
70 to 74 years	8	16	3	10	3	6	1	2	2	2	5	1
75 to 79 years	8	6	3	12	1	3	1		1	2	1	4
80 to 84 years		3	1	7	1	1			1	3	1	2
85 years and over	2	1		2	1	1			1	1		1
18 years and over	369	417	41	89	134	139	62	65	136	157	86	98
Median age	34.4	33.6		59.2	32.1	29.8	30.9	24.5	36.8	37.1	42.8	41.6
Nonwhite population		1	3					1		1
Under 5 years
5 to 9 years
10 to 14 years
15 to 19 years
20 to 24 years
25 to 29 years			1					1
30 to 34 years		1
35 to 39 years
40 to 44 years
45 to 49 years			1
50 to 54 years			1
55 to 59 years
60 to 64 years										1
65 to 69 years
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over		1	3					1		1
21 years and over		1	3					1		1
Median age
Total, 14 & over	396	456	41	89	147	151	64	71	144	167	88	109
Single	55	68	15	22	32	25	6	7	13	20	7	18
Married	322	326	18	30	113	114	55	56	128	131	78	78
Separated	3	7	1	1	2	1	2			2
Widowed	13	47	5	32	1	11	2	7	2	15	2	12
Divorced	6	18	3	5	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1
Nonwhite, 14+		1	3					1		1
Single			2					1
Married			1
Separated			1
Widowed										1
Divorced		1

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0044N	043 0044P	043 0044RA	043 0044RB	043 0044S	043 0044T
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	234	9	137	1	188	133
Owner occupied	222	6	111		169	116
White	222	6	110		169	116
Nonwhite			1
Renter occupied	9	2	19		1	10
White	9	1	19		1	9
Nonwhite		1				1
Available vacant	3		3		17	4
For rent
For sale only	3		3		17	4
Other vacant		1	4		1	3
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	234	9	137		188	133
Sound	233	7	124		187	129
With all plumbing facilities	233	7	122		187	129
Lacking only hot water			1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water
Deteriorating			1
With all plumbing facilities		1	6		1
Lacking only hot water			6		1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water
Dilapidated		1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	1	1	7			4
Sound		1	1			1
With all plumbing facilities		1	1
Lacking some or all facilities		1
Deteriorating			1
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated						1
Number of Rooms
All housing units	234	9	137		188	133
1						2
2			3
3	2	1	6
4	4	1	20		2	3
5	67	3	47		51	102
6	119	1	27		117	23
7	36		18		14	2
8 or more	6	3	16		4	1
Median	5.9		5.3		5.9	5.1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites		1	1			1
1
2
3
4
5						1
6
7			1
8 or more		1
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	231	8	130		170	126
1	6		12		2	4
2	64	4	46		30	15
3	50	2	31		51	24
4	64		24		49	45
5	29		9		29	33
6 or more	18	2	8		9	5
Median	3.4		2.7		3.5	3.9
Housing units occupied by nonwhites		1	1			1
1
2		1
3
4						1
5
6 or more			1
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	231	8	130		170	126
0.50 or less	104	3	72		65	23
0.51 to 0.75	71	3	36		64	24
0.76 to 1.00	51	2	18		36	77
1.01 or more	5		4		5	2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites		1	1			1
0.50 or less		1
0.51 to 0.75						1
0.76 to 1.00			1
1.01 or more
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0044N	043 001 043 0044P	043 001 043 0044RA	043 001 043 0044RB	043 001 043 0044S	043 001 043 0044T
Total population	800	27	390		613	482
White	800	25	382		613	479
Negro		2	8			3
Other races
Total population	800	27	390		613	482
Pop. in households	800	27	390		613	482
Head of household	231	8	130		170	126
Head of prim. fam.	222	8	118		167	122
Primary individual	9		12		3	4
Wife of head	215	8	109		162	119
Child under 18	308	5	101		250	213
Other relative	36	6	45		27	23
Nonrelative	10		5		4	1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.46		3.00		3.61	3.83
Nonwhite population		2	8			3
Pop. in households		2	8			3
Head of household		1	1			1
Head of prim. fam.		1	1			1
Primary individual
Wife of head		1
Child under 18						1
Other relative			7			1
Nonrelative
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	388	412	11	16	196	194			307	306	234	248
Under 1 year	13	16			3	2			14	9	9	7
1 year	8	14			5	1			13	7	6	8
2 years	11	12		1	2	3			11	16	8	10
3 years	11	11		1	2	2			13	12	9	5
4 years	11	10			4	4			10	7	9	14
5 years	12	10			2	4			8	9	9	5
6 years	11	12			5				12	14	13	7
7 years	6	9		1	4	5			7	5	7	14
8 years	10	6			1	3			9	8	6	8
9 years	7	11			1	4			6	4	5	7
10 years	10	8			4	4			4	3	8	3
11 years	10	11			4	2			9	6	2	9
12 years	7	8			4	7			9	3	4	5
13 years	6	3		1	5	2			3	7	3	7
14 years	5	7			3	2			2	3	2	1
15 years	5	8	1	1	4	2				5	2	2
16 years	3	1			3	3			2	3	3	2
17 years	6	5	1		3					2
18 years	3	1			1				2	1		1
19 years		1			2	2				1	3
20 years		1		1	2	1				4	1	4
21 years and over	233	250	9	10	132	141			173	177	125	131
Total population	388	412	11	16	196	194			307	306	234	248
Under 5 years	54	63		2	10	12			61	51	41	42
5 to 9 years	46	48		1	13	16			42	40	40	41
10 to 14 years	38	37		1	20	17			27	22	19	25
15 to 19 years	17	13	2	1	13	7			4	12	8	5
20 to 24 years	5	15	1	2	10	8			8	19	8	7
25 to 29 years	30	42	2	1	8	10			38	49	12	27
30 to 34 years	47	48		1	11	16			44	41	47	53
35 to 39 years	40	35	1		11	17			38	25	35	25
40 to 44 years	33	31		3	12	13			13	12	10	5
45 to 49 years	20	22	1	2	13	20			13	8	4	4
50 to 54 years	19	21	3	1	18	12			6	6	4	2
55 to 59 years	18	13			18	15			4	7	1	1
60 to 64 years	10	10	1		11	9			1	5	2	2
65 to 69 years	6	3			4	6			2	3	1	4
70 to 74 years	4	6		1	6	8			2	2	2	3
75 to 79 years		3			3	4			4	2		1
80 to 84 years	1	1			2	3
85 years and over		1			2	1				2		1
18 years and over	236	253	9	11	137	144			175	183	129	136
Median age	30.4	28.6			38.2	38.2			26.5	25.9	25.4	25.7
Nonwhite population			1	1	4	4					2	1
Under 5 years											1
5 to 9 years						1
10 to 14 years					2	1
15 to 19 years
20 to 24 years					1
25 to 29 years
30 to 34 years					1	1
35 to 39 years
40 to 44 years				1								1
45 to 49 years			1								1
50 to 54 years
55 to 59 years
60 to 64 years
65 to 69 years						1
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over			1	1	2	2					1	1
21 years and over			1	1	2	2					1	1
Median age
Total, 14 & over	255	271	11	12	150	151			179	196	136	141
Single	31	31	3	2	30	18			8	20	13	13
Married	221	222	8	9	114	120			167	165	123	121
Separated	1	1				1				1
Widowed		18		1	4	10			1	11		5
Divorced	3	3			2	5			3			2
Nonwhite, 14+			1	1	2	2					1	1
Single					1
Married			1	1	1	1					1	1
Separated
Widowed						1
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0044U	043 0045 A	043 0045 B	043 0046	043 0047N	043 0047P
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	13	316	383	371		282
Owner occupied	8	87	88	277		272
White	8	87	88	236		270
Nonwhite				41		2
Renter occupied	5	216	283	82		4
White	4	216	283	25		4
Nonwhite	1			57
Available vacant		11	11	4		6
For rent		9	10	3
For sale only		2	1	1		6
Other vacant		2	1	8
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	13	316	383	371		282
Sound	12	316	380	299		281
With all plumbing facilities	12	316	380	292		280
Lacking only hot water				4		1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water				3
Deteriorating			3	22		1
With all plumbing facilities			3	14		1
Lacking only hot water
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water				8
Dilapidated	1			50
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	1			98		2
Sound				39		2
With all plumbing facilities				36		2
Lacking some or all facilities				3
Deteriorating				12
With all plumbing facilities				5
Lacking some or all facilities				7
Dilapidated	1			47
Number of Rooms
All housing units	13	316	383	371		282
1
2				1
3	1	50	54	11		4
4	1	123	241	154		5
5	4	101	29	113		160
6	2	32	52	54		82
7	2	7	5	27		26
8 or more	3	3	2	11		5
Median		4.4	4.1	4.7		5.3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	1			98		2
1
2				1
3	1			8
4				56
5				18
6				9		1
7				2
8 or more				4		1
Median				4.2
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	13	303	371	359		276
1	1	20	27	26		5
2	3	119	136	119		53
3	4	66	95	76		61
4	1	63	75	68		86
5	3	27	31	38		47
6 or more	1	8	7	32		24
Median		2.7	2.7	3.0		3.7
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	1			98		2
1				12
2				25		1
3	1			21
4				14		1
5				8
6 or more				18
Median				3.1
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	13	303	371	359		276
0.50 or less	5	120	145	161		80
0.51 to 0.75	5	92	133	85		81
0.76 to 1.00	2	83	78	80		100
1.01 or more	1	8	15	33		15
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	1			98		2
0.50 or less				39		2
0.51 to 0.75				15
0.76 to 1.00	1			22
1.01 or more				22
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0044U		043 001 043 0045 A		043 001 043 0045 B		043 001 043 0046		043 002 043 0047N		043 002 043 0047P
Total population	47		898		1084		1188				1021
White	44		898		1084		822				1014
Negro	3						360				7
Other races							6
Total population	47		898		1084		1188				1021
Pop. in households	47		898		1084		1182				1021
Head of household	13		303		371		359				276
Head of prim. fam.	12		280		332		327				270
Primary individual	1		23		39		32				6
Wife of head	11		267		311		290				260
Child under 18	13		281		326		362				385
Other relative	10		40		58		154				91
Nonrelative			7		18		17				9
Pop. in group quarters							6
Inmate of institution
Other							6
Pop. per household			2.96		2.92		3.29				3.70
Nonwhite population	3						366				7
Pop. in households	3						360				7
Head of household	1						98				2
Head of prim. fam.	1						82				2
Primary individual							16
Wife of head							68				2
Child under 18							124
Other relative	2						57				3
Nonrelative							13
Pop. in group quarters							6
Inmate of institution
Other							6
Pop. per household							3.67
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	24	23	439	459	525	559	569	619			503	518
Under 1 year			14	13	24	25	20	17			14	16
1 year	2	1	15	12	23	25	14	13			10	17
2 years		1	13	24	20	13	21	10			17	18
3 years			10	15	11	10	11	12			11	20
4 years			7	13	7	7	11	18			12	9
5 years	3		19	6	12	7	16	8			19	17
6 years			7	8	5	7	9	7			17	11
7 years		1	10	6	3	10	9	7			12	9
8 years			8	8	12	7	10	13			16	11
9 years			6	4	6	6	4	13			2	10
10 years			8	5	9	5	11	6			10	8
11 years			3	5	14	6	13	11			9	5
12 years		1	6	4	7	7	14	15			9	8
13 years			5	7	4	12	16	7			13	13
14 years			1	1	2	3	6	10			5	4
15 years	2		6	5	8	3	8	6			7	5
16 years			1	6	0	2	8	7			11	4
17 years	1	1	3	5	4	5	11	14			5	7
18 years	1		4	6	3	4	5	7			6	4
19 years			5	18	5	10	3	6			4	1
20 years			3	15	3	18	6	9			2	5
21 years and over	15	18	285	273	337	367	343	403			292	316
Total population	24	23	439	459	525	559	569	619			503	518
Under 5 years	2	2	59	77	85	80	77	70			64	80
5 to 9 years	3	1	50	32	30	37	48	48			66	58
10 to 14 years		1	23	22	30	33	60	49			46	39
15 to 19 years	4	1	19	40	20	24	35	40			33	21
20 to 24 years	1	1	65	103	74	123	25	38			13	28
25 to 29 years	1	1	81	58	94	67	38	42			44	55
30 to 34 years	1	3	39	35	41	37	34	49			56	52
35 to 39 years		1	34	31	32	37	51	46			52	54
40 to 44 years	4	4	25	18	31	41	53	50			41	38
45 to 49 years	2	1	14	13	20	20	45	51			36	25
50 to 54 years	1	1	8	7	11	13	21	35			17	16
55 to 59 years	1		8	7	11	21	31	29			16	15
60 to 64 years	2	1	3	6	7	7	17	26			9	9
65 to 69 years	2	1	3	4	0	9	14	22			2	8
70 to 74 years		1	4	5	4	3	9	8			6	13
75 to 79 years		2	3	1	1	3	7	8			1	5
80 to 84 years					1	3	3	5				3
85 years and over		1	1		1	1	1	3			1	1
18 years and over	16	18	297	312	348	399	357	425			304	326
Median age			25.2	22.8	25.2	24.3	30.2	32.3			28.4	28.1
Nonwhite population	1	2					186	180			2	5
Under 5 years							38	17
5 to 9 years							21	18
10 to 14 years							22	16
15 to 19 years							10	16
20 to 24 years							9	16
25 to 29 years							13	12				1
30 to 34 years							9	13
35 to 39 years		1					16	17
40 to 44 years							13	10
45 to 49 years							6	12			1
50 to 54 years	1						4	6				1
55 to 59 years							11	8
60 to 64 years							4	7
65 to 69 years							7	6				1
70 to 74 years							1	3			1	1
75 years and over		1					2	3				1
18 years and over	1	2					95	117			2	5
21 years and over	1	2					93	109			2	5
Median age							21.1	27.0
Total, 14 & over	19	19	308	329	368	412	390	462			332	346
Single	6	3	23	28	47	46	69	74			53	37
Married	11	12	274	277	313	324	306	313			272	269
Separated		1	3	4	4	5	4	11			3	2
Widowed	2	4	6	12	4	27	10	59			3	37
Divorced			5	12	4	15	5	16			4	3
Nonwhite, 14 +	1	2					107	135			2	5
Single	1						27	31			1	1
Married		1					74	79			1	2
Separated		1					3	7
Widowed		1					6	22				1
Divorced								3				1

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0024	043 0025N	043 0025P	043 0025R	043 0025S
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	464	26	85	76	77
Owner occupied	385	19	59	65	53
White	336	19	59	64	50
Nonwhite	49			1	3
Renter occupied	62	1	21	8	22
White	44	1	21	7	21
Nonwhite	18			1	1
Available vacant	9	6	3	2	1
For rent	3		3	1	1
For sale only	6	6		1
Other vacant	8		2	1	1
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	464	26	85	76	77
Sound	359	26	76	72	62
With all plumbing facilities	332	25	65	65	53
Lacking only hot water	1			1	4
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	26	1	11	6	5
Deteriorating	77		6	3	9
With all plumbing facilities	34		2		4
Lacking only hot water	1			1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	42		4	2	5
Dilapidated	28		3	1	6
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	67			2	4
Sound	21			1	1
With all plumbing facilities	11			1
Lacking some or all facilities	10				1
Deteriorating	20				1
With all plumbing facilities	3
Lacking some or all facilities	17				1
Dilapidated	26			1	2
Number of Rooms
All housing units	464	26	85	76	77
1	2		3
2	13		1
3	20	2	5	5	4
4	47	1	17	8	16
5	109	5	22	26	15
6	139	5	13	18	20
7	95	12	8	10	16
8 or more	39	1	16	9	6
Median	5.8		5.3	5.5	5.7
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	67			2	4
1	1
2	10
3	10
4	12			1	1
5	11			1
6	14				2
7	7				1
8 or more	2
Median	4.5
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	447	20	80	73	75
1	14	1	6	1	6
2	116	10	16	18	23
3	97	2	19	19	13
4	102	5	18	16	12
5	54	2	9	18	14
6 or more	64		12	5	7
Median	3.5		3.4	3.4	3.2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	67			2	4
1	5				1
2	11			1
3	6
4	6				1
5	12			1	1
6 or more	27				1
Median	5.0
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	447	20	80	73	75
0.50 or less	189	11	32	26	34
0.51 to 0.75	109	8	21	20	14
0.76 to 1.00	97	1	20	24	23
1.01 or more	52		7	3	4
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	67			2	4
0.50 or less	14			1	1
0.51 to 0.75	5
0.76 to 1.00	15			1	3
1.01 or more	33
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0024		043 001 043 0025N		043 001 043 0025P		043 001 043 0025R		043 001 043 0025S
Total population	1693		57		290		262		260
White	1321		57		289		255		244
Negro	372				1		7		16
Other races
Total population	1693		57		290		262		260
Pop. in households	1673		57		290		262		252
Head of household	447		20		80		73		75
Head of prim. fam.	429		18		74		69		69
Primary individual	18		2		6		4		6
Wife of head	385		17		64		62		62
Child under 18	553		13		87		90		90
Other relative	262		6		56		31		23
Nonrelative	26		1		3		6		2
Pop. in group quarters	20								8
Inmate of institution
Other	20								8
Pop. per household	3.74		2.85		3.63		3.59		3.36
Nonwhite population	372				1		7		16
Pop. in households	363				1		7		16
Head of household	67						2		4
Head of prim. fam.	61						2		3
Primary individual	6								1
Wife of head	48						1		3
Child under 18	116						3		9
Other relative	124						1
Nonrelative	12				1
Pop. in group quarters	9
Inmate of institution
Other	9
Pop. per household	5.42
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	838	855	31	26	143	147	127	135	121	139
Under 1 year	16	21		1	4	2	2	1	3	3
1 year	20	27	2		2	4	3	3	3	3
2 years	28	11	2		5	1		3	2	1
3 years	28	23		1	2		1	3	2
4 years	15	26	1		5	3	3	1	5	4
5 years	17	26		1	2	3	3	2	2	3
6 years	21	15		1	2	5	2	8	3	3
7 years	17	25	1		3	5	4	1	2	3
8 years	17	13	1		1	4	3	2	1	3
9 years	11	18		1	4	2	3	3	2	3
10 years	17	14			2	2	2	4	4	2
11 years	19	19	1			4	3	4	4	4
12 years	19	17			5	4	3	6	3	3
13 years	20	14			1	1	2	4	2	3
14 years	10	14	1		4	3	3	3	1	5
15 years	8	15	1		1	1	4	4	2	8
16 years	16	11			5	4	3	2	3	3
17 years	14	8			3	1	2	2	1	3
18 years	4	9		1	2	6	2	1	1	2
19 years	8	12			4	1				1
20 years	10	7			2	2	3	1	1
21 years and over	503	510	21	20	84	89	76	77	74	79
Total population	838	855	31	26	143	147	127	135	121	139
Under 5 years	107	108	5	2	18	10	9	11	15	11
5 to 9 years	83	97	2	3	12	19	15	16	10	15
10 to 14 years	85	78	2		12	14	13	21	14	17
15 to 19 years	50	55	1	1	15	13	11	9	7	17
20 to 24 years	38	50		1	8	10	9	6	8	3
25 to 29 years	50	55	3	3	5	5	9	9	5	6
30 to 34 years	74	67	2	1	9	10	11	9	9	10
35 to 39 years	66	83	2	2	11	8	10	12	11	13
40 to 44 years	74	45	1	2	10	10	15	12	7	6
45 to 49 years	49	48	3	2	8	8	6	7	6	9
50 to 54 years	36	36	1	1	7	15	9	1	7	7
55 to 59 years	44	46	2	4	8	2	4	7	8	6
60 to 64 years	23	29	1		6	8	4	5	4	5
65 to 69 years	22	19	1	1	7	4	1	5	2	3
70 to 74 years	17	24	2	2	1	3	1	2	2	5
75 to 79 years	12	9	1		4	6		2	3	3
80 to 84 years	6	5	1	1		2		1	2	3
85 years and over	2	1	1		2				1
18 years and over	525	538	21	21	92	98	81	79	76	82
Median age	30.4	28.6			30.8	31.3	28.6	27.5	30.8	30.3
Nonwhite population	187	185			1		4	3	7	9
Under 5 years	38	26
5 to 9 years	16	33							1
10 to 14 years	18	15					2	1	2	1
15 to 19 years	14	20							1	4
20 to 24 years	12	11					1
25 to 29 years	11	15
30 to 34 years	13	10
35 to 39 years	5	6						1	1	2
40 to 44 years	13	5						1
45 to 49 years	8	9					1		1
50 to 54 years	12	12								1
55 to 59 years	8	10
60 to 64 years	4	3								1
65 to 69 years	5	3
70 to 74 years	7	4			1				1
75 years and over	3	3
18 years and over	105	100			1		2	2	3	4
21 years and over	98	89			1		1	2	3	4
Median age	23.1	19.6
Total, 14 & over	573	586	23	21	105	107	93	90	83	101
Single	135	112	4	1	23	18	22	11	14	21
Married	415	419	18	18	72	71	68	68	64	63
Separated	2	10				1	3	2	2	1
Widowed	19	53	3	2	6	17	2	10	4	15
Divorced	4	2			4	1	1	1	1	2
Nonwhite, 14+	118	114			1		3	2	4	9
Single	54	46					2		1	5
Married	55	56					1	1	3	3
Separated	1	6
Widowed	8	12			1					1
Divorced	1							1

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 34

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0025T	043 0025U	043 0026N	043 0026P	043 0026R	043 0026S
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	88	135	50	218	122	146
Owner occupied	58	109	31	187	94	122
White	36	109	24	187	94	94
Nonwhite	22		7			28
Renter occupied	25	15	12	7		19
White	16	14	11	7		17
Nonwhite	9	1	1			2
Available vacant	4	5	2	18	25	3
For rent	4	3	1			3
For sale only		2	1	18	25
Other vacant	1	6	5	6	3	2
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	88	135	50	218	122	146
Sound	69	130	40	217	121	137
With all plumbing facilities	46	124	36	217	121	128
Lacking only hot water	6	3	2			1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	17	3	2			8
Deteriorating	15	3	10	1	1	9
With all plumbing facilities	2	3	4	1	1	2
Lacking only hot water			1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	13		5			7
Dilapidated	4	2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	31	1	8			30
Sound	23		5			26
With all plumbing facilities	10		3			23
Lacking some or all facilities	13		2			3
Deteriorating	4		3			4
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities	4		3			4
Dilapidated	4	1
Number of Rooms
All housing units	88	135	50	218	122	146
1						1
2	3	1		1		2
3	7	5	2			2
4	13	15	7	6	3	44
5	29	54	14	57	27	36
6	14	35	15	95	40	42
7	9	14	7	45	33	13
8 or more	13	11	5	14	19	6
Median	5.2	5.4	5.6	6.0	6.3	5.2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	31	1	8			30
1
2	1					1
3	3	1				1
4	2		1			3
5	11		4			11
6	6		1			9
7	4		2			5
8 or more	4
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	83	124	43	194	94	141
1	9	3	1	4	2	9
2	19	42	9	43	31	39
3	15	30	12	55	29	35
4	12	25	6	66	17	25
5	9	19	7	18	11	17
6 or more	19	5	8	8	4	16
Median	3.4	3.1		3.4	3.0	3.1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	31	1	8			30
1	4		1			5
2	5	1				8
3	3		4			7
4	3					3
5	3		2			1
6 or more	13		1			6
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	83	124	43	194	94	141
0.50 or less	32	58	18	86	62	54
0.51 to 0.75	19	33	7	76	21	45
0.76 to 1.00	13	31	10	32	10	28
1.01 or more	19	2	8		1	14
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	31	1	8			30
0.50 or less	11		2			13
0.51 to 0.75	5	1	3			8
0.76 to 1.00	3		2			3
1.01 or more	12		1			6
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0025T	043 001 043 0025U	043 001 043 0026N	043 001 043 0026P	043 001 043 0026R	043 001 043 0026S
Total population	328	402	171	659	299	492
White	174	399	139	659	298	385
Negro	154	3	32		1	107
Other races
Total population	328	402	171	659	299	492
Pop. in households	328	402	171	659	299	492
Head of household	83	124	43	194	94	141
Head of prim. fam.	72	120	42	189	92	130
Primary individual	11	4	1	5	2	11
Wife of head	63	110	38	182	89	118
Child under 18	84	106	70	241	95	183
Other relative	89	56	19	39	19	48
Nonrelative	9	6	1	3	2	2
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	3.95	3.24	3.98	3.40	3.18	3.49
Nonwhite population	154	3	32		1	107
Pop. in households	154	3	32		1	107
Head of household	31	1	8			30
Head of prim. fam.	26	1	7			24
Primary individual	5		1			6
Wife of head	22		6			19
Child under 18	38		7			34
Other relative	55	1	10			23
Nonrelative	8	1	1		1	1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	4.97					3.57

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	158	170	208	194	84	87	311	348	152	147	257	235
Under 1 year	3	3	5	2	1	2	6	7	6	2	11	4
1 year	2	1	1	4	2	1	6	13	5	1	8	2
2 years	4	5	1	2	4	1	12	11	2	2	5	8
3 years	3	6	4	1	3	2	10	8	3	2	4	5
4 years	2	2	4	2	2	4	11	7	2	5	6	4
5 years	2	3	3	3	3	5	8	5	3	5	6	5
6 years	4	2	5	6	1	1	12	6	4	2	10	4
7 years	2	2	5	1	3	1	5	11	2	1	6	5
8 years	5	2	5	6	1	3	6	7	5	2	7	6
9 years	4	3	5	3	1	2	6	13	4	3	9	3
10 years	3	9	5		3	1	5	9		1	5	9
11 years	4		3	2	2	2	7	10	5	1	6	5
12 years	4	2	3	2	1	3	5	7	2	2	2	3
13 years	6	3	2	7	2	2	7	6	5	5	8	5
14 years	3	4	2	5	3	1		3	2		4	1
15 years	3	4	5	2		1	1	5	4	2	4	5
16 years	6	7	5	3	2	2	2	5	2	2	5
17 years	3	4	4	2	4	1	1	5	2	1	6	4
18 years	5	3	1	4	3	1	3	1	1	2	3	4
19 years	1	3	2	3	2	2	1	2			3	1
20 years		2	6	2		1	2	3		1	2	3
21 years and over	89	100	132	132	41	48	195	204	93	105	137	149
Total population	158	170	208	194	84	87	311	348	152	147	257	235
Under 5 years	14	17	15	11	12	10	45	46	18	12	34	23
5 to 9 years	17	12	23	19	9	12	37	42	18	13	38	23
10 to 14 years	20	18	15	16	11	9	24	35	14	9	25	23
15 to 19 years	18	21	17	14	11	7	8	18	9	7	21	14
20 to 24 years	9	8	10	7	2	4	7	20	2	1	11	12
25 to 29 years	5	6	9	15	5	10	35	39	3	7	10	17
30 to 34 years	6	10	12	9	7	5	43	40	15	18	15	16
35 to 39 years	9	15	15	27	5	7	43	33	17	20	20	28
40 to 44 years	15	12	19	11	5	4	15	23	17	15	24	26
45 to 49 years	10	5	11	12	6	5	23	15	9	6	25	17
50 to 54 years	5	9	18	14	5	5	12	19	12	13	11	10
55 to 59 years	8	11	10	9	1	1	10	7	8	6	9	7
60 to 64 years	4	9	7	9	3	1	5	2	4	4	4	7
65 to 69 years	10	10	12	13	1	1	3	4	2	7	3	3
70 to 74 years	5	4	9	5	1	6		3		1	4	5
75 to 79 years	1	1		2				1	3	5	1	3
80 to 84 years	2		3	1			1			2		1
85 years and over		2	3					1	1	1	2
18 years and over	95	108	141	141	46	52	201	210	94	108	145	157
Median age	26.0	31.5	36.0	36.1	19.5	25.8	29.9	26.7	34.0	36.6	24.8	31.7
Nonwhite population	75	79	2	1	16	16				1	55	52
Under 5 years	8	11			1						7	4
5 to 9 years	9	9				1					6	4
10 to 14 years	11	9			2	2					4	3
15 to 19 years	12	11			3	4					7	4
20 to 24 years	4	5									4	2
25 to 29 years	1	2				2					2	2
30 to 34 years	3	7			2						2	2
35 to 39 years	3	5			1	1					2	4
40 to 44 years	5	5									4	8
45 to 49 years	4	2			2	2					6	2
50 to 54 years			1	1	3	2					3	2
55 to 59 years	2	5				1					4	2
60 to 64 years	2	2			2					1	1	3
65 to 69 years	6	5	1									1
70 to 74 years	4	1				1					2	2
75 years and over	1										1	3
18 years and over	38	42	2	1	12	11				1	33	35
21 years and over	35	38	2	1	10	9				1	29	33
Median age	19.0	19.8									24.4	36.3
Total, 14 & over	110	127	157	153	53	57	205	228	104	113	164	167
Single	31	30	32	26	13	10	15	25	12	9	34	23
Married	74	75	115	118	39	40	185	188	90	92	124	125
Separated	3	5		2	1	2	1	1			1	2
Widowed	4	20	10	8		6	1	11	2	10	5	16
Divorced	1	2		1	1	1	4	4		2	1	3
Nonwhite, 14+	48	52	2	1	14	13				1	39	37
Single	17	16	2		6	5					13	6
Married	28	30		1	7	7					22	22
Separated	2	5		1	1	1						2
Widowed	3	5				1					3	7
Divorced		1			1					1	1	2

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0026TA	043 0026TB	043 0027N	043 0027P	043 0027R	043 0027SA
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	146	1	126	211	109	230
Owner occupied	105		100	156	95	202
White	48		100	102	94	195
Nonwhite	57			54	1	7
Renter occupied	34		23	26	8	15
White	19		23	10	8	14
Nonwhite	15			16		1
Available vacant	4		2	23	2	8
For rent	2		2
For sale only	2			23	2	8
Other vacant	3		1	6	4	5
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	146		126	211	109	230
Sound	108		118	173	104	222
With all plumbing facilities	91		116	167	102	221
Lacking only hot water	3		1		1	1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	14		1	6	1
Deteriorating	34		6	13	3	8
With all plumbing facilities	12		6	6	2	5
Lacking only hot water	2
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	20			7	1	3
Dilapidated	4		2	25	2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	72			70	1	8
Sound	43			44		7
With all plumbing facilities	31			40		6
Lacking some or all facilities	12			4		1
Deteriorating	26			8		1
With all plumbing facilities	5			4		1
Lacking some or all facilities	21			4
Dilapidated	3			18	1
Number of Rooms
All housing units	146		126	211	109	230
1	1					2
2	4			4		4
3	13		1	6	2	36
4	28		23	12	4	29
5	40		41	114	27	79
6	32		31	59	41	49
7	20		16	10	22	14
8 or more	8		14	6	13	17
Median	5.2		5.5	5.2	6.0	5.1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	72			70	1	8
1						1
2	1			4
3	5			1		1
4	12			6		1
5	19			43	1	1
6	18			11		3
7	10			3
8 or more	7			2		1
Median	5.4			5.1
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	139		123	182	103	217
1	9		9	9	2	15
2	37		35	32	15	63
3	32		20	47	26	43
4	24		23	44	28	50
5	14		21	27	20	29
6 or more	23		15	23	12	17
Median	3.2		3.4	3.6	3.8	3.2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	72			70	1	8
1	5			4		1
2	21			12		6
3	12			19		1
4	6			9	1
5	8			11
6 or more	20			15
Median	3.3			3.5
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	139		123	182	103	217
0.50 or less	54		52	54	36	80
0.51 to 0.75	33		34	53	34	61
0.76 to 1.00	33		29	56	28	58
1.01 or more	19		8	19	5	18
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	72			70	1	8
0.50 or less	32			19		6
0.51 to 0.75	12			16		1
0.76 to 1.00	12			21	1	1
1.01 or more	16			14
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 0026TA	043 001 043 0026TB	043 001 043 0027N	043 001 043 0027P	043 001 043 0027R	043 001 043 0027SA
Total population	513	2	429	682	404	732
White	216		429	397	400	716
Negro	297			285	4	16
Other races
Total population	513		429	682	404	732
Pop. in households	513		429	682	404	722
Head of household	139		123	182	103	217
Head of prim. fam.	130		112	172	101	200
Primary individual	9		11	10	2	17
Wife of head	106		101	160	96	185
Child under 18	152		142	248	165	259
Other relative	111		56	83	39	52
Nonrelative	5		7	9	1	9
Pop. in group quarters						10
Inmate of institution
Other						10
Pop. per household	3.69		3.49	3.75	3.92	3.33
Nonwhite population	297			285	4	16
Pop. in households	297			285	4	16
Head of household	72			70	1	8
Head of prim. fam.	67			65	1	7
Primary individual	5			5		1
Wife of head	51			59	1	6
Child under 18	89			94		2
Other relative	82			55	2
Nonrelative	3			7
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household	4.13			4.07

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	245	268			207	222	344	338	203	201	353	379
Under 1 year	3	7			6	1	13	8	2	5	9	14
1 year	7	3			3	8	18	5	4	2	9	9
2 years	9	8			3	1	15	10	7	8	5	6
3 years	5	12			6	5	8	13	4	2	10	10
4 years	9	8			5	6	14	12	4	5	9	12
5 years	3	6			4	3	9	5	4	11	11	9
6 years	2	8			7	4	7	10	3	3	9	7
7 years	3	8			4	5	5	10	6	7	8	12
8 years	6	6			7	3	9	8	6	3	7	6
9 years	7	8			6	7	11	3	9	8	9	12
10 years	4	5			3	3	3	10	3	5	4	13
11 years	3	8			3	2	5	7	7	3	6	3
12 years	6	6			4	4	6	6	2	5	8	5
13 years	6	3			2	4	7	4	5	2	8	8
14 years	8	6			4	4	2	2	6	3	9	6
15 years	5	6			3	3	1	6	2	8	3	4
16 years	7	2			3	7	4	2	4	4	4	3
17 years	2	1			4	4	5	4	8	2	4	6
18 years	4	2			1	2	1	4	1		5	2
19 years	3	3			5	3	4	1	2	1	2	4
20 years	3	4			3		5	2	1	2	4
21 years and over	140	157			121	143	192	197	113	115	210	228
Total population	245	268			207	222	344	338	203	201	353	379
Under 5 years	33	35			23	21	68	57	21	19	42	51
5 to 9 years	21	30			28	22	41	36	28	32	44	46
10 to 14 years	27	28			16	17	23	29	23	18	35	35
15 to 19 years	21	14			16	19	15	17	17	15	18	19
20 to 24 years	11	18			7	8	15	33	6	6	13	22
25 to 29 years	8	20			15	16	40	36	7	13	22	39
30 to 34 years	20	21			22	21	37	33	13	14	40	37
35 to 39 years	18	21			10	14	34	26	19	27	35	32
40 to 44 years	24	15			17	13	19	21	28	18	38	21
45 to 49 years	13	17			11	21	21	14	6	8	23	29
50 to 54 years	15	16			12	9	7	10	9	7	10	17
55 to 59 years	10	9			6	11	7	8	12	13	16	10
60 to 64 years	3	8			10	16	4	3	6	3	7	2
65 to 69 years	10	10			5	5	5	6	6	4	5	10
70 to 74 years	6	3			5	2	5	4	1	1	3	5
75 to 79 years	4	8			2	3	3	4			1	4
80 to 84 years	1	2			2	3				3	1
85 years and over						1		1	1
18 years and over	150	166			130	148	202	204	117	118	221	234
Median age	30.4	28.3			29.5	31.9	26.3	24.5	29.6	29.0	30.3	27.1
Nonwhite population	144	153					145	140	2	2	8	8
Under 5 years	16	19					17	17
5 to 9 years	12	17					23	19
10 to 14 years	22	22					14	16
15 to 19 years	17	9					8	9			1	1
20 to 24 years	7	6					7	9
25 to 29 years	5	8					6	5
30 to 34 years	7	13					14	17
35 to 39 years	11	15					18	14
40 to 44 years	16	12					11	12				1
45 to 49 years	9	8					12	8			1	1
50 to 54 years	6	7					3	5		1		2
55 to 59 years	5	8					4	4			4	2
60 to 64 years	1	3					2	1			1
65 to 69 years	6	8					2	2	1	1
70 to 74 years	2	2					3	1	1		1	1
75 years and over	2	2					1	1
18 years and over	81	90					86	82	2	2	7	7
21 years and over	75	80					81	77	2	2	7	7
Median age	23.6	27.2					27.9	25.0
Total, 14 & over	172	181			144	166	214	218	137	135	241	253
Single	44	28			32	29	37	25	27	23	35	40
Married	120	128			108	113	173	173	106	103	196	194
Separated	5	7			2	5	2	2	1		2	3
Widowed	5	26			2	21	3	15	1	8	8	15
Divorced	3	6			2	3	1	5	3	1	2	4
Nonwhite, 14+	101	99					93	90	2	2	8	8
Single	32	18					22	14			2	1
Married	65	65					67	68	2	2	6	7
Separated	5	4					2	1				1
Widowed	1	14					3	7
Divorced	3	2					1	1

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 00275B	043 00275C	043 0028N	043 0028P	043 0029N	043 0029P
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	2	5	223	170	17	128
Owner occupied			201	165	10	88
White			201	165	10	88
Nonwhite
Renter occupied		5	19	4	3	29
White		5	19	4	2	29
Nonwhite					1
Available vacant			3	1	1	8
For rent					1	2
For sale only			3	1		6
Other vacant					3	3
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units		5	223	170	17	128
Sound		2	204	170	16	123
With all plumbing facilities		2	198	170	12	119
Lacking only hot water			1		1	2
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water			5		3	2
Deteriorating		2	17		1	3
With all plumbing facilities		2	5		1
Lacking only hot water			1			3
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water			11
Dilapidated		1	2			2
Housing units occupied by nonwhites					1
Sound					1
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities					1
Deteriorating
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated
Number of Rooms
All housing units		5	223	170	17	128
1			1
2			1			2
3			10		3	3
4		1	27		5	69
5		3	120	142	4	24
6			37	28	2	20
7		1	12		1	5
8 or more			15		2	5
Median			5.1	5.1		4.4
Housing units occupied by nonwhites					1
1
2
3
4					1
5
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units		5	220	169	13	117
1			10		1	4
2		1	56	30	7	28
3		2	61	39	3	17
4			38	58	1	34
5		2	29	33	1	21
6 or more			26	9		13
Median			3.2	3.8		3.8
Housing units occupied by nonwhites					1
1
2					1
3
4
5
6 or more
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units		5	220	169	13	117
0.50 or less		1	81	35	7	32
0.51 to 0.75		3	54	45	6	28
0.76 to 1.00		1	64	82		40
1.01 or more			21	7		17
Housing units occupied by nonwhites					1
0.50 or less					1
0.51 to 0.75
0.76 to 1.00
1.01 or more
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 001 043 00275B		043 001 043 00275C		043 001 043 0028N		043 001 043 0028P		043 001 043 0029N		043 001 043 0029P
Total population			3		196		782		630		39	480
White					196		781		630		31	479
Negro							1				8	1
Other races
Total population					196		782		630		39	480
Pop. in households					18		782		630		33	437
Head of household					5		220		169		13	117
Head of prim. fam.					5		209		169		12	112
Primary individual							11				1	5
Wife of head					5		197		168		12	109
Child under 18					5		279		267		3	174
Other relative					1		80		25		5	33
Nonrelative					2		6		1			4
Pop. in group quarters					178						6	43
Inmate of institution												38
Other					178						6	5
Pop. per household							3.55		3.73			3.74
Nonwhite population							1				8	1
Pop. in households							1				2
Head of household											1
Head of prim. fam.											1
Primary individual
Wife of head											1
Child under 18
Other relative
Nonrelative							1
Pop. in group quarters											6	1
Inmate of institution												1
Other											6
Pop. per household
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population			33	163	383	399	316	314	21	18	257	223
Under 1 year					9	6	14	15			4	3
1 year					18	16	14	15			8	5
2 years					14	19	18	15			10	5
3 years				1	19	15	15	19		1	8	6
4 years			2		6	16	14	9			6	8
5 years			1	3	10	10	16	9			7	8
6 years			1	7	8	11	7	11			6	9
7 years			2	5	9	7	6	7			6	6
8 years			3	7	10	5	5	6			8	5
9 years			10	13	6	1	4	4	1		8	5
10 years			2	8	10	5	3	8	1		5	3
11 years			1	14	5	1	3	4			14	3
12 years			1	7	5	5	3	2	1		9	6
13 years				14	7	12	4	4		1	12	5
14 years				10	5	3	2	5			11	3
15 years				6	4	7	5	1	1		5	3
16 years				8	3	4	3	1	1		2	1
17 years				7	8	12	3				4	1
18 years			1	6	4	2		2		1	3	4
19 years			1	1	1	4	1	1		1	2	3
20 years				2	4	10	2	1			2	2
21 years and over			8	44	218	228	174	175	16	14	117	129
Total population			33	163	383	399	316	314	21	18	257	223
Under 5 years			2	1	60	72	75	73		1	36	27
5 to 9 years			17	35	43	34	38	37	1		35	33
10 to 14 years			4	53	32	26	15	23	2	1	51	20
15 to 19 years			2	28	20	29	12	5	2	2	16	12
20 to 24 years			1	2	20	31	16	36	2	2	9	15
25 to 29 years				4	50	53	60	59	1	1	19	18
30 to 34 years				1	38	33	37	23	1		20	21
35 to 39 years			2	4	33	30	29	27	1	1	17	22
40 to 44 years			2	4	16	22	17	14	1	2	11	13
45 to 49 years				4	16	18	9	6	1	1	18	12
50 to 54 years			2	7	18	15	4	1	2	3	6	9
55 to 59 years			1	8	11	13	1	3	5	2	10	6
60 to 64 years				5	10	8	1	3		2	6	5
65 to 69 years				1	4	9	1	2			2	4
70 to 74 years				3	2	1		1	1		1	2
75 to 79 years				2	1	3	1	1				2
80 to 84 years				1	1	2			1			1
85 years and over					2							1
18 years and over			10	53	227	244	177	179	16	16	124	138
Median age				14.3	26.1	25.7	25.2	22.6			17.0	26.3
Nonwhite population						1			5	3	1
Under 5 years
5 to 9 years
10 to 14 years									2	1	1
15 to 19 years									1
20 to 24 years						1
25 to 29 years
30 to 34 years
35 to 39 years									1
40 to 44 years
45 to 49 years
50 to 54 years										2
55 to 59 years
60 to 64 years
65 to 69 years
70 to 74 years									1
75 years and over
18 years and over						1			2	2
21 years and over									2	2
Median age
Total, 14 & over			10	84	247	270	190	186	18	16	146	146
Single			4	77	33	31	20	9	4	3	30	17
Married			6	7	205	214	170	169	14	13	111	113
Separated				1	1	7	1		2	1	1
Widowed					6	22		7			2	15
Divorced					3	3		1			3	1
Nonwhite, 14+						1			3	2	1
Single						1			1		1
Married									2	2
Separated									1	1
Widowed
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0047R	043 0048	043 0049	043 0050 A	043 0050 B	043 0051
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	123	391	360	398	151	291
Owner occupied	110	368	295	221	138	121
White	108	368	291	221	138	121
Nonwhite	2		4
Renter occupied	10	13	57	160	11	164
White	8	13	57	160	11	163
Nonwhite	2					1
Available vacant	2	4	4	16	1	5
For rent				8		3
For sale only	2	4	4	8	1	2
Other vacant	1	6	4	1	1	1
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	123	391	360	398	151	291
Sound	111	389	356	391	149	290
With all plumbing facilities	104	389	348	391	149	287
Lacking only hot water			3
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	7		5			3
Deteriorating	12	2	4	6	2
With all plumbing facilities	7	2	3	5	2
Lacking only hot water			1	1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	5
Dilapidated				1		1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4		4			1
Sound	2		4			1
With all plumbing facilities			3			1
Lacking some or all facilities	2		1
Deteriorating	2
With all plumbing facilities	2
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated
Number of Rooms
All housing units	123	391	360	398	151	291
1
2			4
3	2		4	44	1	21
4	16	17	36	72	92	99
5	53	245	201	146	38	103
6	26	86	59	97	15	60
7	16	35	43	29	4	5
8 or more	10	8	13	10	1	3
Median	5.3	5.2	5.2	5.1	4.3	4.7
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4		4			1
1
2
3
4	1
5	1		2			1
6			1
7	2
8 or more			1
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	120	381	352	381	149	285
1	2	8	15	18	13	9
2	20	86	112	92	39	86
3	24	99	100	95	36	58
4	30	111	75	96	32	67
5	26	53	35	42	19	48
6 or more	18	24	15	38	10	17
Median	4.0	3.5	3.0	3.3	3.1	3.3
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4		4			1
1
2	1		1
3			1
4			1			1
5	2
6 or more	1		1
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	120	381	352	381	149	285
0.50 or less	32	129	153	114	52	91
0.51 to 0.75	35	110	114	137	43	79
0.76 to 1.00	39	125	77	106	35	97
1.01 or more	14	17	8	24	19	18
Housing units occupied by nonwhites	4		4			1
0.50 or less	1		1
0.51 to 0.75	2		1
0.76 to 1.00			1			1
1.01 or more	1		1
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 002 043 0047R	043 002 043 0048	043 002 043 0049	043 002 043 0050 A	043 002 043 0050 B	043 002 043 0051
Total population	485	1353	1131	1344	487	969
White	464	1351	1110	1342	487	965
Negro	21	2	5
Other races			16	2		4
Total population	485	1353	1131	1344	487	969
Pop. in households	485	1345	1116	1344	487	969
Head of household	120	381	352	381	149	285
Head of prim. fam.	118	373	335	360	136	276
Primary individual	2	8	17	21	13	9
Wife of head	104	352	306	337	124	249
Child under 18	168	478	303	462	155	373
Other relative	91	124	139	147	53	56
Nonrelative	2	10	16	17	6	6
Pop. in group quarters		8	15
Inmate of institution
Other		8	15
Pop. per household	4.04	3.53	3.17	3.53	3.27	3.40
Nonwhite population	21	2	21	2		4
Pop. in households	21	2	21	2		4
Head of household	4		4			1
Head of prim. fam.	4		4			1
Primary individual
Wife of head	2		3	1		1
Child under 18			10			2
Other relative	14		3
Nonrelative	1	2	1	1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	230	255	656	697	556	575	618	726	229	258	478	491
Under 1 year	1	3	12	24	11	8	16	17	4	6	16	22
1 year	3	1	15	15	4	8	12	17	5	2	31	19
2 years	7	7	25	19	12	13	20	20	6	11	21	18
3 years	4	6	16	16	15	5	13	11	4	3	9	14
4 years	6	5	20	21	12	8	16	14	8	7	15	14
5 years	7	9	18	17	8	7	16	25	2	10	16	15
6 years	5	4	17	17	7	3	7	14	5	5	14	9
7 years	4	5	12	12	7	6	9	26	5	4	4	8
8 years	7	5	15	13	3	7	15	13	7	3	8	7
9 years	7	8	16	19	11	9	10	14	3	2	9	9
10 years	3	4	11	13	6	8	12	14	4	7	15	6
11 years	4	11	14	14	6	9	14	11	6	3	12	6
12 years	7	7	11	13	12	13	16	18	4	8	7	7
13 years	8	6	11	16	13	13	17	21	4	7	6	8
14 years	3	4	8	5	15	13	7	10	3	3	8	5
15 years	7	6	6	10	4	8	5	7	3		1	4
16 years	3	8	4	3	14	11	6	8	5	4	1	7
17 years	4		9	7	15	6	8	9	2		6	6
18 years	5	3	8	8	12	9	9	9	2	3	6	6
19 years	4	2	1	5	5	7	3	12	2	4	5	15
20 years		3	6	3	6	9	5	24	2	3	7	15
21 years and over	131	148	401	427	356	395	382	412	143	163	261	271
Total population	230	255	656	697	556	575	618	726	229	258	478	491
Under 5 years	21	22	88	95	54	42	77	79	27	29	92	87
5 to 9 years	30	31	78	78	36	32	57	92	22	24	51	48
10 to 14 years	25	32	55	61	54	56	66	74	21	28	48	32
15 to 19 years	23	19	28	33	50	41	31	45	14	11	19	38
20 to 24 years	10	13	29	32	36	34	50	70	10	13	44	61
25 to 29 years	8	12	60	66	27	25	61	60	9	14	67	67
30 to 34 years	16	21	74	72	27	32	47	65	22	22	44	38
35 to 39 years	22	22	64	68	32	41	68	63	26	23	34	35
40 to 44 years	15	19	54	47	44	54	47	43	18	28	20	22
45 to 49 years	23	14	40	47	50	59	34	28	19	13	19	20
50 to 54 years	11	12	31	28	50	58	19	25	16	18	14	11
55 to 59 years	11	7	23	23	41	36	24	23	6	7	8	11
60 to 64 years	6	6	15	10	21	17	16	22	7	9	10	9
65 to 69 years	3	11	11	14	15	18	6	13	4	8	4	7
70 to 74 years	2	7	4	14	8	16	3	13	6	6	2	3
75 to 79 years	2	6	1	6	6	12	7	9	2	4		2
80 to 84 years	2	1	1	2	3	2	4	2			1
85 years and over				1	2		1			1	1
18 years and over	140	156	416	443	379	420	399	457	149	173	279	307
Median age	28.8	29.4	29.2	28.8	33.9	38.1	27.3	25.3	32.6	32.3	23.3	23.3
Nonwhite population	9	12		2	11	10		2			1	3
Under 5 years	1	1			2	1						1
5 to 9 years	1	1			3	2						1
10 to 14 years		2			1	1
15 to 19 years						1
20 to 24 years				1	1	1		1
25 to 29 years					1			1
30 to 34 years	1	3			1	1					1
35 to 39 years				1	1							1
40 to 44 years		2
45 to 49 years
50 to 54 years	2	1			1	2
55 to 59 years	1					1
60 to 64 years		1
65 to 69 years
70 to 74 years		1
75 years and over	3
18 years and over	7	8		2	5	6		2			1	1
21 years and over	7	8		1	5	5		2			1	1
Median age
Total, 14 & over	157	174	443	468	427	458	425	491	162	180	295	329
Single	31	30	63	50	98	80	63	60	26	20	30	31
Married	115	115	368	370	317	318	351	373	130	129	258	264
Separated	1	3	2	2	3	1		7	1	1		4
Widowed	8	24	5	39	5	51	8	42	2	24	3	20
Divorced	3	3	7	9	7	9	3	18	4	7	4	14
Nonwhite, 14+	7	9		2	5	6		2			1	1
Single	1	3		2	2	3
Married	4	5			3	3		2			1	1
Separated		3						1
Widowed	2	1
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0052 A	043 0052 B	043 0053	043 0054N	043 0054P	043 0055NA
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	401	153	519	223	70	55
Owner occupied	287	139	467	121	56	28
White	287	139	451	105	45	27
Nonwhite			16	16	11	1
Renter occupied	109	4	33	96	11	20
White	109	4	30	95	9	17
Nonwhite			3	1	2	3
Available vacant	4	9	19	3	1	2
For rent	2	4	3	1		2
For sale only	2	5	16	2	1
Other vacant	1	1		3	2	5
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	401	153	519	223	70	55
Sound	400	148	513	197	47	32
With all plumbing facilities	400	148	511	161	39	27
Lacking only hot water			1	6	1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water			1	30	7	5
Deteriorating	1	4	6	22	18	12
With all plumbing facilities		3	1	7	8	3
Lacking only hot water			1	1	3	5
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	1	1	4	14	7	4
Dilapidated		1		4	5	11
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			19	17	13	4
Sound			17	12	8
With all plumbing facilities			17	6
Lacking some or all facilities				6	8
Deteriorating			2	5	4	3
With all plumbing facilities				1
Lacking some or all facilities			2	4	4	3
Dilapidated					1	1
Number of Rooms
All housing units	401	153	519	223	70	55
1		1			2
2				1		3
3	19	2	1	11	7	5
4	75	41	19	129	15	10
5	197	73	409	30	15	19
6	97	14	72	29	10	12
7	10	21	12	11	10	3
8 or more	3	1	6	12	11	3
Median	5.0	4.9	5.1	4.3	5.2	5.0
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			19	17	13	4
1					2
2						1
3				2	5
4			1	4	4
5			12	5		3
6			6	6
7					1
8 or more					1
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units	396	143	500	217	67	48
1	8	10	14	20	7	4
2	90	34	102	68	13	16
3	108	35	136	40	15	7
4	105	33	134	34	14	9
5	55	21	66	31	11	7
6 or more	30	10	48	24	7	5
Median	3.4	3.3	3.5	3.0	3.4
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			19	17	13	4
1			1	4	5	2
2			8	4	3
3			5	3	2	1
4			1
5			1	3	1
6 or more			3	3	2	1
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units	396	143	500	217	67	48
0.50 or less	115	50	132	93	24	21
0.51 to 0.75	119	43	143	42	19	11
0.76 to 1.00	141	40	185	46	17	10
1.01 or more	21	10	40	36	7	6
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			19	17	13	4
0.50 or less			9	9	6	2
0.51 to 0.75			6	1	1	1
0.76 to 1.00			1	3	4
1.01 or more			3	4	2	1
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 002 043 0052 A	043 002 043 0052 B	043 002 043 0053	043 002 043 0054N	043 002 043 0054P	043 002 043 0055NA
Total population	1397	492	1809	723	245	163
White	1397	492	1745	664	211	149
Negro			62	59	34	14
Other races			2
Total population	1397	492	1809	723	245	163
Pop. in households	1397	485	1809	723	245	163
Head of household	396	143	500	217	67	48
Head of prim. fam.	388	132	483	193	59	44
Primary individual	8	11	17	24	8	4
Wife of head	365	123	465	175	49	39
Child under 18	531	158	709	227	58	37
Other relative	97	55	119	83	64	38
Nonrelative	8	6	16	21	7	1
Pop. in group quarters		7
Inmate of institution		5
Other		2
Pop. per household	3.53	3.39	3.62	3.33	3.66	3.40
Nonwhite population			64	59	34	14
Pop. in households			64	59	34	14
Head of household			19	17	13	4
Head of prim. fam.			17	13	8	2
Primary individual			2	4	5	2
Wife of head			17	10	5	2
Child under 18			23	14	6	6
Other relative			3	15	9	2
Nonrelative			2	3	1
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household			3.37	3.47

	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	685	712	232	260	862	947	351	372	119	126	79	84
Under 1 year	26	29	4	6	35	39	9	7	2		2	1
1 year	24	30	3	5	35	47	7	11	2	1
2 years	23	18	3	8	29	40	11	8	1	3
3 years	27	15	3	2	47	29	7	2	6	4	2
4 years	29	21	7	3	28	31	6	10	1	3	2	3
5 years	11	28	4	4	26	30	12	5	2	3	3
6 years	18	20	6	7	21	23	10	9	2		2	2
7 years	16	21	3	5	12	23	5	6		4	1	2
8 years	19	15	2	5	16	14	5	10	4	2	3	1
9 years	14	21	6	5	15	16	5	7	1	3		1
10 years	15	7	6	2	13	13	7	9	2	2	1	1
11 years	9	9	7	3	8	15	9	3	4	5	2	2
12 years	11	7	6	6	12	18	7	7	4	2		1
13 years	7	11	6	7	11	7	6	8		4	2
14 years	3	4	6	3	9	6	8	6	1	3	1
15 years	3	11	6	5	8	10	8	6	1	1	1	1
16 years	5	2	4	7	2	9	8	8	3		1
17 years	4	6	1	7	7	17	1	6	3		1	4
18 years	4	6	3	6	12	8	8	5	2	3	1	2
19 years	3	9	3	2	2	8		10	2		1
20 years	4	4	1	2	3	14	3	1	2
21 years and over	410	418	140	160	511	530	209	228	74	83	53	63
Total population	685	712	232	260	862	947	351	372	119	126	79	84
Under 5 years	129	113	20	24	174	186	40	38	12	11	6	4
5 to 9 years	78	105	21	26	90	106	37	37	9	12	9	6
10 to 14 years	45	38	33	21	53	59	37	33	11	16	6	4
15 to 19 years	19	34	17	27	31	52	25	35	11	4	5	7
20 to 24 years	48	73	9	15	48	94	15	17	4	3	4	2
25 to 29 years	94	102	9	14	113	135	25	28	7	9	2	7
30 to 34 years	95	79	15	16	120	102	25	21	7	7	3	5
35 to 39 years	58	57	33	33	77	55	25	34	8	11	5	6
40 to 44 years	48	31	19	19	42	41	28	24	11	6	1	11
45 to 49 years	26	21	15	13	42	28	17	22	7	11	10	7
50 to 54 years	11	18	15	17	22	26	15	20	6	11	5	6
55 to 59 years	15	15	7	8	18	18	17	15	7	1	7	8
60 to 64 years	5	10	6	9	11	10	17	19	5	9	6	2
65 to 69 years	5	8	7	2	3	15	11	8	5	7	5	3
70 to 74 years	4	5	3	7	8	9	9	12	6	4	2	4
75 to 79 years	4	3	3	4	6	3	6	4	2	1	2	1
80 to 84 years				4	4	4	1	4	1	2
85 years and over	1			1		4	1	1		1	1	1
18 years and over	421	437	147	170	528	560	220	244	80	86	55	65
Median age	26.3	24.5	32.3	30.9	26.5	23.8	29.3	29.6	33.9	35.5	39.5	40.5
Nonwhite population					25	39	27	32	16	18	7	7
Under 5 years					2	12			2	3
5 to 9 years					3	2		1	2	1	2
10 to 14 years					1	2	4	5	1	2	1	1
15 to 19 years						1	4	8	1		1	2
20 to 24 years						1	2	1				1
25 to 29 years					2	8			1	2
30 to 34 years					8	5		1	2	1
35 to 39 years					5	3	4	4
40 to 44 years						1	4	1	1	1		1
45 to 49 years					2		2	3		1	1	2
50 to 54 years					1	1	1	1		2
55 to 59 years						2	1	1	2
60 to 64 years							1	1	3	3	1
65 to 69 years							3	2		2	1
70 to 74 years								1	1
75 years and over					1	1	1	2
18 years and over					19	22	20	21	11	12	4	4
21 years and over					19	22	19	18	10	12	3	4
Median age
Total, 14 & over	436	460	164	192	554	602	245	270	88	90	59	70
Single	44	40	31	36	62	76	50	46	19	8	13	16
Married	380	383	125	130	478	484	183	185	59	60	42	44
Separated	4	8		3	3	8	2	2	1			2
Widowed	6	27	4	19	7	34	9	31	6	20	3	10
Divorced	6	10	4	7	7	8	3	8	4	2	1
Nonwhite, 14+					19	23	25	28	11	12	4	6
Single						4	10	12	1	1	1	4
Married					17	18	13	12	7	5	3	2
Separated					1	1	2		1
Widowed					2	1	1	3	2	6
Divorced							1	1	1

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0055NR	043 0055P	043 0055R	043 0055S	043 0056	043 0057
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	3	134	80	15	245	313
Owner occupied		112	60	6	219	212
White		112	60	6	219	212
Nonwhite
Renter occupied		20	1	9	23	94
White		20	1	3	23	94
Nonwhite				6
Available vacant		2	4			2
For rent		1
For sale only		1	4			2
Other vacant			15		3	5
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units		134	80	15	245	313
Sound		132	80	15	238	313
With all plumbing facilities		125	80	8	235	310
Lacking only hot water		2		5	1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water		5		2	2	3
Deteriorating		1			6
With all plumbing facilities					3
Lacking only hot water					2
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water		1			1
Dilapidated		1			1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites				6
Sound				6
With all plumbing facilities				1
Lacking some or all facilities				5
Deteriorating
With all plumbing facilities
Lacking some or all facilities
Dilapidated
Number of Rooms
All housing units		134	80	15	245	313
1		1		1
2		2				2
3		6		1	4	2
4		13		6	92	151
5		75	18	3	103	122
6		29	46	3	30	24
7		6	10		10	8
8 or more		2	6	1	6	4
Median		5.1	6.0		4.8	4.5
Housing units occupied by nonwhites				6
1				1
2
3
4				4
5				1
6
7
8 or more
Median
Number of Persons
All occupied housing units		132	61	15	242	306
1		10		2	10	12
2		39	12	3	68	89
3		25	15	5	55	89
4		32	17	3	60	80
5		14	11	1	38	22
6 or more		12	6	1	11	14
Median		3.2	3.7		3.3	3.1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites				6
1				1
2				1
3				1
4				1
5				1
6 or more				1
Median
Persons Per Room
All occupied housing units		132	61	15	242	306
0.50 or less		53	26	7	90	111
0.51 to 0.75		30	19	3	58	90
0.76 to 1.00		40	15	2	77	82
1.01 or more		9	1	3	17	23
Housing units occupied by nonwhites				6
0.50 or less				1
0.51 to 0.75				1
0.76 to 1.00				2
1.01 or more				2
Value of Property
Owner-occupied housing units
Less than $5,000
$5,000 to $9,900
$10,000 to $14,900
$15,000 to $19,900
$20,000 to $24,900
$25,000 or more
Median ... dollars
Contract Rent
Renter-occupied housing units
Average ... dollars

Race, relationship, age, and marital status	043 002 043 0055NR		043 002 043 0055P		043 002 043 0055R		043 002 043 0055S		043 002 043 0056		043 002 043 0057
Total population	76		437		232		48		811		976
White	76		437		232		25		811		976
Negro							23
Other races
Total population	76		437		232		48		811		976
Pop. in households	6		437		232		48		811		976
Head of household	2		132		61		15		242		306
Head of prim. fam.	2		121		61		13		232		294
Primary individual			11				2		10		12
Wife of head	2		110		58		11		221		276
Child under 18	2		123		76		13		283		295
Other relative			66		35		8		60		96
Nonrelative			6		2		1		5		3
Pop. in group quarters	70
Inmate of institution	62
Other	8
Pop. per household			3.31		3.80				3.35		3.19
Nonwhite population							23
Pop. in households							23
Head of household							6
Head of prim. fam.							5
Primary individual							1
Wife of head							5
Child under 18							10
Other relative							2
Nonrelative
Pop. in group quarters
Inmate of institution
Other
Pop. per household
	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female	Male	Female
Total population	33	43	207	230	108	124	25	23	404	407	485	491
Under 1 year			3	6	1	7			7	7	12	14
1 year			4	3	4	7	1		6	10	12	10
2 years			6	2	3	2		1	10	8	10	9
3 years			4	6	5	1			11	7	11	13
4 years	1		3	4	3	7		1	14	3	7	14
5 years			3	7	2	2	1		15	8	6	9
6 years			2	4	1	3			8	10	6	11
7 years			4	3	2	1		1	7	7	10	2
8 years		1	2	2	3	2			11	8	10	11
9 years			3	3	6	2	2		13	10	16	6
10 years	1		3	8	2	2			8	16	2	11
11 years			1	2	1	2		1	8	8	13	12
12 years	2	2	3	4	2	1	1	1	10	8	11	9
13 years	3		8	5		1	1		11	5	13	4
14 years	2		2			2		1	5	6	6	6
15 years	1	1	5	4	1	1	1		5	6	10	2
16 years	1	3	7	4	1	3		2	6	2	6	4
17 years	2	1	1	5	2	2	1		3	4	6	5
18 years	1	2	2	2	1	3				1	5	10
19 years		1	3	5	1		1		2	1	2	3
20 years			3	4					2	2	3	2
21 years and over	19	32	135	147	67	73	16	15	242	270	308	324
Total population	33	43	207	230	108	124	25	23	404	407	485	491
Under 5 years	1		20	21	16	24	1	2	48	35	52	60
5 to 9 years		1	14	19	14	10	3	1	54	43	48	39
10 to 14 years	8	2	17	19	5	8	2	3	42	43	45	42
15 to 19 years	5	8	18	20	6	9	3	2	16	14	29	24
20 to 24 years			11	13	5	3	1		15	17	24	24
25 to 29 years			11	12	4	13		2	10	29	39	51
30 to 34 years		1	14	16	18	14	2		36	33	42	50
35 to 39 years	1		19	16	18	9	3	5	53	57	54	42
40 to 44 years			15	13	7	12	2	1	42	37	27	37
45 to 49 years			12	15	6	6	2	2	25	27	44	35
50 to 54 years	1	2	10	16	2	4	1	2	20	21	31	28
55 to 59 years		3	16	19		1	3	1	17	16	16	20
60 to 64 years		4	8	9	3	1		1	8	17	14	12
65 to 69 years		2	12	8	1	2	1		6	8	6	12
70 to 74 years		1	4	7	2	7	1		7	4	3	6
75 to 79 years	3	5	3	4	1			1	4	5	6	8
80 to 84 years	3	10	1	2					1	1	4	8
85 years and over	11	3	2	1		1				2	1	1
18 years and over	20	38	143	158	69	76	17	15	246	274	318	339
Median age			34.5	33.4	31.1	28.1			32.4	33.4	30.7	30.6
Nonwhite population							12	11
Under 5 years							1	2
5 to 9 years							2	1
10 to 14 years							2	3
15 to 19 years							1
20 to 24 years
25 to 29 years								1
30 to 34 years							1
35 to 39 years							1	2
40 to 44 years
45 to 49 years							2	1
50 to 54 years								1
55 to 59 years							2
60 to 64 years
65 to 69 years
70 to 74 years
75 years and over
18 years and over							6	5
21 years and over							6	5
Median age
Total, 14 & over	26	40	158	171	73	84	19	19	265	292	346	356
Single	9	10	35	30	6	13	4	3	30	26	50	34
Married	3	3	114	117	63	63	15	13	229	233	289	293
Separated			2	1		1	2	1	2	5	5	8
Widowed	14	27	6	21	4	7		1	3	26	3	10
Divorced			3	3		1		1	3	7	4	10
Nonwhite, 14 +							7	6
Single							1	1
Married							6	5
Separated							1
Widowed
Divorced

18th Decennial Census
Form No. 60-07-107

Advance table PH-1.--POPULATION AND HOUSING CHARACTERISTICS: 1960

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE
Bureau of the Census

Major Area Code: 54

Name: HENRICO COUNTY

Housing characteristics	043 0060S	043 0061N	043 0065	043 0065 A	043 0065 B	043 0065 C	043 0066N
Tenure, Color & Vacancy Status
All housing units	37	224	416	103	73	60
Owner occupied	31	209	362	63	65	51
White	31	209	362	2	65	51
Nonwhite				61
Renter occupied	3	14	42	29	1	8
White	3	14	41		1	8
Nonwhite			1	29
Available vacant	1		4	2	7
For rent	1		1	2
For sale only			3		7
Other vacant	2	1	8	9		1
Condition and Plumbing
All housing units	37	224	416	103	73	60
Sound	29	220	384	43	73	54
With all plumbing facilities	28	218	360	14	73	48
Lacking only hot water	1	2	6	4		1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water			18	25		5
Deteriorating	8	4	30	44		5
With all plumbing facilities	4	4	15	1		2
Lacking only hot water			1
Lacking private toilet or bath or running water	4		14	43		3
Dilapidated			2	16		1
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			1	90
Sound			1	38
With all plumbing facilities				11
Lacking some or all facilities			1	27
Deteriorating				40
With all plumbing facilities				1
Lacking some or all facilities				39
Dilapidated				12
Number of Rooms
All housing units	37	224	416	103	73	60
1			1	2
2		1	2	1		1
3	4	2	15	16		1
4	5	28	53	32		16
5	12	118	162	23	22	22
6	4	39	94	21	21	11
7	8	31	57	4	22	3
8 or more	4	5	32	4	8	6
Median		5.2	5.3	4.5	6.2	5.0
Housing units occupied by nonwhites			1	90
1				2
2				1
3				16
4				26
5				19
6				18
7				4
8 or more			1	4
Median				4.5
